STAFFORD SPRINGS, Feb. 20—The board of relief of the town of Stafford, Herbert A. Glazier, Francis L. Upham and Victor J. Bissonette, has practically repudiated the work of the board of assessors, by returning most of the property values as fixed by the assessors to the figures as given in the 1928 list. In a statement issued by the board of relief Thursday it was declared that the board believed the revaluations by the assessors were too high and that the board would return practically all the property valuations to the figures in the 1928 list. Due to the vast number of protests, received by the board of relief, it would be impossible to make individual adjustments in the figures in the time limited for the work. The assessors worked several months in making up the lists and as the board of relief must complete its duties in one month, it would be a physical impossibility to hear each individual complaint and it is felt among the property owners that the board of relief is handling the situation in a very sensible manner. The meeting for fixing the rate of taxation will be held on March 3rd and it is now thought that the rate will be practically the same as it was last year.

The stock of goods in the store formerly conducted by S. Katzowitz & Company has been sold to Samuel Kuslansky. Mr. Kuslansky's sons, William and Joseph are associated with him in the business.

Mrs. Michael Swift and daughter, Miss Catherine Swift, of Hydeville are spending a few days at the home of Mrs. Mae Bristol in Monson, Mass., where they are recovering from injuries received when their automobile collided with a freight train at State Line, Sunday evening.

A. Philip Jarvis of Springfield was in Stafford Springs on business Thursday.

Peter [illegible]

Friends of Peter [illegible] former resident of St[illegible] to hear of his death [illegible] East Hampton several days ago. Besides his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. John S. Partiss of Hartford and Mrs. Edward H. Bird, of Albany, New York and a step-daughter, Mrs. Marshall Bevin of East Hampton. He also leaves a brother Andrew Gordon of Hazardville and a twin sister, Mrs. Mary McAuley of New Britain.

Mrs. Richard Edson entertained a number of friends at bridge at her home on Morton street Wednesday. Prizes were won by Misses Helen and Elizabeth Schreier.

Miss Helen Smith, student at Scudder Secretarial school, New York city, is at the home of her parents on East Main street for a few days.

Edward Willis of Boston, has been called to Stafford Springs by the serious illness of his father, Frank S. Willis, who is a patient at Johnson Memorial hospital.

Miss Haliburton Kelley, superintendent at Johnson Memorial hospital has been in New Brunswick for several days, by reason of serious illness in her family.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Smith have returned after a three weeks cruise in the West Indies.

Peter Green of Tolland reported to the state police at the local barracks Tuesday that he had been held up and robbed of about $75. An investigation by officers from the barracks disclosed the fact that Henry Gothier, of Tolland had been at the Greenplace and Mr. Green being afraid that Gothier, who was acting strangely might relieve him of his money, hid it under a meal bag in the barn, while he went to visit a neighbor. Upon his return Gothier had disappeared, as had also the money. Gothier was located in Hartford Wednesday morning and was taken to Tolland late Thursday afternoon for a hearing in the town court.

Charles Kelley has returned to Nova Scotia after spending several days with his brother, Walter Kelley.

Miss Alice Wakefield has returned to her home in Boston after a brief visit with her sister at the Congregational parsonage.

Now you can protect her lovely hair!

Millions of men and women know how Danderine helps stop falling hair and dissolves the worst crust of dandruff; how easily it changes dull, lustreless, brittle hair into hair that is soft, sparkling, vigorous.

With Danderine, it is so easy to "train" a child's hair; to keep it orderly, sparkling, clean. Danderine accentuates the natural curl of a child's hair. A girl's "waves" look more natural when "set" with it. And they stay in longer.

Use Danderine with children to overcome the evils of frequent washing. It puts back into hair and scalp the natural oils removed by soap and water.

Danderine isn't sticky or oily; doesn't show. It is no trouble to use. Just put a little on the brush each time the hair is arranged. That will keep the scalp healthy and encourage the growth of long, silky and abundant hair. Five million bottles used a year is proof of Danderine's effectiveness.

DANIELSON

LAPALME FIGURES IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 20.—Wildred Lapalme of 54 1-2 Franklin street is having a spell of bad luck. Released from jail yesterday under bond, after having been held there about ten days awaiting trial in the superior court on a liquor violation charge, and after having been in the local court on another similar charge only a few weeks ago, he took his brother's practically new car last night, went for a ride and wrecked the machine.

The accident happened on the Danielson-Wauregan road, about two miles south of here. When the machine went off the road and crashed, Lapalme, who was apparently uninjured, left it and was proceeding northward along the highway toward Danielson when State Officer Henry Mayo encountered him, and picked him up. Lapalme insisted that he had not abandoned the car but was walking to town to get a wrecker when the state officer met up with him.

Lapalme was shaking like a leaf when he entered the barracks on North Main street for questioning. He had not been drinking, but claimed to be, and apparently was, under considerable mental strain over the prospect of his coming appearance in the superior court. That stress, too, appeared to account for the car he had been operating getting out of control and crashing into a tree. The car, the property of Albert Lapalme, 61 Furnace street, was damaged to an estimated amount of $200.

Greenwood Held by R. I. Police

Continued investigation of the career of Joseph Greenwood, alias Green alias Velendry, who was arrested by state officers at East Killingly nearly a fortnight ago and who is now being held at Howard in Rhode Island, awaiting indictment on a breaking and entering charge, is resulting in pinning more criminal charges on him.

The newest allegation is that he is the man who went to a farm near Charlton, Mass., one day last August, hired out as a farm hand and the morning after the first night he slept at the place robbed the farmer's wife of $51, at the point of a gun. This happened in the early morning after the farmer had left on some errand and the latter's wife and Greenwood, who hired out under the name of Green, were alone in the house.

It was immediately after this affair that Greenwood made his appearance in this town, at East Killingly, and remained there, doing not much of anything in the way of earning a living, until he was placed under arrest.

He was picked up here for the robbery of the Kneeland Eldridge home, just over the Connecticut line in Rhode Island, a short distance from East Killingly.

It appears that Greenwood, after escaping from the Vermont state prison last June while serving a sentence of 10 1-2 years, went to Canada, remained there for a time and then came back to the States, working his way down into southern New England. It was believed a week ago that the Rhode Island authorities might return him to Vermont to serve out his sentence and the penalty time for escaping, but Rhode Island, in which state he also has a state prison escape charged against him, is going to retain him for trial.

Chappell Truck Hits Pole

A Chappell lumber truck, operating out of Norwich and driven by Frank Santo of Norwich Town, went off the state highway at the Killingly-Plainfield line three miles south of here and near the home of Anthony Wollow, about noon today, and crashed into a telephone pole.

State Officer Tierny of the West Brook barracks and en route to Danielson came along just after the accident and made an investigation of it. Santo told the officer that a car coming in the opposite direction to which the truck was traveling and on the left side of the highway was the cause of the accident. The driver of the other machine failed to heed the horn to get over onto his own side of the road, forcing Santo to pass him on the left side, and road conditions were such that the truck struck the pole. It all happened so rapidly that Santo failed to get the number of the other car, which kept going. Santo was not injured.

Incident to the proposal by the state to heavily stock Blackwell's brook with trout if owners of property through whose land it flows will agree to a state-leasing arrangement, numbers of advantages to the property owners are pointed out.

If the brook becomes state-leased, it will be under constant patrol during the fishing season. Fishermen who follow its winding way will be subjected to the restrictions applying on all state-leased streams. Fishermen are restricted to remaining within ten feet of the borders of the brook and not allowed to roam about at will. They may not block bar-ways with their parked cars, as they do in many places, and the taking down of bar-ways is forbidden. They must cross over walls and fences on step-overs erected by the state. There are so many regulations applying to fishermen on state-leased streams that the land owner's interests are much better protected than on what may be termed open brooks, or even on brooks that are posted, because many fishermen will violate a warning to keep off posted land.

Following a meeting here of executives of the Windham County Y. M. C. A., with headquarters in Danielson, it is announced that it has been decided to keep on with the work for another year. It is also given out that it has been agreed to cut the budget down to some extent that quotas such as have been reached in recent years may be obtained.

The campaign to obtain funds will be undertaken within a few weeks. It is hoped that the public response will be generous, and real liberality will be taken as an indication that the public desires the continuance of the work the County Y organization has been doing for several years.

Dudley Thomas, Chicago, who has been visiting here, and his brother, George O. Thomas, Maple street, are to leave Friday for a week's visit with another brother, Mortimer Thomas, at North Adams.

Orpheum theatre today, last showings of The Show of Shows, at 2:30 and 8 p. m.—adv.

Members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., invited guests this afternoon to be present at a Colonial tea at the Congregational Parish house. Numbers wore Colonial gowns.

Friday of this week members of the board of relief of the town of Killingly are to hold their last public session. Thereafter their work will have to do with completing their records.

Manager Henry Johnson of the Orpheum theatre has returned from Boston, where he attended a meeting of managers in the Inter-State Theatre chain, one of these being the local house.

Number of the members of Killingly and Highland granges, both of this town, will attend the meeting of Quinebaug Pomona grage with Brooklyn grange on Washington's birthday. There are to be forenoon and afternoon sessions.

Cashier Ralph H. Dunbar and Assistant Cashier Frank J. G. Bailey of the Windham County National bank and Treasurer Sidney W. Bard of the Brooklyn Savings bank were members of a party in Providence last evening to attend a hockey game.

The Weather Man appeared in the role of a teaser today by running the temperature up to 65 degrees in the early afternoon.

Saturday being a holiday—Washington's birthday—banks here will be closed for the day.

It was remarked by a group of business men today that the old and larger size bills have largely disappeared from circulation, though some are received in the course of business transactions from time to time.

Leon T. Wilson, Putnam, deputy collector of internal revenue, was a visitor in Danielson today.

No announcement has been made as yet as to the appointees to take the census here in the early spring. It is understood that several applications to do the work have been filed.

Safety zone markers through the business section are to be repainted as soon as weather conditions permit. The lines have been largely obliterated during the winter season.

At the Franklin street crossing repairs are underway that will eliminate a leak in the city water main running under the railroad at that point. The crossing is open to traffic.

Several Mardi-Gras events are being arranged for Danielson and vicinity for the evening of March 4.

PUTNAM

SUES SOCIETY OF WHICH HE WAS MEMBER 52 YEARS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 20—Claiming that he was illegally ousted from the Society Ste. Jean de Baptiste, in which he held membership for nearly fifty-two years, George Potvin, 28 Mill street, former secretary has instituted suit against the French-American fraternal organization for damages amounting to $2,000. Property of the French society has been attached.

The case of Potvin versus the fraternal order grew out of Potvin's being deposed as secretary and later his complete dismissal from the society. Last May a member of the society was convicted in the city court of Putnam for violations of the liquor laws. A clause in the by-laws prohibits men found guilty of violating acts of the United States constitution being affiliated with the organization, according to Mr. Potvin. Acting in accordance with rules and regulations of the society Mr. Potvin struck the offending member's name from the membership roster. Potvin was reprimanded for his alleged unwarranted act by the tribunal of the society and was ordered to restore the member to good standing. This he refused to do. The matter became public when Potvin was summoned to superior court in Willimantic last year and ordered by the court to turn over books and records held by him pertaining to the society, to the president.

The tribunal hoping to smooth over the discord existing between members and the former secretary afforded him an opportunity to appear and state his case. His failure to acknowledge the summons resulted in his being dropped entirely from the membership.

Mrs. Eva May Coombs of Taunton, Mass., is seeking a decree of divorce from her husband Howard Coombs of this city, a truck driver, it was learned today when Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer of Dayville served the papers in the case. Mrs. Coombs in her petition alleges that on dates between June 1, 1927 and February 8th her husband was unfaithful and committed acts of intolerable cruelty towards her. Mrs. Coombs aside from petitioning for a legal separation, seeks alimony and custody of two children, Russell and Kenneth.

With the report of the attorney general of the state of Massachusetts showing that bridge forms constructed some years ago by the Southern New England railroad, abutting on the state highways between Palmer, Mass., and Providence are decaying and rendering roads dangerous, the prospect of the railroad being completed is seen in the demand that the bridges must either be repaired or removed. There is a portion of the defunct Southern New England railroad running through the towns of Dudley, Webster and Southbridge. In the event the line is finished this city would derive many benefits. There is much interest being manifest in the effort to secure an extension of charter for the revival of the Southern New England which Providence capital is backing. Southbridge merchants are making an intensive drive in the Massachusetts legislature for the necessary permit to carry out the revival plans.

George Ford, alias George Beecher, Springfield man who is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, suffering from the effects of tear gas received last week in an altercation with Sergt. George L. Gardner of the state police barracks at Danielson, which occurred during a raid at the home of Howard Bullard on Killingly avenue, is making a speedy recovery, it was learned today. Upon his discharge from the Willimantic institution Beecher will be brought before the city court of Putnam on charges of carrying concealed weapons and assault upon an officer.

All schools of the public school system will close Friday afternoon for a recess of one week. Sessions will be resumed on Monday, March 3.

Warren W. Averrill for a number of years engaged in the phonograph, piano and radio business in this city today announced his decision to retire from further practice. Mr. Averrill is one of the most widely known merchants in Windham county. Previous to his coming to Putnam he was in business in a small way in Pomfret. He came to this city sharing a part of the jewelry store of the late George E. Shaw and following the death of Mr. Shaw and the settlement of his estate, Mr. Averrill, uniting with Frederick M. Prince and others formed the corporation known as the Putnam Music Shop, Inc., and continued business on the site of the old Shaw store on Main street. Mr. Averrill is the second Putnam merchant to retire from the field of business practice since January 1st, the last being Mrs. Dorothy J. Bartlett of the W. J. Bartlett store, which closed its doors this month after 36 years of service in the community.

Judge Edward M. Yeomans of Danbury, superior court judge has informed the clerk of courts that he will take charge of the short calendar session of court to be held in Willimantic on Monday, March 3. Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin was originally assigned to discharge the March session.

Dr. Charles L. Brown, dean of Yale university delivered an eloquent and inspiring address Thursday evening at the Congregational church before a large audience.

J. Otis Fox of Eden street left today for Hot Springs, Ark., where he will join Mrs. Fox who is wintering there.

Miss Ethel Ellis, a clerk in the accounting department of the Citizens National bank is at her home in Willimantic on a month's leave of absence.

Benjamin A. Gagne of North School street, injured in the machine department of the Putnam Woolen company several weeks ago, is to enter a Syracuse, N. Y., hospital tomorrow for treatment. Mr. Gagne's arm was mangled when it came into contact with a circular saw.

JEWETT CITY

HUMANE YOUNG MEN SAVE BIG DOG FROM DROWNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 20.—Jack McElligot and Bob McKenna, successfully put over a life-saving stunt here Thursday morning with every element of courage and daring, as though the first report, that a child had gone through the ice, had been true. A large hound, owned somewhere on upper East Main street, attempted to cross Ashland pond on the ice in the first bend above the mill. As the animal approached the thin part where the channel had cut through, he broke in and was unable to crawl back. All along the East Main street highlands people heard the dog's long howls and cries, which sounded strangely human. The two men on rescue bent secured a boat from the shore, where it had been laid up for the winter. With sticks and by means of pushing with their hands, they worked the skiff out toward the struggling dog, which appeared to fully sense that an effort was being made to save him. As the men neared the hole, the bow of the boat broke through with the result that the stern shot up and the rescuers were pitched into the icy water. With no thought of quitting, they clambered back aboard, and by sheer jumping, first on one gunwale and then on the other, the boat was finally brought to an even keel as the ice beneath it was broken through. The rest was easy and the nearly exhausted animal was drawn aboard. In response to a call to the engine house, one of the big trucks with ladders and the new Red Cross inhalator was dispatched to the pond. A good-sized crowd had collected and with great cheering the boat was drawn back over the ice by means of a scaling rope, which had been thrown to the men in the boat by willing hands on shore, all anxious to render aid.

FUNERAL

George E. Sparks

Funeral services for George E. Sparks were held at his home on Tracy avenue Thursday afternoon. Rev. E. E. Scates, pastor of the Baptist church, considered briefly a part of the fifth verse of the 142nd Psalm: "Thou art my refuge and my portion in the land of the living," also reading the poem, Changed Hymn. Beautiful flowers from relatives and friends included fine remembrances from the Ashland Cotton company, where Mr. Sparks had been employed for 44 years, from his "Shopmates" in the machine shop and from Reliance lodge No. 29, I. O. O. F. The bearers were John H. Tracy, William T. Crumb, Walter A. Field and Walter L. Benjamin. Friends and relatives were present from Bozrah, Bridgeport, New London, Providence, Norwich, Plainfield and West Greenwich, R. I. Burial was in the Jewett City cemetery. George G. Grant of Taftville was the funeral director in charge.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Arthur Goodenough

Hannah Brett, widow of Rev. Arthur Goodenough, D.D., died at her home in Winchester Center, Conn., Wednesday, Feb. 19. She was born in Boston, Feb. 18, 1838; her death occurred within one day of the 92nd anniversary of her birth. During her earlier life, her home was in Providence, Baltimore and New Haven. A year after her marriage she went to the country parish of Ellsworth, Conn., and had lived for more than 60 years in the house in Winchester where she died. She was an accomplished pianist and used that instrument to express her moods, console her sorrows, and give voice to her joys. Her daughter Helen gave her constant care since the death of her husband, nine years ago.

Six of her children survive: Dr. F. W. Goodenough, Waterbury, Conn.; Mrs. Mary Sherwood, Torringford, Conn.; Miss Francilla Goodenough, Hartford; Miss Helen Goodenough, Winchester; Rev. G. F. Goodenough, Jewett City, and Mrs. Gertrude James of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The funeral is to be in Winchester.

Mrs. Adelard Benoit

Mrs. Mary Kane Benoit, 56, wife of Adelard Benoit, died in Pawcatuck R. I., Wednesday, at the home of her daughter. During Thursday, Hourigan Brothers brought the body to the home of her sister, Mrs. Clara Grenier, of Mechanic street, Jewett City. Mrs. Benoit was born in Canada, the daughter of William and Delia Kane. She had lived in Jewett City for 30 years. She is survived by her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Delima Perry, and two sons, Adelard, Jr., of Central Falls and Louis of Jewett City. She leaves six sisters, Mrs. Corine Wheeler, Mrs. Clara Grenier, Miss Jennie Kane, Mrs. Matilda Avery, Mrs. Alice Denomey, all of Jewett City, and Mrs. Adelard Jarvis of Moosup; also a brother, Joseph Kane, of Norwich. Two grandchildren survive.

Two happenings in connection with the funeral of George E. Sparks, held Thursday afternoon, were unusual. Mrs. James Brooks from Pendleton Hill came here Thursday afternoon to call on a friend, Mrs. Gertrude Sparks. Entering Tracy avenue, and approaching the home, she became aware that Mr. Sparks' funeral was in progress. Mr. Sparks, during his lifetime, was a bird lover. He bought grain and fed the birds during the winter storms, and, for his summer feathered friends, he had erected a granite bird bath. Those who attended the funeral, and, even as the hearse was at the gate, saw a great flock of close to 100 starlings alight among the trees that grow adjacent to Mr. Sparks' house.

Richard L'Homme celebrated his third birthday with a party at his home Wednesday. Sandwiches, fancy cookies, cake, fruit and lemonade, were served the guests. The little boy was unusually fortunate in receiving two large birthday cakes, one from his grandmother, Mrs. George Larkin, and on Thursday an aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Touchette, came from Goodyear bringing another cake, so there was another party. The little guests were delighted with favor baskets of candies. The party included George and William Gill, Dora Pacquette, Mary and Mildred Fergerson, Verne Thornton, Jr., Henry Robinson, Chester and Robert Stafford, George and Robert L'Homme. Mrs. L'Homme was assisted by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ernest Larkin.

Samuel G. Norman

Samuel G. Norman, 71, died at his home in Griswold Thursday afternoon, after a long illness. Mr. Norman was born in the house where he died, on May 8, 1859. He was the son of Moses E. and Prudence A. Geer Norman. He was a member of Pachaug church, and was its senior deacon and treasurer. He was always much interested in the church and its work. He owned one of the best and largest farms in the town. He had been president of the Jewett City Water company, a position which he relinquished in January in favor of his son, George. He was a director of the Jewett City Creamery company. Mr. Norman married Ida M. Gallup 36 years ago. She survives him with their son, George and a grandson. Mr. Norman's main interest was in the farm, which he inherited from his ancestors, a business which he conducted with signal success.

WEDDING

Gill—Bugbee

Miss Frances Bugbee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Bugbee of Lisbon, became the bride of William Gill of Moosup Wednesday afternoon at o'clock, at her home in Sylvandale. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Carter of the Methodist church. The bride wore a white crepe gown and carried roses and carnations. Her sister, Miss Anna Bugbee, was bridesmaid and wore orchid crepe. The best man was Ray Bugbee, the bride's brother. Mr. and Mrs. Gill left for a honeymoon trip, the bride's dress being of blue crepe with coat and hat to match. They will live in Moosup. Mrs. Gill received many gifts of silver, linen and cut glass. She is a member of the Willing Workers' class of the Methodist church, the World Wide Guild girls in Greeneville, and of Ruthie Rebekah lodge.

Mrs. F. D. Ballou entertained the Ladies' society of the Congregational church at her home Thursday afternoon, 20 being present. The president Mrs. Abraham Zegeer, presided at the business meeting. It was voted to enlarge the kitchen in the church vestry also to purchase warming ovens and dishes for the kitchen. Mrs. W. A. Richardson to have charge of the work. A play under the direction of N. B. Parkhurst is in progress, which will be given under the auspices of the Ladies' society. Mrs. Ballou was assisted in serving by Mrs. W. A. Broadfoot, Mrs. C. L. Howe and Mrs. G. F. Goodenough.

MOOSUP

Monday morning women employes were operating the cotton breaker machine in the stock house at the Cranska cotton thread and yarn mill when, about 9 o'clock, fire broke out. An alarm was sounded. It was quite a stubborn blaze, although confined to the breaker machine, which was badly warped. The loss is covered by insurance.

A group of players is rehearsing for a minstrel to be given by the local Masonic order. Rehearsals began Tuesday evening with Floyd Main as coach and will continue each Tuesday evening except on regular meeting nights.

Mack Mott went to work Wednesday morning for Gilbert Randall on Sterling hill, helping to build a chicken house.

USING GAS TAX MONEY

In the state of New York there is agitation for an increase in the gasoline tax so that instead of collecting two cents a gallon the levy will be three cents. New York is getting about $16,000,000 a year from its gas tax and another cent will give it half as much again.

Under the change there would be a fixing of the amount that is to be used for various road projects. While there are those who insist that such money should be used entirely for main highway construction there are plenty of others who feel decidedly different about it. Should the tax be increased in New York, which is by no means assured, there would be a division of the money between the state and the counties and there would be a certain percentage of it applied for the building of farm to market roads. It is in the interest of this last named type of road that the added tax is urged.

New York is apparently experiencing some of the same difficulty that Connecticut is. It hasn't been collecting the gas tax as long but there is already a demand for a greater sum for the improvement of the country roads, those that feed the main highways. There is a feeling that the residents on the side roads, who pay just as much of a gas tax without getting as good highways, should get more consideration. The plea is fair enough, but it doesn't of necessity require a boost in the tax.

It would be entirely possible for a certain part of the existing tax to be devoted to the building of these farm to market highways, highways which would serve those who are not now being served. This would mean a division that would curtail the amount that could be put into the main thoroughfares but it would mean a greater distribution and probably more highway construction since the type of roads would be of a less expensive character and funds would thus go further.

How generally the gas tax is relied upon for road construction and maintenance is interestingly shown in the statement that the receipts last year totaled just under $450,000,000 and under that system of taxation gas users get their return in highway construction. It will be much nearer ideal when a better distribution of improved roads results.

AGAINST ISLANDS' INTERESTS

In connection with the efforts which have been and are being made for the independence of the Philippines, sight must not be lost of the fact that they are not so much for the purpose of aiding the Filipinos, or complying with the wishes of the islanders advocating independence, as to eliminate the Philippines from the competition which they are now offering to certain producers in this country.

There is thus not a sincerity back of certain of the agitation at this time. The aim is to get rid of the Philippines regardless of what the effect might be upon the islands. When the question of independence is fully considered there must be weighed the prospects ahead of the islands if they are set adrift.

In this respect that is an illuminating letter which has been forwarded by Governor General Davis of the islands, in which he sets forth reasons why it should be against the interests of the islanders themselves to be thrown upon their own resources. He directs attention to the fact that the United States furnishes a market for much of what the islands produce. Shut that market off by requiring the Philippines to meet the tariff requirements the same as other foreign countries and the islands would suffer. Yet that is what certain ones in congress who are advocating independence are seeking.

Should the export business of the islands experience a cut of a little less than half, as estimated, the situation there would certainly be highly discouraging. It would mean a backward step for the islands from the trade standpoint alone for, with no market, production would drop and with production curtailed there would be less employment and general conditions would likewise experience a discouraging economic outlook.

Such is, of course, not the only reason for not extending independence to the islands, but it certainly cannot be overlooked, either from the standpoint of the islanders or from the position of this government. There has been no satisfactory demonstration that they are prepared to deal with the political problems which would be faced as an independent government, but they could certainly not afford to disregard the economic prospects.

SCRAPPING AUTOS

No one will seriously doubt the claim that much of the reason for highway accidents is due to the worn-out cars or the failure to keep the autos in proper condition. Repeatedly has it been shown, by inspections as well as by accidents themselves that bad defects prevail and when they make it impossible to properly control the machine there is bound to be trouble.

What is likely to prove a valuable step in the elimination of these worn-out cars is that which has been disclosed by the National Automobile chamber of commerce in its statement to the effect that the automobile industry will spend $15,000,000 this year in junking just such cars as are a menace to highway traffic. It may not be difficult to draw the line and distinguish from the old but serviceable car and the decrepit car which ought to be junked, but more or less trouble will be experienced in impressing the owner with the fact that his car is in the latter classification.

On the other hand, if he is shown that he can get more for the car as junk than it is worth for use or exhibition purposes, it may result in weeding out those that should be scrapped.

Under this plan there would be no such thing as storing the cars for such use as might be made of the parts, or putting them up for future sales. The idea is to smash them up and actually sell them for junk so that they will be completely removed from all possible use. This apparently reaches beyond the point where dealers have been inclined to go in the past in taking old machines in trade, but it is based upon the belief that the removal of every car of that type means not only safer highway conditions but a better demand for good machines.

There can certainly be no objection to any advantage which may accrue to the auto industry from such a policy, though any contribution which is made to highway safety will be heartily welcomed. If a business stimulant operates to reduce accidents and fatalities it will be regretted that it wasn't started before. The test will be one that will be watched with keen interest.

BYRD'S RETURN

It was a cheerful bit of news that the world received when it was announced that Admiral Byrd had loaded his equipment at Little America onto the City of New York and started for home. This doesn't mean that all the difficulties in getting away from the Antarctic region have been overcome, for there still remains the ice pack to get through on the return and that is not the most welcome task that might be expected.

Inasmuch as the City of New York was able to get to him and take the party aboard, it will be possible to make the fight against the ice within the period desired and before the increasing cold solidifies the mass and shuts off passage through it. That is, the expectations are that such will be the case.

While there were days when some anxiety was expressed concerning the ability of the relief vessel to reach him, there was no need of resorting to the expedient of having the big whaling ships push through to his rescue. Everything points now to the probability that he will come through safely and escape the alternative of being obliged to spend another year on the ice in the desolate and uninviting Little America.

This has been an expedition which has been followed by the whole country and by other nations. Preparations were made for a successful trip and thus far they have proved adequate and there is an eagerness to see the tangible results of the adventure. Much has been told in the way of descriptions concerning the discoveries but the half has probably not been told in the way of personal experiences and hardships. It was enough that they were obliged to spend the many months under the conditions which were expected but it would have been decidedly unfortunate if it had not been possible for the vessel to have picked them up when they had completed their mission and were ready to return. Thus there is a feeling of satisfaction that they are on their way home.

A REAL FIGHT NEEDED

Rhode Island is one of the states in which a determined effort has been made on the part of the state department of agriculture to meet the corn borer situation. It has been repeatedly urged upon the corn growers of the state, big and little, that they should contribute all possible help to the elimination of the pest.

As in other states, a certain amount of cooperation has been obtained, but there have been those who have refused to carry out the suggestions and those who are given the benefit of the doubt and are said to have done nothing because they didn't understand the situation. The result is that those who have failed to meet requirements are being brought before the commissioner of agriculture and warned that if they do not do their part in getting rid of this pest by disposing of their cornstalks and stubble, they will be treated to a taste of the law.

It is probably not a pleasant task for the head of the agricultural department to bear down so heavily but he probably feels that it ought not to be necessary. If the corn borer fight is going to amount to anything it is important that all should comply with the requirements. For a few to comply thoroughly and for the rest to totally ignore or disregard the demands simply means the prolongation of the fight and the continuance of the needless waste. It means also that the good that is done by those who have accomplished the needed cleanup may be completely upset by those neighbors who do nothing and maintain a breeding place for infesting the whole district later on.

Getting a 100 per cent compliance is probably more than can be expected but the determination to make the fight worth while is a worthy one.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The splash spatterers are sprinkling the sidewalks and those on them with liberal showers these days.

The man on the corner says: The fellow who won't work is always worried over efforts to increase employment.

Admiral Byrd encountered difficulties getting into the Antarctic region and he is having about as much trouble getting out.

Well, the hard-working blacksmith doesn't have to labor day and night any more just because a cold snap or an icy spell appears. His worries have been taken over by those who drive the auto wreckers.

ALL UP IN THE AIR

Betty was going to be married and, as the time approached, the secret that had been weighing upon her mind for almost six months out of her ten months' engagement would have to be divulged to the one person in the world from whom Betty had been successful in keeping it.

The secret had to do with Betty's wedding journey. She and Arnold had planned a most adventurous trip. All the details had been taken up one by one, talked over pro and con and finally arranged and agreed upon. At first Betty had been timid about the trip, when Arnold first mentioned his big idea, but as the plan took form and wings, as it were, Arnold had won her entirely over until now, upon the very eve of their departure, all was in readiness all, that is, except the most important feature in the case—the approval of Betty's mother, and upon her word the entire scheme depended.

"Betty," Arnold had whispered as the tousled yellow head lay on his shoulder, "I've the most novel idea for a honeymoon. Let's fly to San Francisco."

"Fly!" Betty was thoroughly astonished.

"You aren't scared, are you?"

Betty was literally frightened to death, but she managed a steady answer.

"Why, no—no, Arnold, I'm not scared—a bit—only, isn't it a trifle unusual?"

"Unusual? I should say it is. That's the point."

"But," Betty quavered uncertainly, "wh—what will my mother say?"

"Your mother?" It was evident that there indeed was a factor which Arnold had not taken into the slightest consideration—"Why—why," he stuttered, "better not tell her just yet."

And "better not tell her yet," Arnold had repeated ever since every time Betty had brought up the all-important subject. As the days flew by, Arnold grew so much more excited and enthusiastic about the trip that Betty didn't have the heart to voice her own qualms and she found herself listening to him without offering a word in disapprobation.

And, finally on the day when Arnold took her downtown and helped her select her flying outfit—a cute red leather jacket over khaki trousers, high boots, a red helmet and goggles—and when she spied herself in her costume before the long mirror in the shop Betty suddenly found her wings, as she knew that deep in her heart she was a fervent a flight fan as Arnold had been right along.

"Isn't it just a knock out?" she breathed, admiring her slim young figure in the trim tan trousers as she tucked a golden curl under her red helmet. "I feel like flying to Paris at least."

And then she remembered — her mother had not yet been told about the trip. Betty suddenly grew defiant.

"She's got to approve it, that's all," she said. "And I'm going straight home and tell her so, myself. I should have told her about it long ago and had it over with."

Buckling the red cap under her little chin and running her thumbnail carefully along the crease in her flying trousers, Betty, her head held high, marched out of the shop with a defiant glint in her eye.

"Betty!" cried her mother as that young lady stamped up the steps and into the living room in her tall boots. "Where did you get those clothes?"

"These," said Betty loudly and boldly, "are my wedding clothes."

"Your wedding clothes!" exclaimed her mother. "What do you mean?"

"I mean," said Betty, giving up not an inch, "that Arnold and I have chartered an airplane——"

"An airplane!"

"Now, mother, please don't get excited," said Betty, consolingly. "Everybody's flying these days. So we're going to fly to San Francisco—that is, when you give your consent——"

"Where," demanded Mrs. Boyd, "did you order your plane?"

"From the Challenger Airplane company, mother——"

"The Challenger!" said Mrs. Boyd, indignantly. "I'll never give my consent——"

"Mother—please——"

"Until you cancel that order and get your plane from the Ace High company."

"The Ace High company?" Betty's jaw dropped in astonishment. And as her mother poured out her next words a dumbfounded and delighted daughter pictured Arnold's astonishment when he should hear the good news.

"I mean," said Mrs. Boyd, more calmly, "that if there's any flying to be done in this family it will be done in an Ace High plane. The ideal Planning a trip to San Francisco in a Challenger. Why, when I've finished the flying course I've been taking the last four months I'm to be made a director in the Ace High corporation!"—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20—It is an odd chance that has brought in succession to the chief justiceship of the United States the only two republicans to have been defeated for the presidency in nearly four decades.

William Howard Taft and Charles Evans Hughes have that in common. Both met defeat at the hands of Woodrow Wilson; but Hughes in 1916, by a margin almost as narrow as was wide that by which Taft failed of reelection in 1912.

For one night Hughes believed himself president of the United States—election night 1916.

Even President Wilson believed for that night that the bearded New Yorker who had left the supreme court bench to make the race had triumphed.

Not until Pacific coast returns became ample enough, far along toward daylight of the next day, to indicate the actual trend could either realize that south and west had joined against the east to sweep Wilson back into office by little more than a score of electoral votes.

Bitter Dawn

That must have been a bitter morning to Hughes. Like Taft, he has always been essentially a man of the law. To both the supreme court bench represented the very capstone of the arch of their ambitions.

There seems little doubt that Hughes left the bench to make the 1916 presidential race against his personal inclinations.

Taft before him had had the presidency virtually forced upon him by his determined and energetic chief, President Roosevelt, the man who four years later, was to be the chief factor in assuring his defeat for re-election.

It was no secret that Taft would have preferred to pass from cabinet service to the supreme bench. Nor is there much doubt that Hughes, had he remained on the bench, ultimately would have succeeded to the chief justiceship.

And it is strange to consider that both men eventually reached the post which for both probably represented the most desirable niche in public life.

There is another aspect of the selection of Hughes. It is President Hoover's first appointment to the high court and he passed over Associate Justice Stone, his close personal friend.

Hughes A Sign?

Justice Holmes is in his 89th year, Brandeis is 74, Van Devanter 71, Sutherland is 67, but in frail health, Justices McReynolds, Butler and Sanford are all in their sixties, Stone in his fifties. There may be many retirements during the Hoover administration.

To what extent does the selection of Hughes as chief justice rather than Stone, usually aligned with the "liberal" minority of the court, indicate the trend of future appointments?

YOUR HEALTH

Contact Carriers in Meningitis

By John F. Norton, Ph. D., Department of Health, Detroit

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

It is generally conceded that cerebrospinal meningitis is spread largely by healthy carriers. The control of the disease, therefore depends upon the control of carriers. Measures leading to this and have been instituted under military conditions at various times in this country, in England, and in France. No attempt seems to have been made to control the movements of meningococcic carriers in a civilian population over any considerable period of time.

In January, 1929, it appeared certain that an epidemic was in progress in Detroit. Accordingly, the commissioner of health issued an order effective February 1, 1929, requiring the isolation of home contacts for a period of 14 days only, or until two consecutive nasopharyngeal cultures, taken not less than 24 hours apart, were found to be free from meningococci. Persons actually living in the apartment or house at the time the case was diagnosed as epidemic meningitis were considered contacts. In a few instances intimate or casual friends, who had been with the individual just before the illness began, have voluntarily requested that cultures be taken.

From February 6 to March 31, cultures were taken from 709 contacts with 151 cases; 332 persons, or 46.8 per cent., gave one or more cultures positive for meningococci. Sixty-five and six-tenths per cent. for the week ending February 17, was the highest figure. It should be emphasized that we were taking cultures only from persons who had been in rather intimate contact with patients. As warm weather approached, the number of contact carriers diminished, and the percentage of positives dropped markedly about 3 weeks before the peak of the epidemic was reached.

Age and sex appeared to have no influence on the carrier state. The percentage of carriers to total contacts in each age group was slightly higher for the 1-4 and 5-9 age group, but the differences were too small to be of real significance.

Crowding is supposed to be a factor in meningitis. But our results showed that the number of persons in a house has no relation to the percentage of carriers found.

The persistence of carriers is a point of some importance. We were able to follow most of our carriers for 2 weeks but no longer, since that time was fixed in our isolation regulations, and found that 72.8 per cent. of carriers had not given two consecutive negatives before release. While the advent of warm weather was coincident with a great decrease in the number of carriers, proportionately, the tendency to persist was about the same.

It seems evident that to guard against an epidemic the cooperation of the entire citizenry with the health officers is absolutely necessary, because an apparently healthy person may unknowingly be a menace to others.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 17

A taxpayer engaged in a trade or business in which both capital and personal services are material income-producing factors also is given consideration in computing the tax on earned income to which the 25 per cent. credit applies.

The revenue act provides in such cases that a "reasonable allowance as compensation for personal services" shall be considered as earned income. Such allowance is not to exceed 20 per cent. of the taxpayer's share of the net profits of such trade or business. For example, a taxpayer received in 1929, from a business in which both personal services and capital are material income-producing factors, a net profit of $30,000. The 25 per cent. credit is computed on 20 per cent. of $30,000 or $6,000. The amount payable is the tax on $30,000, less 25 per cent. of the tax on $6,000.

Within the range of the second class of earned income are many kinds of professions in which individuals are associated as partners. When the facts in each case indicate that the proportionate share to each partner of the net amount of fees from the professional partnership truly represents compensations for personal services actually rendered by him, such partnership share is to be classified as earned income in the individual return. If such share does not represent compensation for services rendered but instead represents a return on capital in- Finish to cum.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

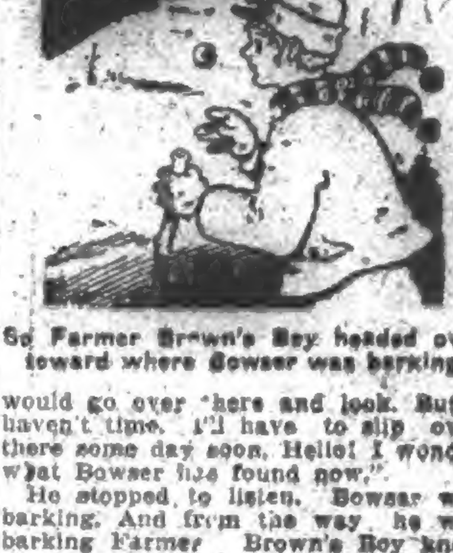
Bowser Makes a Find

'Tis mothers have, with danger near,
The love that overcometh fear.
—Old Mother Nature.

Farmer Brown's Boy and Bowser the Hound were headed toward the Green Forest. Farmer Brown's Boy had spring thoughts. It was still winter, but Farmer Brown's Boy's thoughts were turning to spring. He was on his way over to the sugar house among the sugar maples to prepare for the coming sugar season. The sap would be running soon now. That would mean busy days and busy nights for Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy.

It was a dull gray morning. Over among the pines and the hemlocks it was almost dark. Farmer Brown's Boy heard a faint squeak. It came from off at one side. It was the squeak of a mouse. He looked in that direction and was just in time to catch a glimpse of a big bird disappearing among the trees.

"Hooty the Owl!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "Hooty, the Great Horned Owl caught a mouse! That reminds me that it is about time for that fellow to be nesting. I wonder if he and Mrs. Hooty are using the old nest that they used last year. If I had time I would go over there and look. But I haven't time. I'll have to slip over there some day soon. Hello! I wonder what Bowser has found now."



So Farmer Brown's Boy headed over toward where Bowser was barking

He stopped to listen. Bowser was barking. And from the way he was barking Farmer Brown's Boy knew that Bowser had found some animal or bird that had refused to run or fly away. "Probably," said Farmer Brown's Boy, "Bowser has treed something. I wonder if it can be that Bobby Coon is out yet. I'll have to have a look. Bowser never barks for nothing. He has found some one, or something."

So Farmer Brown's Boy headed over toward where Bowser was barking. He approached carefully. He could see Bowser in front of a little hemlock tree and making short rushes toward it and then backing away, all the time barking. Whatever it was was under that little hemlock tree. Farmer Brown's Boy moved forward. As he did so, a big bird swooped down and struck Bowser. Bowser yelped. Yes, sir, he yelped. If you have ever seen the big claws of Hooty the Great Horned Owl, or Mrs. Hooty, you will not wonder that Bowser yelped when Mrs. Hooty struck him.

"Well, I never!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "What can that mean? What is Mrs. Hooty getting after Bowser for?"

Meanwhile, Bowser had backed away to a safe distance, where he continued to bark. Farmer Brown's Boy continued to advance and suddenly Mrs. Hooty swooped at him. She didn't hit him, but she passed very close to his head and she was snapping her bill in the most threatening manner. Farmer Brown's Boy was puzzled until he looked up and saw the old nest of Blacky the Crow. Then he understood, or thought he did.

"Those Owls have taken Blacky's old nest this year," said he to himself. "That's what it is. They have taken Blacky's old nest and they don't want us around. Still, that doesn't altogether account for the way Bowser was barking. Bowser wouldn't notice that nest, and if he did it wouldn't mean anything to him. There is something queer about this. I must look into it."

Just then Farmer Brown's Boy caught a glimpse of something white that moved underneath the little hemlock tree at which Bowser had been barking. He hurried forward and stooped to peer under. As he did so he received a sharp blow on the back of his head. It was so unexpected that it caught him entirely unprepared, and, bending over as he was, he nearly lost his balance. But he didn't quite. He heard the sound of a snapping bill and he knew who had hit him. He knew that Mrs. Hooty had treated him just as she had Bowser the Hound.

The next story: Leaving Well Enough Alone."

NEW BOOKS

From Captivity to Fame, or the Life of George Washington Carver. By Raleigh H. Merritt. Cloth, 196 pages, illustrated. Published by Meador Publishing Co., Boston. Price $2.

This is the biography of one of the south's greatest scientists, Dr. George Washington Carver of Tuskegee Institute. The reader is carried back to Dr. Carver's lowly birth and during the time he was kidnaped while a baby, his early struggles to get an education at college, on to Tuskegee in 1896, with 33 years of creative work for the betterment of mankind and finally merging into international fame. As Tuskegee's agricultural chemist he has been one of the great factors in building this famous institution and in promoting industry and thrift among the southern people. Dr. Carver gets 202 different products from the peanut, 178 from the sweet potato, and paints, stains and dyes from clay and scuppernongs.

Dr. Carver holds the honor of being the first man of his race upon whom a membership in the British Royal society has been conferred.

The United States of the World. By Oscar Newfang. Cloth, 284 pages with appendix. Published by G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York. Price $2.

Here is an interesting and well-balanced comparison between the league of nations and the United States of America, set forth with a view to showing the need of developing the league into an actual federation of states.

Mr. Newfang in telling of our own efforts to prevent friction and war among the American states, sheds valuable light on the course of development which the league may wisely follow in its aim to achieve world peace. The subject is of timely interest and will have a strong appeal for the reader who wishes to keep informed regarding trends in world affairs. The author speaks with the authority of one who has for years been an astute student of international affairs. Two specially interesting chapters deal with what the league should do with America and what America should do with the league.

Mr. Newfang has written two previous books dealing with the welfare of nations, "The Road to World Peace" and "Harmony Between Labor and Capital."

Spruce-Hemlock Valley, and Other Stories. By Laura Hooker Sessions. Cloth, illustrated, 133 pages. Published by Meador Publishing Co., Boston. Price $1.50.

This is an interesting volume of stories and rhymes for the little folks which are being told by an old fashioned grandmother to two "growing up" lads to amuse them. The fancy of these tales, mixing what might be real with the unreal, appeals to those who delight in "making believe."

Whether we will or no, imagination plays a large part in the lives of both small and grown folk. Without it not much would be accomplished that is worth while. It has influenced for good for the rich and poor alike in all lands under the sun, and become recognized in these same stories that are recognized as the foundation of the world of literature.

Children are always fond of stories and these are told in a manner that satisfies and pleases, both in prose and rhyme.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Carlyle Johnson Machine Company, Manchester

Forty-five years ago, Moses Carlyle Johnson, a mechanic at the Pratt & Whitney company, Hartford, first developed new methods of power transmission by the use of a friction clutch.

Twenty-eight years ago he conceived the idea of the present Johnson Friction clutch. For certain reasons Mr. Johnson shifted to Ohio where he sold his idea to a group of prominent citizens of Youngstown. They became stockholders and formed the Carlyle Johnson Machine company beginning operations in rented floor space on Asylum street, Hartford.

The inexhaustible inventive genius of Mr. Johnson rallied and led to the invention of the Johnson marine reverse gear. These two products have constituted the company's line of manufacture since that time.

Business was so favorable and such expansion took place that eight years later the company moved to its present location at Manchester.

Orders continued to pour in, but—to be an inventor and to market the product are two different problems. High costs and a deficit gave the company and stockholders a terrible jolt. They wasted no time. Confidence in a young man in their employ from Youngstown, Ohio, was the solution of their predicament.

Their judgment was right for this young man was Scott H. Simon and through his efforts which started 8 years ago, The Carlyle Johnson Machine company has concentrated mainly on the manufacture of Johnson friction clutches.

A few years ago, Mr. Simon was unanimously chosen president and today his company [illegible] world wide reputation for service to all industries, the pioneer friction clutch on the market.

The present officers are: Scott H. Simon, president; John M. Miller, treasurer; Jessie E. Dickey, secretary; Allan B. Coe, superintendent.

Stories That Recall Others

For Frail, Sickly Children

There are any number of tonics and health builders in use today but there's just one which eminent doctors all over the world agree is best to build up rundown, underweight children and to assure them perfect nutrition, sound eyes, teeth, body and bone development—that's Cod Liver Oil.

And now science has discovered a method of putting Cod Liver Oil Vitamins (and it's these Vitamins which are so beneficial to health — the oil without the Vitamins is useless) into sugar-coated tablet form—so pleasant to take!

Two McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets equal one full teaspoon of pure Norwegian Vitamin tested Cod Liver Oil and are equally as good for every ailment, sickness, rundown or underweight condition for which Cod Liver Oil is prescribed.

Puny, ailing and backward children start to pick right up after taking McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets because they do get just the Vitamins they need. Intellect becomes keener, vital energy to resist disease is added, little nervous traits disappear—they grow robust, active and strong.

An ideal way of giving growing boys and girls the necessary Vitamins A and D of which modern foods and cooking methods are robbing them.

60 tablets, 60c at all drugstores.
Take your Vitamins straight.

Rundown?

MAYBE IT'S WORMS

YOUR "run-down" child may be playing host to vitality-sapping worms which rob her of nourishment and poison her with their secretions. Worms are much more common than most mothers think.

Look also for the following symptoms: grinding of teeth, picking the nose, crossness, crying in sleep, offensive breath, loss of appetite or weight, nausea or general restlessness. Any one of these signs may be your warning that worms are present.

Wise mothers take no chances with these dangerous and disgusting childhood pests. Even if worms are only suspected they give the child

OBITUARY

William H. Whiteman

Following several weeks' illness William H. Whiteman, 82, died Thursday morning at 4:30 o'clock at his home, 232 West Town street. He was taken ill the 21st of December, 1929, being confined to his bed at that time for ten days. Although he rallied from this illness and was able to go out again Jan. 12, of this year, Mr. Whiteman suffered a paralytic shock which affected one side, rendering his condition critical, since which no hopes have been entertained for his recovery. During this period he was devotedly cared for by his wife, who had the assistance of a night nurse and kind friends.

Born in Coventry, R. I., Sept. 25, 1847, he was the son of Stephen and Waity P. Whiteman. He was united in marriage Oct. 18, 1885, with Miss Mary M. Ford, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nelson Ford (Elizabeth J. Hammond), of Gardner Lake. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Norris P. Lippitt, then pastor of Gardner Lake Methodist church. One child was born to this union, George Henry Whiteman, who lived to be 16 years of age. Harry, as he was called, was born Jan. 19, 1887, he having passed away in December, 1903.

WILLIAM H. WHITEMAN

All through his life, Mr. Whiteman was successful in the carriage and sign painting business, often being engaged as boss of a force of men in several shops, where sign painting and carriage painting was done.

After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Whiteman lived for a time at Newport, where he held a position painting, also doing ornamental work. From there they moved to Lebanon, later to Hopeville, R. I., thence to Jewett City, before locating at Norwich Town about ten years ago, where they have been highly esteemed residents.

Mr. Whiteman was one of the old-time fiddlers and often played in various contests around the country. He was keenly interested in the violin.

As one of the few surviving veterans of the Civil war, he was a member of First Rhode Island Light Artillery, Battery F. This battery was one of the first to go into Richmond, when Richmond surrendered. When the big Grand Army convention was held in Portland, Me., during 1929, Mr. Whiteman was one of the three delegates attending from Norwich G. A. R. He was a central figure among the old vets at the gatherings at Buckingham Memorial and had many friends among his comrades. Mr. Whiteman was a member of the Central Baptist church, Sedgwick post No. 1, G. A. R., and was a member of the Social Corner which gatherings he frequently attended both in Norwich and surrounding places. He was known as Lone Man, at one time being the only man present at these meetings.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Mary Potter, of Washington, R. I., and a nephew, Frank Potter, of the same place. Mr. Whiteman was a truly Christian man. A loyal husband, friend and neighbor, he was a most agreeable person to be associated with, and will be missed by a large circle of friends. The sympathy of the community goes out to his wife in her sorrow.

Mrs. Amos Lamphere

After a brief illness, Mrs. Emma A. Lamphere, [illegible], widow of Amos Lamphere, died Thursday afternoon at 1:50 o'clock at her home, No. 84 Washington street. Death was caused by pneumonia. Mrs. Lamphere was born in Westerly, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jesse B. Lamphear. She was married in Westerly a number of years ago to Amos Lamphere. For the last five years she had made her home in this city, and during her residence here attended the Central Baptist church. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. William Vanpelt of Mystic, and Mrs. Thomas Doyle of this city, and one son, Clarence Lamphere of Mystic. Mrs. Lamphere's many warm friends extend heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

Elmer O. Main

Elmer Otis Main, 46 years old, died Thursday morning at his home at Ledyard. He was born in Ledyard and had been a resident of that town all his life. Mr. Main was a farmer by occupation. He was the son of Sarah Brown and the late George Park Main. His father died last December. He was unmarried and is survived only by his mother. The deceased was well known and leaves many friends. He was born February 4, 1883.

NORWICH EVENING SCHOOLS CLOSE THEIR MOST SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Norwich evening schools, which are conducted under the town board of education, held closing exercises for their season Thursday evening at Slater hall, having an audience of over 800 which showed great interest and enjoyment in the programme presented, for which they gave enthusiastic applause.

The season has been the best that the evening schools have ever had, particularly in point of sustained attendance and there were 102 of the pupils who received the state certificates for having attended at least 45 of the 75 nights. There were seven who received the pins awarded by the state Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution for perfect attendance and one, Maxime Daigle, who received the special prize for perfect attendance for three consecutive years.

The programme opened with brief words of welcome by Miss Bernice E. Willey, director of evening schools, who expressed the appreciation of the teaching staff in the attendance at the closing exercises and acknowledged the assistance given by Faith Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., in providing the costumes for the patriotic play to be given on the programme. She also spoke for the teachers in appreciation of the sustained interest that had been shown by the pupils.

She announced that Sept. 29 would be the opening date for next year and also that a citizenship class would begin at Broadway school on March 17 for 12 nights, on Mondays and Wednesdays, which is in preparation for naturalization sessions in the superior court.

The audience united in singing "America the Beautiful," after which Peter Santos, one of the pupils, recited a poem, Song of the Foreign-born, accompanying it with a few well-expressed words of greeting to the audience.

A one-act play, The Price of Liberty, was well presented by a cast of five, the members of which were in colonial costume, as follows: George Washington, president, Gus Anderson; General Knox, secretary of war, Saul Fisher; Thomas Jefferson, secretary of state, William Dufresne; Edmund Randolph, attorney general, Ageno Derowin; Alexander Hamilton, secretary of the treasury, Joseph Valentino.

They represented a discussion between Washington and his cabinet over finances in which Hamilton proposed his taxation plan and the establishment of the United States mint.

Miss Sadie Driscoll's sweet soprano voice was heard in two well rendered solos, At Morning and Calm as the Night, and this was followed by School Superintendent E. J. Graham's introduction of the speaker of the evening, Principal H. A. Tirrell of the Norwich Free Academy.

In introducing Principal Tirrell, Superintendent Graham spoke with appreciation of the untiring work of Miss Willey and the evening school teachers and said that the school had made a record this year which was a great credit to it.

Principal Tirrell spoke in a very acceptable way of the value of the type of study which the pupils were following in the evening school, a study of the language and the institutions of the country of their adoption. He advised them to make this only a beginning and to keep on acquiring knowledge, and he defined what liberty meant in this country where our forefathers were endeavoring to give the greatest possible liberty to the greatest possible number. The only way this can be accomplished is through a government that protects all.

Presentation Of Pins

Mrs. Albert M. Van Wagener, regent of Faith Trumbull chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, made the presentation of the perfect attendance pins on behalf of the state society. Those receiving the pins for one year were: Miss Nicolitsa Padelopoulous, Henry Faucher, Maxime Daigle, Mrs. Bessie Safen, Zafiris Hantzaclis, Stanley Banas, Stanley Yarosz.

She also presented the special gold piece prize from the state society to Mr. Daigle for his three years perfect attendance.

Robert C. Deming, state director of adult education, a member of the state board of education, spoke briefly of the value of education and this was followed by the presentation of the state certificates by Miss Willey, who said that the enrollment of 185 in the evening school was about the same as last year, but the 102 attendance certificates to be presented was almost twice the number of a year ago.

Received State Certificates

The following received the state certificates:

The teaching staff with Miss Willey has been Miss Abigail Murphy and Miss Katherine Driscoll at Pearl street, Miss Agnes Looby, Miss Gladys Holmes and Mrs. Theresa MacMahon at Broadway, Miss Isabel Leonard at Greeneville, Miss Lillian O'Brien and Miss Lena O'Brien at Taftville, Miss Anna Walsh at Occum.

GAVE WASHINGTON TEA FOR BAPTIST WOMEN

At a "Washington Tea" which was given Thursday afternoon in the woman's room at the Central Baptist church, Mrs. Markley, wife of the president of Mather school, Beaufort, S. C., was the guest of honor. The tea was under the auspices of the Woman's league of the church and there was an attendance of about 100 women, invitations having been extended to the Baptist churches of the city and vicinity.

After a pleasing solo by Mrs. Olive A. Potter, which opened the programme, Mrs. Henry A. Jatkowski, president of the league, introduced Mrs. Markley, who gave an instructive talk upon the work of Mather school, of which her husband is president, and to which frequent contributions have been made by societies of the Norwich Baptist churches. Following another solo by Mrs. Potter, there was a reception for Mrs. Markley and tea was served.

Receiving were Mrs. Jatkowski, Mrs. David A. Pitt, Mrs. Shepard B. Palmer and Mrs. Gilbert S. Raymond. Those pouring were Mrs. Henry H. Pettis and Miss Alif Stephens, who were assisted by Mrs. William M. Wyman, Mrs. Dudley Lathrop, Mrs. George Phillips, Mrs. Courtland Whitney, Miss Constance Raymond and Miss Marion Royce. Mrs. Edward Y. Messinger was in charge of the tables and Mrs. Harold S. Burt and Mrs. Charles L. Stewart arranged for the decorations. The refreshments were served under the direction of the domestic committee of which Mrs. Henrietta Tefft is chairman, and Mrs. C. Edward Smith was in general charge of the delightful affair.

POST OFFICE CLERKS TO MEET AT NORWALK

A delegation from the local postoffice will attend the 32nd annual convention of the United National association of postoffice clerks to be held at Norwalk, Feb. 22, Washington's birthday. Speakers at the banquet, will be C. P. Francisco of Washington, D. C., national president, P. J. O'Neil of Philadelphia, Pa., national treasurer; Thomas Doland of Boston, national vice president; Mayor Anson F. Keeler of Norwalk; State Senator John D. Milne; Superintendent of Railway Mail Service Yarrington of Boston and Chief Clerk MacGregor of New Haven.

Local postoffice employes emphasize the fact that the United association is in no way affiliated with any other organization and as a result cannot be connected with the internal troubles that have broken out with the clerks at the Hartford post office. A probe into the mishandling of funds at the clerks' convention in Hartford in 1929 is now being conducted at Hartford by postal inspectors. It is charged that several violations of postal laws and regulations were committed at the time of this convention, and that large sums of money were expended for the purchase of liquor, that was served at the meeting.

TALKS ON PROHIBITION AT LIONS' MEETING

A talk on the prohibition issue was given by Laurence E. Millea at the weekly noon luncheon meeting of the Norwich Lions club Thursday. Mr. Millea spoke of the unrest and dissatisfaction displayed throughout the country by both those for and against the dry law. He also spoke of the many forms of violation of the law and of the methods taken to cope with these violations. Louis M. Crandall, who recently returned from an insurance convention at Biloxi, Miss., gave an interesting description of the trip south. Melvin Worth was the song leader and Frederick W. Geer presided at the piano.

SETS JUNE DATE FOR OUTBOARD MOTOR RACES

The Chelsea Boat club is to conduct outboard motorboat races on the Thames river in June, it was agreed at a meeting of the club this week at the home of Benjamin T. Hall of No. 5 Julian street. The date on which the races are to be run was tentatively set at June 15.

During the meeting motion pictures were shown, one reel showing the factory of a large boat concern and another interesting water scenes. The moving picture machine was in charge of Edward Hall. Refreshments were served.

NATIONAL RHEA CO. TO BE SOLD TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 20—Word has been received here that the National Rhea Co., with plants in this city, will be sold to the highest bidder by the receiver, Lewis A. Waterman. Several attempts have been made to sell the plant at the court figure of $147,000, but there were no bidders. Judge Edward W. Blodgett in the superior court at Providence on Wednesday ordered the sale to the highest bidder. The auction will take place at the local plant.

BOARD OF RELIEF HAS ABOUT 600 APPEALS

Approximately 600 Norwich taxpayers have appealed to the board of relief from the assessments on their properties as fixed by the board of assessors. Thursday was the final day for the reception of appeals by the board of relief, which will devote the remainder of the month in reviewing the appeals and reaching decisions. There are 300 less appeals this year than last year when the revaluation of the city and town properties became effective.

STORES TO BE OPEN ON WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

Washington's birthday is not to be a holiday this year for the Norwich stores. As the anniversary comes on Saturday, it was felt that it would be an inconvenience to the public to make the day a general retail store holiday and accordingly business will go on as usual. However, as it is a national holiday, the banks will be closed.

DR. W. K. TINGLEY SHOWS A LITTLE IMPROVEMENT

Late Thursday evening, Dr. Witter K. Tingley, ill at his home 7 Broad street, Norwich, was a little more comfortable. However, he is very ill, so that his condition is causing his friends and patients much concern.

"Luckies" Had Darning Lesson

The "Luckies" of North Stonington met Monday with Kathryn Thompson of Pendleton Hill. The roll call was answered with short quotations about Washington and Lincoln. Papers were read by three members: Merle Elias, telling about Washington; Ruth Hart, about valentine's day, and Jean Hart, about Lincoln.

At the close of the program Mrs. Bergins gave the club members a lesson in darning stockings, after which refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Veil and Anna Bergins, March 8. Each girl is to bring a sample of her darning to be judged by Mrs. Bergins.

TWO EXHIBITIONS IN CONVERSE ART GALLERY

Two exhibitions have been arranged in the Converse Art gallery which adjoins and is entered from Slater Memorial museum. Many people expressed their pleasure in such exhibitions at the time of the recent needlework exhibit there and for this reason the gallery has been put into use again as soon as possible. The exhibitions will remain over two Sundays, February 23 and March 2 for the benefit of working people, the hours being from 2 until 4.

The long gallery has a poster exhibition. The African cutouts, representing jungle scenes in a decidedly modernistic manner came from the Raymond Whitcomb offices. Some of the London underground railway posters are especially attractive, and have recently been shown at the galleries of the art center in New York. The collection makes one long to start traveling at once, which is of course what posters are meant to do, but when you come away, you almost feel as if you had been for a little time on foreign soil.

The small gallery might have the same effect. In it are story telling exhibits from China and Japan. Miniature wooden models, carved by hand, show many phases of life in China. Four dolls, recently presented to the museum by Mrs. DeWitt Cohen of New York city, are dressed in the costume of a prince and princess, and of a working man and woman. The faces are skillfully modelled, and the garments embroidered by hand. The many objects which the cases contain are labelled in such a way as to tell their story.

GARDEN ROUND TABLE BY WOMAN'S CITY CLUB

On Thursday afternoon, the Woman's City club room at the Wauregan hotel was filled with enthusiastic garden lovers who had gathered for the first garden meeting of the season, the subject being, "What Shall We Plant This Year?"

Miss Amy Cogswell, chairman of the garden department, presided and announced that the committee had arranged for other meetings, the next one of which will be held on Thursday March 20 when "Garden Design" will be the topic. At the April meeting the subject will be "How to Arrange Perennials in a Garden." It is expected that the Woman's City club, working in co-operation with the chamber of commerce will arrange later in the season for a "plant exchange day."

The following program was provided by the members of the garden committee:

A paper on "Seeds" by Mrs. Robert W. Perkins was principally concerned with the raising of annuals. Miss Amy Cogswell's paper took up the planting of trees, shrubs and vines. Miss Marion L. Bishop humorously described her joys and sorrows in connection with the planting and care of a perennial garden, and Mrs. Albert H. Chase told of "Summer Flowering Bulbs." Each paper contained much valuable information for the garden lover.

An invitation from the D. A. R. was given to the City club members to attend a meeting at Masonic temple Wednesday, March 5, at 3 p. m. when Joseph D. Little will speak on the "History and Romance of Silver."

WEENIE ROAST HELD AT OXOBOXO CAMP

The shop force at the Ford agency of O. C. Wolfe in this city enjoyed a weenie roast Thursday evening at the Oxoboxo camp of Elbert Johnson, who was their host for the evening.

Cards made an interesting entertainment for the evening and there was harmonica music by Mr. Tefft. Those attending included: O. C. Wolfe, Floyd Monroe, Mr. Colpepper, Mr. Jackson, Mr. Meyers, Mr. Maynard, Mr. McClellon, Mr. Briggs, Mr. Thompson, Mr. Teft and Mr. Johnson.

FUNERALS

James McGuire

At 8 o'clock Thursday morning the funeral of James McGuire of Wallingford, formerly of this city, was held at the parlors of Undertakers Cummings and Ring with many relatives and friends in attendance. At 9 o'clock there was a requiem mass at St. Patrick's church, Rev. Myles P. Galvin celebrant. Henry J. LaFontaine presided at the organ and rendered Chopin's Funeral March at the processional. Mr. LaFontaine and Roderick F. Sullivan sang De Profundis at the offertory and Mr. Sullivan sang What Shall I Render? as the waiting hymn. The recessional number was Lead, Kindly Light.

James P. Sheridan, George H. Dolan, Jeremiah Corcoran, John Kukla, James Woods, Cornelius Sullivan were bearers and interment was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, where Rev. Father Galvin conducted the committal service. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

Mr. McGuire died Tuesday at Wallingford. His early life was passed in Norwich and during the early 80's he was a member of the old Wauregan Hook and Ladder company. He was a member of Tubbs' band, and played in Miller's orchestra, the Broadway theatre orchestra and in other local musical organizations. Mr. McGuire was employed at the old Hopkins & Allen gun shop and at one time was a mail carrier. Leaving Norwich a number of years ago, he located at South Manchester, then in Hartford and later removed to Wallingford. He was twice married, his first wife being Agnes Corcoran of this city. After her death he was again married in Wallingford. His second wife is also dead.

Surviving are a son, Edward McGuire, of Boston, and two daughters, Frances McGuire, of Newark, N. J., and Mrs. Mabel Brown, of Lemore, Cal.

Mrs. Charles W. Briggs

The funeral of Mrs Charles W. Briggs, whose husband is a brother of Lucius Briggs of this city, was held Thursday afternoon in Fall River.

Mrs. Briggs died Tuesday night at her home in Fall River. She had been confined to her bed for three months and had been in ill health for a year. She leaves besides her husband, two children, a daughter, Constance, and a son, Charles W., Jr.

Mrs. Briggs was Gladys Sears, daughter of a prominent and wealthy mill owner of Fall River who died recently. The deceased was married 14 years ago to Charles W. Briggs, formerly a resident of this city.

Patients Dismissed at Hospital

Patients discharged at the W. W. Backus hospital Thursday were Philip Lussier, 23 Terrace avenue, Taftville; James Thornley, Sterling; Anna Sullivan, 24 Fowler avenue; Mrs. Ida Brown, Plainfield, and Adele Choquette, 454 North Main street.

LEILA TROLAND GARDNER'S NAME ON NOTABLE PROGRAM

Of a native of Norwich, a musical publication of recent date says: Leila Troland Gardner's Activities—Known as composer and poet, Leila Troland Gardner is also a singer of ability, demonstrating this at the last meeting of the National Opera Club of America, her first public appearance since her arrival from Europe. Four love-songs sung by her on that occasion to her own accompaniment included Love's Vision, which made a special appeal, also her Negro Spiritual, The Wheel of Love. Her singing of Spirituals won her much praise in Europe, where an introduction and recommendation from Enrico Bossi, eminent Italian composer, brought her in contact with leading musical organizations. French audiences were also delighted with the singing of Mme. Gardner and her own arrangement and harmonization of the Spirituals.

Mrs. Gardner was signally honored by being put on the program of the National Opera club as one of the American composers. Her "Believe and Thou Shalt See," which made a profound impression, is dedicated to the Baroness Katherine Evans von Klenner. Since returning from abroad she is established in the Sherman Studios and has been doing notable work in voice building and English diction.

Under Daniel Frohman's direction Mrs. Gardner has been singing in the New York hospitals and the prisons to cheer the unfortunate and forlorn. She sang at Westchester prison, also at the U. S. army prison on Governor's Island.

Frohman's players (dramatic) and dancers from the "Follies" and the Winter Garden were on the bill; but Mrs. Gardner got her share of applause. The visits of the musicians greatly cheer the convicts in prisons where it is a pathetic fact that the majority of the men look to be under 30.

NEW SCENIC HIGHWAY IN CAPE COD SECTION

By midsummer this year motorists who tour down to the tip of Cape Cod will be able to drive over the new scenic route which the state is building through the Province lands. All told there will be available a loop road of about 6 1-2 miles, making possible some notable views of the ocean, Massachusetts and Cape Cod bays, and giving access to excellent beaches. The Province lands have been in the possession of Massachusetts since colonial days, having originally been purchased from the Indians. According to the ancient records the people of the colony secured the lands, amounting to about 3,900 acres, from the Indians in 1654, paying for them with two brass kettles, six coats, 12 axes, 12 hoes, 12 knives and one box. Control of these lands was placed with the old harbor and land commission in 1892. That commission has since become a part of the state department of public works. The state has done much planting of pine trees to preserve the contour of the lands and to make them more attractive.

Except for the people of Provincetown, the coast guard and lighthouse keepers, these lands have been little known, as there was only one motoring road into them. That is the state highway built in 1916 under a special act and running from Provincetown northeastward by Great pond and Grand View toward Sea View. It is about 2 1-2 miles long.

In order to give the motoring public still further access to the Province lands with their picturesque sand dunes and ponds, the department of public works planned a state highway along the westerly side of the tip of the cape and a connection with the existing Sea View road. Last summer almost two miles were completed from Commercial street in Provincetown along the Cape Cod bay shore toward the Race Point lighthouse. This road runs by some attractive beaches. The road is 30 feet wide, and much attention has been given to the provision of large and convenient parking places at scenic localities.

The connecting highway between the new Race Point road and the old Sea View road, about two miles long, has also been started and will be finished and ready for use by the motoring public about the first of next July. The completed state highway in the Province lands will be about 5 1-2 miles long and, with the mile drive along Provincetown harbor over town streets will give a 6 1-2-mile loop at the very tip of the cape.

WATCH HILL PLANNING SELECT BATHING CLUB

Watch Hill's proposed new bathing club and cabana colony will not be located on the recently purchased Tetlow property but on land adjoining Larkin's pavilion, according to present plans. Remodelling of the Tetlow-Opie summer home at the remote end of East beach has been temporarily abandoned. The house will be rented this summer.

The present plans call for renting of a cottage adjoining the Larkin pavilion at Watch Hill beach and establishment of the cabana colony there. The cottage will be used as a club house. The cabanas will be pitched on the beach about it. Use of the temporary club house and cabanas will be rigidly restricted to club members and efforts will be made to keep the general public from using the beach in the vicinity.

The project is patterned after the Dunes club of Narragansett Pier, which proved so popular with the summer colony of that place and Newport last season. It also drew a large patronage from the Watch Hill colony with the result that plans were laid for a similar beach colony at Watch Hill. The Tetlow-Opie property was purchased with the idea of turning the house into a club. Plans were submitted to the Westerly zoning board last fall and rejected because of lack of detail.

It is expected that when Watch Hill's summer colonists arrive the original plans will be resumed and the proposed club house and cabana colony on East beach will be established for the season of 1931.

Larkin's private bathing pavilion will be operated as usual this season. It caters almost exclusively to all-season vacationists and has been one of the drawing cards of Watch Hill for many years. The public pavilion adjoining also will be used this season. A number of improvements are scheduled for both pavilions.

NEW LONDON SCHOOL GIRLS MISSING— MAY HAVE FOLLOWED FORT SOLDIERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 20. — Two more girls are missing from their home tonight and it is believed that it is another case of uniform craze. The girls are Cecelia Silva, 15, daughter of Mrs. Frances Silva, 117 Bayonet street, and Pauline Demonisky, 16, of 9 Bayonet street. Tonight the police were requested to make a search for the pair. The girls were seen at the Union station yesterday afternoon in the company of a couple of soldiers from Fort Wright, Fishers Island, but they went to their homes last night. However, they left home this morning, supposedly to go to their studies at the Nathan Hale grammar school, but did not appear there and all trace of the girls has been lost since they left home today. The Silva girl is described as being about five feet, four inches in height and weighs about 140 pounds, has dark complexion, wore a red sweater, red suit, short coat with plush collar, blue tan, black shoes and stockings.

AGGRIEVED TAXPAYERS APPEAL TO BOARD OF RELIEF

A large number of taxpayers visited the municipal building today, to voice their remonstrance against the increase in their taxes by the assessors. Over a hundred men and women stormed the building and made known their grievances because of the alleged unjust taxation.

North Bank street is in a deplorable condition because of the numerous depressions that exist as a result of the winter weather. Some of the depressions are nearly a foot in depth and there are a hundred holes in the macadam between Atlantic and John streets.

Fake Alarm

The fire department was out on a false alarm last night when a mischievous person sent in a call from Box 292, corner of Broad street and Jeerson avenue for a fire that did not exist, a fact that Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and firemen of four pieces of apparatus realized when they reached the location of the box.

Frank Loiacane has sold the equipment and fixtures in the shop, 26 Golden street, to Mrs. Josephine Almetti.

The condition of Charles Munger, employed as clerk at the pharmacy of Nichols & Harris, who was operated upon at Lawrence Memorial hospital two weeks ago for a serious case of appendicitis, is improving gradually, but it will be another fortnight before Mr. Munger is able to return to his home.

A certificate of organization has been filed for record at the office of the city clerk by the Capitol Cleaners & Dyers, Inc., 46 Bank street. The capital stock of the corporation is divided into 200 shares of par value, each share of the value of $100. The corporation has paid in $20,000 in property other than cash. The incorporators are Louis Levy, 73 West street, who owns 150 shares; Sarah Levy, 73 West street, holder of 49 shares, and Celia Hirsch, owner of one share. Levy is the president and treasurer of the corporation and Miss Hirsch is the secretary.

Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer will not perform his duties as prosecuting officer of the police court for two or three weeks, at least, for today Mr. Boyer left New London at noon for New York. He will visit in several cities before returning to New London. During his absence, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney John Quinn will be the prosecuting officer.

Earl Daniels, of Hamburg, reported to the police this afternoon that the driver of an automobile carrying District of Columbia registration, had been guilty of evasion of responsibility. He claimed that while his automobile was on Main street it was hit by the Washington auto and damaged but the driver failed to stop.

DEFIANT MR. BARBER TREATS LAW AS A JOKE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 20. — Frederick Barber, 115 Howard street, arrested Tuesday, charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in storing automobiles in a public highway longer than 24 hours, failed to appear in the police court this morning and as a result a warrant for his arrest was issued by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney John Quinn. If Barber can be found he will be arrested and penalized. When arrested Tuesday, Barber was allowed his liberty on his own recognizance. Barber is the owner of four automobiles which are more fit for the junk pile than anything else. He does not own a garage and had been storing the cars on Sixteenth street.

RUNAWAY CAMBRIDGE GIRLS FOUND WITH TWO SAILORS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb 20. — Two young girls, mere children, for neither is over 15, the type fond of the federal uniform worn principally by sailors, were arrested early today, charged with street walking. The charge was not pressed against the girls because of their youth. Instead they were turned over to Policewoman Jane Cassidy's custody and late today two officers from Cambridge, Mass., came to New London and took charge of the girlish prisoners, who are runaways from their homes. The girls, Helen Sanders, alias Dorothy Burns and Rita Rock, alias Marie Gauthier, school pupils at Cambridge, ran away from home earlier in the week and came to this city to join sailor friends. At 1:25 o'clock this morning, Helen and Rita were found on Pearl street by Patrolman William Riordan and in the company of two bluejackets. The sailors and the girls were attempting to obtain lodgings for the night when the officer interrupted their plans. The girls were taken to police headquarters and locked up. As soon as the Cambridge police were acquainted of the fact that the girls were under arrest here, officers from that city were started for New London to escort the pair back to Cambridge.

MYSTIC WOMAN LOST $200 DURING VISIT THURSDAY

Mrs. Zollinger, of Mystic, came to New London today and the trip cost her $200, for which money she received nothing in return. The woman lost the currency somewhere on State, Bank or Golden streets. Mrs. Zollinger arrived in New London during the forenoon in company with a friend, and drove through State, Bank and Golden streets to the Standard garage. She was intending to deposit the money in one of the banks. Arriving at the garage, Mrs. Zollinger discovered that her pocketbook was missing and so was the money. She reported the loss at police headquarters and Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith was accompanied by Patrolman Frank Linehan to the garage. The premises were searched, as was the man on duty and in charge of the storage of the autos, but no trace of the money was found. It is believed that Mrs Zollinger carelessly dropped the bag from her hand and that it fell out of the car on one of the three streets mentioned, for the woman is confident that she had the pocketbook on State street.

OBITUARY

Thaddeus P. Perkins

Thaddeus P. Perkins, 76, died this morning at his residence, Flanders road, East Lyme, after a lingering illness with heart disease. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Viola P. Joseph, of this city, and a son, Clarence W. Perkins, also of New London. Mr. Perkins suffered a weakened condition of the heart many months ago, and for the last four weeks his condition had remained critical. Mr. Perkins was born in East Lyme, Jan. 8, 1854 and resided there his entire life. He was a successful contractor. He was a horselover and at one time owned several trotters. He was considered an excellent trainer of horses, also of hunting dogs and as such was awarded many prizes in field trials. Mr. Perkins gave up active work about five years ago and until ill health finally prevented him he was engaged in scientific farming.

MT. VERNON MEN CAUGHT IN MONTVILLE, WITH ALCOHOL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 20.— Frank Guido and Frank Sposoto, both of 32 North Fifth avenue, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., were arrested this afternoon, charged with violation of the liquor law, the specific infraction of the law alleged, being transporting. Both were locked up at New London police headquarters and will be in Montville justice court tomorrow afternoon. Guido and Sposoto were driving an automobile through Montville shortly after 1 o'clock and at a time when State Police Officers John Smith and Fred Wininger were on duty there. The officers were attracted to the automobile and the driver was given a signal to stop. When he did so a search of the car revealed 30 gallons of alcohol stored beneath the seat.

John M. Geary, of Asheville, N. C., has issued a release of attachment on property of Louis Elionsky, the real estate being located on Howard street and Moore avenue. The attachment, which was filed April 10, 1928, claimed damages of $500.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Lathrop, of Scranton, Pa., are the guests of Mr. Lathrop's brother, Thornton N. H. Lathrop, Montauk avenue.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Nell—Is it really true that you're going to divorce Bob?

Bella—Yes, I'm tired of being alone. —Detroit News.

Mrs. Bragg—I've just come back from the beauty parlor.

Mrs. Gnasty—Too bad you weren't waited on.—The Pathfinder.

Jones—How much are the oranges?
Girl Clerk—Sixty cents a dozen.
Jones—Aren't you a little dear?
Girl Clerk—Sir, I'll call the manager!—Exchange.

"What has man ever done for woman?" shouted the female orator.

"Furnished a model for her to imitate," came a voice from the rear. Then there was an awful silence.—Exchange.

Customer—I say, waiter, when am I likely to get that half-duck I ordered twenty minutes ago?

Waiter—When someone orders the other half, sir. We can't go out shootin' half-ducks!—Tit-Bits

"Mother has sent this steak back. She says it is so tough she could sole our boots with it."

"Why didn't she?" was the surly reply.

"The nails wouldn't go through."—Lustige Blaetter.

Letter From a Pupil—"Dear Teacher, I learned today that it was your sixtieth birthday and am writing to congratulate you. May the postage you will have to pay on this letter be the only annoyance you will have in the new year of your life."—Kolner Zeitung.

"What makes you think she doesn't like you?"

"She told me she thought there was a fool in every generation."

"Well, what of that?"

"I had told her a moment before that I was an only child."—Nottingham News.

Failure of paint to stick to wood is due sometimes to the part of the tree that grows in the summertime. The summertime part of the ring of growing wood, says a report to the Engineering foundation by Dr. F. L. Browne, of the United States forest service, is likely to be a refractory deposit to which paint does not adhere well.

One of the biggest hubs in the world, a piece sixteen feet in diameter, will start soon on a journey halfway round the world. It goes from Schenectady, N. Y., to Kichkas in the Ukraine as part of a hydro-electric power plant Russians will install there in the Dnieper river. From Schenectady to New York the hub will be shipped by a roundabout rail route to insure safe clearance through narrow places.

A present-day Sir Francis Drake, in a counterpart of the sea adventurer's ship, the Golden Hind, plans to sail from Miami, Fla., to retrace the Englishman's course on a winter cruise in the West Indies. Lee H. Parish, of Beaumont, Tex., is the sailor. With his father and mother he will cruise five months in search of rare mammals, birds and reptiles for the Smithsonian institution. His ship, the Esperanza, is an auxiliary ketch. Parish will search not only for animal specimens but will seek a mysterious cave at the east end of Tortuga. Along the north coast of Haiti he will search for lost Indian villages believed to hold traces of ancient life.

Power transmission of 500,000 volts, more than double that of present lines, now is feasible, says Professor Harris J. Ryan, director of the 2,000,000-volt laboratory of Stanford university. Such huge power lines, however, are not yet practical, he says. "Even so," says Professor Ryan, "one may engage in speculation as to what uses can be made of the 500,000-volt power line. Interconnections of powers and markets are now being organized from Chicago to the Atlantic and gulf states and from Canada to Mexico on the Pacific coast. Executives and engineers promulgating such interconnections may be the first to encounter need for the 500,000-volt line for equalizing power sources and markets between industrial areas."

THE 1930 NASH "400"
NASH is the car with the OIL CUSHIONED CHASSIS
SUPERIOR PERFORMANCE!
TWIN-IGNITION EIGHT
TWIN-IGNITION SIX
... SINGLE SIX
EVERY Nash "400" model, including those of lowest price, is now equipped with a modern system of centralized chassis lubrication. ¶ Nash "400" chassis bearings ride on a cushion of oil. Not just once in a while, or for a day or so after you happen to put your car in a service station for greasing. But every day, and without the bother of service station attention, the "400" chassis gives you the riding smoothness and the longer chassis life that only perfect chassis lubrication can give. ¶ And every Twin-Ignition Eight and Six model is now built with lifetime lubricated springs—lubrication sealed inside flexible steel spring covers—permanent protection against rust, squeaks, wear and ineffectual spring action. ¶ The combination of centralized lubrication and lifetime lubricated springs creates an oil-cushioned chassis—another reason for the superior performance that distinguishes the 1930 Nash "400!"

Children Cry for it
Children hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and harmless as the recipe reads. (The wrapper tells you just what Castoria contains.)
When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, use it to keep the system from clogging. Your doctor will tell you Castoria deserves a place in the family medicine cabinet until your child is grown. He knows it is safe for the tiniest baby; effective for a boy in his teens. With this special children's remedy handy, you need never risk giving a boy or girl medicine meant for grown-ups.
Castoria is sold in every drug store; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE OF CONNECTICUT PRAISES EAGLE NEST CHICKS
I find that the chicks I have purchased from the Eagle Nest Hatchery Co., of Upper Sandusky, Ohio, are very good layers and money makers.
In 1928 I purchased 1500 of their High Grade Barron White Leghorns and after culling them in the Fall had 700 Pullets to put in our laying houses. From November 1st 1928 to November 1st, 1929, I received $3840.00 for eggs sold, at a feed cost of $1450.05, leaving a profit of $2389.95, or $3.42 per hen. My flock is now laying 58 per cent.
I have sent my order in for 2000 chicks for this year, and am recommending their chicks to any one in the Poultry Business.

WESTERLY

MANFREDI'S GROCERY STORE BURNED OUT THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 20—Fire alarm, No. 68, Oak and Tower streets, Westerly, was sounded about 3:10 a. m. Thursday by Reginald Eleaser, residing at 80 Oak street, when he saw smoke coming from the one-story frame building at 76 1-2 Oak street, occupied by the grocery store conducted by Joseph Manfredi.

Chief George E. Egger, Assistant Engineers Bonner, McKenzie and Pasetti responded with three pieces of apparatus. A line of booster tank hose was laid to the west side of the rear end of the store where the blaze was just eating its way through the side wall. Later two hydrant lines were laid to the same place and enough water turned on to smother the fire. When the firemen entered the building they found that the fire had been burning for some time and had caught from rubbish around a stove at the rear of the store where a floor beam was found and flooring burned through. At the front of the store in the basement were some oil tanks which it was feared at first might explode. Dwellings are located but a few feet distant on either side of the store building.

Practically the entire contents of the store, groceries, confectionery, cigars and tobacco was destroyed by the fire and represent an almost total loss, as it was reported the stock was only partially covered by insurance.

Chief Egger had a close call from being run down by the big Ahrens-Fox motor pumper as it was headed along High street, when the driver without warning at a dark spot in the highway saw Chief Egger in the street ahead of the apparatus. The chief is usually equipped with white rubber coat and boots.

COMMANDERY INSPECTION BY BAY STATE OFFICIALS

The sixtieth annual inspection of Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, K. T. of Westerly, Em. Sir Francis M. Johnson, commander, was made Wednesday afternoon and evening by Fifth Division commander, Em. Sir Forrest A. Bliss, of Fitchburg, Mass., grand captain of the guards of the Grand Commandery of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, assisted by Em. Sir Andrew E. Harper, of Leominster, Mass., as deputy grand warder. Both are members of Jerusalem Commandery, No. 19, of Fitchburg. Commandery work began in the Temple degree at 4:30 p. m. and was followed by a chicken dinner at 6:30 in the commandery armory served by the members of Deborah chapter, No. 9, Order Eastern Star. At 7:30 there was the formal reception of the inspecting officer and suite, on which was Rt. Em. Sir Charles F. White of Malden, Mass., grand commander of the Grand Commandery and Grand Warder Edward Rose, both members of Beauseaunt Commandery, No. 41, K. T. of Malden. The full form opening was commandery inspection and review. There were present 110 commandery swords and at the close of the evening's work the assistant inspector instructor, Em. Sir Kenneth C. Grinslaide, of East Greenwich, R. I., gave the commandery a rating of nine minus.

The conclave closed with an entertainment by Miss Henderson, of Boston, assisted by her brother, Jack, with vocal and instrumental numbers and impersonations. Later there was the serving of refreshments. Many visiting Knights Templar were present from Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The installation of Westerly Assembly, Order of Rainbow for Girls, was held Thursday evening in Masonic hall. The Rainbow Order is conducted under the supervision of Deborah chapter, No. 9, Order of Eastern Star, of Westerly. After the work of the evening there was dancing in the armory banquet hall of Narragansett Commandery. Special guests were members of Westerly chapter, Order of DeMolay for Boys. Light refreshments were served.

STRONG MIKE PASSI COMING WORLD'S WRESTLER

Big Mike Passi, strong boy wrestler of the village has fooled them all in training, under the watchful eye of Eddie Scott. He can break a bag of oats between his powerful legs. With snow on the ground he was seen running to Mystic to get his wind. The row boat "Air Rifle" was waiting for him at the Town dock for a short row of half a mile with three in the boat. Then home for breakfast—twelve North dock Johnny cakes, 5 pieces of toast, a pot of tea instead of coffee. Then taking a rub-down by his trainers, he will go to bed for one hour. He has thrown some good men and has strong feet, that is, he can get out of a toe-hold and not feel it at all. The more heavy oil his rival gives the Noank wonder just smiles and gets free.

Then the strong boy will try a head-lock. Two out of three of his rivals roll over like a duck being shot on the salt water. Although but a short time at the mat game, he weighs 189 and is around 5 ft. 10 inches. He sure is strong—can lift 5 full cement bags and carry them 15 feet; that is almost 500 lbs. He does not know his power in these arms.

A young giant who has seen only 21 summers and as many winters, some day he will be a hard fellow to throw. His hobby is to be a world champion wrestler who can say he did not learn it from a book, but came up from the ranks.

Manager Scott says he is not a Gus Sonnenberg in such a short time, or a Strangler Lewis; but he will get the flying tackle down some to go with that head lock and leg crusher. Some wrestlers are built small from the legs up, and come out like a barrel; but Strong Boy Passi is like a stove pipe, legs right up to his neck, all iron, and no bones; broad as an English shirt.

He was dreaming one night about wrestling and wishing he could go on at Lawrence hall, New London, and show that he knows a few holds. "I know I am young at the game—but if I only got the chance to go on for 30 minutes and work my way up to the main match! You cannot win matches all the time, like I have been doing before a large crowd, and get wrestlers out of town for nothing to train me! In New London they come from all over and get their money's worth and pick who is good. No one around knows, only in the village that I am a wrestler. I'd like to get on the mat in the square ring in the Whaling City."

Strong Boy Passi's dream at last came true, for recently he went to New London and saw the wrestling match. When Matchmaker Steve Passa heard the Noank giant was in the house, after Steve threw his man and got on his Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes, he came over where Big Mike Passi was and said: "Hey, strong boy! come in the dressing room! I want to have a talk with you. How would you like to go on in our next wrestling match, next month in this hall?" I will get you a man that can pick up a 700-lb anchor, but is new at the game. He is strong too; so you two ought to be a good match. When you get a better start to climb up the ladder I will put you on for the main go. This game is hard work and you've got to train for it. I don't care what you lift—a battleship or a new Ford, as long as you are in good condition and give the people their money's worth. I know you can break a bag of oats between your legs; also you will have a large crowd of wrestling fans from the fishing village, for they attend the matches great all winter; 46 came over one night. Also they will bet anything from a dime to the shoes on their feet, or the shirt off their back, to have you win! In my fifteen years of wrestling from any corner in the world, I never saw such wrestling sports from a small village like Noank.

"When we got Flying Tackle Gus Sonnenberg here it cost us plenty of money, so we had to jump the price to come out ahead; but Noank fans turned out big. We cannot kick. Fans have come from all over, some nights cold enough to freeze hot water, but they would see us through.

"So, Big Boy Passi train and some day you will see in The Bulletin where you are the heavyweight wrestler of the world! You are young and have got the power. A few new holds are now hidden from you; but they will come as easy as eating a piece of radio cake! Well, Strong Boy Passi, that is all until you hear from me soon again!"

As the Noank giant came out he was all smiles, to get the golden chance at the wrestling game in the city on the Thames.

He came home and told all his pals right away; he got busy and started hard work. Monday night, in the hall of the Saturday Night club building he had four men to throw in one hour and 15 minutes. A good sized crowd gathered to see him in action. Bag-Breaker Passi came out first in yellow tights, ready for his rival, and the fans were surprised to see Stretch Morrison come out and try to throw the giant. The bell rang for any hold you could get. The strong boy got that body hold where it is hard to get out, but Stretch got free in 11 minutes, but was weak. So getting a Water street half-Nelson and arm lock, he had the young giant's face red from twisting the arm; but Big Mike got free after 12 minutes. The crowd went wild. Stretch, by mistake, fell in a head lock but could not get free and was pinned to the mat after 30 minutes of hard work.

Flying George Deveau, who put the strong boy's toe in bad shape a little while ago and made him go with a cane, was next on the list. Wild as a bull in a Spainish bull pen, Bag-Breaker came at his rival and got the hold he wanted, by wrapping his violin cases around the body of Flying Deveau. He tried to get loose, but those feet were too strong and in 7 minutes Deveau was done for the evening.

The next one was a masked wonder from Vermont, claiming he could get out of a thousand holds. Noank's wonder got a head lock, but Vermont's unknown soon was free. He got out of five of them but was left weak as a cat after a battle with a rat. Big Mike Passi got a double arm lock and he was done up in 33 minutes of good wrestling.

The last man was old George Benus from a small town in Canada. He has been at the game for 25 years and thought he could do the trick. The strong boy had only five minutes to do the job on the old-timer, who got Noank's coming hope in a bad fix with a toe-hold. But Passi got away, caught the old star at the game with the body hold and in 4 minutes the evening of fun was over. Passi threw four men in 74 minutes.

If you want to see this Noank wonder, Passi, in action, go to the next match at New London next month.

SOUND FILM IN REVERSE TALKS AMAZING JUMBLE

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(AP)—Have you ever wondered what it would sound like if a man should talk backwards?

The question was answered for the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, the Institute of Radio Engineers, and the Rochester Engineering society at a joint meeting here.

A movie sound track film, fed backward through the reproducing apparatus, produced the sound of human speech reversed—a strange, new language which defied interpretation.

Don't worry about the extra company, ma'am. There is some more Oreo Sandwich on the shelf . . . and you couldn't have anything better to give them if you'd planned 'way ahead.

EASTERN VOLUNTOWN

Quite a change in the weather the past week. Seven or eight inches of snow fell Sunday and the thermometer was 10 below zero at William Bitgood's Monday morning. Sunday was a very cold and windy day. If it was cold Monday the R. F. D. got through just the same. This weather doesn't stop Arthur. Just the same he gets there.

Charles Douglas has finished his work in Plainfield and come home. Guess he must have got tired doing house work.

The farm that William Bitgood lives on has a brook near the house, and when he was a boy of 12 or 13 he made a dam in the brook that made a little pond. His mother had an old fashioned clock that had wooden wheels in it. He took the wheels and made him a grist mill and a saw mill. He used to saw potatoes into boards. They use to raise the long seed potatoes. I don't know what he did with his boards but in his grist mill he ground sand. He was the first man or boy that put the first boat on Beach pond and the first boy that made a grist saw mill in Eastern Voluntown.

Your correspondent got news that the town clerk, Howard James of Voluntown has the mumps.

Mrs. James Congdon is better of her cold and so is the rest of the family.

Mrs. Elmer Fenner has a bad cold. Can hardly speak so you can hear her. Mr. Fenner is quite well.

Albert Dawley went to Norwich Tuesday to get things for his store in Voluntown.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Maynard's little boy, Lawrence, has been having a bad cold but is better at this writing. Also Mr. and Mrs. Warren Tanner's little girl, Doris, has been having a bad cold but was little better Monday.

George Green has got home from Florida as far as his sister's in Plainfield. He called up Mr. Bitgood Monday and said he was feeling fine. He said he was going to his son's in Andover and chop wood. Quite an old man to chop wood. Over 80 years old.

WILSONVILLE

Mrs. Albert Belanger of Pascoag, R. I., spent the past week with her mother and sisters. Mr. Belanger spent the week end here also.

George Belanger of Southbridge spent the week end with Tony Soboalk.

Delores Langeleir has returned home. She has been with her sister in Worcester the past few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lonergan and son, James, of New London, spent the week end with Mrs. Lonergan's parents.

Mr. Bixby of Worcester called on his mother, Monday.

Even If They Like It

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Cod liver oil is harmful for cows, it was discovered by experts at the state college of agriculture here. Although recommended for other farm animals, it was discovered that, fed to cows, the oil reduced the butterfat content of the milk.

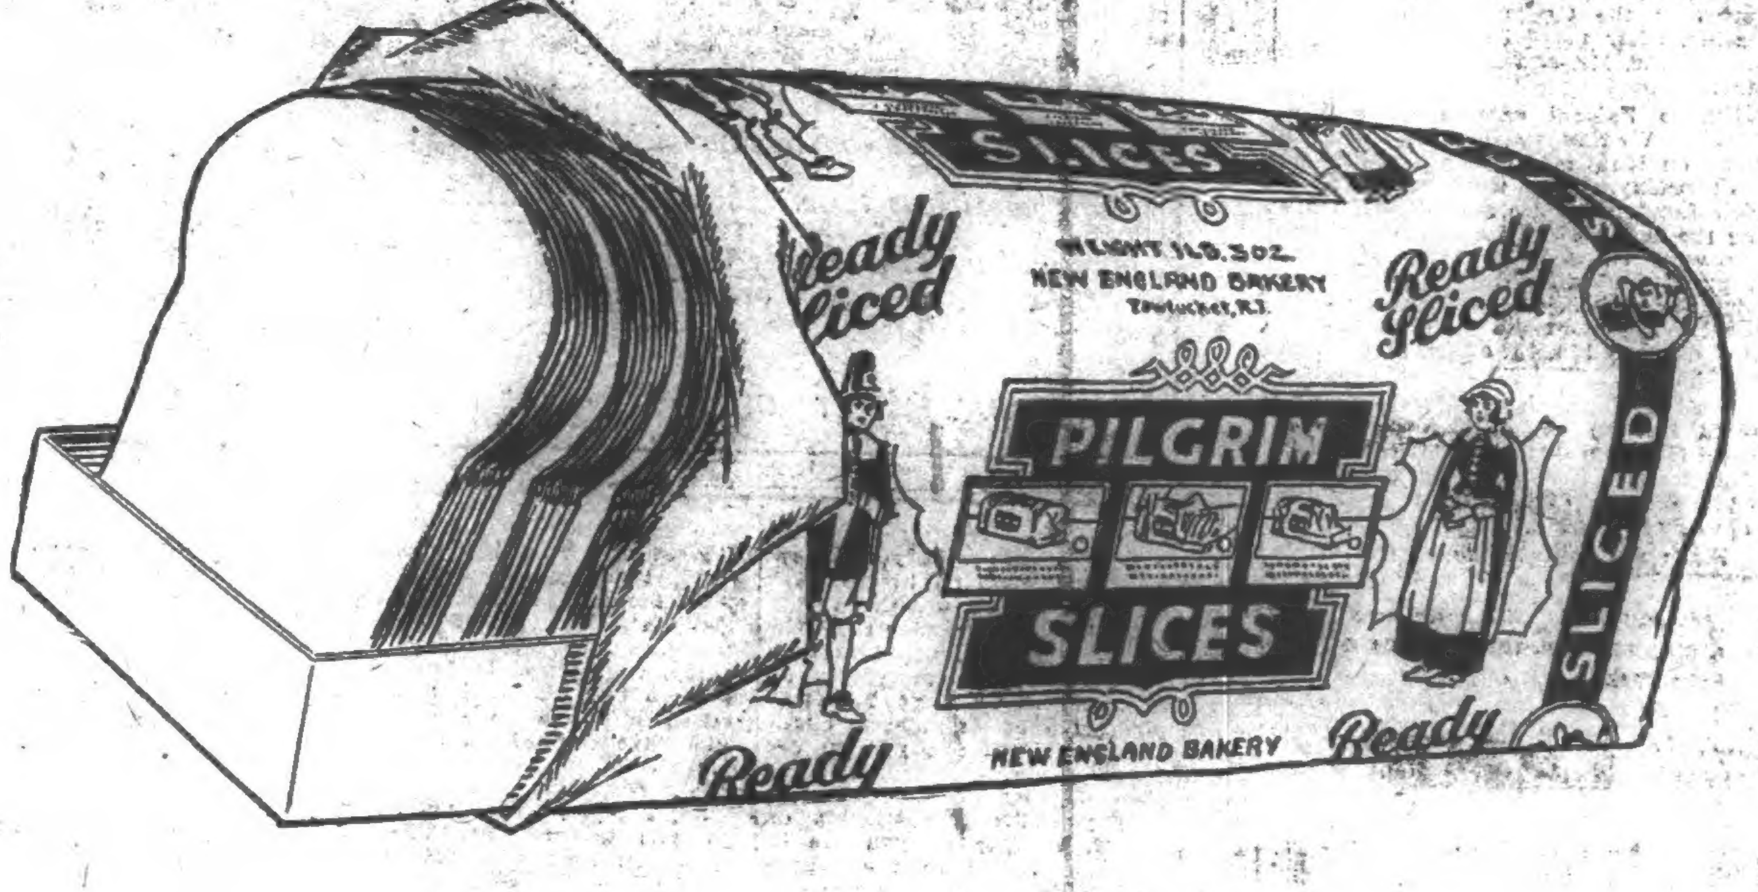
BREAD SLICED
READY FOR YOUR TABLE
The new
PILGRIM SLICES

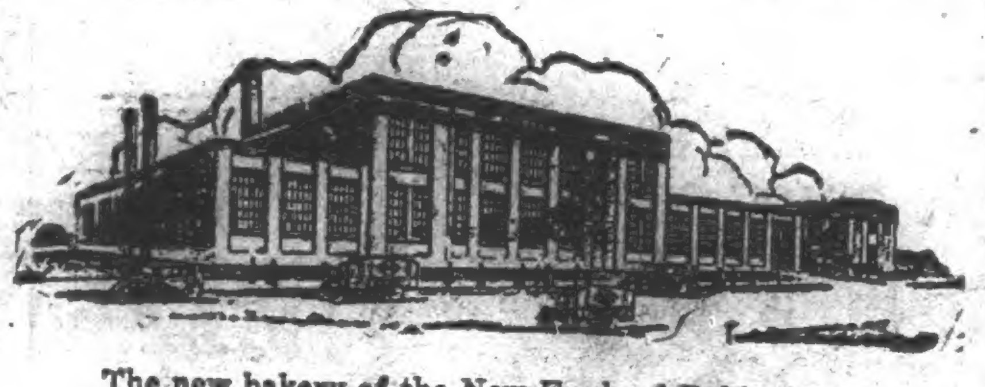


Children can now make their own sandwiches when hunger calls . . . no danger cutting tiny fingers. No more crumbs to remove. When you make sandwiches you can do it so much easier and with almost no trouble. And, keep this a secret, friend husband can make his own morning toast . . . any member of the family can put up his own noonday lunches. Bread is always used in sliced form anyway . . . why not buy it already sliced . . . the ever-fresh way . . . the convenient way . . . the way in which no waste is encountered. Pilgrim Slices way.

Now the finest, most nourishing vitamin-filled bread . . . Pilgrim . . . comes to you in the most convenient and modern form . . . SLICED. Pilgrim Slices.

Each golden brown baked Pilgrim loaf is cut into uniform slices . . . which means more uniform toast . . . packed into a tidy tray and wrapped with highest quality waxed paper. No human hands touch the bread from mixing to wrapping. Each package is sealed to retain all the original freshness and tastiness of the bread. And, after slices are removed, the package can again be sealed and the bread kept fresh several days.

from the spotlessly-clean most modern bakery.

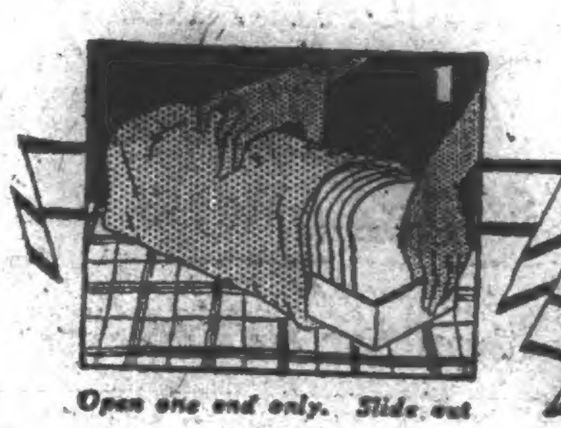


The new bakery of the New England Baking Company, where Pilgrim Slices are baked, is a modern miracle of cleanliness, magic modern methods and efficiency. Nowhere in New England will you find a bakery more completely equipped to bake the very finest bread.

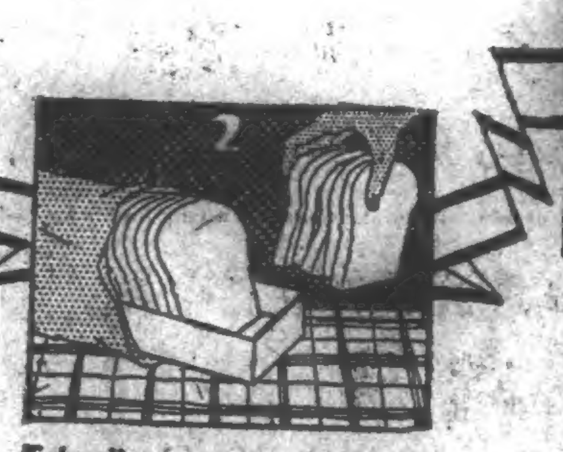
In this bakery are great ovens, glowing with scientifically controlled heat . . . here are mighty mixers, moulders and steel fingered wrapping machines. Here is a machine that manufactures "weather." All round the bakery is the snowy whiteness of a summer cloud . . . trained workers watching to see that the bakery is always as immaculate as it is possible to make it.

That's the ideal we have set for ourselves, and constantly strive to live up to, in the new bakery of the New England Baking Company.

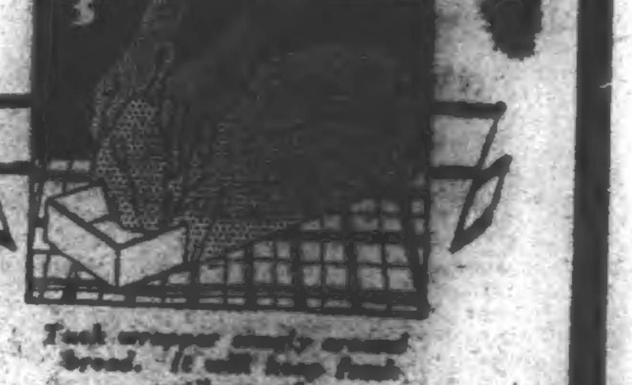
Go to your grocer. Ask for Pilgrim Slices. Look for the Pilgrim figures on the label. Note how tender and sweet the slices come to you. Note how much time they save in meal preparation. Then you will understand why Pilgrim Slices are part of the daily menu in thousands of homes throughout New England.



Open one end only. Slide out tray.



Take slices you need and press remainder back into wrapper.



Tuck wrapper snugly around bread. It will keep fresh until served.

BAKED BY THE PILGRIM BAKERS

MYSTIC

Word was received in the village Wednesday, of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas, wife of Thomas Weir, formerly of Mystic. She was a former resident of Groton, also worked for a short time in the office of the Rossie Velvet company in Mystic. She was the daughter of Mrs. Mary and the late John Thomas. Her mother lived in New York city, near them. Mrs. Weir died in a New York hospital. She leaves a two-day old son, also her husband who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Weir, of Mystic. This is the second death in this family in a short time. Mrs. Weir's body will be brought to Groton for funeral services.

The Lions' club met at Jackson's Thursday evening at 6:30. The speaker of the evening was Rev. Louis J. Shapler, pastor of the Union Baptist church.

Mrs. Gerda McLean, of Westerly, visited friends in Old Mystic Wednesday.

Woodrow Pinkman has returned from a visit in New York.

The Ladies' Aid society of Old Mystic Baptist church met with Mrs. Harold Williams Wednesday afternoon. Piecing a quilt was the principal business. Present were: Mrs. Mattie Burdick, Mrs. Anna Carwell, Mrs. Mildred Williams, Mrs. Edith Stanton, Mrs. Amanda Eldredge, Mrs. Ellen Williams, Mrs. Margaret Williams, Mrs. Emily B. Holmes, Mrs. Etta Wheeler, Mrs. Mary Beckwith and Mrs. H. B. Hutchins of Quaker Hill.

Chesebro and Edgar Collington and Clifton LaFerier and George Barden, all of Mystic, are the new entries in the fourth annual bridge tournament to be held by the Square and Compass club of Westerly, play to begin Monday evening next. There are now 17 players from Mystic on the list.

Camp Tomakatawah, Camp Fire Girls, held a valentine social in the Methodist church recently, with about 40 persons present. Each member was privileged to invite one guest. Games were played and sandwiches, cookies and cocoa were served. The chaperonnes for the evening were Mrs. George Wallace Camp Fire guardian, and Miss Gladys Barber, assistant guardian.

The Viking quartet held a rehearsal at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Keigwin, Wednesday evening.

When Benevolence chapter, No. 21, R. A. M. holds a special convocation February 24, Rev. Arthur F. Lewis of Naugatuck, deputy grand high priest, will make his official visit.

The eleven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jahnes, of Willimantic, has been dismissed from the hospital where he has been a patient for some time, and has returned to his home in Willimantic. Young Jahnes was injured when a truck backed against him, the driver of the truck not knowing that anyone was anywhere around. Mr. Jahnes is a frequent visitor in the village.

Pequot temple, Pythian Sisters and K. of P. members were in New London Wednesday evening and attended a social given by Goff temple, No. 1.

George Tingley is to leave soon with a party of friends for a cruise through the Virgin Islands.

Prof. Herbert Wolfe, of Pawtucket, R. I., visited friends in the village Wednesday.

James McDonough has accepted a position in Atwood's Machine shop in Stonington.

Mrs. Daisy Crandall was visiting friends in Westerly Thursday.

Miss Ines Rollins, of Noank, was a recent visitor in the village.

Andrew Roux, of Willimantic, was a caller here Tuesday.

Mrs. Ella W. Davison, of New London, who died at Home Memorial hospital Tuesday night, following a surgical operation, has been a frequent visitor in the village, and many friends here expressed sympathy to her husband, Charles H. Davis of New London.

Miss Annie Lee, of Old Mystic, has been confined to her home by illness.

STONINGTON

Miss Frances Cutler is visiting relatives in New York.

Mrs. F. Paul Brozy and Mrs. Carl Wimmens were hostesses at the meeting of the Social chain held in the chapel of Calvary Episcopal church Wednesday afternoon. Following the meeting refreshments were served.

Master William Taylor, son of Dr. and Mrs. D. E. G. Taylor entertained friends Tuesday on his fifth birthday. During the afternoon refreshments were served. Master Taylor received a number of gifts. The decorations were of pink and yellow. Among those present were: Ruby and Atwood Anderson, Barbara Zellar, Gwendolyn Pierce, Park Anderson, Sanford Cutler, Robert Back, Nathaniel and Harriett Babcock, Charles and Marion Ryon and Junior Maxson.

Only ten more days remain in which to join the Stonington Ambulance corps, and the committee is urging those who have not done so to join at once. It is a splendid cause and every family in Stonington is being solicited to take out a subscription.

The foundry at the Atwood Machine Co. is running full time to complete a large order to be shipped this month.

Charles P. McCoart has returned from a business trip to Norwich and Springfield, Mass.

William Doll of Pawtucket, was a business caller here Wednesday.

The meeting of Stonington grange, No. 188, P. of H., is to be held in the Road church parish house this (Friday) evening.

A new boiler is being installed in the rooms of the Steamers on Grand street.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Sherman, of Westerly, were visitors here Tuesday.

STUDY SHOWS INHERITANCE AID ATHLETE'S ABILITY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Carnegie institution of Washington has found the relation of inheritance to success in athletics "is as clear as that of racing ability in horses."

To reach its conclusions, the institution's genetic laboratory analysed heredity and performance records of scores of athletes, making allowance for favorable training.

However excellent training may be, the report says, it cannot compensate for lack of constitutional characteristics that probably are derived from athletic ancestors.

SWEETEN ACID STOMACH THIS PLEASANT WAY

When people experience distress two hours after eating—suffer from heartburn, gas, indigestion—nine times out of ten it's excess acid that's causing their trouble.

The best way—the quickest way to correct this is with an alkali. And Phillips Milk of Magnesia is an alkali, in the harmless, most pleasant and palatable form. It's the form physicians prescribe; which hospitals use; which millions have come to depend upon in over 50 years of steadily increasing use.

A spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water neutralizes many times its volume in excess acid; and does it at once. In five minutes, the symptoms of excess acid disappear. To know this perfect way is to be through with crude methods forever.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. A less perfect product may not act the same. All drug stores have the generous 25c and 50c bottles. Full directions for its many uses are always in the package.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

SHARPEST BREAK IN NEW YORK STOCK MARKET SINCE BEFORE CHRISTMAS

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP)—The stock market experienced its sharpest break since its sinking spell just before Christmas today. The drop was moderate enough, compared to the experiences of the final quarter of last year, but gave Wall street a slight jar, after the narrow day-to-day price movements of the past two months. The index of 90 leading shares declined 3.4 points, and most of the more active individual issues closed 2 to 13 points lower. Trading was not heavy until selling reached large proportions in the last hour. Total sales reached 3,661,070 shares, approximately 200,000 more than yesterday.

Several commission houses have felt for several days that the market was spoiling for a break, and had advised their customers to lighten accounts, although pools continued to bid up individual favorites. The market became reactionary late yesterday, in belated response to the troubles in the Chicago wheat pit, and continued to work lower during most of today, although bulls regained control of the price movement for a short time in the early afternoon. What had the earmarks of a bear raid sent the market swiftly lower in the last hour of trading.

Aside from renewed reaction in the wheat market, there was little in the day's news to cast any new light upon financial or business conditions, and the markets, action appeared to be largely in response to already known factors, and in correction of a weakened technical position within the market itself. The most noteworthy corporate news was the 1929 earnings statement of National Lead, showing net nearly double that of 1928, and the declaration of a $3 extra dividend. These favorable developments, however, related to last year's operations, and President Cornish indicated that business had fallen off substantially in recent months. The first half of February making a particularly unfavorable comparison with the previous year. National Lead stock, normally a wide mover, dropped 13 points.

Credit conditions were stationary, with call money holding at 4 1-2 per cent. The weekly brokers loan figures showed another moderate increase of $44,000,000, making a total upturn for the past three weeks of about $150,000,000. The statement of Governor Norris of the Philadelphia Reserve bank that there is a wide feeling in federal reserve circles that it would not be wise to make additional attempts to stimulate business by further cheapening of credit dashed hopes of any early reduction of the rediscount rate from 4 to 3 1-2 per cent in the near future. In fact, Mr. Norris expressed the opinion that easy money rates as a stimulant to general business is a doubtful remedy, an opinion held by some economists who have severely censured the reserve system for its cheap money policy of 1927.

Rails were a target of the bears in the late trading, who based their operations on indications that the January earnings statements, to make their appearance in the next few days, will be rather unsatisfactory. New York Central lost 7 points, and Chesapeake and Ohio, Norfolk and Western, Delaware and Hudson, and Lackawanna, 5 to 6.

In the industrials and utilities, it was notable that the leaders of the recent advance were sold the most heavily. Westinghouse Electric lost nearly 8 points, and U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Johns Manville, American Tobacco, Eastman Kodak, Standard Gas, American Can, and Western Union lost about 4 to 7 points. Auburn Auto and Otis Elevator lost about 9 points each. Radio was heavily bought for a time, rising to 46 3-8, a new 1930 high, but it closed at 43 1-2, off about 2 points net.

Wheat futures closed off 1 1-4 to 2 cents, after selling still lower and establishing new low records for the season. The decline was attributed to further pressure of offerings in foreign markets. Pressure was lifted in the corn market, and closing prices were about 1-2 cent higher. Cotton declined in sympathy with wheat, and the Liverpool and Bombay markets, the latter influenced by renewed weakness in silver, but rallied as shorts covered with improved trade buying later in the day, and closing prices showed slight net gains.

In the foreign exchanges, the leading European rates rallied, after the steady declines to new low levels for the year during the past fortnight. Sterling mounted 3-16 to $4.86 1-16 for cables, reflecting the favorable statement of the Bank of England.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP)—The Federal Reserve bank's report on the movement of gold at the port of New York for the week ending Feb. 20, shows imports of $7,495,000, of which $5,432,000 came from Brazil; $1,956,000 from Bolivia and $107,000 from other Latin American countries. Exports of $10,000 went to Germany. There was no change in the amount of gold earmarked for foreign account.

Net operating income of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis (Nickel Plate) railroad for January totaled $482,360, compared with $856,364 in January, 1929.

The 88 leading group bank systems in the United States had total resources of $8,505,255,969 and controlled 547 independent banks on Dec. 31, 1929, says a survey published by the American Banker. This total comprises more than one-ninth of the total banking resources of the country.

The Union Pacific railroad is understood to be in the market for 25 locomotives and the Missouri Kansas Texas lines for 100 gondola cars.

As an outgrowth of the recent court action here which resulted in the holding of two high officials for action by the grand jury on charges of publishing a false and misleading advertisement, a committee of common stockholders of the Claude Neon Lights, Inc., has been formed to investigate the affairs of the company, with particular reference to the court proceedings.

Treasury Balance.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20—(AP)—Treasury receipts for February 18 were $10,286,614.97; expenditures $7,-636,494.41; balance $26,490,270.08.

COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP)—Cotton futures closed steady, 1 to 6 points higher; spot quiet; middling 15.40.

Every time a man tries to show off something is sure to go wrong.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP)—A bear attack centering on the utilities chopped sizeable chunks from curb stock quotations today. The selling, which assumed considerable proportions in the final hour when several large blocks came out, proved to be fairly general, although some of the industrials, as well as a few utilities, offered stubborn resistance and closed with small net gains.

Operations for the decline showed most prominently in issues which led the recent advance. Electric Bond & Share was whittled off 4 1-2 points and closed virtually at the bottom. American Superpower, American Gas & Electric, Central States Electric, Middle West Utilities, International Superpower and Niagara Hudson Power lost about 1 to 2 points, while Standard Power & Light dropped 5 1-2, and Northern States Power A 3 1-2.

Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Midland United and Memphis Natural Gas were well supported and advanced between 2 and 3 points each.

The most spectacular change was in Siemens & Halske, an extremely inactive issue, which tumbled 167 points on a ten share transaction. Deere & Company old, another high priced stock, fell 20 points while the new, when issued, lost 2 1-2. Otis Elevator, new, declined more than 3 points in sympathy with the break in the old shares in the big board. Republic Steel lost nearly 3 and the preferred 2. Technicolor was off 4 at the close.

Investment company shares met considerable selling and gave ground rather readily. Goldman Sachs trading, Lehman Corp., Marine Midland, Electric Power Associates 'A' and National Investors were down 1 to 2 1-2 points. Mayflower Associates advanced 1.

Oils held up fairly well in the early trading, but joined the downward movement toward the close. Gulf and Humble each yielded about 2 points while Vacuum sagged a point. The Standards were firm and dull.

Miscellaneous strong spots included American Salamandra, up 3, Charis Corp, up 2 3-4, Sierra Pacific Electric, up 1 1-2, Newport, up 2, and Rike Kumler, up 1.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 20—(AP)—Possibilities of wheat at less than a dollar-a-bushel in the United States this season found expression among Chicago wheat traders today. With the market here overwhelmed by stop-loss selling and showing about 12 1-2c a bushel drop since last week as a result of severe curtailment of trans-Atlantic buying, comparisons were circulated showing that Liverpool wheat prices today were almost the same as on May 31, 1929, and that Chicago May delivery of wheat sold then at 93 1-4c. Today was the fourth consecutive day that wheat values here collapsed.

Indications of crop damage in connection with present unseasonable weather led to sharp rallies of wheat prices today, but the close here was nervous, 1c to 2c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to 3-4c higher, with oats varying from 1-8c decline to 3-8 at 1-2c advance, and provisions unchanged to 20c down.

It was pointed out today by one of the foremost commission houses in Chicago that Liverpool March wheat today was quoted at $1.11 a bushel and May $1.16 and that on the last day of May in 1929 Liverpool May was quoted around $1.11 with Chicago selling about 17c a bushel lower. The statement was added that if Liverpool and Buenos Aires reflect world appraisal of wheat values, United States prices are not 15c out of line. Assertions were also current here today from a leading British trade authority that European import buying of wheat will not again become active until April. Under such circumstances, heavy selling pressure developed in the Chicago wheat future delivery market, and season low-price records as on recent successive days were speedily outdone.

On the other hand, increasing numbers of unfavorable crop reports about domestic winter wheat were a factor tending to bring about speculative buying which had a further incentive in knowledge that wheat prices have smashed down to about 54c a bushel below the best figures for the crop. There were also reports from the United States department of agriculture saying increased trans-Atlantic takings of North American wheat during the remainder of the present season are indicated because of low freight rates on ocean vessels, reduced stocks in the southern hemisphere, diminishing supplies of native wheat in Europe and relatively low prevailing prices. Rapid fluctuations and big trading formed the rule here throughout the day, with the maximum setback 2 7-8c under yesterday's finish. North American wheat export business today totaled 1,000,000 bushels, mainly Canadian. Corn, oats and rye yielded temporarily to influence of wheat market weakness today, and went below any bottom-price levels heretofore reached this season. Subsequently, however, corn developed relative strength owing to signs of a falling-off in the volume of receipts.

Provisions averaged lower, sympathizing chiefly with hog market downturns.

Closing bids and offers: Wheat—Mar. 105 1-2, 111 1-2; May 109 1-2 to 5-8, 115 3-8 to 5-8; July 111 1-2 to 5-8, 117 1-2 to 5-8; Sept. 112 1-2, 119 3-8 to 1-4. Corn—May 84 1-4 to 3-8, 88 3-4 to 7-8; July 88 1-4 to 3-8, 93 3-4; Sept. 87 7-8, 90 5-8.

THE FARMER'S TALK TO FARMERS

CITY VS THE COUNTRY

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

Our city friends seem to find considerable amusement in the awkwardness we country people can't help showing in urban conditions. "Look at the rube," they nudge each other; "tryin' to get into the car from the wrong side!" "And listen to him talk about 'haff-past nine' instead of hawlf pawst!" "'Nd he's wearing ready-made clothes of the style of last year! Isn't he the guy?"

All of which is very soothing to their own sense of superiority. Human nature has always wanted somebody to look down on. It is never satisfied with the level. It wants to stand, if not head and shoulders, at least an eighth of an inch above its neighbor. The king looks down on the duke, and the duke looks down on the baron, and the baron looks down on the squire, and the squire looks down on the peasant, and the peasant looks down on the pauper and the pauper generally has a dog—chiefly useful as a thing to be looked down on and occasionally kicked around.

It's so in all branches of human life. Give a man an ear sufficiently abnormal to find real pleasure in tuneless discords, and he promptly sets himself up as a superiorly gifted expert, authorized to teach commoner people what is true music. Another man, born perhaps with a cast in his eye, finds that contortionist drawing and crude splashings of color with a whitewash brush just suit him, so he proceeds to climb up on a stool and instruct commoner people in what he proclaims to be really artistic art. And another one, lacking any sense of rhyme or metre and too lazy to learn, proceeds to chop up poor prose into irregular lines and call on the rest of us to regard it as poetry.

In a similar spirit it comes about that, when one has lived in a city long enough to learn its customs and copy its habits and imitate its tricks, he warms himself at the low of his own superiority as he watches traditional Farmer Corntossel display ignorance of the customs and habits and tricks which have become second-nature to him. When he says, "Look at the rube," he really means, "Look at me and see how much slicker I am!" It is just an indirect way of calling attention to his own urbanermien and more shiny polish.

Really, a trait of human nature which is so universal can hardly be set down as a serious offense.— Not, at least, till some newly spawned school of "reformers" set out to make it legally "malum prohibitum"— It must be regarded as a venial rather than an unforgivable sin.

Especially since it works both ways.

Farmer Corntossel may indeed make a poor showing on the avenue during an Easter parade in the eyes of the paraders.

What kind of a showing does Dudley Van Rensselaer suppose he makes to the rural eye when he appears as a week-ender or summer resident?

He may be the admired and graceful leader of the latest dance, but he's about as awkward a critter as can be found on the stubble land or the hayfield. His plus fours may be the latest thing from Lunnon, but they aren't in it with Hired Man Hank's overalls when it comes to packing the silo. He may know exactly which side of the lady and how far behind to ride when out with the hounds, but he hasn't the faintest idea which side to sit when milking the cow. And so on and so on.

If the countryman doesn't snicker right in his face, now and then, it is a self-restraint which deserves notice and credit. It really shows a rather fine grade of politeness. A partisan attorney for the rural side might, perhaps, find in the comparative infrequency of rural gibes at cityfied gaucheries room to hang a compliment on country manners. But there are boors in both town and country, and the pot is seldom justified in calling the kettle black. They're both too sooty to make nice playthings.

Near me is a sort of "quaking bog." It is covered with a matted sod which is tough enough to hold up ordinary animals. But, underneath, it is just slime to an unknown depth. Some years ago it was part of an abandoned farm bought up for a country place by a man who had made his pile in the city and thought he wanted to splurge about a bit in the "rooral deestricks." Putting on his pleasantest and most winning smile, he came to me to ask what sort of a crop I would advise as best suited to this absolutely unplowable marsh. When I found he was really serious and not, as I first thought, trying to be jocose, I gravely replied that I thought cat-tails and tag-alder would be about right. Whereupon he, as gravely, inquired where the seed could be got and whether spring or fall planting would be most advisable.

I know another similar summer resident who, some years ago, ordered cut down a magnificent hundred-years-old sugar maple because it stood in the way of a suburban garden-planner's idea of a "vista," and, later, directed his astonished but obedient "farmer" to make a kitchen-garden on an arid gravel-bank, under the shade of a pine grove, where even moss refused to grow.

Still another paid a handsome fee to have an asparagus bed set out, so that he wouldn't need to depend on the vegetable peddler every spring for his "grass." Later, when he found that even two-year-old roots wouldn't produce a worth while crop for three years, he had the bed torn out in disgust and re-stocked with sweet peas.

Another city neighbor with rural ideas mostly gleaned from the professedly agricultural press, spent several hundred dollars in scooping out and damming an ice-pond just below a spring of unusually limpid water, so that he could put in his own ice and be sure of its purity,—only to find that the pond, when filled, was so near the spring that its surface wouldn't freeze over even in 30-below-zero weather.

To the farmer mind, one of the very queerest things about these "cityfied fellers" is their assured self-conviction that having succeeded in city business, all they have to do is to transfer city practices to the country to win out in agriculture. As a result they sometimes generate ideas that are about as incongruous as they are surprising.

The latest movement that has come to my attention among this class of farmerines is a crusade on the part of a formally organized association out in Iowa to get farmers into apartment houses. Don't laugh; they really mean it. It is rather one of those "reforms" for which, in their opinion, the world has been waiting till they should set it going.

According to the prospectus issued by the sponsors of this latest "reform," it won't be long before "apartment houses will tower from rural cross-roads, and whole communities will sleep within a single building. The farmer will drive out to his farm on an all-weather road, plow his corn, and return at night, not to an isolated house, but to the flashing life of dinner with orchestral music."

Eh? How does that strike you, fellow farmer, for an idea? Wouldn't it be rawther swell, to say the least, to come in from a ten hour struggle "plowing the corn" "to the flashing life of dinner?" Dinner with "orchestral music," too? Would the "reformers" who are setting forth this manner of life permit the somewhat tired farmer to "set right down" to dinner in his overalls and plowing boots, or would he have to shave and change to dinner-dress and wear his Sunday-go-to-meetin' monocle?

And that music, too, raises a question. Would he be permitted to listen to "Turkey in the Straw" and "Old Rosin the Bow," and "Marchin' through Georgy?" Or would the proper demands of "reform" require him to eat his soup to a Bach fugue and his fish to a Wagnerian thunderstorm and drink his black coffee to a Beethoven sonata? If the latter how much improvement would he find it upon the mooing of Old Brindle or the crowing of the big red rooster or the ululations of Hooty the owl from the woods back of the old farm-house?

In Russia, during the days when travel was permitted in that unhappy country, it was the immemorial habit of the peasant farmers to live in village "mirs,"—huddles of cabins gathered at central points, and go out daily, men, women, and babies, to the fields to work returning to the mirs at night.

There is no overwhelming evidence at hand that this sort of farming was either more productive or more profitable or easier than that done by farmers in other lands, living on their own farms in isolated farm-houses. In fact, Russian farming was generally regarded as being a rather poor sort, from whatever standpoint viewed.

This latest "reform" proposal, seems to pattern after the Russian mir,—all except that the mir isn't to be a huddle of hovels but an "apartment house" and everybody is to eat dinner at the same time to the strains of "orchestral music." Naturally the apartment-house would have hot and cold running water, and electric lights, and a telephone and radio in every room, and a barber service with sixty barbers too few at 5:45 p. m. and one barber too many all the rest of the day. That "orchestra music," too, would have to be an improvement of "The Songs of the Steppers" in order fully to carry out the idea.

What I chiefly want to know is whether the proposed apartment house would have an attic for every apartment to stow Christmas gifts away in, and a cellar to hold a barrel of apples and a dozen bottles of 'home brew' or a keg of certified cider?

If not, I'm seriously afraid it would lack compelling appeal to a lot of old hayseeds who have grown accustomed to having their own way and to But don't lets dismise it too But don't let's dismiss it too brusquely. There's the young and "emancipated" generation coming on. Lord only knows what they may want!

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP)—Another advance by Liberties and Treasuries gave a more cheerful tone to the bond list today. Firmer tendencies were evident in the remainder of the market, although net changes proved to be mixed. Time money remained firm.

Convertibles afforded the widest moves of the day, turning downward in sympathy with the weakness of stocks. American Telephone 4 1-2s lost 4 1-4 points net, while Atchison 4 1-2s and International Telephone 4 1-2s each declined 2. American International 5 1-2s, American I. G. Chemical 5 1-2s, the Alleghany 5s and Texas Corp. 5s eased, with declines in the minor fractions.

Prime rails displayed considerable resistance in a generally thin market. New York Central issues were especially active, making a general upward turn in response to persistent accumulation. Rock Island Refunding 4s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4 1-2s, Northern Pacific prior lien 4s, Baltimore & Ohio 5s, Canadian National 5s, Wabash "B" 5s and St. Louis Southwestern 4 1-2s were other active carriers making slightly higher ground.

The remainder of the list dragged. There were transactions of fair size in Chile Copper 5s, Goodyear 5s, International Telephone 5s, Duquesne Light 4 1-2s, Lehigh Coal & Navigation 4 1-2s, Lorillard 5s and a few other issues, several of which slipped off as much as half a point in the absence of much support.

The Fourth Liberty Loan continued its recent activity in the government section, moving up 3-32 of a point, but the Treasury 3 3-4s displayed the best strength with an advance of 3-8. Only the Treasury 3 3-8s of 1943-47 failed to show a net advance for the session and these were down 1-32.

Trading in foreign bonds was generally in larger volume and prices tended higher. Buenos Aires 6s, Canada 5s, Antioquia 7s, Italian Public Utility 7s, Kingdom of Italy 7s, German Agricultural Bank 6s, Austrian 7s and Brazilian issues were leaders in the small advance. French bonds were firm.

An oversubscription was reported on the $16,000,000 issue of Pacific Northwest Public Service company 6 per cent 20-year convertible debentures. This company was recently organized as an operating subsidiary of Central Public Service corporation to supercede the Portland Electric Power company and to acquire the Seattle Lighting company. The bonds were priced at 99 1-2.

GO[illegible]N

"Be of Good Cheer," was the subject of the sermon Sunday morning. To one who has a living faith and is willing to do his part there is no real cause for discouragement and if such a person fails once he will try again for success. The C. E. meeting was led by Miss Clara Gillette, while others had assigned parts. Mary Vannish led in responsive reading. Alice Faulkner gave her favorite Bible verses, Mary Kostowich gave the story of the book of Ruth, and others had individual parts.

Mr. and Mrs J. A. Randall were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hyde in Lisbon.

Mrs. Sophie Gorski Mallocks of Brooklyn, N. Y., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gorski.

Miss Laura McCall and Miss Annie Gillette attended the D. A. R. meeting in Lebanon Monday.

Mrs. E. W. Jones and the Misses Gillette attended the League of Women Voters meeting held at Lyman Memorial high school, Lebanon, Tuesday and listened to the interesting address by Franklin Pierce, director of Secondary Education in Connecticut.

The beauty of the February moonlight evenings have been greatly enjoyed, when it was almost light enough to read a newspaper out of doors. This month years ago used to be noted for fine sleighing.

The principle winter birds noted about the farm are the jays and chicadees. The wood pewee was heard February 12th which is much earlier than usual for this spring songster.

The C. E. society held a business meeting and social at the church Friday evening.

Ye Auld Tyme Fiddlers' club of eastern Connecticut and Rhode Island is soon to meet again for a social time and to hear each other play the Auld Tyme selections.

LEBANON

A play, "Plain People," was given in grange hall Friday evening before a large and appreciative audience. Every part was well cast, each one acting with ability. The sum of $45 was added to the grange treasury. The play is to be repeated at Westchester. The characters were: Ezra Bromley, storekeeper, Christie Foster; Almira Bromley, his wife, Mrs. Eva Foster; Martin Jasper Bromley, college man Abraham Aspinwall; Liza Lis Hankins, brat, Mrs. Flora Williams; Judge Jotham Marley, a Christian, Arthur Bruce; Melissy Watkins, elderly maiden, Mrs. Hattie Taylor; Jonas Jarrock, farmer, Edward McCall, Jr.; Belindy Jarrock, seamstress, Mrs. Elsie Bruce; Hiram Curtis Peck, salesman, William Thomas; April Blossom, help, Mrs. Cora Aspinwall.

Several 4-H clubs have been organized in town. The leaders of the girls' clubs are Mrs. Everett Hewitt and Mrs. A. C. Hoxie; the boys' leaders are R. V. Taylor and S. L. Pitcher.

The League of Woman Voters held its meeting in the auditorium of the L. M. high school Wednesday and Mr. Pierce of Hartford was the speaker.

Lebanon grange, No. 21, held its meeting in grange hall Thursday evening.

A meeting of the Farm bureau was held in the club room Friday. Miss Ruth T. Russell of Norwich gave instructions in re-seating chairs. At noon a variety dinner was served to the fifteen present.

An all-day meeting of the Mission circle was held in the chapel of the Baptist church Tuesday with a large attendance. Dinner was served at noon. After dinner a business meeting was held. The work was on aprons and sewing rags for rugs.

Rev. A. G. Littlefield took as his text Sunday from 1 Cor. 15:19, preaching a very interesting sermon.

Mrs. Sweet of Hartford is visiting her daughter, Mrs. K. F. Bishop.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Boothby, of Woodmont, spent the week end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Boothby.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Foster spent Wednesday with Mr. Foster's mother Mrs. Ella Foster in Hartford.

A meeting was held in the auditorium of L. M. high school Tuesday evening with Mr. Robertson school supervisor, present. A parent-teachers' association was founded with the following officers: Mrs. C. H. Foster, president; Mrs. C. S. Williams, vice president; Miss Vilda Himmelstein secretary; Mrs. Rodney Hewitt, treasurer; Mrs. F. W. Taylor, chairman of program committee; Mrs. Elisha Waterman, chairman of financial committee; Mrs. George Hoxie, Jr., chairman of membership committee; Mrs. C. S. Goodwin, chairman of press committee; Mrs. Jacob Leglar, chairman of social committee. The next meeting will be held in L. M. high school March 11.

Laverne Pulty has accepted a position in drafting at Worcester, Mass.

Mrs. David Pitcher has returned, after spending two weeks in New York called there by the death of her aunt.

Mrs. Mary Brown is in Providence with her sister, Mrs. Irones, whose husband died last week. Mr. and Mrs. Irones own a summer home in Lebanon.

STAFFORD

Mrs. Ralph Sawin and son, David, of New York, returned to their home Monday after being guests of Rev. and Mrs. Edward E. Eno.

A good number attended the entertainment given Friday evening by the Spirit of Stafford to the Spirit of St. Louis. The entertainment and music were much appreciated by all. A reading and solo given by Mrs. Sawin added much to the enjoyment. Refreshments were served after the entertainment.

Rev. and Mrs. Edward E. Eno called on relatives in Springfield Monday.

Since the low temperature many have been adding to their fuel supply.

Many have had hard colds but are recovering.

BOLTON

Mrs. Ellen Clark Brownell's Death

Mrs. Ellen Clark Brownell, 84, died at her home in Bolton at two o'clock Sunday after several months' illness. She was the widow of Rev. Edgar A. Brownell, formerly of Mundale, Mass. Mrs. Brownell was an active member of South Park Methodist church, Hartford, and a leader of the Circle of King's Daughters. She leaves two daughters, Miss Laura S. Brownell and Miss Mary H. Brownell; two sons, Edgar C. and Amos C.; one grandson Marvin C. Brownell, all of Bolton; one sister, Mrs. Lucy R. Franklin, and one brother, Albert Clark of South Coventry. The funeral was held Tuesday at two o'clock at the Quarryville Methodist church in Bolton, Rev. Harold H. Clemens of the South Park Methodist church, Hartford, officiated and burial was in Quarryville cemetery.

Mr. Claude Jones of Hebron was calling Sunday on his sister, Miss Elsie M. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie S. Bolton of Hartford, called in town Sunday.

Mrs. Myrtle Hart and Mrs. Howard of Cromwell and Miss Eva Jones of Hartford, were visiting their brother, R. K. Jones, Sunday.

Supervisor L. T. Garrison visited schools in town this week.

Mr. Carlton Jones of Hebron was visiting his daughter, Mrs. Elsie M. Jones, Tuesday.

The names of Misses Mildred and Nina Wolf appear on the B honor roll for the third marking period at Manchester high school.

Engage Stonington Teacher

The school committee meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles F. Sumner, voted to engage Miss Amelia Palmer of Stonington to finish the school year at Birch Mountain school. The school committee meets the second Tuesday of every second month.

UNION

Miss Helen Hutchins, teacher of Red school, accompanied by Miss Della M. Heck, was in Danielson Saturday. In the evening they attended the entertainment held at Woodstock Academy where the play, "After You, I'm Next," was presented by Supervisor Calvin Stanley, the school nurse Miss Marguerite Miel, and the teachers of Woodstock schools. The play included twelve characters Mr. Stanley was the leading man and Miss M. was the colored butler. Another of the cast, well known here, was Mrs. A. N. Hammond of Woodstock valley.

Mrs. Ella Bradway, who has spent several weeks with her son and his family in Brookline, Mass., has returned to her home at Rock Meadow. Her daughter, Miss Mary Bradway, a nurse in a New York city hospital met her mother in Brookline on Lincoln day and accompanied her home. Miss Bradway returned to New York this week.

Monday morning, February 17, was the coldest of the winter here, to date —18 degrees below was the lowest reported. The snow of Saturday night Feb. 15, was not at all serious. It did not start here as early Saturday as it did nearer the coast. Sunday was a rough, cold day and no service was held at the Center.

Mrs. Charles R. Webster celebrated her seventy-fifth birthday Saturday, Feb. 15. She was surprised by a visit from her sister, Miss Della Blodgett, of Holland, Mass., and her niece, Mrs. Rupert Warrington, and family of Sturbridge, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Warrington formerly resided in Holland, Mass. The youngest of their three children, Ralph Warrington, came to celebrate his fifth birthday with his great-aunt, Mrs. Webster.

Miss Julia Heck of Springfield came home for a short visit Sunday.

Andrew Sedlak, who is employed in Springfield, was at home for the week end.

Miss Helen Hutchins and Miss Della Heck were guests at the parsonage in South Killingly, Lincoln day.

WISHING

Do you wish the world were better?
 Let me tell you what to do;
Set a watch upon your actions,
 Keep them always straight and true.
Rid your mind of selfish motives,
 Let your thoughts be clean and high.
You can make a little Eden
 Of the sphere you occupy.

Do you wish the world were wiser?
 Well, suppose you make a start
By accumulating wisdom
 In the scrapbook of your heart.
Do not waste one page on folly;
 Live to learn and learn to live.
If you want to give me knowledge,
 You must get it, ere you give.

Do you wish the world were happy?
 Then remember day by day
Just to scatter seeds of kindness
 As you pass along the way.
For the pleasures of the many
 May be ofttimes traced to one,
As the hand that plants the acorn
 Shelters armies from the sun.

THE FARMER'S TALK TO FARMERS

CITY VS THE COUNTRY

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

Our city friends seem to find considerable amusement in the awkwardnesses we country people can't help showing in urban conditions. "Look at the rube," they nudge each other; "tryin' to get 'nto the car from the wrong side!" "And listen to him talk about 'haff-past nine' instead of hawlf pawst!" "'Nd he's wearing ready-made clothes of the style of last year! Isn't he the guy?"

All of which is very soothing to their own sense of superiority. Human nature has always wanted somebody to look down on. It is never satisfied with the level. It wants to stand, if not head and shoulders, at least an eighth of an inch above its neighbor. The king looks down on the duke, and the duke looks down on the baron, and the baron looks down on the squire, and the squire looks down on the peasant, and the peasant looks down on the pauper and the pauper generally has a dog—chiefly useful as a thing to be looked down on and occasionally kicked around.

It's so in all branches of human life. Give a man an ear sufficiently abnormal to find real pleasure in tuneless discords, and he promptly sets himself up as a superiorly gifted expert, authorized to teach commoner people what is true music. Another man, born perhaps with a cast in his eye, finds that contortionist drawing and crude splashings of color with a whitewash brush just suit him, so he proceeds to climb up on a stool and instruct commoner people in what he proclaims to be really artistic art. And another one, lacking any sense of rhyme or metre and too lazy to learn, proceeds to chop up poor prose into irregular lines and call on the rest of us to regard it as poetry.

In a similar spirit it comes about that, when one has lived in a city long enough to learn its customs and copy its habits and imitate its tricks, he warms himself at the low of his own superiority as he watches traditional Farmer Corntossel display ignorance of the customs and habits and tricks which have become second-nature to him. When he says, "Look at the rube," he really means, "Look at me and see how much slicker I am!" It is just an indirect way of calling attention to his own urbanermien and more shiny polish.

Really, a trait of human nature which is so universal can hardly be set down as a serious offense.— Not, at least, till some newly spawned school of "reformers" set out to make it legally "malum prohibitum"— It must be regarded as a venial rather than an unforgivable sin.

Especially since it works both ways.

Farmer Corntossel may indeed make a poor showing on the avenue during an Easter parade in the eyes of the paraders.

What kind of a showing does Dudley Van Rensselaer suppose he makes to the rural eye when he appears as a week-ender or summer resident?

He may be the admired and graceful leader of the latest dance, but he's about as awkward a critter as can be found on the stubble land or the hayfield. His plus fours may be the latest thing from Lunnon, but they aren't in it with Hired Man Hank's overalls when it comes to packing the silo. He may know exactly which side of the lady and how far behind to ride when out with the hounds, but he hasn't the faintest idea which side to sit when milking the cow. And so on and so on.

If the countryman doesn't snicker right in his face now and then, it is a self-restraint which deserves notice and credit. It really shows a rather fine grade of politeness. A partisan attorney for the rural side might, perhaps find in the comparative infrequency of rural gibes at cityfied gaucheries room to hang a compliment on country manners. But there are boors in both town and country, and the pot is seldom justified in calling the kettle black. They're both too sooty to make nice playthings.

Near me is a sort of "quaking bog." It is covered with a matted sod which is tough enough to hold up ordinary animals. But, underneath, it is just slime to an unknown depth. Some years ago it was part of an abandoned farm bought up for a country place by a man who had made his pile in the city and thought he wanted to splurge about a bit in the "rooral deestricks." Putting on his pleasantest and most winning smile, he came to me to ask what sort of a crop I would advise as best suited to this absolutely unplowable marsh. When I found he was really serious and not, as I first thought, trying to be jocose, I gravely replied that I thought cat-tails and tag-alder would be about right. Whereupon he, as gravely, inquired where the seed could be got and whether spring or fall planting would be most advisable

I know another similar summer resident who, some years ago, ordered cut down a magnificent hundred-years-old sugar maple because it stood in the way of a suburban garden-planner's idea of a "vista," and, later, directed his astonished but obedient "farmer" to make a kitchen-garden on an arid gravel-bank, under the shade of a pine grove, where even moss refused to grow.

Still another paid a handsome fee to have an asparagus bed set out, so that he wouldn't need to depend on the vegetable peddler every spring for his "grass." Later, when he found that even two-year-old roots wouldn't produce a worth while crop for three years, he had the bed torn out in disgust and re-stocked with sweet peas.

Another city neighbor with rural ideas mostly gleaned from the professedly agricultural press, spent several hundred dollars in scooping out and damming an ice-pond just below a spring of amazingly limpid water, so that he could put in his own ice and be sure of its purity,—only to find that the pond, when filled, was so near the spring that its surface wouldn't freeze over even in 20-below-zero weather.

To the farmer mind, one of the very queerest things about these "cityfied fellers" is their assured self-conviction that having succeeded in city business, all they have to do is to transfer city practices to the country to win out in agriculture. As a result they sometimes generate ideas that are about as incongruous as they are surprising.

The latest movement that has come to my attention among this class of farmerines is a crusade on the part of a formally organized association out in Iowa to get farmers into apartment houses. Don't laugh; they really mean it. It is another one of those "reforms" for which, in their opinion, the world has been waiting till they should set it going.

According to the prospectus issued by the sponsors of this latest "reform," it won't be long before "apartment houses will tower from rural cross-roads, and whole communities will sleep within a single building. The farmer will drive out to his farm on an all-weather road, plow his corn, and return at night, not to an isolated house, but to the flashing life of dinner with orchestral music."

Eh? How does that strike you, fel- low farmer, for an idea? Wouldn't it be rawther swell, to say the least, to come in from a ten hour struggle "plowing the corn" "to the flashing life of dinner?" Dinner with "orchestral music," too?" Would the "reformers" who are setting forth this manner of life permit the somewhat tired farmer to "set right down" to dinner in his overalls and plowing boots, or would he have to shave and change to dinner-dress and wear his Sunday-go-to-meetin' monocle?

And that music, too, raises a question. Would he be permitted to listen to "Turkey in the Straw" and "Old Rosin the Bow," and "Marchin' through Georgy?" Or would the proper demands of "reform" require him to eat his soup to a Bach fugue and his fish to a Wagnerian thunderstorm and drink his black coffee to a Beethoven sonata? If the latter how much improvement would he find it upon the mooing of Old Brindle or the crowing of the big red rooster or the ululations of Hooty the owl from the woods back of the old farm-house?

In Russia, during the days when travel was permitted in that unhappy country, it was the immemorial habit of the peasant farmers to live in village "mirs,"—huddles of cabins gathered at central points, and go out daily, men, women, and babies, to the fields to work returning to the mirs at night.

There is no overwhelming evidence at hand that this sort of farming was either more productive or more profitable or easier than that done by farmers in other lands, living on their own farms in isolated farm-houses. In fact, Russian farming was generally regarded as being a rather poor sort, from whatever standpoint viewed.

This latest "reform" proposal, seems to pattern after the Russian mir,—all except that the mir isn't to be a huddle of hovels but an "apartment house" and everybody is to eat dinner at the same time to the strains of "orchestral music." Naturally the apartment-house would have hot and cold running water, and electric lights, and a telephone and radio in every room, and a barber service with sixty barbers too few at 5:45 p. m. and one barber too many all the rest of the day. That "orchestra music," too, would have to be an improvement of "The Songs of the Steppers' in order fully to carry out the idea.

What I chiefly want to know is whether the proposed apartment house would have an attic for every apartment to stow Christmas gifts away in, and a cellar to hold a barrel of apples and a dozen bottles of 'home brew' or a keg of certified cider?

If not, I'm seriously afraid it would lack compelling appeal to a lot of old hayseeds who have grown accustomed to having their own way and to

But don't lets dismiss it too

But don't let's dismiss it too brusquely. There's the young and "emancipated" generation coming or Lord only knows what they may want!

THE FARMER.

GOSHEN

"Be of Good Cheer," was the subject of the sermon Sunday morning. To one who has a living faith and is willing to do his part there is no real cause for discouragement and if such a person fails once he will try again for success. The C. E. meeting was led by Miss Clara Gillette, while others had assigned parts. Mary Vannish led in responsive reading. Alice Faulkner gave her favorite Bible verses, Mary Kostowich gave the story of the book of Ruth, and others had individual parts.

Mr. and Mrs J. A. Randall were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hyde in Lisbon.

Mrs. Sophie Gorski Mallocks of Brooklyn, N. Y., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gorski.

Miss Laura McCall and Miss Annie Gillette attended the D. A. R. meeting in Lebanon Monday.

Mrs. E. W. Jones and the Misses Gillette attended the League of Women Voters meeting held at Lyman Memorial high school, Lebanon, Tuesday and listened to the interesting address by Franklin Pierce, director of Secondary Education in Connecticut.

The beauty of the February moonlight evenings have been greatly enjoyed, when it was almost light enough to read a newspaper out of doors. This month years ago used to be noted for fine sleighing.

The principle winter birds noted about the farm are the jays and chickadees. The wood pewee was heard February 12th which is much earlier than usual for this spring songster.

The C. E. society held a business meeting and social at the church Friday evening.

"Ye Auld Tyme Fiddlers' club" of eastern Connecticut and Rhode Island is soon to meet again for a social time and to hear each other play the Auld Tyme selections.

LEBANON

A play, "Plain People," was given in grange hall Friday evening before a large and appreciative audience. Every part was well cast, each one acting with ability. The sum of $45 was added to the grange treasury. The play is to be repeated at Westchester. The characters were: Ezra Bromley, storekeeper, Christie Foster; Almira Bromley, his wife, Mrs. Eva Foster; Martin Jasper Bromley, college man Abraham Aspinwall; Liza Lis Hankins, brat, Mrs. Flora Williams; Judge Jetham Marley, a Christian, Arthur Bruce; Melissy Watkins, elderly maiden, Mrs. Hattie Taylor; Jonas Jarrock, farmer, Edward McCall, Jr.; Belindy Jarrock, seamstress, Mrs. Elsie Bruce; Hiram Curtis Peck, salesman, William Thomas; April Blossom, help, Mrs. Cora Aspinwall.

Several 4-H clubs have been organized in town. The leaders of the girls' clubs are Mrs. Everett Hewitt and Mrs. A. C. Hoxie; the boys' leaders are R. V. Taylor and S. L. Pitcher.

The League of Woman Voters held its meeting in the auditorium of the L. M. high school Wednesday and Mr Pierce of Hartford was the speaker.

Lebanon grange, No. 21, held its meeting in grange hall Thursday evening.

A meeting of the Farm bureau was held in the club room Friday. Miss Ruth T. Russell of Norwich gave instructions in re-seating chairs. At noon a variety dinner was served to the fifteen present.

An all-day meeting of the Mission circle was held in the chapel of the Baptist church Tuesday with a large attendance. Dinner was served at noon. After dinner a business meeting was held. The work was on aprons and sewing rags for rugs.

Rev. A. G. Littlefield took as his text Sunday from 1 Cor. 15:10, preaching a very interesting sermon.

Mrs. Sweet of Hartford is visiting her daughter, Mrs. K. F. Bishop.

Mr. and Mrs. Verson Boothby, of Woodmont, spent the week end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Boothby.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Foster spent Wednesday with Mr. Foster's mother Mrs. Ella Foster in Hartford.

A meeting was held in the auditorium of L. M. high school Tuesday evening with Mr. Robertson school supervisor, present. A parent-teachers' association was founded with the following officers: Mrs. C. H. Foster, president; Mrs. C. S. Williams, vice president; Miss Vilda Himmelstein secretary; Mrs. Rodney Hewitt, treasurer; Mrs. F. W. Taylor, chairman of program committee; Mrs. Elisha Waterman, chairman of financial committee; Mrs. George Hoxie, Jr., chairman of membership committee; Mrs. C. S. Goodwin, chairman of press committee; Mrs. Jacob Leglar, chairman of social committee. The next meeting will be held in L. M. high school March 11.

Laverne Pulty has accepted a position in drafting at Worcester, Mass.

Mrs. David Pitcher has returned, after spending two weeks in New York called there by the death of her aunt Mrs. Mary Brown is in Providence, with her sister, Mrs. Irones, whose husband died last week. Mr. and Mrs Irones own a summer home in Lebanon.

STAFFORD

Mrs. Ralph Sawin and son, David, of New York, returned to their home Monday after being guests of Rev. and Mrs. Edward E. Eno.

A good number attended the entertainment given Friday evening by the Spirit of Stafford to the Spirit of St Louis. The entertainment and music were much appreciated by all. A reading and solo given by Mrs. Sawin added much to the enjoyment. Refreshments were served after the entertainment.

Rev. and Mrs. Edward E. Eno called on relatives in Springfield Monday.

Since the low temperature many have been adding to their fuel supply.

Many have had hard colds but are recovering.

BOLTON

Mrs. Ellen Clark Brownell's Death

Mrs. Ellen Clark Brownell, 84, died at her home in Bolton at two o'clock Sunday after several months' illness. She was the widow of Rev. Edgar A. Brownell, formerly of Mundale, Mass. Mrs. Brownell was an active member of South Park Methodist church, Hartford, and a leader of the Circle of King's Daughters. She leaves two daughters, Miss Laura S. Brownell and Miss Mary H. Brownell; two sons, Edgar C. and Amos C.; one grandson Marvin C. Brownell, all of Bolton; one sister, Mrs. Lucy R. Franklin, and one brother, Albert Clark of South Coventry. The funeral was held Tuesday at two o'clock at the Quarryville Methodist church in Bolton. Rev. Harold H. Clemens of the South Park Methodist church, Hartford, officiated and burial was in Quarryville cemetery.

Mr. Claude Jones of Hebron was calling Sunday on his sister, Miss Elsie M. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie S. Bolton of Hartford, called in town Sunday.

Mrs. Myrtle Hart and Mrs. Howard of Cromwell and Miss Eva Jones of Hartford, were visiting their brother, R. K. Jones, Sunday.

Supervisor L. T. Garrison visited schools in town this week.

Mr. Carlton Jones of Hebron was visiting his daughter, Mrs. Elsie M. Jones, Tuesday.

The names of Misses Mildred and Nina Wolf appear on the B honor roll for the third marking period at Manchester high school.

Engage Stonington Teacher

The school committee meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles F. Sumner, voted to engage Miss Amelia Palmer of Stonington to finish the school year at Birch Mountain school. The school committee meets the second Tuesday of every second month.

UNION

Miss Helen Hutchins, teacher of Red school, accompanied by Miss Della M. Heck, was in Danielson Saturday. In the evening they attended the entertainment held at Woodstock Academy where the play, "After You I'm Next," was presented by Supervisor Calvin Stanley, the school nurse Miss Marguerite Miel, and the teachers of Woodstock schools. The play included twelve characters. Mr. Stanley was the leading man and Miss Miel was the colored butler. Another of the cast, well known here, was Mrs. A. N. Hammond of Woodstock valley.

Mrs. Ella Bradway, who has spent several weeks with her son and his family in Brookline, Mass., has returned to her home at Rock Meadow. Her daughter, Miss Mary Bradway, a nurse in a New York city hospital met her mother in Brookline on Lincoln day and accompanied her home. Miss Bradway returned to New York this week.

Monday morning, February 17, was the coldest of the winter here, to date—18 degrees below was the lowest reported. The snow of Saturday night, Feb. 15, was not at all serious. It did not start here as early Saturday as it did nearer the coast. Sunday was a rough, cold day and no service was held at the Center.

Mrs. Charles R. Webster celebrated her seventy-fifth birthday Saturday, Feb. 15. She was surprised by a visit from her sister, Miss Delia Blodgett, of Holland, Mass., and her niece, Mrs. Rupert Warrington, and family of Sturbridge, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Warrington formerly resided in Holland, Mass. The youngest of their three children, Ralph Warrington, came to celebrate his fifth birthday with his great-aunt, Mrs. Webster.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP)—Another advance by Liberties and Treasuries gave a more cheerful tone to the bond list today. Firmer tendencies were evident in the remainder of the market, although net changes proved to be mixed. Time money remained firm.

Convertibles afforded the widest moves of the day, turning downward in sympathy with the weakness of stocks. American Telephone 4 1-2s lost 4 1-4 points net, while Atchison 4 1-2s and International Telephone 4 1-2s each declined 2. American International 5 1-2s, American I. G. Chemical 5 1-2s, the Alleghany 5s and Texas Corp. 5s eased, with declines in the minor fractions.

Prime rails displayed considerable resistance in a generally thin market. New York Central issues were especially active, making a general upward turn in response to persistent accumulation. Rock Island Refunding 4s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4 1-2s, Northern Pacific prior lien 4s, Baltimore & Ohio 5s, Canadian National 5s, Wabash "B" 5s and St. Louis Southwestern 4 1-2s were other active carriers making slightly higher ground.

The remainder of the list dragged. There were transactions of fair size in Chile Copper 5s, Goodyear 5s, International Telephone 5s, Duquesne Light 4 1-2s, Lehigh Coal & Navigation 4 1-2s, Lorillard 5s and a few other issues, several of which slipped off as much as half a point in the absence of much support.

The Fourth Liberty Loan continued its recent activity in the government section, moving up 3-32 of a point, but the Treasury 3 3-4s displayed the best strength with an advance of 3-8. Only the Treasury 3 3-8s of 1943-47 failed to show a net advance for the session and these were down 1-32.

Trading in foreign bonds was generally in larger volume and prices tended higher. Buenos Aires 6s, Canada 5s, Antioquia 7s, Italian Public Utility 7s, Kingdom of Italy 7s, German Agricultural Bank 6s, Austrian 7s and Brazilian issues were leaders in the small advance. French bonds were firm.

An oversubscription was reported on the $16,000,000 issue of Pacific Northwest Public Service company 6 per cent 20-year convertible debentures. This company was recently organized as an operating subsidiary of Central Public Service corporation to supercede the Portland Electric Power company and to acquire the Seattle Lighting company. The bonds were priced at 99 1-2.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

JONES LEADS FIELD IN SAVANNAH OPEN WITH CARD SEVEN UNDER PAR

(By [illegible], Associated Press Sports Writer)

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 20—(AP)—Blazing a par-shattering trail in his first tournament of the year, Bobby Jones of Atlanta, national open champion, shot a 67 here today to lead the field of ninety starters at the end of the first round of the 72 hole $5,000 open golf tournament. Jones' mark was seven under standard figures.

The Atlanta lawyer-golfer thrilled a gallery of several hundred as he stroked his way around the outward nine in 32, five under par and came back in 35, collecting nine birdies on the round.

Bobby's drives were long and straight and his approach shots were accurate, but his putting was not up to the usual Jones' standard. "Calamity Jane," known throughout the golfing world as Jones' putter, needed three strokes on one green before the ball could find the cup.

A single stroke behind the leader were Emmett French of Southern Pines, N. C., and Jeff Adams, a canny Scotch professional at the local club.

Cards of 69 placed Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N. Y.; Clem Weichman, of Portsmouth, Ohio, and Fairley Clark, Savannah professional, in a tie for fourth place.

"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn of Pensacola, Fla., who scored an ace on the third hole of the outward journey, finished the round in seventh place with a 70. His hole in one allowed him to finish the first nine in 33, but par figures of 37 was the best he could do on the home nine.

Horton Smith, the links wizard from Detroit, Mich., formerly of Joplin, Mo., shot 35-36—71. Bracketed with him at 71 were Mike Heany of Potsdam, N. Y., Joe Turnesa of New York, Ernest Ryall of Augusta, Mike Turnesa of New York and Al Espinosa, veteran from Chicago.

Ryall, a comparative unknown, furnished the main excitement of the outward nine, when he posted a card of 31 and broke the course record. However the young Augusta shot maker blew up on the home nine shooting a 40 for a round of 71.

Johnny Farrell, of St. Augustine, former national open king and winner of the Pensacola open last week, headed five other professionals who were clustered at 72. Ed Dudley, whose home is in Savannah but who registers from Wilmington, Del., Herman Barron of Port Chester, N. Y., Ed Schults of Troy, N. Y., and Charles Gray of Augusta, all turned in cards of 72.

Ten exponents of golf for cash including Whiffy Cox, of Brooklyn, N. Y., Light Horse Harry Cooper, who is playing unattached and August Nordone, of Schenectady, N. Y., were together with 73's, while Ed Stokes of Denver and Arthur Gusa of Narragansett Pier, R. I., had par 74's.

Here's how Bobby shot the low score of the day.

Par out:—445 444 545—37
Jones, out:—433 433 435—32
Par in:—435 434 554—37—74

JOHNSON IS FAVORITE TO WIN OVER LATZO

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP)—A moderate number of the fight faithful are planning on a brief trip to Madison Square Garden tomorrow night for the feature ten round bout between Larry Johnson, Chicago Negro, and Pete Latzo, former welterweight champion whose penchant for thick steaks has made him a light heavyweight.

In three previous appearances in the big battle pit, Johnson has not detailed the customers long. A tremendous right hand puncher, the finely modeled Negro knocked out Leo Mitchell, one of Jack Kearn's gladiators, in two rounds; belted out Joe Sekyra, the Dayton blonde, in a fraction of a round; and finished Freddy Lenhart, of Spokane, Wash., in six. Larry is a stablemate of another husky puncher, Tuffy Griffiths.

Critics who never have questioned Latzo's gameness are doubtful of Pete's good judgment in tackling such a husky hitter so early in a comeback campaign that follow a long layoff due to a broken jaw. Jimmy Braddock, another right hand socker, fractured Pete's jaw with one swipe over a year ago. Since the bones mended, Latzo has boxed only twice, winning once and losing one decision.

As an added incentive to the battlers, the winner will oppose Maxey Rosenbloom in the Garden March 10. Busy Maxey must win that match or forfeit his right to tackle Jimmy Slattery, recognized here as light heavyweight champion, in a 15 round title test in Buffalo April 7.

Punchers fill out the remainder of the card in two ten round bouts. Doc Conrad, young Newark middleweight who recently battered Harry Ebbets, meets Gage McCorgary, of Oklahoma, in the semi-final and Bucky Lawless, of Syracuse, tangles with Vince Dundee, of the Baltimore Dundees, in the opening ten.

DEFENDING CHAMP IS ELIMINATED IN TOURNEY

BOSTON, Feb. 20—(AP)—Huntington D. Sheldon, of New York, the defending champion in the national racquets title tournament, today was eliminated by Stanley G. Mortimer, of Tuxedo, N. Y., in a thrilling five game quarter finals match by scores of 15-10, 15-5, 6-15, 10-15, 16-14.

The 1929 title holder, though 15 years younger than his opponent who has held the title three times, was run ragged during the long match.

Hewitt Morgan, New York, the national court tennis titlist, overcame Lord Aberdare by scores of 11-15, 17-14, 15-4, 16-18, and 15-13. Duncan Cambridge, youngest member of the British team, was defeated by the veteran, Clarence C. Pell, New York, nine times winner of the American racquets championship by scores of 15-9, 15-2, and 15-10.

Peter Kemp-Welch was the only British player to gain the second last round. He beat Charles Coulter, of New York, by scores of 14-18, 15-10, 15-11, and 15-5.

SKI TOURNEY TO OPEN AT PLACID TODAY

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 20—(AP)—National champions are among the 19 ski runners and the 36 jumpers here for the opening tomorrow of Lake Placid club's tenth annual three-day ski tournament.

The four Satre brothers, who have kept the national cross-country ski championship in the family since they came to America from Norway; Casey Ottesen, national central and eastern ski jumping champion, and Rolf Monsen and Charlie Proctor of the 1928 United States Olympic team, are among the entries.

The tournament will open tomorrow with an 18 kilometer cross-country race. Saturday the Dunn trophy for jumpers will be competed for.

The prized Beck trophy, for combined points in both racing and jumping, will be battled for among others by Monsen Magnus Satre, Sander of Dartmouth; Vennesland of Bluehills; Aasen of Lake Placid; Pabst of Wisconsin; Brabrander of Montreal; Setinhauser of Germany; Tury of New York, and Lindley of Wisconsin.

The final event of the meet Monday will be a 50-kilometer ski race, the longest event of this kind run in America. The Sentinel mountains must be crossed in this race, which winds over every sort of terrain.

PHIL SCOTT SHOWS WARES BEFORE FLORIDA'S ELITE

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20—(AP)—Society in the ultra-exclusive Oasis club of Palm Beach took to the ballyhoo for the Scott-Sharkey fight today in a very big way.

The folks of wealth and fashion, smartly gowned society women and bankers, magnates and politicians, sat in the arbored recesses of the club's patio while Phil Scott, the British heavyweight champion, and Tommy Loughran, the former American light heavyweight titleholder, contributed their part to an elaborate fistic program in a ring pitched beneath a grove of royal palms.

It was quite the swankiest affair that professional pugilism has had anything to do with in many a moon; the first time that the boys who have their records in the boxing guide have enjoyed the sensation of doing their stuff for the exclusive benefit of the people whose names fill the social register.

Invitation to the "boxing tea" was by invitation only. Flunkies in livery that might have done credit to a troop of grenadier guards barred the way to would-be "gate crashers."

There were more than 400 guests for the occasion exclusive of the curious who climbed palm trees to view the proceedings from the outside.

Loughran, Philadelphia adonis, taken up by the social set in his training for a part in the fight show at Miami February 27, started the activities with a brisk sparring session but the ceremony was made of Scott's part in the program.

Pale and lanky Phil was introduced with a flourish as a "great champion" by Sir Oliver Duncan, British oil man. In a workout of seven rounds against four sparring partners, including Jack Demave, Jack Renault, Billy Middlekauff and Charley Hahn, the Britisher was scanned with expert eyes by the society folk.

At the ringside was Edward F. Hutton; New York broker, who maintains a "stable" of boxers in Palm Beach on a philanthropic basis; James H. R. Cromwell, who boxes regularly and will take on Tommy Loughran, in an exhibition Saturday; John J. Raskob and Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City; Mrs. Irving Hall Chase and Miss Marjorie Oelrichs; Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen of New York and Father Francis P. Duffy, Mrs. Jules Mastbaum and Mrs. Charles A. Amory.

Scott was cordially received by this critical gathering, possibly because the folks felt this was the chance to do something in a social way for the Briton and for their friends on the directorate of the Madison Square Garden corporation, led by Big Bill Carey, Frank J. Bruen, Matt Z. Rush, James I. Bush, Walter Chrysler and others who mix boxing with society and business.

"It was all very interesting you know," as a debutante remarked, lorgnette poised, but Scott's fistic performance aroused no manifestation of enthusiasm. Phil did a lot of left jabbing but these people like their solid wallops on the chin and knockouts. They became much more aroused by the furious pace of several real fights that interspersed the program.

Led by Scott and his staff, the Miami expeditionary forces moved to the Oasis club in a body for the day, leaving such rough and rugged members of the fistic cast as Jack Sharkey, Victorio Campolo, Johnny Risko to work in comparative seclusion or take a day off and rest. Sharkey close the latter course.

FOUR WOMEN GOLFERS ACCEPT GLENNA'S INVITATION

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP)—Four of the leading women golfers of the United States have accepted the invitations of Glenna Collett to accompany her on an invasion of Great Britain this summer for the first women's international team match in history, she announced today. Miss Collett recently announced her plans for the formation of the team, of which she will be captain.

The four tentative acceptances have come from Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., finalists in the national women's championships in 1927, Helen Hicks of Hewlett, N. Y., the young star who is Miss Orcutt's leading rival in the Metropolitan district, Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, Wis., and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, of Philadelphia, who won the British ladies title when she was a British subject as well as capturing the United States title three times.

Miss Molly Gourlay of Camberley Heath will captain the English team for the international competition. Details of the matches have not yet been decided, but Miss Collett said today that competition will be arranged for every American woman who makes the trip.

AGGIE VARSITY TRACK MEN RESUME TRAINING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Feb. 20.—Following the long winter layoff, candidates for the Connecticut Aggie varsity and freshman track teams have resumed training under the tutelage of Bobby Great, captain-elect of varsity track. Coach Paul Bitgood is still engaged in his training course at Springfield college and will not be able to undertake the coaching of the Connecticut track teams until later in the spring. Coach Bitgood was present at the first meeting of track candidates and mapped out a rigid program which is to be followed until his return to Storrs.

Track has assumed an important place in Aggie sports in the past few years, especially since the completion of the larger athletic field which allows of ample facilities for all track events. The team had a very successful season last year and because of the larger number of experienced candidates available it is expected that the present season will be equally satisfactory.

FORTY-FIVE CITIES IN DUCK PIN TOURNEY

WATERBURY, Feb. 20—(AP)—Forty-five cities, 19 more than last year, have already entered the national duck pin bowling congress, which will be held at Genlot's recreation alleys here March 11 to 25. Bowlers from as far south as Atlanta, Ga., and west to Pittsburgh, Pa., are already in the fold. Entries for the national event close February 22.

It has been many's year since I have seen a real, old fashioned snow-ball battle, but yesterday I witnessed a dandy.

The ultimate winner of the battle chanced to be a non-combatant and the spoils of war were a set of schoolbooks captured when the battle was at its height.

The battle was staged at the corner of Broadway and Slater avenue between two factions of school children, and was participated in by a hundred or so boys and girls of all ages.

Shell-torn fields of France could look no worse than the lawns in that neighborhood after the tides of battle had surged back and forth over them. They looked as though a herd of energetic and hungry hogs had been let loose on them.

At the height of the battle it was a wild and wooly scene, with well-packed snowballs hurtling hither and thither with not the least compunction for whose neck they nestled against.

Many is the black eye and the painful ear being carried around by participants in this hectic, but no less interesting, fracas. That is, interesting to those who watched and whose lawns were not being mangled. It was tragedy for the others.

The girls also played a very important part in the battle. While not actively engaged in the sharpshooting, they emulated the pioneer woman of old in providing ammunition for the male members of the band.

Here and there you would see a little miss busily engaged in gathering snow and making the balls for some husky male right arm. And to give added sting to the amunition these little misses were soaking the snowballs in water.

If you wish to experience a most unpleasant and shocking sensation you want to get hit in the back of the neck with one of these water-soaked snowballs. A clip on the ear with a baseball bat is just as pleasant.

The coup de maitre was executed by one of the women of the neighborhood where the battle was raging. This woman's lawn had been the battlefield for a good part of the fighting and she was highly indignant—and justly so.

One of the youthful warriors had been so indiscreet as to leave his school books on her lawn while he engaged in the conflict. When the battle was at its height this woman stealthily left her doorway and captured the books.

To say that it was a brilliant and courageous capture is putting it mildly, for this woman went right out with snowballs flying all around her to make the coup.

It was a very much chagrined youth who discovered that his books were gone. However, he could face a storm of snowballs, but his courage was not equal to facing an indignant woman.

If he has not already retreived his books I do not envy him the ordeal. And, what's more, I don't blame the woman in the least.

DO YOU REMEMBER THIS ONE?

(Another of a number of articles recalling local baseball of other years)

In answer to a request from a Jewett City fan, we are resurrecting one of the classics of the year 1919. This game was played Sunday, June 15, in the borough and saw the sensational St. Mary's nine, generally conceded as the best amateur team in Connecticut, surprise the fans of Eastern Connecticut with a 5 to 1 victory over the semi-pro Ashland team.

For that game, Freddy Reiger, a league pitcher, was imported to do the honors for Ashland only to be out-pitched by Spike Liberty of the Saints. St. Mary's averaged but 17 years of age and many well known figures in the Eastern Connecticut baseball world are seen in the lineup, including Joe Faber, two Libertys, Court Whitney, Academy football coach, while Ashland had Hal Chase, Eddie Murray, Brickley and LeClaire, among others, the latter three well known ex-Academy players. Cyr, of St. Mary's, was the star of this game, getting two two-baggers and a triple out of four trips to the plate.

Hull-Indrisiano Bout Signed

BOSTON, Feb. 20—(AP)—A welterweight bout between Johnny Indrisiano, of Boston, and Clyde Hull, Fort Worth, Tex., was announced today as the substitute for the Al Friedman-Tuffy Griffiths heavyweight clash that was scheduled for the Boston Garden on February 28. Matchmaker Alec MacLean said he was forced to postpone his original bout until March 7, when Friedman requested an extra week for training.

Skating Championships Postponed

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Feb. 20—(AP)—The national amateur speed skating championships here, scheduled for Friday and Saturday, tonight were postponed until Saturday and Sunday as a result of a spring-like thaw. A warm sun softened the ice to an extent demanding postponement.

PLENTY OF ACTION PROMISED FANS AT DANIELSON BOXING SHOW TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 20.—There's going to be some scrapping at the Town hall here Friday night! It does seem that every mother's son that is going in there to battle with some other Knight of the Mitts has the outspoken ambition to knock his opponent spinning. That's a promise of action that has had the fans picking out reservations to watch the card all through the week.

Take that Bill Carney person, of New Bedford, for instance. Carney has a decision, by a very close margin, over Dynamite Louis Brouillard, a home town boy that he is going to face in the star bout here tomorrow night. Danielson fans are just standing right up on their hind legs and asserting that Carney can't beat Brouillard in the session they will have here Friday night. Dynamite Lou has learned a lot of ring technique since Carney got that decision over him, and the going is going to be much tougher for the New Bedford boy this week end.

Local fans also are rooting hard for Rene Peloquin, another Danielson boy, to beat Buster Ellis, of New Bedford. Here is the boxer-fighter combination, an arrangement assuring plenty of thrills and fast work. These boys, at 128 pounds, are slated to go six rounds.

Al Brouillard, brother of Dynamite Lou, will make his professional debut. He is matched against Young Kulas of Jewett City in a four-round preliminary at 145 pounds. Both boys have done well in the amateur engagements, and each is set to make a good showing in the affair here Friday night.

In other bouts Vic Darr of Norwich will have it out with Ero Peterson, of Providence, this being the semi-final, eight rounds at 140 pounds. For good measure, Promoter Louis Peloquin also will offer a bout between Benny Novak of New London and Curley Reta of Norwich. It should be a night, fans!

SHAMROCKS SWAMP LEBANON TOWN TEAM, 55 TO 10

The Colchester Shamrocks basketball team defeated the Lebanon town team in an easy game in New Park hall, Wednesday evening 55-10. The Shamrocks were playing in top form and held a decisive lead throughout the entire game. Gyome starred for Colchester with 18 points, while Abell was the best for Lebanon with six points. SEPPALA SHOWS WAY TO FIELD OF FOURTEEN

QUEBEC, Que., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Leonhard Seppala, grizzled veteran from Nome, Alaska, showed the way to the younger mushers in a field of 14 today by winning the first 40-mile lap of the eighth annual International Dog Derby.

Seppala, veteran of the trails, toured the course in the elapsed time of three hours, 52 minutes, four seconds, giving him a lead of slightly less than five minutes over Emil St. Goddard, of The Pas, Man., youngest of the mushers, who finished second. H. Chevrette, of Quebec, was about the same distance back in third place.

The remaining finishers and their times:

Emil St. Goddard, The Pas—3:57:02.
H. Chevrette, Quebec—4:01:25.
F. Dupuis, Quebec—4:15:10.
G. Girard, Quebec—4:18:53.

KELLY KAYOES WAGGENER IN FOURTH ROUND

WATERBURY, Feb. 20—(AP)—Jack Kelly, 172 1-2, of this city, one of New England's leading light heavyweights, knocked out Wilson Waggener, Kansas City, 168 1-2, in the fourth round of a scheduled eight round main bout of the Waterbury A. C. conducted at Buckingham hall here tonight. Waggener hit the canvas for counts five times before the climax. Results of other bouts:

Willie Bush, Waterbury, 160 3-4, knocked out Humberto Curi, Argentine, 160 1-2, in the first round of a scheduled eight round semi-final.

Lucien Lerrivee, Waterbury, 165 1-2, six round decision over Eddie Decker, 164, Pittsfield.

Bennie Frankel, New York, 130 1-4, six round decision over Johnny Andrews, New Haven, 134 1-2.

Kid Hershey, Waterbury, 160, scored a technical knockout over Russell Murray, Bridgeport, 133 1-4, in the third round of a scheduled four-round bout.

Y SENIORS TO PLAY AT WESTPORT TONIGHT

The Y Seniors will open a busy week end programme this evening when they go to Westport to play Westport Y in a state league game. Tomorrow night they are at home for Washington's birthday and meet Ansonia Y in another league clash. In the preliminary to the latter game the Norwich Girls will meet Rockville high sextet.

The Seniors nosed out a 26 to 27 victory over Westport in the game on the local floor earlier in the season, leading at half time by 15 to 9 and then being almost overhauled in the last few minutes of play. Roland Harris, the local captain, was the big gun of the game, scoring 13 points.

AMERICANS BATTLE TO TIE SCORE WITH MAROONS

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP)—The light but speedy New York Americans battled their way to a 3-3 tie with the heavy Montreal Maroons tonight in an overtime game between the first and last place teams of the National Hockey league's international group. Despite warm weather and soft ice, the contest was fairly fast and frequently rough.

The Americans kept the score even all the way through, although they barely held off the powerful Maroon attack toward the end of the third period and all through the overtime session. It was close to the 15-minute mark of the third frame when Nels Stewart pushed in the goal that gave the Maroons a tie.

The game was featured by the return of Clint Benedict, Maroon goalie, who has been out of action a month with a broken nose, and the playing of Dave Trottier and Norman Himes. Trottier scored twice for the Maroons in the first period but Himes kept it even, figuring in all three American counters.

SHIRES FINDS SOMEONE WHO DOESN'T KNOW HIM

WAXAHATCHIE, Tex., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Although Art Shires has not yet said whether the contract offered him was satisfactory, there is proof, that the first baseman has been in touch with the Chicago White Sox office by telephone—abundant proof.

Yesterday he placed a call and was connected with the Chicago operator.

"This is Shires and I want to speak to the White Sox office," said the modest first baseman.

"Who?" asked the operator.

"Shires," this time a trifle impatiently.

"Who's Shires?" the operator wanted to know.

"Who's Calvin Coolidge " shot back the impetuous Art.

SIMPSON IS BEATEN BY MILLER IN SPRINTS

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The defeat of George Simpson of Ohio State, and another flashing triumph for Stella Walsh, spectacular Cleveland miss, furnished the high spots of the Canadian indoor track and field championships here tonight.

Simpson, after winning his preliminary and semi-final heats in the 60-meter sprint, bowed to the flashing speed of Leigh Miller of Toronto, recent conqueror of Jack Elder, in the finals. Johnny Fitzpatrick, who finished second to Miller when the latter beat Elder, was third tonight.

Miss Walsh came through a preliminary heat and the finals of the 60-meter sprint with flying colors, beating the famous Canadian star, Myrtle Cook of Montreal, in the finals in 7 5-10 seconds. Florence Bell of Toronto was third.

Phil Edwards, New York university Negro now competing for the Hamilton Olympic club, won the 600-yard run; the high jump went to Harold Osborn of the Illinois A. C.; the pole vault to Vic Pickard, former University of Pittsburgh athlete, and the 1,000-meter event to Dr. Paul Martin of Switzerland.

GAGNON WINS CLOSE MATCH FROM BENSON

"Lewiston Joe" Gagnon, world's foremost trick shot artist, was hard pressed last night to win the first block of a 250-point pocket billiard match from Al Benson 125 to 109. Benson gave the expert plenty of anxious minutes during the game and his three cushion bank shots was the feature of the evening's play. Benson had a high run of 24, while Gagnon's high run was 30. The second block of the match will be played this evening, when it is expected that a large number will see the match.

WHIRLWINDS WIN FROM NIGHTHAWKS IN POOL

In one of the best played games in the pocket-billiard tournament being conducted at the Recreation Billiard parlors being sponsored by the Brunswick-Balk-Callender Co., the Boston Whirlwinds, captained by the "Waldorf Kind," defeated the Nighthawks, captained by Jack Snyder, by the score of 100 to 42 last night.

The highlights of the game were the playing and advising of the "Waldorf Kid," and his superior playing, getting high runs of 14 several times.

The winners were: Capt. "Waldorf Kid," N. Leary and O. Hertz; the losers: Capt. J. Snyder, G. Moore and W. Smitty.

A league game is played every evening.

SPEED SKATERS GATHER FOR AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIPS

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Feb. 20—(AP)—Speed kings from every part of the country were gathering here tonight in preparation for the national amateur speed skating championships to be held here tomorrow and Saturday, foremost among those who have arrived already is Jack Shea, of Lake Placid, youthful holder of three outdoor speed skating championships—the North American amateur, the eastern United States and the Adirondacks.

Shea will have some close competition from Irving Jaffee of New York city.

OLYMPICS SET NEW HOCKEY SCORING RECORD

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 20—(AP)—The Detroit Olympics set a new team scoring record for International League hockey in their game with the Niagara Falls Cataracts here tonight, the Detroit team scoring 11 goals, six of them in the first period. The Niagara team was able to score only one goal.

Four major penalties were called during the game for fighting.

LINZI SCORES TECHNICAL KNOCKOUT OVER KOZIOL

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Ernie Mandell, Providence, and Johnny Gonzales, Mexico, junior lightweights, fought to an eight round draw here tonight. In the semi-final Al Linzi, Italian lightweight won on a technical knockout over Al Koziol, of Norwich, Conn., in the sixth round.

Shaaf and Christner Clash

BOSTON, Feb. 20—(AP)—K. O. Christner, of Akron, Ohio, and Ernie Schaff, of Boston clash in the Argonne A. A.'s ten round feature bout here tomorrow night. It will be a return meeting of these heavyweights. Christner handed Schaff a setback in their first clash here several months ago.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

Official-less basketball! That is the proposition advanced among several of the leading college fives of the country and which will be given a go in the first half of the Pittsburgh-Penn State clash Saturday night. The idea is to have the coaches call the fouls made by their team with a neutral individual to toss up the ball on jumps. Wonder how the local high schools would view this proposition. The general idea seems to be that officials in Eastern Connecticut are hurting the game considerably by adhering too closely to the fine points.

East Hartford high, which had a championship football team, has gone to the other extreme in basketball and has lost the first 15 games on its schedule.

Windham high is claiming the Eastern Connecticut scholastic court championship, although the league season is not yet over. Windham bases much of the claim on two victories over Chapman Tech.

Another month and all the rage in high school sportdom will be baseball.

MANSFIELD DEPOT

Tuesday noon a red biplane flew over here so low that the No. NC 8x847 was plainly seen on the left-wing.

Sunday was a cold, blistering day. The mercury dropped steadily all day, dropping four degrees between five a. m. and noon and six degrees between noon and nine p. m. Thursday morning the thermometer read 42 degrees above and Monday morning 10 degrees below.

The Sunday morning service was held as usual. The Sunday school service was held at the parsonage due to the cold and the evening services were omitted.

CONFLICT OF VIEWS OF BROADCASTING STATIONS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A conflict of views between broadcasting stations of New York city developed today, at a hearing before the federal radio commission on the application of station WMCA for permission to use the frequency of 600 kilocycles.

Counsel for WMCA introduced the affidavit of C. H. Caldwell, former radio commissioner, who declared the recent assignment of station WGBS to the 600 kilocycle channel indicated a trend toward the breaking down of the broadcasting structure built by the commission and apparently was brought about by political pressure.

Edgar H. Felix, radio engineer of New York, testified that the placing of WGBS on a channel only 80 kilocycles from channels occupied by other New York stations was a dangerous procedure because of the interference that would ensue.

INCREASE IN LOANS TO BROKERS AND DEALERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. — (AP) — Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York federal reserve member banks for the week ending February 19, were announced by the federal reserve board today at $3,494,000,000 representing an increase of $44,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

TRUCKS PUSH AUTOMOTIVE EXPORTS TO NEW RECORD

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The trucks mechanical beast of burden, boosted 1929 automotive exports to a new record despite a decline in passenger car shipments.

Exports of automotive products amounted to $[illegible],535,995. Total truck shipments exceeded 1928 figures by 41.8 per cent in number and [illegible] per cent in value, according to the department of commerce.

While passenger car shipments were off 7.8 per cent in number and 11.1 per cent in value, the greatest decline was in the "up to $1,000" class.

Canada, Argentina, and Australia continued to be chief markets for passenger cars and Australia, Argentina, and Brazil again occupied leading positions as purchasers of trucks.

Increased exports were slightly balanced by increased automotive imports, which totaled $3,441,743.

'DUMB' QUESTIONS PUZZLE AVIATORS

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)— Questions comparable to those asked of early day automobile mechanics are directed at airplane pilots nowadays.

A male passenger on a south-bound passenger transport here pointed to the pronged tufts of the air speed indicator, which project from the leading ledge of the wing, and asked, "Do all planes have lightning rods now?"

Then there was the lady over at who insisted on riding beside the pilot so he could "explain everything to her and point out sights of interest." She had once ridden over the Sierra Nevada mountains in a stage coach.

Henry P. Fletcher, former ambassador to Italy, a member of President Hoover's Haitian commission. He was a member of the 1928 Pan-American conference.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Starting tomorrow and for four days, Winnie Lightner will be back in Norwich. She hasn't been here since "Show of Shows" presented her "Singin' in the Bathtub," and before that her only visit was in "Gold Diggers of Broadway," where she scored a tremendous hit and kept audiences all over the country laughing ever since. Winnie is coming back in a new picture in which she is the chief and principal star, "She Couldn't Say No," a comedy that gives full rein to this girl's rollicking nature and voice.

Winnie Lightner and Chester Morris in "She Couldn't Say No" a Warner Bros. Production

What happens to a girl who can't say "No"? She gets into lots of trouble, you'll say, and you'll be pretty nearly right. Winnie in this picture plays the part of a vivacious and wisecracking night club singer who can't say "No." Already famous both on the vaudeville stage and on the screen, she is altogether delightful in this role. She is interesting and entertaining every moment she is on the screen, for in this role she is a girl who is wise in the ways of the world but just too big-hearted for words and heads and heels in love with a handsome young racketeer who does not return her affection.

Winnie shows herself to be one of those obliging souls who find themselves unable to refuse any request, but before the story is over she has occasion to wonder whether or not that is the best policy after all. The interpolation of numerous songs in a screen production usually signifies that the picture is light or very comic, but this unusual all-talking picture tells a highly dramatic love story, beginning in a cheap cafe and ending in a hospital room. But during the story, Miss Lightner, famous songstress of the stage and screen, is heard in many of her entertaining vocal efforts.

Chester Morris, who won national fame as the young gunman in "Alibi," plays the leading role opposite Miss Lightner. Mr. Morris, a brilliant young actor, recently entered the movies, and never since has he returned to the stage. Today for the last times the Palace presents another of its great double feature bills. It includes a weird melodrama of New York life entitled "In the Next Room," starring Jack Mulhall and Alice Day, and a musical romance, "Is Everybody Happy?" with Ted Lewis.

International Detective Service, Inc.

Having conducted an office in Providence for six years, the International Detective Service, Inc., have opened a local office in the Conner building at 48 Broadway. This detective service has had much experience and have a clientele of over two hundred accounts. They use in their work four trucks in Providence and one in Norwich. They have never had a hold-up and have among their clients some of the largest firms in eastern Connecticut.

Dr. Emma K. Dunham Installs Colonic Irrigation Equipment

All sufferers from sluggish liver, inactive bowels, intestinal obstructions, obstinate cases of neuritis, rheumatism and consequent ills, will welcome the news that Dr. Emma K. Dunham has had installed in her home office, the last word in colonic irrigation equipment. Here, in a luxurious home environment you can find relief from all the above ills and many more.

Colon therapy has proved to be one of the greatest aids in restoring health. It is known that 80 per cent of the adult population are troubled with colon infection. Laxatives, cathartics and purgatives are in use generally, and they irritate and inflame the mucous membranes of the intestines, giving only temporary relief. Physicians agree that high colonic irrigations are now rational, effective and safe, and it is this type of treatments that Dr. Dunham gives. It is the most efficient method of adding years to the span of life.

Real Estate Sold

Clarence Sholes, real estate agent, sold for Albert and Sadie Myers, 123 Hamilton avenue, their seven-room cottage, to William and Ruby Miller. After some improvements they will make it their home.

Broadway Theatre

Just three more showings today of that great double feature program at the Broadway, which includes Gary Cooper and Beryl Mercer in the most lovable story ever screened, "Seven Days Leave," and the Gleasons, Lucille and Jimmy, in their rollicking comedy, "The Shannons of Broadway," and then on Saturday, the long-awaited production of Ziegfeld's super-masterpiece of filmcraft, "Rio Rita," will flash upon the Broadway screen. Adjectives fail to convey the smallest idea of the massiveness, glamor and sheer beauty of this great film, which must be seen—and heard—to be appreciated. Suffice it to say that at the private screening or rehearsal which must precede the public showing of every talking picture, and which was held last night, the members of the Broadway house staff went wild over the production, which surpasses in cast, scenic effects, costumes, music, dancing and singing—and more especially in the perfection of the recording—any film which Norwich and neighboring folks have ever seen. Bebe Daniels, whose voice is proclaimed a "find" by critics, has the exacting role of Rio Rita, and John Boles, tenor sensation of "The Desert Song," is Jim Stewart, the Texas Ranger. Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, comedians in the original stage show which swamped New York for two solid seasons, repeat their success, and furnish unlimited comedy sequences. The remaining cast numbers over 1,000 singers, dancers, musicians, horsemen and others, amid scenic investiture bewildering in its beauty, including the famous Fremont, Texas, cabaret, the beautiful Ferguson ranch on the Rio Grande, a spacious and luxurious Mexican hacienda with its sumptuous garden, and a tremendous "pleasure barge," the Mexican version of the American showboat idea. Lavish use of glorious technicolor adds greatly to the beauty of the production, which was gorgeous enough before, but with the color scenes, is beyond description. The picture is so long that it has been necessary to make a special schedule of showings, full details of which will appear in the advertising columns of The Bulletin-Record tomorrow. It may be noted, however, that tomorrow's performance will start at 1 p. m., instead of the usual Saturday time of 1:30. Doors will be opened at 12:30 noon.

What Is Going On Tonight

The Jitney Players at Masonic temple.

Norwich lodge, No. 950, L. O. O. M., meets in Moose home.

EKONK

(STERLING HILL)

The daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Gallup has been named Althea Amy.

While thermometers vary widely in different homes, all will surely agree that we have had very cold weather.

Friday afternoon Mrs. Byron Gallup's children gave her a surprise visit to celebrate her 81st birthday. They brought six cakes and ice cream and two bouquets, one of pink rosebuds and one of carnations. Mrs. Gallup is appreciative of the kind care her children bestow upon her.

Ekonk grange, No. 89, met in grange hall Monday evening. Worthy Master Herman Frink presiding. Three candidates were elected to membership. After business the following program was presented by the worthy lecturer in observance of Washington and Lincoln birthdays: Song, Battle Hymn of the Republic; roll call responded to by each patron giving a Lincoln quotation; essay, Abraham Lincoln, Mrs. Otis Remington; recitation, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, Brother Fred Sayles; Patriotic quotations about Washington, chorus singing, Lincoln day, Washington's Christmas party, Mt. Vernon Bells; reading, 'Tis Splendid to Live so Grandly, Sister Lena Frink; song, Once More We Celebrate. At the next meeting the lecturer's hour will be open to the public. Windham County Agent Raymond E. Wing will speak on "Baby Chick Raising." Mr. Wing also wishes to meet all boys from 10 to 20, who are interested in forming a boys' 4-H club. Refreshments of cake and coffee were served.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lord and family of Mystic spent the week end at Willard Gardner's.

Mrs. Louis Ingalls of Danielson spent Tuesday with her parents, Miss Doris Tanner.

Mrs. Louis Ingalls of Danielson spent Tuesday with her parents.

Miss Doris Tanner has been ill the past week.

Mrs. Byron P. Young was a shopper in Norwich Saturday.

There was no church service here Sunday on account of the severity of the weather.

Mrs. Katherine Green Tunnell, graduate in the class of 1929 at Georgia State College for Women, has had a college career which extended over a period of twenty-five years. Entering the school in 1904 Mrs. Tunnell obtained her collegiate normal diploma in 1906. After her marriage to G. H. Tunnell she returned as librarian and took work for a B. S. degree

CENTRAL VILLAGE

Mr. and Mrs. John Swan of Athol, Mass., will spend the holiday and week end with Mrs. Swan's sister, Mrs. Frederick Brewster.

A photographer from Danielson was in town Wednesday and took about 70 pictures at the high school of the graduating class and groups, for the Mermaid, the yearly publication.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Reese have gone to their new home at 35 John street, Westerly, R. I., after a short visit with Mr. Reese's parents at the parsonage.

Harold Hatfield has been a visitor with relatives in Providence and Boston.

George R. Fowler of Providence, a former resident here, is visiting local friends today (Thursday).

Mrs. Hosea Geer of Plainfield has been the guest of Miss Minnie Bennett.

Mrs. Edith Hatfield has been the guest of Norwich friends.

Felix Wakeley has returned home from Providence, where he has been employed by the Cleveland Worcester company.

John Wakely is employed in Webster, Mass., nights for the American Woolen company.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Dean and daughter, Muriel, were in Norwich Thursday.

Thursday, with temperature about 70 degrees, the lads were playing marbles on the square, an unusual sight for the 20th of February.

Plainfield Dramatic club is planning to give the play, "Forest Acres," here for the benefit of the local church.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cutler have been in Providence.

WESTFORD

Mrs. Bassett of the Hill school is attending the science course which Dr. Neilson of New York is giving in Willimantic. These lectures afford an unusual opportunity to teachers of this locality for college work.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bicknell has returned from a short honeymoon trip to New York. Mrs. Bicknell was Mildred Chaffee of West Hartford.

Parents' day at the Hill school was enjoyed by all. The exercises were held downstairs in what is now the manual training room. Among the decorations was an exhibit of school work for January and February, including fancy boxes, embroidery and sewing and two panels painted by Ladislow Duhansky and Michael Ference, one "Evangeline" and the other the "Ship of the Mediterranean Cruise."

Books recently added to the Babcock library include: The Guarded Halo, Tomorrow's Tangle, Margaret Pedler; Jeanne's Happy Year, Alice Ross Culver; The Father, Katharine Brown; My Six Years with the Black Watch, John Gordon; Twenty Years on Broadway, George Cohan; Those Difficult Years, Faith Baldwin; The Hallowell Partnership, Katharine Brown; Heroes of All Time, Robert Stevenson; Charlotte Corday, Marie Cher; Jane Allen Right Guard, Edith Bancroft; The Talmadge Sisters, Margaret Talmadge; Rusty of the Tall Pines, Frances Sterrett; Twelve Tests of Character, Harry Fosdick; The White House Gang, Earle Looker; If Dreams Come True, Alice Colver; Oh, Shoot! ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Starting tomorrow and for four days, Winnie Lightner will be back in Norwich. She hasn't been here since "Show of Shows" presented her "Singin' in the Bathtub," and before that her only visit was in "Gold Diggers of Broadway," where she scored a tremendous hit and kept audiences all over the country laughing ever since. Winnie is coming back in a new picture in which she is the chief and principal star, "She Couldn't Say No," a comedy that gives full rein to this girl's rollicking nature and voice.

What happens to a girl who can't say "No"? She gets into lots of trouble, you'll say, and you'll be pretty nearly right. Winnie in this picture plays the part of a vivacious and wisecracking night club singer who can't say "No." Already famous both on the vaudeville stage and on the screen, she is altogether delightful in this role. She is interesting and entertaining every moment she is on the screen, for in this role she is a girl who is wise in the ways of the world but just too big-hearted for words and heads and heels in love with a handsome young racketeer who does not return her affection.

Winnie shows herself to be one of those obliging souls who find themselves unable to refuse any request, but before the story is over she has occasion to wonder whether or not that is the best policy after all. The interpolation of numerous songs in a screen production usually signifies that the picture is light or very comic, but this unusual all-talking picture tells a highly dramatic love story, beginning in a cheap cafe and ending in a hospital room. But during the story, Miss Lightner, famous songstress of the stage and screen, is heard in many of her entertaining vocal efforts.

Chester Morris, who won national fame as the young gunman in "Alibi," plays the leading role opposite Miss Lightner. Mr. Morris, a brilliant young actor, recently entered the movies, and never since has he returned to the stage. Today for the last times the Palace presents another of its great double feature bills. It includes a weird melodrama of New York life entitled "In the Next Room," starring Jack Mulhall and Alice Day, and a musical romance, "Is Everybody Happy?" with Ted Lewis.

International Detective Service, Inc.

Having conducted an office in Providence for six years, the International Detective Service, Inc., have opened a local office in the Connor building at 43 Broadway. This detective service has had much experience and have a clientele of over two hundred accounts. They use in their work four trucks in Providence and one in Norwich. They have never had a hold-up and have among their clients some of the largest firms in eastern Connecticut.

Dr. Emma K. Dunham Installs Colonic Irrigation Equipment

All sufferers from sluggish liver, inactive bowels, intestinal obstructions, obstinate cases of neuritis, rheumatism and consequent ills, will welcome the news that Dr. Emma K. Dunham has had installed in her home office, the last word in colonic irrigation equipment. Here, in a luxurious home environment you can find relief from all the above ills and many more.

Colon therapy has proved to be one of the greatest aids in restoring health. It is known that 90 per cent of the adult population are troubled with colon infection. Laxatives, cathartics and purgatives are in use generally, and they irritate and inflame the mucous membranes of the intestines, giving only temporary relief. Physicians agree that high colonic irrigations are now rational, effective and safe, and it is this type of treatments that Dr. Dunham gives. It is the most efficient method of adding years to the span of life.

Real Estate Sold

Clarence Sholes, real estate agent, sold for Albert and Sadie Myers, 123 Hamilton avenue, their seven-room cottage, to William and Ruby Miller. After some improvements they will make it their home.

Broadway Theatre

Just three more showings today of that great double feature program at the Broadway, which includes Gary Cooper and Beryl Mercer in the most lovable story ever screened, "Seven Days Leave," and the Gleasons, Lucille and Jimmy, in their rollicking comedy, "The Shannons of Broadway," and then on Saturday, the long-awaited production of Ziegfeld's super-masterpiece of filmcraft, "Rio Rita," will flash upon the Broadway screen. Adjectives fail to convey the smallest idea of the massiveness, glamor and sheer beauty of this great film, which must be seen—and heard—to be appreciated. Suffice it to say that at the private screening or rehearsal which must precede the public showing of every talking picture, and which was held last night, the members of the Broadway house staff went wild over the production, which surpasses in cast, scenic effects, costumes, music, dancing and singing—and more especially in the perfection of the recording—any film which Norwich and neighboring folks have ever seen. Bebe Daniels, whose voice is proclaimed a "find" by critics, has the exacting role of Rio Rita, and John Boles, tenor sensation of "The Desert Song," is Jim Stewart, the Texas Ranger. Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, comedians in the original stage show which swamped New York for two solid seasons, repeat their success, and furnish unlimited comedy sequences. The remaining cast numbers over 1,000 singers, dancers, musicians, horsemen and others, amid scenic investiture bewildering in its beauty, including the famous Fremont, Texas, cabaret, the beautiful Ferguson ranch on the Rio Grande, a spacious and luxurious Mexican hacienda with its sumptuous garden, and a tremendous "pleasure barge," the Mexican version of the American showboat idea. Lavish use of glorious technicolor adds greatly to the beauty of the production, which was gorgeous enough before, but with the color scenes, is beyond description. The picture is so long that it has been necessary to make a special schedule of showings, full details of which will appear in the advertising columns of The Bulletin-Record tomorrow. It may be noted, however, that tomorrow's performance will start at 1 p. m., instead of the usual Saturday time of 1:30. Doors will be opened at 12:30 noon.

EKONK

(STERLING HILL)

The daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Gallup has been named Althea Amy.

While thermometers vary widely in different homes, all will surely agree that we have had very cold weather.

Friday afternoon Mrs. Byron Gallup's children gave her a surprise visit to celebrate her 81st birthday. They brought six cakes and ice cream and two bouquets, one of pink rosebuds and one of carnations. Mrs. Gallup is appreciative of the kind care her children bestow upon her.

Ekonk grange, No. 88, met in grange hall Monday evening. Worthy Master Herman Frink presiding. Three candidates were elected to membership. After business the following program was presented by the worthy lecturer in observance of Washington and Lincoln birthdays: Song, Battle Hymn of the Republic; roll call responded to by each patron giving a Lincoln quotation; essay, Abraham Lincoln, Mrs. Otis Remington; recitation, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, Brother Fred Sayles; Patriotic quotations about Washington, chorus singing, Lincoln day, Washington's Christmas party, Mt. Vernon Bells; reading, 'Tis Splendid to Live so Grandly, Sister Lena Frink; song, Once More We Celebrate. At the next meeting the lecturer's hour will be open to the public. Windham County Agent Raymond E. Wing will speak on "Baby Chick Raising." Mr. Wing also wishes to meet all boys from 10 to 20, who are interested in forming a boys' 4-H club. Refreshments of cake and coffee were served.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lord and family of Mystic spent the week end at Willard Gardner's.

Mrs. Louis Ingalls of Danielson spent Tuesday with her parents, Miss Doris Tanner.

Mrs. Louis Ingalls of Danielson spent Tuesday with her parents.

Miss Doris Tanner has been ill the past week.

Mrs. Byron P. Young was a shopper in Norwich Saturday.

There was no church service here Sunday on account of the severity of the weather.

Mrs. Katherine Green Tunnell, graduate in the class of 1929 at Georgia State College for Women, has had a college career which extended over a period of twenty-five years. Entering the school in 1904 Mrs. Tunnell obtained her collegiate normal diploma in 1906. After her marriage to G. H. Tunnell she returned as librarian and took work for a B. S. degree.

A. J. DRISCOLL, GREENEVILLE NATIVE, PASSES AWAY

His many Greeneville friends were grieved upon learning of the death of Allen J. Driscoll, 58, which occurred this past week. Mr. Driscoll had been ailing for about a year. He was a native of Greeneville but the greater part of his life was spent in Westerly, he going there to reside while still a young man. Mr. Driscoll was a wool sorter by trade and worked at various manufacturing plants in Rhode Island.

He was an ardent baseball fan and was well known throughout the South county, R. I. In his youth he was interested in the management of a team at Shannock. His wife who before her marriage was Miss Sarah Darey, of Carolina, died about seven years ago. He is survived by a sister, Miss Dora Driscoll of Westerly, and three brothers, Patrick of Westerly, John of Littleton, N. H., and Michael Driscoll of Somerville, N. J.

The Women's Guild of St. Andrew's Episcopal church was entertained at the home of Mrs. Charles C. Perry on Boswell avenue Thursday afternoon. Following the regular business session a social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Perry.

TAFTVILLE

The American Legion auxiliary gave a card party Wednesday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah community building, which was largely attended. At whist, the ladies' prizes were won by Miss Loretta Piche, Mrs. William J. McNally and Miss Beatrice Caron, and the gentlemen's prizes went to Albert J. Aberg, John Chancerelle and Robert Pilling. The ladies' bridge prizes went to Mrs. Albert J. Aberg and Mrs. Andrew Frohmader, and the gentlemen's to George N. Beardow and Lester Pingree. The committee in charge of the affair included Miss Annette Fournier, chairman; Mrs. Patrick J. Fogarty and Mrs. Clara T. Caron.

The dressings made Wednesday afternoon by the members of the Ladies Benevolent society of the Taftville Congregational church were for the public health nursing department.

The Basketry club held its regular weekly meeting Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah community building.

The members of the Wequonnoc school orchestra met Thursday afternoon at the school for rehearsal and instruction.

NORWICH TOWN

At the close of the mid-week prayer service of the First Congregational church, Thursday evening, in the chapel, the adjourned meeting of the League of Service was called to order by the president, Harry T. Frazier. The purpose of this meeting was to make such changes in the constitution of the league as might be deemed advisable. As there was no provision for the election of officers in the original constitution, a clause was added to article four of the constitution, covering this deficiency. It was voted to have an annual meeting of the league at some time prior to the annual church meeting, other meetings at the call of the executive committee. Also it was voted that a meeting of the executive committee should be held annually during the first week of December to prepare reports and consider any new business recommended, to be presented at the regular annual meeting in January.

SWIFTEST, EASIEST WAY TO END BILIOUS SPELL

When you neglect those first symptoms of constipation—bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness, the whole system soon suffers. Appetite lags. Digestion slows up. You become headachy, dizzy, bilious.

It's easy to correct sluggish bowel action! Take a candy Cascaret tonight. See how quickly—and pleasantly—the bowels are activated. All the souring waste is gently propelled from the system. Regular and complete bowel action is restored.

Cascarets are made from pure cascara, a substance which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have Cascarets. 10c.

CITATIONS TO STONINGTON POST AND AMERICAN LEGION MEMBERS

The February meeting of the fifth district, American Legion, was held Thursday night at the Baltic club, under the auspices of Baltic post, No. 35, A. L., and its auxiliary. There was an attendance of about 100, practically every post and auxiliary in New London county being represented. District Commander Joseph Bellefleur of this city presided at the meeting.

A meritorious citation from national headquarters was presented to Stonington post, No. 54, for showing a total paid up membership for 1930, on December 31st, equal to its 1929 membership. Individual citations were also presented to the following Legionnaires for their loyal support and efficient service which enabled them to establish a record for their respective posts in membership which surpassed the average for the last four years:

George Rocheleau and Edgard P. Knox, of Post No. 15, Jewett City; William Herbardt and William MacDonald of Post No. 54, Colchester; Napoleon Pepin and Thomas P. Sears, of Post No. 104, Taftville.

The national convention to be held in Boston, next October, was discussed and plans will be made soon for a large representation from this district. This is expected to be the largest convention held since the Legion was organized.

State Commander Speaks.

Reports on membership showed the district well ahead of all previous records and it is expected that the quota assigned to it will be reached. State Commander W. S. Alexander was a visitor at the meeting and in addressing the gathering said in part:

"While the past record of the American legion speaks for itself and is one of which every one of us is justly proud, there is yet much that we can and must do to carry on the work for which we formed this organization in the name of mutual helpfulness. The objectives of the American Legion now before the 71st congress of the United States are objectives that merit and should, or rather must, receive the support of every Legionnaire. It is an unselfish program in which the able-bodied man in the Legion asks nothing for himself, but stands solidly back of the Legion's insistent urging that the resolutions adopted at the Louisville convention be translated into the laws of the land by the time this congress adjourns. If the men and women of the American Legion and the auxiliary, totalling more than a million members, familiarize themselves with the legislative objectives and aims of the Legion in this year 1930, they need not apologize nor hesitate to ask every man who served in the World war to join with them in the Legion.

"In short, the American Legion is before the congress of the United States, backed by the people in more than 10,000 cities and villages, where the posts have become the rallying point for all that is fine and unselfish and lofty in the ideals of these communities.

"It is fighting for proper care and hospitalization of the disabled, for provision for the dependants of the men in hospitals or under disability, for changes to simplify and make more efficient the administrative processes of congress and the government agencies, so that the relief of the veteran and his family may be further carried out.

"It is fighting for sound and adequate national defense of the nation in order that the great American experiment in republican government may continue to prosper; for a group of measures as unselfish and vital as have ever been presented to an American congress. Back of this program the legion stands united. No explanation, no answer can be given by the eligible man outside the Legion when this program is placed before him and he is asked to account for his absence from our ranks.

"In order to turn these resolutions and aims into finished legislation, a large, widespread membership in the Legion is required. Such a membership, scattered throughout the United States, intelligently advised of our objectives, is a truly representative medium from which our congressmen and senators may accurately be advised of the wishes of the American people. The translation of these resolutions into laws is the foremost single project before the American Legion today. The program of the Legion offers a plain, forceful reason for every man outside the legion to join with us, to bend his efforts and influence toward obtaining relief and care for the disabled and their dependants, proper defense of the nation, loyalty to his community and the countless aims, ideals and purposes of the Legion. Each man who wears the emblem of the Legion is a vital part of the American Legion. Its dreams and its hopes are his. Its aims and objectives are his aims and objectives. Its legislative program is his opportunity and obligation. With such objectives as those and with a record of unselfish devotion to the disabled and to the nation, every Legionnaire can be justly proud of our common effort. Filled with a conviction of the righteousness in his cause, he can gather more and more of the eligible numbers into the Legion and add to the confidence and respect which the American Legion enjoys today in the hearts of the American people."

Sea Raider To Lecture.

MOSTLY CHILD SUBJECTS FOR MENTAL HYGIENE CLINICS

A report on the work of the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene for last month was issued Friday. The clinics of the society in Norwich, Bridgeport, Waterbury and New Haven report an aggregate of 500 people under treatment, 75 per cent. of these being children. This is a distinct gain over the corresponding month for last year, and the clinics are gradually increasing their staffs so that they are able to give a more thorough type of treatment. Preventive work is more and more emphasized in the clinic treatment.

The educational work has also been developing rapidly, according to the report. It is estimated that over 1,000 people have been reached in various lecture courses and talks during the month. Thirteen different towns and cities in the state have been reached in this way.

The information and advisory service during the month reached 67 different individuals and organizations. This service has covered such problems as advising about programs for study groups, supplying bibliographies for various purposes; suggesting to mothers where to secure the help needed for problem children; giving information regarding various institutions and sanitoria etc.

During the month the society was also able to do some organizing for future mental hygiene developments in a new community.

NORWICH TEACHERS PASS IN EXTENSION COURSES

The extension courses given by Yale university to members of the Norwich Teachers' league have just been concluded. About 60 teachers took the courses consisting of 10 lessons which were given once a week on Tuesday afternoons in Broadway school. Edward Noyes of the English department of Yale conducted the class in Victorian literature and E. S. Russell of the department of education was the instructor in psychology.

Besides the pleasure and benefit derived from the courses the teachers were pleased to learn that they had successfully passed and were able to gain college credit. It is especially gratifying to them to know that several members of the course completed the work with honor.

TELLS WOMEN VOTERS COUNTY GOVERNMENT POOR

That the state instead of the county should control the jails, the homes for the care of dependent and neglected children, and the business of the courts, was maintained by Judge Albert McClellan Mathewson of New Haven, in a highly interesting talk before the New London County League of Women Voters at the quarterly meeting at the Mohican hotel in New London Wednesday afternoon. Judge Mathewson outlined the history of the counties in the state, telling of their origin and subsequent development.

He said that the county system as at present organized is irresponsive and irresponsible, and its work could be much better performed by other existing organizations.

The towns in Connecticut have always been the unit in the finances of the state and the county was organized purely for court purposes and for providing convenient court houses and jails in the centers of population, which in the early days were isolated. Today, the courts are all state courts as far as judges and clerks are concerned, and the court houses should be built by the state and located in convenient centers.

State Should Own Jails

He stated that the jails also should be owned by the state, and should be under the direction of a man appointed by the state, who would be qualified for the position by reason of his character and training and not by his power to command votes.

He expressed the belief that if the jails were owned and controlled by the state they could be located where they would best serve the interest of the state and the prisoner, and with the purpose of offering the prisoner an opportunity to return to useful and self-respecting citizenship.

Referring to the county commissioners, he said while they are entirely in control of the expenditure of county funds, their appointment by the general assembly is contrary to that of any other appointment in the state, in that the appointment originates in a secret political caucus, the resolution to appoint them is introduced into the legislature without a hearing and the dominant party always elects its full board of commissioners.

Of the county sheriff he said that under the laws of the state the office of sheriff is the highest paid and least needed office in the state. County sheriffs are paid salaries varying from $3,000 to $6,000, and a search of the statutes reveals practically no service to the state which this official is obliged to perform in return for his high salary. Judge Mathewson declared he failed to find any reason for the existence of the high sheriff today. The deputy sheriffs were needed, however, for the service of legal papers, he said.

Answers Many Questions

At the conclusion of his address Dr. Mathewson responded to numerous questions on the part of his audience and an interesting open forum ensued.

In closing the meeting, Mrs. William P. White gave an excellent report of the conference on the cause and cure of war which she attended in the national capital recently.

Sixty members of the league were in attendance at the meeting, which was presided over by Miss Edna Leighton Tyler, county chairman of the efficiency in government committee of the league.

Those present were as follows:

TRUCK MADE WRECK OF TRAFFIC SIGNAL STATION

The police shelter at Shannon corner was badly wrecked about 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning when it was struck by a Ford truck owned by the Turner-Stanton Co., and operated by Edgar Judson of No. 17 Ward street. Officer Michael Carroll, who had been operating the traffic signal inclosed by the wooden shelter, had just left the shelter a few minutes before the accident, when he heard the crash behind him and saw that the shelter was demolished.

As the driver of the truck was making the turn from Shetucket street into Main street, he drove so close to the curb that the overhanging body on the machine struck the wooden shelter ripping away all but one section.

Officer Carroll regretted being turned out of house and home so unceremoniously, but remarked that it couldn't have been on a better day, with the touch of spring in the air.

ENJOYABLE PARTY FOR HIS 21ST BIRTHDAY

A pretty birthday surprise party was held Wednesday evening at the home of Raymond Parkhurst of 105 Roath street in honor of his 21st birthday. Many friends and relatives were present. Evidence---
Right or Wrong!

THE other evening a kindly gentleman possessed of a little more than the average amount of human compassion and understanding of boy psychology, started home in his car. Two young hopefuls hailed him for a ride. Smilingly he stopped and took them in.

It didn't take long to get them to talking. Just two fine little fellows who'd been to a picture show—about the age of his own son. At a certain corner one of the boys got out.

"Where you goin', Bill," asked the other. "O, just up to the drug store to meet the gang." Whereupon our driver friend—a father—experienced something of a disappointing quirk of mind. "To meet the gang" didn't sound just right to him. It was supper time and boys should go home instead of to meet the gang.

Strange how small things create important impressions. Perhaps the little fellow is all right, but the evidence was against him.

Who knows how much business has been lost by the use of poorly printed stationery and literature sent through the mails. The sender might be ever so worthy—but the evidence is against him.

Our printers like their work, they know how to produce a good job, and they take an interest in every piece of printed matter they turn out.

REPORT HOOVER FAVORS THE COALITION TARIFF RATES

Some of the Old Guard Republicans Are Inclined Not to Question Story Printed In the Kansas City Star—There Are Intimations That Some of the Regular Republican Leaders Intend to Ask President Hoover Whether the Kansas City Star Story Correctly Represents His Attitude Toward the Tariff Schedule.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—Senate republicans and the white house were silent today as attention was called by Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, to a story in the Kansas City Star, stating that President Hoover favored the tariff rates that are being written by the coalition of democrats and republican independents in the senate.

There were rumblings of discontent beneath the republican silence, however, and particularly from some of the old guard leaders who have been supporting the high protective rates passed by the house republicans.

There were intimations that some of the republican regular leaders intended to ask Mr. Hoover whether the Kansas City Star story correctly represented his attitude toward the tariff schedules.

Senator Harrison, said "even though that intimation has come through the side door, we are proud at this time to have the president with us in this great fight."

It was Senator Grundy, republican, of Pennsylvania, who noticed the Kansas City Star story. He said today he had "about six copies of it run off and I showed these to some of my colleagues." He made no comment on the contents of the story.

It is known, however, that the republican regulars have made some inquiry into the authenticity of the story and are inclined not to question it. They have been told that "the Star's roving correspondent" who wrote the story had a conference with the president just before it was published on January 29.

"Of course," said Senator Harrison today, "we on this side have manifested in every way a desire to try to obtain from the leader of the republican party in this chamber and from his colleague, Senator Smoot, who has charge of the pending tariff bill, what the views of the president were with reference to the rates commended by the house and by the senate finance committee. They have told us they did not know and they have gone almost to the extent of saying that they did not care."

The Mississippi senator added that "it would seem that there are people in this country who are closer to President Hoover than is the distinguished leader of the majority party in this chamber and closer to the president than is the senior senator from Utah."

The Kansas City Star story read, in part:

"An unprecedented situation has developed in the making of our new tariff law although the subject is economic, it always has been handled politically and therefore to the satisfaction of the country, of course, including those parts of it which have suffered most from this handling. I suppose they have recognized their interests are secondary to those of the campaign committees of the political parties that need the tariff for a partisan issue.

"But today we have the amazing spectacle of a republican president prepared to accept a tariff bill made by the democrats and insurgent republicans for no better reason than that it is the kind of a tariff bill this republican president had asked a republican congress to enact."

SEVEN MORE FARM DUTIES INCREASED BY THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—In a spirit of compromise and with only slight opposition, the senate today disposed of individual amendments to the agriculture, spirits, cotton and flax schedules and thereby completed action on two thirds of the fifteen rate sections of the tariff bill.

Wool and the other textile sections will come up next week. The senate is not expected to do anything tomorrow but listen to the reading by Senator Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, of George Washington's farewell address and then adjourn.

Seven more increases in farm duties were put through today with principal opposition being voiced against an amendment by Senator Howell, republican independent, Nebraska, to double the existing 18 cents a pound rate on dried eggs. This was approved after Senators Tydings, Maryland, and Copeland, New York, both democrats, argued the 36 cent rate would raise the cost of bakery products.

Frozen eggs also were assigned a higher levy, 11 cents a pound as compared with eight cents in the bill and six cents at present.

Other farm rate advances were on celery, lettuce, cabbage, and alfalfa and red clover seed.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, lost in an attempt to restore the existing levy of 50 cents a hundred pounds on white potatoes and the 75 cent rate was retained in the bill.

EARLY RETURNS FROM ELECTIONS IN JAPAN

TOKYO, Feb. 21—(AP)—Premier Hamaguchi's government, seeking parliamentary support through a general election, today made substantial gains on the basis of early returns from yesterday's election. Most of these reports, however, were from districts favorable to the premier's continuance in office.

The Minseito party, supporting Hamaguchi's administration, had secured sixty-two seats in the lower house of the diet late tonight, compared with thirty-four candidates elected by the Seeyukai party, chief opposition to the government. Proletarian, or labor groups gained seats for three candidates and five were obtained by other groups.

Supported by only the 173 members of the Minsetto party, and unable to make headway for its measures against the opposition of the Seiyukai party, 237 of whose members sat in the lower house of the diet, the Hamaguchi government January 21 declared the diet dissolved and ordered a general election held.

FOUR PERSONS INJURED IN FORCED LANDING OF PLANE

BALTIMORE, Feb. 21—(AP)—Four persons were injured, two critically, tonight in the forced landing of a cabin monoplane at Logan field. Captain Lyman Patterson, pilot, and C. W. Carman, student aviator, both of Baltimore, were unconscious when taken from the wreckage. Thomas L. Kane, Perryville, student aviator, and Harris Kirk, Baltimore, passengers, were less seriously hurt.

The motor, being tested for a flight tomorrow, failed when the craft was up about 200 feet.

The plane dug its nose into the ground, partly turning over. One wing was broken. The injured were taken to hospitals by ambulances.

DRY AGENT WHO SHOT WOMAN EXONERATED

KNOXVILLE, Ia., Feb. 21—(AP)—The grand jury that investigated the shooting of Miss Nellie Church two weeks ago by Charles Hindley, federal prohibition agent, today returned a "no bill" report.

Miss Church was wounded in the back of the head the night of Feb. 8, when Hindley fired a revolver shot through the rear of an automobile in which she was riding. Hindley admitted firing a shot but said it was aimed at the ground.

OBITUARY

Rev. Charles A. Laddy

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 21—(AP)—Rev. Charles A. Laddy, 69, pastor of St. Peter's R. C. church, in this city for the past ten years, died at St. Vincent's hospital tonight.

Father Laddy, a native of New Haven, had been in ill health for the past several weeks, following a heart attack which confined him to the rectory shortly after the first of the year. He was removed to the hospital last Saturday, when his condition became aggravated by pleurisy.

Father Laddy observed the 39th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood on June 22, last. He had served at St. Patrick's church, Hartford, St. Mary's church, New Britain, St. George's church, Guilford, St. Patrick's church, Mystic and St. Augustine's church, Seymour, before coming to Bridgeport, ten years ago.

REFERENDUM ON DRY LAW URGED IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—The prohibition controversy which has been racing over Washington since before Christmas continued today in the house, where Representative Mead, democrat, New York, urged a referendum on the dry law.

Also, Secretary Mellon set forth in a letter to Chairman Hawley of the house ways and means committee the treasury department's opposition to the Sirovich bill proposing to substitute non-poisonous denaturants for the present formula now approved for industrial alcohol.

Besides declaring that the measure was impracticable and that the proposed legislation was unnecessary, Secretary Mellon wrote that the denaturants proposed would not protect alcohol from diversion for bootleg purposes.

The "man in the green hat"—George L. Cassiday—who was arrested again near the senate office building Tuesday on a liquor charge, was ordered held for grand jury action in police court. John T. Whitely of Baltimore, arrested with him, was held under $2,000 bond.

Cassiday already faces one liquor indictment subsequent to his arrest near the capitol in November.

UNIFICATION OF RAILROADS IN NORTHWEST APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—Unification of the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific and the Spokane, Portland and Seattle railways, was approved today by the interstate commerce commission, contingent upon the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad being divorced from the system.

Control of the 15,000 miles of line extending across the northwest section of the country would be vested in a newly formed Great Northern Pacific railway company, which would issue its common capital stock to carry through the acquisitions.

MERGER OF SILK MILLS ANNOUNCED YESTERDAY

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Feb. 21—(AP)—A merger of the Champlin Silk mills, of New York, with mills at White Hall, N. Y., with the spun silk department of the Corticelli Silk company, of Northampton, was announced today by the Corticelli officials. The merger will be effective Monday.

The Corticelli mills at Leeds consist of three plants and employ about 400 persons. Plants of the Corticelli mills at Florence and Haydenville will not be affected.

Record Breaking Feb. Temperatu[illegible]

Reported In C[illegible]cut, Massachusett[illegible]mont and Rhode[illegible]

NEW YORK, [illegible] 21—(AP)—With the thermometer registering 68 degrees, just one below the all-time high record for February established in 1890, New York experienced its third consecutive day of balmy weather in a spring-like wave that extended up the Atlantic coast into New England.

The 68 degrees here today broke the 17-year-old record for February 21 by eight degrees. A year ago today New York was visited by a seven inch snowfall, the heaviest in three winters.

Record breaking temperatures were reported in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Vermont and Rhode Island.

The weather bureau forecasts "slightly colder weather" but no extreme change in temperature is in sight.

New French Cabinet Formed Last Night

Ministry Based On the Left Groups In the Chamber of Deputies.

PARIS, Feb. 21—(AP)—Camille Chautemps, radical-socialist party leader, tonight succeeded in forming a new government, based on the left groups in the chamber of deputies, to replace the resigned Tardieu ministry.

After calling upon President Doumergue and acquainting him with the new cabinet list, Mr. Chautemps took charge of the affairs of France. He was congratulated by the president on the rapidity with which he had constituted his ministry.

The new government will make its debut in the chamber at 3 p. m. next Tuesday. M. Chautemps will read the ministerial declaration and ask for a vote of confidence. He is apparently counting on getting it, for it was announced today that the French delegation to the London naval conference would be appointed by the council of ministers on Tuesday evening and leave for London on Wednesday.

If parliament upholds M. Chautemps, who will for the first time go under fire as premier, Foreign Minister Briand, Minister of Marine Sarraut, Minister of the Merchant Marine Danielou, and Minister of the Colonies Lamoureux, will almost certainly be members of the delegation.

For the first time since the Herriot cabinet was swept into power on May 11, 1924, France has a genuine government of the left groups. There are a few moderate elements represented in it, but the nationalists and rightists are wholly absent.

There was no misunderstanding in Paris about which way the government would guide the ship of state. It will go to the left, and it will meet, among others, the opposition of ex-Premier Tardieu and his followers, who refused to support it by a vote of 26 to 3.

The refusal of the Tardieu group, known as the "republicans of the left," to collaborate obliged Premier Chautemps to make a last minute reshuffling of his cabinet list, and to eliminate Francois Pietri, former minister of the colonies and one of the French delegation to the London conference; Pierre Etienne Flandin, former minister of commerce, and M. Ricaud, who had been slated for the ministry of pensions.

The chaotic condition of the chamber, where the right and left have been practically deadlocked since the 1928 elections, made predictions about the duration and strength of the government unusually uncertain. The Herriot government of 1924 had a stronger, more enthusiastic and better consolidated following. The Chautemps government meets a largely hostile press and a general feeling in the people of weariness with a long series of ministerial ups and downs.

One thing that appeared to be certain about it was that its policy at the London naval conference would not materially differ from that of its predecessor. As a politician and negotiator, Foreign Minister Briand is more suave than ex-Premier Tardieu, but his principles will probably be the same.

This is the 83rd ministry to govern France since the third republic was proclaimed in 1870, and numerically it is the largest that has faced the chamber in 50 years. It is composed of 17 ministers and 11 under-secretaries.

The complete cabinet follows:

Premier and minister of interior, Camille Chautemps.
Foreign affairs, Aristide Briand.
Justice, Jules Steeg.
Marine, Albert Sarraut.
War, Rene Besnard.
Labor, Louis Loucheur.
Finances, Charles Dumont or M. Lamoureux.
Education, Edouard Daladier.
Commerce, Pierre Etienne Flandin.
Public works, Jean Durand.
Agriculture, M. Queille.
Colonies, Francois Pietri.
Merchant marine, M. Danielou.
Posts, Georges Bonnet.

The under-secretaries of state were announced tonight as follows:

Premier's office, Aime Berthod.
Interior, Paul Marchandeau.
War, Charles Lambert.
Marine, Robert Bellanger.
Colonies, Leon Archimbaud.
Agriculture, Louis De Chappedelaine.
Public works, Leon Chariot.
Fine arts, Leo Bouyssou.
Physical education, Henry Pate.
Technical education, Cesar Chabrun.
Hygiene, Mario Roustan.

All these are deputies except M. Bellanger, who is a senator.

Washington

Great were the hearts and strong the minds
Of those who framed, in high debate,
The immortal league of love that binds
Our fair broad empire, state with state.

And deep the gladness of the hour
When, as the auspicious task was done,
In solemn trust, the sword of power
Was given to Glory's Unspoiled Son.

That noble race is gone; the suns
Of fifty years have risen and set;
But the bright links those chosen ones
So strongly forged are brighter yet.

Wide—as our own free race increase—
Wide shall extend the elastic chain,
And bind in everlasting peace
State after state, a mighty train.
—William Cullen Bryant.

DRASTIC SHAKEUP IN FIRE DEPARTMENT OF WATERBURY

WATERBURY, Feb. 21—(AP)—Fire Chief Henry H. Heitman posted orders tonight for the most drastic shakeup in the history of the local fire department. Captains and Lieutenants who have long shared the same quarters are shifted about, severing all working, fraternal and political ties. Lieut. Dennis Lahey, former newspaperman who has been Chief Heitman's clerk for many years, is assigned to duty with the East End company and several others who have long enjoyed downtown assignments are transferred to the outlying stations. The shakeup of privates, due shortly, is reported to be just as drastic and far-reaching.

The upheaval in the ranks of the fire fighters equals that in the police department two weeks ago and is in keeping with the campaign promise of Mayor Hayes that he would demand efficiency and economy in the administration circles.

NEGRO WOMAN FACES LIFE TERM UNDER BAUMES LAW

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—Waiving formality of a jury trial, a 42-year-old Negro woman today admitted her record required a mandatory life sentence under the Baumes fourth-offender law.

A jury had been completed and police from several cities were present, ready to testify that the defendant, Mrs. Cleopatra Heaton, had been convicted of robbery five times, when Mrs. Heaton brushed aside her attorney and addressed General Sessions Judge Max S. Levine.

"Well, judge," she said, "I guess it's all up with me. No use calling the jury. I'm guilty of all that police record shows. It's all true."

Judge Levine remanded Mrs. Heaton to Harlem prison to await sentence next Friday by Judge William Allen. Judge Levine recently sentenced Mrs Ruth St. Clair, shoplifter, to life imprisonment under the Baumes law.

TO REMEDY CONDITIONS AT THE CONN. SCHOOL FOR BOYS

MERIDEN, Feb. 21—(AP)—Prompt measures to remedy any alleged deplorable conditions at the Connecticut School for Boys here, were promised by the trustees of the institution in a statement issued here this afternoon, at an emergency meeting at which Judge Walter H. Clark, acting head of the state welfare board, laid before them charges of "gross brutality, inhuman treatment and unwholesome conditions."

The board, in its statement, made especially for the press, did not reveal any new developments after sensational allegations made early today had provoked an immediate inquiry, other than to announce that it would take steps at once to correct any abuses if convinced that they exist.

DRY RAID ACROSS STREET N. Y. POLICE HEADQUARTERS

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—Directly across the street from police headquarters, the Headquarters restaurant, at Grand street and Center Market place, was raided today by federal prohibition agents who made two arrests and seized eight bottles of liquor.

Those arrested were Mario Murai, a waiter, and H. Ferdinand, the owner.

Several policemen were in the restaurant at the time of the raid.

HELD FOR ATTACKING AND ROBBING WOMAN

GREENWICH, Feb. 21—(AP)—Michael Gray, said by police to be a British sailor who has deserted his ship, had his case continued until Monday in borough court today, when he appeared to answer a charge of attacking and robbing Mrs. Mary Zaccardo, Wednesday.

He is accused of striking her over the head, and stealing her purse.

Gray denies he is a sailor, saying he is a Greenwich resident.

INSTRUCTOR AND STUDENT FLIER BURNED TO DEATH

CHICAGO, Feb. 21—(AP)—Joseph Donnellan, pilot-instructor, and Richard King, student flier, were burned to death today, when their airplane crashed and caught fire at the Chicago Flying club airport. Witnesses said the plane slipped out of control while the pilot apparently was attempting to make a sharp turn at a height of 200 feet.

REPUBLICANISM TOPIC OF BITTER DEBATE IN HOUSE

Followed An Attack By Rep. Treadway, Republican, Massachusetts, On Western Republican Independent Senators—Rep. Johnson, of South Dakota, Served Notice On New England Represenatives That He Was Tired of Assaults On the Republicanism of Representatives of Western States.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—An attack in the house on western republican senators who are members of the democratic - republican independent tariff coalition by Representative Treadway, republican, Massachusetts, resulted today in bitter debate on republicanism.

Representative Johnson, republican, South Dakota, served notice on New England members that he was tired of assaults on the republicanism of representatives of western states, and said that Treadway's remarks about the two senators from his state—McMaster and Norbeck—were without apparent cause or reason."

The Massachusetts member arose to answer charges made by Representative Byrns, democrat, Tennessee, earlier in the week that the republican administration had to accept the responsibility for existing unemployment and economic conditions.

Treadway said unemployment conditions were improving and the country was in a sound economic condition. He added that "good times" would not return until the uncertainty as to the tariff is ended in senate. The republican members of the coalition in the senate, he said, could certainly perform "a most patriotic and useful service for the American people by returning to the principles of the party to which in name they owe allegiance."

Representative McCormack, democrat, Massachusetts, asked if Treadway disclaimed the "progressive members of the senate as members of the republican party?"

"That matter has been rehashed so frequently, I guess we better not stir up the animals any more about it," Treadway said. "They are not our kind of republicans. x x x

"They are mighty good republicans when they want votes out in the states where they come from. That is the best I can say for that group."

As soon as he could, Johnson took the floor to defend the senators from his state.

"Not long ago a very distinguished gentleman from New Hampshire," Johnson said, speaking of Senator Moses, a republican stalwart, "referred to some of the people of my section as 'sons of the wild jackass.' Here is another gentleman from New England who attacks these senators. In this body and in the other legislative body no one has a right, coming from one part of the country to test the republicanism of another part of the country."

He said that the republican voters of each state attended to that and that the people in South Dakota needed no advice from anybody in New England or in Massachusetts. He said he thought the South Dakota senators had been doing work on the tariff and that when the bill is settled, he felt it would be in accord with the republican platform.

MERGER OF STANDARD OIL OF N. Y. AND VACUUM OIL CO.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—Directors of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company today announced an agreement to merge the two companies, creating an American petroleum organization with distributing facilities throughout the world and exceeded in size, computed on the basis of current market valuation, only by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

The proposed merger represents the first effort to combine units of the original Standard Oil company which was dissolved under the Sherman anti-trust law in 1911 and split up into 33 separate organizations.

The directors of the two companies say that approval of the government was sought, but that they are informed that the question must be tested by the courts, and that the government indicated it would bring appropriate action to test the legality of the new combine.

Counsel for the companies have expressed the opinion that the consolidation would be found legal.

LORD WESTBURY JUMPED OR FELL TO HIS DEATH

LONDON, Feb. 21—(AP)—The tragic death of Lord Westbury today added one more to the list of those whom the superstitious believe are dominated by an ancient Egyptian curse—"death shall come on swift wings to him that toucheth the tomb of a pharaoh."

Lord Westburp, 78 years old, jumped or fell from his seventh floor apartment in St. James' court this morning. An inquest verdict said it was suicide. Lord Westbury left behind a letter including the words:

"I cannot really stand any more horrors."

The peer was known to have been worried over the unexpected death last November of his son, Richard Bethell, who was secretary to Howard Carter, Egyptologist.

FORMER BELLE OF SWEDEN SENTENCED TO CO. JAIL

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 21—(AP)—Once rated as one of Sweden's most beautiful and popular belles, Helga Faegerskioeld, alias Helga White, will spend the next 11 months at some menial task in the Fairfield county jail. The woman, now 49 years of age, and who once figured in Sweden's greatest murder mystery, was sentenced today by Judge Allyn L. Brown in criminal superior court, when she pleaded guilty to larceny.

She admitted stealing furs, silverware and jewels from the home of Attorney J. Kenneth Bradley of Westport, where she had been employed as a servant for three months.

TWO MEN CRUSHED TO DEATH BENEATH 900 TONS OF COAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—At least two men were crushed to death today beneath 900 tons of coal which crashed 15 feet when a steel girder gave way under the weight of a new steel and concrete coal pocket in the Bronx.

A steam shovel, working under flood lights, continued to burrow into the debris and coal in search of five missing men and an automobile under the structure when it collapsed. About 100 tons of coal were displaced before the second body was recovered.

FOUR MEMBERS OF RADIO COMMISSION CONFIRMED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—Hastening consideration, the senate today confirmed the nominations of four of the five members of the federal radio commission without record votes. Terms of the commissioners expire tomorrow night.

Without opposition the nominations of Ira E. Robinson, West Virginia, for a two-year term; of Eugene O. Sykes, of Mississippi, for a three-year term, and of Harold A. Lafount, of Utah, for a five-year term, were approved.

COMMUNISTS DISPERSED BY POLICE IN MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 21—(AP)—The police tonight dispersed without violence a parade of 300 communists, confiscating about 50 banners, after the marchers had unsuccessfully tried to make a demonstration in front of the national palace.

CONDITION OF W. H. TAFT CAUSING APPREHENSION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—The day after day failure of William Howard Taft to rally strongly from his serious illness was regarded tonight as causing apprehension among those close to him.

Dr. Francis R. Hagner reported again that the condition of the former chief justice was not much changed. Weakness has been encroaching surely onto his reserve strength.

Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, a daughter, arrived today from Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania. The two sons of the distinguished jurist, Robert A. and Charles P. Taft, were holding themselves in readiness to come from Cincinnati in event of an emergency. Mrs Taft communicated with them today by telephone.

Shortly after the 73-year-old man signed the letter to his former associates on the supreme court expressing regret that failing health had forced him to resign, he was reported to have ceased showing the improvement which had been encouraging to his friends. Ever since the doctors have said his condition was "unchanged."

MRS. EVA DUGAN HANGED FOR MURDER OF RANCHER

FLORENCE, Ariz., Feb. 21—(AP)—The state of Arizona today performed the disagreeable task of hanging a woman, Eva Dugan, 52, and mother of two children, for the murder three years ago of A. J. Mathis, aged rancher of Tucson, Ariz.

This was the first execution of a woman in Arizona, and it was witnessed by six other women, including the prison matron. Mrs. Dugan remained outwardly calm to the last, even smiling grimly as a guard slipped the black hood over her head.

The steel gallows trap at the state penitentiary swung open at 5:02 a. m. Body and head parted as the noose jerked, and physicians said she died instantly.

Throughout her last night Mrs. Dugan played cards with friends, talking only occasionally. Her breakfast was untouched. The rain-smeared dawn lighted her march to the gallows, where she spoke three words as Warden Wright shook her hand and said "God bless you, Eva."

"Goodbye, Daddy Wright," she replied.

MOTORCYCLE PLOUGHED INTO CROWD OF PEDESTRIANS

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 21—(AP)—Two of the victims of a motorcycle that ploughed into a pedestrian group here last night, tonight still were in a very critical condition, and that of a third was grave, physicians said.

Murray Sullivan, Salt Lake City, and Anna Margaret Deering Noyes of Portland, Maine, a Vassar college junior, were the two in critical condition. Marian Jay Wurts of Englewood, N. J., also a Vassar junior, was in grave condition. Miss Noyes had three blood transfusions during the day.

Edward Terrell of Poughkeepsie, driver of the motorcycle, still was under $1,000 bond on a technical charge of third degree assault.

COMMUNIST SYMPATHIZERS ROUTED BY CHICAGO POLICE

CHICAGO, Feb. 21—(AP)—Rallying to the cry "Wages and work," several hundred communist sympathizers marched on the city hall today to sound a protest against unemployment. Riot squads and mounted police broke up the demonstration, charging down the crowded sidewalks and swinging clubs among the noon-day throngs.

Night sticks thudded against the heads of pedestrians and several were knocked down as they scampered before the mounted officers or tried to harangue their followers from boxes at the four corners of the city hall square. None was seriously hurt.

HOUSE VOTES $140,000 FOR POSTOFFICE AT MILFORD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—An amendment by Representative Tilson, republican, Connecticut, to the first deficiency supply bill, was approved by the house today to raise the cost limit of the Milford, Conn., postoffice from $100,000 to $140,000.

TAKES FILLING STATION CASE TO SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 21—An appeal to the Windham county superior court the first Tuesday in March, has been taken by Mrs. Catherine Sullivan, owner of the residence at 1120 Main street, against the approval of Mayor Walter R. King of the installation of six gasoline pumps at the new garage of the Bousa Motor Sales company, on property adjoining that of Mrs. Sullivan. Mrs. Sullivan, through Attorney Samuel B. Harvey sets forth in the appeal that the establishment of an automobile supply station would create a nuisance and set up night disturbances. Papers in connection with the appeal were served today by City Sheriff Ralph J. Lussier on Mayor King and the Bousa company.

DR. GREGOIRE ELECTS TO BE TRIED BY JURY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 21—George H. Gregoire of Moosup, arrested early this morning on a bench warrant served by State Policeman Elton T. Nolan of the Danielson barracks, was presented in the Windham county superior court here today on two counts of practicing dentistry without a license and not having been registered by the state dental commission. He pleaded not guilty through Attorney Joseph P. Smith of Moosup and elected trial by jury. Judge John Rufus Booth of New Haven fixed the bond at $1,000. The case will probably be tried next week, according to State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford. The counts were on January 3 and February 11 last. In February it is alleged that the accused practiced dentistry on Lionel Marchesseault and Loretta Bellevance; and that on February 11 he practiced on Patrick McMullen. All of these clients are residents of Plainfield. The complaint further alleges that Gregoire was convicted previously of a similar offense for which a suspended six months' sentence in jail had been imposed. It was stated that this suspended sentence had never been vacated. He also entered a plea of not guilty in connection with this previous offense.

A motion of Attorney Bradford to authorize Lewis A. Waterman of Providence, R. I., permanent receiver for the National Rhea company with property in Putnam, to dispose of the assets of the company in Putnam at public auction, was granted by Judge Booth. Mr. Waterman, who is an attorney, was the only witness in the case. An order was previously issued by the court for the sale of the property in question at the stipulated price of $146,500, but no bid was received at that time. Mr. Waterman announced that the next auction would probably be held March 13.

These two matters concluding the business of the day, court adjourned until next Tuesday forenoon at 10 o'clock at Putnam for a short calendar session.

STOLEN GOODS RECOVERED BY HARTFORD POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 21—Pre-war liquor of fine vintage and household articles, including valuable linens, believed to have been stolen from the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave O. Cartier at Babcock Hill, town of Coventry, were recovered in Hartford Thursday night by police of that city from the possession of two alleged bootleggers at 14 Kilburn street, Hartford. The Cartiers have been in West Haven, Fla., since October. Found in the loot were cancelled checks in the name of Mrs. Louise Cartier which furnished the authorities with a clue as to the owner of the goods.

Ralph V. Reynolds, caretaker of the Cartier property upon learning of the break this morning conducted an investigation. He found automobile wheel marks across the lawn leading from the highway to the side of the house. A window and door on the northwest side had been "jimmied" open and practically the entire interior of the house had been ransacked. The contents of drawers and cupboards were strewn about. The cellar had been entered. Caretaker Reynolds could not say how much had been stolen, however, as he was not familiar with the contents of the rooms or the cellar. He did note, however, that one of two time clocks had been wrenched from the wall and was missing. The wheelmarks indicated that the break was probably perpetrated Wednesday night. Officers of the state police barracks in Stafford Springs began an investigation today. The house was jointly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Cartier and a relative of the latter, Dexter Wheelock, who is at present occupied in New Jersey as an electrical jobber.

Andover has two mysteries that are arousing considerable attention as the townspeople await solutions by state police officers of the Stafford Springs barracks who are working on the cases.

About one week ago Mrs. Charles Wright was in her home when she heard a peculiar ripping sound. An investigation at the time disclosed nothing but later Mrs. Wright noticed a splinter in a highboy. It was then found that a 30-30 calibre steel bullet had penetrated through the side of the house, leaving a small hole, and imbedded itself in the highboy. The bullet has been removed by the state policemen. Those connected with the case believe that the bullet was fired by a person hunting in the vicinity.

The second mystery is in the theft of a thoroughbred Guernsey two-year-old heifer. The cow disappeared from the Smith farms on the Coventry-Andover town line. The owner of the farms, which were formerly known as the Rutherford farms, is a resident of Hartford and the place is in charge of a caretaker. As far as could be learned today no trace of the animal has yet been found.

DANIELSON

FROZEN GAS MAIN CUTS OFF LOCAL SUPPLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 21.—When Danielson's supply of gas practically failed this morning, many householders who were engaged in cooking or using gas for one purpose or another were at a loss to know just what had happened to the normally unfailing supply. Numbers of them gained the impression that their gas stoves or other gas burners were at fault. This was not the case.

Condensation of moisture inside the high pressure gas main bringing Danielson's supply of gas down from Putnam and the formation of ice inside the line, blocking it, shut off the supply almost completely for a time.

Manager William Sangster of the Danielson division of the Connecticut Light & Power company said this afternoon that this is the second time that this situation has arisen during the present week, the first occurrence being on Wednesday. No such condition has before been encountered in the six years since the high pressure main was installed.

The extreme cold weather of the first of the week, followed by sharply rising temperature, yet with freezing periods at night, is believed to have been the cause of the difficulty.

Near Quinebaug Pines, just south of Putnam, the line passes under a bridge. At this point a sort of vacuum has been created by encasing the main in another and considerably larger pipe, leaving a dead air space, this for protection against just such situations as developed twice this week. Today a hole was drilled in the main at this point and alcohol poured in. This had the effect of cutting up the ice in the main and allowing the gas to flow freely again. The pressure here returned practically to normal during the noon hour.

TWO STILLS FOUND IN SCOTLAND SECTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 21.—Carmine Vaccaro of Scotland, this county, and two of the largest stills seized in any nearby territory in many months were being held at the state police barracks on North Main street today. Vaccaro was arrested and the stills—one of 80 gallons, the other of 40 gallons capacity—were seized in a raid at the Vaccaro farm late yesterday by State Officer Elton Nolan of the Danielson barracks and two state officers from the Groton barracks.

Seizure of ten gallons of alcohol by Groton state officers from a New York-bound car on the Norwich-New London state highway yesterday morning was the means of opening of the way for the raid at the Vaccaro place. The men that had the alcohol said they had purchased it at the Vaccaro place.

With the stills the officers took from the Vaccaro farm 30 gallons of alcohol. He had been distilling alcohol from rye. He told state officers here that he purchased the farm in Scotland last summer, and that some time since he had been induced by acquaintances who came to visit him from Mt. Vernon, N. Y., to start illicit distilling with assurance of a good market in New York for all he could produce.

Vaccaro was without funds today, and had wired relatives on Long Island for sufficient money to meet the fine he was expecting to be assessed against him when presented in a justice's court in Scotland.

Gregoire Arrested Again

Dr. George Gregoire of Moosup, arrested last week by State Officer Elton Nolan of the Danielson barracks on a charge of practicing dentistry illegally, was again arrested by the same officer today on a bench warrant alleging illegal practice of dentistry on two counts, while a third count charged he has done so as a second offender. After presentation in the superior court at Willimantic he was released under bonds of $1,000.

Goods Never Delivered

An item that appeared in this paper Thursday relative to one John Zovsiak, 18, of Moosup, selling cartons of cigarettes and groceries through this territory, in house-to-house canvassing, for less than these commodities can be purchased in lots at wholesale price, has been the means of bringing a string of complaints relative to the young man's operations to the state police.

The gist of these complaints, it appeared up to this afternoon, are to the effect that Zovsiak went about this section of the country taking orders for goods at unheard of, low prices, collected money in about a dozen cases in advance of delivering the goods, which the complaints allege he has as yet failed to do. Zovsiak has been released from custody, and today it seemed as though those who were so trustful as to advance him money are out of luck.

Mary LeMay of 28 White Row was reported to be resting comfortably today after escaping with comparatively minor injuries from what might have proved a serious accident, on Water street, last night. She had just alighted from a taxi, on the right side of the machine, and had walked back and around it on her way home when she stepped out in front of a car operated by Edward Simoneau and was knocked down. She sustained a dislocated shoulder, bruises and lacerations. Simoneau was not held at fault by the state officer who investigated the accident.

Paul O. Kuddler of Hartford was scheduled to appear in court in Scituate, a dozen miles east of here in Rhode Island, today, to answer to a charge of evading responsibility. Kuddler's car sideswiped another machine near Chop Mist hill last night. Instead of stopping he drove off at high speed.

A telephone message was the means of having Sergeant G. L. Gardner of the Danielson barracks waiting for him when he came along the Danielson pike near the Gallup farm. Inspection of his car revealed a damaged bumper and fender, and he readily admitted his responsibility. He was turned over to a Rhode Island state trooper.

Archie Greenberg of Worcester, whose counsel was Attorney Archibald Macdonald, Jr., of Putnam, was presented before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court today to answer to a violation of the motor vehicle laws. The court imposed a fine of $5 and actual costs.

A lively verbal tilt between Attorney Irving H. Miron of Putnam, counsel for Raymond Hopkins, charged with a statutory offense, and Prosecuting Attorney Arthur G. Bill enlivened the court proceedings this morning. Attorney Miron objected to Attorney Bill questioning a young woman, this prior to the opening of court, who is expected to be a state witness in the Hopkins case, on the ground that she might incriminate herself of having been in danger of falling into vice. The case eventually was continued until March 5, this being a second continuance.

John Rooney, 70, a native of this town, died today at his home in Pomfret, where he had been a resident for many years. During his active life time he had been engaged as a carpenter and farmer. Mr. Rooney was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rooney. He leaves his wife and two sisters, Mrs. Martin Fitzsimmons of the Mashentuck district of this town, and Mrs. James Kennedy of Providence.

Consideration is being given, County Game Warden Daniels said this morning, to a plan for releasing some beavers at the Pike cranberry bog tract of land that the state purchased some time since, near South Killingly and at the head of Snake Meadow brook. There is a pond of considerable size there, and the idea is to have the beavers clean it up in operations they would be certain to start in creating a home for themselves. The pond is intended eventually for trout storage. A problem that presents itself, as to releasing beavers there, is the difficulty likely to be experienced in getting them back again, once the work they are wanted to do is accomplished.

To clear up what appeared today to be a quite widespread misunderstanding, Alma Forcier of Goodyear, a general officer of the Union St. John Baptist, pointed out that there is absolutely no official or financial connection between that organization and the old St. John Baptist society. This explanation is made incident to a court action instituted by George Potvin of Putnam against the St. John Baptist society of that city, owners of property which he has attached. The St. John Baptist society has been in existence the past 55 years, whereas the Union St. John Baptist was organized only 29 years ago. The latter organization has a number of councils in eastern Connecticut, including one in Danielson.

This afternoon at the home on Cottage street, Mrs. Frank J. Gorman was hostess to the members of the Entre Nous club at a Washington bridge. The favors and decorations were in keeping with the spirit of the holiday. Honors were won by Mrs. Earl Wood, Mrs. Lucien Lambert and Mrs. Rene Buteau. Refreshments were served.

Washington's birthday will be observed as a holiday at the Danielson postoffice. The lobby of the office will be open throughout the day. There will be neither city nor rural deliveries of mail. Mails will be despatched as usual.

While here this morning, County Game Warden Thomas Daniels of Plainfield announced that he has appointed George Laird, former sergeant of the Putnam city police department, as a deputy game warden.

Immediately the grand list of the town is completed, following such changes from its present form as may be necessary following the deliberations of the board of relief, the selectmen will meet to estimate the amount of the tax rate required for the current year. The proposed tax rate will be presented for the consideration of the voters at the adjourned annual town meeting in early March.

Following a meeting of the organization this evening there was a whist at their rooms under the auspices of Mary A. Livermore tent, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War.

Tuesday afternoon there is to be a meeting of the Ladies' Prayer circle at the home of Mrs. Elliott Allen of Main street.

This year the firemen and military organizations of Danielson will unite in giving a pre-Lenten ball at the state armory. The 192nd Field Artillery band of New London will come here for the event.

The New London Archdeaconry meeting of the Girls' Friendly society is to be held with the local society, of St. Alban's parish, on March 16.

This evening at the Congregational church in South Killingly there was a reception in honor of Rev. Henry A. Coolidge, the pastor, and Mrs. Coolidge. The program given at the Westfield Congregational church here Tuesday evening by the Arabia Glee Club and String Ensemble was repeated.

PUTNAM

CATTLE DEALER ARRESTED FOR PASSING RUBBER CHECK

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 21—E. Fitz Johnson, a Plainfield cattle dealer is under arrest in this city for issuing a check without having sufficient funds to his credit in the Plainfield National bank. Johnson was taken into custody yesterday in Danielson by Captain A. J. Dubreuil and State Officer H. Theodore Strand of Danielson barracks. He was released after posting bonds of $500 for his appearance in city court in this city Monday morning. According to Captain Dubreuil, Johnson purchased a load of cattle from a farmer in East Putnam, meeting his obligation with a check written for $96. The payee in going through the usual procedure to turn the check into cash was informed of the worthlessness of the note, after it had been protested. He entered a complaint and police action against Johnson resulted. The local police chief stated this morning that Johnson has been given an opportunity to raise funds sufficient to meet the amount of his check. If successful in his efforts the captain said that charges against him will be dropped.

Frederick W. Seward, chairman of the board of relief stated today that the board had completed its work of hearing appeals from tax payers following the filing of the report of the board of assessors. The report of the committee, of which Mr. Seward is chairman will be filed with the town clerk one day next week.

Miss Marjorie Bradford and State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford were in Willimantic today attending a session of superior court.

An effort is being made by the city and school health authorities to stamp out what has become an epidemic of German measles. Several children in the schools were dismissed from classes in order to prevent further spread of the disease. The disease in most cases is mild; those suffering not being in any way dangerously ill. However it is contagious and every precaution must be taken to prevent other students from being exposed to the malady.

A fund of $800, the remainder of the 1929 appropriation for the police department is to be expended in equipping the department with needed supplies. Captain A. J. Dubreuil and members of the police committee of the council have prepared a purchasing programme which includes an order for six .32 calibre revolvers of the "positive" type. These will be issued to the regular patrolmen in exchange for guns of larger calibre now being used. The discarded weapons will be issued to supernumerary officers who are equipped with revolvers not of a standard make. New night sticks, handcuffs and other "tools" will be purchased by the department.

Putnam has long been a junction for highway and railroad traffic, but from indications seen overhead today, it appears that the giant monoplanes of the Colonial Air Transport company operating between Boston and New York have marked Putnam for a switch. Shortly after noon today two planes flying a northern course en route to Boston met over this city with a third flying the New York route. Sailing majestically through the skies, radiating the light of a bright sun from their silvery bodies the three ships met, dipped in salute, and continued on their courses. The aerial maneuver presented a pretty scene to numbers who watched from the streets.

The 198th anniversary of the birth of George Washington was observed with fitting exercises at all of the public schools and at St. Mary's parochial schools today. Saturday will be the anniversary of the Great American's birth and will be observed only by local banking institutions which will be closed during the day.

The attention of police has been directed to street lights in the south end of the city being broken. The broken lights along Farrows and King streets have forced residents of that section to plod their way home through the darkness the past week. From all indications youngsters are using the street illuminators for targets to improve their ability as marksmen.

Officer Joseph Pase who has been confined to his home since Sunday suffering from grippe has made a satisfactory recovery and expects to resume his duties on the night patrol force Sunday evening.

Putnam is gravely in need of adequate fire apparatus according to Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston who is opposed to the common council's plan of equipping the Eagle Hose wagon with pneumatic tires at a cost of $450. The piece of apparatus stationed in the north end of the city has lived its life, in the opinion of the chief, and to recondition it for service would be a false economy. In a statement to the board of aldermen in session this week, Chief Thurston said that the three pieces of apparatus are obsolete types and should be replaced with modern fire wagons in order to adequately protect the city. The following of the chief engineer's recommendations is highly improbable since the council has already approved to the plan of equipping the ancient truck in the north end with air inflated tires.

JEWETT CITY

MRS. CHAS. EDW. PRIOR IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Charles Edw. Prior of Bridgeport was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Prior, during a visit in the borough to attend the funeral of George E. Sparks. Mr. Prior left Friday for Windsor, Conn., where his wife has been visiting her sister, he having learned that Mrs. Prior had received minor injuries in an automobile accident earlier in the week.

The postoffice will be closed today (Saturday) all day after 9 a. m. Other business will run on the regular Saturday schedule. The library and banks will be closed.

Finn's tonight, mat. at 3; all-talking picture; Little Johnny Jones.—adv.

Miss Ruby Thornton, who is ill at her home on Pleasant View street, is being cared for by Mrs. Augusta Lee.

Grangers throughout this section attended the meeting of New London County Pomona grange No. 6, in Newent Thursday, with Lisbon grange No. 191.

Finn's Sun. night at 7, mat. at 3; Gold Diggers of Broadway.—adv.

At the railroad bridge, where the two big piers are to be built, linemen are taking down the Western Union and New Haven railroad telegraph and telephone wires. A temporary arrangement during the construction work at that point calls for the wires to be placed in a cable and strung outside the zone of operation.

At Riverside grammar school, Mrs. Remick's class entertained in the assembly hall, with the following program, Friday afternoon: Lincoln Play. Scene: General Store in 1833. Characters: Mr. Dram, the storekeeper, Jos. Lutz; Mrs. Dram, his wife, Julia Stadnicki; Abraham Lincoln, aged 14, Leon Petticki; Miss Durr, first customer, Mary Parzych; Mrs. Smith, second customer, Julia Przborowski. Second Part—Washington: Washington and I, poem, Agnes Connolly; Honor the Women, reading, Rose Muscatine; Washington and the Flag, reading, Louis Kolodziez; Washington's Birthday, reading, Rita McKenna. The concluding part of the program was a play telling the story of Washington and the cherry tree. Characters: Mrs. Wild, Sophie Gunner; Willie Wild, William Miskiawitick; Frank Fine, Bennie Cholewa; George Washington, aged 9, Henry Holden; Frank Brown, Leonard Shackelston; Mr. Washington, Bolek Kargul; First Boy, Frank Malek; Second Boy, Raymond Symington. Scene 1. Mrs. Wild's Living Room. Second scene, A Cherry Orchard in Virginia. The class leader was Domonic Slonski.

Local people acquainted with William H. Whiteman were sorry to learn of his death, as told in Friday morning's Bulletin. He and his wife lived in Griswold close to 15 years and were members of the Baptist church in Jewett City, having joined in 1904. Mr. Whiteman lived on the John Hawkins farm, also in Hopeville, where his home was on the one-time Lathrop property. As the ranks of the resident members of the G. A. R. grew thinner each year, he was one of the last to represent Sedgwick post No. 1 in the Griswold Memorial day parades. Mr. Whiteman, perhaps better than any other man locally, could tell of the decline of the carriage making industry. To be seen on some of the local farms today are farm vehicles which he made, shaping many of the parts with infinite labor, by hand.

An entirely new and admirable type of automobile driver has been located in this borough and his number and name are known to a company of those who benefited by the gentlemanly handling of his big machine. The hour was noon Wednesday. The setting included five women waiting on the sidewalk for the south-bound Yellow bus, with the gutters filled to the brim with eight inches of black slush. Across the road there stood a big truck, discharging freight. The bus was in sight, preceded by the lighter machine. There was a narrow margin; he could have shot through between the curb and the truck. Grasping the situation in an instant, he saw the slush and the waiting passengers. Out went his hand, as he jammed on the emergency, and he drove through the gutter at a snail's pace, with the result that neither tempers nor hosiery were disturbed.

PATRIOTIC EXERCISES AND VALENTINE PROGRAM

A Washington and valentine program was enjoyed at the meeting of Pachaug grange Thursday evening with the following numbers: Song, by all, Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes; St. Valentine's reading, Who Began It, Miss Bertha Whipple; the grange brothers sang a love song to the sisters, Aunt Dinah's Quilting Party, each brother choosing a sister and marching around the hall with the line led by State Master L. G. Tolles and the Pachaug lecturer, as they sang; reading, Not a Plaster Saint, but a Real Man (referring to George Washington), by Mrs. Minda Morgan; patriotic harmonica solos, Miss Mary Lewis; playlet, All Because He Could Not Tell a Lie, presented by Mrs. Victor Campbell, Raymond, Charles and Herbert Campbell and Royal Roode.

In recognition of the fact that Feb. 21 was the 41st anniversary of Pachaug grange, Willis Terry gave a brief history of the grange. Mr. Terry is the only charter member of Pachaug grange who is still a member of that grange. State Master Tolles very pleasingly rendered two whistling solos, Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes, and Let Me Call You Sweetheart. All then took part in a picture contest, the pictures of 11 noted and well-known men were passed around to see who could recognize the largest number. Miniature hearts were then passed out, each with a number on it and the sisters and brothers of the order matched numbers, which when matched had words on the hearts which rhymed. The partners were then asked to make a rhyme of two or four lines ending with the words on the hearts.

Besides the state master, Louis G. Tolles, there were present, Mrs. Sarah L. Curtis, lecturer, and Rev. Charles A. Downs, chaplain, of Connecticut State grange; also Mrs. Tolles, Mr. Curtis, master of Plainville grange. Visitors were present from Southington, Plainville, Brooklyn, Killingly and Lisbon granges.

The next program of Pachaug grange will feature a debate.

Miss Catherine Jodoin is spending the week end in Waterbury, at Mr. and Mrs. Charles Desmaria's.

A Gypsy concert and tableaux are being prepared under the auspices of the Willing Workers' class of the Methodist church, directed by Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Carter, to be given in Rioux hall. The chorus includes Evelyn Clark, Mildred and Harriett McCluggage, Bertha Davis, Marian Thornton, Edith and Janet Marriott, Bessie Medick, Hazel Johnson, Helen Hart, Mary Howse and Mary McFail, assisted by Verna Tarbox, Everett Thornton, John MacLean, Margaret Jordan, Sarah Gill, Byron Kinnie and Isabel Kennedy. The last named is from Norwich and is to give Gypsy dances.

KINDLY WOMEN'S GIFTS TO LITTLE DUDA BABY

Mrs. Stanley Duda of East Main street has a small son about two weeks old; and as there are three daughters in the family, the oldest, 12, the baby's birthday was properly celebrated by some of the members of the Polish Women's alliance. They showered the daintiest of garments upon the wee chap, and he appeared to fully appreciate every gift. The women who gave the party are Mrs. Joseph Malek, Mrs. Frank Minski, Mrs. Anna Stadnicki, Mrs. Stanley Novacki, Mrs. Louis Papinski, Mrs. Edmond Fontaine, Mrs. Joseph Kusek, Mrs. Joseph Glowacki and Mrs. Frank Kuzziol.

ROSS TOURISTS VISIT FATHER SERRA'S MISSION

Writing from The Breakers, Long Beach, Cal., Feb. 15, Mr. Ross says:

We left San Diego Feb. 13. The journey was beside the shore all the way. We could not always see the ocean for the canyons at right angles to the beach were rather steep and then the climb on the other side was also steep. After leaving Oceanside we passed through a cattle country where Herefords were grazing—hundreds and hundreds of them. There seemed to be plenty of grass; the fields as far as the eye could see to the foot of the mountains were very green. Within twenty miles of this city the fields were being hoed by Mexicans and the crops that were being cultivated were peas and potatoes, hundreds of acres of each.

Reaching Capistrano, we went into the mission of San Juan Capistrano. The mission was founded in 1776, destroyed in 1812 by earthquake, with the loss of 30 Indians.

Serra, (the greatest Padre) founded this mission and here he spent most of his time. Part of the buildings (in ruins), are still standing and are being restored.

At Huntington beach, we saw the first great oil fields—all above tidewater. There were thousands of wells here and all seemed to be working. Yesterday we went over to Catalina Island. This will interest Warden Ed Jodoin for he has been here. I think he may be interested more in the ball field where the Chicago team begins its spring practice. I would like to see His Honor run the bases on this field.

The most interesting thing to me was the glass-bottomed steamboats where, it is said, the bed of the ocean can be seen 85 ft. below. The fish we saw were red and blue perch, some very dark and some light. The growth of seaweed was very fine. They call it a forest and from this seaweed nearly all of our iodine is extracted.

The bay of Avalon, the harbor of Catalina Island was in sunshine all the day, yet in the mountains surrounding the harbor the clouds hung low.

We could see this bright spot of sunshine long after we had left the bay.

As we were leaving, the band on the dock played Aloha and was answered from our steamboat by two or three cornetists.

I am glad I do not hear Aloha very often for it would make me homesick. I saw tears in the eyes of big rugged farmers from the middle west. They were homesick, no doubt. We go to Pasadena from here.

PLAINFIELD

FROZEN GAS MAIN CUTS OFF LOCAL SUPPLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 21.—When Danielson's supply of gas practically failed this morning, many householders who were engaged in cooking or using gas for one purpose or another were at a loss to know just what had happened to the normally unfailing supply. Numbers of them gained the impression that their gas stoves or other gas burners were at fault. This was not the case.

Condensation of moisture inside the high pressure gas main bringing Danielson's supply of gas down from Putnam and the formation of ice inside the line, blocking it, shut off the supply almost completely for a time.

Manager William Sangster of the Danielson division of the Connecticut Light & Power company said this afternoon that this is the second time that this situation has arisen during the present week, the first occurrence being on Wednesday. No such condition has before been encountered in the six years since the high pressure main was installed.

The extreme cold weather of the first of the week, followed by sharply rising temperature, yet with freezing periods at night, is believed to have been the cause of the difficulty.

Near Quinebaug Pines, just south of Putnam, the line passes under a bridge. At this point a sort of vacuum has been created by encasing the main in another and considerably larger pipe, leaving a dead air space, this for protection against just such situations as developed twice this week. Today a hole was drilled in the main at this point and alcohol poured in. This had the effect of cutting up the ice in the main and allowing the gas to flow freely again. The pressure here returned practically to normal during the noon hour.

TWO STILLS FOUND IN SCOTLAND SECTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 21.—Carmine Vaccaro of Scotland, this county, and two of the largest stills seized in any nearby territory in many months were being held at the state police barracks on North Main street today. Vaccaro was arrested and the stills—one of 80 gallons, the other of 40 gallons capacity—were seized in a raid at the Vaccaro farm late yesterday by State Officer Elton Nolan of the Danielson barracks and two state officers from the Groton barracks.

Seizure of ten gallons of alcohol by Groton state officers from a New York-bound car on the Norwich-New London state highway yesterday morning was the means of opening of the way for the raid at the Vaccaro place. The men that had the alcohol said they had purchased it at the Vaccaro place.

With the stills the officers took from the Vaccaro farm 20 gallons of alcohol. He had been distilling alcohol from rye. He told state officers here that he purchased the farm in Scotland last summer, and that some time since he had been induced by acquaintances who came to visit him from Mt. Vernon, N. Y., to start illicit distilling with assurance of a good market in New York for all he could produce.

Vaccaro was without funds today, and had wired relatives on Long Island for sufficient money to meet the fine he was expecting to be assessed against him when presented in a justice's court in Scotland.

Gregoire Arrested Again

Dr. George Gregoire of Moosup, arrested last week by State Officer Elton Nolan of the Danielson barracks on a charge of practicing dentistry illegally, was again arrested by the same officer today on a bench warrant alleging illegal practice of dentistry on two counts, while a third count charged he has done so as a second offender. After presentation in the superior court at Willimantic he was released under bonds of $1,000.

Goods Never Delivered

An item that appeared in this paper Thursday relative to one John Zovslak, 18, of Moosup, selling cartons of cigarettes and groceries through this territory, in house-to-house canvassing, for less than these commodities can be purchased in lots at wholesale price, has been the means of bringing a string of complaints relative to the young man's operations to the state police.

The gist of these complaints, it appeared up to this afternoon, are to the effect that Zovslak went about this section of the country taking orders for goods at unheard of, low prices, collected money in about a dozen cases in advance of delivering the goods, which the complaints allege he has as yet failed to do. Zovslak has been released from custody, and today it seemed as though those who were so trustful as to advance him money are out of luck.

Mary LeMay of 26 White Row was reported to be resting comfortably today after escaping with comparatively minor injuries from what might have proved a serious accident, on Water street, last night. She had just alighted from a taxi, on the right side of the machine, and had walked back and around it on her way home when she stepped out in front of a car operated by Edward Simoneau and was knocked down. She sustained a dislocated shoulder, bruises and lacerations. Simoneau was not held at fault by the state officer who investigated the accident.

Paul O. Kuddler of Hartford was scheduled to appear in court in Scituate, a dozen miles east of here in Rhode Island, today, to answer to a charge of evading responsibility. Kuddler's car sideswiped another machine near Chop Mist hill last night. Instead of stopping he drove off at high speed.

A telephone message was the means of having Sergeant G. L. Gardner of the Danielson barracks waiting for him when he came along the Danielson pike near the Gallup farm. Inspection of his car revealed a damaged bumper and fender, and he readily admitted his responsibility. He was turned over to a Rhode Island state trooper.

Archie Greenberg of Worcester, whose counsel was Attorney Archibald Macdonald, Jr., of Putnam, was presented before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court today to answer to a violation of the motor vehicle laws. The court imposed a fine of $5 and actual costs.

A lively verbal tilt between Attorney Irving H. Miron of Putnam, counsel for Raymond Hopkins, charged with a statutory offense, and Prosecuting Attorney Arthur G. Bill enlivened the court proceedings this morning. Attorney Miron objected to Attorney Bill questioning a young woman, this prior to the opening of court, who is expected to be a state witness in the Hopkins case, on the ground that she might incriminate herself of having been in danger of falling into vice. The case eventually was continued until March 5, this being a second continuance.

John Rooney, 70, a native of this town, died today at his home in Pomfret, where he had been a resident for many years. During his active life time he had been engaged as a carpenter and farmer. Mr. Rooney was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rooney.

He leaves his wife and two sisters, Mrs. Martin Fitzsimmons of the Mashentuck district of this town, and Mrs. James Kennedy of Providence.

Consideration is being given, County Game Warden Daniels said this morning, to a plan for releasing some beavers at the Pike cranberry bog tract of land that the state purchased some time since, near South Killingly and at the head of Snake Meadow brook. There is a pond of considerable size there, and the idea is to have the beavers clean it up in operations they would be certain to start in creating a home for themselves. The pond is intended eventually for trout storage. A problem that presents itself, as to releasing beavers there, is the difficulty likely to be experienced in getting them back again, once the work they are wanted to do is accomplished.

To clear up what appeared today to be a quite widespread misunderstanding, Alma Forcier of Goodyear, a general officer of the Union St. John Baptist, pointed out that there is absolutely no official or financial connection between that organization and the old St. John Baptist society. This explanation is made incident to a court action instituted by George Potvin of Putnam against the St. John Baptist society of that city, owners of property which he has attached. The St. John Baptist society has been in existence the past 55 years, whereas the Union St. John Baptist was organized only 29 years ago. The latter organization has a number of councils in eastern Connecticut, including one in Danielson.

This afternoon at the home on Cottage street, Mrs. Frank J. Gorman was hostess to the members of the Entre Nous club at a Washington bridge. The favors and decorations were in keeping with the spirit of the holiday. Honors were won by Mrs. Earl Wood, Mrs. Lucien Lambert and Mrs. Rene Buteau. Refreshments were served.

Washington's birthday will be observed as a holiday at the Danielson postoffice. The lobby of the office will be open throughout the day. There will be neither city nor rural deliveries of mail. Mails will be despatched as usual.

While here this morning, County Game Warden Thomas Daniels of Plainfield announced that he has appointed George Laird, former sergeant of the Putnam city police department, as a deputy game warden.

Immediately the grand list of the town is completed, following such changes from its present form as may be necessary following the deliberations of the board of relief, the selectmen will meet to estimate the amount of the tax rate required for the current year. The proposed tax rate will be presented for the consideration of the voters at the adjourned annual town meeting in early March.

Following a meeting of the organization this evening there was a whist at their rooms under the auspices of Mary A. Livermore tent, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War.

Tuesday afternoon there is to be a meeting of the Ladies' Prayer circle at the home of Mrs. Elliott Allen of Main street.

This year the firemen and military organizations of Danielson will unite in giving a pre-Lenten ball at the state armory. The 192nd Field Artillery band of New London will come here for the event.

The New London Archdeaconry meeting of the Girls' Friendly society is to be held with the local society, of St. Alban's parish, on March 16.

This evening at the Congregational church in South Killingly there was a reception in honor of Rev. Henry A. Coolidge, the pastor, and Mrs. Coolidge. The program given at the Westfield Congregational church there Tuesday evening by the Treble Clef Choir and String Ensemble was repeated.

PUTNAM

CATTLE DEALER ARRESTED FOR PASSING RUBBER CHECK

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 21—E. Fitz Johnson, a Plainfield cattle dealer is under arrest in this city for issuing a check without having sufficient funds to his credit in the Plainfield National bank. Johnson was taken into custody yesterday in Danielson by Captain A. J. Dubreuil and State Officer H. Theodore Strand of Danielson barracks. He was released after posting bonds of $500 for his appearance in city court in this city Monday morning. According to Captain Dubreuil, Johnson purchased a load of cattle from a farmer in East Putnam, meeting his obligation with a check written for $90. The payee in going through the usual procedure to turn the check into cash was informed of the worthlessness of the note, after it had been protested. He entered a complaint and police action against Johnson resulted. The local police chief stated this morning that Johnson has been given an opportunity to raise funds sufficient to meet the amount of his check. If successful in his efforts the captain said that charges against him will be dropped.

Frederick W. Seward, chairman of the board of relief stated today that the board had completed its work of hearing appeals from tax payers following the filing of the report of the board of assessors. The report of the committee of which Mr. Seward is chairman will be filed with the town clerk one day next week.

Miss Marjorie Bradford and State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford were in Willimantic today attending a session of superior court.

An effort is being made by the city and school health authorities to stamp out what has become an epidemic of German measles. Several children in the schools were dismissed from classes in order to prevent further spread of the disease. The disease in most cases is mild; those suffering not being in any way dangerously ill. However it is contagious and every precaution must be taken to prevent other students from being exposed to the malady.

A fund of $600, the remainder of the 1929 appropriation for the police department is to be expended in equipping the department with needed supplies. Captain A. J. Dubreuil and members of the police committee of the council have prepared a purchasing programme which includes an order for six .32 calibre revolvers of the "positive" type. These will be issued to the regular patrolmen in exchange for guns of larger calibre now being used. The discarded weapons will be issued to supernumerary officers who are equipped with revolvers not of a standard make. New night sticks, handcuffs and other "tools" will be purchased by the department.

Putnam has long been a junction for highway and railroad traffic, but from indications seen overhead today, it appears that the giant monoplanes of the Colonial Air Transport company operating between Boston and New York have marked Putnam for a switch. Shortly after noon today two planes flying a northern course en route to Boston met over this city with a third flying the New York route. Sailing majestically through the skies, radiating the light of a bright sun from their silvery bodies the three ships met, dipped in salute, and continued on their courses. The aerial maneuver presented a pretty scene to numbers who watched from the streets.

The 198th anniversary of the birth of George Washington was observed with fitting exercises at all of the public schools and at St. Mary's parochial schools today. Saturday will be the anniversary of the Great American's birth and will be observed only by local banking institutions which will be closed during the day.

The attention of police has been directed to street lights in the south end of the city being broken. The broken lights along Farrows and Ring streets have forced residents of that section to plod their way home through the darkness the past week. From all indications youngsters are using the street illuminators for targets to improve their ability as marksmen.

Officer Joseph Page who has been confined to his home since Sunday suffering from grippe has made a satisfactory recovery and expects to resume his duties on the night patrol force Sunday evening.

Putnam is gravely in need of adequate fire apparatus according to Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston who is opposed to the common council's plan of equipping the Eagle Hose wagon with pneumatic tires at a cost of $430. The piece of apparatus stationed in the north end of the city has lived its life, in the opinion of the chief, and to recondition it for service would be a false economy. In a statement to the board of aldermen in session this week, Chief Thurston said that the three pieces of apparatus are obsolete types and should be replaced with modern fire wagons in order to adequately protect the city. The following of the chief engineer's recommendations is highly improbable since the council has already approved to the plan of equipping the ancient truck in the north end with air inflated tires.

JEWETT CITY

MRS. CHAS. EDW. PRIOR IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Charles Edw. Prior of Bridgeport was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Prior, during a visit in the borough to attend the funeral of George E. Sparks. Mr. Prior left Friday for Windsor, Conn., where his wife has been visiting her sister, he having learned that Mrs. Prior had received minor injuries in an automobile accident earlier in the week.

The postoffice will be closed today (Saturday) all day after 9 a. m. Other business will run on the regular Saturday schedule. The library and banks will be closed.

Finn's tonight, mat. at 3; all-talking picture, Little Johnny Jones.—adv.

Miss Ruby Thornton, who is ill at her home on Pleasant View street, is being cared for by Mrs. Augusta Lee.

Grangers throughout this section attended the meeting of New London County Pomona grange No. 6, in Newent Thursday, with Lisbon grange No. 191.

Finn's Sun. night at 7, mat. at 3; Gold Diggers of Broadway.—adv.

At the railroad bridge, where the two big piers are to be built, linemen are taking down the Western Union and New Haven railroad telegraph and telephone wires. A temporary arrangement during the construction work at that point calls for the wires to be placed in a cable and strung outside the zone of operation.

At Riverside grammar school, Mrs. Remick's class entertained in the assembly hall, with the following program, Friday afternoon: Lincoln Play. Scene: General Store in 1823. Characters: Mr. Dram, the storekeeper, Jos. Lutz; Mrs. Dram, his wife, Julia Stadnicki; Abraham Lincoln, aged 14, Leon Petticki; Miss Durr, first customer, Mary Parzych; Mrs. Smith, second customer, Julia Przrborowski. Second Part—Washington: Washington and I, poem, Agnes Connolly; Honor the Women, reading, Rose Muscatine; Washington and the Flag, reading, Louis Kolodziez; Washington's Birthday, reading, Rita McKenna. The concluding part of the program was a play telling the story of Washington and the cherry tree. Characters: Mrs. Wild, Sophie Gunner; Willie Wild, William Miskiawitick; Frank Fine, Bennie Cholewa; George Washington, aged 9, Henry Holden; Frank Brown, Leonard Shackeleton; Mr. Washington, Bolek Kargul; First Boy, Frank Malek; Second Boy, Raymond Symington. Scene 1. Mrs. Wild's Living Room. Second scene. A Cherry Orchard in Virginia.

The class leader was Domonic Slonski.

Local people acquainted with William H. Whiteman were sorry to learn of his death, as told in Friday morning's Bulletin. He and his wife lived in Griswold close to 15 years and were members of the Baptist church in Jewett City, having joined in 1904. Mr. Whiteman lived on the John Hawkins farm, also in Hopeville, where his home was on the one-time Lathrop property. As the ranks of the resident members of the G. A. R. grew thinner each year, he was one of the last to represent Sedgwick post No. 1 in the Griswold Memorial day parades. Mr. Whiteman, perhaps better than any other man locally, could tell of the decline of the carriage making industry. To be seen on some of the local farms today are farm vehicles which he made, shaping many of the parts with infinite labor, by hand.

An entirely new and admirable type of automobile driver has been located in this borough and his number and name are known to a company of those who benefited by the gentlemanly handling of his big machine. The hour was noon Wednesday. The setting included five women waiting on the sidewalk for the south-bound Yellow bus, with the gutters filled to the brim with eight inches of black slush. Across the road there stood a big truck, discharging freight. The bus was in sight, preceded by the lighter machine. There was a narrow margin; he could have shot through between the curb and the truck. Grasping the situation in an instant, he saw the slush and the waiting passengers. Out went his hand, as he jammed on the emergency, and he drove through the gutter at a snail's pace, with the result that neither tempers nor hosiery were disturbed.

PATRIOTIC EXERCISES AND VALENTINE PROGRAM

A Washington and valentine program was enjoyed at the meeting of Pachaug grange Thursday evening with the following numbers: Song, by all, Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes; St. Valentine's reading, Who Began It, Miss Bertha Whipple; the grange brothers sang a love song to the sisters, Aunt Dinah's Quilting Party, each brother choosing a sister and marching around the hall with the line led by State Master L. G. Tolles and the Pachaug lecturer, as they sang; reading, Not a Plaster Saint, but a Real Man (referring to George Washington), by Mrs. Minda Morgan; patriotic harmonica solos, Miss Mary Lewis; playlet, All Because He Could Not Tell a Lie, presented by Mrs. Victor Campbell, Raymond, Charles and Herbert Campbell and Royal Roode.

In recognition of the fact that Feb. 21 was the 41st anniversary of Pachaug grange, Willis Terry gave a brief history of the grange. Mr. Terry is the only charter member of Pachaug grange who is still a member of that grange. State Master Tolles very pleasingly rendered two whistling solos, Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes, and Let Me Call You Sweetheart. All then took part in a picture contest, the pictures of 11 noted and well-known men were passed around to see who could recognize the largest number. Miniature hearts were then passed out, each with a number on it and the sisters and brothers of the order matched numbers, which when matched had words on the hearts which rhymed. The partners were then asked to make a rhyme of two or four lines ending with the words on the hearts.

Besides the state master, Louis G. Tolles, there were present, Mrs. Sarah L. Curtis, lecturer, and Rev. Charles A. Downs, chaplain, of Connecticut State grange; also Mrs. Tolles, Mr. Curtis, master of Plainville grange. Visitors were present from Southington, Plainville, Brooklyn, Killingly and Lisbon granges.

The next program of Pachaug grange will feature a debate.

Miss Catherine Jodoin is spending the week end in Waterbury, at Mr. and Mrs. Charles Desmarla's.

A Gypsy concert and tableaux are being prepared under the auspices of the Willing Workers' class of the Methodist church, directed by Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Carter, to be given in Rioux hall. The chorus includes Evelyn Clark, Mildred and Harriett McCluggage, Bertha Davis, Marian Thornton, Edith and Janet Marriott, Bessie Medick, Hazel Johnson, Helen Hart, Mary Howes and Mary McFail, assisted by Verna Tarbox, Everett Thornton, John MacLean, Margaret Jordan, Sarah Gill, Byron Kinnie and Isabel Kennedy. The last named is from Norwich and is to give Gypsy dances.

KINDLY WOMEN'S GIFTS TO LITTLE DUDA BABY

Mrs. Stanley Duda of East Main street has a small son about two weeks old; and as there are three daughters in the family, the oldest, 12, the baby's birthday was properly celebrated by some of the members of the Polish Women's alliance. They showered the daintiest of garments upon the wee chap, and he appeared to fully appreciate every gift. The women who gave the party are Mrs. Joseph Malek, Mrs. Frank Minski, Mrs. Anna Stadnicki, Mrs. Stanley Novacki, Mrs. Louis Papinski, Mrs. Edmond Fontaine, Mrs. Joseph Kusek, Mrs. Joseph Glowacki and Mrs. Frank Kuzziol.

ROSS TOURISTS VISIT FATHER SERRA'S MISSION

Writing from The Breakers', Long Beach, Cal., Feb. 15, Mr. Ross says:

We left San Diego Feb. 13. The journey was beside the shore all the way. We could not always see the ocean for the canyons at right angles to the beach were rather steep and then the climb on the other side was also steep. After leaving Oceanside we passed through a cattle country where Herefords were grazing — hundreds and hundreds of them. There seemed to be plenty of grass; the fields as far as the eye could see to the foot of the mountains were very green. Within twenty miles of this city the fields were being hoed by Mexicans and the crops that were being cultivated were peas and potatoes, hundreds of acres of each.

Reaching Capistrano, we went into the mission of San Juan Capistrano. The mission was founded in 1776, destroyed in 1812 by earthquake, with the loss of 39 Indians.

Serra, (the greatest Padre) founded this mission and here he spent most of his time. Part of the buildings (in ruins), are still standing and are being restored.

At Huntington beach, we saw the first great oil fields—all above tidewater. There were thousands of wells here and all seemed to be working. Yesterday we went over to Catalina Island. This will interest Warden Ed Jodoin for he has been here. I think he may be interested more in the ball field where the Chicago team begins its spring practice. I would like to see His Honor run the bases on this field.

The most interesting thing to me was the glass-bottomed steamboats where, it is said, the bed of the ocean can be seen 85 ft. below. The fish we saw were red and blue perch, some very dark and some light. The growth of seaweed was very fine. They call it a forest and from this seaweed nearly all of our iodine is extracted.

The bay of Avalon, the harbor of Catalina Island was in sunshine all the day, yet in the mountains surrounding the harbor the clouds hung low.

We could see this bright spot of sunshine long after we had left the bay.

As we were leaving, the band on the dock played Aloha and was answered from our steamboat by two or three cornetists.

I am glad I do not hear Aloha very often for it would make me homesick. I saw tears in the eyes of big rugged farmers from the middle west. They were homesick, no doubt. We go to Pasadena from here.

PLAINFIELD

The Monday Evening Bridge club was entertained by Mrs. James Coffee. The prizes were won by Miss Celia Israel and Miss Katherine Kirby. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Carl Mathewson and daughter, Frances, of New London, are spending a few days with Mrs. Susie Winsor.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Baldwin, of Fishers Island, are here visiting their parents for a few days.

Secretary Edwin Hill, of Norwich, will preach at the First Congregational church Sunday.

Lucy Webb Hayes circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., will meet with Mrs. Elmer Phillips the coming week.

Mr. Martella, who has been connected with the Finnish Farmers' Cooperation Trading association, has been transferred to a Finnish corporation in Wisconsin. Henry Kulman is now the manager at the local store.

Mrs. Arthur Pechie is ill.

Under the auspices of St. John's council, K. of C., the following cast: John Smith, Bruce Wilton, Agnes Allard, Vera Wilton, John Fanning, Father Kelly, Rose Lawless, Kathleen O'Connor, Francis Gallagher, Charlie Harrow, Eugene Bellavance, Kennard Wright, Alice Zercie, Lesma Watkins, Lionel Gauthier, "Skeeter" Martin, put on "The Rosary," a play in four acts, Tuesday evening at the Community house. The players were from Moosup. The committee in charge was: William Croops, Arthur Mathieu, Uclide Fournier, Adelard Laflash, George Coulombe, Norman Kelly, William Sullivan and William Sedden. The attendance was very gratifying, 350 or more being present.

Mrs. John Kingsley spent Thursday with Mrs. Peter O'Neil, of Norwich.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

Miss Ruth Mathewson, of Boston, will spend the holiday and week end at home.

Local people are planning to attend a supper in Norwich, under the auspices of the American Legion auxiliary, several members of which live here.

The junior prom will be held at the Community house in Plainfield. Miss Helen Cronin, the class supervisor, has charge of the affair.

Albert Tillinghast was a visitor in Elliott Friday.

The pupils of the graded school had exercises at the school Friday, in memory of Washington.

Mrs. Willis Turner, who has been ill is able to out.

Homer Dean was in Elliott Friday.

George Schofield, of Danielson, has been the guest of friends here.

Hosea Geer, of Plainfield, a former resident here, has been calling on local friends.

Protection lodge of I. O. O. F. met at Odd Fellows' hall Thursday evening.

Stonington high school basketball team was defeated Thursday afternoon by the Plainfield team. The game was played on the local court.

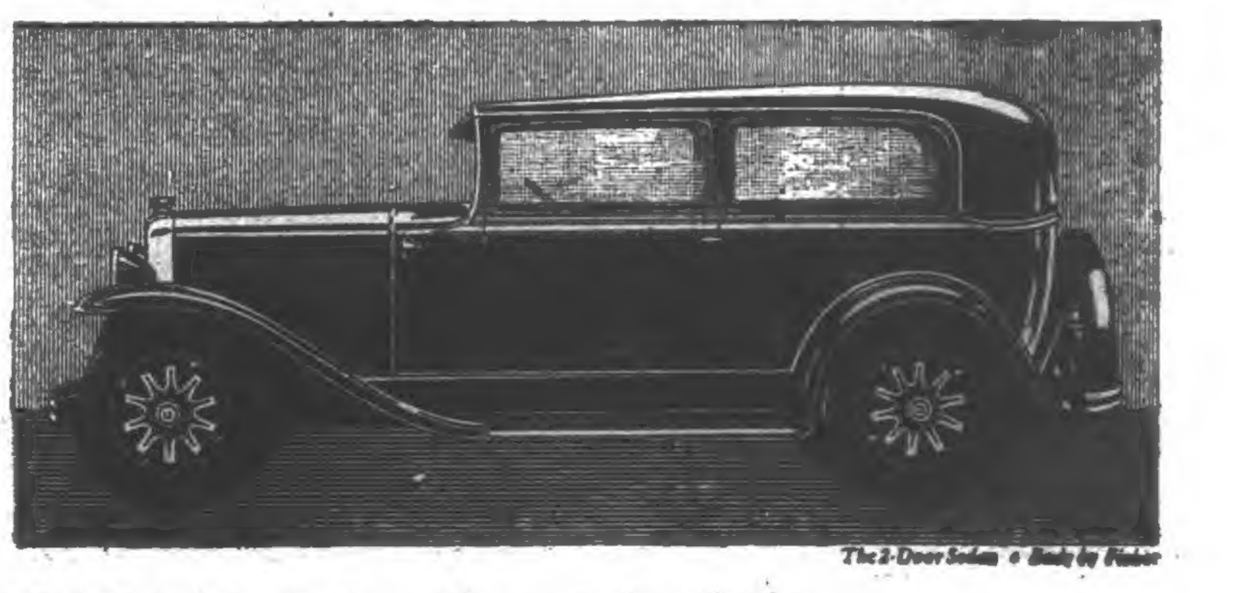
A FAMOUS NAME
A FINER CAR
means that Pontiac value has been increased...



The 2-Door Sedan, a Body by Fisher

THE New Series Pontiac Big Six is called "a finer car with a famous name."

This means that the intrinsic value for which Pontiac has always been famous reaches new heights in the New Series Six. It means that new-type rubber engine supports make Pontiac's big, 60-horsepower engine smoother than ever. It means that a new steering mechanism, acting on roller bearings, gives Pontiac still greater ease of control. Its big, improved, internal, non-squeak four-wheel brakes are now safer and more dependable than ever. There is smart new styling in its bodies by Fisher. It has a new sloping windshield that lessens headlight glare. And improved Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers, at extra cost, give big car riding ease.

If you are in the market for a low-priced six that combines fine performance and attractive style with assurance of enduring satisfaction—do not fail to see the New Series Pontiac Big Six—a finer car with a famous name!

Prices, $745 and up, f. o. b. Pontiac, Mich., plus delivery charges. Shock absorbers standard equipment. Bumpers and spring covers at slight extra cost. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f. o. b.) price when comparing automobile values . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired.

NO ENTANGLEMENTS

In connection with most every conference that has been held in Europe for peace and a better understanding of nations, there has been a demand that some assurance of protection be given if treaty conditions are accepted.

It is a case of anticipating the time when the provisions of the treaty fail to bring the restraint that is expected, when something goes wrong and trouble is faced. It is not strange that there should be a feeling of uncertainty among the nations of Europe in departing from age-old practices and trying something new. And with that uncertainty it is natural that there should be a sufficient look ahead to provide against an evil day.

Such an idea has been put forth in connection with the conference at London. The plan has been suggested that all the nations should enter into a protective agreement for the purpose of dealing with any nation or nations that disregards the pact.

Whatever may be the view of the nations of Europe in this respect there can be no expectation that the United States will become a party thereto. That is something which has always been contrary to the American view. We are anxious to see a limitation of warships accomplished but we are not willing to bind ourselves to fight to insure the security of European nations. If this is not understood it was made clear in the statement which Senator Robinson made in London.

George Washington, whose birthday anniversary we celebrate today, gave warning many years ago against foreign entanglements. Those words have come down through the decades and our views today are unchanged. Senator Robinson declared: "My understanding is that the people of the United States generally adhere to the traditional policy of our government to avoid, if possible, involvement in European politics. They would repudiate emphatically any treaty expressly or impliedly obligating our government to employ the army or the navy for the enforcement of obligations assumed by other nations."

In that particular he unquestionably interprets American sentiment in the correct manner, and it is well that it should be so stated that there may be no incorrect idea gained concerning our attitude or action.

GETTING AWAY FROM TOLLS

Pennsylvania is anticipating with more or less elation the coming of the day when it can boast of no toll roads. There are not many states where such highways are to be found, and it is probable that there are many people in this country who never traveled over one, but Pennsylvania has one left of its numerous toll roads which, through successful negotiations, should disappear this spring. It will mean the completion of a policy that has been underway for the past 16 years during which something like 100 toll roads have been eliminated.

Toll roads were a feature of that period before states became interested in highway construction. They flourished when better highways were demanded but when it was necessary for private funds, county or town money, to provide for their construction there was a demand for some return on the investment. It was like forming a corporation to build and maintain roads quite the same as it would build and run factories or operate a store. It was likewise a case where those using the roads did the paying. It is different nowadays. Where private enterprise flourished in other days the problem is met by public funds raised by various forms of taxation. Naturally the toll road is undesirable.

But while there were toll roads in days which are gone, accompanied also by toll bridges, the passing of the former is gradually being followed in the case of the latter. Toll bridges are to be found in many instances today but for the most party they represent the effort of state, county or town to recover the cost of construction, after which they become free. In some instances they are built by private capital, but in such cases it is invariably provided that the state has the right to purchase whenever it is disposed.

It is perfectly evident that great advantages have been provided through the construction of toll roads and toll bridges. They continue to exist in the case of the latter, though the number is rapidly diminishing, but the situation is far different when the state can step in and take them over at will than it was when indefinite future toll payments were faced.

TREES, TREES, MORE TREES

While there is an opportunity provided for contributing some relief to the unemployment situation by the setting out of trees in connection with municipal forest projects, as planned in New York state, there is also displayed the increasing interest that is being taken in this direction.

It isn't possible as yet to do much in the way of setting out trees, but by the orders which have been placed for trees it becomes apparent that there will be much activity as soon as the weather and the ground permit. New York has a conservation commission that is doing much valuable work. Through its nurseries it supplies many trees to the municipal projects and it has just been announced by the commission that up to the first of this month orders had been received for trees to be planted in 41 municipal forest projects, ten of which call for 100,000 trees or more each, with a total of 4,140,000 trees in these projects. Inasmuch as this work is estimated to provide 6,000 days work it will of necessity mean employment for a considerable number.

But while there is special interest in the provision of work for as many as possible at this time, it is also apparent that New York is getting enthusiastic over the idea of growing more trees. It is finding that the municipal forest idea serves as an excellent example for those in a position to go into the raising of trees on their own land and it is at the same time making a worth-while contribution to the need for more reforestation.

Through the planting of trees in the right localities there will be a conservation of the rainfall and thus valuable help will be given to the brooks and streams which feed larger water supplies. At the same time it makes it possible to employ waste land for a return where no profit is being obtained today and through such utilization of land there will be a larger supply of native timber for which there is always a market.

The movement for state forests, municipal forests and the growing of more trees is by no means confined to New York state. There important work is being done, however, for the good of the state as well as the problem of a future timber supply.

CONNECTICUT TRANSPORTATION

Railroad consolidation is a matter which has been discussed from various angles in New England. There are advocates of one plan and supporters of another, with many feeling that it would be best to let well enough alone.

There is a New England committee on railroad consolidation which is to hold a hearing at Hartford next Thursday afternoon for the purpose of getting the Connecticut opinion regarding consolidation and transportation problems in general.

This appears to be an opportunity of which full advantage should be taken by those in Connecticut who are deeply interested in transportation facilities and who recognize the importance which they contribute to this state. Connecticut is no different than any state in desiring the best possible in the way of transportation facilities. If it hasn't them it wants them. If it has them and there is any danger of their removal through changes it is time to get busy and establish a stopper.

Connecticut has its problems but it should be mindful of the fact that it is being given an opportunity to be heard in regard to them. If it is possible to see where there would be an improvement through consolidation it would be well to let it be known to the committee. If it is seen where consolidation would do no good but would operate to the disadvantage of the state the time for setting forth the situation has been fixed and full advantage should be taken of it.

In its effort to become thoroughly familiar with the transportation problems in this state, the New England committee should find those directly concerned more than anxious to furnish the information. The committee should be able to reach its conclusions upon facts as presented to it and not upon inferences.

SIR ESME RETIRES

Ambassadors come and ambassadors go but diplomatic relations must be continued. The departure of Sir Esme Howard after a stay of six years as British ambassador to Washington simply means that his ambassadorship here has been completed and another will soon take his place. But it also means more than that, for it means the completion of a term of service that has been highly satisfactory, not only to his own government but to this government. But for the fact that he has reached the age when his term of service entitles him to retirement it is more than probable that he would have been retained in that role which he has administered so well.

The British government thoroughly understood the qualifications of the man it was sending here and the importance of the post when Sir Esme took up his duties at Washington. He came at a time when there were numerous important questions to be handled, but there has been no doubt concerning the manner in which he has dealt with them. Nothing helps to bring two countries into better and closer relationship more than the right kind of representation. It serves to break down misunderstandings and to clear away doubts and uncertainties. It makes for clear understanding and establishes confidence.

Six years is a long period in connection with an ambassadorship. It thus reflects greatly to the credit of Sir Esme when it is disclosed that there have been only two others who have served longer from Great Britain.

Through various functions at Washington it has been shown with what regret his departure is being made. This displayed the appreciation of the man and the service he rendered.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Washington's birthday. You can join the mighty throng and throw your flag to the breeze.

When some people announce they are going to run for office, the natural query is, Which way?

The man on the corner says: People may need discipline but they like to get it in their own way.

Governor Trumbull is able to get about after his glider accident with only a slight limp. May his flying experiences be never any worse.

Moscow is now denouncing deals arranged with Norwegian exporters. Soviet Russia is making it evident that those who play with fire are apt to get burned.

When Henry Ford says he is going to devote the rest of his life to education and that he has $100,000,000 for that purpose, he will have a chance to find out that he will have no difficulty in getting rid of his money.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Joseph Wiseltier, state supervisor of art education, has an exceedingly interesting article in the February issue of Connecticut Schools on The Meaning of Health, from which I quote the following: "Health must be practiced not studied. It cannot be treated like an academic subject. History or Latin is learned, but health is practiced. It is not a question of knowing, but of doing. We may know perfectly well that we need exercise, rest, recreation, change to keep in good condition, but the all important question is, do we take it? There are no formulas or short cuts to health. The magic of the medicine man will not bring it forth. To get it, one must pay the price of engaging in activities that will bring about proper functioning. Health flows from life. Participation in life activities is necessary. This means getting up from the easy chair, leaving your work sometimes, not indulging your appetite, and giving the necessary time to outdoor activity to burn up fat and old tissues."

About a month ago or more, a very significant article in Christian Education appeared written by the well-known scholar, Robert L. Kelly in which he quoted this significant reply of a school teacher who was questioned by L. P. Packs, the famous English educator, as to where religion came in the school program. This was the answer: "We teach it all day long. We teach it in arithmetic by accuracy. We teach it in history by humanity. We teach it in geography by breadth of mind. We teach it in handicraft by thoroughness. We teach it in astronomy by reverence. We teach it in the playground by fair play." While this may not be considered as a theological explanation of religion, is it not a practical one, and would not this be a better world if lived up to?

Every now and then some new and startling method is suggested whereby the human race—or at least those who by nature are best fitted to survive—could reach the extraordinary century mark. The daily press has recently set forth a new type of the coming centenarian: This new type of man weighs 193 pounds, is six feet and three inches tall. He eats very sparingly and largely of fruit and takes plenty of exercise. Thus far very good. Probably very few would take exceptions to this part of the bill of fare. But he never wears an overcoat; even in zero weather he has been known to go three whole weeks without tasting food, takes plenty of exercise. At all times his dress is rather scanty, which from the standpoint of our variable New England weather may be somewhat questionable. He also believes that rum and tobacco seriously interferes with the century program—and so do many others.

Can there be any intelligent question about the part food plays in the matter of health and longevity? Simple as they seem to be, few questions are more important to the welfare of man than these: First, what shall I eat? and secondly, how shall I eat it? In the writer's opinion although too much stress is put upon meat as an article of diet. The absolutely necessity that has been given to meat in the past for furnishing warmth and strength of body has been greatly exaggerated in the opinion of scientific experts. According to the same authorities it has had more to do in producing high blood pressure than any other single article of diet. It would probably be very unwise to cut out meat altogether as an article of diet according to the same authorities. But science is most decidedly with us when we say eat less of it and more of fruit and vegetables.

Well, do we realize that the sun slowly and imperceptibly is creeping, day by day, just a little higher in the vault of the heavens? Before we fully realize it (because it moves with such slow and easy uniformity) it will be at the zenith of its heat and power. The strangest thing about solar activity—if it is possible for one thing to be more wonderful than another—is its everlasting motion. It is never "resting, never ceasing." Do you realize that the sun teaches us a very important lesson? It certainly does, and this is the lesson; giving light and always at it. More than this it teaches us that its light is generated by its activity. Now the active man is he who goes through this life seen and consequently exerting an influence. People watch him, and if he casts about him a salutary influence, a healthy atmosphere, they will admire him, and when he goes down behind the western hills, they will call him blessed!

Every year seems to bring out something more amazing in the checkered life of Abraham Lincoln. Although he has been dead 65 years, yet somebody, (and especially Dr. William E. Barton) is finding out something new about him that adds to the greatness and nobility of his personality. It has always been a question how anyone who was so hampered and circumscribed by the poverty and crudeness of his early surroundings could possibly have risen to one of the most commanding personalities that even this great country has produced. Is it too much to say that he is one of the outstanding characters of all time? Twice was he elevated to the highest position his own country has to offer. The world has not yet ceased to wonder how any man without academic training could have been such a consummate master of the English language. Each year shows how Europe more and more admires him.

There are many things whose importance cannot be measured by the money standard and among them is the Boy Scout enterprise. Like the Christian Endeavor movement it is going down in history as one of the most important undertakings for the general uplift of the boy. I believe that the time is coming when it will be generally regarded as one of the greatest claims that General Baden-Powell will have to immortality. This is not underrating any of the brilliant exploits of this dashing British officer in India, Afghanistan and South Africa. The world—much less Great Britain—will never forget his bravery, coolness and courage in the Boer war in 1899-1900. But he will be longest remembered for creating a new world in which the normal activities of the young might have adequate expression that would intensify their general well-being.

It would be difficult to exaggerate the capacity of the average boy for development. It is easy to see that the Boy Scout idea sprang from the brain of a great sportsman, and Baden-Powell was all that. But to be a really great sportsman one must have something more than a big, husky, active body. One must also be robust in mind and morals. A great sportsman must be brave, active, and quick to act in case of emergencies. Now Baden-Powell excelled along this line also, and he would have the Boy Scouts cultivate this program of life. This movement involves an understanding and practice of outdoor-life, hiking, camping, fishing, swimming, and especially alertness and quickness of action in cases of emergency. But most of all it teaches one an understanding of himself, and the full preservation of his health.

White-Throated Sparrow and Hermit Thrush May Be Looked for Hereabout Soon

The following guide to the March birds of this section is arranged from Ralph Hoffman's "Guide to the Birds of New England and Eastern New York," edition of 1923, published by Houghton Mifflin company, Boston and New York. The figures at the left indicate the length of each bird in inches. A robin is 10.00 inches long; an English sparrow is 6.33 inches. The first list is for use only in southern Connecticut and the lower Hudson valley; the second is usable throughout all New England and eastern New York.

Even already the advent of bluebirds and evening grosbeaks has been noted, the former at Norwich Town and near the Norwich state hospital and the latter at Jewett City.

SOUTHERN CONNECTICUT LIST.

Black.

8.50. (Only near New York city and Long Island Sound.) Walks on ground; purplish or greenish at close range; feathers of upper parts heavily spotted with buff; bill blackish-brown.—Starling.

Brown or Brownish.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—Uncle Sam's hoss soldiers at last have the laugh on other branches of the army.

Ever since gasoline got to be a war essential and early bird-men like Billy Mitchell took to the air, this one-time corps d'elite of the army has been verbally on the defensive.

Aviation and aviators have grabbed off the spotlight of public attention while the doughboys laughed and the gunners chuckled in unholy glee over the sad plight of hussar dandies.

The lads who used to sport the shiny, black, silver spurred boots and the capes lined with yellow silk that made them a sight to see on parade, just had to grin and bear it. What they needed to attract attention was a pair of embroidered pilot's wings on tunics, not spurs on their boots.

Greeters, Too?

But now President Hoover seems bent on making Washington a model town, if any. He wants somebody to rival the restless activity of Police Commissioner Grover Whalen in New York when it comes to handling street traffic, and to outdo the Philadelphia police-clean up efforts of Gin'r'l Smedley Butler of the well known marines.

In other words, he wants a man especially qualified to handle police, fire and traffic matters in Washington, D. C., as district commissioner whose appointment will assure the nation that his capital "will be free of crime." He said so, out loud.

And to whom did Mr. Hoover turn? ask the gloating cavalrymen. Why, to the cavalry, to be sure, says they; to Major General Herbert B. Crosby, chief of cavalry and just about the beauest beau sabeur in the army.

He's to be, if Mr. Hoover has his way in the senate, the man on horseback of Washington. He's slated for a job of a "civilian" commissioner of the district, this life long professional soldier, just veneered into civilian status by legal technicalities.

You'd naturally expect to find General Crosby one of those dominating military types, a hard and hardly soldier ready to take orders and even more ready to give and enforce 'em. That is the army definition of the word "discipline."

Not His Picture

And does General Crosby fit that picture by habit, manner and military record? He does not. There is no more friendly and likeable man on Washington's long list of itinerant military residents. If he has any military dictator complex, he's kept it hidden.

Crosby gets a deal of fun out of life. He could laugh when mixed orders sent his furniture sailing for Manila and kept him at home. It is his way to have a personal look-see into every job he tackles. He would rather coax than bully folks.

The army insists Crosby has a real gift of leadership although it doesn't know how Mr. Hoover found it out. And he'll need it doing Washington police chores, what with diplomats, politicians, big and little, and the endless wet and dry wrangle.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 18

Taxpayers are advised by the Bureau of Internal Revenue carefully to present their claims with regard to deductions for losses. To be allowed, such losses must conform closely to the wording of the statute. Losses are deductible if incurred in the taxpayer's trade, business, or profession; in any transaction entered into for profit; or from fires, storms, shipwrecks, or other casualties, or by theft, if not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

The term "transaction entered into for profit" means any kind of business proposition. For example, a taxpayer purchases an automobile to be used for business purposes, which he sells at a loss. As this is a business proposition from start to finish, the loss sustained is deductible. But if he had purchased the automobile to be used for pleasure or convenience, the deduction would not be allowable. It was not a transaction entered into for profit.

Business losses result, usually, from the purchase and sale of merchandise. Such losses usually are ascertained by means of inventories which are required whenever in the opinion of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue their use is necessary to determine the income of any taxpayer.

YOUR HEALTH

Health Paragraphs

By Horace W. Soper, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Relaxation should be studied by every busy man or woman. Do not be constantly busy. Form the habit of resting. Lean back in your chair, close the eyes and remain passive without thinking or planning for a few minutes. A wink of sleep is a wonderful rejuvenator.

Everyone should know some of the principles underlying hydrotherapy. The cold bath is a strong stimulant. A hot water bath is also stimulating while the prolonged tepid bath has a sedative effect. A bath or plunge in cold water is injurious if is not followed by a good reaction.

Coffee and tea are both stimulants, and many sensitive individuals are injured by their use. No one should drink them who is subject to nervousness, heart palpitation or insomnia. They are of great value when one is passing through a period of undue strain and overwork.

The practice of eating three meals a day is generally accepted by the vast majority of mankind. There is really a scientific basis for this habit. The average meal leaves the stomach in from four to six hours, thus providing a period of rest for that much-abused organ. If one eats between meals the orderly process of digestion is disturbed the stomach is not prepared to receive the next meal and properly digest it.

The usual method employed in cooking vegetables entails a great economic and nutritive loss. They are hastily boiled, the water poured off and the minerals and soluble vitamins are lost. The insoluble half-cooked residue is served. Experiments show that fifty per cent of the vegetables thus prepared pass through the body in an undigested state. Vegetables should be cooked with the addition of a small pinch of baking soda and the water in which they are cooked saved and served with them. This method softens the fiber of the vegetable, makes it easy of digestion, and preserves the vitamins in a soluble form.

Eminent authorities in medicine believe that the habit of swallowing very hot food and drink is one of the causes of cancer of the gullet and stomach. I have observed that the dyspeptic individual rarely develops cancer of the stomach. He learns to eat carefully and avoids foods that are not easily digested. The more robust person who "can eat everything" is more likely to have organic disease of the stomach. He eats foods that are difficult to digest, without thought of proper mastication. The constant irritation of this undigested mass eventually affect the delicate cells in the stomach mucous membrane. Cell injury by constant irritation is an exciting cause of cancer, as illustrated by pipe smokers' cancer of the lip.

THE GARDEN

By REX REES

Perennials.

"In Some Lady's Garden," Uncle Remus says: "One time dey wuz a man, an dish yer man he had a gyardin. He had a gyardin and he had a little gal fer tor min' it. I don't speck dish yer gyardin wuz wide lak Miss Sally gyardin but hit wuz lots longer. Hit 'uz so dong dat it run down side er de big road, 'cross by de plum thicket, en back up de lane."

Now "In Some Lady's Garden" is a fine story for boys and girls, and grown people, too, as Aunt Tempy said, "I mos' shame myse'f, yet I tell you de Lord's trufe, I am des ez bad atter dem ar tales ez dat chile dar."

You have been looking over the seed catalogs and have no doubt planned your garden and enjoyed in anticipation the wealth of bloom and rich fragrance of those wonderful diathus, sweet William, garillardia and delphinium. Even now you are thinking it will be only a few weeks before the tulips will be showing through the mulch and the narcissus smiling at you on some cold frosty morning. Don't be in too great a hurry to remove the mulch. See that no heavy boards weigh down the mulching as weight often deforms the flower. Of course, there can be no lovelier sight than a bed of tulips in early spring, the most beautiful beds of tulips it has even been my lot to see were on Boston common May 30, 1817. There were litterally thousands of them so beautifully arranged that they left a lasting impression on my mind. Then on this same day in Tremont temple I heard 1500 children from the Boston public schools sing "America, "The Star Spangled Banner" and "The Merseillaise." The costumes of the children harmonized so beautifully with the tulip gardens of the common that children and tulips inevitably blend since that eventful time.

Now if you felt you could not afford to have a tulip garden last autumn because you had played a poor hand at bridge, or the payments on the car had to be met, or you had spent so much gas money motoring to see other people's gardens, turn over a new leaf and save for your tulip garden next autumn.

When the Darwins are gone have your iris bed coming into bloom. The German iris is such a wonderful flower and the varieties legion, that if you will consult an iris catalog you can greatly enrich your garden in every shade of color, at very little expense. To be sure you can pay very high prices for ordinary new varieties but you do not need to do this if you love iris, because there are such old time favorites as Madam Chereau, La Neige, Alcazar, a very rich and striking flower, Ambassador, late flowering, a regal flower, with fascinating smoky purple standards and with velvety purple falls, a flower with a great future. Then there are such great flowers as caprice crusader, dominion, regarded as one of the great irises in a class by itself. One of the newest varieties, labor, with standards of dark violet heliotrope and falls a deeper shade of heliotrope, has made a real sensation in the iris world. Another of the newest and rarest of iris is allure. The ground color of this iris is canary yellow, overlaid with pink. The flower is large and of fine texture. The price is in keeping with the beauty of the plant and flower. Iris can not be dismissed without reference to Lieut A. Williamson; standards very broad soft companula violet, falls, very large velvety royal purple, brilliant gold beard, massive in growth in stalk and flower, always to be depended upon to furnish flowers to the limit. Iris will grow and thrive in almost any but wet, soggy soil. However, they like a sandy soil best and are least subject to rot in light soils.

Back of your iris grow your hollyhock, delphiniums, wrexham strains. They are among the most beautiful of all the flowers and can be depended on to give a good account of themselves throughout the entire summer. Two year old clumps give best results. If you do not care to buy clumps you can sow seed now and transplant in May and have blooming spikes in late September and October. Delphiniums stand a lot of frost. Grow a lot of them.

Back of your delphiniums have your background of evergreens. If you can not have the real trees get pine boughs and use an iron bar to make holes deep enough to set them solidly into the earth and plant morning glory seed to furnish a cover for the summer. Now don't forget the background. If you have plenty of space it would be well to plant a few hibiscus. They will develop as the years go by into great clumps and be covered for weeks with maroon, pink and white flowers. Then along the borders boltonia asteroides, white, 6 feet tall and boltonia latisquama, shell pink, and 5 feet tall, will bloom through August and September, adding charm to any garden. Then there is that wonderful hybrid, "aster climax," which as years go, is of yesterday, but has made a place for itself in every gardener's heart. Its parent was the common wayside aster carried to England and there hybridized and developed through a period of eight years and brought back to America to become one of our most prized autumn flowers, covered with shell pink or more strictly lavender ping blooms, from late August to October.

As to peonies, if you are not growing a dozen clumps or more of this really great flower better begin right now to think about it, and order it for your early spring planting. The autumn time is best but you will get more blooms a year from now than if you wait until autumn. Albert Crousse bears immense full flowers of shell pink color, and is really one of the very best peonies from many points of view: fine for the garden, the house and the market. Then there is Festive Maxima now nearly 100 years old but still regarded by all growers as one of the greatest white peonies ever grown. You could not go wrong if you were ordering a peony garden in getting the following: Albert Crousse, Avalanche, Berlioz, Boule De Neige, Clair Dubois, Courronne d' Or, Dorchester, Edulis Superba, Eugenie Verdier, Felix Crousse, Golden Harvest and that charming water lily peony, Marie Jacquin.

Space will not permit even the mentioning of many, many other beautiful and worthwhile perennials. A few well laid out beds is far better than a hodge podge of hit and miss beds. Don't dig up the lawn to plant here and there a flower. Nothing is more beautiful and restful than a well cared for lawn.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

Seeming and Being.

"As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he,"—and conversely, as a man appears to be so will he think in his heart. In other words if one is happy and cheerful and kind, he will smile; he will speak cheerfully; he will do acts of kindness. On the other hand, to smile and to speak quietly and in a kind tone even if one feels unhappy or angry or discouraged at the moment, so reacts on the man's inner being that he begins to feel that he has simulated. We should never allow ourselves as Christians to express outwardly by word or by look any unkind or unhappy thought or feeling. To do so tends to make it grow and get a final hold on the character.

Once in crossing a meadow I came to a spot that was filled with fragrance, yet I could see no flowers, and I wondered whence the fragrance came. At last I found low down close to the ground hidden by the tall grass innumerable little flowers. It was from these that the fragrance came.

I enter some homes. There is a rich perfume of love that prevales all the place. It may be a home of wealth and luxury or it may be plain and bare, no matter, it is not the house, nor the furniture, nor the adornment that makes this air of sweetness. I look closely: There is a gentle spirit in that home that breathes a benediction on all the home.

"The lives that make the world so sweet,
Are shy, and hide like humble flowers:
We pass them with our careless feet,
Nor dream 'tis their fragrance fills the bower
And cheers and comforts us hour by hour."

Stories That Recall Others

Fair Enough

An attractive young bride called at a poultry farm for fresh eggs. The farm woman showed her some cracked eggs, saying: "I sell the cracked ones cheaper."

"If you will crack a few of the large ones, I'll take a dozen each for Jack and me," replied the bride.

Brighter

Little Mary has been losing her teeth. One tooth especially bothered her, being loose, but not loose enough to come out. The other evening she decided she would work at it until it came out, which she did. When mother took her upstairs to bed to lay down beside her until she went to sleep, she cuddled up and said:

"Oh, mother, I'm so glad that tooth is out. It just makes the whole world look brighter."

ROUGHAGE IN DIET NEEDED IN REDUCING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Eliminates Danger

Are you one of those who are reducing by diet? If so, there is one important thing you should know—diets that do not include roughage cause constipation, often with serious consequences. Guard against it!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains the roughage needed to insure regular elimination. It is guaranteed to relieve both temperary and recurring constipation or your money will be refunded. Two tablespoons daily—in serious cases, with each meal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is not fattening. But it does add valuable iron to the blood which helps prevent anemia (another dieting danger) and bring a glowing, healthy color to the complexion.

You can enjoy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in many delightful ways. As a ready-to-eat cereal with milk, honey, sprinkled over cereals and salads, in soups and soaked in fruit juices. It is appetizing in cooked food. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY SOCIAL BY WEST END COMMUNITY

A delightful Washington's birthday social was held Friday evening by the West End Community association at the Elizabeth street school house. The hostesses were Mrs. Ernest Latimer and Mrs. H. O. Smith. The social room was most attractively decorated in colonial style, red, white and blue predominating. There were 21 tables of whist and appropriate prizes were awarded the winners.

Following the card party there was a patriotic programme by a group of children. The programme included a patriotic sketch, the singing of America, Columbia and the Star Spangled Banner. The children were in costume and their programme was well received by the delighted audience.

A buffet luncheon of cake, coffee and ice cream was served. Individual cakes, attractively decorated were served at the tables by the committee. The favors were red and white carnations made by Mrs. Latimer. Red, white and blue caps, made by Mrs. Latimer and Mrs. H. O. Smith, were worn by those present and a number appeared in colonial costumes.

Mrs. Latimer had on exhibition a pair of buckles presented by George Washington to her great great grandfather, Moses Stevens of Lebanon.

Last Friday night the association held a valentine party. The entertainment committee comprised C. Krause, M. Latimer, H. Smith, William Patridge, Frank Fields and George Gifford. There were 175 present and Al Smith's Mohegan orchestra furnished music for the dancing. Mr. Chappell prompted for the square dances. Light refreshments were served.

STATE MARKET GARDENERS TO TEST NEW VEGETABLES

Sixty Connecticut vegetable growers will co-operate with the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station this spring in testing new vegetables.

The straight-necked squash that appeared last summer, the early yellow Spanish Gold sweet corn, one parent of which comes from the Pyrenees mountains, the particularly bountiful spinach and the unusually productive peppers will be grown from Greenwich to Stonington and from Salisbury to Thompson. Most of the trial plantings will be in Fairfield, New Haven, New London and Hartford counties, where the majority of the state's market gardens are located. These four vegetables have grown remarkably well on the experimental farm at Mount Carmel, but none will be generally distributed until it is known how well they are suited to other regions, Dr. Donald F. Jones announced.

Six acres will be planted to experiments with sweet corn this spring at Mount Carmel. Half of that land is a field which has been in alfalfa the last four years. Last summer Dr. Jones grew 400 crosses of inbred strains of Whipple's Yellow sweet corn and this season some final selections will be made.

Also, plots will be laid out in studies of beets, tomatoes, carrots, lima beans, cucumbers, spinach, peppers, squash and asparagus.

CHECKING UP ON WHAT COURTS OWE STATE POLICE

The local city court records are being checked up by State Police Officer Donald Brown for back fees owed by the court to the state police department. Half of the fines imposed on accused persons arrested by the state police has to be turned over to the state police department. Justice courts in nearby towns will also be visited by Officer Brown. It is understood that courts in the county are in arrears to the state police department to the amount of several thousands of dollars.

FUNERALS.

Joseph Gayeski.

With many relatives and friends present the funeral of Joseph Gayeski was held Friday morning at 8.15 at his home in Franklin, and at 9 o'clock there was a mass of requiem at the Sacred Heart church, Norwich Town, Rev. Daniel J. Manning celebrant. Mrs. William Murphy presided at the organ and played Chopin's Funeral March at the processional. At the offertory Miss Mary Buckley sang De Profundis and as the waiting hymn, Jesus, Lover of My Soul. Lead Kindly Light was the recessional number.

The burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, and the committal service was conducted by Rev. Edward Quinn, pastor of Sacred Heart church. The bearers were Michael J. Shea, Joseph Garciak, Adam Howich, Anthony Rutka, Joseph Romansky and Joseph Prenowich. There were a number of beautiful floral tributes and mourners were present from New York, Colchester and other places. Hourigan Bros. had charge of the funeral.

George Balbo.

Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock the funeral of George Balbo was held at the parlors of Dougherty Bros., Moosup, and there were services at All Hallow's church, Moosup, at 3 o'clock. The burial was in All Hallows' cemetery, friends acting as bearers. Relatives and friends were present and there were a number of beautiful floral tributes.

Miss Katherine W. Tibbits

At 2 o'clock Friday afternoon the funeral of Miss Katherine W. Tibbits was held at the home of Frank A. Bill, No. 100 West Thames street, and the service was conducted by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church. William T. Crandall, William Ruggles, Frank A. Bill, I. W. Stark, William Chappell were the honorary bearers and the active bearers were Frederick Craven, and Lorimer Slocum of Winchester, Mass., Weston C. Pullen, Leonard P. Hoagland, Humphrey Almy and John Tibbits of New York city. The interment was in Windham cemetery where Rev. Mr. Abbott conducted the committal service. Relatives and friends were present and there were a number of beautiful floral tributes. Undertaker C. A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Ice cut from Snipsic Lake, Tolland county, by farmers and dealers in that vicinity has measured 12 inches.

STATE POLICE ENGAGED IN MORE LIQUOR RAIDING IN CITY AND TOWN

About midnight Friday Henry J. Pepin, 31, of Taftville, was arrested by State Police Officers Whitmarsh and Smith on a charge of violation of the liquor law. The officers raided his place in Taftville. He was held in bonds of $1,000 for his appearance in the city court this (Saturday) morning.

About 12.30 o'clock William Mallinson was arrested at No. 43 North Main street on a liquor law violation charge. Sergt. Mathew Delaney, of the local police force, Sergt. Webber, of the state police barracks at Groton, and Officer Patrick Shahan of the local police, made the arrest. Bonds were set at $1,000.

Three other arrests were made by the local and state police in a final raid taking place at 2.30 this (Saturday) morning. Fifty cases of alleged beer were found at the place, No. 30 Lake street, conducted by Santo Tedeschi, 25, Italian. He was arrested on a liquor violation charge, held in bonds of $1,000. The other two arrested are John Williams, Spaniard, 30, of No. 20 Cove street, and Dominic Pasqualine, 36, of No. 128 High street. Evidence of violation of the liquor law were discovered in both places, according to the police.

JITNEY PLAYERS SCORE SUCCESS IN MELODRAMA

Back from the present-day age of jazz and snappy musical comedies which make up theatrical entertainment for the multitude, an audience of 700 at Masonic temple hall Friday evening was transported to the standard English melodrama of 100 years ago, when they saw the presentation of "The Murder in the Red Barn," given by the Jitney Players.

And the audience enjoyed it—getting a thrill from the novelty of the offering, the exceptionally fine work of the well-rounded cast, the appropriate stage settings and the divertisements interposed between the acts, consisting of a ballad, a country dance and a quartette, all in the period of the play.

The cast was as follows, in the order of their appearance:

William Corder, son of the squire — David Elliott
(Heavy Lead)
Mister Marten, an honest rustic — Douglas Rowland
(Heavy Father)
Ishmael Lee, a Gipsy — Eli Dormont
(Second Heavy Man)
Pharos Lee, his son — Eli Dormont
(Juvenile Lead)
Mark, a Gipsy — Harvey Fite
Amos, a Gipsy — Ben Starkie
(Walking Gentlemen)
Tim Bobbin — Harrison Dowd
(First Low Comedian)
Flatcatcher, showman at fair — Ben Starkie
Toberaloper, showman at fair — Harvey Fite
(2nd and 3rd Low Comedians)
Jacko, village boy — Harvey Fite
Giles Whackstraw, village boy — Wilder Greeley
(Utility Gents)
Yvette, servant to Corder — Ada Cafagna
Maria Marten — Alice B. Keating
(Leading Lady)
Dame Marten — Judith Elder
(Character Old Lady)
Anne Marten — Francesca Bruning
(Chamber Maid)
Lily — Ada Cafagna
(Utility Lady)
Pianist — Richard Skinner

As for the play, it had all the essential elements of the approved melodrama, beginning with the trusting country girl betrayed by the squire's villainous son, who first contrives the death of her baby and then murders her in the red barn to smooth his way to a rich marriage. The vengeance of a gypsy for the murder of his father brings the squire's son to the gallows, where he meets the demands of justice with the members of the families of his victims standing by to see the price he pays. Harrison Dowd as the country bumpkin furnished the outstanding comedy part, which was done to perfection.

The successful presentation was given under the auspices of the entertainment committee of St. James lodge, No. 23, F. and A. M., consisting of Walter M. Buckingham, Edwin M. Hanks, W. M. Wyman, W. S. Huber and Kurt W. Seifert. The proceeds will be for a special fund for lodge purposes.

Ushers for the evening were Edwin M. Hanks, W. M. Wyman, W. Manley Eastwood, J. B. O'Brien, G. L. Ranger, W. S. Huber, Kurt W. Seifert, E. H. Smith, Leonard G. Patridge, Joseph G. Hynd and Charles Jacobson.

NATIVE HINDU GAVE TALK ON INDIA CONDITIONS

In an address on the subject "India," at the Community house Friday evening, Dr. Bashkar Hivale, a native Hindu, but a resident of this country for seven years, held the undivided attention of an audience of over 75, who frequently interrupted his discourse with bursts of laughter because of humorous remarks. The speaker in seven weeks time will return to Bombay, India, after having toured 37 states in this country as a lecturer.

After mentioning the two things that he will miss in America, the snowstorm and the hot-dog, Dr. Hivale told of the effect that the western people had upon his people when they came to India 100 years ago; also the things that attracted the Hindu's attention, such as the difference in costumes, manners, food, etc. He said that his people at that time "made an effort to throw over everything that was Hindu and accept the things that were British and western," and spoke of the changes that followed.

Dr. Hivale also compared the difference in the American and Indian systems of education, remarking that the former was an excellent one for his country to follow. He declared that there were millions of people of that land who never received an education and went on to tell in detail of the high class schools in India.

India is a poor country, said Dr. Hivale, for the simple reason that it has never developed its natural resources to any great extent, although the country has a great many. What we need in India is your western machinery and industrial system. My country has decided to take this western machinery and develop these resources, he said.

After referring to the rush and bustle of the American people here Dr. Hivale spoke of the periods of life of the Hindu and concluded his talk with the statement that "we want to mix the best in Hindu with the best of America."

After his graphic and interesting address Dr. Hivale answered innumerable questions put to him by the gathering.

The speaker was introduced by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, under whose auspices the meeting was held. Dr. Abbott announced that the Woman's Missionary society is to conduct a luncheon at the Community house in March, at which two speakers of note will give addresses.

Crashed Into Montville Pole

An automobile driven by a Montville man named Martin crashed into a telegraph pole at Montville about 11:45 o'clock Thursday night and was practically demolished. One person riding in the machine was injured and was attended by a physician in New London. The state police are investigating the accident.

PHOTOGRAPHS WITH PAPER ON AMERICAN FURNITURE

The monthly meeting of the parish house department of Park Congregational church was held Friday afternoon at Osgood Memorial. Mrs. W. Tyler Browne, president of the Woman's Federation, presided and led the devotional service. Reports were heard from the various standing committees. Mrs. Payson, on behalf of the finance committee, recommended that a two-day fair be held in November, the recommendation being favorably voted upon.

At the close of the business meeting Mrs. John F. Rogers, chairman of the parish house department, took charge of the program. Mrs. Aurin E. Payson, in colonial costume, with Mrs. Arthur Payson at the piano, sang three delightful selections; an old French song, "Come Sweet Morning," Shubert's "Ave Maria," and "A Song from Paradise" by Brown. As an encore she gave a very quaint and charming selection entitled "The Second Minuet." Mrs. Allen Latham gave a most interesting paper on "Early American Furniture" which was illustrated by 50 or more photographs loaned by the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The earliest furniture made on American soil was crude and simple in the extreme for the early settlers were at first too busy building shelter and providing for the most vital necessities to spend much time on aught else. But that they early did produce furniture, though simple, of real artistic merit showed them to be lovers of good breeding and painstaking workers. Chests were of prime necessity, indeed where one's chest was there was one's home, for on it one could sit or sleep or work and in it were kept the housewife's store of homespun and the meagre wardrobe of the family.

When the housewife wearied of having to reach to the bottom of a one compartment chest for the object of her search, the chest with a drawer at the bottom was devised, and from this was evolved the chest of drawers. Boards on trestles formed the earliest tables. With the introduction of tea and coffee small tables in graceful forms came into being. Chairs were as necessary as chests and it is no wonder that quantities of early specimens have been preserved. The slat back was one of the earliest types; perhaps the Windsor may be said to have been one of the most popular.

After 1775 American imitators of the English "Big Four," Chippendale, Sheraton, Hepplewhite and Adam, began to produce excellent copies and adaptations of their designs, and an atmosphere of elegance began to replace the sturdy simplicity of pioneer days. These workers who reproduced the styles of these great English artists were craftsmen of the highest order. Undoubtedly the greatest American cabinet maker was Duncan Phyfe, who created a style of his own.

At the close of the meeting a social hour was enjoyed when tea was served.

ROUGHAGE IN DIET NEEDED IN REDUCING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Eliminates Danger

Are you one of those who are reducing by diet? If so, there is one important thing you should know—diets that do not include roughage cause constipation, often with serious consequences. Guard against it!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains the roughage needed to insure regular elimination. It is guaranteed to relieve both temperary and recurring constipation or your money will be refunded. Two tablespoons daily—in serious cases, with each meal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is not fattening. But it does add valuable iron to the blood which helps prevent anemia (another dieting danger) and bring a glowing, healthy color to the complexion.

You can enjoy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in many delightful ways. As a ready-to-eat cereal with milk, honey, sprinkled over cereals and salads, in soups and soaked in fruit juices. It is appetizing in cooked food. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Sensible Flag Pole Sitter.

OLMPIA, Wash.—(AP)—Here's a flag pole sitter who's quite sane. Day 'n and day out, during office hours, "Tee," a seagull, perches on a flag pole where he can watch Gov. Roland H. Hartley at his desk. The governor feeds the bird during the day and it never ventures beyond call.

Careful Mothers Keen About It

"Coughs never last long in our family, for we use Foley's Honey and Tar," says Mrs. J. M. Hill, Homer, Ga. "Foley's Honey and Tar has never failed to take care of coughs and colds in our family, and we have used it over 20 years," says Mrs. Ornstein, Green Bay, Wis. Dependable always, no opiates, no chloroform, nothing that a careful Mother hesitates to give her children. That's why Mothers endorse Foley's Honey and Tar. Ask for it. Lee and Osgood Co.

The favors were red and white carnations made by Mrs. Latimer. Red, white and blue caps, made by Mrs. Latimer and Mrs. H. O. Smith, were worn by those present and a number appeared in colonial costumes.

Mrs. Latimer had on exhibition a pair of buckles presented by George Washington to her great great grandfather, Moses Stevens of Lebanon.

Last Friday night the association held a valentine party. The entertainment committee comprised C. Krause, M. Latimer, H. Smith, William Patridge, Frank Fields and George Gifford. There were 175 present and Al Smith's Mohegan orchestra furnished music for the dancing. Mr. Chappell prompted for the square dances. Light refreshments were served.

STATE MARKET GARDENERS TO TEST NEW VEGETABLES

Sixty Connecticut vegetable growers will co-operate with the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station this spring in testing new vegetables.

The straight-necked squash that appeared last summer, the early yellow Spanish Gold sweet corn, one parent of which comes from the Pyrenees mountains, the particularly bountiful spinach and the unusually productive peppers will be grown from Greenwich to Stonington and from Salisbury to Thompson. Most of the trial plantings will be in Fairfield, New Haven, New London and Hartford counties, where the majority of the state's market gardens are located. These four vegetables have grown remarkably well on the experimental farm at Mount Carmel, but none will be generally distributed until it is known how well they are suited to other regions, Dr. Donald F. Jones announced.

Six acres will be planted to experiments with sweet corn this spring at Mount Carmel. Half of that land is a field which has been in alfalfa the last four years. Last summer Dr. Jones grew 400 crosses of inbred strains of Whipple's Yellow sweet corn and this season some final selections will be made.

Also, plots will be laid out in studies of beets, tomatoes, carrots, lima beans, cucumbers, spinach, peppers, squash and asparagus.

CHECKING UP ON WHAT COURTS OWE STATE POLICE

The local city court records are being checked up by State Police Officer Donald Brown for back fees owed by the court to the state police department. Half of the fines imposed on accused persons arrested by the state police has to be turned over to the state police department. Justice courts in nearby towns will also be visited by Officer Brown. It is understood that courts in the county are in arrears to the state police department to the amount of several thousands of dollars.

FUNERALS.

Joseph Gayeski.

With many relatives and friends present the funeral of Joseph Gayeski was held Friday morning at 8.15 at his home in Franklin, and at 9 o'clock there was a mass of requiem at the Sacred Heart church, Norwich Town, Rev. Daniel J. Manning celebrant. Mrs. William Murphy presided at the organ and played Chopin's Funeral March at the processional. At the offertory Miss Mary Buckley sang De Profundis and as the waiting hymn, Jesus, Lover of My Soul. Lead Kindly Light was the recessional number.

The burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, and the committal service was conducted by Rev. Edward Quinn, pastor of Sacred Heart church. The bearers were Michael J. Shea, Joseph Garciak, Adam Howich, Anthony Rutka, Joseph Romansky and Joseph Prenowich. There were a number of beautiful floral tributes and mourners were present from New York, Colchester and other places. Hourigan Bros. had charge of the funeral.

George Balbo.

Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock the funeral of George Balbo was held at the parlors of Dougherty Bros., Moosup, and there were services at All Hallow's church, Moosup, at 3 o'clock. The burial was in All Hallows' cemetery, friends acting as bearers. Relatives and friends were present and there were a number of beautiful floral tributes.

Miss Katherine W. Tibbits

At 2 o'clock Friday afternoon the funeral of Miss Katherine W. Tibbits was held at the home of Frank A. Bill, No. 100 West Thames street, and the service was conducted by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church. William T. Crandall, William Ruggles, Frank A. Bill, I. W. Stark, William Chappell were the honorary bearers and the active bearers were Frederick Craven, and Lorimer Slocum of Winchester, Mass., Weston C. Pullen, Leonard P. Hoagland, Humphrey Almy and John Tibbits of New York city. The interment was in Windham cemetery where Rev. Mr. Abbott conducted the committal service. Relatives and friends were present and there were a number of beautiful floral tributes. Undertaker C. A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Ice cut from Snipsic Lake, Tolland county, by farmers and dealers in that vicinity has measured 12 inches.

STATE POLICE ENGAGED IN MORE LIQUOR RAIDING IN CITY AND TOWN

About midnight Friday Henry J. Pepin, 21, of Taftville, was arrested by State Police Officers Whitmarsh and Smith on a charge of violation of the liquor law. The officers raided his place in Taftville. He was held in bonds of $1,000 for his appearance in the city court this (Saturday) morning.

About 12.30 o'clock William Mallinson was arrested at No. 43 North Main street, on a liquor law violation charge. Sergt. Mathew Delaney, of the local police force, Sergt. Webber, of the state police barracks at Groton, and Officer Patrick Shahan of the local police, made the arrest. Bonds were set at $1,000.

Three other arrests were made by the local and state police in a final raid taking place at 2.30 this (Saturday) morning. Fifty cases of alleged beer were found at the place, No. 20 Lake street, conducted by Santo Tedeschi, 25, Italian. He was arrested on a liquor violation charge, held in bonds of $1,000. The other two arrested are John Williams, Spaniard, 30, of No. 20 Cove street, and Dominic Pasqualine, 36, of No. 128 High street. Evidence of violation of the liquor law were discovered in both places, according to the police.

JITNEY PLAYERS SCORE SUCCESS IN MELODRAMA

Back from the present-day age of jazz and snappy musical comedies which make up theatrical entertainment for the multitude, an audience of 700 at Masonic temple hall Friday evening was transported to the standard English melodrama of 100 years ago, when they saw the presentation of "The Murder in the Red Barn," given by the Jitney Players.

And the audience enjoyed it—getting a thrill from the novelty of the offering, the exceptionally fine work of the well-rounded cast, the appropriate stage settings and the divertisements interposed between the acts, consisting of a ballad, a country dance and a quartette, all in the period of the play

The cast was as follows, in the order of their appearance:

William Corder, son of the squire (Heavy Lead)	David Elliott
Mister Marten, an honest rustic (Heavy Father)	Douglas Rowland
Ishmael Lee, a Gipsy (Second Heavy Man)	Eli Dormont
Pharos Lee, his son (Juvenile Lead)	Eli Dormont
Mark, a Gipsy	Harvey Fite
Amos, a Gipsy (Walking Gentlemen)	Ben Starkie
Tim Bobbin (First Low Comedian)	Harrison Dowd
Flatcatcher, showman at fair	Ben Starkie
Tobersloper, showman at fair (2nd and 3rd Low Comedians)	Harvey Fite
Jacko, village boy	Harvey Fite
Giles Whackstraw, village boy (Utility Gents)	Wilder Greeley
Yvette, servant to Corder	Ada Cafagna
Maria Marten (Leading Lady)	Alice B. Keating
Dame Marten (Character Old Lady)	Judith Elder
Anne Marten (Chamber Maid)	Francesca Bruning
Lily (Utility Lady)	Ada Cafagna
Pianist	Richard Skinner

As for the play, it had all the essential elements of the approved melodrama, beginning with the trusting country girl betrayed by the squire's villainous son, who first contrives the death of her baby and then murders her in the red barn to smooth his way to a rich marriage. The vengeance of a gypsy for the murder of his father brings the squire's son to the gallows, where he meets the demands of justice with the members of the families of his victims standing by to see the price he pays. Harrison Dowd as the country bumpkin furnished the outstanding comedy part, which was done to perfection.

The successful presentation was given under the auspices of the entertainment committee of St. James lodge, No. 23, F. and A. M., consisting of Walter M. Buckingham, Edwin M. Hanks, W. M. Wyman, W. S. Huber and Kurt W. Seifert. The proceeds will be for a special fund for lodge purposes.

Ushers for the evening were Edwin M. Hanks, W. M. Wyman, W. Manley Eastwood, J. B. O'Brien, G. L. Ranger, W. S. Huber, Kurt W. Seifert, E. H. Smith, Leonard G. Patridge, Joseph G. Hynd and Charles Jacobson.

NATIVE HINDU GAVE TALK ON INDIA CONDITIONS

In an address on the subject "India," at the Community house Friday evening, Dr. Bashkar Hivale, a native Hindu, but a resident of this country for seven years, held the undivided attention of an audience of over 75, who frequently interrupted his discourse with bursts of laughter because of humorous remarks. The speaker in seven weeks time will return to Bombay, India, after having toured 37 states in this country as a lecturer.

After mentioning the two things that he will miss in America, the snowstorm and the hot-dog, Dr. Hivale told of the effect that the western people had upon his people when they came to India 100 years ago; also the things that attracted the Hindu's attention, such as the difference in costumes, manners, food, etc. He said that his people at that time "made an effort to throw over everything that was Hindu and accept the things that were British and western," and spoke of the changes that followed.

Dr. Hivale also compared the difference in the American and Indian systems of education, remarking that the former was an excellent one for his country to follow. He declared that there were millions of people of that land who never received an education and went on to tell in detail of the high class schools in India.

India is a poor country, said Dr. Hivale, for the simple reason that it has never developed its natural resources to any great extent, although the country has a great many. What we need in India is your western machinery and industrial system. My country has decided to take this western machinery and develop these resources, he said.

After referring to the rush and bustle of the American people here Dr. Hivale spoke of the periods of life of the Hindu and concluded his talk with the statement that "we want to mix the best in Hindu with the best of America."

After his graphic and interesting address Dr. Hivale answered innumerable questions put to him by the gathering.

The speaker was introduced by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, under whose auspices the meeting was held. Dr. Abbott announced that the Woman's Missionary society is to conduct a luncheon at the Community house in March, at which two speakers of note will give addresses.

Crashed Into Montville Pole

An automobile driven by a Montville man named Martin crashed into a telegraph pole at Montville about 11:45 o'clock Thursday night and was practically demolished. One person riding in the machine was injured and was attended by a physician in New London. The state police are investigating the accident.

PHOTOGRAPHS WITH PAPER ON AMERICAN FURNITURE

The monthly meeting of the parish house department of Park Congregational church was held Friday afternoon at Osgood Memorial. Mrs. W. Tyler Browne, president of the Woman's Federation, presided and led the devotional service. Reports were heard from the various standing committees. Mrs. Payson, on behalf of the finance committee, recommended that a two-day fair be held in November, the recommendation being favorably voted upon.

At the close of the business meeting Mrs. John F. Rogers, chairman of the parish house department, took charge of the program. Mrs. Aurin E. Payson, in colonial costume, with Mrs. Arthur Payson at the piano, sang three delightful selections; an old French song, "Come Sweet Morning," Shubert's "Ave Maria," and "A Song from Paradise" by Brown. As an encore she gave a very quaint and charming selection entitled "The Second Minuet." Mrs. Allen Latham gave a most interesting paper on "Early American Furniture" which was illustrated by 50 or more photographs loaned by the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The earliest furniture made on American soil was crude and simple in the extreme for the early settlers were at first too busy building shelter and providing for the most vital necessities to spend much time on aught else. But that they early did produce furniture, though simple, of real artistic merit showed them to be lovers of good breeding and painstaking workers. Chests were of prime necessity, indeed where one's chest was there was one's home, for on it one could sit or sleep or work and in it were kept the housewife's store of homespun and the meagre wardrobe of the family.

When the housewife wearied of having to reach to the bottom of a one compartment chest for the object of her search, the chest with a drawer at the bottom was devised, and from this was evolved the chest of drawers. Boards on trestles formed the earliest tables. With the introduction of tea and coffee small tables in graceful forms came into being. Chairs were as necessary as chests and it is no wonder that quantities of early specimens have been preserved. The slat back was one of the earliest types; perhaps the Windsor may be said to have been one of the most popular.

After 1775 American imitators of the English "Big Four," Chippendale, Sheraton, Hepplewhite and Adam, began to produce excellent copies and adaptations of their designs, and an atmosphere of elegance began to replace the sturdy simplicity of pioneer days. These workers who reproduced the styles of these great English artists were craftsmen of the highest order. Undoubtedly the greatest American cabinet maker was Duncan Phyfe, who created a style of his own.

At the close of the meeting a social hour was enjoyed when tea was served.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

VIC DARR WITH QUICK KNOCKOUT FEATURES DANIELSON BOXING CARD

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 21.— Vic Darr, Norwich, semi-finalist, grabbed the honors of the boxing show at the town hall tonight when he belted Baldy Frodyna of Providence into cuckoo-land after two minutes and 40 seconds of the most sensational battling seen in a Danielson ring in a long time.

Frodyna opened up like a whirlwind, flashing viciously and with power, but he was downed for a count of nine before the round was 30 seconds old and the end that was so soon to come was then forecast. Darr went to work on Frodyna much after the manner of a pneumatic riveter. He hit Frodyna at least once a second for the first minute of the go and he was just slamming them in.

Fighting in changed style, Darr was in top-notch form and going at high speed from the bell. A jab and a right cross to the jaw and it was curtains for Frodyna. His feet went up in the air and he struck on his shoulder-blade with his head crashing into the canvas. He was out and plenty so, though he recovered very quickly. Darr weighed in at 140 pounds, Frodyna at 140 3-4.

Star Bout Slow

The star bout, of which so much had been expected, proved a listless, uninteresting battle, not through any fault of Dynamite Lou Brouillard, but because Bill Carney of New Bedford couldn't, or wouldn't, get going. This bout came close to ending in the first round whent Carney dropped to his right knee without being hit. It looked so much like quitting to Referee Fred Taylor of Hartford that he waved Carney to his corner and started across the ring to raise Brouillard's arm in victory but Brouillard pleaded that the bout be allowed to go on and Carney insisted that he had only slipped.

Referee Taylor finally allowed the bout to continue, and on it went, until stopped by the referee just before the bell for the end of the sixth round. Brouillard, who previously lost a close decision to Carney (just why could not be conceived tonight) punished him severely, but Carney is clever at covering-up and took a nice trouncing, until the referee decided that there was nothing to be gained by letting the bout go farther. It was to have been an eight-round affair. Brouillard weighed 147 1-2, Carney 151.

Noank Beats Reta

Curly Reta of Norwich, and Bennie Novak of New London, went four slashing, tearing rounds to a close decision for Novak. Both can fight plenty. Some of the crowd booed Referee Taylor's decision but it did appear that Novak had the best of the bout by a shade. They tore into each other like a pair of wildcats and gave the crowd a thrilling exhibition. Reta, dissatisfied with the decision, challenged Novak for a return bout here and the New London boxer was accommodating. They will meet in Danielson again, probably on March 4 and it should be a great go. Tonight. Novak weighed 144 and Reta 143 1-4.

Young Brouillard Wins

Al Brouillard, Danielson, brother of Dynamite Lou, made his professional debut tonight in a four-round battle with Young Kulas, of Jewett City, and won a close decision. Kulas also was making his first professional appearance. This bout was very even throughout. Weights were Brouillard 144, Kulas 146 1-4.

Peloquin Beats Ellis

Rene Peloquin, popular little Danielson boxer, ripped out a slashing victory over Buster Ellis of New Bedford in four rounds. This is the 122-pound class. The affair was to have gone six rounds but Buster's seconds thought better of the matter and called it off as the bell was to ring for the fifth. Peloquin beat Ellis to the canvas for two counts of nine in the second round, after a furious exchange of slugging and Ellis never did come back very good after that flurry.

Sheik Leonard of Norwich, and Bobby Mays of New London, well known battlers, were introduced during the course of the evening. Sidney P. Marland was announcer tonight and Lucian Lambert timekeeper. The attendance was good.

SATRE WINS SKI RACE AT LAKE PLACID MEET

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 21—(AP)—Magnus Satre, of the Salisbury Outing club, Conn., national cross country ski champion, won the 18 kilometer race from 18 of the country's swiftest runners at the opening of Lake Placid club's annual February ski tournament, here today.

His time over the mountainous course, with poor snow in the open spaces, was more than three minutes better than that of Birger Torrison, of the Norway Ski club, who came in second, despite a ripped ski binding, broken in a spill early in the race, that forced him to take time out twice later. Satre's time was 1:31:21.

In third place was Otto Steinhauser, of the Deutscher Ski Verband, then followed in order Otar Satre, of the Salisbury Outing club; Olle Zetterstrom, Swedish Ski club; Algo Larsen, Swedish Ski club; Richard Parsons, Salisbury Outing club; Johan Satre, Salisbury Outing club; Nils Backstrom, Swedish Ski club; H. N. Sander, Dartmouth Outing club; Erik Aasen, Lake Placid A. A.; Rolf Monsen, Lake Placid club; Herbert Braebander, Mount Royal Ski club, and Alfred Lindley, Minneapolis.

Tomorrow 38 ski jumpers, including some of the country's best, will compete. A 50 kilometer cross country race will close the tournament, Monday.

FIRST CONTINGENT OF YANKS HEAD FOR SOUTHLAND

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—The vanguard of 1930 edition of the New York Yankees pulled out of the Pennsylvania station tonight—Florida bound.

While the getaway of the Yankees was scheduled as the official departure, there were very few bonafide major leaguers in the party, for the most part the aggregation was made up of rookies, coaches and secretaries.

Bob Shawkey, who assumed the managerial reins this year, will be waiting at St. Petersburg with a training schedule that calls for the first practice Monday. Thirty-four regulars and rookies, without the name of Babe Ruth, composed the Yankee roster as the first contingent headed southward. An effort to bring the Babe into the fold will be made when Col. Jacob Ruppert confers with the king of the swat early in March.

MORTIMER TO OPPOSE PELL IN FINALS

BOSTON, Feb. 21—(AP)—Stanley G. Mortimer, of Tuxedo, N. Y., became a finalist in the national racquets championship tournament, for the twelfth time today, when he defeated Hewitt Morgan, of New York, holder of the American court tennis title, three games to two at the Tennis and Racquet club. The scores were 18-14, 16-18, 10-15, 15-1, 15-8.

Mortimer, who won the racquets title three times in his 11 final matches, will oppose Clarence C. Pell, veteran New York star, for the 1930 championship. Pell defeated Peter Kemp-Welch, young English player, in straight games, 15-5, 18-16, 15-10, in the other semi-final play. Pell has held the American racquets title nine times.

FITCHVILLE TOPS MAROONS IN HIGH SCORING GAME

The Fitchville basketball team was just one point better than the Baltic Maroons in a free-for-all basketball game Friday night in the Baltic gym. The final score turned out to be 56 to 55, with Yankowitz, at right forward, scoring 32 of the points for Fitchville. Charron was Baltic's top scorer with 25 points. The teams were deadlocked, 30-30, at half time.

SCOTT KNOCKED THROUGH ROPES BY SPARRING MATE

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 21—(AP)— Phil Scott, who seems to be pursued by a jinx in his preparations for the 15-round match with Jack Sharkey next Thursday night, was sent tumbling out of the ring today as the latest contribution to his series of minor mishaps.

Backing away from a rush by Charley Hahn, Scott partially tripped as he ducked, a glancing right hand blow threw him completely off balance and the lanky Briton tumbled through the lower ropes, his feet up in the air.

It was almost a duplicate of the famous stunt that Jack Dempsey performed when he was sent backward out of the ring by Luis Firpo. Phil managed to grasp the lower strand of rope, saving himself from possibly serious injury.

Except for the damage to his dignity, Scott clambered back unhurt and proceeded with his workout.

The boxing board canvassed the referee situation again today, shuffling the list of eligibles but it was understood the selections for third men in the ring already had been agreed on: Lou Magnolia of New York is slated to handle the main go, Jimmy Crowley or Kid McPartland of New York the semi-final between Risko and Campolo, with Johnny Brassil of Boston, Mass., and Frank McCracken of Philadelphia officiating in other preliminaries.

KEARNS ASKS COURT FOR MARRIAGE ANNULMENT

CHICAGO, Feb. 21— (AP) — Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, today filed suit in circuit court for the annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Legana Angel Kearns. The bill disappeared immediately after it was filed, and Albert Sabath, Kearns' attorney, was reported "away on business" when newspaper men called.

Mrs. Kearns, who as an actress uses the name of Edith Angel, was married to Kearns by contract on March 22, 1924, and the couple separated the same day. The former manager of the world heavyweight boxing champion alleged he was "coerced" into the marriage by threats of "unfavorable publicity."

In entering into the contract form of marriage with the actress, Kearns agreed to pay her $500 a month after their separation. The payments were kept up until last October, and since then Mrs. Kearns has obtained judgments of $500 each month. A recent attempt to enforce one of these judgments, when Kearns was ill in California, failed.

Kearns asks an injunction restraining his wife from attempting to enforce this and other attachments pending disposition of his suit. Kearns now lives in Chicago and is manager of Mickey Walker.

KEENEY PARK IS SOLD TO NEW YORK INTERESTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—Eighteen more days of thoroughbred racing was assured the state of Florida today, when William Dwyer, owner of the New York Americans' Hockey club, became the owner of Keeney park, between Jacksonville and St. Augustine.

With the termination of the meeting at Hialeah park, Miami, the thoroughbreds will move to Keeney park for a session opening March 10 and closing March 29— two days before the opening of the northern tracks at Bowie in Maryland.

The deal, transferring the second largest track in Florida from the hands of Frank Keeney to the hockey magnate, is thought to have involved a sum close to $150,000. Dwyer is said to have offered that amount at a previous conference, $112,000 in cash. The remaining $38,000 was owed by Keeney for construction work on the track.

You can't make hay while the sun shines in good old winter time.

Mame and the girl friend have just arrived at their work in the store. It seems the girl friend has been stepping out.

"Mornin' Mame. Say girlie, do me a favor, will ya? Just dust off the counter and straighten up the stock. I'm dead tired."

"What's the matter? Say girlie, if you'd followed me last night you wouldn't be here at all. It's just my dynamic constitution that keeps me going."

"Yep, I've come to the conclusion that if you go to these birthday parties one night you gotta catch up on your sleep the next day. Oh, what a head I've got—hic."

"Did we have anything to drink? Say, girlie, act your age, didn't I say it was a birthday party? Now who ever had a birthday party and not have anything to put pep into the party. They gotta forget somehow it's their birthday."

"Who was there? Oh, there was Jack and Jennie, Charlie and Mabel, Harold and Henrietta, Bill and Bertha, and two or three couples that I didn't know. Oh, sure I was introduced to 'em, but not till late in the evening and then it was too late."

"What did we do? Say, Mame don't ask such simple questions, what does anybody do at a birthday party? We played games, danced and had refreshments. What was the refreshments? Say, Mame, to tell the truth I don't just remember but I got 'em home in a napkin."

"Sure, I went with Jimmy, who'd you think I went with? Well, now I think it was Jimmy that brought me home but I won't swear to that. Still it must have been cause when he left me he says "Good night, Peaches, I'll be seeing you some other time," the funny thing is that it's the first time Jimmy ever called me Peaches."

"Oh sure it was good stuff all right, the fella that brought it says it was pre-war. I says whatcha mean, "pre-war," and he says "made before the wife finds out I've been drinking it." Gosh, he was a witty kid all right and he told me he always calls his wife Peaches, too."

"What's that? Say, Mame, you get me all wrong, you know I don't try to be no home wrecker. I can't help it if married men like to dance with me, you gotta be polite, you know, or you don't get asked places."

"Oh, Mame, wanta get me a good cold drink of water over to the cooler? I'd get it myself but the old dogs feel like they was resting on live coals. Thanks, Mame, that was good, and now if you'll get me another I'll take a coupla asperins."

"Gee, I hope that new floorwalker that goes on today is good natured and good-looking, 'cause there's nothing so nerve wracking as a homely and grouchy floorwalker."

"Oh, my gosh, lookit that guy coming down the aisle, he's the guy that had the pre-war stuff and calls his wife Peaches that I met at the party last night. Gee, I hope he don't see me. I told him I was an artist's model. He said he was a banker."

"What's that you say, he's the new floorwalker. Well, can you beat that after him telling me he was a banker."

DO YOU REMEMBER THIS ONE?

(Another of a number of articles recalling local baseball of other years.)

In an era long since forgotten, the Norwich Clippers held sway among the nines of Norwich. They campaigned with great success during the latter years of the 19th century and in 1892 had an especially good year. But the game we have taken from the files shows them on the short end of a 2 to 1 score in a game with that most ancient of rivals, New London.

On Saturday, August 13, 1892, at the Greeneville baseball grounds, New London was returned the winner in this exciting tilt. The work of the opposing pitchers, Driscoll and Tracy predominated, the former fanning 14 men and the latter three less. A feature of the game was a running catch and long throw to Donnelly, by Belden, completing a double play.

The story of the game says "At the close of the game the New London boys spoke very highly of their treatment and of the gentlemanly behavior of the audience." Which was quite a rare treat for a Norwich-New London battle in those days.

HORTON SMITH WITH A 66 TAKES THE LEAD IN SAVANNAH OPEN; JONES FIFTH

By DILLON L. GRAHAM
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 21—(AP)—Horton Smith, sensational young Detroit wizard, shot a par-shattering 66 here today to take the lead among 90 entrants at the halfway mark in the $3,000 Savannah open golf tournament. His brilliant score coupled with his 71 of yesterday, gave him a 137.

While the Detroit golfer who formerly registered from Joplin, Mo., was stroking his way around in eight under par and equalling the course record, Bobby Jones of Atlanta, national open king, was encountering trouble at almost every hole.

Jones faltered badly on the outward nine for a 40, three over par, but settled down on the home nine for a 35. His 75, with his 67 of yesterday placed him in a tie for fifth place with 142.

Fairley Clark, slim blonde local shot maker, equalled his 69 of yesterday and was a step behind the leader with 138.

Four strokes away and tied for third honors were Emmett French of Southern Pines, N. C., and Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., with 141. French had a 73 today to add to his 68 of yesterday, while Dudley, who posted a 72 yesterday, shot a great 69 today.

Bracketed with Jones at 142 was Joe Turnesa, New York, who coupled a 71 of yesterday with another 71 today.

Johnny Farrell, St. Augustine, Fla., former national open champion, was deadlocked with three other cash players for seventh place with 143. Jeff Adams, Savannah pro, who had a 68 yesterday for second place, Mike Turnesa of New York and Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N. Y., also posted 143's.

Clustered within striking distance of the leader with 144's were five well known exponents of golf for cash. They were Whiffy Cox of Brooklyn, Wild Bill Mehlhorn of Pensacola, Neil McIntyre of Indianapolis, Clem Weichman of Portsmouth, Ohio, and the veteran Al Espinosa of Chicago.

Herman Barron, swarthy young professional from Port Chester, N. Y., was a stroke behind with 145.

The slim blonde moneymaker from Detroit collected seven birdies and an eagle as he shot his low score today.

Here's how Smith made out:

Par, out: ....443 444 545—37
Smith, out: ....432 543 544—34
Par, in: ....435 434 354—37
Smith, in: ....434 234 444—32

After shooting a par four on the first hole Smith drove into a trap near the second green but made a nice recovery and was on the carpet in two. He sank a short putt for a birdie three. Horton got another birdie on the third but had trouble on the par four fourth and took a bogie five. He needed two putts.

After a par four on the fifth Horton scored a birdie three on the 251 yard sixth, made par figures on the seventh and eighth and finished the outward trip with a birdie four on the ninth hole.

The first two holes of the inward nine were made in par, while Smith got a birdie four on the twelfth and scored an eagle on the 248 yard thirteenth. He was on the green with his drive and sank a 15 foot putt. The fourteenth and fifteenth were made in regulation figures, while Smith got birdie fours on both the long sixteenth and seventeenth holes. He completed his great round with a par four on the 18th hole.

Clark marked up three birdies and an eagle. Clark's card:

Out ....443 443 544—35
In ....425 234 544—34—69

Jones' card:

Out: ....473 443 645—40
In: ....335 434 463—35—75—142

The golfing barrister from Atlanta, who has won every major crown in golfdom except the British amateur, clearly showed his lack of practice today as he blew up on the outward trip and shot little better than par on the home nine.

His score today was caused largely by his inability to hole his putts.

His drives and approach shots were generally up to the Jones standard but during the round he found the cup with only one of the many long putts he attempted. He required 18 putts on the outward nine.

The low forty-eight scorers and ties will be participants in the final 36 hole chase over this historic course tomorrow in quest of the victor's share of $3,000 in cash prizes.

DAZZY VANCE SIGNS FOR ONE YEAR AT $20,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—Arthur "Dazzy" Vance, star right hand pitcher of the Brooklyn Robins, agreed today to sign a one year contract at a salary of $20,000, the Brooklyn management announced. Vance, one of the highest paid hurlers in organized baseball, received $25,000 for his services last season.

Vance, whose home is in Clearwater, Fla., where the Dodgers will hold spring training, telegraphed his acceptance of terms to club headquarters here. The Dazzler has been the club's chief holdout. An "honor" now transferred to Babe Herman, Dodgers' slugging outfielder, who has failed as yet to come to terms.

Vance is 36 years old and is famed for the speed of his fast ball and his strikeout records. Due to illness early in the season, and general inability to round into his best form, Vance won only 14 games for Brooklyn last season while losing 13.

ST. GODDARD ONLY HALF MINUTE BEHIND SEPPALA

QUEBEC, Que., Feb. 21—(AP)—Emil St. Goddard, youthful musher from The Pas, Man., shaved five full minutes off Leonhard Seppala's lead in the second 40 mile lap of the eighth annual Eastern International Dog Derby today but the veteran Nome driver still leads in total elapsed time by about half a minute.

St. Goddard toured the course in 3 hours, 33 minutes, 35 seconds today with Seppala second in 3:38:35 but the latter's total elapsed time of 7:50:38 for two laps compares with 7:51:07 for St. Goddard. H. Chevrette, third today in 3:46:55, maintained third place in total elapsed time with 7:48:30.

Second lap and total elapsed times for the other contestants follow:

Driver	2nd Lap	Total elapsed time
Earl Brydges, The Pas	3:54:12	8:14:07

Fields-Corbet Bout Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21—(AP)—Pugilistic paths of two of the greatest welterweights ever developed in California will converge here tomorrow afternoon when Jackie Fields, champion, and Young Corbet, sturdy southpaw from Fresno, trade punches in a ten round bout whose non-title status is a minor detail compared to the fact that these keen rivals are meeting for the first time.

LATZO HANDS JOHNSON A NEAT BOXING LESSON

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Feb. 21—(AP)—Pete Latzo, one of those game old veterans who never seems to lose his grip, came back to the big battle pit tonight and neatly chastised Larry Johnson, a villainous puncher of the younger generation, in a smart, fast ten round skirmish that furnished 12,000 of the faithful with one of the major surprises of the indoor season.

Nursing a fractured jaw, broken for the second time by Jimmy Braddock's sock over a year ago, Pudgy Pete administered an artful lesson to one of the most villainous right hand punchers in the 175 pound division. He won the decision by the barest of margins, even the judges and referee failed to agree, but he did manage to squeak through, tender chin and all, by the breadth of a round or so.

Pete was woefully stout after his lengthy layoff, none too agressive, but he had experience and courage, the twin cauliflower characteristics most demoralizing to over-anxious youth. Johnson, a lithe Chicago Negro, fresh from a string of 18 knockouts, three of them in succession over Leo Mitchell, Joe Sekyra, and Fred Lenhart in this same battle pit, never could land his famed right hand smash solidly.

Johnson was a 3 to 1 favorite to whip the former welterweight champion on past performances. It was even suggested that the match should have been prohibited, due to the tendency of Latzo's jaw to crack up under heavy punches. K. O. Phil Kaplan broke Pete's jaw with a left hook two years before Braddock sent the old gladiator again to the hospital ward.

But Pete, undisturbed by the Negro's vaunted punching powers, fought the cagiest sort of battle, the kind best suited to nullifying Johnson's best weapon. For the first four rounds Pete bobbed low, made Johnson miss dozens of long right hand shots, and saved his fire and stamina for the close work in the clinches. There he landed an occasional solid shot to the body but Larry damaged Pete a bit with clubbing rights to the head. With Johnson forcing the battle, Pete lost the first and fourth rounds, managed to hold the second even and won the third.

After halving the fifth, Pete hooked with his left, stabbed at Larry's body, and fought just hard enough to nose the Negro out in the sixth, seventh ninth and tenth rounds. Johnson's left hook to the head and body gave him an edge in the eighth. Two very low punches in the fourth and fifth failed to help the Negro's cause.

Although the decision met some disapproval at the ringside and was booed a bit by the customers, it gave Latzo the right to meet Maxey Rosenbloom here March 10 in a contest to decide the first challenger for the light heavyweight title recently awarded Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo by the New York state athletic commission.

The referee, Jimmy Crowley, and one judge voted in favor of Latzo. The other judge voted for Johnson. Larry weighed 174, Latzo 173.

INVITATION GOLF TOURNEY TO BE HELD JULY 17-20

The annual invitation golf tournament of the Norwich Golf club will be held July 17-20th, according to an announcement made at a meeting of the tournament committee held last night at the home of the chairman, Earl E. Mathewson. The tournament will be larger than ever before and invitations are to be sent to the leading amateur golfers in the country.

Besides selecting the date for the invitation tourney, the big event of the local golfing season, plans for various other tournaments were made. The club championships this year will be early in the season, the qualifying round to be played on Memorial day. In past years the club championships have been played late in the season with the result that last year's tourney remained undecided as cold weather prevented the completion of the tourney. Dave Morton, defending champion, and John Fontaine were the finalists with Morton being the ruling favorite.

A very attractive program of week end tournaments has been arranged for the entertainment of the local golfers. A tournament is to be run each week end with three prizes for each tournament. A number of novel features in the way of tournaments will be introduced to the local players. The matter of handicapping was also discussed at length and it is expected that the handicapping this year will be on a more sound basis than heretofore.

JIMMY QUINN LOSES FIRST BOUT IN PROVIDENCE SHOW

Last night at Providence, Jimmy Quinn, local featherweight amateur, lost a close decision to Al Venezia of Revere in the opening bout of the tournament. The Revere boy was a hard-hitting youngster who scored heavily over the local at close quarters and piled up a nice lead that Quinn was unable to overcome.

Topping Wins Tourney

BELLAIR, Fla., Feb. 21—(AP)—Henry J. Topping, Greenwich, Conn., one of the country's leading golfers, a decade ago, today won the annual Washington birthday tournament here, Washington's birthday tournament here, defeating Ellsworth Augustus, Cleveland, 3 and 2, in the 36 hole final match.

GAGNON WINS FROM BENSON IN POCKET BILLIARD MATCH

"Lewiston Joe" Gagnon, trick shot artist who has been playing at the Hickey Billiard parlors during the week, won the second block and match with Al Benson, local champion, last night. The score for the evening was exactly the same as in the first block, 125 to 109, Gagnon winning on an uncompleted run of 34. The score for the match was 250 to 218 in favor of Gagnon. Gagnon in last night's match had a high run of 41 with Benson getting a high run of 31. Benson was presented a jointed cue, the prize for the week's best score.

On Monday night the Hickey Five, Ryan, Benson, Plimpton, Reynolds and Benski, will play the Jewett City Five. On Wednesday evening at Jewett City, Gagnon will give an exhibition.

SCHAAF OUTPOINTS CHRISTNER IN GRUELLING 10 ROUNDER

BOSTON, Feb. 21— (AP) — Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, squared his accounts with K. O. Christner, of Akron, Ohio, by edging him out of the decision here tonight in the gruelling ten round contest that featured the Argonne A. A. show. Schaaf weighed 202 and Christner was seven pounds lighter. The latter won when they clashed here several months ago.

Pancho Villa, New Bedford, won a close eight round decision from Charlie Parker of Boston, in the semi-final and there was much vicious work done in the preliminary battles.

Jimmy Rogers, clever Cambridge colored middleweight, knocked out Ed Hultgren of Stockholm, Sweden, in the second round of a six rounder; Sonny Suggs, Newport, R. I., flattened Leonard Cook, Bridgeport, Conn., in a round, and Little Jack Dempsey, Boston, defeated Pete Herman, Boston, in the other six round event.

In the four round competition, A. Simms, Boston, beat Jimmy Valentine, Boston; Eddie Adonis, Boston, scored a two round knockout over Joe Russo, Westerly, R. I., and Paddy Mullins, Boston, outpointed Tom Quigley of Cambridge.

RUFFO'S PLAYING WINS FOR THE BOYS' TEAM

In an exciting game of the tournament at the Recreation Billiard parlors, the Boys, captained by M. Ruffo, defeated the Brunswicks, captained by A. Covey, by the score of 100 to 83, last night.

The playing of Ruffo was a treat for the spectators as he would run between five and fifteen at every turn at the table. In a very short time he will undoubtedly go very far as a pocket billiard player. Welton featured for the losers, getting several high runs, while Capt. Covey brought the audience of 200 to their feet by making many difficult shots.

The winners were Capt. Ruffo, Davis and Colt. The losers Capt. A. Covey, Welton and W. Disco.

BILLY TIRRELL TRYING OUT FOR CATCHER'S BERTH

MIDDLETOWN, Feb. 21—(AP)—More than 25 candidates for the battery positions on Wesleyan university's baseball team reported for practice today.

Among those reporting were Hibbard, Fallen, Webster and Tirrell for the catcher's berth, and Captain Coons, Sweet and Blakeslee, pitchers. Nye, star twirler, will not report until the close of the basketball season.

Practice sessions for battery candidates will be held in the gym until the weather is favorable for outside work.

MILLER TO RUN AT MANHATTAN COLLEGE MEET

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—Leigh Miller, the little blond Canadian sprinter, who has beaten three of the best dash men in the United States this winter, will take on a fourth in the Manhattan college track meet here, March 3, it was announced today. Karl Wildermuth, Georgetown flash, is to meet him in a sprint series, 50, 60 and 70 yards.

Frank Hussey, New York A. C. veteran, and Hollis Hand, of Princeton, also have accepted invitations to compete and Jimmy Daley, of Holy Cross may be added to the field.

VANGUARD OF CUBS ARRIVE AT LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21—(AP)—Ten members of the Chicago Cubs, the vanguard of the National league champions, arrived here early today and embarked for Santa Catalina Island, where they will open an intensive spring training campaign tomorrow under the direction of Joe McCarthy.

The remainder of the Cubs' squad is expected to follow in a few days. The team will stay in California until April 7.

Miss Orcutt Is Victor

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21—(AP)—Miss Maureen Orcutt, New Britain, Conn., former women's golf champion won the Florida women's tournament today from Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, in a match that went to the 20th green.

Paul Beats Britton

DETROIT, Feb. 21.—(AP)— Tommy Paul, Buffalo lightweight, won a decision over Jackie Britton, of Wilkes-barre, Pa., in a six round feature bout at Olympia here tonight. Paul weighed 128; Britton 134.

Westport Game Off

Because of a last minute switch in plans, the Seniors were obliged to call off their state league game with Westport Y at Westport Friday night.

Acquisition of the headquarters papers of the British army in America during the revolution, which contain the largest known bulk of official correspondence between the English and American commanders, was announced by Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, dealer and collector of New York and Philadelphia.

Y. M. C. A. SENIORS CLASH WITH ANSONIA IN STATE Y LEAGUE GAME TONIGHT

Norwich will celebrate Washington's birthday in a sporting way tonight at the Y gym with two basketball games when the Y Seniors meet Ansonia Y in a state league game and the brilliant Norwich Girls tackle the girls team from Rockville high. The girls game is set for 8 o'clock and the league clash will start at approximately 9:05 p. m.

This will be a pair of first meetings. The Seniors have met about everyone else in the state league and have played at a percentage over .500. Unfortunately, though, there are three better teams in the circuit and the locals rest in fourth position with little chance for the pennant. They do, however, hold a strong hope of finishing in the first division, which would be quite a feather in their cap in the second year out. According to reports on the visitors, they are rated about on a par with Coach Howie Demarest's boys and they are bringing their full squad in an attempt to make their first meeting a sorrowful one for the Norwich lads.

The Norwich girls have been playing better basketball than the local boys during the last part of the season and will tonight be after their seventh victory in eight stars. At every home game the Girls have packed them in and tonight should be no exception, especially when it is found that the opposition is one of the best scholastic girls teams in the state.

There will be a third game on the evening's programme, this between the Y Emps and Gamma club, both local teams, and will start at 7 o'clock.

POETRY

Tomorrow

Strength for today is all that we need
As there never will be a tomorrow,
For tomorrow will prove but another today,
With its measures of joy and sorrow.

Then why forecast the trials of life
With such sad and grave persistence,
And wait and watch for a crowd of ills
That as yet have no existence?

Strength for today —what a precious boon
For earnest souls who labor,
For the willing hands that minister
To the needy friend or neighbor.

Strength for today, that the weary hearts
In the battle for right may quail not,
And the eyes bedimmed by bitter tears
In their search for light may fail not.

Strength for today on the down-hill track,
For the travelers near the valley,
That up, far up, on the other side
Ere long they may safely rally.

Strength for today, that our precious youth
May happily shun temptation,
And build, from the rise to the set of sun,
On a strong and sure foundation.

Strength for today, in house and home,
To practice forbearance sweetly,
To scatter kind words and loving deeds,
Still trusting in God completely.

Antimacassars in Vermont

Of all the fine virtues comes Tidiness first,
There's none in the world to surpass her.
The doilies are here and the centerpiece smart,
And the snowy-white antimacassar.

We pretty near worship her here in Vermont,
With the highest of beings we class her;
Of two tatting ladies be sure one of them
Is making an antimacassar.

She's a heavenly virtue without any doubt,
What a goddess is there that can pass her!
Oh! there's nothing sets off a drawing room chair
Like a beautiful antimacassar.

The Pullman car folks try to copy her ways,
But all they can do is to "sass" her
By pinning a "wipe" on the chairs of their chairs,
Instead of an antimacassar.

We follow the leader up here in Vermont
So close that we almost outclass her.
Oh! nothing sets off a great easy chair
Like a snowy-white antimacassar.

—Daniel L. Cady in Burlington Free Press.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

He—I wish I had the cheek to kiss you.

She—Use mine!—Detroit News.

Clover Hay—Say, Uncle Eli? shall I feed the hogs that corn in the ear?

Uncle Eli—No; I'd feed it in the mouth.—Exchange.

"I was down," began the prisoner—

"But you're not out," said the judge as he gave the man five years.—The Pathfinder.

"And do you think this town would hold me if I had a thousand dollars in my pocket?"

"Oh, I think it would—the police wouldn't let you leave."—Boston Transcript.

Cora Ann—Granddaddy, were you in Noah's ark?

Granddad—Why, no.

Cora Ann—Then, why weren't you drowned?—Exchange

Creditor—I find I have made a mistake to my own advantage on the baron's bill—I have charged him $1 too much.

Servant (generously)—It does not matter—he won't pay in any case.—Faun.

Stranger—Hey, that's no way to hoist a piano?

Foreman—Do you own the piano?

Stranger—No, I own the building.

Foreman—That's different; boys, be careful of them corners—bricks cost money!—Brooklyn Eagle.

Ole Defuniak wasn't Scotch but he was thrifty—and hungry. Entering a grocery store he said to the clerk:

"Give me a dime's worth of cheese and crackers."

"Anything else?" inquired the clerk.

"Yes, I'll trade the cheese and crackers for a can of sardines."

"All right. Anything else?"

"Well, I'd like to trade the sardines for potted meat."

"All right."

"And now I must be going."

"You haven't paid for the potted meat."

"I traded the sardines for it."

"But you haven't paid for the sardines."

"I traded the cheese and crackers for it."

"You haven't paid for the cheese and crackers."

"You have them yet. Good day!"—Pathfinder.

DEMURRER OVERRULED IN C. E. SANDERS' CASE

Before Judge Oliver H. Williams Friday morning, in the Third District court, matters were disposed of as follows:

New writ entered before the calling of the docket—Action in book account, George A. Ellis vs. Charles M. Sanders. Continuance of one week was granted after a demurrer was overruled. Later judgment was entered for the plaintiff in the sum of $681.25. Respondent gave notice of appeal to the April term of Washington county superior court, and claim was made for jury trial.

Criminal docket—Thomas E. Brown, chief of police, vs. Alex McCall. Continuance of one week was granted when it developed but $2 had been paid in this alleged non-support case of wife and children. Payment of $5 a week was directed by the court until further order.

State, John H. Potter, deputy bird and game commissioner of Rhode Island. Chief of Police of West Greenwich vs. Harold Bilven, alleging the possession of deer. Continued two weeks. Prosecutor John Ferguson stated that he was ready to proceed but the attorney for the defense claimed that as a commissioner on disallowed claims under appointment of Judge Edward M. Burke in Westerly probate court he would have to attend a hearing in probate court chambers when the executrix, Mrs. Mabel Littlefield, and creditors on the bankrupt estate of Harry A. Littlefield, late of Watch Hill, had been set down for hearing.

Civil docket—J. C. Tucker vs. Cyrus Williams. Continued two weeks. Colonial Finance Corporation vs. Flora Peter Pignataro. Continued two weeks. Thomas J. McCormick vs. Traco Finishing Company, Inc., of White Rock. Continued nisi. Crown Pierce Dye Works, Inc. vs. Regina Spinning Co. of Wyoming, R. I. J. Stanley Dow and Roland Dow. Continued one week. Stephen Boris vs. Peter C. Ciechoweck. Continued one week. American Chain Link Co. vs. Giuseppe Bevacqua. Continued one week.

In the case of Fred Groffin vs. Fred Savage, the attorney for the defense agreed with plaintiff's counsel for the entry of judgment, it being represented that there was a question of two counts, and if an agreement was not arrived at the case would be heard next Friday.

CHICAGO IS FAST LOSING ITS ONE-FAMILY HOUSES

CHICAGO—(AP)—Real estate interests have listed these reasons why fewer Chicago families live in houses and more in apartments:

Independence of women, later age at which couples marry, servant problem, lack of home-making responsibility and high cost of maintenance.

One company estimated that apartment house families increased from 183,260 to 370,512 between 1923 and 1929.

In 1923, when Chicago's population was 2,000,000, there were 135,000 one-family houses. In 1929, when it was more than 3,000,000, there were 113,000 one-family houses.

ANGUS GRANT'S FAMOUS SHOVEL USED IN BLIZZARD

Angus Grant, who came from Prince Edward Island, N. S., about 55 years ago, picked Noank for his home, thinking it a wonderful spot. He got a job in the shipyard, the second largest in the United States. He got his toolbox from the railroad station, which was used as a box car in those days, and took it to the shipyard, where 12 boats were all in frames ready for work. It was in the winter time and he did not know about the heavy snowstorms that come up the Noank harbor and not a snow shovel in sight. The wood carpenter got busy with some wood and made a down east shovel, something never seen in the fishing village before. When the last nail was put away, out the window happy Angus looked and saw a few white flakes coming down. The next morning the snow was four feet deep. But the hand-made shovel was ready for action and, swinging his arms like a windmill, how the snow went through the air! He spent four hours to clean the snow away from around the house. It was many days before a blow was struck in the million dollar shipyard along the waterfront. The wood workers were ready to go and cut ice. Soon as the snow left the ground, gee! what cold weather came! Next the river was frozen over, from the town dock clear to Block Island, where the old-fashioned skates were broke out, the kind that turned up pointed to your chin. Over 600 enjoyed the skating. The icemen put up [illegible] inch ice, something never cut before around this part of Connecticut. Smiling Angus had to use, during that winter, the snow shovel 21 times, meaning that many snowstorms during the lonesome winter. Talk about bob sleds and sleigh rides, to Providence or any place, with the chestnut horse or Black Beauty. No automobiles to take your lady friend for a ride and way back. But there were fur coats and old-time, hand-made overcoats done with a needle and a sewing machine with heavy cloth that would keep [illegible] man warm.

Well, that winter passed with several more. In 1888 the great blizzard came, that is still the talk of the world today. People could not get out of their houses for over a week. The snow was high as the second-story windows. A tunnel was dug from the postoffice to the railroad station, so as to get the mail through for Uncle Sam; but only one mail came in a week, on account of the great blizzard. The school children had to be carried on their dads' backs to the old wooden schoolhouse on East Main street. Right Swing Grant was on Store hill, using the snow shovel that has a history and shoveling snow so his family could get out to get milk and groceries. He was kept shoveling for six straight days, so the wooden shovel did its stuff.

But a sad thing happened when he dropped his silver watch, large as a water bucket, and many years old. By hard luck, Grant dropped it in a huge snowdrift that had no bottom. He had to wait until spring till the snow left so he could find the old-time watch with two wheels and a main spring. He was happy to get it again.

Happy Angus painted the oldest snow shovel in the village green and he has had it for 55 years. It wore out many of those before him; and in that time he has used the down east-made shovel 1,300 times. If the snow which it shoveled was put in a big pile it would reach about 200 feet high. Those winters you had to shovel snow or keep in the house—no snow plows to clear the streets like today, but shovel and shovel until your arms ached. Today the green shovel is in use, still good for many more years to come.

A man came from Clinton, N. Y., and wanted to buy the 55-year-old snow shovel. "I could not part with it," said Grant. "It has been in the family so long!" The stranger said, "Will $150 take away the green shovel? I want it for my odd shop in the mountains of New York state, where people travel during the summer time and look for things for a house, that will look good with old furniture that is cracking from age. That shovel is what I want for my show window!" But Happy-Go-Lucky Grant said, "If that shovel left me it would break my heart. It's just like a brother to me! To see it standing in the corner of the cellar it's almost smiling at me! If it could talk it sure would tell about the great blizzard of '88. But, Collector Fred Overall, if I change my mind about selling the oldest snow shovel in the village, I will be glad to let you have it and will ship it to the hills of the state of New York!" Mr. Overall said good bye, jumped into his brown sedan and drove off for New York state.

Over 200 people in one day came and saw the green snow shovel that had not a crack in it, made of the best wood to be gotten from the old Noank shipyard. It was pencil cedar, clear as a man's bald head. It took him [illegible] hours to make it. News goes fast, and some tried to get pictures of the six foot man with the old snow shovel, but he claims never in his life has he had his picture taken for a paper or had his story in the paper, until now.

STONINGTON

Two prominent Stonington citizens who celebrated their birthdays Wednesday are Judge Elias B. Hinckley, 78, and Moses A. Pendleton, president of the First National bank, who is 86. Both are in excellent health. Mr. Hinckley is at his office in the Town hall daily, and Mr. Pendleton is daily at the bank.

Mrs. Isaac Savitt is visiting her brother in New York.

R. Thompson of Providence, was a business caller here Friday.

Paul Schepis spent Friday in Hartford.

Mrs. E. W. Northrup entertained the Potter club at a bridge Tuesday evening at her home on North Water street. Miss Margaret McGrath, Mrs. Charlotte Tuil, and Mrs. Joseph Joseph won the prizes.

Mrs. E. P. York, of New York, is here at her home "The Hill" for a brief visit.

The February meeting of the Stonington Savings and Loan association was held in the Borough hall Thursday evening.

Mrs. Constance Sekew, of New York, is a guest of Mrs. Frank Dodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Clay have returned from a visit with Hartford relatives.

Miss Lucretia Schepis is spending the week as the guest of Miss Nicholetta Squadrito in Bristol.

Misses Marietta and Edyth Durgin are to spend next week in Washington, D. C.

YOU CAN TELL SLO-BAKED BREAD BY THE TOAST IT MAKES

Compare the golden brown slices it makes with toast you get from any other kind of bread

YOUR toaster can tell you more about bread quality than any ten cook books. It can actually show you the difference between breads.

And at breakfast tomorrow you can find out whether the bread you use is made of the finest ingredients. And also whether it is slowly baked.

Just place a slice of slo-baked Wonder Bread in your toaster and toast until it is an even golden brown and as crisp as you like it. Then toast a slice of any other bread the same length of time. Compare them side by side. You'll be astonished at the difference!

The Wonder Bread toast will be a more even golden brown from edge to edge . . . crisper . . . with a delicate new toast flavor and a more delightful aroma.

The better toast you get from Wonder Bread is due to the extra-fine ingredients used and the special slo-baking process.

Toasting starts the instant you slip Wonder Bread into the toaster. With ordinary bread, your toaster actually has to finish cooking the bread before toasting starts.

When you see how convincing this toast test is, we believe you will want only Wonder Bread hereafter. Your grocer has it fresh twice daily. Continental Baking Company.

Life Can Be Made a Garden—But You Must Know How To Weed

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

Which Road?

If you could go back to the forks of the road—
Back the long miles you have carried the load;
Back to the place where you had to decide
By this way or that through your life to abide;
Back of the sorrow and back of the care;
Back to the place where the future was fair—
If you were there now, a decision to make,
Oh, pilgrim of sorrow, which road would you take?

Then, after you'd trodden the other long track,
Suppose that again to the forks you went back,
After you found that its promises fair
Were but a delusion that led to a snare;
That the road you first travelled with sighs of unrest,
Though dreary and rough was most graciously blest,
With a balm for each bruise and a charm for each ache—
Oh, pilgrim of sorrow, which road would you take?

Home

Each has his own conception
Of what a home should be,
Some desire grandeur
And some, simplicity.

It may be a costly triumph
Of architectural skill
So that all eyes beholding it
With admiration fill.

It may be spacious, stately,
With charm not duplicated;
A beauty spot to every eye,
By all appreciated.

And if it lacks in anything
Of beauty, comfort, cheer,
A joy it is to plan and save,
Improve from year to year.

It satisfies a na[illegible] pride
It gives a wholesome thrill,
To show your friends the product
Of your labor, thrift and skill.

It may not have verandas wide,
A panoramic view,
It still is home, if there inside,
A true heart waits for you.

Out of the wide and boundless world,
This one spot is our own.
Here we can idle, work or play,
With company or alone.

It is the birthplace of our dreams
Incentive, goal of strife;
An institution Heaven-sent,
A force that moulds our life.

And it may be our kingdom, small,
Our share of bliss on earth;
Where all our faults are condoned,
Twice magnified our worth.

Then let us briefly sum it up,
What by a home is meant?
The corner-stone must be of love
The hearth-stone of content.

The Pig And The Hen

The pig and the hen,
They both got in one pen,
And the hen said she wouldn't go out.
"Mistress Hen," says the pig,
"Don't you be quite so big!"
And he gave her a push with his snout.

"You are rough, and you're fat,
But who cares for all that;
I will stay if I choose," says the hen.
"No, Mistress, no longer!"
Says pig; "I'm the stronger,
And mean to be boss of my pen!"

And the hen cackled out
Just as close to his snout
As she dared: "You're an ill-natured brute;
And if I had the corn,
Just as sure as I'm born,
I would send you to starve or to root!"

"But you don't own the crib,
So I think that my ribs
Will be never the leaner for you;
This trough is my trough,
And the sooner you're off,"
Says the pig, "why the better you'll do!"

"You're not a bit fair,
And you're cross as a bear;
What harm do I do in your pen?
But a pig is a pig,
And I don't care a fig
For the worst you can say," says the hen.

Says the pig, "You will care
If I act like a bear
And tear your two wings from your neck."
"What a nice litle pen
You have got!" says the hen.
Beginning to scratch and to peck.

Now the pig stood amazed,
And the bristles, upraised
A moment past, fell down to sleek.
"Neighbor Biddy," says he,
"If you'll just allow me,
I will show you a nice place to pick!"

So she followed him off,
And they ate from one trough—
They had quarreled for nothing, they saw;
And when they had fed,
"Neighbor Hen," the pig said,
"Won't you stay here and roost in my straw?"

"No, I thank you; you see
That I sleep in a tree,"
Says the hen; "but I must go away.
So a grateful good-by."
"Make your home in my sty,"
Says the pig, "and come in every day."

Now my child will not miss
The true moral of this Little story of anger and strife,
For a word spoken soft
Will turn enemies oft
Into friends that will stay friends for life.

MISSED GOOD DINNER

Dear Cornerites: I just want to tell you what a lovely afternoon visit and dinner you missed in not attending Club No. 2 February meeting.

Meadow Lark kindly gave us several solos accompanied at the piano by Mawb who always reports whether it is work, playing the piano for our sing-songs, or in prayer. Such willing help as her's and a few other willing keepers make the day a happy one to all present.

Chelsea and E. L. M.: If those having hatchets would have said "No. 1 is here," No. 2 and so on, the one having the cherry number to match the hatchet number could have changed places with no delay. Like everything else, some one or more has to be as my grandma used to say, "was set in her ways" and refused to move. Well we will try it some other time and make a 100 per cent success and carry out the hostess' plan to the letter.

Our next meeting is the anniversary meeting and we look for a big day and attendance. At our last meeting a lot of Sunshine work was done both in the hall and outside we feel happy when we do a good turn to some one worthy.

Bumble Bee: I enjoy our daily visits over the phone while you are a shut-in but not a shut-off from the community with your bed extension phone. It helps to pass off a lonely day.

L. T. H.: I often think of you and all the work you do. I wish you could take time off to come to the Corner.

Scottie and Red Rose: Wasn't the day full from morning to night; also the moon, but it was a nice visit and a good ride ended the day. We will go again to the same place soon as T can take us there.

Rural Aunty: I have tested out and found in my early days of housekeeping that if the dumplings were done before the family came to dinner that by taking off the cover they could stand in the liquid and not get soggy. It's the steam that forms on the cover and drips on the dumplings often they are cooked that does the soggy work. If this isn't clear just ask for a repeat of this but first try removing the cover on the kettle as soon as the dumplings are done and boiling ceased.

To the sorrowing ones, my sympathy; to the shut-ins, a speedy recovery.

CALLA LILY, (Club 2.)

A LOVER OF OLD BOOKS

Dear Social Corner Friends: This is a sunshiny Sunday but so cold that it reminds me of Goody Blake and Harry Gill, whose "teeth they chatter, chatter still." The poem is in the old National Preceptor which contained many pieces of merit.

I have just been reading the very interesting letters and poems of the Social Corner and find that I must write now in order to have a letter published this month. How time does fly, for nearly one-sixth of this year is gone.

Cretia: Your very nice letter was fully appreciated, but it was so hard for me to write letters for a long time.

Naomi: Many thanks for "Life Is a Book." I shall copy it into my notebook.

Ann Tenna: I like your "Original Resolutions" and "Three Things."

I have just been reading "Cranford" which is an old book by Mrs. Gaskell. The illustrations in my copy are very good. Some of my mother's favorite books were: "Uncle William," "Aunt Jane of Kentucky," "The Fugitive Blacksmith," "Napoleon Jackson," "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "A Bow of Orange Ribbon," and "The Awakening of Helena Richie." I think that most elderly people will enjoy reading these books. "Wild Flowers We Should Know," by Thorton Burgess, is very good and can be found at the ten-cent stores.

We have just passed the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, the "rail splitter," who learned arithmetic and surveying by a log cabin fireplace. Then he mastered the study of law, never having been graduated from school or college. I was surprised when I saw the number of large volumes which his writings fill. Can someone send his proverbs to the Corner? They end with the words: "But these I reckon will give you a good lift."

This week we come to the birthday of George Washington, who was "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

We will know that he was a wise man if we study his writings. He said: "This government, this offering of our choice, adopted upon full investigation and mature deliberation, completely free in its principles, in the distribution of its powers uniting security with energy and containing within itself a provision for its own amendment, has a just claim to your confidence and your support. Respect for its authority compliance with its laws, acquiescence in its measures, are duties enjoined by the fundamental maxims of liberty."

A test of the progress which Americans have made in wisdom and virtue may be found in the veneration paid to the immortal name of Washington.

I think I hear the editor saying something about the waste basket so will close hoping to attend the meeting next month.

ROSARY

FRIED PIE PASTE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I will try and do my bit towards filling the Corner page. I have not missed many of the Corner meetings and I enjoy them very much.

Yellow Daisy: I was sorry to hear that your mother had been sick. I trust she is better by now.

Windham Blue Bell: I heard you had changed your address. Please send me your new one as I have something that belongs to you and I wish to return it.

Jennie: I looked for you at our last meeting, Feb. 12, but failed to see you.

Paleface: I was glad you were able to be with us once more.

Mayflower: Have you finished the holder yet?

Katy Did: Where art thou? I don't think you would feel much like chirping this cold winter's morning.

I will send in a recipe that I use a great deal for:

Fried Pie Paste: 1 cup sour milk, salt, 1 1tablespoon saleratis sifted with flour enough to handle and roll out well without sticking to the moulding board. Fill with mince meat or berries and close like envelopes. Then drop in hot fat.

My sympathy to all shut-ins.

RIVER VIEW (Club No. 1)

AN OLD SONG

Social Corner Members: As it is late for New Year's greeting I will say best wishes to all for a bright and prosperous year with good health and happiness thrown in for full measure. As it has been a long time since I wrote to the Corner page and having read such nice interesting letters and poems I decided I would write and thank the writers for them even if the writers are strangers to me. I was deeply interested some time ago in a poem sent in by Green Hollow. How true it is, let him that is without sin cast the first stone. The pile of stones would not grow small very fast. Then there was the nice letter of Jane from Rhode Island. What a lovely soul she must be for us to pattern after. If it be but a cup of cold water that is given it is something for heaven.

I have enjoyed reading all the Corner letters. I could get hold of, and I sure think Calla Lily is a faithful one to be doing so much for her club to keep it going and help to make all so happy as we read in Corner page. Clubs 4 and 6 have such nice meetings by reports from those attending. I miss Kitty Lou's letters so much, also others who have passed on in two years.

Quid Nunc: Your letter was a good one. It amused us all and drove away blues. All had a good hearty laugh and felt better after. It let in sunshine and sadness had to go for awhile anyway.

Just I: Long time since I read a letter to Corner page from you.

Here is the song I promised to send to Corner page. It is entitled:

"As Long as the Shamrock Grows Green I Will Love You.

You ask me how long I will love you or is it only for a day?
Don't worry Acushla, my darling.
Come drive all your sorrows away.
A true Irish heart lives forever,
And that doesn't mean for a day.

Chorus:

As long as the shamrock grows green I will love you,
As long as the Shannon flows down to the sea;
As long as the blue skies shine high up above;
That means forever, Acushla Machree.

Each hour is a pearl, my Acushla,
Each pearl is a tear from my eye;
Each day is a year, my Acushla,
When waiting our love knot to tie.
You ask my love to be patient.
I'll wait, bless your soul, till I die.

I had forgotten about it until looking over some old songs. I saw it, so hastened to send it in to Corner page. Where are our old members, or have they new names now?

Best wishes to all.

FLEURDELIS.

REMEMBER THE BIRTHDAYS.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Have just finished reading the Saturday Bulletin and enjoy it as I always do. The Social Corner letters are very interesting with their recipes and fine new ideas. What a nice winter we are having. Some of us grown-ups do not enjoy the snows we have had quite so much as we did when we were youngsters like the kiddies are today. But it does give a lot of happiness to them and in our fair city there are certain streets, at certain hours reserved for the kiddies to slide on. Isn't that a nice thing to do? After all our youngsters will be young only a little while and if they can have happy remembrances of their childhood days it is worth something, don't you think? I think so.

The holidays have gone by bringing happiness to many and sorrowful memories to others. Lincoln's birthday has passed once more and some very lovely memorials were in honor of him on that day. These were surely worth all the effort and praise that the day deserves in his honor. Soon George Washington's, our first president, birthday will be celebrated in due respect. These two presidents did much for our country, the land of the free and the home of the brave. Lest we forget let us ever be faithful to the memories these birthdays bring to us.

Arbutus: As I wrote you I was sorry not to have seen you but glad you received my letter. Thank you for remembering my mother. She is much better than she was, just has to be careful. Silver Locks has made me a very pretty braided rug for my bedroom and is making me another one. This with crocheting which she is doing keeps her right busy.

Hillside: Where are you and your nice letters? Have not seen any of your letters lately. Thank you for the nice Christmas card.

I wonder if any of the Corner sisters ever make a minute pudding. It is a very old fashioned pudding as my mother says her great-grandmother made it in the long, long ago. I make it once in a while and we like it ever so well.

Minute Pudding: First put over in a kettle set on stove 1 pint or more milk and bring to a boil, add a pinch of salt and then stir in sifted flour until it is thick, stirring so as not to burn. Grease a bowl with butter and pour pudding into it. Make a sauce of molasses, vinegar and piece of butter. Put on stove and heat till warm. Turn bowl upside down on plate cut in slices and serve with sauce poured over each slice. One pint of milk will serve four or five well.

Best wishes to all the shut-ins and sympathy to those who are in trouble or sorrow. My, but I have written a long letter and maybe there will be so many letters there will not be room enough for mine. However, I will leave that to the editor.

Old Fashioned Mother: How are you, dear? Sorry you were ill and hope you are all better now.

Best wishes to all.

YELLOW DAISY.

DISPOSITIONS.

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: I am glad our Corner page is being kept so well filled. I like to read the letters from the different persons. We are all placed in different persons. We are all have different plans and different dispositions to contend with, and it is wonderful how we get through from day to day. When we start in in the morning we don't know whether we will be able to accomplish our plans or whether that day will be a failure. I often think as I sit in our room at the B—M. how many, many homes and dispositions are represented, and how many obstructions are put in our path; and perhaps some of the are accidents and some on the other side. I have not attended the two last meetings at the B—M. for I have been shut in with the grippe, and it was the real grippe, too, different from cases that I have had before. I was well cared for. My Sunday school class sent me a basket of fruit, the King's Daughters sent me a plant, neighbors and friends sent me my meals, and more than I could use at that time, for all I cared for was water to drink. Then to send more sunshine into my heart, the editor sent me a yellow "ribbon" and that was a great surprise, for I never thought my brain could travel fast enough to earn a yellow "ribbon." I want to thank the editor for the yellow bow, and soon I will invest in vegetable garden seeds as I have a big garden and I care for it myself. It will soon be time to select my seeds. I am so sorry for Bumble Bee, I often think of her. I hope she is improving every day and my sympathy goes out to all the shut-ins. I must close and give room for others.

COMFORT.

O. D. VERY APPRECIATIVE.

Dear Social Corner Members: Club 6 met on Tuesday, a lovely day but very poor traveling which no doubt kept many at home as we missed some who usually meet with us.

I wish to thank all those who helped me in any way or manner.

Especially, Ravena should be thanked for the nice program which she put on. American Girl was to have the program but her mother, H. E. N., is quite ill and needs her attention. I heard yesterday that Dr. Bradford took a fall and is laid up for repairs. I hope she soon feels better.

O. D.

HAS WRITTEN 200 LETTERS IN FOUR YEARS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: This is a pretty cold morning, but I must thank the editor for the yellow slip which came last week quite unexpectedly. One day my daughter was cleaning out the drawers of her sewing cabinet and came across a tiny clipping "How to keep eye-glasses from steaming" and which she handed to me and said, "Here's something for you to send in to the Social Corner." It has been kept for years without a thought it would ever get a prize. Good luck seldom comes to me.

Some of the writers have told what they used their prize money for. I always buy stamps with mine. I have sent in over 200 letters during the four years I have been a member, hardly missing one every week. I have nothing else to do that I must do, no cares whatever on my mind, and it was always a great delight for me to be always scribbling.

I am sending a few quotations for the writer who saves them as follows:

"People with empty heads usually have tongues that rattle."

"The man who is too poor to take a newspaper, usually has a dog."

"There is gospel in the right kind of a handshake."

"A good heart is like the sunshine, it shines bright and never changes but keeps its course."

Kind wishes for all.

ANN TENNA, (Club 4.)

HAMPTON IN THE OLD DAYS

Dear Social Corner Members: L. T. H.: You have given me courage to continue about Hampton. I would like to meet Aunt Jerusha and husband very much indeed. Her sister called on me recently much to my pleasure. Where we found the spearmint was in Mr. Taintor's pasture, Moseley's sheep barn.

Betsy Bobbett: Thank you. I've thought Hampton in the 60's might not interest those not familiar with the town. Abbie, a cousin on my mother's side, who saw the snake has gone to her heavenly home. I have been talking with a man who has seen a hoop snake and says they are a grayish black in color, fangs circular, rather large and take hold with them. He thinks they are poisonous and found in south and west more than here.

Ann Tenna: Satisfying to me to hear that you saw the peculiar snake.

Just heard that one of our Andover members has recently lost her husband. She has my sympathy. No person can understand fully, unless they have had the same experience.

The history of Windham county, reads thus "The Moseley family are among the oldest and most prominent in the town of Hampton. The father of this subject, Ebenezer Moseley, was a preacher of considerable repute in his day. His son, Samuel Strong Moseley, was born at the homestead of the family in Hampton, in 1786, and in his native town the whole of his active life was spent. He received an academic education and early embarked in mercantile pursuits to which he later added farming. In both of these branches of industry he brought to bear the ability and thrift which were the inevitable precursors of success. He was also a large dealer in cattle and sheep, these operations proving extremely profitable. Mr. Moseley was actively identified with the public affairs of his county, and bore a prominent part in its political conflicts. He represented his constituents for successive terms in the Connecticut house of representatives and filled numerous offices of lesser importance in the town.

He was united in marriage to Harriet Bulkley of Colchester, Connecticut. To this union were born four sons, Edward S., who served two terms as state treasurer; George, William and Henry, and two daughters, Eliza and Mary, the first named daughter being the only survivor of these children. Mr. Moseley died in 1866."

There were two grand daughters living with Col. Moseley hen I knew them. Henry, who married Miss Rindge, ran the farm. William had a position in Washington, D. C. Mary married Mr. Daniels and lived in New York. George died. Eliza never married. Nellie, a granddaughter, married Luther Bolles of Putnam. He used to come on the stage from Danielsonville (as called then) driven by Joseph Avery. I was quite fond of her as she was pretty looking and capable. Children then wore out their mother's dresses or the skirts (at least I did). I had on a lawn dress yellow and white, never until now ever saw the same shade worn, in playing I tore the thin material (half worn out) then made into a dress for me. My mother on seeing the tears said, "you'll have to wear it." Soon Miss Moseley called to me to go to the post office to see if there was a letter there for her, but when she saw my dress said Mr. Bolles might be on the stage and might see and hear me ask for letter for her. Some of you may realize what this meant to a sensitive child. Soon quilts were pieced and quilted, one being called rising sun. Then the wedding and Mr. and Mrs Bolles went to Putnam. I think he was organist in some church there. She came home with the first child, a son, calling the child, "diamond baby," and saying "Here comes his diamond papa." Some of the neighbors used to say to me on my way to school some of the many endearing words used by the newlyweds. Things met with a change after the second son came, a separation and on calling on her when at her home, I asked, "Do you remember how I cried when you were married and left Hampton?" She replied "No, but it would have been better if I had." I answered "You did not think so then." Nellie or Helen had the whole household at her command before marriage. For a second marriage she became the wife of a Mr. Pease of Woonsocket, R. I., who published a penny paper and had a pretty daughter, named Helen. Eliza went to live with Nellie and all went to live in New York where the older women died.

William was obliged to give up his position in Washington, came home and died of consumption.

Henry Moseley had a daughter Hattie with whom I played. She was a few years younger than I. We occasionally went into the attic where I saw the beautiful straw bonnets, never played with them, several inches of fine plain straw, then a two inch insertion of fancy woven straw. I've often wondered where they were procured, no trimming on them and although a child, I realized their quality.

In the large hall leading from front door to back stood a grand sideboard. Mrs. Henry Fuller bought it for $12, when the place was sold. The knobs needed repairing which she did, and after her death her husband sold the antique for $109 and received $12 for boxing it up.

In the spare, or guest room, upstairs, a southwest room, was a bedstead with four tall posts of moderate dimensions with a steel nail headless, on top of each post in the center, holding a frame of wood covered over with white cloth which came down to meet the valance. Those on each side of the bed were fastened to the posts as you tie a drapery and at the foot hung down straight. I thought it so wonderful that I've never remembered another article in the room. I stayed over night with Helen, oftener called Nellie, but in her own room on northwest corner where the air blew through the branches of the huge elm tree. At the front of the hall upstairs stood a lowboy of mahogany like the bedstead described. I thought it such a pretty piece and thought if I ever possessed money enough when older I certainly would buy a lowboy. In Mrs. Henry's room only a settee, dark color with a little rack at one end where they could put a small child and sit at other end and rock it. Presume Miss Hattie, Henry Moseley's daughter, was rocked to sleep in this. I never saw a cradle there.

CRETIA.

A SCOTCH RETORT

Dear Social Corner: Salutations to all. Isn't it fine to see the best flag in the world flying today, in honor of George Washington, first president of the United States of America. Strange to think he never occupied the white house. He presided at the laying of its cornerstone the 13th of October, 1792, exactly 300 years after the landing of Columbus. A humorous incident is recorded in connection with the building of the white house. A Scotch planter owned land nearby, and through which the workers were obliged to draw the blocks of granite and other material used in building much to David Burns' disgust. He lived in a little cottage between the hill chosen for the president's mansion and the Potomac river and he hampered the work of building in every conceivable way.

One day Washington attempted to remonstrate with him and pointed out the pecuniary advantages Mr. Burns would derive from the proximity of his remaining property to the presidential palace. At last he lost his patience and reminded the Scot that, if the "Federal City" had not been located there, David Burns would have lived and died a poor tobacco planter.

David Burns' ire was up in an instant as he retorted, "Aye, Mon. And if you hadn't married the rich widow Curtis with her niggers, you would be a land surveyor today, and a mighty poor one at that!"

Washington never received any pay for being general of the army nor as president of the United States. Show me a man (or woman for that matter) today who would shoulder all that burden for nothing. It just isn't done today.

ARIES.

A SUGGESTION ABOUT HOSTESSES

Dear Editor and Sisters: Well, some storm but the snow is going fast, thanks be. We had a nice day for the meeting last Tuesday but it was rather slippery and slushy underfoot. But the days are growing longer and it will be spring before we know it almost. O. D. was hostess and with her helpers served us a nice dinner and Ravena had arranged a nice progrom. Last month, when I was hostess, an aluminum pie pan, a teaspoon and two small cans of cherries were left at the hall. I still have them, if the owners will call for them. Next meeting is the anniversary meeting and we would like to see some of the older members, that is older in membership, who have not been coming lately.

And another thing I think would be a very nice thing to do. There are many who have never taken their turn as hostesses, and wouldn't it be nice if some one would volunteer to take it for each meeting instead of E. L. M. having to ask someone each time? Why not at the next meeting enough say they will do it to cover each meeting, the rest of the year?

We know unforeseen things happen but that could be arranged by having some extra volunteers take their places if the hostesses were prevented by illness or anything. There are plenty who would be willing to help and now that Club 6 has some equipment of their own it is not such a serious proposition, and I don't know of anyone who would refuse to bring what they were asked for. Of course there are some who would find fault no matter if the Angel Gabriel was doing it but we can't please everyone and when we do the best we can that is all we can do. This is a suggestion and I hope E. L. M. won't think I am getting too officious.

Beers: You missed a lot Tuesday night. You and the W. chaplain have the same idea in mind.

Ravena: I am sending you a list of suggestions. You might find something you can use.

American Girl: We missed you and hope H. E. N. is better.

B. Natural: We will be glad to see you at the March meeting.

Dorothy Bradford: Sorry you had such a bad fall.

Good luck, everybody, with a sincere hope for warm weather soon.

SUMAC (No. 6).

BETTER SAFE THAN SORRY

Dear Social Corner Editor and Friends: While unable to attend the meeting of Club No. 6, in Mechanics hall, Westerly, today (Tuesday) due to weather conditions, treacherous highways, etc., as I had planned, my thoughts being with that hospitable gathering have prompted me to write a letter to the Corner. Although we meet with disappointment from time to time, it is always better to be safe, than sorry. As we have no chains on our car, we never take any risk. I wonder how many have heard this motto: "Life has many shadows, but 'tis the sunshine makes them. Sounds rather peculiar, yet really has a very deep meaning. Strange as it may seem Meadowlark and I also planned to attend the January meeting of Club 6. We had a pleasant time Wednesday, the 13th, with Club No. 1 in chamber of commerce hall, Willimantic. In fact, every time we have visited that club we have always very much enjoyed ourselves. Also attended the meetings of both Norwich clubs in Buckingham Memorial this month. This is quite unusual, as we greatly enjoy the auto ride on trips out of town and more often attend those gatherings.

Ravina: Thanks for your kind invitation. We surely intended to do so, but for reasons explained at the beginning of this epistle.

Calla Lilly: Many thanks for your hospitality.

Joan: It was indeed a pleasure to see you again.

Bumble Bee: Accept our sincere sympathy for the terrible accident that befell you. Trust in Him who knoweth and understandeth all and He will bring you out of the ordeal through which you are passing at this time.

Lonesome Pine: Olga and your dear sweet sister, whose pen name I do not know, also the dear little companion that always accompanies you, whose pen name I have forgotten: Meadow Lark and I missed you at the February meeting of Club No. 1, in Willimantic. The gathering did not seem quite complete without your smiling faces. Windham Blue Belle: Also missed you and the cordial greeting you always extend us.

Aunty No. 1: We are looking forward to seeing you Saturday evening, in honor of the Great Event.

Mawb: Your recent kind favor to Meadow Lark was much appreciated by him, as well as myself. Best wishes to all from

LOWTHORPE

GETS MUCH PLEASURE FROM LETTERS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I see on the past two Saturdays the Social Corner pages were well filled with very interesting letters which I enjoy reading. It pleased me to see the letters from Prairie Chicken. Yes, I am nicely settled and perfectly contented in my city home. I have been invited to take several auto rides with young people and I have been down to the stores several times, shopping. The streets were so icy cousin and I took a trolley yesterday to her son's home, about four miles out of the city, spent the afternoon and evening and had a pleasant time. I took my work with me which was the pinballs. I gave my friend one and she was so pleased. Everyone says: "O, isn't that cute?" I have made 19 of them, but I haven't had a bit of trouble with mine. Glad you made a success. You have heard the quotation: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try, again." If I remember correctly that was in one of my copy books when I went to school.

It was a very cold day for people who were obliged to be out on Sunday. The family attended church service, both morning and evening, but I enjoyed myself staying at home where it is so nice and cosy and listening to the radio. You hear so many good old fashioned pieces. One selection that I heard was Silver Threads Among the Gold.

I have been quite interested in the subject of the trundle bed for I came in that class. My mother had one for us children. I was the oldest so of course had charge of my brother who shared it with me but he says he doesn't remember such a thing.

Jennie: Your description of the log cabin and sod house brought fresh to my memory the by-gone days when I went to the state of Nebraska when a bride and had the experience of being in a real sod house. It was in Dundy county and it was in the 80's. When we drove to town we had to ford the Republican river. That was years ago, about 40 I guess. I must start my supper so best wishes to you all and sympathy for those that are cast down.

CLUB 6 MEETING

Dear Social Corner Members: Club 6 had a good meeting today. The attendance was not as large as usual owing to the bad traveling, but we had a good time. O. D. was the hostess. The tables were decorated with red paper hearts and at each plate were candy motto hearts. The hostess and helpers wore white caps decorated with red hearts. The dinner was O. K. Ravena had charge of the program, which consisted of readings, songs, contests and an exchange of valentines. Different features of it celebrating Lincoln's birthday, Washington's birthday and Valentine's day. We missed American Girl and H. E. N. and hope H. E. N. will soon be well so they can both meet with us again. We were sorry to hear of Dorothy Bradford's accident and hope she is soon out again. We were glad to have Powaget with us again after a long absence owing to having been in the hospital.

Bay State and Toma: Was it too slippery for you?

Clio: Your friend was not there so may see you before I see her.

Some one wrote last week about a bed sink that a new one on me, quite a scheme though.

Beth C.: Was so disappointed in not seeing you today.

Zulieka: We missed you and many others.

Ruthina: I'm depending on you.

JANE OF R. I. IS ILL.

Dear Social Corner Friends: Maybe this letter will not get printed as I am ill and cannot type it or use pen, but I want to tell all the members how much I enjoy their letters and thank one and all for the notes, and Aries for sending papers.

Eveline Burr's letter was fine.

I have two wonderful Indian poems and will send one to editor. "The American Indian" is a magazine. Did you know that Eveline?

Today I received the first valentine in years. Did it cheer me? You bet it did. The doctor said I have been working too hard, Typed from 8 a. m. to 4.30 every day for two years, besides running my house and caring for small boys. I am sitting in a chair and playing solitaire and mending now for a change.

Do I like it? Well, it makes a change, and I must like it as I am told to take it easy. Having never been it, it is hard for me to give up work. I have a woman and this last week taught her to make cake and cornbread.

When mothers have to give in and have someone else do their work it is hard.

What good times you must have at your meetings. "Rural Aunty" writes about Vermont. I have been over "Hog Back" mountain in an auto. Been to the top of Mt. Washington and how I love Connecticut. I was there two weeks. It was eight miles from Willimantic. "Spring Hill" I think the name was and the large college was there. It was 1200 feet above sea level. The air was fine and we gained over eight pounds in two weeks. "Little Rhody" is a fine place in summer also. I live on Narragansett bay and the ocean liners sail by my house.

JANE OF R. I.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Dear Social Corner Readers: I am quite sure the writers have caught the spirit of writing. I was so pleased to see so many letters in the last week's paper and my friend Clarylee Lyle whom I was afraid was ill sent us a very interesting letter. Her letters of the west were so interesting I wish she would write more. At last the long-looked-for letter of Interested Reader hopped into the Corner. But where is Brown Eyes and the other sisters who live up north of me? We would enjoy their letters.

I did not get in on Lincoln's birthday like many of the writers who were real patriotic, did, so this week I have been reading the Character of George Washington by George Bancroft and will take a few extracts, which, I think are the best and send in this letter.

As we all know his father died when Washington was a child. The boy grew up with but little education. Just knowledge enough of arithmetic and geometry to be able ture was altogether his own work and was altogether his own work and he was a self-made man. Yet from his early life he never seemed uneducated. At sixteen he went into the wilderness as a surveyor and for three years he followed in that line. The forests trained him to freedom and largeness of mind; and nature revealed to him her obedience to serene and silent laws. In his intervals from work, he always seemed to be attracted to the best men and Fairfax became his firm friend. He read little, but with close attention. He was courageous, cheerful and frank. He was liberal, giving quietly, kind to dumb animals. Compassionate and with quick sensibility to the sorrows of others. His fiery quickness and his massive will was always held in check by his better judgment.

His understanding was clear, his judgment accurate, so that his conduct never betrayed hurry or confusion. He excelled in patience and the power of self control was remarkable. He loved fame and the good opinion of his fellow-men.

Never in the tide of time has any man lived who had, in so great a degree, the almost divine faculty to command the confidence of his fellow men and rule the willing. Wherever he became known, in his family, his neighborhood, his country, his native state, the continent, the camp, the United States, in foreign courts, throughout the civilized world of the human race and even among the savages he, beyond all other men, had the confidence of his kind.

PRAIRIE CHICKEN.

NEW GINGERBREAD RECIPE.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: It's a long time since I have written to the Corner folks and a long while since I have attended one of the meetings where everybody always has such a very good time. I miss them very much, perhaps some time I will again have that pleasure. I am always interested and get the Corner news from Mary France and Nema, whom I see quite often. We sure are having regular winter weather, pretty cold up around South Coventry way. The ground hog was a good weather prophet all right.

Thank you Social Corner member for the sweet little calendar I received, you are very thoughtful.

Double Fuschia and Bay State: Many thanks for Christmas greetings. I hope you both are well and also your better halves.

Hiker: How are you?

Bob White: Pretty lonesome out here now-a-days, but spring will soon be on its way and we can get outdoors.

Necia: Sorry you have been sick. I hope you are all right again.

Hulda: Glad you are having a nice time in the sunny south.

Practical Polly: Thank you for card.

Marinda: You have my sympathy. I hope you are doing fine.

I found this recipe in Rural New Yorker, tried it and we thought 'twas fine. Try it.

Glorified Gingerbread: Put in bowl 2 cups flour, 1 cup sugar ½ cup shortening ½ teaspoon ginger and cinnamon. Now mix as for pie crust, set aside ½ cup of this mixture then make a hole in remainder; add one egg, 3 tablespoons molasses, 1 cup sour milk, 1 teaspoon soda, a little salt; put in baking tin, crumble the dry mixture over top, smooth with spoon. Bake in moderate oven 30 minutes. I had no sour milk so used hot water.

The writer said hide it or you won't have a bit left to put on table.

Happy New Year to all.

MARIGOLD.

MOURN THEIR YOUTH.

Dear Social Corner: Are crows a sign of spring? I heard them yesterday—the coldest morning of the winter. Did they know it would be warm today? Well, our ice is in. We do not need any more cold weather.

Eveline Burr: Your letters are always interesting. I feel as you do about the good old time. Seems to me the present day is no worse, (if no better) as regards to morals, and material comfort now so much greater. But I can feel more tolerance for those who voice their longings for the past since the thought came to me that what they really are mourning for is their lost youth, and departed friends, and perhaps also the keen enjoyment of simple pleasures which youth gives.

Practical Polly: A good idea. I like your letters. But if I name each one I like, will have no room left for anything else. Maybe I'd better tell the ones I can't seem to raise any enthusiasm over. The same being those extremely short epistles begining with "I would like to join" and ending "will take for my pen-name" and nothing in between. When, and how, did that method of joining the Corner start, anyhow? When the Corner was started and for years after if anyone wanted to join, she (or he) wrote a letter on some subject of interest to herself, and so presumably to others, this letter being followed by more on various topics. Can't remember of anyone then asking to be a member. The printed letter made one a member of the corner and it was so understood.

Paleface: Some of the styles are rather funny, aren't they? But by long skirts I did not mean the moderate length but those so long they clean the heels at every step.

Have just been making some pillow cases. Had cloth left from making sheets, almost enough for two pairs, just a little too short, so I cut the two pairs then went to the piece box for something to lengthen them with. The only pieces large enough were some gayly printed percales. One had a green figure with touches of black, and one had figures of red, blue and orange. I cut pieces wide enough to make a three-inch double band and stitched on the edge in place of a hem. Now they are long enough and don't look so bad, either. Plenty good enough for every day wear.

Clarissa Lyle: Never mind the slams. Do keep coming. Some of us enjoy your letters.

Wisteria: I've been wondering about that seeding propensity of the Chinese forget-me-not. Do you suppose it might become as big a nuisance as the daisy has since that was brought here? We'll hope not. Sorry I could not go and help you. Would have liked to very much.

BETSY BOBBETT.

HOW TO COOK A HUSBAND

Dear Social Corner Sisters: As one of the sisters asked for receipe for cooking husbands, am sending one along. In these modern times, women seems to have a new style of cooking. It seems to be the purpose of many wives to keep their husbands in a stew most of the time by their demands and irritating gab; other women simply roast their husbands. The majority of husbands are in a pickle all their lives. It cannot be supposed that any husband will be tender and good if he is roasted until he becomes tough. Boiling sometimes makes them better, providing they don't get soaked afterwards.

In selecting a husband young women should not be guided by the silvery appearance, as in buying mackerel, not by the golden tint as in buying salmon. Be sure to select him yourself as tastes differ; do not go to the market for him, the best are always brought to your door. It is far better to have none, unless you will patiently learn how to look for him. See that the linen in which you wrap him is nicely washed and mended, with the required number of buttons sewed on.

Tie him in the kettle by a strong silk cord called comfort, as the one called duty is apt to be weak. Make a clear steady fire out of love, neatness and cheerfulness. Add a little sugar in the form of what confectioners call kisses, but no vinegar or pepper on any account. A little spice improves him but it must be used with judg-

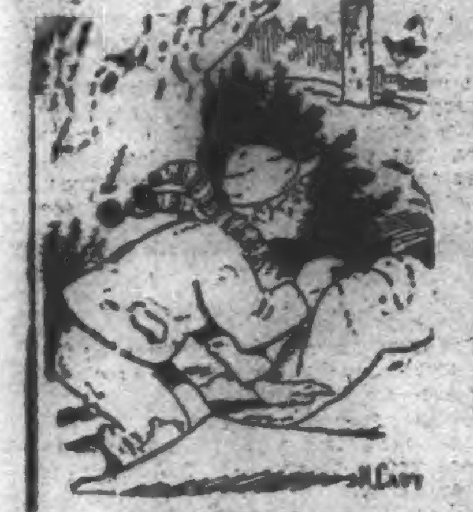
BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Leaving Well Enough Alone

Leave well enough alone; 'twill pay.
There's little can be lost that way.
— Farmer Brown's Boy.

"Well, I never!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy, and repeated it two or three times. He was peering under a little hemlock tree. There on the ground, snapping his bill at him, trying to make him look very fierce, was a little Owl clothed in gray-white down with a few feathers beginning to show. "No wonder Mrs. Hooty is so savage," continued Farmer Brown's Boy. This must be one of her babies and it must have fallen from that nest. Hooty and Mrs. Hooty must have nested early this year. Now what shall I do with you, you little rascal? I'd like to take you home, but on the other hand, I'd like to see what will happen if I leave you here. It looks to me as if you must have been here some little time already. It is quite evident that you have been fed here for some time. I wonder if your mother can succeed in raising you on the ground."



Farmer Brown's Boy saw her alight on the ground

He looked up at the nest. He thought he caught a glimpse of something white up there. "I believe there is still one baby up in that nest," thought he. "It must be that one youngster is being cared for in the nest and one on the ground. I believe I'll watch for a few minutes and see what happens."

So Farmer Brown's Boy hid a short distance away and took Bowser with him. He made Bowser lie down and be quiet. Then he watched. He didn't have to wait long. Mrs. Hooty was so anxious to know if that baby was all right that she couldn't wait long. Farmer Brown's Boy saw her alight on the ground. She had a mouse in her bill. He saw the little Owl lean forward and snatch that mouse from his mother's bill. Meanwhile, Mrs. Hooty turned her head this way and turned her head that way, glaring in every direction. So far around and so rapidly did she turn her head that it looked as if she turned it round and round. What she did do was to turn it so that she looked right over her own back. Then she would turn it in the other direction just as far. The effect was for all the world as if her head were going round and round, which of course it couldn't do.

A moment or two later Hooty sailed down from up in the tree and alighted beside Mrs. Hooty. They seemed to be talking matters over. Meanwhile, the little Owl had eaten the mouse and, his appetite being satisfied for the time being, he had settled down quietly. Presently Hooty and Mrs. Hooty seemed to reach an agreement. Hooty flew to the top of a stump a short distance away and there he sat as if he were a part of the stump itself. Mrs. Hooty flew away. She had gone hunting once more, leaving Hooty on guard. Evidently they did not worry about the baby up in the nest. It was the one on the ground who worried them.

Farmer Brown's Boy very quietly stole away. He couldn't waste any more time there. There was work to do over at the sugar house. He would have liked to remain to watch those Owls, but he is a boy who believes that when there is work to do no time should be wasted. "I'll keep an eye on that little fellow," thought he. "I can have a look at him every time I go to or from the sugar camp. In that way I'll know if he lives. I have a feeling that he will. I know some Owls nest on the ground, so I don't see any reason why, if they can raise their young on the ground, Hooty and Mrs. Hooty shouldn't raise theirs."

CHAPLIN

Wilfred E. Burdick has recently bought all the land of George England, located west of the state road and including a stock barn. The land comprises about fifty acres divided into mowing land, pasture and some woodland.

Burton M. Welch of Bogota, N. J., is spending several days in town with relatives.

Natchaug grange at its Friday evening observed Newspaper Night. All members responded to roll call reading a newspaper clipping. A prize contest was open to members dressed in paper costume. A newspaper to be edited consisted of six pages, each page in charge of the following; Economic committee, first page, comprising domestic, agriculture and local news; lecturer's committee, second page, society and grange news and music; the Graces, third page, advertisements, original comics and wants; charity committee, editorial, all original; sporting page, in charge of Robert Sherman, Arvov Nukala and Joseph Szymanki; insurance committee, last page, which was the funny page. The program proved most interesting and a large number of grangers attended.

Mrs. E. C. Burdick, who has been seriously ill is improving.

Is Your Daughter Well and Strong?

There are three trying periods in a woman's life; when the girl matures to womanhood; when a woman gives birth to her first child; when a woman reaches middle age. At these times Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps to restore normal health and vigor. Thousands testify to its worth.

Daughter of Mrs. F. Butcher,
R. No. 2, Gridley, Kansas

"My thirteen year old daughter Maxine was troubled with backache and pain when she came into womanhood. I knew Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would help her because I used to take it myself at her age. Now she does not have to stay home from school, and her color is good, she eats well and does not complain of being tired."
—Mrs. Floyd Butcher.

Daughter of Mrs. J. Bartholdi,
Thompson's Addition,
The Dalles, Oregon

"My daughter Magdalen did not seem to develop as she should. At times she had no pep at all and couldn't get her school work very easily. For four years we doctored her, off and on. Then a friend told us about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I got a bottle for Magdalen. Her nerves are quieting, her general health is better and she is now as normal as other girls. I really think the Compound helped her more than all the other medicine I gave her."—Mrs. J. Bartholdi.

Daughter of Mrs. M. Milano,
1408 Park Ave.,
New York, New York

"My seventeen year old daughter Fannie was rundown, weak and nervous. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound she has gained in weight and strength. She eats and sleeps well. She is a packer and she is able to go to work every day. We recommend the medicine to other mothers and daughters."

Palace Theatre

"She Couldn't Say No," a snappy, tuneful, peppy picture, starring that delightful tomboy of the screen, Winnie Lightner, has come to town, and opens today at the Palace theatre. Those who have seen Miss Lightner in the "Gold Diggers of Broadway," and "Show of Shows," need no introduction to this vigorous girl, but perhaps many persons who have watched and heard her do not know her history. She was born in Greenport, Long Island, brought up by an uncle who lived in Buffalo and decided to become a singer at an early age.

She started with serious songs at Shay's theatre, Buffalo, but on her way to the theatre a rainstorm drenched her, and she was delayed so that she did not have time to change her clothes before going on. Imagine how the audience howled when this bedraggled little girl started to sing emotional songs! Before she had been singing ten minutes, Winnie definitely decided to be a comedienne.

Some months later she appeared on Broadway in George White's "Scandals," and later in "Gay Paree." After this came a successful European tour with appearances in London and Paris. About a year ago Miss Lightner made two Vitaphone acts which brought her to the attention of the Warner executives for the principal role in "Gold Diggers of Broadway," and since then you know her story up to the time she was named in "She Couldn't Say No." Now is the chance to catch up with Winnie's history and keep in step by coming to the Palace and laughing your sides sore at her antics and songs.

Come and hear her sing "A Darn Fool Woman Like Me." Listen while she chants "Watching My Dreams Go By," and see her as a big hearted girl who couldn't say "No" to anybody. She is immense in this picture and she has able support in the persons of Chester Morris, Sally Eilers, Tully Marshall and Johnny Arthur. The story of the film is that of a night club dancer who attains fame owing to the management of the man she loves and hopes to reform. Like lots of other women who can't say "no" to peddlers that come to the door and men who can't say "no" when someone offers them a drink, Winnie proves herself to be the great "yes" girl. Come and see how it turned out.

Broadway Theatre

"$10,000 Reward! Dead or alive, but dead preferred!" was the price set on the head of the notorious bandit "The Kinkajou," whose face had never been recognized, and with a whole troop of Texas rangers and a couple of squadrons of Mexican cavalry on his trail, Mr. Kinkajou sat coolly in the cantina, and drank his fiery mescal! Just one of the hundreds of exciting incidents in the RKO film version of Florenz Ziegfeld's tremendous stage spectacle "Rio Rita," which opens at the Broadway today with Bebe Daniels, exotic, alluring and charming in the title role, and John Boles, who won fans everywhere in "The Desert Song," singing his way to new laurels as Captain Jim of the Rangers. Drama, thrilling and tingling—comedy, side-splitting and uproarious—dancing, Spanish, "nuf sed!"—singing, the like of which was never before recorded on the films—terse, snappy dialog, marvelous scenery, gorgeous technicolor lavishly spread throughout the film—wonderful music—all contribute to the record-breaking success of this, the first operetta to be transferred direct from the stage to the screen, with all the added scope and possibilities of the screen, impossible to achieve on the stage, however large, and make "Rio Rita" indeed the eighth wonder of the world. In addition to Miss Daniels and Mr. Boles, whose solos and duet numbers are captivating, the cast also includes Bert Wheeler and Bob Woolsey, the ga-ga comedians of the original stage show, whose comedy is at once unique and hilarious, relieving the tense drama which creeps in at every chance. Dorothy Lee, a charming blonde, in addition to clever singing and dancing, also has a gold mine of laughs freely added to the general fun. Helen Kaiser and Eva Rosita are another pair of cute tricks, heading the famous Cimini Dancers who show some tricky and delightful dance numbers. The singing and dancing chorus numbers nearly 1000, working in the vast and sumptuous sets of the Ferguson Rancho, the huge Freemont cabaret, the palatial Ravenoff hacienda and its wonderful garden, and the most gorgeous setting ever screened, the massive and ornate pleasure barge, the Mexican version of the old-time American showboat, but furnished and decorated in the pinnacle of luxury. Most of these larger scenes are in technicolor, which through the latest improved processes, used in "Rio Rita" for the first time, gives a clear-cut, sharply defined picture, with true color value, and without the "fuzzy," blurry outlines which have characterized other color productions. Miss Daniels' beautiful voice, displayed here for the first time, is surprisingly sweet and strong, a delightful foil for the rich tenor of John Boles. Swinging, lilting melodies, with here and there a bit of a dreamy theme, with every number especially written for this production are scattered throughout, with the peppy chorus, singing and dancing, furnishing nearly two and a half hours of thoroughly delightful screen fare. The length of the show makes it necessary to start tomorrow (Sunday) evening at 6:15, instead of 6:30, as heretofore, with two complete shows at 6:15 and 8:45. Doors will be opened at 5:45. Today's performance is at 1 sharp, with four complete shows in continuous sequence.

Breed Theatre

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, filmdom's favorite sweethearts, will make their Fox Movietone musical comedy debut on the Breed theatre screen, in "Sunny Side Up," written by DeSylva, Brown and Henderson. This elaborate production, hailed as the greatest of the year, will be seen and heard starting today at 1 p. m. sharp.

Farrell reveals a pleasing baritone voice in several song numbers which is certain to add thousands to his already long list of admirers. Miss Gaynor, in addition to singing, dances and plays the zither.

An unusually fine supporting cast surrounds the stars in Sharon Lynn and Frank Richardson, who made individual hits in the "Fox Movietone Follies"; Marjorie White, sparkling Broadway comedienne, and El Brendel, whose Swedish impersonations have made him one of the screen's most popular performers.

The celebrated trio of author composers are credited with the successful stage musical comedies, "Good News," "Manhattan Mary," "Three Cheers," "Hold Everything" and "Follow Thru." They have provided half a dozen sensational songs for this production.

Augmenting the imposing cast are 100 singing and dancing beauties in the chorus ensembles. David Butler directed the production.

Red Arrow Auction

The seventh Red Arrow auction to be held at the Palace theater on Tuesday, February 25, will have several novel features of great public interest. The first will be the conduct of the auction by Witter Brothers, professional auctioneers, who will be in action every minute of time as the $1,225 worth of useful merchandise will be sold. Another feature will be the award of 15 cash prizes for a handicraft contest and one prize to the boy scouts for the best boy scout handicraft work.

The handicraft contest turned out to be an astounding event. C. I. Smith, Charles B. Gilbert and George Powers, Red Arrow merchants, who are on the handicraft committee, found the handiwork a great revelation of artistic designs of great beauty. Never in the history of Norwich has so much beautiful and artistic handwork been brought together for any exhibition. Miss Agnes L. White and Miss Helen Barry, who have tabulated the articles as they came in, and Miss Catherine Murphy of the Reid & Hughes art department, who understand and appreciate art work are profuse in their praise of the unusually artistic work performed by the women of Norwich and vicinity.

The handicraft will be on display in the windows of the Reid & Hughes company and in both windows of the Silberman Furniture company. The boy scout work will be displayed at the Hanover Curland Co.

In order to be able to tabulate the great number of artistic entries and have sufficient time to judge the awards it was found necessary to set the time for the closing of the contest at 5 p. m., Saturday, Feb. 22.

The articles will be on display until Tuesday night so that the Norwich art loving public will have a chance to see this most unusual display.

Arrangements have been made by the Red Arrow merchants to have the theater open at 5:45 and the show to start at 6:45, so that the auction can start promptly at 9 p. m. and finish early enabling the Red Arrow patrons to go home in time.

The theater will run only one show and vitaphone act, but the auction will be a great show with lots of live action and fun.

Radio Artists at Leffingwell Church.

Miss Edith Leffingwell and Miss Helen Spaulding of the National Bible Institute of New York city will be at the morning service at the Leffingwell church on Sunday. Miss Leffingwell has been singing over station WMCA of New York. Miss Spaulding, pianist, will accompany her in special music at the morning service at 11 o'clock.

Next Week at Park Congregational Church.

Tuesday, 4 p. m., the Girl Scouts will hold their meeting.

Tuesday, 7.15 p. m.—Troop 12, Boy Scouts' meeting.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Pictures At The Y. M. C. A. Sunday

"The Declaration of Independence" in moving pictures will be shown in the large gymnasium of the local Young Men's Christian association tomorrow (Sunday) at 4 p. m.

Inasmuch as we are just celebrating the anniversary of the birth of "The Father of our Country," George Washington, this wonderful picture is exceedingly appropriate. It is based on the "Eve of the Revolution," by Carl Becker, and is most thrilling as well as true to history.

An account of the efforts of a small group of patriots to bring about a unanimous vote in favor of independence. The proceedings of the Second Continental congress culminating in the famous session of July 2nd, 1776. The formal adoption of the Declaration of July 4th, and the subsequent excitement.

A brief address will be given by Rev. Joseph Cooper of the Trinity Methodist church.

To this interesting hour, the adult public of both sexes are cordially invited. Boys and girls eleven to fifteen inclusive will be admitted, but they must be accompanied by their parents.

Next Week at United Congregational Church.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Sodalitas will be held at 7.30 Monday evening in the junior department rooms of the church school, when surgical dressings will be made for the William W. Backus hospital.

The executive committee of the missions department of the Guild will meet in Miss Pullen's study at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The Girl Scouts meet at the Community house at 3.45 Friday afternoon.

The Girls' chorus meets at the Community house at 6.45 Friday evening.

The regular meeting of the Boy Scouts will be held at the Community house at 7.30 on Friday evening.

The Brownies meet on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the junior department rooms of the church school.

Next Week at Central Baptist Church

GOSHEN

No church services were held here Sunday on account of the snow and severe cold.

A. C. E. business meeting and social was held in the church social room Friday evening last. It was voted to give a short play and supper during Easter vacation. Games were enjoyed and a lunch of sandwiches, cake, cookies and coffee was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Petrofsky have named their new baby Gloria Belle.

Mrs. Edward Barrows was a visitor in Willimantic last week.

The 4-H club held a meeting Saturday last at the home of Miss Gilletto and occupied their time in cooking. Among those present were the president, Olive Cox, Alice and Ruby Faulkner, Annie Pelkerson, Mamie Shaida, Annie Gorski, Florence Brewster, Eleanor Thomas and the Misses Yorczyk.

Clarence Thomas, who collects milk for the local milk producer and takes it to a point on the state road, was able to make regular trips with his new truck both Sunday and Monday. The roads were also cleaned in time for the rural mail carriers to make their trips Monday. In some places there were quite deep drifts, while many fields were bare ground.

Colds have been prevalent. Many of the pupils in District No. 12 were absent Monday.

During the severe storm late Saturday there was a tragedy here; the victim was found lying by the roadside in the snow dead. There was evidence of a fearful struggle, as there were bits of the outside apparel lying about. It is thought that the guilty party that has been prowling around this locality of late was Mr. Fox. His victim was Brer Rabbit.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week a tower clock was being placed in the spire of Park Congregational church. The clock was the gift of a wealthy and liberal woman member of the church. The same week, at the annual meeting of Park church, it developed that the envelope system had greatly increased the contributions for benevolent purposes. Rev. Andrew J. Sullivan, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, held a reception at the church parsonage on Prospect street and there was an attendance of about 800 persons during the evening. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Norwich Bulletin of February, 1880, are as follows:

Monday, Feb. 16, 1880—The attention of the Broadway policeman was attracted to the premises of Mr. Norman Day, No. 21 Broadway, about one o'clock Saturday morning by a noise in the neighborhood of the barn, and going thence he discovered an incendiary fire in the henhouse, adjourning the barn, which contained a lot of dry leaves and heard the retreating steps of the would be barn burner. He extinguished the flames and roused Mr. Luther Harris, who is employed on the premises.

The annual fair of the Universalist society commences tomorrow evening. The attractions are varied and numerous, with an interesting drama in two acts, entitled Bread Upon the Waters. Music will add to the entertainment, furnished by Miller's orchestra.

The conductors and brakemen on the Norwich and Worcester division of the New York and New England railroad appear in the regulation uniform today.

Tuesday, Feb. 17, 1880—Mr. Webster Park has purchased the stately edifice on School street which was originally built for a female boarding school.

The organ grinders have started east from New York city and the first warm days will probably bring the nuisances.

Norwich may be said to have the heaviest representation of any town or city in the state. Representative Carpenter, chairman of the committee on cities and boroughs, weighing 274 pounds and Representative Barstow, chairman of the committee on agriculture, 278, making the gross weight of Norwich representation 552 pounds.

There will be a missionary meeting in the lecture room of the Broadway church this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Miss Payson will speak concerning her work in China.

Wednesday, Feb. 18, 1880—At the recent meeting of the stockholders of the Uncas National bank, to consider the proposition to reduce their stock it was decided to first have a thorough overhauling of the affairs of the bank, by a committee consisting of Frank Leavens, George D. Coit, and Mr. Royce, of Willimantic, and to leave further action contingent upon the result of this examination.

The Page type works at Greeneville were entered Saturday night, by burglars. They entered the building by a window at the east end, going into the office on the second story broke out a glass in the door and unlocked it. They then attacked the safe and succeeded in breaking in one of the panels but did not make an entrance.

The three masted schooner, Annie R. Lewis, arrived in this port from the West Indies, Tuesday, with a cargo of molasses for J. M. Huntington & Co.

Thursday, Feb. 19, 1880—A tower clock of the latest approved manufacture is being placed in the spire of Park church. It is to be put above the bell loft and the pivot for the hands is to project through the round apertures of the belfry of the north, west and south sides of the tower. The clock is the gift of a wealthy and liberal lady member of the church.

The rolling mills at Thamesville have been increasing the number of their employes and are now running with two gangs of hands, night and day.

The attendance at the juvenile department of the Laurel Hill school has been reduced two-thirds within the past month on account of the prevalence of whooping cough.

Friday, Feb. 20, 1880—At the annual meeting of Park church, last night, it transpired that the adoption of the envelope system had increased the contributions for benevolent purposes about 30 per cent, on those of the previous year, and 115 per cent. of those of 1877.

The Rev. Andrew J. Sullivan, of the Greeneville Congregational church, held a reception at the parsonage on Prospect street Wednesday evening, for the purpose of personally meeting the people. Not less than 800 persons called upon him. He was also made the recipient of presents amounting in the aggregate to over $100 in value.

Mr. Daniel H. Bennett, of this city, was recently relieved of his watch by thieves in New York while there on a business trip.

Some very valuable building lots have been thrown into the city, recently, on the south side of Cliff street, and the prospects are that considerable building will be done there the coming spring.

Saturday, Feb. 21, 1880—The tenants in Converse block, Chestnut street, raised an alarm of fire at about 3 o'clock p. m. yesterday. Chief Engineer Carrier visited the premises and going to the apartments of Charles Banner, found the door locked and the men of the house away. Smelling smoke, he burst open the door and found the room filled with it. He proceeded at once to the stove and removed from the oven a pile of ignited kindling wood. He then opened the windows and the room was cleared of smoke. This is the second fire Mr. Banner has had in a month from carelessness.

The cold wave still continues with us. The cold snap calls the plumbers and the doctors into service.

Dr. J. V. Wilson broke ground for his new house on Broadway, yesterday.

The hens are overstocking the market with eggs and the price per dozen tends downward.

The Arcanum club of this city, gave a Washington's birthday social in Steiner's hall, last evening.

PRESTON

The Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church met Wednesday at the church parlor, a large number being present. The afternoon was spent sewing. Supper was served.

A number from this place attended Pomona grange meeting at Lisbon Thursday.

The Ladies' Bible class of the Baptist Sunday school was pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. Irving Foote Tuesday afternoon. The devotional service in charge of Mrs. Appleton Main, was followed by a patriotic program which included: Song America; reading, The Boyhood of Washington, Mrs. John Richardson; paper, The Manhood of Washington, Mrs. Belton Woodmansee; reading, Washington the President, Mrs. Eckford Pendleton; vocal duet with encore, Rev. and Mrs. John Smith. There were patriotic contests in charge of Mrs. Main. A lunch, consisting of fruit salad, cheese ball sandwiches, cookies and coffee was served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Albert Bennett.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Muttart and daughter Eleanor were guests at Hampton Sunday of Mr. Muttart's parents, Rev. and Mrs. W. L. Muttart.

Owing to the bad weather there was no C. E. meeting Sunday evening.

Mrs. Ella Bennett returned home Sunday after spending several weeks with relatives in Stamford. She was accompanied home by her granddaughter, Miss Arlene Bennett.

LEDYARD

Owing to the deep snow there was an attendance of only nine at church Sunday morning. In the evening the C. E. society meeting was not held.

Miss Nellie W. Geer is enjoying a vacation with relatives and friends in Westerly, R. I.

Mrs. Charles Beckwith of Franklin is the guest of Mrs. Isaac G. Geer for a few days.

Five from this place attended the Vegetable Growers' meeting held in Norwich Wednesday evening. There were some interesting slides given by County Agent Walter Clark and Prof. A. E. Wilkinson of Storrs college gave an interesting illustrated lecture on growing early plants. There was a large attendance at this meeting.

Under the auspices of the C. E. society a valentine social was held in the vestry Friday evening, Feb. 14. Nearly fifty enjoyed this social evening. Games were played and there were pretty valentines for all. A very pleasing feature was the guessing of photographs exhibited by members. These photographs were taken when the member was young and there was considerable interest and amusement in guessing who was who. Miss Hazel Grey was declared the champion, having guessed 22 correctly out of 23 photos exhibited. Cakes and cocoa were the refreshments served.

Miss Louise Clark of Willimantic Normal school spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Clark.

Joseph A. Clark, president of the G. P. L. Farm Bureau society and several others from this town attended a meeting of the society held in Preston City Saturday evening.

Mrs. S. E. Holdridge was the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Ora Bill, in Willimantic Thursday.

New England "Coming Back"

In line with the revival of general business conditions, Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, stated recently:

"Insofar as such activity builds up a vigorous, healthy business life within a given region, it aids the other sections of the country in large measure. The rest of the nation needs, for example, a strong New England—as may readily be realized when we consider the fact that New England industries use annually about three billion dollars' worth of raw materials, a considerable portion of which comes from outside the boundaries of that region."

And New England is "coming back." A recent survey showed the best increase in New England for retail sales of any part of the United States in January. For this year the total public works program of the six New England states is close to $200,000,00—in addition to the vast sums to be expended by railways and industrial concerns on improvements and plant construction work.

STOCK PRICES SHOWED SUBSTANTIAL RECOVERY IN RATHER DULL MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—Share prices were buoyed up today by short covering, improvement in the commodity markets, and conditional approval of the Great Northern-Northern Pacific consolidation.

Stock prices indices showed an aggregate recovery of about two-thirds yesterday's decline. The market displayed typical pre-holiday dullness, however, with a total turnover of only 1,966,670 shares, about 1,100,000 less than yesterday, and the smallest full day's business in a month.

The market was forced to absorb a moderate amount of hangover liquidation during the early hours of trading, but moved briskly higher during the afternoon. The obviously professional character of the market indicated that repurchases by shorts, who desired to wind up their accounts before the two day recess, was an important factor in the rally.

The improved tone in the commodity markets helped to restore the confidence of the bull faction, and was an additional impetus toward short covering. The interstate commerce commission's conditional approval of the Northern Pacific merger plan had been indicated by publication of its general consolidation plan, but was sufficient to cause a smart run-up in the carrier stocks.

The week end mercantile and business reviews indicated that irregular recovery was progressing at a rather slow pace. Warm weather was said to have helped the movement of spring merchandise and speeded up preparations for building and construction.

Bradstreets pointed out that the quickened movement of building materials held promise of improvement in employment.

Stock market credit eased, call money renewing at 4 per cent for the first time this week, and loaning in the "outside market" at 3 1-2. Plentiful funds indicated that the pre-holiday outflow of funds to meet currency requirements had been met, and that lenders were anxious to place funds in the market for employment during the two day recess.

Leading shares that were under marked pressure yesterday led the rebound today. American Can, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Radio, Delaware and Hudson, Lackawanna, Johns Manville, New York Central, and Westinghouse were among issues rising 2 or 3 points. National Lead regained 7 of yesterday's 13-point drop, and Norfolk and Western surged up more than 8 points. U. S. Steel however, was but moderately strong, closing up 1 1-2 points.

The mail order shares rebounded in active trading, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck moving up between 2 and 3 points. Several low priced specialties were taken in hand and bid up to new highs for the year, including Bullard company, Bulova Watch, Butterick, Davison Chemical, Devoe and Raynolds, and Sparks Withington, gains running from about 2 to 5 points. A few shares closed lower, including Allied Chemical, American Machine and International Silver, off 2 to 4, and Otis Elevator down 10.

An early rally in the cotton market failed to hold, and closing prices were about 50 cents a bale lower. Wheat stiffened on reports of better foreign buying and unfavorable weather in the southwest. Closing prices were about 1 1-4 cents higher. Corn moved up 3-4 of a cent in sympathy.

Foreign exchanges were generally a shade higher at the end of the day, although renewed pressure appeared at times. Latin American rates showed notable improvement. Sterling cables closed steady at $4.86 3-16.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 21—(AP)—Sudden enlargement of export buying of North American wheat totaling 2,000,000 to 4,000,000 bushels gave a quick lift to wheat values today. The trans-Atlantic purchasing was the largest witnessed in sometime, and included United States hard winter wheat afloat as well as at ports on the Gulf of Mexico. As a result of the market here rose about 3 1-2 cents a bushel as compared with yesterday's bottom level, influenced also by authoritative assertions that prevailing unseasonably warm weather is having an adverse effect on the domestic winter crop.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1 to 2 cents a bushel higher than yesterday's finish, corn closed 1-2 cent to 1 cent up, oats 1-8 to 1-2 cent advance and provisions showing 7 cents to 25 cents gain.

An unlooked for jump in Liverpool quotations today that was associated with a temporary withdrawal of export offerings by the Canadian Growers pool preceded the rise of wheat values in Chicago. Besides, the widening out of European demand for wheat from North America, purchases of flour at New York for shipment to Great Britain were announced, and messages were at hand saying that European importers had accepted all available wheat tendered from this side of the Atlantic overnight. Throughout most of the day, however, a noticeable feature was that new crop deliveries of wheat led the advance in prices.

Uneasiness about prospects for 1930 domestic winter wheat received special attention because of a statement from a leading Chicago crop expert that continuous abnormal higher temperatures of late have caused premature growth. He said that not only can crop damage result from any severe cold now but that serious ill-effects of the present untimely heat alone may also develop when the crop is near ripening. Toward the end of the day, nevertheless, selling pressure increased on the price bulges, and sharp reactions occurred, largely because of pre-holiday profit-taking, but rallies were again in evidence at the last.

Forecasts of unsettled weather likely to hinder movement of corn were a factor tending to strengthen the corn market. Furthermore, shipping call here for corn was the best witnessed in weeks. Oats sympathized with upswings both of wheat and corn.

Provisions went higher, responsive to the course of hog values and of grain.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—Trading on the New York Curb market showed the usual pre-holiday dullness and irregularity today, with neither the bulls nor the bears able to gain any decided advantage. Strong buying support provided overnight for some of yesterday's weak spots resulted in some sharp gains at the opening but these were cut down as the demand dried up. Many floor traders left early for extended week end holiday trips.

Most of the active public utilities closed with small net gains. Sierra Pacific was an outstanding strong spot, moving up 1 1-2 points to a new 1930 high at 60 on buying influenced by reports of expanding earnings. The stock sold as low as 26 in the break last fall. Electric Bond & Share opened 2 points higher at 98 1-2 but lost half its gain. American & Foreign Power, American Gas & Electric, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Empire Power and Northern States Power "A" all closed a point or more higher. Standard Power & Light new stock was one of the few soft spots in that group.

Oil shares also displayed a firmer undertone, with Gulf and Humble showing the best gains. North American Aviation was active and strong but most of the other oil shares lost ground, Aviation Corporation of the Americas, Aviation Securities and New York, Rio Buenoes Aires declining a point or more.

Buying of the investment trust, holding and trading corporation shares was rather selective in character, with Mayflower Associates, Lehman Corporation and the National Investors group making the best showing. The buying of Mayflower, which touched a new 1930 high at 65, was influenced by the declaration of an initial quarterly dividend of 50 cents in cash and 1 per cent in stock. Newmont Mining advanced nearly 2 points on buying influenced by the speculative belief that the copper shares already had discounted the possibility of reduced dividends on some of the copper stocks.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—Tomorrow being Washington's birthday, a legal holiday, the New York Stock exchange, Curb exchange, Securities market of the New York Produce exchange and all other leading security and commodity markets will be closed.

Business failures in the United States this week numbered 585, R. G. Dun & Company reports. This figure compares with 619 for two weeks ago, which was the last preceding full week.

The Sheffield Steel corporation of Kansas City, Mo., has arranged to sell $1,500,000 first mortgage 5 1-2 per cent gold bonds, series of 1928. This issue will bring the total amount outstanding to $3,500,000.

It was reported in Wall street today that Bendix Aviation, through its subsidiary the Bendix Brake company, Manufacturers of Mechanical Brakes, was seeking to acquire the Hydraulic Brake company, which is controlled by the Hydraulic Brake Associates, Ltd., of Los Angeles. Stockholders of the latter company will be asked at the annual meeting to approve the sale, but the identity of the prospective purchaser was not learned.

Trading in the common stock of the Paramount Famous Lasky corporation on the Amsterdam bourse will be started next Monday.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—A colorless week in bond trading closed today in an uninterested session. Supply and demand were well balanced and price changes in corporation securities were largely in small fraction. United States government issues moved higher but failed to hold all of their advances.

Call money was a little easier. Time funds, however, remained unchanged, although the recent move by Liberty Bonds and Treasury Certificates would suggest that lower rates might be expected.

A handful of the rails, both prime and secondary, were active. Offerings of Rock Island Refunding 4s, Chesapeake and Ohio Refunding 4 1-2s, Erie General 4s, Great Northern 7s, Nickel Plate 6s, Pennsylvania 4 1-2s and 4 3-4s, New Haven 4 1-2s, New York Central 3 1-2s, Union Pacific 4s and Missouri Pacific 5s found ready absorption, but buyers were forced to pay little more than the Thursday closing price.

Armour Real Estate 4 1-2s, Chile Copper 5s, Humble Oil 5 1-2s, Western Electric 5s, Sinclair Crude Oil 5 1-2s, and Detroit Edison Refunding 5s were miscellaneous favorites but the demand lacked depth and gains ruled small.

Santa Fe 4 1-2s and American Telephone 4 1-2s, each with a 2 point rise, featured the convertibles.

Foreign bonds gave promise of a busy day during the forenoon, but trading thinned out later and the close was irregular. French 7 1-2s hovered just under 121, making an insignificant change. British 5 1-2s, German 7s, Tokio Electric 6s and Cuba 5 1-2s were firm. Bulgaria 7s lost about 1 1-2 points of their recent rise. Belgium 6s sold up a point at the opening and then eased for a small net loss. Latin Americans made conflicting changes.

Trading in obligations of the United States centered in the Treasury 4 1-4s which were bid up to 111. They closed slightly off from that level, making net gain of about 1-4.

Public offerings is expected to be made next Monday of a $9,400,000 issue of Canadian National Steamships 25 year 5 per cent bonds, guaranteed by the Canadian government. Part of the loan has been withdrawn for sale in Canada.

WATCH ME GET FIRED

—By—
E. WALDO LONG

A BATTLE IN THE BUSINESS WORLD BETWEEN A HARD-BOILED OLD WAR-HORSE AND HIS EQUALLY BRIGHT BUT MORE IDEALISTIC SON.

ON ONE side of the great mahogany table sat young Sam Hobson, whom his father had planned, since the boy's birth, to make a full-fledged partner in the Hobson Engineering company.

And opposite Sam sat his father—known to his employes and to members of the profession as "Old Man Hobson."

He had been Old Man Hobson since he was 40 years of age—cold-blooded in his business dealings, shrewd as a Yankee trader and relentless in his methods of attaining his ends.

Young Sam looked much like his father—except that the corners of his mouth turned up instead of down and his eyes were invitingly friendly. But he had that same solidly set jaw.

"Now, I'll tell you why I'm going away," the Old Man informed his son. "I want to teach you your lesson."

Sam looked keenly interested.

"What lesson?" he wanted to know.

The Old Man waved aside the question.

"A lesson that'll hit you right between the eyes," he replied. "That's the kind that does the most good—the kind that hits you right between the eyes."

Sam grinned.

"Well, do I get some warning it's coming?" he inquired. "Or does it sneak up behind me?"

The old Man's eyes gleamed.

"That's exactly the point," he snapped. "That's part of the lesson."

"All right," replied Sam. "Turn it loose any time."

Hobson grunted, rose from the table and put on his hat.

"It's just three months from today that I'll be back," he announced. "Now, I want you to remember what I've said; and I want you to make the most of your opportunities—remember that: Make the most of your opportunities!"

And then he was gone.

Three months from that day he was back again. He felt actually jovial after his long pleasure cruise. He beamed as he entered the big outer office. He even stopped to shake hands with one or two of the men and chuckled with satisfaction at the dog-like gratitude that shone in their eyes at his unexpected show of comradeship.

He approved of men like that—men who did exactly as they were told; who never questioned his judgment, but carried out his commands without a thought as to the consequences. "Yes men," his enemies called them.

All the men in his organization were of that type—all "well broken," as he sometimes explained. And that explanation was always accompanied by the Old Man's personal opinion of men.

"There are two kinds of men," he would explain. "The kind you can teach and the kind you have to break. The ones you break work out best because they never argue but just worry their heads for fear they can't carry out orders fast enough."

PASSING through the outer office, Hobson bestowed smiles right and left upon his minions.

But he paused with a start at the door of his private office. The place was literally filled with flowers.

"Who's dead?" he demanded jocularly of Miss Pierce, his emotionless secretary.

Then he began to examine the cards that had come with the flowers. He chuckled to himself. They were from men who detested him and feared him—but who wanted mightily to sell him goods.

On his desk Miss Pierce had placed a neat stack of papers, and into that stack Old Man Hobson proceeded to delve, firing a staccato question at her from time to time and receiving her immediate, even replies.

Near the bottom of the stack he came upon a sheaf of papers that brought a grunt of interest from him. He read intently. As he read, his face darkened.

"Well, I'll be darned!" he commented suddenly, flushing with anger.

Miss Pierce looked up inquiringly. He glared at her and began tapping the papers with his finger in angry rhythm.

"That was the deal I wanted to see him swing," he growled. "The Cordingly deal—and get the sentimental nonsense out of his system. * * * And look what he did to it!"

Miss Pierce had long since learned the value of silence.

"Didn't I tell him exactly how to handle Cordingly?" Hobson inquired.

"I reminded him of that," Miss Pierce replied.

"You did, eh? And in spite of that he deliberately let Cordingly out of the trap, eh?"

He leaned back in his chair, his mouth a-tremble with wrath.

"When you reminded him, what did he have to say?" he demanded.

"He said, 'Thanks. I hadn't forgotten.'"

"Where is he?" the Old Man roared. "He was outside when I came in. * * * Hunt him up! * * * Get him in here!"

The roaring voice penetrated the partitions easily and caused the word to pass up and down the office that the Old Man was on the warpath.

Miss Pierce was back in a moment.

"He has a customer he's been working on all summer," she explained. "He'll be in just as soon as he can."

The Hobson fist smashed down on the great table.

"You tell that fellow that when I say 'Come,' I mean come! You tell him to get in here quick!"

And in a moment Sam had come in, his eyes blazing.

"Do you know that I have Mr. Wescott, of the Wescott Manufacturing company, out here?" he demanded.

"I don't care if you have all the royalty in Europe out there!" roared the Old Man. "Let 'em wait. Sit down here!"

"Why can't this interview wait?" demanded Sam. "That deal with Wescott is worth—"

"The interview can't wait because I don't want it to wait! Sit down there!"

"I'll have to explain to Mr. Wescott."

"You'll explain to nobody."

Sam eyed his father a moment. Then he quietly turned and left the office, leaving the Old Man choking with rage. Two minutes later he came back again, his face flushed.

"Why did you go out there when I told you to sit down?" demanded the Old Man, determined to exact discipline at all costs.

"Because you were too hot to be reasonable," came the prompt retort. "Do you think I'm going to insult a man just because you happen to be up in the air about something?"

HOBSON opened his mouth as if to hurl a broadside of vocabulary. Then he closed it again, as if at an utter loss for words to express his rage.

"If I had done the right thing," Sam persisted, "I'd have let you holler and I'd have gone ahead with Mr. Wescott."

"All right!" stormed the Old Man. "All right! Forget it! * * * Now, what I want to know is, how did you handle the Cordingly deal?"

"Haven't you looked over the records right there on your desk?" countered Sam.

"I'm asking you a question!" roared Hobson. "Answer it!"

"It's all answered right there in plain black and white English!" snapped Sam.

The Old Man rose from his chair, stalked the length of the room and came back again. It was plain to be seen that Sam was not the type that could be "taught"; he would have to be "broken." So the Old Man went methodically about the task.

"Now, Sam, you cut out arguing, and you answer questions!" His voice was lower, but just as determined as ever. "I left you that Cordingly deal to handle—it was a good deal for you to handle, to help you get rid of one of your many weaknesses! And you bungled it!"

"How so?"

"How so?" echoed Hobson. "Before I went away, I told you in detail how I'd handle it, didn't I?"

"Yes. The way you'd handle it."

"And I showed you how I had walked Cordingly right into a trap, so that he couldn't get away. I pointed that out. Remember?"

"Yes. I remember."

"And I showed you what a corking chance there was to close down on him, squeeze him and take his business away from him—a $700,000 business! * * * Remember that?"

"Yes."

"In other words, I gave you a complete plan."

"But I found a better plan," Sam said. "My plan made money for you, will make Cordingly a steady customer—and it enabled him to avoid absolute ruin."

"Enabled him to avoid ruin!" echoed the Old Man. "Whose interests were you paid to look out for—his or mine?"

"I was paid to look after yours; and I looked after them!"

"You did, eh?" Old Man Hobson's eyes were aflame. "You threw away $700,000—deliberately took it out of my grasp. And that's looking after my interests, is it?"

"You made money on the deal, didn't you?" inquired Sam, trying to drive his father into a corner. "So why wasn't it satisfactory?"

"Why? * * * Because you didn't do what you were told to do!"

"But I tell you that after you'd gone I got a better plan!"

"It wasn't my plan!" Hobson shouted. "That's exactly the point."

"But why on earth should I blindly follow your plan when I got hold of an even better one?"

"Why?" Hobson leaned forward in his chair and pounded the table with his fist. "Because I told you to. That's all the why you need."

"Even though following your plan meant ruining Mr. Cordingly?"

"I told you never to let another man's grief spoil your plans, didn't I?" Hobson demanded. "Didn't I tell you positively to close down on Cordingly?"

"Right-o!" came the crackling retort. "In effect, you said: 'Here's a man down. Kick him in the stomach and take his wallet away from him. It's a great chance to make some quick money.' * * * You're right—I didn't do it!"

With a snort of disgust, the Old Man pushed back his chair and began pacing again.

"'Here's a man down!' What about doctors? Dentists? What about the fellows who operate hospitals? What about the fellows who manufacture crutches and glass eyes? * * * Those are all pretty respectable occupations, aren't they? * * * But every one of those fellows makes his money from somebody's hard luck—from somebody that's down, as you put it. Didn't you ever stop to think long enough to figure that out? * * * It's always the fellow that's down who pays the freight. And he's got no excuse to cry-baby. * * * That's life. 'From him that hath not, it shall be taken away.' * * * But you in your wisdom pooh-pooh all human experience out of the way and throw overboard an opportunity of a lifetime!"

"Was that the big lesson I was supposed to learn?" Sam asked irreverently.

"That was part of it," came the tart rejoinder. "You're right in the middle of the rest of it now."

"I don't believe I care about the rest of it, dad," Sam said quietly.

"Eh?"

"You see, you can never make a 'yes man' out of me. And, besides, this isn't the sort of outfit I want to tie up with. There isn't anything here but a well-broken team and a driver—and if the driver should ever take a sudden wild notion to drive right off the side of a cliff, that fool team would go over without a murmur. Well, when that happens, I don't want to be part of the team. * * * So count me out. I'm going down and get a job with Mr. Cordingly. This isn't a safe set-up here."

Old Man Hobson was too much astonished even to attempt to conceal his astonishment. The mask which he habitually wore fell from his face. He stared wide-eyed at his son for a full minute. Then he wet his lips, took hold of himself again and his astonishment was somewhat tempered by anger.

But Sam spoke again before the Old Man had decided how to meet this sudden turn of events.

"Mr. Wescott heard you about that you didn't care who was out there with me—that he could wait your royal pleasure. Believe me, I felt pretty cheap when I tried to apologize for that sort of treatment. But he merely smiled and said: 'That's perfectly all right, son. That was nothing you could control!' * * * So good-by to that contract! * * * You raise the roof because I didn't steal the Cordingly business. And here, without any excuse at all, you throw away an honorable deal that would have amounted to four times the Cordingly deal. * * * No, sir! I wouldn't stay here on a bet. * * * Why, anything's liable to happen under that sort of management!"

Old Man Hobson merely glared.

"So you're hoisting the white flag, eh?" he said tartly.

"Not a bit of it! That's what all these 'yes men' in here have done—hoisted the white flag! But not for mine! A fellow's self-respect is worth something. Why, you would kill every bit of hope a fellow has! And if the hope is taken out of a job—what's left?"

Old Man Hobson had no reply for that. Everything that he had said seemed to have come back at him like a boomerang. He fell back upon his practiced custom of maintaining strict silence when he was being bested.

"Well," said Sam, "this isn't getting anybody anything. I'm on my way down to Cordingly's."

THE Old Man sat silent as Sam went out and closed the door. He did not move for minutes.

Accustomed as she was to his moods, Miss Pierce could read Hobson's face. He seemed lost, befogged, utterly confused.

He looked as any other normal human being might have looked had a cherished hope of twenty-five years been destroyed like a burst bubble. Soon he looked up at her.

"Do you suppose he meant that?" he asked. There was a note of pathetic fear in his voice. "Do you suppose he's really—gone?"

Miss Pierce nodded.

"You think so, eh?"

"Yes, Mr. Hobson, I honestly do * * * Oh, I'm so sorry!"

Hobson stared at her, unseeing. "I think so, too," he said.

"I built this business to give to my boy," he commented. "But now what am I going to do with it?"

Miss Pierce's eyes filled. She hurried from the office.

Old Man Hobson pawed listlessly through his papers, then looked around for Miss Pierce. He had not noticed that she had left. But he did not summon another girl. Instead, he rose and went to the door, stood looking out at the people in the outer office.

One by one he considered the men. He had trained every one of them to do precisely as he was told to do—and nothing else. Every one could be depended upon to do exactly that—what he was told to do.

It brought up the further alarming thought that there was not a man on that staff who could be depended upon to take the helm in case accident should overtake the Old Man himself—not a man who could lead a fight in a crisis.

He had taken the hope out of their jobs. He could read that in their eyes.

For the first time in his business career Old Man Hobson felt utterly alone.

He was getting along in years. He was tired. Yet he could not stop, because there was nobody to step into his place?

It came over him with a rush that the money involved was a petty thing; that it was something else that had held him to that task of his—the hope of seeing his son do big things with it. He would have lived on in his boy's success.

His son's words came back to ring in his ears: "Take the hope out of a job—and what's left?"

Hobson suddenly became conscious of the fact that the people in the office were looking at him with startled eyes. A clerk rose and came toward him.

"You're ill, Mr. Hobson," he said, with concern in his voice. "Let me help you."

"Eh?"

The Old Man was old indeed!

"Better come in and sit down, Mr. Hobson," the old clerk urged. "I'll send for the doctor."

Quietly Old Man Hobson permitted himself to be led into his private office.

"Clem," he said suddenly, "don't send for any doctors. Go get Tom Riley and Peter Hartshorn. And get Jim McKay. * * * Bring them in here."

"Now?" Clem asked.

One by one they appeared—those four men who had been with Hobson for upward of thirty years, men who had given the best years of their lives to the business.

Hobson welcomed them all quietly, indicated chairs. They waited in silence, their faces all betraying their concern as to what was about to take place.

"Boys," Hobson began in a low tone, "something happened today to teach me the biggest lesson I ever learned in my life. * * * My own son taught it to me. I doubt if anybody else could have done it. I doubt if even he could have done it in any other way. But that lesson smashed me right between the eyes."

The men listened in rapt attention.

"I've tried to go it alone," Hobson explained. "And it can't be done. * * * It can't be done. * * * I never realized before what I'd been doing to you men. I never realized what it meant to a man to have his hopes killed. Yet I've made a practice of killing hopes around here. * * * I didn't have any idea what it meant to people. * * * I had no idea. * * *"

There was no sound in the room except the breathing of the little group seated about the table.

"Boys," Old Man Hobson continued, "there are a lot of things about this business that you know better than I do. You know that. I admit it. You know of a lot of things that could be improved."

The four men's faces were utterly non-committal.

"Today," said Hobson, "this is my business. But tomorrow—"

He paused.

THE four men waited nervously, evidently anticipating bad news.

"Tomorrow it will be our business. * * * We will run it. * * * Not just I. * * * My hopes will be your hopes. * * * Your hopes will be mine. * * * We'll all be in the same boat. * * * We'll have to pull together. * * * See what I mean? * * * It isn't too late, boys! * * * What if we are all gray-headed? What's the color of your hair amount to if your head and your hands are steady?"

Tremendous eagerness shone in Hobson's eyes. But he could read in their faces the fact that the others had not fully grasped the import of what he was saying. Or was it doubt he read there?

"It's easy!" he insisted. "It's easy! * * * I'll have the lawyers fix it up so that we all have a share in owning this company. * * * You have a share, Clem, and you have a share, Tom * * * and Jim and Peter. * * * And I have a share. It will be our business. * * * We'll all have a common goal to hope for."

Hobson leaned back in his chair again.

"If only I had done this before," he commented softly. "If only I had!"

"Mr. Hobson." It was Clem Turner who spoke. "Do you mean you propose to put the business on a sort of profit-sharing basis?"

"That's the idea!" Hobson's eyes shone with eagerness. "Everybody will have an interest. * * * It will put some hope into the job. * * * Take the grind out of it."

The four men looked at each other incredulously.

"Can't we do it?" Hobson inquired.

"Why, sure we can!" asserted Clem. And Hobson was amazed at the glow in his eyes—a glow that he saw creeping into the eyes of the other three men.

"I'd be happy," Hobson said, "if Sam were captain of this team—with us old, experienced fellows to sit in with him and help him steer around the rough spots. * * * Think he could swing it?"

"Sam? Tom Riley spoke up. "Sam swing it? Huh! I'll say so!"

"But that isn't to be," explained Hobson. "That the thing that waked me up. * * * That isn't to be. * * * I'd planned for years to turn my job over to Sam. That had been my one big hope."

MISS PIERCE came quietly back into the room, hesitating only a moment in her surprise at finding a conference of employes in the private office.

"Mr. Sam got the Wescott contract, after all," she announced, with a telltale gleam of excitement in her eyes.

"That's fine!" Hobson dropped his eyes. "That's very fine!"

"He's coming up here pretty soon," Miss Pierce continued. "He says he's going to finish what you and he started this morning—that racket, as he called it."

Hobson looked pained.

"You see, I got a taxi and hurried down to Cordingly's," Miss Pierce explained. "But he hadn't been there. I found him at Wescott's. * * *"

The Old Man looked up at her questioningly.

"Mr. Sam is a lot like his father," she said. "When I began to scold him for leaving, he came at me as if he was a wildcat. 'Let me tell you something,' he snapped at me. 'I haven't been to Cordingly. And I'm not going to Cordingly! The minute the signatures on this contract are dry, I'm going to take it right up to the Old Man. This is going to be a Hobson job! I'll sell the Old Man my ideas if I have to knock his stubborn block right off his shoulders!' * * * And he ought to be here before many more minutes go by."

Old Man Hobson's face was a study. He looked from one to another of the four men around the table.

There sounded a sudden commotion in the outer office. The outer door was flung open—slammed closed again. The typewriters stopped their clatter. Swift, determined steps marched in from the outer door, through the railing—came to an abrupt halt just outside the door of the private office.

"Who's in there?" demanded Sam's crackling voice of the girl at the desk just outside.

But those inside did not hear her reply—for the Old Man drew their attention with a sudden: "Sh-h!" His face was glowing with excitement like a boy's.

"Watch me get fired!" he whispered loudly, and sat back in his chair as the door of the inner office burst open.

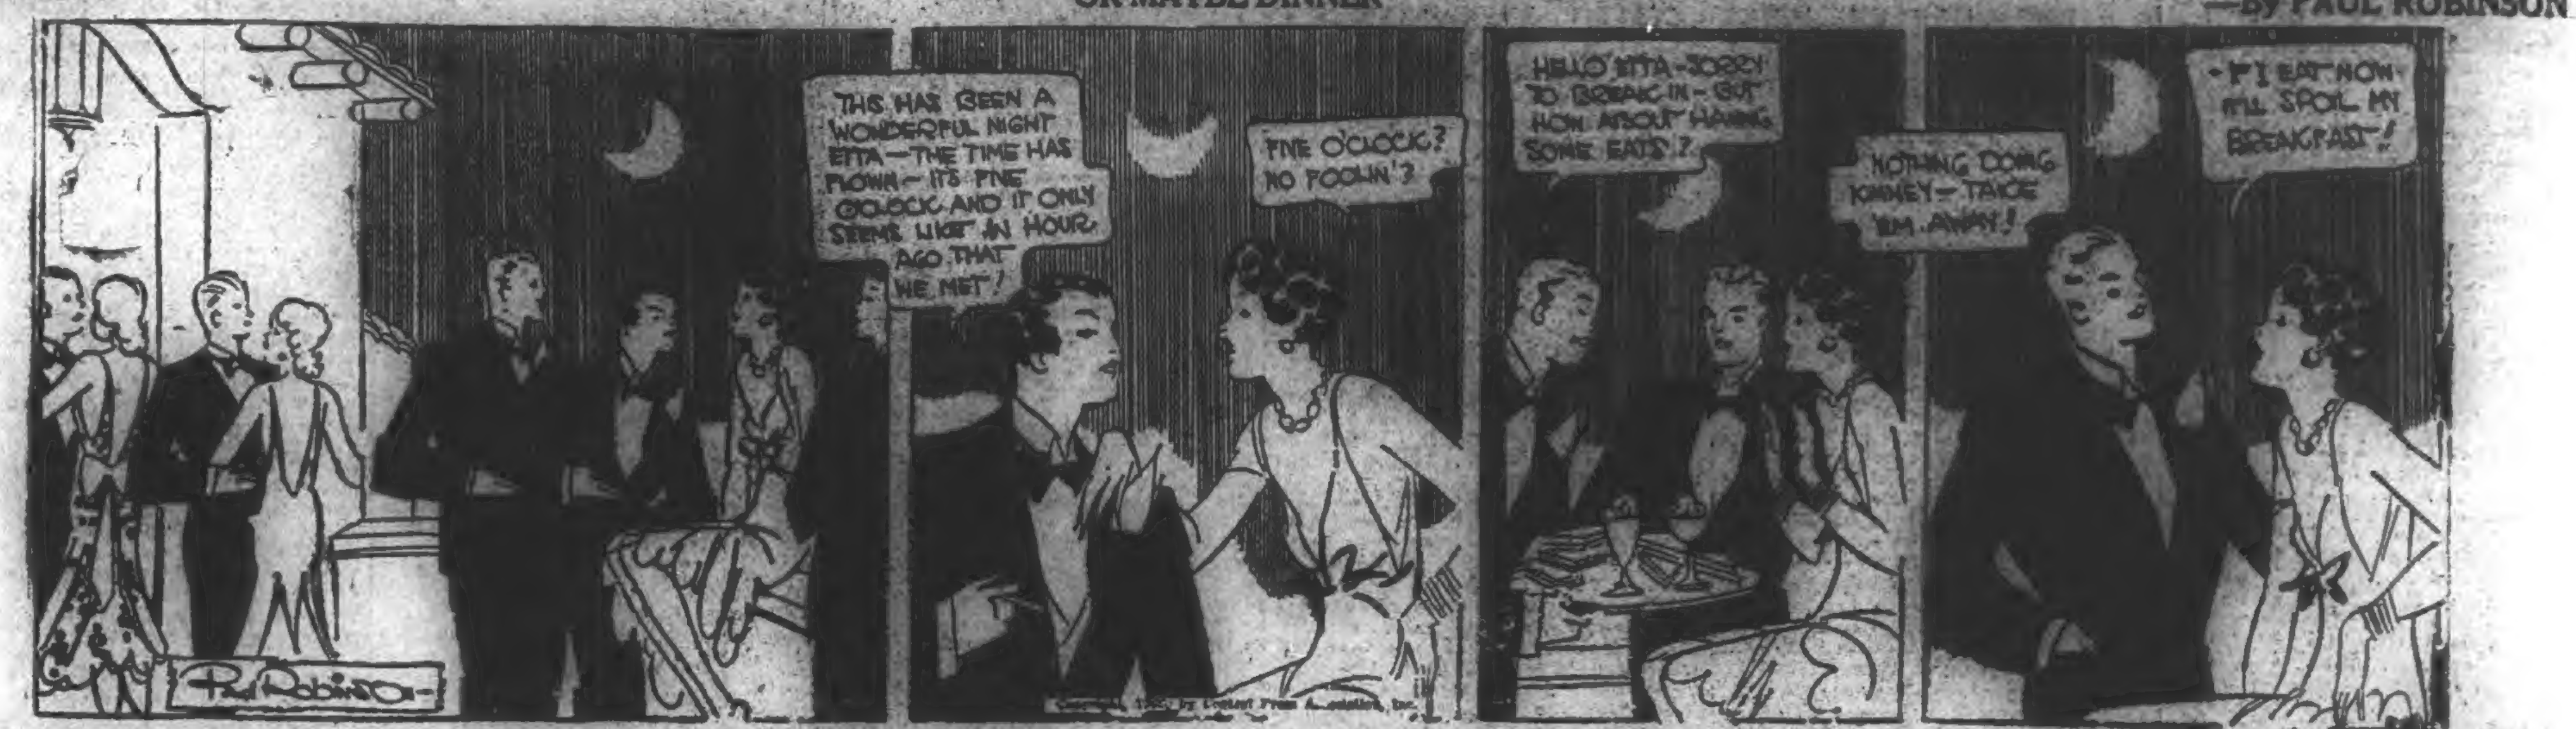
OR MAYBE DINNER

—By PAUL ROBINSON



THIS HAS BEEN A WONDERFUL NIGHT ETTA—THE TIME HAS FLOWN—IT'S FIVE O'CLOCK AND IT ONLY SEEMS LIKE AN HOUR AGO THAT WE MET!
FIVE O'CLOCK? NO FOOLIN'?
HELLO ETTA—SORRY TO BREAK IN—BUT HOW ABOUT HAVING SOME EATS?
NOTHING DOING KINNEY—TAKE 'EM AWAY!
—IF I EAT NOW IT'LL SPOIL MY BREAKFAST!

LEGAL NOTICES

DISTRICT OF MANSFIELD SS. Court of Probate, February 20th, 1930. Estate of Richard H. Hamer, late of Mansfield, in said District, deceased.

Upon the application of C. Rose Hamer praying that an instrument in writing purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased may be proved, approved, allowed, and admitted to probate, as per application on file more fully appears; it is Ordered — That said application be heard and determined at the Probate Office in Mansfield, in said District, on the 28th day of February, A. D. 1930, at 9:30 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice be given of the pendency of said application, and of the time and place of hearing thereon, by publishing the same in some newspaper having a circulation in said District, and by posting a copy thereof on the public sign-post in the Town of Mansfield, in said District.

LEWELLYN J. STORRS, Judge.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Montville, within and for the District of Montville, on the 20th day of February, A. D. 1930.

Present, DAN D. HOME, Judge.

Estate of Nelson B. Vars late of Montville, in said District, deceased.

The Administratrix, with the will annexed, appeared in Court and filed a written application alleging that said estate is now in settlement in said Court, and praying for an order to sell certain real estate belonging to said estate, fully described in said application.

Whereupon It is Ordered, That said application be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in Montville, in said District, on the 25th day of February, A. D. 1930, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said application, and of said hearing thereon be given by the publication of this order one time in The Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said District at least 3 days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to the Court.

DAN D. HOME, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.

Attest, CARRIE W. CRAIG, Clerk.

AT A PROBATE COURT HELD AT Killingly, within and for the district of Killingly, on the 21st day of February, A. D. 1930.

Present, SABIN S. RUSSELL, Judge.

Estate of Orlando C. Sharpe, late of Killingly, in said district, deceased.

The Danielson Trust Co., Admr. C. T. A., having exhibited its account with said estate to this Court for allowance, it is Ordered—That the 27th day of February, A. D. 1930 at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the Probate Office in Killingly, be, and the same is, assigned for a hearing on the allowance of said account, and this Court directs the Administrator, C. T. A. to give notice thereof by publishing this order in some newspaper having a circulation in said District, and by posting a copy of this order on the public sign-post in the town where the deceased last dwelt, and return make to this Court.

Attest, SABIN S. RUSSELL, Judge.

Certified from Record.

SABIN S. RUSSELL, Judge.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 21st day of February, A. D. 1930

Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Katherine W. Tibbits, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

William T. Crandall, of Norwich, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that an instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased be admitted to probate.

Whereupon, It is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 25th day of February, A. D. 1930, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record

Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

At a Court of Probate held at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 21st day of February, A. D. 1930.

Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Jerome Theve late of Norwich in said District, deceased.

Ordered, that the executrix cite the creditors of said deceased to bring in their claims against said estate within six months from this date, by posting a notice to that effect, together with a copy of this order on the sign-post nearest to the place where said deceased last dwelt, and in the same town, and by publishing the same once in a newspaper having a circulation in said district, and make return to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.

Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

NOTICE

All creditors of said deceased are hereby notified to present their claims against said estate to the undersigned at No. 9 Elijah street, Norwich, Conn., within the time limited in the above and foregoing order.

SHERIFF SIDNEY BROWN, NEW LONDON, AT POINT OF DEATH FRIDAY NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 21.—Sheriff Sidney A. Brown is lying tonight at the point of death at his residence, 265 Williams street, and according to physicians, it is merely a question of time when he will succumb to the disease that has threatened his life nearly a week. All hope of his recovery was abandoned today when a consultation of physicians examined Sheriff Brown and it was the unanimous opinion that the patient could not recover. Two nurses are in constant attendance.

Sheriff Brown contracted a severe cold a fortnight ago and when he had partially recovered suffered a relapse. About the same time and when he was compelled to take to his bed his condition indicated the existence of poisoning. The poison, it developed, originated from defective teeth and many of these were extracted. However, the poisoning had entered the system and the patient's condition rapidly became worse. Today, when heroic measures became necessary if the poisoning was to be stopped in its course, a consultation was decided upon and then it was decided that Sheriff Brown was beyond all human aid.

STATE POST OFFICE CLERKS COMING FOR CONVENTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 21.—The annual convention of the State Post Office Clerks' association will be held in New London tomorrow and every arrangement for handling the large crowd of members from every city in the state has been completed. The business session will convene at Lyric hall at 10 o'clock. During the afternoon the women guests of the association will be entertained at Knights of Columbus home, Huntington street, after which the visitors will be guests of the association at one of the theatres. In the evening a banquet and dance will be provided for both the clerks and their guests, at the Hotel Mohican. The banqueters will be welcomed by President John Cuddy and Postmaster Philip K. Dewire will be toastmaster. The principal speakers will be Lieut.-Gov. Ernest E. Rogers and Attorney Morris Lubchansky, who is president of the New London chamber of commerce. Following the banquet the clerks and their guests will have several hours of dancing.

WARM WEATHER STARTS CHIEF TO ISSUE ORDERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 21.—Although summer is a long way off, the following order was issued today by Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney and which will regulate the uniform of the officers during the heated months of the season: "There will be no change in summer uniforms except that either a regulation coat or blue shirt will be worn by members of the department who are on street duty. Members of the department desiring to wear shirts in warm weather instead of coats must wear the police regulation shirt, (light serge or other similar material), with breast pockets, button pocket flaps and shoulder straps.) All buttons to be brass, N. L. P. D. similar to small buttons on coats."

CHILD FALLS INTO TUB OF SCALDING WATER

Gloria Santangelo, aged 19 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Santangelo, 26 Chappell street, was badly scalded yesterday afternoon and is now a patient at Lawrence Memorial hospital, where her condition is critical and her death momentarily anticipated. The child was in the kitchen of the Santangelo home and where a tub of hot water was on the floor. While the mother's attention was attracted from the child, the latter walked to the tub and, losing her balance, fell into the scalding water. When the mother pulled the child from the tub, the baby was terribly burned from head to foot. A physician was summoned and after administering first aid treatment, had the child taken to the hospital.

Edward Pickens, 11, of 60 Golden street, was on Bank street early this evening when he was accosted by a stranger. The man induced the boy to accompany him to a yard south of Sparyard street, where the boy was abused. Later the police obtained knowledge of the acts of the degenerate and Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray and Patrolmen Dennis Murphy and Louis Pine were assigned to the case. The officers sought the arrest of the man on a charge of indecent assault, but he could not be found.

Edward G. Fortin, 221 Howard street, reported to the police tonight that the automobile he was driving backed over a bicycle on State street and stated that he was willing to pay for whatever damage had been occasioned.

MT. VERNON BOOTLEGGERS FINED AT MONTVILLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 21.—Frank Guido and Frank Sposeto, both of 32 North Fifth avenue, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., were before Justice of the Peace Oscar Church in Montville this afternoon, charged with violation of the liquor law, transporting. Guido, driver of the automobile in which the pair were riding, was fined $200 and costs and Sposeto was fined $100 and costs. Guido and Sposeto were driving south on the New London-Norwich highway yesterday afternoon and in Montville the automobile attracted the attention of State Police Officers John Smith and Fred Wininger. The officers signaled Guido to stop the car and when he did so an inspection revealed 10 gallons of alcohol beneath a seat.

Mrs. F. O. Hayling, Main street, tonight complained to the police that her husband had been drinking and had threatened her with bodily harm. Mrs. Hayling did not want her husband arrested, but did want him to refrain from molesting her. Patrolman Dennis Murphy was sent to the house and threatened Hayling with arrest if he continued to abuse his wife.

Mabel Nathan of Gales Ferry; Richard Babcock, Palmertown; Mrs. Lillian French, Groton, and Mrs. Marena Lewis, Gales Ferry, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

OBITUARY

Mrs. George W. Congdon

Mrs. Bertha M. Congdon, 57, wife of George W. Congdon of York avenue, Niantic, died last night at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where she had been a patient but a short time. Besides her husband, Mrs. Congdon is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Frank Sullivan and Mrs. Mario Ma'nati, both of Niantic. Mrs. Congdon was born in Cleveland, Ohio, April 3, 1872, the daughter of Frank and Florence Decker White, but had resided in Niantic for many years.

Peter Fitzell

Peter Fitzell, 60, of Harrison's Landing, Waterford, died last night at Home Memorial hospital, where he had been a patient but a few days. So far as is known, Mr. Fitzell is survived by no near relatives. He was born in Ireland, but had resided at Harrison's Landing for 30 years. He was a painter by occupation.

Mrs. William L. Curtiss

Mrs. Georgie Anna Curtiss, 70 widow of William L. Curtiss, of 14 Division street, died today at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where she had been a patient but a few days She is survived by a son, Charles E Curtiss, of this city, Mrs. Curtiss was a member of Daughters of America and Daughters of Liberty. Mrs. Curtiss, who was born in Norwich, had resided in New London many years.

For the second time within as many days there was no session of the police court today, for not a single arrest was made in over 48 hours.

A deed was filed for record at the office of the city clerk today, transferring title in the house at 29 Starr street from Mrs. Kate Sugrue to her son, E. Clement Sugrue.

TWO SCHOOLBOYS MAY HAVE GONE WITH GIRLS

Since yesterday when the police were requested to aid in finding two girls, Cecelia Silva, 15, daughter of Mrs. Frances Silva, 117 Bayonet street, and Pauline Daominsky, 16, of 9 Bayonet street, students at Nathan Hale grammar school, it has developed that the girls have evidently eloped with youthful companions, for Benjamin Ramistella, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ramistella, 43 Jefferson avenue, and Charles Wood, son of Charles H. Wood, 38 Jefferson avenue, are also missing from home. The boys were acquaintances of the girls and their disappearance would indicate that the two couples have gone away together. The girls left their homes yesterday forenoon and it was supposed they would go to school, but when they did not return late in the day an investigation was started by Mrs. Silva and it developed that the girls did not attend the school sessions.

Unloading Lumber Cargo

American freighter Wind Rush arrived in port this afternoon from Seattle, Wash., with a cargo of lumber, 600,000 feet of fir. The freighter docked at the state pier and work on transferring the lumber to freight cars was started. The force of workers will be increased tomorrow and it is hoped that the cargo will have been unloaded by Sunday. The freighter will proceed to Boston from this port. The Wind Rush unloaded a part of her cargo in New York.

Vandals on Chester Street

Arthur A. St. Germain, Chester street, today made complaint to the police because of vandals damaging a section of a wall in front of his property and then attempting to wreck automobiles. During last night about 30 stones, some of them weighing close to 60 pounds, were deliberately removed from the wall and placed in the highway. Had an automobile collided with any of the obstructions serious damage must have resulted. Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey was assigned to the case.

WEDDINGS

LINCOLN HER FAVORITE

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: Well, quite a change in the weather. Just like spring these days, but Sunday and Monday was anything but spring-like, and kept folks busy shovelling coal So much snow and now it is nearly gone. I tell you when "Old Sol" gets busy "Old Man Winter" soon runs away.

What two fine letters "Dad" Shaw had in the Bulletin on Lincoln and Washington. How we all do enjoy his letters, but Lincoln has always been my favorite president. He always been my favorite president. He has always been my ideal. I don't know how any one can look at the pictures of that dear sad face and not love him, and despise thoroughly the scoundrel that cut short such a noble life.

Well, where were all the old members of Club No. 1 last meeting? Mayfayre and I went to visit her cousin at the Lord home and thought we would stop and have dinner with all our old friends, but we were surely disappointed Olga, Lonesome Pine, Batchelor Maid, Wiltwyck and Cretia give an account of yourself now.

Practical Polly and Eliza Jane favored us with their presence for a few minutes and I was pleased to have been the one to bring Practical Polly and Quid Nunc together. My what a good laugh we did have. And how surprised we were to have Quid Nunc call. I sure enjoyed the visit.

Now, Quid Nunc, my mother said that lady's name was Phoebe. You could not remember and of course I did not know. Mother was so pleased when I told her of you, but she does not seem to remember you although she remembers all the others we spoke of. She wanted to know if you were a violinist Said that one of the same name as you lived around there and she was sure they played the violin.

She said that lady in question had three sons and imagine my surprise this week to see the obituary notice of one of them. No doubt you read it also.

Monday morning I had a lovely picture on one of my windows, a marine scene, a lovely ship sailing on the water and to my eye the ship was perfect with masts and smokestock. What lovely pictures Jack Frost can paint.

I hope Quid Nunc that we will meet again.

Cretia: Did you find my card? Was so disappointed when I did not see you. We spent the afternoon with Mrs. M. at the home

Well, I hope all the sick and shut-ins are feeling better these lovely days, and my heart goes out to all that have lost loved ones.

BLACK EYED SUSIE.

DREAMS.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: We will all agree that there are many mysterious things that occur in life for which we fail to find a satisfactory explanation, and we are aware that truth is stranger than fiction. Along these lines I would suggest the subject of dreams. Do we know why it is we are so-called "conscious" in a sound sleep, to see, hear, converse, walk and be in both strange and familiar places and in the wakeful hours, be able to remember it and tell about it? Our dreams may be of various conditions, that is, we experience sometimes, most pleasing and delightful "thoughts," we might call it, and other times seem to realize terror and being in places of danger, so that we cry aloud, and the sound of our voice awakens us and we are then glad "it was only a dream."

A physician once told me that these terrorizing dreams were caused from a person's nervous disability, but he did not offer any suggestions as to why we enjoy a pleasant dream or why we have dreams at all. I have read several articles written by scientific people expressing their ideas on this subject, but that does not confirm a solid basis or a positive reason. I believe it is one of the mysteries that human nature cannot solve. However, we find that nearly everybody is a "dreamer" and has had some interesting experiences and cannot account why certain dreams should come to them.

Personally, I am one of this class, and could relate enough to fill the whole Corner page several times over, and then some more. But I will not attempt this task; rather give space regarding a young girl, whose experience of walking in her sleep was extremely marvelous. I heard this story direct from the family, who were most reliable and trustworthy people. This young girl, about 15 years old, who I will call Ella, lived in a country home where neighbors were few and far apart. She attended an academy school about two miles away in a neighboring small town. She walked back and forth to school in all suitable weather. One morning in October she started out as usual, and wore a new pair of rubber overshoes, but when about half way along, she decided she did not need them, as the walking on the country road was very good, so she took off her rubbers and hid them behind a big tree, in a safe place, with the intention of getting them, on her return from school, in the late afternoon. As she was alone, she was sure no one saw or knew of her act. Ella continued to school, but when coming home she forgot all about her rubbers until she reached the house She merely spoke of the incident to the family at the supper table, and that was all. In the morning when she came down stairs, she complained of feeling very tired, and at the breakfast table she told them of her dream. She had fancied she went over that lonely road, to the place she had hid her rubbers, found them and brought them home. It was a bright moonlight night and she had seen small animals like rabbits or skunks run across the road before her. When Ella was about to put on her coat and hat in the front hall to start for school there were also her rubbers in their usual place. This is a positive case that that girl walked in her sleep alone, unaided by human assistance, and returned safely. She declared all she knew about it was she had dreamed it and did not realize she had been out of the house.

DELIGHTS OF READING.

Dear Friends: Much is being written concerning books, the subject in which I am much interested. Books are to mankind what memory is to the individual. They contain the history of our race the discoveries we have made, the accumulated knowledge, and experiences of ages; they picture for us the marvels and beauties of nature, help us in our difficulties comfort us in sorrow and in suffering (this Book is our Bible); change hours of weariness into moments of delight, store our minds with ideas, fill them with good and happy thoughts and lift us out of and above ourselves.

There is an old story of two men. One was a king who every night dreamed he was a beggar; the other was a beggar who each night dreamed he was a prince and lived in a palace. Imagination is sometimes more vivid than reality. But, however this may be, when we read we may not only (if we wish it) be king and live in palaces, but, what is far better, we may transport ourselves to the mountains or the seashore, visit the most beautiful parts of the earth, without fatigue, inconvenience or expense.

Macaulay had wealth and fame, rank and power, and yet he tells us in his biography that he owed his happiest hours of his life to books. English literature is the birthright and inheritance of the English race. Isn't it a happy thought to know, without stirring from our firesides we may roam to the most remote regions of the earth. I am much interested in Alson Secor's Travels. Every month he sends an article to a farm paper which I subscribe for each year: also James T. Nichols sends monthly sketches to the same paper. His "Birdseye Views of Far Lands" are intensely interesting.

I am thinking of your today having a lovely time at the meeting. I planned on going but I see it wasn't so to be. The snow came, making wheeling difficult on back roads. May those that are ill soon recover, and those who are in sorrow soon be comforted.

OMAHA BEE.

GRATEFUL FOR REMEMBRANCES

Dear Social Corner Members and Friends: I wish to thank one and all for your cards and kind remembrances, especially for the lovely sunshine box and the beautiful fern. It certainly is a pleasure to be thought of when one is a shut-in. Hoping you are all well and my sympathy to those who are ill and not able to get out and around.

MOOSUP

The Epworth league of Moosup Methodist church held a Valentine party and supper Thursday evening of last week. In spite of inclement weather twenty-five were present and enjoyed the supper and social time following. Plans were made for the presentation of an old-fashioned school entertainment, entitled: "School Days." This will be presented sometime in March.

Mrs. Ida M. Brown of Sunnyside Cottage, who has been ill with grip for several weeks, was taken to the W. W. Backus hospital Monday for observation.

Mrs. Ralph Waldo Emerson De Wolfe and young son, David Livingstone, arrived from the Backus hospital, Norwich, Tuesday afternoon.

Royal Neighbors' Valentine Party

Last Friday evening the Royal Neighbors of America held a much enjoyed Valentine party in their rooms in Foresters' hall. A delicious luncheon of fruit salad, cake, cookies, candy and coffee was served. The table was decorated with hearts and cupids and was lighted with red candles. Games were played. Musical numbers, instrumental and vocal, were given by members of the society and were much enjoyed. The committee in charge was Mrs. Nellie Huber, with Mrs. Abbie Codlin and Mrs. Blanche Fanning as aides.

William Pratt is employed at Squaw Rocks Poultry farm.

The Missionary society of the M. E. church met with Mrs. A. E. Tingley Wednesday evening. Mrs. Ada Hill led the devotional services. Miss Millett read "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem," the study book. Mrs. Tingley and Mary Champagne put on a little skit called the "Canny Mite Box," which was much enjoyed by those present.

Lucius Garvin of Providence was a recent visitor at Clark Congdon's.

Ernest Wilson and Harry Eaton attended the automobile show in Providence Wednesday evening.

Friends of Dr. Garcia are pleased to hear of a slight improvement at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

Friends of Fred Pierce, a former Moosup boy, are interested to hear his voice over the radio Sunday afternoons, with combined bands from Beverly, Salem and Peabody high schools. His programmes come direct from the Beverly, Mass., High School auditorium. Mr. Pierce is principal of this school at Beverly. An essay: Industrial Opportunities of Beverly, was given by Mr. Pierce's 15 year old son, Stanley Pierce, Sunday last.

WAUREGAN

The Parent-Teacher association held its February meeting Wednesday evening, Mrs. Williams presiding. A business session was held and voted to pay the quota assigned the school for Junior Achievement work. This was followed by a report by Mrs. Henry Leach of the recent county meeting at Pomfret Center. A special Founders' day program was then put on, including readings by Mrs. Arthur Milligan and Mrs. Williams. A birthday cake was auctioned off in sections the proceeds going to the special Founders' day fund. A committee, Mr. Rockwell, Mr. Burns, Mrs. Milligan and Mrs. Fitzmaurice, was appointed to plan for a money-raising entertainment to be held soon. A solo was rendered by Mr. Williams, accompanied by Mrs. Leach. Ice cream and cake were served to close a delightful evening. Twenty-two members were present.

Plans are developed and rehearsals have begun by the pupils of the grammar school for a play to be given at an early date.

A party of villagers went to Putnam Thursday evening to hear the famous lecture on "The Greatest Man of the 19th Century," by Dean Emeritus Charles Reynolds Brown, D.D., of Yale.

Work is speeding up in the Wauregan mills these days, after a somewhat slow season.

Ice and mud have been the cause of many falls with possibility of injury, but no serious results have followed.

Mrs. Robert Bethel was in Worcester this week, called there by an accident to her sister, who fell on the icy street and fractured her hip bone.

D. A. R. MOTION PICTURE GUIDE FOR FEBRUARY

The list of motion pictures for February reviewed by the better films committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution is as follows:

Rogue Song—M. G. M. feature—all technicolor—all dialogue. Cast includes Lawrence Tibbett, Catherine Dale Owen Nance O'Neill. This notable picture is epochal, being the debut on the screen of Lawrence Tibbett, grand opera baritone, whose voice registers marvelously in richness and power. The story is operatically romantic, for a Russian bandit courts by song a fair princess, love eventually overcoming vengeance. Director Lionel Barrymore cleverly introduces lavish and artistic scenes, elaborate choruses, dancing sequences, and comedy by Laurel and Hardy. This outstanding achievement is highly recommended as delightful entertainment for all the family.

City Girl—Fox, feature. All dialogue. Cast includes David Torrence, Edith Yorke, Charles Farrell, Mary Duncan. This is the story of the winning power of lover over stern parental authority, and the well-developed plot of simple country life is beautifully photographed with scenes of wheat fields, in the middle west. The appealing romance has been sympathetically directed by F. W. Murnau. Recommended as especially good for family entertainment.

Undertow—Universal. Feature. All dialogue. Cast includes Mary Nolan, Robert Ellis, Johnny Mack Brown. A triangle love drama enacted against picturesque background of coast guard life. A lighthouse keeper's wife, who genuinely loves her husband and baby, becomes restless in isolation, and returns to life of gaiety. Desperate struggle between the two men who love her and satisfactory ending, make absorbing entertainment for adults.

Not So Dumb—M. G. M. Feature. All dialogue. Based on the play "Dulcy," starring Marion Davies, in a light comedy, as "beautiful and dumb," who manages to upset the affairs of all concerned. This rapid moving story with many absurd situation will provide fair entertainment for the family.

Anna Christie—M. G. M. Feature. All dialogue. Cast, Greta Garbo, Charles Bickford, George Marion, Marie Dressler. Based on the stage play by Eugene O'Neill, and strongly typifies his realism in simple and intense sincerity. Matt's love for the unfortunate Anna, bringing redemption in the new life on her father's coal barge is convincingly developed by unusually fine acting by Miss Garbo and entire cast. Director Clarence Brown's masterly handling of sordid theme, and superb photographic and sound effects of waterfront activities make interesting entertainment for adults and O'Neill's admirers.

Slightly Scarlet—Paramount-Famous Lasky. Feature. All dialogue. Strong cast includes Clive Brook and Evelyn Brent. In this crook story an American girl and an Englishman fall in love in France, only to discover that they are both jewel thieves; but in the home of newly rich Americans they find that their unworthy motives will not bring happiness. Suspense is well sustained throughout, and will provide good entertainment for average audience.

Street of Chance—Paramount-Famous Lasky, Feature. All dialogue. With William Powell heading an excellent cast. This powerful drama, full of heart interest, deals with a gambler, who sacrifices love and fortune for a younger brother's sake. Portraya, of the futility of gambling is well developed under the able direction of John Cromwell. Intensely absorbing entertainment for adult audiences.

Such Men are Dangerous—Fox. Feature. All dialogue. Based on story by Elinor Glyn. Cast includes Warner Baxter, Catherine Dale Owen, Albert Conti. This modern society drama involves a multi-millionaire who disappears from his airplane after his bride deserts him. After surgery transforms his face, he woos his wife in vengeance, but discovering her real worth, all ends happily. Warner Baxter's excellent acting makes plausible this artificial offering. Good entertainment for adults.

Night Ride—Universal Feature. All dialogue. Cast includes Joseph Schildkraut, Barbara Kent, Edward Robinson, Harry Stubbs. This is an intensely exciting story about a star newspaper reporter who links crafty gunman and gang leader to a murder, thereby becoming the target of their fury and vengenge. Schildkraut's portrayal of Joe's desperate anxiety for the safety of his young bride is especially fine. Excellent photography with sound sequence, rapid action with suspense throughout, making thrilling entertainment for adults only.

They Learned About Women—M. G. M. Feature. All dialogue. Cast includes Joe Schenck, Gus Van, Bessie Love. This is a baseball story interspersed with a touching romance and musical numbers, built about the strong friendship of two men. Baseball park scenes will prove interesting to "fans." Adults.

For Love or Money—Christie-Paramount. Short subject. All dialogue. Cast includes Lois Wilson, Bert Roach, Ernest Wood. This is a clever and amusing comedy about a wife who decides to experiment by betting on horse racing. Good acting with realistic track scenes and an unexpected ending making enjoyable entertainment for family.

The Bearded Lady—Christie-Paramount. Short subject. All dialogue. When Louise Fazenda, the bearded lady, jilts the fire eater in favor of a barber, it causes trouble. Fair entertainment only—for family.

Sugar Plum Papa—Mack Sennett. Short subject. All dialogue. This light comedy concerns a mother's struggle for social prominence, resulting in her son's marriage to the housemaid. Provides amusement for average audience.

Dames Ahoy—Universal. Feature. All dialogue. A marine and his partner, Mabel, win a dance contest, the prize being a bungalow and sum of money if they agree to marry at the dance hall a week later. Complications arise, but the bungalow is finally occupied. Ordinary in development, but fair entertainment for average audience.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Case, Lockwood & Brainard Company, Hartford

In 1836 Newton Case, who as a country boy had come to Hartford and learned the copper plate printing trade, invested his entire capital of $706, with such other funds as he could borrow, in the purchase of the printing business of J. Hubbard Wells.

By 1838 he was able to increase the business by the purchase of the plant of Philemon Canfield, then the largest in Hartford.

To the job printing business was added a publishing branch which sold books, chiefly religious, by agents throughout the country. The most popular was a two volume set of the Cottage Bible of which over 150,000 sets were sold. This publishing business was later given up and the firm returned to its original purpose of book and job printing.

After passing through several changes the partnership of Case, Lockwood and Brainard was formed in 1858 which was changed to a corporation in 1873.

Since 1836 the company has had four homes. First, on the site of the Courant building; second, the Old Jail building at Pearl and Trumbull streets which was occupied from 1843 until 1865. Then followed the buildings recently vacated which were occupied for 60 years, till the present plant was erected in 1926.

This company is one of the largest and most up-to-date book and job printing plants in New England and one of the few which operate a complete printing plant and bindery. It is equipped for handling all ordinary classes of work and numbers among its customers many of the leading Connecticut business houses which it has served throughout its existence.

The present officers are: Newton C. Brainard, president; J. H. K. Davis, vice president and treasurer; H. W. Warren, secretary.

EVENING SCHOOL CLOSES WITH MINSTREL SHOW

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 21—The most successful evening school of the town of Windham came to a close this evening with a minstrel and dance at the high school and exhibits of the sewing and art depatments.

The auditorium of the school was filled to capacity with friends and relatives for the minstrel. The presentation was a colorful affair, featuring a large, brilliantly costumed chorus, clever endmen and versatile solo performers. Concert music was by Van's orchestra. Each number received generous applause.

The sewing exhibit was in charge of Mrs. Blanche McCleur while Miss Marion Atkins had charge of the art display. Following the minstrel the students of the night school and invited guests enjoyed dancing and refreshments in the gymnasium. The minstrel program: William Gurrack, interlocutor. NEW RESEARCH MAY AID DEAFNESS IN CHILDREN

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Poor hearing in thousands of young children may be improved by a research program of Central institute in St. Louis.

With completion of a $400,000 addition, the institute will have the largest facilities in the world for instruction of pre-school deaf children.

A new research audiometer for testing hearing and sound in all pitch ranges and intensities is expected to open a broad field for research. Further study with the "osiso," an instrument devised at the institute is expected to aid in developing a phonetic alphabet for teaching correct speech to the deaf.

ST. ANDREW'S DRAMATIC CLUB PLAYS TO CROWDED HOUSE

On Thursday evening, St. Andrew's Dramatic club presented a very amusing play entitled, "The Wrong Mummy," to an audience which crowded the Guild hall. The cast was as follows:

Prof. Baldwin, William Haden; Mrs. Baldwin, Maude Wooley; Harold Andrews, John McNeil; Alice Adams, Iola Shaw; Billy Smith, Frederick Johnson; Colonel Adams, Raymond Evans; Prof. Allen, Arthur Fitch; Mrs. Allen, Stella Peterson; Negro Woman, Doris Peterson; Swedish Woman, Edna Wallace; Annie (the maid), Mildred Wooley.

Each character was capably portrayed by the actors and there was a large appreciative audience. The humor of the story was apparent as each scene was unfolded until the climax was reached in the discovery that the mummy Cleopatra was Ramses the Great. This of course was a great blow to Prof. Baldwin, the discoverer of a great elixir, but all ended well in the usual good old way.

The program in between the acts was well received. The five "Happy" Boys delighted the audience with their clever music. Prof. Seidle in his amusingly funny stump speech brought down the house and the two colored brethren in their amusing sketch "Dr. Cut-Up," were also very good. Miss Helena Crandall gave several artistic dances. The United Music Co. furnished a Radiola, to be used for dancing and Church and Allen loaned a number of chairs.

Miss Winterbottom was the announcer. Dancing was enjoyed after the entertainment.

Sewing Club Met

The B. G. Sewing club girls met at the home of Miss Agnes Casey of Boswell avenue on Tuesday evening. The girls sewed on patch work and embroidery, and later enjoyed a social time when the hostess served a dainty lunch of chicken sandwiches, cake, cookies, gelatine with whipped cream, and coffee. The next meeting is to held with Miss Doris Lund.

Pulpit Supplies at Church

The Rev. Arthur Darby of Niantic, was the preacher at the Third Baptist church last Sunday and on the coming Sunday the pulpit will be occupied by Rev. N. B. Prindle of Shelton, Conn.

Miss Helen Drescher of Prospect street is a patient in a Hartford hospital, recovering from an operation performed on her foot about a week ago.

Mrs. Henry R. Sebastian of Preston was hostess to the Ladies' Aid society of the Third Baptist church on Wednesday evening when there were nine ladies present. After a short devotional and business period a social time was held. Mrs. Wm. Lund reported $18 netted on the recent food sale. It was decided to send a post card shower to Mrs. Harry P. Brothwell, a former member. A beautiful potted daffodil has been sent to her. At the close of the meeting the hostess served a delicious luncheon of assorted sandwiches, ice box cookies, fruit and walnut cake and coffee. She was assisted in serving by Mrs. Lucy Peckham. The March meeting is to be held with Mrs. Fred Laycock.

Vacation for School Children

The children of the schools of Greeneville will have a week's recess starting Monday owing to the eight week plan that is in effect with the local schools.

ANOTHER COUNTERFEIT BILL STARTS AN ARGUMENT

Another counterfeit $10 bill was passed in Greeneville Friday. It is in the possesion of a Polish storekeeper on Central avenue, who received it when he exchanged ten dollars worth of silver with a neighbor who conducts a grocery and meat market a few blocks away. Upon learning of its worthlessness he tried to get another $10 bill from the man but the latter denied tendering the counterfeit.

During the argument it drew quite a large gathering.

The Girls Friendly society of St. Andrew's Episcopal church met with Miss Edna Wallace of 574 North Main street Monday evening. Regular business was transacted, followed by a social hour. Refreshments were served by Miss Wallace, assisted by Mrs. William Wallace, Elsie Risley and Bertha Wallace.

Mrs. John McKinley of Providence spent a few days recently with Mr. and Mrs. William Bandeld on Fourteenth street.

Edward Quinn and John McNeil are spending the week end with relatives in New York city.

FIVE WIVES AND ONE HUSBAND GET DIVORCES ON UNCONTESTED LIST

Wellington, administrator, against LeClair and others, motion for argument of demurrer of defendants Coet and Bouchard.

Motions in the case of Boucher against Herman and others for default and disclosure of defense went off the list.

JUDGMENT FOR $3,750 FOR INJURY TO CHILD

A judgment by stipulation, by which Audrey E. Percival of Gales Ferry receives $3,750 from Francis Sweeney of Montville, brought to a close a suit arising from injuries received by Percival's 7-year-old daughter, Audrey E. Percival, in an automobile accident last November.

A copy of the settlement was submitted to the clerk of the superior court Friday. Attorney G. Curtis Morgan represented the plaintiff.

The child, who was attending the primary department of the public school at the Gales Ferry Community house, was waiting for the school bus, when injured. He sustained a broken hand, fractured skull and fractured hip.

A suit for $2,000 brought by Robert Percival for medical expenses for his daughter has been withdrawn without costs from the docket of the court.

GREENEVILLE BOTTLERS HAVE THEIR LICENSE REVOKED

HARTFORD, Feb. 21.—(AP)—The license of the Greeneville Bottling company, of 26 Sixth street, Norwich, to manufacture carbonated beverages in this state, was revoked today by Dairy and Food Commissioner Thomas Holt. John Kornacki, who with his son, Alexander, conducted the business, was found guilty recently of violation of the prohibition amendment after a raid on the place of business early this month resulted in the discovery of a small quantity of alleged moonshine. John Kornacki was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail, while a jail sentence meted out to the son was suspended because of his youth.

In a statement accompanying the announcement, Commissioner Holt warned bottlers today that he will deal severely with bottlers convicted under the prohibition act, and will revoke the licenses of such plants without warning in cases where charges are proven.

BOARD OF RELIEF AND ASSESSORS CONFER

The board of assessors was Friday called into conference by the board of relief for a discussion of assessments laid on local properties. Present at the meeting were Arad R. Manning, John B. Cat, Fred G. Prothero, of the board of assessors, Francis T. Beique, E. V. Ross, and Edward Kirby of the board of relief.

Mr. Beique, chairman of the board of relief, stated that the joint meeting was held in an effort to have an equalization of assessments.

It is unusual to have the two bodies confer, as the work of the board of relief ordinarily acts as a sort of check-up on what the assessors have done in the cases where appeals are made.

AMERICAN LEGION NOW OVER HALF MILLION MARK

The American legion has passed the one-half million mark in membership for 1930, according to a letter received by Joseph Bellefleur of this city, commander of the fifth district, American legion, from National Commander O. L. Bodenhamer. This is the most unusual membership record ever made in the history of the legion, the letter continues, x x x We want 800,000 members by the end of February. I am depending upon you to contact every post commander and post adjutant and urge them and their membership chairman to get every possible member in department headquarters before the last day of February, in order that department headquarters can make their reports by the first day in March.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Lisbon grange, No. 195, P. of H., royally entertained the New London County Pomona, No. 6, Thursday, at the Lisbon Community house, when the meeting had as honored guests several state officers and a gathering which included representatives from nearly every grange of the county, Norwich grange having the largest representation. There were over 170 grangers in attendance.

The state officers present were the new State Master Louis Tolles and Mrs. Tolles of Southington, State Lecturer Mrs. Sarah Curtis of Plainville, who inspected the county grange, and State Steward Charles M. Adams of Groton and Deputy Myron Miller of Seaview Pomona grange, Clinton.

At the morning session, which was called to order at 10.30 o'clock by Worthy Master Arthur W Avery, a member of Norwich grange, the fifth degree, was conferred upon a class of 13 candidates, and business of a routine nature was transacted.

At noon a delicious dinner of cold meats, mashed potatoes, carrots and peas, salads, pickles, rolls and coffee was served by members of the entertaining grange.

Lecturer Mrs. Maud E. Bliss, a member of Norwich grange, had charge of the afternoon programme, which was a feature of the session and thoroughly enjoyed. It opened with a short musical programme furnished by a four-piece orchestra of Lisbon grange under the direction of George Helmboldt and solos rendered by Everett Thornton of Jewett City. This was followed by readings by Frank Mell of Lisbon grange, a violin solo and two vocal numbers by George Helmboldt, the latter given in costume.

Interesting remarks were then made by State Master Tolles, who, at the close of his talk pleased with his famous whistling duet State Lecturer Curtis and Deputy Miller also spoke. Through the courtesy of the Southern New England Telephone company three films, "Wideawake," "Under Cover" and "Voices Across the Sea" were thrown on the screen to the delight of the gathering.

Following a reading by Louis Starkweather of Franklin grange the meeting closed will all singing America accompanied by the orchestra.

As a part of the afternoon session, which was presided over by Morgan Adams of Groton grange, Merton Bartlett of Pachaug grange was installed as a member of the executive committee of the New London county grange, all of the officers with the exception of three being in attendance at the meeting.

JUNIOR AMERICAN MECHANICS

SEVERE DENOUNCEMENT OF SOVIET RELIGIOUS POLICY

Religious "Persecution" Was the Theme of Many Pastors and Rabbis In Their Week-End Sermons—March 16 Has Been Set Aside By the Heads of Several Church Denominations For Universal Prayers For Cessation of Anti-Religious Activities In Russia—Soviet Newspapers and Political Leaders In Russia Are Urging Preparations For War With "Powers Jealous of the Economic and Industrial Progress."

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—The religious policy of Soviet Russia, termed "persecution" by Christian and Jewish leaders of Europe and the United States, today was attacked from the pulpits of various churches and synagogues in New York as a prelude to the concerted protest which will begin in earnest three weeks since.

Despite the designation of March 16 by the heads of several denominations as the date for universal prayers for cessation of anti-religious activities in Russia, many pastors and rabbis made the subject the theme of their sermons today.

March 16 has been set aside by Pope Pius, the archbishops of York and Canterbury, heads of the Episcopal church in England; Bishop William T. Manning, of the Episcopal Diocese of New York; Archbishop Platon, Metropolitan of the Russian Orthodox church in America, and other religious leaders. The New York Federation of Churches has also selected the day for prayer and protest. March 2 is the day set by the United Lutheran church for concerted prayer and protest.

The American movement followed issuance of an encyclical by Pope Pius, in which he denounced the Russians and called upon the priests and high officials of his church to hold prayer for the "oppressed and their oppressors." This sentiment was echoed in England with the Archbishops of York and Canterbury and Cardinal Bourne denouncing anti-religious action in Russia and calling for prayer.

In England, also, the tories in the house of commons attacked the Russian anti-religious feeling. Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson said their attacks were a renewal of the battle to break off relations with Russia, while British Ambassador Esme Ovey cabled from Moscow he was investigating the reports of persecution.

Two weeks ago Bishop Manning, speaking from the pulpit of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York said the soviet government was "seeking by propoganda and by force to destroy religion and to destroy also those moral ideals which religion has given to the world."

The reported arrest in Minsk, Russia, of 14 rabbis, with the accompanying report that they were to be executed, further stimulated anti-Russian feeling in this country. A few hours before the Russian government officially denied intention to execute the rabbis, United States Senator William E. Borah made known that he had cabled soviet authorities in Moscow asking for details of the reported arrests.

At about the same time, Bishop Ernest M. Stires of the Protestant Episcopal locDese of Long Island, speaking before a dinner of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, said: "They are all wrong in their religious ideas in Russia, but we are forced to give them credit for one thing and that is they are sincere in their beliefs. Now our side needs to be just as sincere and thorough in our beliefs in order to win out."

Dr. W. G. Cram, general secretary of the board of missions of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, called upon all Christians in the world to protest against the alleged ill-treatment of missionaries in Siberia.

While organization for concerted protests, continued, Dr. George S. Counts, associate director of the International Institute of Teachers' college, issued a defense of the soviet attitude toward the church, and warned that continued criticism from the clergy of other countries would only heighten the "severity of the present religious persecutions."

Dr. Counts said that the history of religion in Russia shows that churches were used to oppress the peasants and to keep them in ignorance and poverty. The revolution swept away both the czarist state and the church, because they were inseparable, he said.

The American Tract society announced today it is furnishing tracts, in Russian, to counteract the movement of the soviet authorities to make Russia a "godless country." The organization said it had distributed 13,000 tracts in Russia already and was sending 24,000 more to its missionaries, "who are carrying on their work in spite of the drastic restrictions of the authorities." The society refused to reveal the locations of the missionaries on the grounds that there is 'danger to those who are risking their lives to get the gospel.' "

ANTI-RELIGIOUS JEWISH STREET DEMONSTRATIONS

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Feb. 23.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency.)—Anti-religious Jewish street demonstrations, alleged to have been organized by the Jewish population, were said to be in progress in a number of townships in the Minsk, Mozir, Bobroisk and Vitebsk regions.

The last synagogue in Krupke has been taken over by the authorities, and a red flag waves over the synagogue in a township near Vitebsk. The Jews were said to be marching on the local soviets asking for the conversion of the synagogues.

SOVIET NEWSPAPERS URGE PREPARATIONS FOR WAR

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Feb. 23—(AP)—Coincident with celebration today of the 12th anniversary of the founding of the red army, soviet newspapers and political leaders renewed the loud cry of "war," and appealed to the country to be on guard against the menace from imperialistic powers which are pictured as jealous of the soviet's economic and industrial progress.

ALL BUT THREE JEWISH RABBIS WERE RELEASED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Senator Borah, of Idaho, said tonight that he had been informed by Acting Commissar Litvinoff, of foreign affairs for the soviet republic, that all but three of the Jewish rabbis who were arrested on charges of counter-revolutionary activities had been released.

HOSPITAL IN PROVIDENCE WAS DAMAGED BY FIRE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 23. —(AP)—Fire, originating in a waste bandage chute, mushroomed through the two upper floors of the five-story St. Joseph's hospital, here, early today and caused damage estimated at between one and two hundred thousand dollars before being brought under control after a six-hour battle. Four alarms were sounded, calling out half the city's fire apparatus.

A total of 148 patients, including 14 infants, one of them a baby a few hours old, were taken from the institution by nurses, nuns, police and cavilian rescue workers and were transferred to other hospitals and private homes.

Mild weather, in the opinion of doctors, prevented casualties in the hurried transfer of patients in ambulances, trucks and automobiles. Two persons, both of whom were critically ill before the fire occurred, may die.

A dozen persons listed as patients were unaccounted for tonight, but all floors of the hospital had been cleared before flames reached them, and doctors believed that most of these had been taken to private homes by autoists.

The children's and maternity wards, as well as the operating room, were housed on the two upper floors. All other parts of the building were water soaked.

WARD LINER COLLIDED WITH ITALIAN FREIGHTER

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP) — Her bow damaged and port anchor torn away, the Ward liner Monterey today turned back to Brooklyn for repairs made necessary by a collision in the dense fog last night with the Italian freighter Isarco, 30 miles south of Sandy Hook.

Officials of the line announced that the ship was only slightly damaged eight feet above the water line, and that she would be ready in a few days to resume her voyage to Havana. They said that none of the 43 passengers or crew were injured.

No report was available as to damage to the Isarco, which proceeded today to its destination in Brooklyn, after its voyage to Norfolk, Va., and Philadelphia.

DROWNED IN AUTOMOBILE THAT BROKE THROUGH ICE

LITCHFIELD, Feb. 23.—(AP)— The body of Thomas F. O'Rourke, 54, caretaker at Camp Womposett, and his automobile were recovered today from Bantam lake.

O'Rourke left his home yesterday to go to a store. Before leaving, he said he intended to cross the ice over the lake because of the poor conditions of the highway. A search for him was started last night when he failed to return to his home.

The automobile and O'Rourke apparently fell into a hole where ice had been cut. Tracks on the ice indicated that O'Rourke had applied his brakes as he approached to the opening. The tracks led to the hole.

O'Rourke's body was found in the machine. He is survived by his widow and an adopted child.

INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION INCREASED IN JANUARY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(AP)— The federal reserve board in its summary of general business conditions issued today reported a 4 per cent increase in industrial production in January from the low level of December.

This increase, the board said, reflected larger output of automobiles, steel, cotton textiles and shoes. Output of copper, cement, lumber, anthracite coal and flour declined.

Factory employment was further reduced by the middle of January but slightly increased in the three weeks following, the summary said.

Three Lives Lost When Plane Fell Into Bay

Plane Was Being Taken Up For An Experimental Flight At Miami, Fla.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23.—(AP)— Three men were killed when an airplane fell into Biscayne bay, beside the Venetian causeway here while it was being taken aloft on an experimental trip today.

The dead are: M. H. Carlton, Miami Beach, a passenger.

F. J. Somers, chief engineer of the Miami Aircraft company.

Thomas B. Ward, pilot.

The airplane was a flying boat, the third to be made by the company, which was organized last year by a group of local capitalists. Production so far has been of experimental nature, and the craft that fell today was the only in possession of the company, the other two having been dismantled after improvements had been devised.

The fatal accident was witnessed by a number of motorists who were passing on the Venetian causeway at the time. It occurred shortly after 10:30 o'clock today.

The airplane was owned by the Miami Aircraft company and had recently been built.

Carlton went up in it today as a prospective purchaser, it was learned.

Joseph M. Smoot, president of the company, had come to the airport here this morning with the intention of making a flight with Somers and Ward, but gave up his plane to Carlton when he learned that the New York man was considering purchase of the craft.

Smoot witnessed the crash as the plane took off.

Witnesses said that Ward took off from the surface of the bay after Carlton and Somers had entered the cabin of the flying boat. Previously, Smooth had climbed out at request of Somers to give his place to Carlton.

The pilot lifted the nose of the craft into the air after taxiing along the surface of the bay for a short distance. As the plane gained altitude, Ward banked sharply, apparently in attempt to face more directly into a shifting wind.

As he banked the airplane fell into the shallow waters of the bay.

The bodies of Carlton and Somers were recovered shortly after the accident. Some difficulty was experienced in finding Ward's body, but it was found after an hour's search.

Inquest into the deaths of the three men will be held tomorrow night.

MAYOR OF NEWBURYPORT IN SEARCH OF A WIFE

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Feb. 23—(AP)—Andrew J. ("Bossy") Gillis, mayor of Newburyport, Mass., was en route to San Francisco tonight aboard the S. S. Virginia to begin his search in California for a wife.

The one time service station operator and sailor, who after becoming mayor of Newburyport, served part of his first term in the city jail for various infractions of Massachusetts law, placed himself on the matrimonial market with the assertion "it's a great break for some girl."

"I've made up my mind to marry and having heard so much about the beautiful girls in California, I came out here to pick a wife," he declared.

The mayor proved himself no gentleman—at least by Anita Loos' Standard —in the next breath by adding "blondes won't do."

"Blondes?: Under no circumstances. In the first place it is my observation that they are not good housekeepers, and in addition they go to bridge teas," the mayor declared. "And no wife of mine is going to be a bridge hound.

"I've decided to give all the brunettes and red heads who can qualify as good lookers an even chance."

SHOT POLICEMAN HE HAD MISTAKEN FOR BANDIT

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP)— Edward F. Keenan, a probationary patrolman who saw two other policemen making an arrest and thought it was a holdup, was shot and killed today, when he attempted to interfer. All three policemen were in civilian clothes at the time of the shooting.

Patrolman Joseph Dugan and Vincent Fortuone were walking in a downtown street when they saw two men engaged in an altercation. One demanded the arrest of the other, who thereupon got into a taxicab and attempted to flee.

Fortuone attempted to pull him out of the taxicab, and as he did so Keenan passed in another cab. Thinking hee was witnessing a holdup, he got out and ran toward Fortuone, reaching for his hip as he ran. Dugan, believing that Keenan was a gunman, fired and Keenan fell mortally wounded. Dugan was exonerated of all blame after an investigation.

DIED IN APARTMENT OF WOMAN HE MET IN NIGHT CLUB

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Samuel J. Clark, 50, a landscape florist of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., died suddenly this morning in the apartment of Miss Mary Murray in West 69th street.

Detectives said Miss Murray told them she met Clark in a 49th street night club Friday night and that he accompanied her home. All day Saturday, she said, he complained of illness and this morning seemed much worse. Suddenly he collapsed and was dead before an ambulance arrived. The body was ordered removed to the morgue for an autopsy.

Detectives communicated with the Mt. Vernon chief of police, who told them that Clark was a prominent citizen there.

Clark has a farm on Sawmill road, Briarcliff Manor, N. Y.

BODY OF SLAIN BOY WAS FOUND IN CELLAR

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Feb. 23.—(AP)—The body of Stanley Ryblewsky, 15, of 162 Seventh street, was found today in the cellar of a two-family house at 387 Palishades avenue, one part of which was occupied by the family of his uncle, John Tarrance.

He had been shot through the head with an automatic revolver which, with a small savings bank, was lying five feet from the body.

Mrs. Ida Lane, an occupant of the house, told police she found the body at noon when she went to the cellar to fix a furnace fire. Physicians declared death had occurred only a few hours earlier.

Reports from Paris indicating that the new Chautemps government might, with socialist support, obtain a vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies next Tuesday permitted the heads of the four other delegations to the stranded London naval conference to rest a little easier last night.

Tuberculosis Fatal To Mabel Normand

Famous Screen Comedienne's Private Life Was Not Free of Tragedy.

MONROVIA, Cal., Feb. 23.—(AP) — Mabel Normand, whose private film life offered strangely contrasting roles of tragedy and comedy, died in a sanitarium here at 2:30 a. m. today. She had suffered from tuberculosis since the latter months of 1928.

Blood transfusions recently resorted to in hope they would strengthen the actress weakened general condition failed and after an almost imperceptible sinking spell late last night, the comedienne died at the Pottenger sanitarium here. Only her secretary, Miss Julia Benson and a night nurse were at her bedside.

Despite her extremely weak condition, Miss Normand was conscious until the last few moments of her life. Scarcely more than an hour before her death, she had taken some light nourishment.

Famed as a comedienne whose roles in her many films won her wide acclaim, Miss Normand's private life threw her hoydenish screen tactics into sharp contrast.

A "tomboy" of the films, in private life she became involved in perhaps more sensational "mixups" than any other member of the southern California motion picture colony. Nearly all occurred when she was in the heydey of her career as a comedienne whose fame was world-wide.

The baffling murder of William Desmond Taylor, famous motion picture director and former British army officer, in Hollywood, February, 1922, was the first of the affairs to which her name was linked. Taylor's body was found Thursday morning, February 2, in the living room of his lavishly furnished court bungalow where he had been shot to death. Investigations by police disclosed that Miss Normand had visited the director the previous evening between 7 and 7:45 o'clock. Taken by officers to Taylor's bungalow, she re-enacted the scenes which transpired during her last visit. She was questioned closely by the officers but no clue as to the murderer's identity ever was discovered.

On New Year's night, 1923, she again was linked with a shooting, that of Courtland S. Dines, Denver, Colo., broker, by her chauffeur, Horace Greer, in Los Angeles. Edna Purviance, another actress and Miss Normand were present in Dines' apartment when the shooting occurred. Greer said he had come to take his employer home and that Dines attempted to assault him. Dines recovered.

Ten months later her name together with two others was again emblazoned across the front pages of the newspapers. This time it was brought into the divorce complaint of Mrs. Georgia W. Church against her millionaire husband, Norman W. Church. Miss Normand filed a libel complaint seeking $500,000 for alleged damaging allegations made by the estranged millionaire's wife in her suit. Mrs. Church later withdrew the divorce complaint in which the film comedienne was named.

On September 18, 1926, Miss Normand created a somewhat milder sensation, slipping away with Lew Cody, screen actor, to Ventura, Calif., where they were married by a justice of the peace at 3 o'clock in the morning. They returned to Hollywood where they maintained separate establishments for a time but coming to the conclusion that "two can live together more cheaply than apart," Cody moved into his wife's home and placed a "For Sale" sign on his own. Her marriage was Miss Normand's first.

Virtually all of Miss Normand's motion picture career was centered in comedy. She entered pictures in New York in 1910, working with Vitagraph and Biography. Coming to California she made a "hit" in the slapstick productions of Mack Sennet. In many of these Keystone short comedies she appeared with Charles Spencer Chaplin, using her own name "Mabel" as a character name.

Her first big feature was "Mickey" in which Cody played the heavy. It was released in the season of 1918.

The actress subsequently signed up with Samuel Goldwyn corporation, for which she made several pictures. Later she returned to the Sennet banner.

Mabel Normand was born November 10, 1894, at Boston, Mass., of humble parentage. She received her education in St. Mary's convent at Northwest Port in her native state. At the age of 14 she became a model for artists and illustrators.

In February, 1927, Miss Normand became so ill at a hospital at Santa Monica that for a time friends despaired of her life. She suffered from pneumonia and an abscessed lung. Due to the fact that no visitors were permitted to enter her room and with her physicians giving out only brief bulletins, many reports of her death were current at various times.

FELL TO DEATH WHEN PARACHUTE FAILED TO OPEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23—(AP)—Feed "Dummy" Mahan, welterweight boxer from Tombstone, Ariz., plunged to his death here today, in a 5,000 foot parachute jump from an airplane.

Mahan, a deaf mute, made the jump in an effort to regain his hearing. He had been deaf since he was eight months old.

A crowd of several thousand persons watched horror-stricken as he catapulted through the air from the clouds.

Only the pilot parachute opened as he fell from a plane piloted by Col. Harry Abbott, Berkeley aviator, inventor of a new type parachute, which Mahan was using.

SIMPLE FUNERAL SERVICES FOR ALEXANDER P. MOORE

PITTSBURG, Feb. 23—(AP)—Friends, many of high place, gathered from far and near today for the last rites in memory of Alexander Pollock Moore, ambassador to Poland, and former envoy to Spain and Peru, who died last Monday in California.

Services were simple and were in charge of the Rev. Edward S. Travers, of St. Louis, former rector of Trinity cathedral, Pittsburgh.

Nearly 500 persons crowded the chapel, several thousand stood outside and even a larger crowd appeared at the place of interment.

Twelve hundred floral tributes were arranged about the bier.

FINANCES TO BE TOPIC OF WHITE HOUSE BREAKFAST

President Hoover Has Summoned Congressional and Departmental Leaders to White House This Morning—Belief Prevails That the Chief Executive Is Preparing to Call For a Check On Government Expenditures—Secretary Mellon Will Give An Accounting of the Treasury's Condition to Congressional Chieftains.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—President Hoover is preparing to call for a check on government expenditures and has summoned congressional and departmental leaders in financial affairs to a white house breakfast tomorrow.

After a week of informal conferences, the president has decided to have Secretary Mellon give an accounting of the treasury's situation to the congressional chieftains. Whether he has any specific recommendations in mind other than a warning to the congressional leaders to go slow on appropriations is not known.

Those invited to the white house breakfast are: Secretary Mellon, Under Secretary Mills of the treasury, Director Rop of the budget, the republican congressional leaders, Senator Watson, of Indiana; Senator McNary, of Oregon; Speaker Longworth, Representative Tilson, of Connecticut; Chairman Jones of the senate appropriations committee, Chairman Wood of the house appropriations committee; Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee; Chairman Hawley of the house ways and means committee; and Representative Snell, of New York.

Ever since his return from Florida, Mr. Hoover has been consulting with the treasury and congressional leaders over the business situation with particular reference to the effect of pending appropriations on the government's finances.

While apparently the administration has no particular grievance against any specific appropriations before congress, it is known that the president is anxious to emphasize that the $160,000,000 tax reduction authorized for this year will necessitate a corresponding curtailment of government expenditures.

It was announced at the white house that the conference was called for the purpose of discussing appropriations but it was regarded as a possible opportunity also for Mr. Hoover to make his peace with the congressional republican leadership over the tariff.

The story published in the Kansas City Star recently stating that the president actually favored the tariff rates being written by the democratic-republican independent coalition in the senate has gone undenied publicly by Mr. Hoover.

The president did consult with Senator Watson about the story on Saturday. Apparently the republican leader against the senate coalition was satisfied after that conference that Mr. Hoover would take no part in the controversy over tariff rates.

The Monday morning breakfast follows significantly close behind this conference. All of the guests from congress include those leaders actively identified with carrying on the republican contest for higher tariff rates.

The senate is just preparing to take up the annual appropriation measures and will get to work on this as soon as the tariff bill is out of the way.

The only emergency appropriations which have gone through at this session dealt with relief for the storm-stricken farmers in the southeastern states and in Porto Rico. In every instance where there has ben an appropriation at this session, the president has approved it.

The outstanding bills now before congress authorizing increased expenditures are those recommended by the administration—those providing for additional appropriations for public buildings and road construction. Mr. Hoover advocated these as a part of the business improvement program and no word is expected to be voiced against them.

CONFESSED INTENTION TO KILL N. Y. DETECTIVES

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—Two New York detectives who brought James Baker, 23, who told Detroit police he had killed nine men, here from Detroit tonight, said they found two pistols and a stiletto on his person during the trip.

They said he confessed an intention to kill them on the train.

Detectives George Fitzpatrick and Arthur M. Horey, who guarded Baker on the train, said he told them he had planned to kill them at Pittsburgh and make his escape from the train.

"I'm going to burn anyhow," they quoted him as having said, "and I had nothing to lose by bumping off you guys."

The two loaded guns and the stiletto were discovered a few hours out from Detroit, the detectives said. As they prepared to retire Saturday night, they said, one of the detectives suggested that the prisoner be searched.

Baker submitted quietly as the detectives "frisked" him.

FOUR MEN WOUNDED BY GUNMAN AT WILLIAMSBURG, KY.

WILLIAMSBURG, Ky., Feb. 23—(AP)—Guns blazed in this little mountain city early today and when the smoke had cleared away, four men were wounded, one probably fatally.

City Marshal J. West Perkins, 45, was shot through the abdomen. Doctors at the London, Ky., hospital where he was taken, said his condition was serious. Former City Marshal George L. Davis, 55, was shot through the right temple, the bullet coming out the left side of his face and destroying his left eye. Attendants said he probably will live. Deputy Sheriff Ledford Caddell, 35, was wounded in the back of the neck, the leg and in the body. He will recover, according to physicians. Deputy Jailer Bumts Gorms suffered a flesh wound.

City Marshal Perkins, Gorns, Davis and Caddell received a report of shooting and were looking for the man who fired the shots.

CHRONICLE OF WEEK END CRIMES IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Feb. 23—(AP)—A suspected automobile thief was probably fatally wounded, another robber is thought to have been shot, the Negro assailant of a young white woman was beaten unconscious by infuriated neighbors and 320 persons were arrested by police over Saturday and Sunday.

Chester Dykiewski, 23, was shot by a detective when he tried to escape after having been seized with two others for stealing a motor car. Police said he had a criminal record.

One of three men who held up a South Side butcher shop is thought to have been shot by Joseph Latuscewski, who rooms above the store. He said one of the men staggered and was helped away by his companions after Latuscewski fired.

ESCAPED UNHURT WHEN PLANE FELL ABOUT 100 FEET

BORDENTOWN, N. J., Feb. 23—(AP)—When his airplane took a nose dive, plunging nearly 100 feet into a muddy field near here today, W. T. Backus, of Washington, D. C., escaped uninjured.

Because of engine trouble, Backus went into a glide but the plane plunged straight down, buried its nose in the mud and rolled over, snapping off the right wing.

The pilot left for Washington by train.

HOLD-UP IN RESTAURANT IN MERIDEN SATURDAY NIGHT

MERIDEN, Feb. 23—(AP)—A trio of youthful gunmen late Saturday night, held up and robbed a restaurant proprietor here of about $35. The owner, a clerk and four customers were lined against a wall and covered by two of the men; while a third rifled the cash register and also relieved the proprietor and his employe of their money.

CONFESSED SHOOTING OF GIRL IN NEW BRITAIN

NEW BRITAIN, Feb. 23—(AP)—Miss Mary Valichi, 19, a recent graduate of New Britain high school, was shot to death here today. She collapsed in the hallway of a tenement house while trying to escape from her assailant.

George F. Schmaltz, 44, a foreman at the Landers, Frary and Clark company's plant where the girl had been employed until recently, was held tonight on a charge of first degree murder. Prosecuting Attorney Joseph G. Woods said Schmaltz had confessed shooting the girl.

Police said the girl and Schmaltz had known each other intimately for about a year. The factory foreman in his confession, according to police, said he shot the girl because she had refused to bring their friendship to an end.

"She had been taunting me." police quoted Schmaltz as saying.

HUGHES TO BECOME CHIEF JUSTICE OF THE U. S. TODAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Charles Evans Hughes tomorrow will take up the duties laid down by the man who first appointed him to the supreme court 20 yeras ago.

Simple formalities will mark his induction into the post just vacated by William Howard Taft because if illness. With the resumption of work by the supreme court after a recess since January 27, he will take the oath of allegiance, then that of chief justice of the United States, receive the greeting of the associate justices and plunge into the business of the court.

The new chief justice will find 53 decisions in the hands of the old members of the court for delivery.

MAN AGED 156 BOASTS HE NEVER TOOK A DRINK

ISTANBUL, Feb. 23—(AP)—"One hundred and fifty-six years old, and never took a drink," is the boast of Zaro Agha, Turkey's longevity champion, who will abandon a job as doorkeeper at the city here here at the end of April to sail for New York at the invitation of the American Anti-Alcohol society.

The society intends to exhibit the aged man throughout the United States, calling attention to the teetotlar's mental and physical vigor. Zaro, who has buried eleven wives, will leave his twelfth at home when he embarks for America.

30 SUMMER COTTAGES RANSACKED BY VANDALS

THOMPSONVILLE, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Thirty cottages at Crescent lake, a summer colony three miles east of here, were ransacked by vandals during the past week, police learned today.

The owner of one of the cottages discovered the depredations when he came to spend the week end at the colony. He told police that he had visited the cottage last Tuesday and had found it undisturbed.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 23—An intensive program of investigation with improvement of conditions as the ultimate aim, has been adopted by the new board of the chamber of commerce. The work will be done by committees to be appointed soon by the new president, Louis H. Arnold. On behalf of the chamber, President Arnold has pledged the interest and support of the organization in all the major enterprises of the community.

Committees to be appointed and their purposes are: Agricultural, to cooperate with the agricultural interests of the city's trading area; aviation field, to give further consideration to this local project; Boy Scout program, to endeavor to ascertain the sentiment and to promote scouting in the town; educational, to further promote the better library conditions and consider things of an educational nature; fire prevention, to consider ways and means for the general clean-up campaign and investigate the present methods employed for electrical wire inspection; highway, to promote the building of the proposed highway from Willimantic to Lebanon and also consider ways and means for the improvement of the roads in the town; industries, to give full co-operation to existing industries in the town and attempt to secure additional ones; municipal affairs, to study the question of a finance board for the city and the town's financial status; community week, to assist in the promotion of this event similar to that staged in 1915; public health, to further investigate the local supply of milk and its distribution and other matters pertaining to public health; public recreation, to further promote public recreation, particularly during the summer vacation period of the school children; public welfare, to investigate possibilities of a central organization for the purpose of ascertaining the facts concerning public welfare and charity work in the community; small claims court, to further investigate and promote this project here; transportation and traffic, to investigate and promote the transportation and traffic affairs of Willimantic; zoning, to investigate and promote the beautification of the city insofar as possible.

The present board of directors and officers of the chamber follow: Louis H. Arnold, president; Oliver L. Willard, vice president; H. Clinton Lathrop, treasurer; John J. O'Rourke, secretary and Harry N. Bullard, John F. Carr, Benjamin Eisenberg, Frank P. Fenton, George H. Gurley, Charles W. Hill, James H. Hurley, Roland B. Jordan, Raymond A. Parker, William B. Sweeney, Charles W. Tryon and Patrick J. Twomey.

Two Hartford girls and Phillip Dole, 16-year old son of Coach and Mrs. Sumner A. Dole of Connecticut Agricultural college were injured in a crash of automobiles about 9 o'clock Saturday morning at Rathbun's Four Corners on the North Coventry-Mansfield Depot highway. The injured: Miss Evelyn Dragat, of 66 Canterbury street, Hartford, patient at the Hartford hospital with bruises and cuts; Miss Loretta Lublin of 38 Kent street, Hartford, at home and suffering from a bruised forehead and chest injuries; and Philip Dole, at home with gash over the right eyebrow and loss of two teeth.

The young women were on their way to Connecticut Agricultural college in Storrs. Miss Lublin is a student there and Miss Dragat has a brother who is an undergraduate. Occupying the other machine, which is owned by Coach Dole, were Master Dole, John Stangle of East Hartford and Henry R. Libutske, 29 Olive street, Hartford, driver of the car. The machines collided head-on on a steep grade, the cars taking to the side of the road and being damaged beyond operation. An investigation was conducted by State Policeman Kenneth Stevens of the Stafford Springs barracks.

In an effort to overcome as much as possible the mud-ridden condition of country roads in the town of Windham, First Selectman William A. Buck has had trucks on duty during the week making temporary repairs. Axle-deep mud holes have been filled on Lovers' Lane from Bingham bridge to Bricktop road and on the Jerusalem road to Scotland dam. The pronounced mild weather of the past week has raised havoc with country roads and those who charge for towing mired automobiles onto dry ground are said to be doing a thriving business.

Selectman Buck is considering the possibility of oiling country roads in the future in the hope of cutting down the cost of repairs. An experiment along this line was tried last year when one-quarter of a mile of the Jerusalem road from Larrabee's corner toward Scotland dam was oiled and similar work was done from Babcock Hill at South Windham to the Lebanon town line. These sections were first graveled and then rolled before the oil was applied. These sections were found to have withstood the ravages of the winter and subsequent thaws remarkably well.

VACCARO TAXED $150 FOR HIS LIQUOR TRANSACTIONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 23—Carmine Vaccaro of Scotland, at whose farm state police uncovered two large stills in a raid Thursday, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace A. H. Gallup of the Scotland town court Saturday afternoon. He pleaded guilty to three counts of violation of the liquor laws and fined a total of $100 and costs, $50 for manufacturing liquor and $25 on each of two counts of keeping with intent and actual sale to a "John Doe" of New Jersey. As he was without funds Vaccaro was given one week in which to pay the total fines and costs of $160.15. A co-owner of the farm with Vaccaro is being sought by the police. This man, for whom a warrant had been issued, escaped from the officers on the pretext that he was going to take care of his cows. He raced through wooded territory to the home of friends who furnished him with funds to get to New Jersey. The raid was staged by State Officer Elton Nolan of the Danielson barracks and two state officers from the Groton barracks.

The pair of alleged bootleggers who ransacked the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave O. Cartier at Babcock hill, earlier in the week, and who were apprehended in Hartford—with stolen goods in their possession, did not secure much of value according to Dexter Wheelock of East Orange, N. J., joint owner with the Cartiers of the 30-room house. Mr. Wheelock said that valuable antiques had been allowed to remain by the invaders. With State Policeman Henry Heinold of the Stafford Springs barracks, Mr. Wheeler was in Hartford Saturday to identify some of the effects believed to have been stolen from the house.

FUNERALS

James Cainen

From the home, 20 Summit street, the funeral of James Cainen was held Saturday morning with a solemn high mass of requiem in St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Henry E. Quinn, was celebrant; Rev. Michael J. Thompson, deacon and Rev. Francis A. Duch, subdeacon. Quartet selections were by Arthur Roy, William A. Costello, Mrs. Henry Mathieu and Miss L. Monica McKean, Mrs. Mathieu and Mr. Roy also being heard in solos.

Burial was in the family plot of St. Joseph's cemetery where a committal service was conducted by Rev. Father Quinn. The bearers were, John Sugrue, James F. Twomey, James F. McGlone, John F. Pickett, William A. Costello and John S. Sullivan.

George S. Woodward

Services for George S. Woodward were held at 82 North street at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon with Rev. Edward F. Smiley of the Windham Center Congregational church officiating. Burial was in the Windham Center cemetery. The bearers were Elijah Woodward, John, George and Lloyd Jacobs. Arrangements were by Avery and VanZandt.

A replevin suit against Christopher Everett of Chaplin has been instituted by Mrs. Dora Davies of New York city to recover furniture and other house and camp furnishings which came into the possession of Everett last fall. The allegation is that about August 30, 1929, through undue influence and misrepresentation Everett secured the goods listed in the bill of particulars. A replevin writ was served on Everett by Deputy Sheriff Lester H. Bliss and three large auto truck loads of furnishings were removed from the Everett home and barn to be stored in this city awaiting the outcome of the action. The case is returnable before the Windham county superior court the first Tuesday in April. Mrs. Davies has conducted Natchaug camp for children in Chaplin for the past few years and according to Everett she owed him a bill for services last summer. He alleges that the woman gave him a bill of sale for the furniture and furnishings of the house and camp just before the season closed in August. He removed the goods to his home, a short distance away.

DANIELSON

STATE POLICE MAKE ARRESTS IN LIQUOR CLEAN-UP

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 23—State officers of the Danielson barracks ranged nearby territory Saturday night mopping up the illicit liquor and beer-selling business, and building up cases that have or will have court attention.

Over in Brooklyn, on a back road west of the main highway between Wauregan and Brooklyn State Officers Elton Nolan, H. Theodore Strand, Henry Mayo and George Martin unexpectedly descended on the farm place where Romaine Bouthillier has been doing business for some time past. Frequenters of the place were scattered and 11 cases of beer seized. This afternoon Bouthillier was presented before Justice Bernier in Brooklyn and fined $400 and costs, which he paid. Joseph Fl igawhi,gu-P.fETAOIN SH Joseph Flagg, who is believed to have been on his way home to Wauregan after a visitation at Bouthiller's was arrested by State Officer Nolan on an intoxication charge.

A raid at the Nisiford LaPrise place at Elmville netted 3 half-pints of liquor. Today LaPrise, who will be presented in court as a fourth offender of the liquor laws, was being held at the barracks on North Main street in default of bonds of $2,000.

Outside a dance hall at Killingly Center Sergeant G. L. Gardner and State Officers John Murphy and Elton Nolan arrested John Palembra of Bridgeport, who has been working hereabouts with a telephone company line crew, and Alexander Atch'son of 36 Greene street, Putnam and Joseph Brochu of 415 Main street, the same city. They were locked up on intoxication charges.

Looking over cars parked rear the dance hall the officers came upon a young couple likely to be haled into court to answer to charges of improper conduct.

LOCAL NURSE DOES HEROIC WORK AT HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 23—Miss Anita Berthiaume, nurse at St. Joseph's hospital in Providence, went valiantly through the fire at the institution this morning and assisted in the clock-like efficiency that was incident to the removal of the patients from the threatened institution. Early this afternoon Miss Berthiaume, who was uninjured, arrived here to visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Berthiaume, Sr., of Furnace street, for a few hours. She was to return to Providence this evening for assignment to duty at some one of the other city hospitals to which patients were removed, or, in case her services were not required for the time being, to return to her home here for a few days.

Miss Berthiaume said the chief damage to the hospital was from water poured in by firemen. The fire was confined to the children's ward and operating room. All patients had been removed from the hospital before noon today.

OBITUARY

Henry V. Haswell

Henry V. Haswell, who would have been 91 years of age next July, and who had been a resident of Elmville for a long term of years, died this morning at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam. Mr. Haswell was the oldest member of the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church in point of years and also one of the oldest members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows in the United States, and had been outstandingly honored by this fraternity, in which his interest was always very active. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker A. F. Wood.

Mr. Haswell was a native of Trowbridge, England, and was born July 6, 1820. He was a son of James and Mary Hanney Haswell. Mr. Haswell had been a resident of this country for many years. In addition to his wife he leaves three daughters—Mrs. Arthur D. Warwick of Philadelphia, Mrs. J. E. Potter of Elmville and Mrs. Charlotte Hoxie of Kenyon, R. I.

Mr. Haswell, who has been in failing health for a considerable period of time was taken to the hospital in Putnam the past week.

Mrs. Edgar Bernier

A death last night at the Notre Dame hospital in Central Falls, R. I., was that of Marguerite Lagace Bernier, 26, wife of Edgar Bernier of this town. She had been a patient at the hospital only a short time and had undergone a surgical operation. The body was brought here in charge of Undertaker Martin T. Burns, and is now at the home of Mr. Bernier's mother, Mrs. Mathias Bernier, on Front street, West Side.

Mrs. Bernier, a very fine young woman, was born in Fall River, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Flavien Lagace. In addition to her husband, who has the sympathy of everyone, she leaves a son, Edgar, four years of age; her parents, two sisters, Mrs. Cleophas Carden, Mrs. Horace Leduc, and three brothers, Joseph, Ozarion and Cleophas, all of Fall River.

The mystery of what became of the thousands of brown trout of good size that the state placed in the Assawaga river several years ago, for the first time, and added other releases since, has been solved, insofar as the average person is concerned. It appears that some people have known about the matter for a long time.

Not to create too long drawn out suspense, it may be related that the trout are in the river, and some fine big fellows, too. Numbers of people have seen numerous fine specimens of this splendid game fish in the upper reaches of the stream, in shallow pools, within the past week. On reliable information, it may be asserted that some of these brown trout appear to weigh as much as three and four pounds each. They are beauties.

For several years after the first of these trout were released, not one of them was reported as being caught. There should be a different story during the fishing season that opens April 16, and some great sport for the anglers who happen to hook onto one of these prize babies.

Miss Benjamin Clara Bousquet, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Bousquet of Dyer street, and a graduate of Killingly high school in the class of 1928, is a patient in St. Francis' hospital at Hartford to undergo a surgical operation.

At the high mass at St. James' church today banns of marriage between Miss Doris Monohan and State Officer Henry Mayo of the Danielson barracks were published. The marriage will take place prior to the beginning of the Lenten season.

Today Armand Henault of Dayville motored to Hartford to visit with his sister-in-law, Miss Katherine Neville, a patient in a hospital in that city, recovering from a broken arm, an injury sustained when she fell while in Danielson a few weeks ago.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Philip Chamberlin, the child named for his father, died today at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy and brought to his funeral home here. Before her marriage Mrs. Chamberlin was Miss Susie Grimes of Pomfret.

A radio broadcast out of Providence this morning relative to a fire sweeping through St. Joseph's hospital in that city was of instant interest, for usually there are several patients from this section of eastern Connecticut in the institution. Whether or not there were some from hereabouts today could not be ascertained this afternoon.

The Misses Mary and Helen Thayer of Springfield were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carl Witter of Broad street.

Exchange your tickets for the Powdrell-Alexander Footlight Revue Monday at Dupre's news store and also during Tuesday. This spectacular musical show at the Orpheum theater Tues. and Wed. evenings this week.—Adv.

Mrs. Abby Sullivan, her daughters Dorothy and Clare, and her son, James, and Rodney Hart, all of Pawtucket, were dinner guests Saturday evening of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kennedy.

Miss Elisabeth Dunn was in Bridgeport over the week end, visiting with her sister, Mrs. Sarah Nolan.

State highway surfaces all through this section began to break up at the week end under the unusual high temperatures for this time in February. Highway crews were working on the bad places and doing their best to keep them passable, which they succeeded in doing.

Miss Evelyn Lemmelin of Broad street was reported today as critically ill at her home.

February continued its prankish tricks today, for the fourth day in succession, as to building up winter temperature records. Early this afternoon readings of 65 degrees were common about town.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller of Dayville left this afternoon to motor to Holyoke, where they are to spend a few days visiting with relatives and friends.

Dirt roads out in the country districts for miles around have broken through in many places, and many were the cars stalled in the mud yesterday and today. A compensation to offset this temporary condition is that practically all of the frost has come out of the ground.

Difficulty with the high pressure gas main between Putnam and Danielson apparently had been wholly overcome today, and a normal supply of gas was available for householders.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon J. Gale motored to New Jersey to spend the week end with relatives.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Mary F. Chase

After a long illness, Mrs. Mary F. Chase, 66, died this afternoon about 2:30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Franklin on Broad street. Her recovery had been despaired of for more than a week. Mrs. Chase was born in this town at East Killingly, a daughter of Allen and Laura P. Ecule Fogg. She had lived all of her life within the limits of the town of Killingly. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. William M. Franklin; a son, Claude A. Chase; a sister, Mrs. Ida E. White, and three grandchildren, Vera, Elsie and Joyce Franklin, all of Danielson.

NO. GROSVENORDALE

The seniors of T. M. H. S. held their farewell dance Friday in the school hall. The proceeds will be added to the Washington trip fund. The dance was a big success. Music was furnished by Harry Bovia's orchestra.

Thompson basketball team, playing under the colors of Auger and Reynolds, defeated the Lucky Dog five, Friday 26-22. This is the first defeat handed the Lucky Dogs in 18 starts. Two former Tourtellotte stars played on opposing teams, Canty last year's basketball captain of the T. M. H. S. played for the Lucky Dogs, while his T. M. H. S. teammate, Bousquet, usually referred to as "the human dynamo' 'played for Thompson. The lineups:

Thompson: Lf, Bousquet; rf, Auger; c, Foskett; rg, Ryan; lg, Vito. Lucky Dogs: Rf, Canty; lf, Love; c, Haggerty; rg, Steele; lg, Waldron.

HANOVER

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Park, Mrs. Angus Park, Mrs. Roger C. Peck, and Misses Margaret and Helen Eadie drove to Hartford Sunday afternoon, the 16th, meeting relatives from Glastonbury and Dayville, in order to listen to the musical entertainment given there in the series of Sunday afternoon musicals.

A community gathering was held in the Parish house Wednesday evening, with community singing led by William G. Park, piano playing by Miss Florence Buck of Stonington, and an adress by Miss Laura Parker of Califon, New Jersey. Miss Parker represents the national society for the assistance of migratory children; they, who with their parents in Gypsy fashion follow the harvest of cotton, cantaloups, berries, oranges, grapes, and many other of the productions of this large country in the south and west, according to the season, with little or no means of securing an education. There are about two millions of them, and several states, notably Oregon and California, have cooperated with the society in furnishing school privileges for them during the periods in which they are camping within their borders.

Mrs. Webster Standish spent the week in New London at the home of Dr. Douglass.

Raymond Allen is the first to report a hatch of incubator chicks. They came immediately after the cold snap of Sunday and Monday, about four hundred and sixty of them, all bright, lively, and noisy.

During Sunday, the preaching service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Dwight C. Stone at 10.45 a. m. Church school at 12 m. and the Young People's meeting at 6.30 p. m.

PUTNAM

MURDERED WOMAN FOUND ON PUTNAM-WEBSTER ROAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 23.—Mrs. Cecilia Manski Trudeau, 24, of Lake street, Webster, Mass., was found murdered on the Webster-Putnam road at 6:30 this morning.

The body of the young matron was found by Joseph Choriere, a Webster milk man, as he was returning to Webster after delivering milk to homes bordering on the Connecticut line. The body of Mrs. Trudeau was lying on the side of the road face down and half concealed by a dense fog which prevailed. The object attracted the attention of the milk man and after an investigation he discovered it to be the body of a woman. Word was sent to Webster police headquarters and two officers and Dr. Plouffe, a Webster physician, were sent to the scene. Examination of the body showed the girl to have been involved in a struggle with her assassin. Her arms were blackened from severe blows, her expensive clothes were badly torn and her stockings were partially removed. Death was caused by strangling. This was evidenced by reddened patches of skin about the young woman's throat.

Police were unable to ascertain the length of time Mrs. Trudeau had been dead. Every effort was made to gather information from residents living in the vicinity where the body was to be found, but according to Chief James H. Hetherman of the Webster police, no one heard any screams, which purports to substantiate the theory held by police that the victim was abducted, and carried to the lonely spot on the highway near the Massachusetts and Connecticut state lines, eight miles north of here, where the ghastly act was committed. When a check-up of circumstances at the scene of the finding of the body failed to bring information of an unusual happening taking place between 10 o'clock Saturday evening and 6 o'clock this morning, police shifted the course of investigation to Worcester, where Joseph Trudeau, estranged husband of the murdered woman, was taken into custody and questioned as to his whereabouts yesterday.

Chief Hetherman said today that suspicions were focused on Trudeau through a report received from the mistress of a rooming house on Lake street in Worcester, where Mrs. Trudeau resided. According to the story, Trudeau is alleged to have called his wife by telephone last Sunday evening, threatening death unless she consented to meet him at a time to be fixed by him and "go out for a good time." The rooming house keeper informed police that she overheard the conversation between Trudeau and his wife and that Mrs. Trudeau refused the invitation, cutting short the talk by hanging up the receiver of the telephone in a fit of anger.

Following the report of Dr. Plouffe that Mrs. Trudeau had been dead several hours previous to the discovery of her body, police put forth a second theory that she had been kidnaped, murdered and her body tossed from a speeding automobile at the desolate spot on the Putnam-Webster road.

State police were called in late this afternoon to assist in the investigation. In an effort to learn of Mrs. Trudeau's whereabouts last night, it was revealed that she left her residence at 6 o'clock Saturday evening for an appointment with a hair-dresser. After having her hair dressed she left the beauty parlors and was last seen walking down Main street in Worcester at 8 o'clock. Chief Hetherman said that the woman was unescorted.

A thorough investigation to uncover the identity of the murderer is now in progress. Medical examiners from Southbridge were summoned and an autopsy on the body was performed. The report of the physicians at a late hour tonight had not been filed with police, but it was expected that it would be homicide.

Superior court will reconvene in this city Tuesday morning, Feb. 25, at 10 o'clock with Judge John Rufus Booth of New Haven presiding. The session is expected to be lengthy, as civil and criminal matters are slated to come up for trial. The criminal session will follow the civil cases. The majority of criminal cases are made up of liquor law violators arrested two weeks ago in a series of raids conducted by state and county officers. All violators to appear in court Tuesday have elected trial by jury.

Preceding the criminal session will be a short calendar consisting of seven cases and three uncontested suits for divorce. Parties seeking legal separation are: Margaret Russo vs. Joseph Russo; James W. Baker vs. Ina A. Baker; Anna L. Morse vs. George W. Morse.

A trial list for assignment was prepared Saturday by Curtis Dean, clerk of court, and is made up of the following cases to be assigned by Judge Booth during Tuesday's sessions: James F. Morse & Co. vs. Reliable Grain Co.; Max Lehrman vs. Sadie Rosenthal, et al.; Town of Plainfield vs. Harry Green; Pauline Piscitello vs. Martin Bilzniak and Frances Bilzniak; Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. vs. John Chrasz; J. Frank Dee, et al., vs. Camp Lincoln, Inc. Jury cases: Interstate Trucking Co. vs. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co.; Ella B. Welch vs. The Gulf Refining Co.; Robert G. Smith and Emma A. Smith, appeal from Commissioner on Estate Hannah F. Smith.

Funeral services for John T. Adams of Quadic were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of his sister, Ann L. Adams, in Quadic. The service, conducted by Rev. Mr. Lyons, pastor of the Methodist church in East Thompson, was largely attended. Burial was in the Munyan cemetery in East Thompson. The committal exercises at the grave were in charge of Rev. Mr. Lyons.

John T. Adams, a veteran of the Civil war, died Friday at his home in Quadic. He had been a resident there for many years. He was born in Foster, R. I., on Dec. 24, 1845. At the outbreak of the Civil war, Mr. Adams enlisted in the 18th regiment of Connecticut volunteers. During the first years of the war the 18th Connecticut saw service in many of the important Union offensives. Mr. Adams was mustered out of service in 1865, possessing a brilliant service record of which he was justly proud. His death removes another member from the ever-thinning ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic, of which only eight members residing in this city are left.

Judge M. H. Geissler, William P. Warren and Frank T. Stanton of this city were in Boston yesterday, attending the annual championship tournament of New England checker players, which was played at the American House there.

William Remillard of Gilman street returned here Friday after a week's visit with friends in Hartford.

Edward Keefe of New Haven spent Sunday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Keefe, of Ring street.

Officer Joseph Page of the local police returned to duty today after a week's illness.

Former Sergeant of Police George H. Liard has been commissioned a game warden for Windham county.

A Judgment given Saturday by Judge John Rufus Booth of New Haven, in the case of the Rhode Island Motor Co. vs. Robert Diamond, which was tried in superior court in this city last week, was for the plaintiff concern, who according to terms of the court, will recover a Chrysler automobile now in possession of Diamond. The Providence company alleged that Diamond purchased the car from a salesman of the concern unauthorized to negotiate the sale. Attorney Irving H. Miron of this city was counsel for the motor company in their suit against the Putnam man. Prosecuting Attorney Eric H. Johnson represented Diamond.

Under terms of the judgment, Diamond stands the loss of the car, besides money which he gave to obtain it in the course of the deal.

Mrs. Anna Gleezen of Providence, R. I., a relative of Charles Swain of Pomfret, was taken suddenly ill Friday evening while on a shopping tour in a Main street store. She was removed to the Day Kimball hospital for medical attention. Mrs. Gleezen was reported this afternoon to have been discharged Saturday morning in an improved condition. It was said that she suffered a slight shock.

Mrs. Dorothy Steere of South Main street is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital.

John Rooney, for many years a resident of the town of Pomfret and well known in this city, died Saturday at his home following a prolonged illness. Mr. Rooney's obituary appears this morning in the Danielson column of The Bulletin.

The beautiful four-story structure now being completed on the corner of Main and Pomfret streets, soon to be occupied by Montgomery Ward & Co., will be one of the most modern types of business blocks. Charles A. Seder, local realtor, is erecting the block. Work on the exterior, with the exception of the Main street facade, has been completed.

Misses Grace R. Murphy, Mary Hennessey, Mollie E. Noonan and Katherine McCarty of Northampton, Mass. were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bulger of Farrows street, Sunday.

STRUCK WHILE WALKING ON HIGHWAY
D. P. KILLOUREY FATALLY INJURED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 23.—Daniel P. Killourey, 30, of 280 Jackson street, was instantly killed about 6.50 o'clock this evening, when struck by a Nash sedan operated by Arthur J. Kenney, an insurance adjuster, of 148 Second street, Steward Manor, Long Island, as he was walking toward this city on the North Windham road opposite the entrance to St. Joseph's cemetery. Kenney, whose car was descending a grade at the time, said that he was meeting a New England Transportation company bus headed in the opposite direction and in the blur of the lights he did not see Killourey until the moment of the impact. Unaware of what his car had struck, Kenney, who was accompanied by his wife, Mildred Kenney, turned his car about and discovered that it was the body of a man.

Word was quickly sent to police headquarters and Officer John Killourey, brother of the deceased, and Arthur Hurley went to the scene in the police car. The investigation was later turned over to Officers Hurley and Roderick Lariviere. Killourey was accompanied by his pet terrier, Peggy, who has been his faithful companion for a number of years. Peggy had to be removed from the scene of the body on two occasions, having returned afoot from the home in this city to the scene of the accident.

A few minutes after the accident the man was pronounced dead by Dr. C. R. Sanduili of Waterbury, who happened to be passing. Dr. Michael D. Riordan, of this city, later confirmed this.

The police were unable to locate Medical Examiner Dr. Louis I. Mason and secured permission from Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson to remove the body to Killourey Brothers' undertaking parlors. Coroner Bill stated that he would conduct the inquest in this city at 10 o'clock Monday forenoon.

The police learned later that the driver of the bus in question was E. J. Smith. Kenney was placed under arrest on a technical charge of manslaughter and was released under bonds of $1,000 furnished by George S. Elliott of this city.

Daniel P. Killourey was born in this city, a son of the late Chief of Police and Mrs. Daniel J. Killourey. He is survived by one brother, John Killourey, one uncle, Thomas J. Killourey, and several cousins, including Thomas H. Killourey of this city.

Mr. Killourey had been connected with his father and brother for a number of years in conducting Lakeside Casino at South Coventry Lake. The late Chief Killourey died suddenly last July.

WESTERLY

VARS STORE, BRADFORD, ENTERED SATURDAY NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Feb. 23. — The Vars store at Bradford, managed by Joseph Monti and in which is located the Bradford post office, was entered some time between 10 p. m. Saturday and 8 a. m. Sunday and a small sum of money was discovered missing from the post office and a number of watches, jackknives, also candy and ice cream were stolen from the drug store. The break was discovered by Mr. Monti at 8:15 o'clock Sunday morning, when he went to open the drug store for the day. He notified the Westerly police and Chief Thomas E. Brown and Officer Robert Kessel went to Bradford to investigate the break and theft. A pane of glass, 14 by 31, was found broken out of one of the windows of the post office. The police found a large stone inside the building which they believed was used to break the glass. There was no evidence of the outside doors to the building being disturbed, and it is believed that it was the work of boys, who entered from the open sash in the window. One dollar in pennies was stolen from the post office. The latch on the door between the post office and the drug store was broken, so that an entrance might be gained to the latter place. Mr. Monti reported 40 Remington jackknives, four Elm City $1 watches, two Tip Top wrist watches, a considerable amount of candy in bulk and ice cream missing.

GUESTS CAME IN COSTUME TO S. D. B. SOCIETY PARTY

The members of the S. D. B. society of the Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church, Miss Rachel E. Mrs. William Bendett and Paul Conant won high prizes in straight whist and Mrs. Sophie Tyler and John Panciera were given low. Mrs. Maurice Powers and Howard Barstow had high scores in bridge whist and Mrs. Roy Haggard and Harry Myers won the second prizes. Sandwiches and coffee were served.

Melvin Gilleny, the bus driver who was injured so seriously in the three-car accident recently on the Groton road, near Pollack's mill, has regained consciousness, but is still in a serious condition, at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, New London.

The February meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of the West Mystic school was held in the schoolhouse during the week, with the president, Mrs. Alice Gildersleeve, in charge. It was voted to hold an elimination bridge tournament later, and Edgar Collington was named on the committee. A committee was chosen to purchase kitchen equipment. The entertainment committee for March chosen was Mrs. John Niven, Mrs. Adelaide Griswold, Mrs. Mary Allyn and Mrs. Minnie Miner. Following the business of the evening, the following program was given: Piano and violin duet, Margaret Van Pelt and Ruth Klein; a piano selection by Arlene Leonard. The speaker was Lieut. Gov. Ernest E. Rogers, whose subject was Education in Connecticut, a talk which proved most interesting. Refreshments and a social time followed.

Pupils in the town of Stonington are having a week's vacation from their studies. Schools in the town of Groton will have their vacation next week.

Was Former Local Pastor

Word was received in the village, Saturday, of the death of Rev. Charles A. Leddy, 68, pastor of St. Peter's Roman Catholic church of Bridgeport. His death occurred in St. Vincent's hospital Friday night, following several weeks' illness. He suffered a heart attack and when pleurisy developed Saturday, Feb. 15, he was removed to the hospital. He had been a priest for 39 years and among the churches he had served was St. Patrick's church of Mystic. While here, he made many friends who learned of his death with sorrow.

NOANK

Plans are being made by Liberty council, Daughters of America and Washington council, Junior O. U. A. M., to have a pinochle and whist party, the third in a series of six card parties. The holder of highest scores at the end of the series is to be awarded a gold piece. The committee in charge is Mrs. [illegible] [illegible]. Mrs. Mae Oles, Mrs. Grace Bentley and Miss Carolone Sistare.

Walter MacDonald was a recent caller on friends in Baltic.

Mrs. William Cunningham has returned after spending several months with relatives in Paterson, N. J., and Long Island.

Mrs. Elmer Branch and children of West Mystic, have been visiting Mrs. Branch's mother, Mrs. Annie Tooker.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Rodd, of Waverly, Mass., announced the engagement of their daughter, Thelma, to Sydney Butson of the village. Miss Rodd is a graduate of Belmont high school, class of 1926, and is employed by the John Hancock Insurance Co. Miss Rodd is well known here, having spent several summers here. No date has been set for the wedding.

Keith Ebbetts has returned to New York after spending a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ebbetts.

The Men's guild of the Baptist church gave a supper in the vestry Friday at 6.30, which was well attended. Clam chowder, clam fritters, chicken pie, chicken salad, rolls, apple pie, ice cream and coffee were on the menu. After the supper Deacon Roswell Sawyer gave an interesting talk on Noank of Long Ago. A musical program was enjoyed also. The proceeds of the supper will be used for the improvement of the church grounds.

Liberty council, Daughters of America gave a delightful entertainment in their hall Friday evening. The play was "Truth For a Day," and the members of the society make up the cast. The affair was largely attended. The characters were: Rhoda Rollins, a goody good, Mrs. Laura Hodgson; Belle Black, a scrapper, Mrs. Abby Brooks; Louise Lane, a peacemaker, Mrs. Helen Brown; Clara Cottrell, a bragger, Mrs. Dorothy Bishop; Cynthia Sears, ringleader, Mrs. Whilhemenia MacMacDonald, Miss Miss Mudi, teacher, Mrs. Esther Andrews. Several orchestra selections were rendered and also the male quartet sang several songs.

Washington's birthday in the village, the post office observed holiday hours. At the Noank grammar school patriotic exercises were held Friday afternoon in observance of Washington's birthday.

Winifred R. Burrows, daughter of Mrs. Martha M. Tryon, of Elm street, and Stephen H. Norman, son of Mrs. Phoebe Norman, of Gales Ferry, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's mother Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, by Rev. Ernest S. Weise, pastor of the Baptist church. Only the members of the two families were present. Mr. and Mrs Norman left on a motor trip and will reside on Elm street.

Duncan MacDonald of East Greenwich, spent the week end at his home on Chesebro avenue.

STONINGTON

The Stonington Rifle club held a meeting in the Mirror office Sunday afternoon. Reports on committees in relation to the shooting ranges were heard.

Stonington postoffice is being renovated under the supervision of Postmaster Jerome S. Anderson.

The schools of the town closed Friday for a vacation of a week and will resume sessions Monday, March 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Pierce have returned from a visit of several weeks in Bermuda.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant V. Kenyon entertained at whist at their newly furnished apartment on Elm street Friday evening. Three tables were played, the prizes going to Mrs. Alvah Lewis, Frederick James and Mrs. L. B. Ledward. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Rossi and Lewis, surveyors from Westerly, have been surveying the land on Elm street owned by Mr. and Mrs. Irving Rowe, adjoining the Town hall property, where it is expected a home will be erected. Mr. Rowe is in charge of the drafting department of the Atwood Machine company plant here.

George S. Moshier, who died in Waterford last Monday, was a brother of Mrs. Susan Cassedy of Stonington. Mr. Moshier was born in Stonington, July 28, 1844, son of Elisha and Cordelia Franklin Moshier. Funeral services were held Thursday in Waterford.

At a special meeting of the selectmen in the town hall this (Monday) evening, the board will call a town meeting for the purpose of levying a tax on the recent assessment. The selectmen held a special meeting Thursday, when bids were opened for the proposed changes in West Broad street. Two of the bids, one from a prominent New London contracting firm and the other from a Westerly concern, contained about the same figures and because of the slight difference the selectmen deferred action until this Monday night, at which time they will again convene. All bids received were well within the appropriation of the $8,000 mark.

Mrs. A. E. M. Paff visited here over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Kenyon are entertaining their son, Cyril, of Springfield, Mass.

JEWETT CITY

CATHERINE DUGGAN STRUCK BY PROULX AUTO SUNDAY EVE.

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 23—Catherine Duggan, 7, was struck by an automobile being driven by Wilfred Proulx, of 19 Carely avenue, and was later taken to the Backus hospital in Norwich with a probable broken leg, by Dr. George H. Jennings, after he had made the child as comfortable as possible. At the hospital an X-ray is to be taken to determine the extent of the fracture. The accident happened early Sunday evening on Ashland street, near the mill. Proulx told Officer Henry Vegiard that he was driving only 20 miles an hour and that a number of children ran across the street ahead of the machine. He claimed he tried to stop and skidded with the machine out of control. The patrolman found by actual measurement that the car skidded 78 feet and six inches. Witnesses told the officer that the Duggan child was on the sidewalk when she was struck. Proulx was ordered to appear in court on a reckless driving charge, it appearing to the officer that 20 miles per hour hardly agrees with the distance the car skidded over a dry road with the wheels locked by the brakes.

REV. ALBERT CLEMENT, 86, PREACHES TWICE BIRTHDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 23—Rev. Albert Clement celebrated his 86th birthday Sunday, in a manner which few are able to do. Early in the forenoon he preached at Voluntown Baptist church. At eleven o'clock at the Jewett City Baptist church, Mr. Clement, was again in the pulpit, and delivered a fine address, filled with latter day Christian facts, from modern viewpoints and of worthwhile advice. A large audience gave the aged preacher their undivided attention, as he related stories and incidents of his early life, filled with items of interest and profit.

Without a note of any sort, he held strictly to his subject. He said that the word "Come" appeared in the Bible 648 times; some of these instances he quoted, with every indication that he was perfectly able to recall the entire list.

Mr. Clement was born in Thornton, N. H., Feb. 23, 1844, and passed his boyhood fairly in the shadow of the great white hills. He said that at six years of age, in the Christian home where he was reared, he was given the Bible to study, and at the age of eight, he had completed its first reading, adding that he had often been called the "Walking Bible." All through a long life, Mr. Clement, not ordained until he was 56, has been a lay preacher, his sole permanent pastorate being that of a New Hampshire Free Will Baptist church. Those who saw him in the two pulpits today, and heard the clear cut setting forth of what he believed to be the only objectives worthwhile, expressed their conviction that the venerable minister must have inherited something of the rugged makeup of the granite hills under whose shadow he was born. Rev. E. E. Scates is the pastor of these two churches, and invited his aged friend to thus celebrate his birthday.

Sunday completed a string of four late April days. Hardly any of the usual spring harbingers were lacking, for there were pussy-willows, blue birds and robins. Dr. F. D. Browning, the largest peach grower in New London county, said Sunday, that a decided swelling of buds was to be noted under the influence of the warm sun, which has shone since Thursday, running the temperature up Friday to 69 degrees. There is some apprehension about what another week might do. No weather records of recent date, show such sharp temperature variations as were noted in this zone last week. From 12 below Monday morning Feb. 17 to 69 above Friday noon.

Heard Norwich Speaker

A young folks' social was held in the Baptist vestry Friday evening. About thirty were in attendance. The committees in charge of the arrangements were: Refreshments, John Harris, Jr., Ray Perry, Wm. Brewster and Mildred Gilbert. Music and speakers, John MacLean, Rev. 7. E. Scates and Arthur Tripp, Jr. Games, Arthur Gray, Rollin Tripp, Florence Bliven and Ruth Cathcart. A pleasant evening was spent with songs and games, Rev. Percy Kilmister of Norwich was listened to as he spoke of "Friendship, Patriotism and Home." Sandwiches, cake and cocoa were served. Wm. Perry assisted in preparing the cocoa, and Mrs. G. H. Prior in planning the social. Many of those present expressed themselves as favorable to forming permanent junior and senior young people's societies.

The Friday scores made at the weekly play of the Borough Pinochle club are: Chester L. Dudkowski 9140, Walter A. Field 6285, Stanley H. Winroth 7196, Wilfred LeClaire 7575, Clovis Casavant 9265, Francis McLaughlin 7015, Velo Sharkey 7570, Eugene J. Carroll 7740, Frank McCarthy 8175, Tony Lamarine 8866, Dr. George H. Jennings 8490, Dennis Sullivan 3385, John B. LeClaire 9390, Eudor LeClaire 7650, Fred Condie 9615, James H. Shea 8085, H. Popham 8960, Charles Maynard 7475, Mose Loranger [illegible].

Mr. Condie cleaned the board with the high score of 9615.

Supt. Chester L. Howe, his wife and daughter, left Sunday to spend a week in Atlantic City, where the National Educational association of superintendents is to be in session.

Griswold, in common with all other towns in the county, feels a keen sense of loss in the death of High Sheriff Sidney A. Brown in New London. His wife's family having lived here at one time, with relatives still living in the town, he often visited here, and was especially interested in the welfare of the town. He was a man whose career was without blemish, who was always ready to lend a helping hand and whose word was as good as a bond His wife has the deep sympathy of hosts of friends here in this [illegible] bereavement.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Adelard Benoit

The funeral of Mrs. Adelard Benoit was held Saturday morning from the home of her sister Mrs. Clara Gronier, on Mechanic street. Requiem high mass was sung by Rev. J. J. McCabe at St. Mary's church. Bayer Tablets Aspirin

Needless Pain!

The man who wouldn't drive his motorcar half a mile when it's out of order, will often drive his brain all day with a head that's throbbing.

Such punishment isn't very good for one's nerves! It's unwise, and it's unnecessary. A tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin will relieve a headache every time. So, remember this accepted antidote for pain, and spare yourself a lot of needless suffering. Read the proven directions and you'll discover many valuable uses for these tablets. For headaches; to check colds. To ease a sore throat and reduce the infection. For relieving neuralgic, neuritic, rheumatic pain.

People used to wonder if Bayer Aspirin was harmful. The doctors answered that question years ago. It is not. Some folks still wonder if it really does relieve pain. That's settled! For millions of men and women have found it does. To cure the cause of any pain you must consult your doctor; but you may always turn to Bayer Aspirin for immediate relief.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

"The Finest Fancy Work I Ever Saw"

This and other expressions of admiration are volunteered by many women who have seen the exhibit of fancy work collected for the Red Arrow prize awards.

The fancy work is now on display in the big double windows of the SILBERMAN FURNITURE CO., and is attracting widespread attention.

One lady brought in 113 pieces—imagine the hours and hours of work involved to turn out 113 pieces of fancy work!

A notable part of the exhibit is the collection from the Baltic academy.

Whoever said needlework was dying out has another think coming.

So long as women have the talent, artistry, patience and skill to produce such work, so long is the great American home our BULWARK FOR FUTURE YEARS OF HAPPINESS.

The exhibit is an acknowledged tribute to the super-ability of Norwich women in the line of fancy work—and their chief reward is PRIDE OF ACHIEVEMENT.

The Boston store takes this means of extending HEARTIEST CONGRATULATIONS to the lady exhibitors, and the Red Arrow Club.

Window exhibit will remain until [illegible], after which prizes will be announced.

THE COALITION JOKE

One of the ridiculous pleas that has been made in connection with the tariff situation in the senate is that no one knows how the president stands in regard to the tariff.

That is, of course, all froth. The president set forth his position in regard to tariff revision before he called the special session and he has repeated his position since then, so that it is perfectly evident what his views are.

Those who plead that his position is uncertain are those who are members of the coalition who are doing everything possible to emabarrass the administration. Thus when they say they do not know how the president stands it is simply another way of saying that they do not care.

If it were so that the president was disposed to put down on paper just what changes should be made in the tariff rates, and set them forth in detail, it can be readily appreciated what a howl would go up from those very ones who are now claiming that they do not know his view and are trying to create the impression, through alligator tears, that they really would be guided thereby if they did know.

If they were anxious to meet the wishes of the president there have been countless instances for them to display it, both during the special and the regular sessions of congress. That they want to know his attitude simply for the purpose of taking a contrary stand has been repeatedly demonstrated. When he has urged quick action in regard to any matter, they have proceeded to make all kinds of excuses for delay. When he has urged legislation, it has been their cue to see that it was disapproved. When he has made appointments, and particularly where men of the highest merit were named, they have fought them tooth and nail.

To think that they would take any different course than they have concerning the tariff if the president had been any more explicit is out of the question, barring the certainty that should the president do anything of the kind it would be pounced upon by that combination as an attempt to dictate to the senate and a new issue would immediately be raised. It is the greatest joke in the country to think that the coalition is anxious to help the president and has been floundering about in its backward course simply because it wasn't known what the president wanted.

SIDNEY A. BROWN

If we can judge by the support given him at election time, New London county had no more popular political leader for a good many years than Sidney A. Brown. That was not only because of the highly efficient manner in which he administered the duties of high sheriff, but because of the man. It is a long period of time for an official to hold such an important office, for 25 years, against all opponents and against all the uncertainties of politics, but that was the record of Sheriff Brown, and had death not intervened there would have been no interruption in that service for years to come. New London county had repeatedly indicated its entire satisfaction over his services, but in addition to that it was a decided tribute to his political sagacity, his attractive personality and his interest in his fellow men that he was repeatedly chosen to succeed himself. He was recognized for his many excellent traits far beyond New London county.

Sheriff Brown was a man of widespread friendships. He knew how to make friends and he knew how to keep them. He inspired confidence by his faithful administration of duties and at no time could it be said that he was other than an upright, conscientious and public-spirited official and citizen. His idea of fairness was constantly demonstrated to the unfortunate as well as to the public and by his death there has been removed a citizen of this county who will be sincerely missed. He has left an impression and a record as friend, individual and official that will not be quickly forgotten.

PROTECTING OUR SHIPS

Much importance is attached by this country to the American merchant marine. It was the subject of much criticism when American shipping was allowed to decline until it had nearly disappeared from the high seas. The demands for an American merchant marine were met to a large degree because of the need for ships created by the war. After the struggle the problem was to make use of as many as possible, and that effort is still underway.

American shipping has regained much ground. It is gradually being turned back into private hands by the government, and now the plea is being made that it should be properly protected against unfair competition. This note has been sounded by Chairman White of the house merchant marine committee, who pointed out the necessity of government relief for American vessels if the present methods of certain other governments are continued.

It is well understood that American shipping labors under a serious enough handicap from the laws of this country, which are more burdensome to ship owners than those of other countries, but when it is pointed out that Great Britain and Canada are giving a discount of 10 per cent on tariff duties when goods enter Canada through a Canadian sea or river port it means that such transportation is to be furnished by Canadian or British bottoms. This is the matter which Chairman White emphasizes and in order to meet it he proposes that this country impose a tax of 10 per cent against all goods entering this country through Canadian ports and the tax continue as long as the Canadian arrangement exists.

Frequently pleas are made that shippers in this country make full use of American vessels, but no discrimination against foreign vessels is made. It is not the desire that such a fight be made at this time but it is proposed in justice to American ship owners because of methods which have been adopted by the others. It is quite evident that American shipping cannot be expected to survive, to say nothing of increasing, under such conditions and in the interest of our merchant marine it is only fair that it should be given a chance to compete with the others.

INFLUENCING THE CONFERENCE

Although the failure of the Tardieu government in France to get a vote of confidence was on a matter entirely foreign to the London conference or the naval policy of France, it was, nevertheless, a sufficient reason for creating much uncertainty in London. It even caused the conference to take a week's recess until it could be determined whether the policy toward the conference was going to be the same or to be shape on new lines.

With the organization of the Chautemps cabinet, the announcement is made that no change in regard to the French policy will be made. Tardieu will not be at London to continue or change his attitude, but the new government gives recognition to the policy which has been set forth. That means that the conference will not have to go all over the ground again in order to learn what France wants, although it will still have the opportunity to use its influence in bringing about any modifications which it desires. The choice of Briand places a more prominent figure at the head of the French delegation.

But with a new cabinet in France the conference is also interested in the outcome of the election in Japan. There the party represented by the head of the Japanese delegation has strengthened its position and it is not improbable that it will mean a willingness on the part of the Japanese delegation to modify its ratio demands concerning naval strength.

No one can tell how long the Chautemps government will continue in power. The indications are not good for a long control but it may survive the time required for the conference to determine whether it is going to accomplish anything or is going to be forced to adjourn without reaching its goal.

Whatever contributes to the belief that a solution of the problems can be found is heartily welcomed. If the Japanese are ready to announce a change, or when they are, it will mean the elimination of one obstacle and if France can be made to understand the help it can contribute through modification powerful aid will be contributed toward the desired end.

FORT SHANTOK PARK

That Fort Shantok on the Thames river in the town of Montville has been acquired and made a part of the Fort Shantok state park is the cause for much satisfaction in this part of the state. This means the preservation of an additional bit of territory in that section which figured prominently in the Indian history of this locality. The new acquisition of 30 acres and the total 160 acres do not cover all the stamping grounds of the Indians in Montville, but it includes an important section that was available for park purposes. It is not only rich in Indian lore but it affords one of the delightful views down the river which Uncas is claimed to have made constant use of in watching for the approach of friend or foe by water from the south.

Now that this additional piece of land has been acquired by the State Park and Forest commission, a member of which is Arthur L. Peale of this city whose influence had much to do with the establishment of this park, further recognition has been given to the preservation of natural beauty spots and historical places in the eastern end of the state, and it is to be hoped that additional efforts in this direction will be made as opportunity and funds permit.

With this increase in the size of Fort Shantok park and the consequent increase in the interest that will follow, it is to be hoped that adequate highway provisions will be arranged by the commission and the town to properly accommodate those who are attracted to such places. Many are the visitors to the state parks, but there are certain of them which would receive many more, and receive them oftener, if the highway conditions were improved. This is a matter which may adjust itself in time but it is of so much importance in making the parks available after being acquired that it not to be overlooked. Poor roads do much to keep visitors away from places where they want to and where they ought to go.

The money that will help it out of the hole is called the Liberty loan by Chicago. Freely come, freely go.

It seems a bit strange that Senator Norris didn't try to block the foundation of the new French cabinet.

With the auto manufacturers preparing to spend $15,000,000 to scrap worn out machines there may be a chance to get rid of the old boat.

SENSIBLE—LIKE A HORSE

"Uncle Dallas, you ought to own a car." Marge sprung it at the breakfast table like a brand new thought, born with today's sun. Her eyes were guiltless as they met those of her western uncle across the table. But the expression on Ralph's face told of intrigue afoot and dark plottings between the innocent Marge and her serious-minded young husband, just reaching for a toe hold in the auto-selling world.

Uncle Dallas leaned comfortably back in his chair and basked in the civilized amplitude of a midwest breakfast hour.

"Nope," he drawled. "I couldn't yews a cyar myself. I'm a horse man. If I could find a cyar that was sensible, now, like a horse—"

Millionaires can afford to have funny notions like that, of course. But Ralph, being a salesman, had small patience with eccentricities, even high-priced ones.

"I've got the slickest little car you ever saw, uncle. You'd be crazy about it—the kind of car men walk around and look at on the street. Sleek as a whistle—fast as the wind. Long wheel base—big wheels—low and swagger. You would knock the west dead with it. And power—say, there isn't a hill in Texas you couldn't climb." Uncle Dallas grinned.

"Don't really need a hill-climbin' cyar, son. What I need as a—well, a kind of a pole cyar, I guess. One that would have sense enough to set back on its haunches when it felt me lift my arm to throw a rope."

Nevertheless, when, just at sundown, Ralph pulled up before the house in the low-swung maroon roadster, Uncle Dallas meekly donned his ten-gallon hat and looped his length in the shallow seat beside Ralph and Marge.

His eyes took in the cool gleam of chromium plating, the sleekly sloping sides, the long nose, the wide spread of fenders over great powerful wheels. And then he lost interest in car and scenery in the business of clinging valiantly to his ten-gallon hat with both hands.

"Let's go up into Galloway," urged Marge, who loved riding for riding's sake.

"It's muddy," demurred Ralph.

"A good horse don't mind mud," panted Uncle Dallas. And with a sudden lift of his chin Ralph gave the wheel a sharp twist and swung the nose of the car into the Galloway road. Clouds racing across the sky brought early moonless night. It shut down upon them suddenly far up among the hills and almost at the same instant something deep within the car went "sstt" and the lights blinked out.

"Take the short cut down Yarrow hill and through the meadows," suggested Marge. "It is some lighter there and we can yell when we hear cars coming."

"You won't hear cars on that forsaken road," muttered Ralph, his knuckles hard and white on the wheel as they coasted down the long, steep grade. He knew he was courting death at every turn of the wheels.

Around the last curve and on to the meadow road they went, pitch blackness curtaining them in on every side till Ralph was finding the road by feel. Suddenly, sickeningly, he knew that there was no longer road under him. The car lurched a few feet and stopped. He stepped on the starter and listened to its spin. He got out and tinkered with the engine. Coming back, he settled low under the wheel. "Fold up, fellow passengers. Here is where we spend the night, unless you care to walk," he said.

Ralph pulled his cap low over his head, gave Marge a shoulder to pillow on and closed his eyes resignedly. Another sale gone blooey—a guy might as well lie down beside the field of defeat and get himself a night's sleep. Uncle Dallas reluctantly laid aside the ten-gallon hat and the three settled themselves into silence.

Dawn had spread wide across the sky when Ralph awoke. But it was the voice of Uncle Dallas—not morning—that wakened him. Uncle Dallas was out beside the car, hunched over a little as in wonderment—staring down at something just beyond its long nose. And muttering things.

"Well, I'll be darned. How do you suppose that ever happened?" Ralph and Marge scrambled out and took a look. And drew back, hearts still. The front wheels were resting on the crumbling edge of an embankment. Twenty feet below muddy water bubbled in the chasm.

"A horse," muttered Uncle Dallas, "a horse would have sense like that." Slowly he rubbed his chin. "I always said if I could find a cyar that had as much sense as a horse—say, Ralph, do you know what? I'd like to buy this little cyar."—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—Here is a new way to compare the output of congress and the English parliament.

It was devised by Representative Robert Luce of Massachusetts. Luce, in addition to running a press clipping bureau and having had nearly 30 years state and national political experience, is author of several books on legislative methods.

In a period during 1928-29, Mr. Luce found, parliament put through two pounds and fourteen ounces of laws, while in approximately the same period congress enacted legislation weighing eight pounds, eight ounces.

Lost

But there is more to Luce's notion of comparison than that.

Luce is a student of such things and finds that congress is becoming lost in a mire of bills, and what not, while parliament has evaded that by delegating authority to executive agencies.

Committees of the house of the 65th congress reported out 900 bills for action. Ten years later, in the 70th congress, the committee output was 2,625 bills, a threefold expansion.

"And not one in ten of those bills belonged in congress," Luce said. "Our time is consumed with little We are so burdened with this multitude of trivialities and administrative detail that we are almost deprived of the chance of discussing great policies."

That parliamentary two pounds, fourteen ounces of laws, Luce figured, contained just 39 public acts, while in the similar compilation for the 70th congress there were 715 separate chapters.

What started it was the tariff. Both Luce and Wallace Davenport of New York urged recasting the Tariff Commission to give it, with the president, a degree of delegated legislative power, subject to congressional veto.

It was by such means, Luce said, that parliament had contrived to confine itself to major policies in legislation, leaving details to departmental rules challengeable by parliament, but having the force of law unless thus overthrown."

(Applause)

"In forty years only 35 of nearly 4,000 provisional orders were rejected by parliament," he said, "less than one per cent."

Luce predicted that it would be fifteen months from its submission to the 71st congress before the tariff bill was enacted.

When a job like that went to a properly constituted commission, authorized to act quickly, he said, "we will have conferred a magnificent benefit upon industry, upon commerce, on the people as a whole and on ourselves in particular."

And the house not only listened attentively to both men, but applauded. Maybe they've started something.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Milk Situation

Mr. Editor: Will you kindly devote a small space in your paper to a matter which is of vital importance to every man, woman and child in the city of Norwich and to many people in the surrounding towns—the milk regulation which is before the mayor and common council of Norwich to be acted upon at their next council meeting. Now as I see the matter, it is entirely uncalled for as the Norwich milk supply is all produced in the nearby towns and delivered within a very few hours after being drawn from the cows. It is also uncalled for as the state is under the direction of the food and dairy commissioner whose inspectors came and inspect all places where milk is produced and sold. We seldom know when the inspector is coming. I have enclosed a score sheet used and filled in by the inspector which if thousands of Norwich milk consumers could see it would be a complete surprise to them to know that the state was taking so much interest in the production of their milk supply. Then your city milk inspector takes samples of the milk any time he sees fit which he sends to the state laboratory for analysis, the findings are returned to him. Then the inspector mails the report to the farmer the sample was taken from and therefore the inspector knows whether there is any objectionable milk coming into Norwich, so that it is well within his power to stop it. Now in regard to milk from tuberculin tested cows, I learn from good authority that the test could not be applied to anything like the number of cows in the vicinity of Norwich that will be applied for if the regulation is adopted. However, it is very fortunate for all of us that bovine tuberculosis does not seem to be nearly as dangerous as many people believe. Otherwise every farmer would die of the disease. These men would surely take it from the cattle. These men spend a lot of time caring and feeding them and many times a cow coughs in their face throwing saliva in their face, mouth and nostrils, which in turn gives off millions of bacteria to breathe into their system. I am unable to find that any more farmers have died of bovine tuberculosis than any other class of people. In fact, I do not believe that anyone has died in Norwich where the attending physician has given the cause of death as bovine tuberculosis. I am unable to believe there is any real protection by the tuberculin test.

This brings us down to pasteurized milk. I believe the primary motive was to add to the time milk could be kept. However few people seem to like it. I have members of my own family who use it but do not like it. However, good or bad, liked or not liked, the people of Norwich have in the past been able to buy their milk supply fresh and within a very few hours after milking and at a lower price than pasteurized milk which will be about a day older than it now is. The only little pasteurizing plant Norwich ever had has been sold at a receiver's sale at a loss because the price for milk was too low. Now I can hear hundreds of Norwich people saying, What can we do? Well, I will tell you what you can do. You can let your councilmen know whether you want to pay more for your milk supply or not. They are all good men and elected to office by yourselves and I firmly believe they will do as the majority of you wish. Now write them a letter in your own way, tell what you want and address it to the council chamber in care of the mayor. Don't growl and snarl and swear about it after. I feel quite sure the dairy commissioner has nothing to do with this affair, neither did he have with the same thing passed by other cities in the state.

THE OLD MILKMAN.

An Appreciation

Mr. Editor: May I ask the courtesy of your paper by which to express my thanks to the gentlemen concerned in giving us the opportunity of seeing the very clever and artistic work of the Jitney Players Friday evening? They are very much to be commended and I hope will feel encouraged to repeat the effort, in the not too distant future.

I was sorry to see so few young people present, since the occasion was of unusual educational value. I suggest that the managers of any future similar cultural programs, definitely plan to bring them to the attention of our schools, rural as well as city schools. My particular party of three young people, aged 9 to 12, were fascinated by their first experience of the theatre. They greatly enjoyed the comedy but were appreciative of the beauty, too, not even omitting to notice the impressive dignity of the building. My little 12-year-old guest who had seen in last Sunday's edition of the New York Times a picture of the ruins of the Parthenon, whispered to me: "It's a dreadful thing to destroy beautiful buildings." Probably no higher or more sincere compliment will ever be paid the builders of the Masonic temple in Norwich.

Norwich has reason to be proud of its beautiful new building, and of a group of citizens alive to the cultural needs of the community.

YOUR HEALTH

Don't Fear The Dentist

By William T. Born, D. D. S., Chicago.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Fear is one of our greatest enemies and is certainly the dentist's greatest problem in dealing with his patients. This may not be true of those who are accustomed to having the family dentist examine the teeth at regular intervals; but those who are not in the habit of going periodically to the dentist shudder at the thought of having some one tamper with these sensitive tissues, which have grown over-sensitive because of neglect.

This inherent fear of dental treatment is fast disappearing in the younger generation because the schools have clinics where medical and dental examinations are given, and children are becoming interested in the importance of the care of the mouth. Furthermore, the modern use of anaesthetics has done much to erase the fear of dental treatment. As a matter of fact, 90 per cent of all dental operations are done painlessly without the aid of anaesthetics other than suggestion. The other 10 per cent can be successfully controlled by nerve blocking with local anaesthetic.

Answers will be found on Classified Page

A child should first be taken to the dentist when he is three years old. It is hardly likely that the temporary teeth will be diseased, but they may be stained and discolored. If they are, the family dentist will examine and clean them. From that time on the child should be taken at regular intervals—never more than six months apart. If cavities are discovered and filled at the time they are just starting or while they are small, there will be no pain or discomfort. If this policy is pursued, the child will have confidence, and instead of dreading the ordeal will look forward to it, and take pride in his good teeth. He will soon form a habit of caring for his teeth and gums; the dentist will show him how to clean them and the child will never experience the pain and suffering that those who neglect their teeth have to undergo.

The average business man of today is so intensively interested in his work that he often neglects his own physical condition because he "cannot spare the time." He should of course take the short time necessary for a complete physical examination at least once a year, and this habit is becoming more and more common. The physician frequently is able to recognize symptoms of some disturbance long before the disease itself would appear and so save possibly weeks of valuable time as well as untold suffering. Dental examinations should be made at least twice a year. In the average case, where the patient is in good health and gives reasonable care to the cleanliness of his mouth, this is quite sufficient.

Modern dentistry is a health service which cannot be dispensed with. Periodic examinations and instructions from your dentist on how best you can cooperate with him in order to keep your teeth and the tissues of your mouth healthy will aid greatly in keeping you in the best possible physical condition.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 19

A loss in the sale of stock or bonds may not be deducted on account of anticipated profits that have not been realized. A dealer in securities, as defined by income-tax regulations, may use the inventory method to report income because the stocks and bonds held by him are not investments but comprise his stock in trade.

A taxpayer possessing stock of a corporation can not deduct from gross income any amount claimed as a loss merely on account of shrinkage in value of such stock on account of fluctuation of the market or otherwise. The loss allowable in such case is that actually suffered when the stock is disposed of.

A taxpayer, other than a dealer in securities, can not deduct any loss claimed to have been sustained from the sale of stock or securities, if within 30 days before or after such sale he has acquired (other than by bequest or inheritance) substantially identical property. This provision is designed to prevent a taxpayer, in computing net income, from claiming as a deduction a so-called "loss" sustained from a sale of securities, which is immediately followed or immediately preceded by a purchase of substantially identical securities.

Gain or loss, however, is realized in the case of a "short sale." A taxpayer owning 100 shares of the X corporation, who purchases another 100 shares and within 30 days thereafter sells the first purchased stock can not deduct any loss claimed to have been sustained from the transaction; if he sells the entire 200 shares, a gain or loss from both transactions is thereby realized at that time; and if he sells the stock included within the second purchase a gain or loss is realized.

MOTHERS' HOPES
What Chance Have They if Real Music Must Be Sacrificed to Machine-made Sound?

MOTHERS strive valiantly to give their children happiness—a chance to enjoy the richest, fullest lives. Contrary forces forever oppose Mother's hopes.

Today change—speed—unrest work to thwart her longing for contentment. . . . The ruthless spirit of the Machine Age threatens to crowd out all humanising culture. . . . Men and women whis heedlessly through life to the clatter of the eternal machine. . . . Now, the machine has entered the realm of the musical art. Is this the Song of Progress? No! Machine-made music can never provide a substitute for the mellowing cultural influence of Real Music. Those concerned for the future of the race will resent the strangling of the art of music by a mechanical substitute in the theatre. Yet the art will be strangled if this false economy is not halted by public demand. . . . Here is opportunity for Mother and all who share her hopes to cast a vote for preservation of Living Music. "Nancy was constipated several years ago and I gave her California Fig Syrup. It helped her so wonderfully that I have used it ever since for all her upsets or colds. It has kept her strong, energetic, rugged."

Children suffer when bowels aren't regular. Breath becomes fetid: tongue coated; eyes dull. When these symptoms are neglected, biliousness, feverishness, lack of appetite invariably follow.

The first dose of California Fig Syrup relieves these symptoms and activates sluggish bowels. Successive does help tone and strengthen weak bowels; improve appetite; encourage digestion and assimilation. Try it with a bilious, headachy, constipated child and see how it helps!

The pure vegetable product, endorsed by doctors for 50 years, always bears the name California. So look for it when buying.

TAKES APPEAL FROM FINE IN PRESTON JUSTICE'S COURT

Arthur Denino of Hartford took an appeal and provided a bond of $100 for appearance in the common pleas court when he was fined $35 and costs Saturday morning by Justice of the Peace Walter Tarbox in Preston on the charge of having a gambling device in his possession.

The alleged gambling device, which was of the slot machine variety, was discovered in Denino's automobile when Trooper Arthur Whitmarsh stopped the car for inspection purposes Thursday night. Attorney Thomas M. Shields, counsel for the Hartford man, argued before the justice that the accused could only be convicted, under the law, in case he was actually operating the machine. In this case he was transporting it.

JAIL SENTENCES AND FINES FOR BOOTLEGGERS

Three bootleggers were fined and sent to jail and cases against four others were continued in the city court Saturday morning. All seven were arrested in raids late Friday night and early Saturday morning by state and local police. John Williams, Spaniard, 30, of No. 20 Cove street, and William Mallison of No. 43 North Main street were given jail sentences of 20 days. Stanislaus Gingras, alleged bartender at the place at No. 6 Hunters avenue, was fined $200 and costs and given 10 days in jail. He appealed and was released on bonds of $1,000. The cases continued were those against Henry J. Pepin, 31, of Taftville, Dominick Pasqualine, 36, of No. 136 High street, Nicholas Panatagros of Thames street and Santo Tedeschi, 25, of No. 30 Lake street.

RABBI SCORES INDIFFERENCE TOWARDS JEWISH IDEALS

"The principle of survival of the fittest pertains in nations and groups as it does in individuals. In individual life it requires physical strength, ability to withstand the difficulties, the sufferings and the trials of the environment," said Rabbi Manuel Greenstein of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America in his sermon at the Friday evening service of the Norwich Community synagogue.

"In national life it requires another quality, this being a sense of the spiritual," he continued. "This consists in a love of the Jewish people, a feeling attitude towards the Jewish people in general, the Jewish culture in particular. The indifference towards Jewish ideals is a marked feature of the Jewish life of the present, and it is especially true of the youth, which is even hostile to our culture. Material pursuit supersedes our spiritual and religious ideals. Wherefore it will become necessary to develop this new feeling attitude and love of the Jewish people, which can be done by: Beautifying the synagogue service, a full and complete Jewish home with all its ceremonials and a stricter attention to the Hebrew school.

"We are paying tribute to a man who is the father of our country, a man who gave his all so that we of today may enjoy freedom and liberty. The Jewish people owe more to George Washington than any other one religious group does, for he was of those great pioneers who made it possible for the Jew to find a home where he could worship in peace and happiness. Like Abraham, the father of the Jewish people, Washington dedicated his life to building up this great American people. Both were pioneers, building, initiating and creating. And like Abraham and Washington we, too, will have to become pioneers among our Jewish youth: inspire them with a love of things Jewish—a love of the Jewish religious ideals.

WINTHROP SCHOLARSHIP FOR MISS MARY BOARDMAN

The awards were made by President Katharine Blunt at the college chapel service Saturday morning.

The other students to be awarded the scholarship are Miss Elizabeth Daboll of Noank, Miss Elizabeth Glass of New London, Miss Betty Wheeler of Mystic and Miss Mildred Meyer of Bronx, N. Y.

FIRE DAMAGE TO ICE HOUSES AT STATE HOSPITAL

Two ice houses at the Norwich State hospital in Preston were badly damaged by fire of unknown origin early Saturday evening. The flames were discovered shortly before 8 o'clock and the fire department at the institution immediately responded to the emergency call. Dr. E. S. Burdsall, superintendent of the hospital, sent in a telephone call for help to the Norwich fire department, and Chief Henry R. Taft despatched Engine No. 1 and went himself to the scene of the blaze.

The roof of what is known as the "old ice house" was practically burned off and the roof on the new ice house recently erected was considerably damaged. Stored in the ice houses were 2,100 tons of ice, practically all of which will be saved. The damage is estimated at between $400 and $500. Superintendent Burdsall Sunday night voiced his appreciation of the services of Chief Taft and the members of the local fire department who responded so promptly to his request for help.

OBITUARY.

Jerome C. Freeman.

The death of Jerome C. Freeman, 79, a prominent colored resident of the city, occurred about 4 o'clock Sunday morning at his residence, No. 13 Arcadia street, following a long illness. He had suffered a fall at his home about five years ago and since that time had been an invalid, towards the end needing the constant care and attention of his wife.

Mr. Freeman was a native and lifelong resident here and was the son of the late Jason and Nancy Brodhead Freeman. About 45 years ago he was united in marriage with Sarah Ann Allmond in this city. Mr. Freeman had for about 25 years, until he was incapacitated, been in the employ of the street department of the city of Norwich, having been engaged as a street cleaner.

Besides his widow he is survived by several cousins, nieces and nephews. Mr. Freeman was a member of the Masonic colored lodge and of the McKinley Avenue A. M. E. Zion church, with which he was prominently identified, for many years singing in the church choir. His friends learned of his death with profound sorrow.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Amos Lamphere

At her home, No. 84 Washington street, funeral services for Mrs. Amos Lamphere were held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. There were many beautiful floral tributes and many relatives and friends were present. The service was conducted by Rev. Louis Shepler of Mystic, who also read the committal service at the grave in Elm Grove cemetery, Mystic. The bearers were George Griswold, John Kohnken, Charles Reynolds and Harry O'Brien. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Church and Allen.

John S. Barber

At 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning the funeral of John S. Barber was held at his home, No. 51 Washington street, with a large gathering of mourners present and many beautiful floral forms. At the requiem mass in St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock Rev. John J. Reilly was celebrant. The musical programme was in charge of Henry J. LaFontaine, the church organist. At the offertory Pie Jesu was sung by Roderick F. Sullivan and Lead Kindly Light was rendered as a waiting hymn. At the recessional Chopin's Funeral March was played by Mr. LaFontaine. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, Taunton, Mass., the body being taken there by automobile cortege. The bearers were Edward Mack, Nazareno Ruffo, Philip H. Muddeman, Edmund Fedell, John Spotten and Alfred Blake, Jr. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Hourigan Bros.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM WEAVER

NORWICH TOWN COUPLE CELEBRATE THEIR 40TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

With 60 or more relatives, friends and neighbors, who gathered at their home on Huntington Green, Saturday evening, (Washington's birthday) Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary. The actual date of the anniversary, however, does not fall due until February 25th, but the observance was arranged for an earlier date to accommodate near relatives who could attend no other time except Saturday evening. William Weaver and Ella Brown were united in marriage in Lebanon, February 25, 1890, by Rev. George L. Putnam.

Both are esteemed members of the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church, where Mrs. Weaver is identified with Dorcas Home Missionary society as its president, while both are interested in the Young People's Christian Endeavor society. Mrs. Weaver is also president of the Norwich Town club of New London County Home and Farm Bureau. Mr. Weaver is engaged in market gardening. After their marriage they resided for a number of years in South Coventry, later locating on the Gilbert Lamb place in Franklin, where Mr. Weaver was caretaker of Mr. Lamb's summer residence.

They have resided in Norwich Town for many years, at first on Vergason avenue, and for about five years on Huntington Green. Both are enthusiastic members of the Social Corner, she as Aunty No. 1, and he as Uncle. In all the places where they have lived Mr. and Mrs. Weaver on many occasions have hospitably entertained gatherings ranging from 150 to 200 people with a picnic during the summer. Mrs. Weaver is one of the original members of S. C. Club No. 1, of Willimantic and many friends from Willimantic were included in the company present Saturday evening. Other places represented included Staten Island, New York, Mansfield Center, Columbia, Montville, Franklin, Norwich and Norwich Town.

The house was artistically decorated in the national colors throughout. Long streamers of red, white and blue, crepe paper were festooned from the ceilings from corner to corner, and the light fixtures were also trimmed.

Mrs. Weaver's niece, Mrs. Francis Perkins, of Mansfield Center, was in general charge of the entire evening, which involved much sociability among friends, also several games for which prizes were awarded. The prize winners were Mrs. Anthony, Mrs. Kahn, and Mrs. Fulton. Preceding the game period, while Mrs. Henry Nye, Mrs. Weaver's sister, played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, the bride and groom of 40 years ago marched in to the front parlor, where they were met by their nephew, Francis Perkins, who, in behalf of the company, presented them with a gift of about $30 in gold, in two separate containers. One was from the friends in Willimantic and vicinity, the other from Norwich friends and neighbors. Besides the gift of gold, pictures, linen and a shower of post cards, were also received. Mr. Perkins, in presenting the gift recited appropriate lines of original poetry, much to the pleasure of those present. After acknowledging the gift, by request, Mrs. Charles H. Lamb read a beautiful poem, the composition of Mrs. Weaver's sister, Mrs. Nye. This was followed by several verses composed and read by Mrs. Lamb, who also read an acrostic of Mr. and Mrs. Weaver's names, as prepared by her. Mrs. Lamb being called upon to do this in behalf of dear friends. All met with much favor, as some of the lines were rather humorous. After the poems were read, Rev. George Warren Potter was invited to make a few remarks. In a fitting way he congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Weaver for their spirit in the church and community and paid them several compliments in the course of his remarks. After Rev. Mr. Potter had said grace, refreshments were served under direction of Mrs. Perkins, which consisted of chicken salad, olives, a variety of delicious sandwiches and cakes, and coffee. Mrs. Wellington Miner, who assisted Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. Nye in forming the arrangements, with Mrs. Rutherford Snow poured. Others who assisted in serving were Mrs. Charles Maass, Mrs. Donald Bullard, Mrs. Irene Smith, and the Misses Margaret and Eva Buchanan. Lastly a huge decorated wedding cake presented by Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. Nye, was brought to where Mrs. Weaver was sitting, and after she had put the knife through it this also was cut and passed around.

Saturday also was the birthday of one of the guests, Mrs. Wellington Miner.

CONTRACT FOR HIGHWAY NORTH FROM JEWETT CITY

State Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald has announced the award of eight contracts for highway construction, which include 19,325 feet of reinforced concrete pavement in the town of Griswold on the Norwich-Putnam road. The contract is to the M. A. Gammino Construction company of Providence, R. I.

In accordance with a recent adopted policy of the state highway department the contract figure is not announced. This is about 3 1-2 miles of new concrete road, 20 feet wide, extending from the end of the concrete near Bishop's crossing southerly to and through Jewett City, and also including the approaches to the new bridge that is to be put in at Tadpole pond over the railroad tracks. The bridge work will be in a later contract.

Other contracts awarded are for the following:

Town of Old Saybrook: 2,700 feet of trap rock waterbound macadam on the Fenwick Point road to F. D. Miller, Norwich.

HARPIST AND SOLOIST AT CHURCH SERVICE

The melodious tones of the harp under the skillful fingers of Mrs. Louise Gellatly of Springfield, with the excellent voice of her husband in song, provided special musical numbers of great attractiveness at the Sunday evening service at the Central Baptist church, where there was a good sized congregation.

Mrs. Gellatly's harp solos were Men of Harlech (Thomas) and El Espagnole (Tedeschi.) An extra number which she played by request was "Jerusalem The Golden," and she furnished the accompaniments for two solos by her husband, which were "Beautiful Garden of Prayer" and "Pass It On."

The pastor, Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt, gave the third in a series of sermons upon Great Gospel Texts. He spoke upon The Great Invitation, from the text, Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and ye shall find rest for your souls. Dr. Pitt announced that for next Sunday night he would repeat by request a sermon delivered at one of the morning services upon the theme "What Think Ye of Christ?"

Attachment of Release Recorded

Record has been filed in the Norwich town clerk's office of the release of attachment which was made in the alienation suit brought by Mrs. Rose Beckley Frink against Mrs. Hazel Smith Ulmer, which has been settled without trial in the superior court for the reported sum of $5,500.

FORT SHANTOK SITE IS ADDED TO STATE PARK

The historic site of Fort Shantok on the Thames river between New London and Norwich was recently purchased by the state park and forest commission. This purchase of thirty acres increases the area of Fort Shantok state park to 160 acres. Here between the years 1645 and 1659, Uncas, the friend of the white settlers, and his Mohegan warriors four times repulsed greatly superior forces of the Narragansett Indians. The first park purchases made in 1925 secured the Indian village site and burial ground overlooking the river.

The historic fort lies to the north of the village site on a high, rocky hill commanding a view both up and down the river. Nothing is left to mark the scene of these early battles but the faint outline of a trench along the hill crest, concealed among the dense growth of hardwood sprouts which covers the ground.

Uncas and the Mohican tribe remained friends of the white man throughout their history, even during King Philip's war, which destroyed their deadly foes, the Narragansetts.

Probably more battles between Indians took place around this old fort than at any other known locality in New England. In the first siege, in 1645, following a previous defeat of the Narragansetts at the Great Plain, now Norwich, the tribe was saved by Thomas Leffingwell, an ensign at Saybrook, who, responding to an earnest plea for help carried by a messenger who escaped from the fort, piloted a canoe loaded with beef, corn and peas up the Thames and succeeded in getting it into the fort under cover of the night.

In another eruption made by Pessacus, the Narragansett chief, in the same year, the force of the Narragansetts, when compared with that of the Uncas, was so overwhelming in point of numbers, that it is difficult to understand why the Mohegans were not entirely annihilated. Making a show of only 40 men at a time, they drew the warriors of Uncas into an ambush, then suddenly rising pursued them with arrows and bullets to the covers of their forts. But here the latter rallied, repulsed their assailants, and in the end drove them from their territory.

In 1657 another attack was made on this fort by the Narragansetts and Niantics, assisted by the Pocomtocs and Norwootucks, two tribes from Massachusetts, but they were repulsed. In 1659 the Tunxis, Pocomtocs and Narragansetts again attacked the Mohegans and this place, and later during the same year the Narragansetts were again defeated here by their adversaries, the Mohegans. Roger Williams in one of his letters in 1660 writes as follows in referring to one of the Indian battles at this fort: "The Monheggins would not sallie, and the Nanhoggs would not spoil the corn for fear of offending the English."

In 1903 the Connecticut Society of Colonial Dames erected a cairn, a cone-shaped pile of stones, suggesting by its form an Indian wigwam, to mark the spot to which Lieutenant Thomas Leffingwell brought supplies to the Mohegans. The Colonial Dames have since supplied the funds to the state park commission and a stockade fence has been built around the burying ground. During the Queen Anne, French and Indian, and King Philip wars, the Mohegans were the faithful allies of Connecticut colony. At the close of these great struggles this tribe had many widows and orphans left by those of its warriors who lost their lives by fighting, and here many of these brave and unfortunate people were buried.

WASHINGTON PROGRAMME BY C. A. R. SOCIETY

The February meeting of Gen. Ebenezer Huntington society, Children of the American Revolution, was held Saturday at Mrs. Albert J. Bailey's in Yantic, the junior president, Agnes L. Greenman, presiding.

The entrance of the flags and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner were followed by the usual opening exercises, and the reports of the officers and committees.

The announcement of various prizes offered by the local, state and national societies, with the conditions for each, was made, these including a prize for perfect attendance at the meetings throughout the year; essay on Early Connecticut, one on Major John Mason, one for the best essay on Mount Vernon and Its Place in American History; one for the best write-up of any local meeting during the year, and one for the best story of what some boy or girl did for the cause of independence during the American Revolution. And two medals for members between 12 and 14 years of age, who can answer 18 out of 20 questions on the Revolutionary war. The last four are national prizes.

Dorothy B. Stewart and Mary K. Stewart were elected delegates to the National convention in Washington in April, with Beatrice Eggleton and Agnes L. Greenman as alternates.

It was voted to send $25 as usual to the Harriett M. Lothrop Memorial Hall fund. Notice was read of the broadcasts every Tuesday by the United States Flag association.

The following program was then given: Wakefield, the Birthplace of Washington, and Plans for Its Restoration, by Jordan James; Mount Vernon, Washington's Home, by Robert Brand; How Washington Spent His Birthdays, by Priscilla Hough; The Old Church in Alexandria, by David Brewer; "Washington Entombed," the account given in the Ulster County Gazette, of Jan. 4, 1800, read by Dorothy K. Stewart; Keeping House in Mount Vernon, by Charlotte LaPierre and Dolly Edmond; The Memorial Church at Valley Forge, by Ruth Burdsall; "What of Washington of Today?" an article written by Mrs. Lothrop, founder of the C. A. R., for the March, 1928, Magazine; a plea to make the day one of recognition and not of recreation, by Natalie Bailey.

Dolly and Russell Edmond favored with piano and trombone selections, while Mrs. Bailey was the accompanist for two dainty little dances given in costume by Janet Bailey, Catharine Mitchell, Mary, Helene and Lucy Greenman.

A large number of pictures of Washington, his home at Mount Vernon, and other places associated with him, were shown; among them the brick tavern in Norwich, where Washington stayed one night in June, 1775. The Norwich Savings Society building is now on this site.

The hostesses with Mrs. Bailey were Mrs. E. Allen Bidwell, Mrs. Harold L. Edmond, Mrs. George E. Fellows, Mrs. Leonard A. Hough.

SUFFERS SERIOUS INJURY IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

The condition of Walter Burke, 24, of No. 119 Thames street, who was involved in an automobile accident on the Norwich-New London highway, near Trading Cove Saturday morning about 7:45 o'clock, sustaining critical injuries, was reported to be slightly improved early Sunday evening at the W. W. Backus hospital, where he is a patient. Delor J. Chabbotte, 24, of 98 High street, who was riding in the Chevrolet machine with Burke, received a cut over the right eye.

The two men were injured when the machine crashed into the rear end of a Reo truck, parked in the highway, which is owned by the Troy Steam laundry of this city and was in charge of the driver, Charles Ludwig, 50, of 12 Peck street. The heavy fog which hung over this section of the county at the time was given as a contributing cause to the accident.

The collision was investigated by State Police Officers Winniger and Dygert of the Groton barracks, who placed Ludwig under bonds of $200 pending the outcome of Burke's injuries.

Shortly after the accident Burke was rushed to the hospital by Raymond C. Brittin, who happened along a few minutes after it took place. At the hospital Burke underwent an operation and was found to be suffering from internal injuries and a scalp wound. Chabotte who was also taken to the institution for treatment was held there only temporarily, having been dischauged after he was attended.

It is understood that the truck had been parked on the right hand side of the highway, but not clear of the traveled portion, while the driver was making a delivery to a house nearby. The lighter vehicle, driven by Chabotte, struck the truck in the left side of the rear end, continued around it and came to a stop about 100 feet ahead of it. The Chabotte machine had its right hand side completely sheered off, a door being found in the trolley tracks some distance from the scene.

EAGLES STATE OFFICERS ATTEND CLASS INITIATION

A class of 15 candidates was initiated Sunday afternoon by Norwich aerie, No. 367, Fraternal Order of Eagles, at the Eagles home. Norwich aerie, with the other aeries in the state, is participating in a state membership contest, for which suitable prizes are offered the winning aeries. The local aerie has set 300 new members by June 1st as its goal and the initiation Sunday was the first of a series of initiations to be held monthly during the contest.

The candidates were initiated by the following state officers: State President Thomas Fitzpatrick of Beacon Falls; State Vice President Joseph A. Hickey of Ansonia; State Chaplain John J. McGarry of Putnam; State Secretary John L. Moran of Meriden; State Treasurer Vincent A. Maker of New Haven and Junior Past State President Richard J. Dempsey of Hartford.

The visiting state officers addressed the aerie dwelling principally on the activities of the Eagles in sponsoring the old age pension which will be brought before the next state legislature in an effort to have an old age pension law adopted in this state as has been done in seven other states and in Alaska. Announcement was made that the Eagles' state convention will be held this year at Torrington on June 22 and 23. Following the business session a collation was served.

The local aerie already has applicants listed for the March initiation, the exact date for which has not been decided. Either the Hartford aerie degree team or a team of state officers will initiate the class after which there will be refreshments and a social time.

Y SENIORS AND GIRLS MEET STIFF OPPOSITION BUT WIN COURT GAMES

The Y Seniors practically clinched a place for themselves in the first four of the state league race Saturday night at the Y gym by nosing out Ansonia Y, 50 to 48, through a last-minute basket by Aubrey Brown, sharp-shooting right forward. The other game also went to Norwich, when the local girls' team managed to come out in front of the Rockville high girls, 35 to 32, after a tight squeak.

Senior Safe in Fourth Place.

The Seniors now are firmly entrenched in fourth place with a chance, though slight it may be, to move maybe one notch higher before the season closes in about three weeks.

Coach Demarest started his second team and it came near proving a boomerang for they could not cope with the clever visiting bunch and Ansonia quickly ran up a 10 to 0 lead before three minutes of the game had elapsed. The first team was rushed in and they had to do much tall stepping in order to just finish in front. The Ansonia team, with a squad of only five players, gave one of the best exhibitions here this season. Especially, was the work of Capt. Kelly, at left forward and Nelson, at right guard, noteworthy. Kelly is the best forward to show here against the Seniors this year for not only did he possess an eagle eye, but also made the locals look foolish at times by dribbling the whole length of the floor right up to the basket to drop them in.

Seniors Prove Their Mettle.

The game proved the mettle of the local team without doubt for they had to fight one of the toughest uphill battles of the year. Capt. Harris was the only regular in the lineup at the opening jump, and it was with comparative ease that Ansonia romped through this aggregation. With the first team in, it was not long, however, before they started to catch up. Eccleston broke the ice with a short basket and then followed up with a foul until the Seniors swung out in front at the end of the first quarter, 15 to 11.

The second period was nip and tuck with the score tied twice and finally Ansonia having a 29-23 lead at the end of the half. The Seniors came right back in the early minutes of the third period and managed to hold their pace until they were in front, 43 to 40, as play swung into the last quarter.

It was just slightly over two minutes before the end of the game that Brown tossed in one of those spectacular side shots to break a 48-48 tie and send the fairly large crowd home happy.

Girls Win In Last Minutes.

The Girls' team kept its home slate unblemished and won its seventh game in eight starts over the Rockville lassies. This was another close one that saw the Norwich forwards, O'Hart and Kslazek, go at top speed in the closing minutes to throw in the necessary points.

Rockville showed the effects of having played together longer than the Norwich outfit, but the superior shooting of the local forwards, together with some stellar guarding by Manley, again, was enough to win.

The Seniors will play Norwalk Y here the coming Saturday in a game that was postponed from early in the season. The opponent for the Girls' team has not been selected.

TWO GAMES IN CHURCH LEAGUE TONIGHT

Tonight at 8.15 the two tail end clubs of the Church league will fight it out for cellar position in the league. A much improved Jewett City team will make their best bid to beat the Phi Delta Nu, who have won but one Church league encounter this season, and that against the Strongheatrs.

In the second game of the evening followers of the league will have a chance to witness a game equally as interesting as those of last week when the second and third place clubs entangle. A Baltic win will advance them on the league leading Gammas, while a win for the Trinity Methodist entrants will result in an exchange of places between these two clubs. SCOTT MORE IMPRESSIVE THAN SHARKEY SUNDAY

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Several thousands watched Jack Sharkey and Phil Scott go through their paces today, while the Argentine giant, Victorio Campolo, continued to demonstrate his popularity despite the fact he confined himself to exercise without boxing on the grounds of the University of Miami.

Frank J. Bruen, general manager of the Madison Square Garden corporation made the definite announcement that the advance sale stood at $162,000, with approximately $80,000 represented by cash sales and the rest represented by orders and reservations he considered as good as cash.

A week ago the figure was put at $163,000, but this, Bruen explained was based on some optimistic reports from outside sources which failed to materialize when checked up.

Railroads over the week end reported the arrival of about 10,000 visitors, presumably a good share of which may come in for the fights next Thursday night.

Virtually all the seats sold so far have been at the top price of $25 for ringside locations. There are 11,000 of these pasteboards, 15,000 at $12.50 and 26,000 priced at $5.45.

Today's workouts showed Scott more impressive in his footwork and punching than Sharkey. Some of the experts reached the conclusion that Sharkey has gone a trifle stale, after appearing to be at his peak a few days. The more logical explanation of the Boston sailor's exhibition, however, and the one his followers offer, is that he has let down for a few days on the theory that he needs no more intensive work.

Today Sharkey boxed five rounds with three sparring mates, Pierre Charles, Moise Bouquillon and Johnny Grosso, before a crowd at the Miami Beach Kennel club. He made no attempt to batter any of them but the timing of his right hand punches did not impress observers. His best sessions were with Charles, who has an effective left.

Scott worked six rounds to good advantage, going three with Charley Hahn, the free-swinging jumping jack, two with Roly Poly Jack Renault and one with a fast youngster, Jimmy Slavin of Wilkesbarre, Pa. Phil seemed mentally as well as physically fit, taking the hardest slaps of his sparring mates with a good natured grin, in contrast with the grim, half sneering manner in which Sharkey goes about even his practice work.

RED SOX BATTERY MEN OFF FOR SOUTHLAND

BOSTON, Feb 23—(AP)—The vanguard of the Boston Red Sox, five battery candidates and club officials left today for the training camp at Pensacola, Fla., by way of Albany, Columbus, Ohio, Cincinnati and Louisville.

The players were Danny MacFayden, Ray Dobens and Eldon Hallamore, pitchers; Bob Armstrong, a catcher, and Outfielder Bill Barrett. Heinie Wagner, who succeeded Bill Carrigan, his old chief, as manager, was due to board the special train at Albany, accompanied by Pitcher Pat Simmons and Catchers Charley Berry and Eddie Connolly. Assistant Manager Jack McCallister was expected to join the party at Columbus, with several other battery candidates.

Wagner and McCallister will have a week to work on their battery candidates before the rest of the squad reports at the Florida camp.

KOZIOL FIGHTS AT FALL RIVER TONIGHT

Al Koziol, Norwich's most active pugilist, goes to Fall River today for a battle with an unknown opponent tonight. Koziol was notified Sunday that he could have a place on the card if he cared for it but it did not state who his opponent is to be. Both Koziol and his manager Barney Keenan are hoping that it will be Linzi, the Italian who was handed a technical knockout over the local lad at Providence on Friday evening. Both are confident that in another state the bout would have terminated very differently than it did in Providence.

SMITH-SARAZEN BEAT THE FARRELL BROTHERS

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 23—(AP)—Horton Smith of Detroit, who yesterday won the Savannah open golf tournament, and Gene Sarazen, recent winner of the Agua Caliente open, beat the Farrell brothers, Johnny and Jimmy, in an exhibition match here today by one up.

Smith needed assistance from Sarazen on only two holes of the match.

Smith scored a 70, one under par, Sarazen had a 72, Jimmy Farrell evened perfect figures with a 71, while Johnny trailed with a 73.

SHAMROCKS NOSE OUT MOODUS TOWNERS, 28 TO 25.

The Colchester Shamrocks basketball team defeated the Moodus Town team in a close and exciting game in New Park hall here Saturday evening by a score of 28-25. The Colchester outfit held a three point lead at the end of the first half which the Moodus boys were unable to overcome in the latter half. Grief and Scotia starred for Moodus with 8 and 7 points respectively while Welch and Goodrich featured for Colchester with 8 and 7 points respectively. The summary:

DUEL BETWEEN HOROWITZ AND LEWIS FOR HONORS

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP)—An exciting duel between Horowitz of Yale and Lewis of Cornell has developed in the race for scoring honors of the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball league.

Latest figures compiled by the Associated Press show Horowitz maintaining his lead with 61 points in eight games. Lewis, in seven contests, has tallied 56 points.

Although these two are a comfortable distance ahead of the pack, a Columbia man may yet overhaul them. Gregory and Bender of the Lions hold third and fourth places with 43 and 40 points respectively and have five more games to play against two for Horowitz and three for Lewis.

Horowitz leads in field goals with 24 and Lewis is tied with Burch of Dartmouth for most foul goals, 14; Albie Booth of Yale has committed the most personal fouls, 19.

Bader To Manage Hartford.

King Bader, who used to do the pitching honors for the American Thread team in Willimantic in their annual series battles with the local Kaceys, has signed to manage the Hartford Eastern league club for the coming year.

Today's most popular song—I've Got a Cold In My Head.

And speaking of colds, does anyone know just why the human being is subject to them? They give neither the afflicted nor anyone else any pleasure.

Still it furnishes a lot of conversation and is a diversion from that old age-worn topic—the weather. But it soon gets pretty monotinous.

You have a beautiful cold in your head and you feel about as mean as you can. You go down town and the first person you meet says, "Well, how are you today?"

Of course you say "Not so good. I've got an awful cold." Well, that opens the conversation which at the very least takes a good 20 minutes of your time.

Your friend says, "Well, that's too bad, but I'll bet you don't feel any worse than I did last week." Of course that's real comforting to you, your cold immediately feels better.

Then without stopping your friend gos on and tells just what you should do for your cold. Numerous remedies are recommended and their effectiveness attested by hundreds of friends who used them on his advice.

Of course you have to listen to what the remedy did for Mrs. Jones, and how thankful she was to hear about it. How quickly Mrs. Brown's cold was cured and how she's never to be without it again. And so on.

Finally after you feel like taking a poke at the friend he leaves you with "Now don't you wait, you go right home and do as I tell you. There's lots of pneumonia around, you know." Nice cheerful sort of person.

The chances are that you don't go more than a block before some other friend has stopped you and when you mention the cold you will hear the same thing over. Only this friend has a different pet remedy.

After listening to him you vow that the very next person who tells you what to do for your cold you'll send to the hospital. But you don't really want the sympathy—if you can call it that.

Well, I'm going home and try some of these remedies for I've sure got a cold.

BATTALINO READY FOR BOUT WITH FERNANDEZ

(Special to The Bulletin.)

HARTFORD, Feb. 23.—Bat Battalino and Ignacio Fernandez, who meet in the star bout at the state armory Tuesday night, are fit and ready for their ten-round battle.

Both the world's featherweight champion and the brown-skinned Filipino, whose record is red-lettered with a third-round kayo of Al Singer, finished their training Sunday and are marking time for the call of the referee.

Sunday Battalino and Fernandez hit the road in the morning and in the afternoon worked out at the St. Nicholas gym, Fernandez at 2 o'clock and Battalino at 4.30.

The Filipino weighed 127 3-4 after his stiff workout, while Battalino was at 128 flat, indication that there will be but a fraction of difference in the weight of the boys as they go to the scales Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the state capitol.

Fernandez has impressed in his boxing at the local gym with his punching power, his strength and his footwork; he is very colorful in the gym, his bag-punching and rope-skipping bringing the daily workouts to a close with a real theatrical flourish.

Battalino looked fast in his workout yesterday; he boxed well and his punching was hard and accurate. Both his hands are in fine condition and the champion believes that all trouble from that source is at an end.

These five bouts make up the undercard: Semi-final, Eddie Ford, Waterbury, vs. Mickey Flahive, Hartford; Marty Fox, New York, vs. Joe Hanlon, New York; Ralph Lenny, Union City, N. J., vs. Joe Fiella, New York; Eddie Reed, Hartford, vs. Lou Piquette, Bridgeport; Rocky Rayo, Hartford, vs. Johnny Kop, Norwich.

DO YOU REMEMBER THIS ONE?

(Another of a number of articles recalling local baseball of other years.)

The first Sunday baseball game in Putnam was played on July 9, 1916. Nearly 2,000 fans flocked to the fair grounds there to see Putnam beat Southbridge in a tight pitching battle, 2 to 1. Vernon and McLoughlin were the opposing pitchers, each allowing eight hits. A crowd of 500 came from Southbridge for the first contest on the Sabbath in that fair community and, says The Bulletin files, the game was very orderly and policemen on the grounds saw that no unnecessary noise was indulged in.

One of the features of the game was two unassisted double plays by Johnston and Nanning. Nanning not only batted for .500, but also accepted 14 chances in the field without an error. Barnicle doubled and McLoughlin singled for Putnam's first run in the second, and McNammee scored on Johnston's double in the fifth. Doubles by Vernon and Burke accounted for Southbridge's run in the seventh.

SHARKEY-SCOTT BOUT ON THURSDAY TOPS FISTIC PROGRAM FOR WEEK

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The second annual battle of the palms at Miami Thursday night with Phil Scott of England meeting Jack Sharkey in the feature bout, heads the national fistic schedule for the week but there is no lack of attractions in other cities.

Heavyweights, for the most part, will furnish the fireworks but Chicago will see a third battle between Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, and Jimmy McLarnin at the Stadium Saturday night. This bout, a rubber affair, will be at 145 pounds and for ten rounds.

Mandell turned back McLarnin's challenge for the lightweight title here two years ago but suffered a bad beating at the hands of the Vancouver slugger in a return meeting at catchweights several months ago at Chicago.

Madison Square Garden's weekly show Friday night will be an all-heavyweight affair with Ted Sandwina, who recently knocked out Knute Hansen in a round, meeting Riccardo Bertazzolo of Italy in the feature bout of ten rounds.

Primo Carnera, Italian giant, takes on Jack McAuliffe at New Orleans tomorrow night.

Other bouts on the national schedule include:

Monday—At Toledo, Tony Lombardo, Toledo, vs. Young Westy, Toledo, and Frankie Palmo, Cincinnati, vs. Mart Flanagan, Detroit, all welterweights, each ten rounds. At New York, St. Nicholas Arena, Bob Olin, New York, vs. Leo Williams, New York, Negro, light-heavyweights, ten rounds; at Philadelphia, Paulie Walker, Trenton, vs. Sammy Baker, New York, welterweights, Billy Jones, Philadelphia, vs. Piet Brand, Holland, light-heavyweights, and Young Firpo vs. Al Bryant, Newark Negro, lightweights, each eight rounds.

Tuesday—At Hartford, Conn., Bat Battalino, Hartford, vs. Ignacio Fernandez, featherweights, ten rounds (non-title); at Los Angeles, Eddie Mack, Denver, vs. Maurice Holtzer, France, junior lightweights, ten rounds.

Thursday—At Newark, N. J., Tony Canzoneri, New York, vs. Steve Smith, Bridgeport, lightweights, ten rounds; at Tacoma, Wash., Dave Shade, New York, vs. George Dixon, Portland, middleweights, six rounds; at Miami, Victorio Campolo vs. Johnny Risko, Tommy Loughran vs. Pierre Charles, Jimmy Maloney vs. Mose Bouquillon, all heavyweights.

Friday—At San Francisco, Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo, vs. Fred (Dummy) Mahan, Arizona, welterweights, ten rounds; at New York, Madison Square Garden, Marty Gallagher, Washington, vs. Salvatore Buggirello, New York, and Arthur Dekuh, New York, vs. Charlie Smith, England, all heavyweights, each ten rounds; at Boston, Johnny Indrisano, Boston, vs. Clyde Hull, Ft. Worth, welterweights, ten rounds.

Saturday—At Chicago Stadium, Young Jack Thompson, San Francisco Negro, vs. Freddie Fitzgerald, Youngstown, O., welterweight, ten rounds.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

A Sudden Change of Mind

Naught changes quicker you will find
Than happens in a state of mind.
—Old Mother Nature.

It is doubtful if any one changes his mind more often than does Reddy Fox. He changes his mind to suit the conditions of the moment. He is very clever at changing his mind. The result is, you can never be at all sure as to just what Reddy Fox will or will not do.

It was getting along toward spring and Reddy Fox was glad of it. He was tired of winter. Winter is always a hard time with Reddy. It was a time when one needs to have plenty of food, for food makes energy and warmth and in winter one needs much of both. Yet at this season food is difficult to get. Reddy has to spend much of his time hunting for enough food to keep him alive. But hard as the winter is there is a time between winter and real spring which is in some ways the hardest time of all. Most of the winter food supply has been eaten and the spring supply has not yet appeared. So when Spring once shows signs of coming Reddy is in a hurry to have it arrive.

It happened that Reddy had been over to the pond of Paddy the Beaver, deep in the Green Forest. On his way back he just happened to pass near the tree which Blacky the Crow had occupied the year before as a home. He and Mrs. Blacky had built a nest there. Reddy happened to think of that and decided that he would go along that way and see if Blacky happened to be about. It might be that Blacky was going to use that nest again. You see, Reddy has often learned from Blacky where a meal could be obtained without running too much risk. Blacky's sharp eyes miss very little that comes within their range.

So Reddy trotted along thinking of nothing in particular beyond the fact that he wished he knew where he could get a good meal. Suddenly without warning Reddy was struck a sharp blow that made him yelp. Yes, sir, it made him yelp. He sprang to one side and hastily looked this way and looked that way and looked the other way. He saw nothing and no one to account for that blow. It gave him a queer feeling. There was no imagination about it. That blow had hurt. The place where he was struck still hurt. Reddy glared about. Then he heard a certain familiar sound. He looked up. There, glaring down at him, were two pairs of great yellow eyes. They belonged to Hooty the Great Horned Owl and to Mrs. Hooty.

The two big birds snapped their bills angrily. That was the familiar sound Reddy heard. Reddy glared up at them as angrily as they glared down at him. "What do you mean by striking me like that?" he demanded.

"We mean that we don't want you around here," hissed Mrs. Hooty. "This is our hunting ground. We don't allow others to hunt here."

"Who is hunting?" demanded Reddy. "I was simply trotting along about my own business."

"Well, suppose you keep right on trotting along about your own business," retorted Hooty.

"I'll do as I please," replied Reddy defiantly. "You won't make me go if I dont want to."

Now, this was mere boasting an Reddy knew it. He knew that Hooty the Owl knew it, too. Reddy had no desire to be struck again, or to have his coat torn by those great claws of Hooty's. So he merely looked up at Hooty and Mrs. Hooty and snarled. Then he started to trot along once more. Of course, he trotted along in the direction he had been going. However, he took but a few steps before down came Mrs. Hooty, and Reddy dodged barely in time to avoid being hit again. Right then and there Reddy changed his mind. He turned in quite another direction and he left in something of a hurry.

AN IRREGULAR RECOVERY WAS NOTED IN THE BUSINESS WORLD LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Business in the aggregate continued its gradual but irregular recovery last week, with the warmer weather providing a stimulus to the movement of spring merchandise and building materials.

The commodity price structure remained an outstanding sore spot, particularly the wheat and cotton markets, which tumbled to new low levels for the season.

Heavy industry continued to gain, particularly steel mill production, which reached about 82 per cent of capacity, compared to 78 per cent the previous week, and less than 50 per cent at the low point of the recession in December.

Manufacturers of farm implements and machinery were fairly active. Automobile manufacturers, on the whole, were cautious in speeding up production, pending a clearer views of sales conditions. In non-ferrous metals, demand for copper, brass and lead was a little more active, zinc and tin were dull, and prices eased.

Freight car loadings for the first week of February showed a moderate decline from the last week of January. Current merchandise shipments are believed to have undergone considerable improvement while the movement of coal has slackened on appearance of warmer weather.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

Cheney Brothers, South Manchester.

In the early part of the last century, the Cheney family was living upon a lonely Connecticut farm when some of the young men began to take an interest in the raising of mulberry trees for the purpose of introducing sericulture into the United States. After some years of effort the attempt was abandoned as impracticable because of the impossibility of competition between American labor with the cheap production of other low wage countries. This experience gave to the young men an interest in silk and they next turned their attention to manufacture. There was a small waterwheel on the farm which was used to grind grain for farm use. This power was put to work in a little frame mill in 1838 where they made sewing silk which after many vicissitudes, found a market and became a success. Following this first accomplishment, other branches of the industry were added until at the present time the establishment of Cheney Brothers is the only one in the world in which practically all categories of silk goods are produced and all branches and processes are practiced.

The company is still controlled and directed almost entirely by the Cheney family, eight generations of which have now lived upon the same tract of land in South Manchester. Four of these generations have been interested in the silk business. The company's reputation is world-wide and its products enjoy a fine appreciation for style and quality.

The factories have over 36 acres of floor space and there are over 4,000 employes.

The relations between the administration and the workers are most satisfactory and the whole community takes pride in, and supports the company.

The present officers are: Charles Cheney, president; Robert Cheney, vice president; Horace B. Cheney, second vice president; Ward Cheney, secretary; Louis S. Carter, treasurer and assistant secretary; Clifford D. Cheney, assistant treasurer; Frank Cheney, Jr., chairman of the board.

SCHOOL WOMAN BUILT WINS FIRST MILLION FROM FORDS

The first Ford gift to education went to the Berry school in Georgia's mountains. Building from which girls are marching is part of the gift. Miss Martha Berry (lower left) founded the school which still worships in a log chapel (right).

MOUNT BERRY, Ga., Feb. 23—(AP)—Henry Ford, who plans to devote his life and $100,000,000 to education, has made a million dollar start in the Georgia mountains.

His first gift to education recently announced, came to a school for mountain boys and girls, founded, developed and directed by a woman.

With Mrs. Ford, he gave one million dollars in buildings to the Berry schools, founded 28 years ago by Miss Martha Berry in a little log cabin school house.

She had five students in those days. Now there are more than 1,000 a year. Vocational training, an important feature of the schools Ford plans to found, is a major item in the Berry program.

Miss Berry announced the gifts five years after the first had been made. Modesty of the donors, she explained, caused the delay.

In 1924 Mr. and Mrs. Ford visited the schools. They were amazed at the work. Students are there 365 days in the year, and each must work at least 16 hours a week.

The Fords had lunch at the school one day and Mrs. Ford asked to see the kitchen, persuading her husband to make the inspection with her.

It was spotless and, Mrs. Ford remarked, "remarkably well managed."

The Fords left Mount Berry. Next day came a letter saying they would like to give a dining hall and kitchen. It was built at a cost of $300,000, a stately gothic structure and one of the best equipped in the country.

Again and again the Fords came to the schools. Now they are regular visitors. The Ford private car is sidetracked near the campus and the automobile head spends a week at a time there.

In all, the Fords have erected four buildings—the dining hall, a recitation hall, a girls' dormitory and a recreation hall and gymnasium.

English gothic architecture has been used in all of them. A solid ridge of mountains, castle-like against the horizon, frames the background. Below the 15,000-acre campus reaches out.

Three schools that constitute Berry—a junior college, a boys' school and a girls' school, the last of which attracted the Ford gift.

Hard-Finish Fabrics End Exile; Return to Smart Spot In Styles

PARIS, Feb. 23—(AP)—Firm materials light in weight and rather hard in finish, are back in the spring fabric book after several seasons of subordination to soft wool and silk and wool mixtures.

Mohair and mohair-finish, close-weave, hard-thread woolens and fine tweeds dominate tailored suits which are an outstanding phase of spring and summer styles. Coats are of softer fabrics.

Tailormades of the classic type are oftenest made of dark navy blue or black material with a fine white fleck, pin stripe or dot.

Jackets are finger-length or shorter, the midsummer models tending toward short peplums joining at a nearly normal waistline. The favorite skirt is a straight wrap-around with self material belt attached.

Summer coat materials take their lead from accompanying dresses. Dress and coat are infrequently of the same material in spring fashions, although they may be of the same color. Sport and tweed daytime ensembles are made with matching coat and skirt, the coat three quarter length or a jacket over a one piece dress.

Dark daytime ensembles, navy blue, black or beige by preference, include seven-eights, three-quarter or hip length coats over skirts and blouses. Long coats accompany silk dresses.

In the case of coat and two-piece costume the coat is lightweight broadcloth, madiana or soft wool crepe. The skirt is the same material with lingerie blouse or soft colored satin blouse of rather intricate cut.

Long coats frequently strike the contrasting color note with print dresses and coat linings.

Dress and lining of contrasting shade to the coat like one couturier's much repeated rose opaline dress, hat and coatlining, with coats of black and navy blue, is good style.

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Holding Breath.

I was visiting an old class mate at the home of her sister. On the third morning of my visit my hostess sat at the breakfast table in utter silence.

She neither responded to my morning greetings nor answered my attempts at conversation. When she had finished she folded her napkin, and walked out of the room, closing the door behind her. I was appalled. I turned to my friend.

What is the matter with Bernice? Have I done anything?

"Oh, don't worry about it, it has nothing to do with you. She often gets this way. She probably won't say a word to anyone now for four or five days.

"I never take any notice of it and I find she comes out of it more quickly with me than she ever did at home with mother or father."

"Has she always been like this, then?"

"Yes, ever since she left off holding her breath. When she was very little she would hold her breath whenever she was angry. Mother and father used to be beside themselves with terror. She did that until she was seven and since then we noticed that when things go wrong she simply won't speak."

People often thus carry over into adult life, in disguised form, the tricks which in their childhood gave them what they wanted.

Children can think of a thousand ways of getting attention and it is up to their parents to see that they get it only through legitimate and socially acceptable channels.

TRAVEL IN A TOWEL— AFTER A FASHION

PARIS, Feb. 23—(AP)—Printed ratine, the same dressmakers give bath towel material, is suggested for the matching jacket and bath robe required by silk pajama costumes for beach and resort wear. Robes and ensembles for the traveler are of the same stuff.

The printed toweling has crepe de chine lining and bordered edges.

Debs Will Sell Favors

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Some of the season's prettiest debutantes will sell programs and favors at the society horse show given by the Riding and Hunt club, March 1. Mary Ingraham Henry, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Guy V. Henry, is chairman.

VANDERBILT'S DAUGHTER SHAR SHARES FINE HOMEWITHPUBLIC

ASHEVILLE, N. C. Feb 23—(AP)—The world famous mountain chateau of the late George W. Vanderbilt will be open to tourists for the first time this spring.

It is said to be the finest private residence and the most perfect example of French rennaissance architecture in America. Its art treasures and furnishings are worth a king's ransom.

It now is the property of Mr. and Mrs. John Francis Cecil, the latter Vanderbilt's only child who are opening it to the public.

Three miles from Asheville, surrounded by virgin forest, Biltmore house stands on a mountain top which was graded for the chateau. To build it took five years work by the most skillful artisans, artists, sculptors and decorators of America and Europe. It was finished in 1895.

Vanderbilt and his assistants roamed the world gathering treasures.

Paintings by Whistler, Sargent and Boldoni and matchless Flemish tapestries hang from the walls of the vast rooms. Two of Cardinal Richelieu's scarlet robes are there. A daintily carved chessboard that once helped Napoleon Bonaparte while away the hours at St. Helena is another treasure.

In the drawer of this chessboard, accounts have it, was hidden Napoleon's heart, removed by a faithful surgeon-follower who feared he would never be taken back to his homeland.

Twenty thousand exquisitely bound volumes stand on carved shelves in the library. Its ceiling is a huge painting, purchased from an impoverished Italian nobleman, who insisted that the purchaser never reveal its orgin. Vanderbilt never did.

The gardens are a monument to the skill of the late Frederic Law Olmsted, landscape artist who designed New York's Central park.

The chateau, previously open only to house guests, will be opened to the public, March 15.

'NO WOMEN ALLOWED' IN FRENCH ACADEMY

PARIS, Feb. 23 — (AP) —Woman again has been snubbed by the academy of fine arts, the males who officially represent the artistic and intellectual elite of France.

Mademoiselle Angele Delgaulle, well known as a painter through the display of her works at many salons, wasn't even allowed to be a candidate. The government has bought a number of her pictures but the academy doesn't want any women around.

A sidelight on the subject is the fact that this academy in 1918 elected Queen Marie of Rumania a "corresponding member."

A generation ago Madam Louise Bertaux annoyed the academy by getting into the running for a seat. The committee in charge simply overlooked her and she received no votes.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Sandpaper the soles of baby's new shoes and prevent slipping or a bad fall.

A tablespoon of vinegar poured into glue that has become hardened in a bottle will soften it.

Work fat a little before measuring for a recipe so there will be no air spaces when it is pressed down.

To ripen green bananas, put them into a paper bag and set them away in a dark closet for a few days.

When oil is burning, thrown on meal, flour, sand, earth, or gravel. Water spreads the flames and increases the danger.

Chop cold boiled chicken and moisten it with salad dressing. Chicken sandwiches may be varied by adding ham, chopped celery or pickles to the chicken.

When the fruit cake is ready for baking, set it in the icebox for twenty-four hours before putting in the oven. It will be lighter and the fruits will give the dough a better flavor.

To keep the wires of a piano free from dampness and rust, tack a small bag of unslacked lime inside the piano just under the cover; this will absorb all moisture.

Stand a new paint brush on end, with bristles up and open, pour in a spoonful of good varnish, keep in this position until dry and it will not shed bristles while painting.

Wash wrought iron lamp-stands occasionally in warm soap-suds, then rinse them in clear water to remove dust that may have accumulated in the crevices.

Sparrows around the eaves and underneath the cornices of the house can be driven away if one will make a few cheesecloth bags, fill with moth balls and hang them near their haunts.

If you parboil potatoes before baking, it speeds the process considerably. Rub the skins with butter before putting in the oven and they are much softer and better to eat.

THINGS TO REMEMBER

Soak salt fish in cold water for 24 hours before cooking it.

Too quick drying of wet shoes is likely to crack the leather.

A perforated cover for the frying pan will prevent spattering.

Milk will keep sweet longer in a shallow bowl than in a jug.

A thin coat of lacquer will keep brass fixtures from tarnishing.

KEEPS APPLES WHITE

When peeling apples preparatory to making pies, drop each apple as peeled into a pan of cold water to which a few drops of lemon juice have been added. They will not then turn brown.

GAY LITTLE JUGS

They are so gay that one forgets their usefulness in the thought of using them for decoration, these amusing little jugs of green, pale yellow or bright blue china, with stripes of black and white at the bottom.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Always wash the hands after using a liniment containing chloroform or belladonna. You may accidentally touch your eyes and thus cause irritation.

If pus has formed in a sty, it should be opened by an incision parallel to the lid. Do not attempt to do it yourself. Have your physician do it. Sties often appear in succession when one's health is run down from general causes.

It is important to keep the tongue clean and it seems strange so few people realize this fact. It accumulates tartar and bacteria especially near the root. Brush the tongue with tooth powder just as you do the teeth.

Alcohol or vinegar is soothing to the feet. If your feet are tender give them a cold spray every morning. Turn on the faucet full strength, dry thoroughly with a bath towel, paying particular attention to the spaces between the toes. Wear properly fitted shoes, as ill fitting shoes are responsible for much foot trouble.

NAIL CARE

Use an orange stick for cleaning the nails or a nail file. By using a sharp instrument you cause roughening of the under surface of the nails and the dirt lodges there. To overcome this roughening insert cold cream under the nail at night and allow it to remain on.

HAIR DYES

The chief objection of hair dyes is that many of them are poisonous and harmful. It is well to have hair dyeing done by an experienced operater at a reliable hairdressing establishment.

SAFETY FOR SILKS

Any woman who has found her most precious frock reposing upon the closet floor will appreciate dress-hangers, which have wire pieces that turn under and form arms to hold the straps of slips. These have tiny indentations so that the straps are in no danger of falling.

SAGGED CHAIRS

The sagging cane bottoms of chairs can be tightened by washing in hot water and soap and rinsing in cold water, and standing upside down to dry, preferably in the sun.

WEDGEWOOD SET

A salad or fruit set, consisting of a large bowl and six plates, comes in white wedgewood with the raised pattern done also in white. This consists of a garland of fruits and flowers.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Transparent blouses are featured in fashion showings in Paris.

Peplums and ribbed treatment indicate the necessary waistline in knitted costumes—suits particularly.

A very formal Paris gown is of exquisite pearl gray chiffon, with Empire cut and the finely pleated skirt floor length all around.

They are wearing in California resorts black flat crepe dresses with long, uneven hemlines.

An occasional daytime frock of black velveteen seems especially chic after the long reign of silk crepe in solid color.

Organdie, tucked and otherwise as well as pique, lace and other lingerie collars are expected to be in brisk demand by spring.

Corduroy is one manifestation of the vogue for velvet and pile fabrics, and as yet it is to be found only in the more exclusive models.

A dark green dinner gown, for example, looks its best when with it are worn a gold turban, gold slippers and a necklace of gold filigree.

METAL BROCADE NEGLIGEE

An attractive little negligee is made of green and silver metal brocade reaching not quite to the knees, and almost tailored in its simplicity. It is worn over a pajama suit of pink crepe de Chine and the effect is wonderfully attractive.

WATERSNAKE SHOES

Gray watersnake combined with eggshell leather makes up some of the most interesting of the season's shoes and emphasizes once again the vogue for a note of gray in the ensemble.

A SCARF COLLAR

Many of the spring coats are making the collar serve two purposes. It is both a collar and a scarf. The collar terminates in a pair of long, loose ends, which may be wrapped around the throat or tossed carelessly over the shoulder. Cloth coats with collars of lightweight fur seems to be among the favorites. The hem lines tend toward regularity rather than the uneven effect.

GOLD OR SILVER MULES

Gold or silver piping adds greatly to the charm of suede mules, which are so cleverly cut that they give a slender appearance to the foot. They are particularly nice in pink or powder blue.

DANGLING EARRINGS

The long, swinging pendant earring is the newest for evening. A little rondell of turquoise, set in old gold, with old gold fringe swinging from it is one of the new designs.

LEATHER AND VELVETEEN

When one's sports are not more strenuous than playing the part of spectator, it is pleasant to slip into a skirt of black velveteen, and don a coat of green leather.

SEWING SUGGESTIONS

Always turn back two or three inches when making the heading for a curtain. This allows for shrinkage when curtains are washed.

When hemming linen tablecloths, save the threads that come off when you even the ends. Put them in an envelope and mark. When your cloth needs darning, they excel any other threads for the job.

The easiest clothes bag to make is the coat hanger type. Use a square of material, sew up both sides and round it across the top to fit a clothes hanger you hang it on. Slit it down about 12 inches from the hanger, on the side.

DRESS COVERS

Delightful dress and hat covers, to protect light-colored and more fragile garments, may be made of plain or figured materials. Plain muslin is often used for dress covers, as are polka dotted or figured percale, flowered cretonne or striped ticking. One of the most favored of new materials for this use is glazed taraton. As it comes in a wide range of lovely colors, including peach, green, mauve, pink, blue and yellow, it may readily be adapted to any color scheme. With the glazed finish it is impervious to dust and dirt. It may be made up in single covers or in wardrobe bags, with metal tops and bottoms, large enough to hold eight hangers.

LUNCH CLOTHS

Unbleached muslin squares appliqued in each corner with colored ginghams from the scrap bag make very attractive lunch cloths.

EASIER TO CUT

To cut hemstitching for a picot edge, press it on the wrong side first and it will not fray and the picots will be larger.

BUTTONHOLES

An improved method of making buttonholes that will outwear the ordinary buttonhole many times, is to baste a strip of cloth on the underside of the hem; then cut through both the strip and the hem. Cut away the surplus strip.

SHORT BLANKETS

A strip of unbleached muslin 12 to 18 inches wide sewed to the end of a short blanket to tuck in at the foot of the bed will make it serviceable since short blankets usually mean cold shoulders or cold toes.

CATCH STRINGS

When running strings through pajamas or the children's clothes, tack the strings at the center back or front. That prevents their slipping out during washing.

CLOTHES BAG

The easiest clothes bag to make is the coat hanger type. Use a square of material, sew up both sides and round it across the top to fit a clothes hanger you hang it on. Slit it down about 12 inches from the hanger, on one side.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Eleven women in England now fly their own airplanes.

Loaves of bread made by peasant women in Hungary sometimes weigh more than ten pounds each.

Among the factory workers of Japan, women are almost as numerous as men, 1,090,000 women to 1,356,000 men.

Mrs. Bee Sanders, of Okemah, Okla., is manager of two motorbus lines which travel between five towns in the state.

An average of two women is being licensed every day to fly planes in the United States. There are now 169 licensed women pilots.

In 1928 the average full-time earnings per week of 38,000 women in 158 cotton mills in the 11 states in the Union were $15.66.

Mrs. Harriet Chalmers Adams, president of the Society of Woman Geographers, has twice circled the world and visited every country in Europe.

Miss Elsie March, with her seven brothers, all sculptors, is working at Farnborough, Eng., on a large monument to be erected in Ottawa in memory of Canada's World war dead.

GOLD FISH

Be sure to give your gold fish some growing water green. Most fish supply stores carry a wide variety and a few roots cost only a dime or so.

USEFUL BLACKBIRD

A blackbird, which perches upon the closet shelf, is really a treasure, for he obligingly holds one's favorite hat. This bird is developed in black velvet with yellow trimmings and under one wing holds a flat hat-brush.

RECIPES

Savoy Meat Loaf: To a half a pound of ground lean pork and one pound of ground beef add one cupful of bread crumbs which have been soaked in half a cup of milk, to which have been added one egg, one chopped green pepper, one chopped onion, one tablespoon of salt and one teaspoon of pepper. Mix thoroughly, then make a sauce from two cups of tomato juice, two tablespoons of cornstarch and four tablespoons of butter and pour over the meat loaf. Bake until done.

Economy Pudding: Mix together half a cup of chopped suet, half a cup of chopped seeded raisins, half a cup of currants, one and one-half cups of grated bread, one cup of flour, two teaspoons of baking powder, half a cup of brown sugar and two cups of milk. Beat well, put into a greased mold, and place in a covered saucepan with boiling water halfway up the sides of the mold. Steam for two hours. Turn out carefully and serve with hard sauce.

CAPE FROM POPULAR IN EVENING WRAPS

PARIS, Feb. 23—(AP)—Did the cape collar so much in evidence in spring styles come from America to France, or did it go from France to America and back again?

Couturiers of Paris and American stylists disagree on its origin, both sides of the Atlantic claiming credit for the shoulder broadening cape, cape sleeve and cape collars.

Cape sleeves and collars are feminant notes in evening wrap styles for the coming season. Several couturiers stress evening coats with elbow length cape sleeves and fur-bordered cape collars which reach to the elbow, taking the place of sleeves.

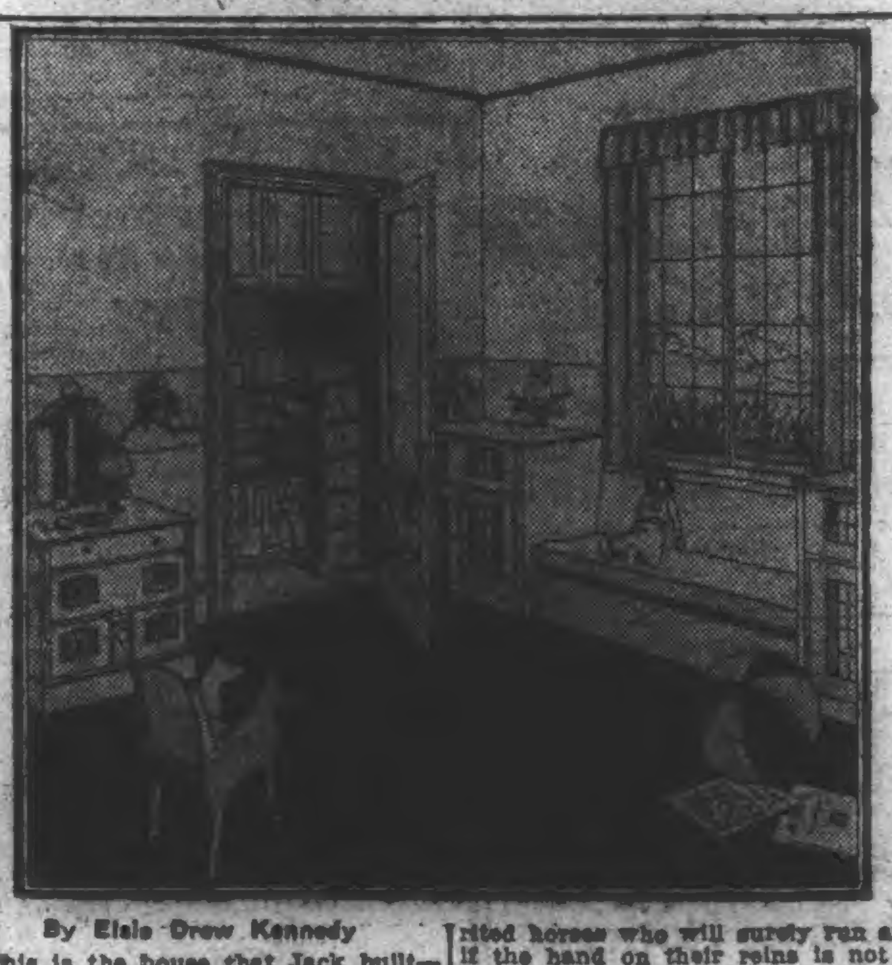
All cape forms are used extensively in the new styles. Sport, tailored, formal afternoon and evening models include the cape idea.

WASHABLE GLOVES OFFERED IN PIQUE

PARIS, Feb. 23—(AP)— Gloves of cotton pique which can be washed when they are dirty, are offered by a designer who has specialized for several seasons in novel glove ideas.

Bright red antelope gloves to wear with red costumes are another suggestion from the same house. Gloves of rubberized printed crepe de chine, with matching hat, scarf and handbag, also are shown.

THE MAKE-BELIEVE ROOM OF CHILDHOOD



By Elsie Drew Kennedy

This is the house that Jack built—

This is a room that belongs to the make-believe of childhood. In it, seven-league boots are as real in size as four and a half suffers, and far more important; fiery-breathed dragons still live to be destroyed by the silver sword of a brave knight, and golden-haired princesses are still to be rescued.

Parents should not be afraid to let their children bask in this radiance of magic. It is a stimulus to the imagination that all children need. Little boys who execute dragons are likely to grow into men who execute mergers; little girls who are fairy princesses may grow into sympathetic god mothers to less fortunate children.

In this room, the furniture is scaled to the size of the occupant. Look first at the bureau and the cupboards at each side of the window; they are built to resemble doll's houses. The drawers of the bureau are the first two stories of a little house and the mirror is the dormered roof.

There is even a chimney! By the simple application of a paint brush, black lines make the windows and oblongs of green make the shutters. Of course, the chair is a pair of high spirited horses who will surely run away if the hand on their reins is not expert, but who are gentle creatures at heart and appreciate nothing so much as a lump of sugar night and morning.

The closet is the storehouse of the Midas-like prince or princess who rules in this kingdom. The robes of state that hang on a pole are well within the reach of tiny hands, and toys, blocks, menagerie favorites and a hat or so are at the royal command without recourse to that deceitful chair which is all too ready to slip out from under the child standing on it.

A big soldier holds the door open or shut, and a little soldier holds the lamp on the bureau.

One of the most important things in a child's room is light and air. This window opens to create a sense of being in the open, even in a small room. Because children like to see what is going on outside and because the window frames a natural picture, we have deliberately omitted glass curtains, depending on the Mother goose panel around the wall for pictorial interest within the room. The color scheme should be bright and cheerful.

CANDOR IN HER PORTRAITS MRS. LONGWORTH'S DEMAND

"Paint me just as I am," Alice Roosevelt Longworth (lower) told Ellena Hellebranth (left) and her sister Berthe (right) when she posed for portraits shown on easels.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Alice Roosevelt Longworth is one of few women with courage to demand canvas candor.

"Paint me as I am—if there are lines, put them in," she told Ellena and Berthe Hellebranth, Hungarian artists. "If there is a droop under the chin, put that in too."

The sisters gasped, then seized brushes and flew to their easels.

Through they have painted many wealthy and titled women, Mrs. Longworth is the first to ask uncompromising truth. Most of them seek evasive shadows and rosy tints.

She is the first woman in their experience too, the sisters say, who has not consulted a mirror before each sitting. The wife of the speaker of the house swings nonchalantly into the studio, gives her hair a careless pat an is ready.

The girls work at the same time, but each paints Mrs. Longworth from her individual conception. Ellena sees her as courageous fearless; Berthe has caught her in a softer, more pensive mood.

"While we work she talks about everything from politics to art says," Berthe.

Globe Trotter Can Look Smart And Dress From Lone Suitcase

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—A woman can travel around the world and look smart on all occasions with only one suitcase as luggage, if she knows the secret.

Chiffons that do not easily wrinkle, hats that roll up and pack flat and a small iron—that's the magic formula.

It will be applied this summer by a party of business women who expect to gallop all over Europe with only one suit case and still look fresh and immaculate.

The women are confident it will work because they have experimented with it on two previous European trips. This summer they have reduced the travel wardrobe for women almost to an exact science—a smart, complete outfit which will go in one suit case.

They evolved this wardrobe, guaranteed to take a woman from Paris to Peiping and present her becomingly on all occasions.

Six pairs of shoes for afternoons, evening and everyday wear.

Four hats that roll or lay flat.

Three evening gowns, two afternoon frocks and two dark silk frocks for traveling.

A tailored suit, a wool tailleur.

Negligees, pajamas and costume accessories.

Everything but shoes "wads up" and can be pressed with the little iron in a hotel room.

..LONG GLOVES SMART FOR EVENING WEAR

PARIS, Feb 23—(AP)—Glove manufracturers of France and their allies the dressmakers are trying to revive the romance of milady's glove.

Colored suede gloves in the same shades as print evening dresses are displayed as part of the evening ensemble by several well known couturiers. Maroon, coral pink, green, brown black and shell pink are shown by dressmakers.

Elbow length black suede gloves monogrammed in white silk also are featured for spring as the correct thing for a black and white afternoon costume.

LATEST PARIS HOSE HAS SUNBURN TINT

PARIS, Feb. 23—(AP)—American women's preference for street hosiery darker than complexion shades has made itself felt in France.

Spring style shows were conducted by mannequins wearing hose several shades darker than stockings French women are accustomed to wear. The new shade here is in a sunburn grege. Several dressmakers promote the new dark shade for evening as well as daytime wear.

Not all couturiers, however, agree on dark shades for evening. Flesh tints are the choice of some.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN URGE NATIONALITY LAW CHANGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23— (AP) — Through its president, Dr. Mary E. Woolley, the American association of university women has written President Hoover urging that women have the same right as men to change or maintain their nationality.

Nationality is to be discussed at the conference for codification of international law which meets at The Hague, March 13. The university women request that the United States delegates be instructed to vote for a measure that would give women the same rights as men on questions of nationality.

They also urge that women experienced in international law be included in the government delegation.

WOMAN LAND OFFICE CHIEF CALLED "MRS. UNCLE SAM"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23— (AP) — Donna M. Davis, first woman to hold the office of acting chief in the United States land office, is known in Alaska as "Mrs. Uncle Sam."

Miss Davis, here on her first leave in three years, is acting chief of the land office at Anchorage, Alaska. Half of each year she does investigation field work. She follows lonely trails to remote places where she instructs miners and rangers how to handle leases.

In Anchorage she lives in a steam-heated apartment house, but when on the trail she sleeps in old log road houses.

D. A. R. GIVES RED CROSS SOCIETY'S "ORIGINAL" FLAG

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—An American Red Cross flag, believed the first ever made, has been presented to John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross.

It is the handiwork of Clara Barton, founder of the society, and Mrs. Julia Babcock Hibbard, formerly of Washington. It was given to the Red Cross by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Ham Relish Sandwiches: 12 slices thinly cut white bread, 1-2 cup chopped cooked ham, 1 hard cooked egg, diced; 1-4 cup chopped sweet pickles, 1-4 cup chopped pimiento stuffed olives, 1-3 cup salad dressing.

Arrange slices of bread in pairs, spread with butter. Mix rest of ingredients and spread on half the buttered slices. Arrange sandwich fashion and serve. Leftover baked, boiled or fried ham can be used.

Caramel Squares: 1-4 cup butter, 1 cup dark brown sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup nuts, 2 eggs, 4 tablespoons milk, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Cream butter until soft, add sugar and beat two minutes. Add rest of ingredients and beat two minutes. Pour into shallow pan lined with waxed paper. Bake 30 minutes in a moderately slow oven. Cool. When ready to serve, cut in bars one by 2 1-2 inches and roll in confectioner's sugar.

Pineapple Tart: 2 cups diced canned pineapple, 1-2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-3 cup pineapple juice or water, 1 teaspoon lemon extract.

Blend sugar and flour, add pineapple, pineapple juice, and lemon extract. Pour into a shallow, buttered pan. Dot with butter and cover with crust.

Always wash eggs before placing them in the refrigerator.

HOLY LAND SEES FIRST CAFETERIA IN HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—The first cafeteria in Palestine has been established by the Hadassah medical organization with Miss Sarah Bawly, expert dietician, at its head.

Miss Bawly has been making a study of the food problem in Palestine. She did a year's post graduate work in America. The cafeteria is in connection with the Rothschild hospital in Jerusalem and serves pupils and graduate nurses.

Chance for Flapjack Artist

PLAINS, Mont., Feb. 23—(AP)—Martin Lund, flapjack juggler at a logging camp near here, wants to match flips with other cooks. He insists he fries 10 acres of pancakes every winter and produces figures to back him up.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY SURPRISE AT JAFFE HOTEL

A surprise party was held Saturday evening at the Broadway summer hotel in recognition of the 30th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Jaffee. Miss Silvia A. Jaffee, of Hartford, their eldest daughter, was in charge of arrangements for the affair, assisted by Mrs. A. Lapping, Mrs. K. Goldstein and Mrs. Harry Gilman. Features of the evening included vocal solos by Mrs. Joseph Dember and Daniel Goldberg, and recitations by Miss Julia Gilman and Ruby Jaffe. Mrs. Joseph Agranovitch acted as toastmaster. Card games, dancing and musical selections were enjoyed after which delicious refreshments were served, the dining hall being attractively decorated with yellow streamers and bouquets of American beauty and tea roses. Over 30 friends of the Jaffe faimly were in attendance, including Mr. and Mrs. Leon Broder and daughter, Miss Annie, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Mints and daughter, Miss Bertha, Mr. and Mrs. I. Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gilman, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Goldberg, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Levine and son, Hyman, Mrs. Pincus Cutler, Mrs. Abraham Lapping, Mr. and Mrs. Max Glass, Mrs. K. Goldstein, Mrs. Barnet Rabinowitz, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dember, Mrs. Harry Solomon, Mrs. Louis Solomon, Mrs. R. S. Schwartz and Mrs. Joseph Agranovitch, all of Colchester, and Mrs. B. H. Bazanker and Miss Anne Katz of Hartford, and Abraham Feldman and Mrs. Falke, of New York.

Each of the guests spoke a few words of congratulation to Mr. and Mrs. Jaffe, who received a number of beautiful gifts from those present, in recognition of the anniversary event.

FLOCK OF RARE RED POLLS ON HAYWARD LAWN

As noted in the local column of the Feb. 10th Bulletin, a flock of the rare pine grosbeaks was seen recently about homes near the center park. During the past week, a flock of red polls has been seen on the east lawn of the Hayward property in the center of the village. These birds are rarely seen in this vicinity, they being known by bird lovers in this part of the country, as "very irregular winter visitants." They breed in the extreme north and in the winter time migrate very irregular to certain sections of northern United States. They were recently seen for the first time in many years in several towns in Minnesota. The red polls average about 5 1-4 inches in length and can be distinguished by their unusually short-pointed bill. The male bird has a grayish-brown back, white breast, tinged with pink, the wing feathers are tinged with white, a small tuft of feathers over the nostrils and a crown-cap of bright red. The female is duller in color, without the pink-tinged breast. The red poll's actions greatly resemble the goldfinch, but their flight is more rapid. Their song is strong, sweet and canary-like, their nests being found at lower elevations in bushes and low trees. Usually they are found in flocks gathering seeds from weeds in gardens, orchards and by the roadside.

Misses Margaret, Alice and Claire Brown and Cora E. Carrier, teachers in Hartford schools, spent over Sunday at their homes here.

Miss Harriet Howland, student at Academy of the Holy Family, Baltic, spent the week end with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Howland.

Flags were displayed in front of many of the residences and in store windows Saturday in observance of Washington's birthday. A number of the places of business were closed during the afternoon and evening. The post office closed at 10 a. m. and no delivery was made by the rural or village carriers, there being only one incoming mail and one outgoing mail during the day. Special exercises were held Friday in the schools.

Miss Annette Minsk of New York city visited over Sunday at her home on South Main street.

Mrs. George Smith and daughters, Misses Agnes and Cecelia, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., former local residents visited over Sunday with friends here.

The unusually warm, spring-like weather of the past week and has caused lilac bushes to start. Tulips, crocuses, star of Bethlehem and even peonies are already bursting through the ground in dooryards about the village. The country roadsides already show pussy-willows.

Joseph Ezekiel Falk, Principal John Welles Goodrich, Eugene Palmer Beebe, Representative Samuel Freedman, Lloyd W. Brown and Henry Tarnowski, some of the town's leading sportsmen, are counting the days to the opening of the trout fishing season. Several bets have already been placed by these fishermen for the honor of making the first big catch of the season.

Abraham Jaffe, David S. Bigelow and George B. Miller, the town board of relief, held their final meeting Thursday for the purpose of listening to appeals from the doings of the assessors. About 20 appeals were made at the three meetings of the board held during February. There were only two appeals made at last year's sessions.

FUNERAL

Asa B. Taylor.

Funeral services for Asa B. Taylor were held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Taylor home, 26 Norwich avenue. Rev. H. H. Tompkins, pastor of the local Congregational church officiated. Burial was in the family lot in Linwood cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Tompkins read the committal service. The floral remembrances were particularly beautiful. Relatives and friends from Middletown, Portland, Danbury, Colchester, Salem, Hartford, Hebron and other surrounding towns were in attendance.

Miss Pearl Gilman entertained a large party of friends at her home on the old Hebron road Saturday evening. Games, dancing and musical selections were enjoyed after which refreshments were served. Young people were present from Hartford, Middletown, New Haven, Storrs and Colchester.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

Packed audiences greeted the rise of the curtain on the Radio Pictures miracle film production "Rio Rita" at the Broadway theatre Saturday, and will undoubtedly continue the balance of the week, for "Rio" presents the positive last word in film photography, either silent or sound. Filmed directly from Florenz Ziegfeld's magnificent stage spectacle, and supervised by that wizard of stagecraft, amplified a thousandfold in grandeur and spectacular beauty, "Rio Rita" would have been a marvelous silent picture, but with the added witchery of perfect sound, recorded as no sound was ever put on film before, through the magic of the RCA photophone process and projected over the Broadway's perfected Western Electric recording apparatus, "Rio Rita" reaches the pinnacle of screen entertainment. Bebe Daniels scintillates in the title role as the fiery senorita from across the Rio Grande, and her tempestuous passion is expressed in several special songs, displaying in wondrous perfection her beautiful singing voice, a distinct addition to the screen vocalists. Her leading man is none other than John Boles, whose magic tenor thrilled you so in the "Desert Song." Bob Woolsey and Bert Wheeler, with their inimitable clowning are retained from the original stage cast, with Dorothy Lee, Eva Rosita and Helen Kaiser adding beauty, gayety, singing, dancing and comedy to the ensemble, heading a supporting cast of over 1,000 people. Adventure, romance, song, dance and music are blended in this amazing presentation. The latest Paramount Sound News and Douglas Stanbury's greatest success, "Pack Up Your Troubles," with Stanbury's thrilling voice in five great numbers complete the program.

Patrons are advised to scan the theatre advertising columns of the Bulletin-Record for the specially arranged time of showing "Rio Rita," as the program is so long that a special schedule has had to be arranged by the management.

The faith cure may be all right in some cases, but want of faith is the only cure for love.

IT-AND-RUN DRIVER WHO KILLED BOY BEING WATCHED FOR IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 23.—The lice today were requested to be on e lookout for a small type of auto-obile, probably a Ford or a Chevro-t, with a disfigured left headlight. A r of such a description Saturday ght struck and killed a youth of 12 the highway between Meriden and iddletown. The driver of the auto-obile speeded away. The youth was alking along the highway when he as run down, being hit with terrific rce and dying before medical aid uld be summoned. Later a car answering the description of the auto-obile was observed near Middletown ad traveling at a speed of 50 miles n hour, but the driver was not ar-sted. This car's left front headlight as out of focus for the rays of the ght caused the illumination to be rown upward instead of in front nd on the highway.

Joseph Joseph, 10 Shapley street, eported to the police today that yes-rday his room was entered and that blue suit of clothes was stolen.

LEVER TRAPPING OF MOTORIST'S ANNOYERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 23.—Edward . Walsh, 194 Shaw street, has been nnoyed much of late because of his utomobile being taken from any location on a public highway where it vas parked. This annoyance occurred wice this past week so Walsh made omplaint to the police. Saturday. Valsh was an attendant at a theatre nd as he was intending to park the utomobile, he was instructed to park t on State street at the corner of Main, and to notify the officer stationed there of the habit of persons aking the car. While Walsh was at h theatre, Traffic Officer Lawrence Pardy observed two young men enter he auto. When they started to drive away, the officer arrested them. They are William C. Mason, 95 Shaw street, and Frank Delaporta, 9 Archer court, and they are charged with using an automobile without the permission of the owner. Mason was locked up, but Delaporta obtained a surety on his bond. Both will be in court Monday.

BARBER'S VENERABLE CARS FINALLY GET HIM IN JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 23.—Fred Barber, 115 Howard street, was arrested Saturday night by Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey, charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in parking automobiles in the public highway longer than 24 hours. He did not obtain a surety on his bond of $200 and was locked up. Barber will be in the police court Monday. Barber owns four derelict automobiles and, having no place to store them, he used a portion of Sixteenth street for that purpose. Two weeks ago complaint was received by the police because of the autos being stored in the highway and Officer Bailey ordered Barber to have the cars taken away. Barber promised to do so, but failed to keep his promise. Several days later Barber was ordered to present himself in court, but he failed to comply with the edict. Last night, after a warrant had been issued for Barber's arrest, he was found by Officer Bailey and taken into custody.

Mrs. Max Munsch, 962 Bank street; Fred Friend, New Haven; Mrs. Joseph Carchide, 41 Front street; Mrs. Rocco Grippo, 87 Cutler street; Mrs. Elizabeth McCracken, Glasgo, Conn., patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

FUNERALS

Peter Fitzell

The funeral of Peter Fitzell, of Harrison's Landing, Waterford, was held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at 15 Masonic street, the services being conducted by Rev. Herbert C. Hutchins, pastor of Quaker Hill Baptist church. Burial was in Comstock cemetery, Montville.

Thaddeus P. Perkins

Funeral services for Thaddeus P. Perkins were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence in Flanders, Rev. Mr. Nilson, pastor of Flanders Baptist church officiating. Burial was in Flanders cemetery.

OBITUARY

Mrs. George Legg

Mrs. Janet Legg, widow of George Legg, died Saturday at her residence in Waterford, after a lingering illness. She was of advanced years and is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Eleanor Roberts, Mrs. May Kenyon and Mrs. Louis E. Perkins, of Jordan village and two sons, George Legg of Ontario, Canada, and William Legg, of Washington, D. C. Although in failing health several months, Mrs. Legg's condition did not become serious until two days prior to her death. She was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, but had resided in Waterford 46 years. She was a member of the Methodist church, Niantic.

Baby Dies From Burns

Gloria Santangelo, 19 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Santangelo, 18 Chappel street, died from burns sustained at the home of her parents Thursday afternoon, by falling into a tub of scalding water. The child, barely able to walk, succeeded in reaching the tub while the mother's attention was attracted elsewhere.

Simon Shifreen, 103 Squire street, reported to the police Saturday that the night before two pairs of roller skates belonging to his children were stolen from the hall of the rear entrance to his home.

A dog, the owner of which was not determined, was struck by an automobile on State street Saturday morning and died after crawling to the entrance of a store. The carcass was taken in charge by Dog Warden P. Frank Martin.

Peter Gunska, 27 Winthrop street, was arrested Saturday, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace and in default of a surety on his bond, was locked up. He will be in court Monday. Gunska went to the house, part of which is occupied by Mrs. Joe Zielninski and family. Gunska quarreled with the woman and in a short time he became fighting mad because he had been drinking. He attacked Mrs. Zielninski and besides beating her, started to wreck the interior of the rooms. The fight attracted residents of the neighborhood and the police were notified. When Automobile Patrol Officer Thomas Cavanaugh and Patrolman Dennis Murphy responded, Gunska was drunk in a chair.

The police of Baltimore Saturday requested that the New London police arrest Abraham Sudhotter, 26 Prospect street, on charges of desertion and non-support of his wife and two minor children. When an officer went to the Prospect street house, he was informed by Sudhotter's mother that her son had left for Baltimore Thursday.

Sailor's Case Continued

D. M. Hayes, a sailor, was in court Saturday, charged with intoxication, breach of the peace and resisting an officer. The second and third charges were nolled, but on the first count, a fine of $5 and costs was imposed. Hayes was arrested Friday night by Patrolman Edward Skoczylas.

The only other case presented was that of a man charged with driving without his license in his possession. The case was continued to Tuesday.

Eugene L. Conway, 109 Main street, reported to the police today that he allowed a gas stove to be stored in front of his place of business Saturday evening and today discovered that it had been stolen.

A water pipe on Midway place, Ocean Beach, burst this forenoon and a volume of water was emptied into the highway. The break was discovered by Patrolman James McKenna, who reported that fact at police headquarters. The water and sewer department was notified of the break and a repair gang was sent there to make repairs.

The mild weather today inspired a large crowd of autoists to visit Ocean Beach. Several hundred other pleasure seekers also went to the shore resort by trolley cars.

THE LATE SHERIFF S. A. BROWN IN OFFICE 25 YEARS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 23.—Sidney A. Brown, 72, sheriff of New London county 25 years, having concluded his 25th year in that office a week ago last Friday, died late Friday night at his residence, 265 Huntington street, following an illness of about a month. It was not generally known until Friday that his condition was such as to cause extreme anxiety. He is survived by his wife.

Sheriff Brown was born in Mystic and during his early manhood was employed on fishing boats. When a comparatively young man he moved to New London and was employed as jailer at the New London county jail by the late Frank Hawkins. He continued there many years and upon the death of Sheriff Hawkins, Mr. Brown retained his post under the late Sheriff George O. Jackson, formerly of Colchester. Upon the death of Sheriff Jackson, Mr. Brown was appointed sheriff, temporarily, by the legislature and at the succeeding state election Mr. Brown was the republican nominee for sheriff and was elected, holding the office ever since.

Sheriff Brown, who was the son of Thomas and Mary Abby Clark Brown, was left an orphan at the age of 16. He had been through the grade schools of Mystic by that time and his first employment was in a grocery store after the death of his mother.

In 1881 he went to Norwich and there met Frank Hawkins of Griswold who was then serving as sheriff of New London county. The sheriff took an instant liking to the wide-awake, eager Mystic boy and in 1888 Hawkins appointed him as turnkey at the county jail in Norwich. This was young Brown's first office of a public nature and he held it until 1895.

Meanwhile while serving at the county jail he had fallen in love with Sheriff Hawkins' daughter, Ella, and they were married Oct. 13, 1894.

The following year Mr. Brown came to this city and became an active figure in republican political circles and in 1897 the party rewarded his efforts by securing his appointment as a deputy collector of internal revenue. He served two years and was then appointed tax collector here, holding this office until 1905 when he was named high sheriff of the county upon the death of Sheriff George O. Jackson. The legislature was in session at the time Mr. Jackson died and in a caucus of the New London county representatives and senators the nomination of Brown was decided upon. The general assembly ratified the action of the caucus and on Feb. 14, 1905, Brown took office for Jackson's unexpired term.

In 1906 Sheriff Brown ran for the full term and was elected by an overwhelming plurality. Every four years thereafter he was re-elected and his vote always revealed him to be a political candidate of great popular appeal, drawing his strength from both the republican and democratic parties. Invariably he ran well ahead of his ticket and often it was Sheriff Brown who pulled other republican candidates for office through to success at the polls. In 1910 when the late Simeon Baldwin and the entire democratic ticket swept the state, Sheriff Brown was the only republican candidate for office in this part of the state to be elected. He defeated Ashcroft, his democratic opponent, by 991 votes when all of the other G. O. P. candidates were being buried in the democratic landslide and this achievement permanently established his popularity. Never afterwards was his candidacy seriously challenged and in many instances the democratic party experienced difficulty in finding anyone with courage enough to consent to have his name placed on the ticket in opposition to Brown.

SHERIFF SIDNEY A. BROWN

Early in life Brown manifested the qualities of leadership and these came to the fore shortly after he became sheriff. He became closely associated with the late State Central Committeeman William Brennan, the late United States Senator Frank B. Brandegee and others who were leaders of the republican party in those days and between them a powerful machine which aligned itself with the regular state organization, was built up.

Later upon the death of Brennan, who was state central committeeman from this district and the generally acknowledged leader of the New London county republican organization, Sheriff Brown stepped into his shoes as county leader and the present judge of the police court, Daniel M. Cronin, who had progressed rapidly to a commanding position in politics, was named to succeed to the vacancy on the state central committee, a place he has held ever since.

By the death of Sheriff Brown it will become mandatory for Governor John Trumbull to make a temporary appointment because of the legislature not being in session. It has already developed that there are candidates seeking the appointment, but who will be named to assume the duties of the position, which carries with it an annual salary of $6,000, remains to be seen. George H. Bradford of Montville, at present employed as inspector by the state motor vehicle department, is mentioned as is also Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin, this city, who attended to the duties of Sheriff Brown during the latter's last illness. Another name mentioned for the office is that of Attorney Benjamin H. Hewitt of Stonington. Deputy Sheriff Martin had long served under Sheriff Brown and has been court officer in the civil and superior courts many years. He long was considered by Sheriff Brown one of the latter's most efficient deputies.

At Wedding Anniversary

ENDANGERED THE LIVES OF TROLLEY PASSENGERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 23.—John Mills, Submarine base, was arrested Saturday by State Police Officer John Smith charged with violation of the automobile law on two counts, passing a standing trolley car and passing an automatic light that was set at danger. He will be in court Monday. Mills was driving on Bank street and while the automatic signal was set against the approach of the auto, Mills drove from traffic and passed the motionless trolley car. Officer Smith gave chase to the speeding auto and overtook it on Truman street, where the driver was arrested.

A Joy Ride, But Not Married

Cecelia Silva, 15, daughter of Mrs. Frances Silva, 117 Bayonet street, and Pauline Demoniski, 16, of 8 Fraser street, two students at Nathan Hale grammar school, who it was believed had eloped with a couple of youthful acquaintances, have returned home. The girls declared that they had been for an automobile ride, and had remained away from their studies simply to enjoy the ride.

Borrowed Machines Abandoned

Two automobiles were reported as having been stolen today and both cars were recovered. Dominick Bonanno, 51 Smith street, informed the police that a Buick car, owned by his father, Michael Bonanno, of the same address, was placed in the garage Saturday night at 7 o'clock and this morning it was discovered that the car had been stolen. A short time later, Automobile Patrol Officer Thomas Cavanaugh found the car wrecked at the corner of Pequot and Montauk avenues, the driver of the machine undoubtedly having lost control of the steering wheel, for the auto was wedged between two trees and a fence.

The other automobile, which is owned by Raymond Purdy, 41 Raymond street, was parked for the night in front of the owner's home. This morning at 11:30, several hours after Purdy discovered the auto missing, he acquainted the police with that fact. Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey found the car a half hour later, abandoned on Cottage street.

"Eddie Mack Special" Goes Through

A special train from Boston, en route to Miami, Fla., with 175 admirers of Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, who will meet Phil Scott, British fighter, in a 15-round bout in the southern city next Thursday night, passed through New London at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The train, which is known as the "Eddie Mack Special," stopped in New London for five minutes.

STATE POST OFFICE CLERKS ELECT H. A. NORTON PRES.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 23—The ninth annual convention of the Federation of Post Office Clerks of Connecticut, held in this city Saturday, proved a stormy session, as a result of the issues of the association with the Hartford Better Business bureau which elicited state wide attention the past week, as a result of recent exploits of the association's doings during the past year. The business session was held at Lyric hall and was attended by more than 100 members, and was a riotous session. An effort was made to oust Harry A. Norton, Hartford as a member of the state organization out instead of being dropped as such. Mr. Norton was elected president of the association by a vote of 28 to 14. The result of the election of the other officers was as follows: First vice president, Joseph A. H. Sullivan, New London; second vice president, Frank Adams, New Haven; third vice president, Harry Phalon, Bridgeport; secretary, William Newman, Bridgeport; treasurer, Andrew George, Middletown; chairman financial committee, Francis Shay, New Haven; Thomas Botticelli, New Britain, Joseph Hainesworth, Hartford; Henry Shaw, South Manchester, and Edward Egan, Willimantic, organization committee. At the conclusion of business, the association and its guests enjoyed a banquet and dance at the Hotel Mohican. After the feasting there were addresses by Lieut.-Gov. Ernest E. Rogers, Morris Lubchansky, president of the New London chamber of commerce, and J. Edward Quimby, vice president of the National Association of Postal Clerks. Several hours of dancing followed in the hotel ball room.

The condition of Melvin F. Gilleney, 50 High street, Mystic, who has been on the critical list at Lawrence Memorial hospital as a result of injuries sustained when the Groton and Stonington Transportation bus which he was driving collided with a five-ton truck on Poquonoc road, Groton, is reported today as being slightly improved. Gilleney received internal injuries.

Edward Dondero is confined to his home on Washington street, suffering from what is believed to be a ruptured blood vessel. His condition is considered serious.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

In "She Couldn't Say No," the marvelous comedy romance in which Winnie Lightner is now playing at the Palace theatre, Winnie is shown as an entertainer in a night club, desperately in love with Jerry the former racketeer who has become her manager. But Jerry (Chester Morris) has no interest in the matter at all. Winnie tells Jerry of her great love for him and begs him to give up the society girl whom he is playing around with. Winnie feels that this girl is interested in him merely because he is entirely different from the men she has been accustomed to meet.

He insists on proclaiming his love for this other girl, and it is not until months later that his eyes are opened after Winnie has left the city broken-hearted.

But, speaking of thwarted love and disillusionment, let Winnie herself tell you about the play. She says:

"While I was playing the leading role in 'She Couldn't Say No,' I realized for the first time what a heartbreaking experience it is for a woman to love a man who does not love her. I studied the part so thoroughly that I am sure I gained a complete understanding of the character. Of course, it would not do for me to say that I play it convincingly, but when you see 'She Couldn't Say No,' which is now playing at the Palace theatre, I hope you will enjoy my performance. I sure did my best to entertain you."

"She Couldn't Say No" is not just a song and dance film. It has lots more than that. It has tragedy and pathos and a winsome lightheartedness which tug at all the emotions until one is not sure whether laughter or tears is next in order. Those who attend it will hear Winnie sing some delightful songs, songs as appealing as those she sang in her previous shows, and will hear the famous wise-cracking comedienne at her best.

But in addition "She Couldn't Say No" is an absorbing drama. The supporting cast includes lots of famous people such as Chester Morris, Sally Eilers, Johnny Arthur and Tully Marshall. It is well worth seeing indeed.

Starting Wednesday at the Palace is a double feature program including "Wedding Rings" and "The Viking," two pictures about which the public is going to hear more before very long, and two pictures about which one might talk a long, long time, so good are they.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR RAYMOND PARKHURST

A surprise birthday party was held at the home of Raymond Parkhurst of 105 Roath street, in honor of his 21st birthday. Many friends and relatives were present. The dining room was prettily decorated in pink and yellow. Saxaphone and harmonica selections were rendered by Harold Kinne and Mr. Parkhurst. During the evening a speech was made by Harold Kinne, after which a beautiful onyx ring and other gifts were presented to Mr. Parkhurst. Games, music and dancing were enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Miss Florence Parkhurst, assisted by Miss Irene Bentley.

Among those present were Roberta Kinney, Anna Cumbanski, Alice St. Laurent, Edith Jennes, Helen Barry, Stella St. Laurent, Dorothy Jennes, Celia Cadare, Lea LeBell, Blanche Fournier, Irene Bentley, Ethel Parkhurst and Florence Parkhurst, John Stuart, Stanley Seraber, Harold Kinne, William Sebastian, Harold Babbitt, William Burnell, Francis Herbert, Albert Levitsky, John Fitzgerald, Chauncey Geer, Harold Dooley, Leon, Clarence and Raymond Parkhurst. The party broke up at a late hour, all present wishing Mr. Parkhurst many more pleasant and happy birthdays.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas McCormick and daughter, of Yonkers, N. Y., are spending a few days at the home of Dr. McCormick's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth McCormick, on Prospect street.

Mrs. Grace McSheffrey, of Southington, Conn., is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McSheffrey, on Central avenue.

John Higgins of New Haven spent the week end with his aunt, Mrs. Charles Gay, of Eleventh street.

Washington's birthday was observed in Greeneville when flags were displayed from homes and stores. Several offices of the local factories that have their main offices at New York city were closed all day.

Takes Swim In February.

Friday being a warm daw two youths of Greeneville thought they would try out their bathing suits that had been placed away in the moth balls and tried them out in the Shetucket canal. After swimming a while they went after new thrills, so they held a diving contest. The highest dive was from the roof of the United States Finishing company. The boys drew a large audience. They did not receive any bad effects from their early plunge.

Leslie Carroll, a student at Fordham university, spent the week end with his grandmother, Mrs. William Carroll, on Prospect street.

Miss Catherine Bergon, local school teacher, of Fifth street, is spending the week's recess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Bergon, at Waterbury.

TAFTVILLE

Miss Agnes M. Dougherty of Prentice street has returned from New York where she has been spending a few days as the guest of Miss Mollie Rainey, a former classmate at the Academy of the Holy Family at Baltic.

Those attending the joint district meeting of the American legion and the Legion auxiliary at Baltic on Thursday were Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Kelly of upper Merchants avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Frohmader of Prentice street; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Poirier of Merchants avenue; Mrs. Clara T. Caron of Blissville; Miss Aurette Fournier and Donat Fournier of Providence street; Mrs. Thomas Perkins Sears of North Fifth avenue; Theodore J. Belval of Riverside grove; Gustave Greenwood of South Second avenue and Napoleon J. Benoit of Merchants avenue.

Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church of Norwich gave a most interesting talk Thursday evening to the members of the Men's class of the Taftville Congregational church in the church lecture rooms. Rev. Mr. Abbott took for his topic "The American Mind," and described how every day's matters relate to peoples' minds. Such common questions and salutations as "What's On Your Mind" show how important the mind is in the life of professional and business men. Minds are divided into three classes; the highly intellectual mind as that of Thomas Edison and Eli Whitney among inventors; and Beethoven in music; the everyday or normal mind such as is possessed by the vast majority of people; and the degenerate or under developed mind. Rev. Mr. Abbott explained to his audience the great driving or governing force of the mind, and how anarchy results when that force neglects to function. This is true also in the affairs of state. The speaker pictured the chaos of the reign of terror of the French revolution, of the situation in Red Russia, stating it to be true that something good comes of such confusion in its own good time. He also spoke of music and tin-pan jazz which is anarchy in music, but which will teach people something after it has run its course. At the conclusion of his talk, the members gave Rev. Mr. Abbott a rising vote of thanks. At the business meeting the president, Albert Airey presided, and after adjournment refreshments of coffee and doughnuts were served by a committee consisting of James Heap, Edwin Heap, Albert Edward Airey and Howard Kloss. The balance of the evening was given over to music.

Frederick Meyer of New York spent the holiday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Meyer of Providence street.

After spending a few days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Torrance of North Third avenue, Archibald D. Torrance has returned to his home in New York.

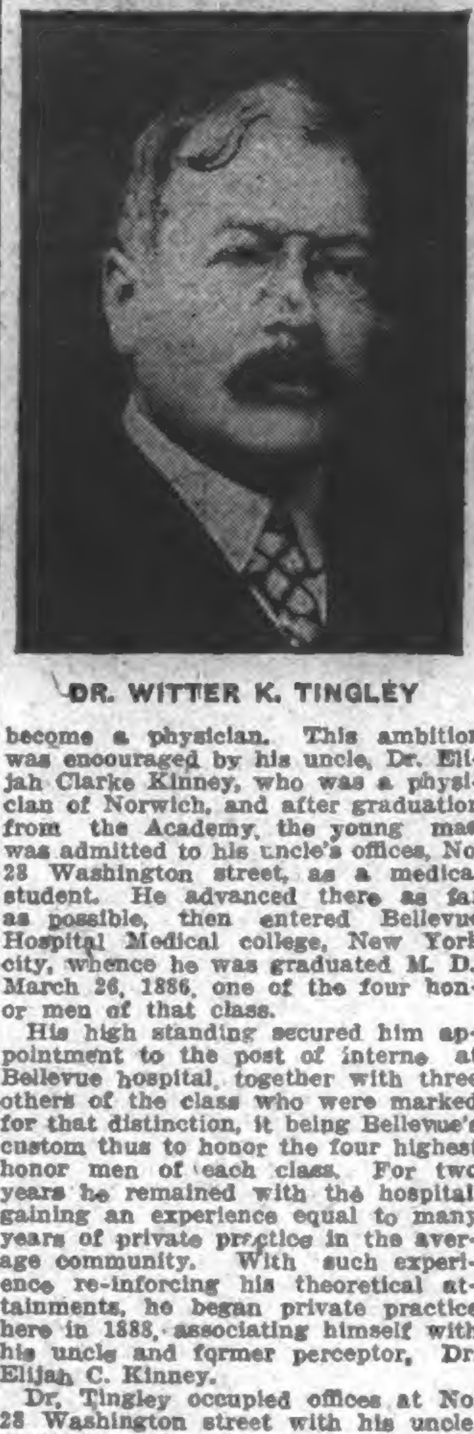
The next meeting of the Thimble club is to be with Mrs. George Helmboldt at her home in Blissville.

LONG AND USEFUL LIFE OF VETERAN NORWICH PHYSICIAN IS AT AN END

Dr. Witter Kinney Tingley, chief surgeon of the W. W. Backus hospital staff, and one of the most widely known physicians and surgeons in eastern Connecticut, died Saturday evening about 9:30 o'clock at his home, No. 7 Broad street. Dr. Tingley had been seriously ill for a week and Saturday morning Dr. Louis M. Gomperts of New Haven, widely known stomach specialist, was in conference with Dr. Tingley's physicians at his home on Broad street.

Witter Kinney Tingley, eldest of the children of William H. and Sarah (Kinney) Tingley, was born in Norwich, at the Kinney homestead, July 25, 1862. He was graduated from Broadway Grammar school, in 1878, and the Norwich Free Academy, class of 1882.

From boyhood he had a desire which ripened into a fixed ambition to become a physician. This ambition was encouraged by his uncle, Dr. Elijah Clarke Kinney, who was a physician of Norwich, and after graduation from the Academy, the young man was admitted to his uncle's offices, No. 28 Washington street, as a medical student. He advanced there as far as possible, then entered Bellevue Hospital Medical college, New York city, whence he was graduated M. D., March 26, 1886, one of the four honor men of that class.



DR. WITTER K. TINGLEY

His high standing secured him appointment to the post of interne at Bellevue hospital, together with three others of the class who were marked for that distinction, it being Bellevue's custom thus to honor the four highest honor men of each class. For two years he remained with the hospital, gaining an experience equal to many years of private practice in the average community. With such experience re-inforcing his theoretical attainments, he began private practice here in 1888, associating himself with his uncle and former perceptor, Dr. Elijah C. Kinney.

Dr. Tingley occupied offices at No. 28 Washington street with his uncle, until the latter's death, October 19, 1892, then continued alone at the same location until 1900, when he caused his present building to be erected on Main street, a building devoted to his own personal office use.

Dr. Tingley, during the years 1889-94 was surgeon on the private yachts "Sagamore" and "Eleanor" owned by the late William A. Slater and with Mr. Slater cruised the world over. After his return from a voyage to Europe with Mr. Slater in 1894, he decided to make surgery his special line of practice and in that year he took advanced post-graduate courses at the University of Vienna, the hospitals of Vienna, Dresden, Brussels, Paris and London. After completing his self imposed course of study he returned to Norwich and resumed practice.

In 1892 Dr. Tingley became one of the incorporators of the then newly organized William W. Backus hospital in Norwich and from that year on was a member of the staff of that institution. His services to the hospital was invaluable. From its organization in 1892 until January 1, 1920, Dr. Tingley was surgeon and gynaecologist to the hospital and since the latter date surgeon-in-chief, the first man to hold that rank at the hospital.

Dr. Tingley enjoyed a very large practice, and in the line of professional duty in the old days he frequently drove his team to patients 25 miles from Norwich. He won high reputation and while demands upon him were heavy, he gave himself freely to professional duty and met every demand made upon him if humanly possible.

Dr. Tingley at one time filled the post of city health officer for four years; served the city of Norwich as a councilman for two years; was a member of the Norwich Medical society; New London County Medical society; Connecticut State Medical society; American Medical society; Bellevue Hospital Alumni association.

In political faith Dr. Tingley was a republican. He was a member of Christ Episcopal church; Somerset lodge, No. 34, F. & A. M.; Franklin chapter, No. 4, Royal Arch Masons; Franklin council, Royal and Select Masons; Columbian Commandery, No. 4, K. T.; and in the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite held membership in King Solomon Lodge of Perfection; Council of Princes of Jerusalem; Norwich Chapter of Rose Croix and Connecticut Consistory. He was also a noble of the Mystic Shrine and one of the original members of Norwich Lodge No. 430, B. P. O. E.

Dr. Tingley married, in this city, September 29, 1910, Ethel Frances Ryan by whom he is survived. There are also a son, John Kinney Tingley, two daughters, Barbara Kinney Tingley and Sarah Kinney Tingley, and one sister, Mrs. John Dixon Hall of this city.

Dr. Tingley was ever a student and in home and foreign institutions sought for deeper learning and more perfect knowledge of the medical profession. To his other acquirements he added the gift of a ready pen and the ability to impart to others through his writings the results of his search and experience. Thus he enriched the literature of his profession with various papers and pamphlets given to his brethen through the "Proceedings of the Connecticut Medical Society." As far back as 1891 he read before that society a paper on "Meningitis Tuberculosa" which is yet in print and widely quoted. Another of his well known papers was a "Resume of Ectopic Pregnancy to Maturity." He specialized in surgery in later years and won honorable rank among the leaders in that branch of his profession.

He counted among his friends, who were legion, members of the medical profession throughout the state and elsewhere. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him, his sterling traits of character gaining him many life long friends. His passing is a distinct loss to the community and the deep sympathy of all is extended the family.

Announcement was made Sunday that the funeral will be held at Christ Episcopal church and that the body will lie in state at the church from 1 to 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

NEW ELECTRIC RATES IN FORCE IN BOZRAH

Discussion of the rates of the Bozrah Electric company of Bozrah was held Friday morning in the hearing room of the public utilities commission at Hartford, at which 30 persons from that place represented the company and customers. Because of the absence of the attorney for the company, the scheduled hearing was not held, but both sides aired opinions and an agreement was reached.

Because of dissatisfaction of customers with the rates, which they termed unreasonable, President Nathan Gilman of the company, has made out new rates at the request of the commission, and these went into effect February 1. Whether the new rates will lower the average cost of current cannot be ascertained until the first bills are made out, because of the complicated scale for different types of service, it was announced. Meanwhile the customers question any improvement until the bills are received March 1.

WASHINGTON DECORATIONS FOR GIRLS' CITY CLUB

The Girls' City club under the auspices of the Woman's City club held its regular meeting Friday evening with another good attendance. The room at No. 9 Washington street had been decorated with red white and blue colors, small paper hatchets and a cherry tree. A large picture of George Washington and a smaller one of Martha Washington were displayed.

The routine business session was conducted by Irene Combies, the president. Each member of the club was given two small ribbons of the club colors, orange and brown, to be worn by them. A period of recreation was enjoyed by the girls during which games and dancing took place followed by the serving of refreshments.

It was announced that on Feb. 28 at 7:30 Miss Tomlinson, psychiatrist of the mental hygiene clinic at Backus hospital would address the girls.

Gives Sunshine Box

Mrs. Jennie Smith of Fitchville, who is ill with rheumatism, was very pleasantly surprised Sunday evening by members of the degree team of Mooseheart Legion, who presented a sunshine box to her, containing fruits of all kinds, candy and toilet articles. Mrs. Smith, who is a past regent of Women of Mooseheart Legion, is confined to her home in bed and she greatly appreciated the members calling on her.

The officers of the chapter hope to have every member call on her or send her a card.

At Psychiatric Meeting

A number of prominent Connecticut people spent the week end in New York attending the annual meeting of the American Orthopsychiatric association.

Dr. E. S. Rademacher of the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene was one of the speakers on the program. Among those attending were Dr. R. J. Carson, Miss Nancy Tomlinson of the Norwich mental hygiene clinic.

Surprise Party For Miss Rita Quinn

A very pleasant surprise party was given to Miss Rita Quinn at her home, 129 Sachem street, last Friday evening, by the G. and B. club of which she is a member. The rooms were attractively decorated with red, white and blue. Many games were played and there were patriotic songs. Popular vocal selections were rendered by Florence Dominique, Rita Quinn and Elsie Hogan, accompanied by Alice Flynn at the piano, and Ruth Crawford with the violin. Other selections were given by Leo Billadeau and Robert Kearns. Salad, sandwiches, cake, cookies, candy and punch were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Helen Desmond and Miss Alberta Crawford. The guests were the Misses Ruth Crawford, Alice Flynn, Florence Dominique, Elsie Hogan, Mary Connell, Mary Haggerty, Lucille Lawrence, Rose Gelo, Victoria Malard, Rita Quinn, Isabel Stone, Janet Clark, Robert Kearns, John Cox, Leo Billadeau, Daniel Foley, John Riley, Edward Smith, Thomas Roche, Jerome McGee, Ellsworth Waters, Michael Connette, Vincent Quinn, Daniel Sebastian and Samuel Goman.

They are Otho G. Chase of No. 7 McKinley avenue, who is charged with speeding, and Ferrier Beaudoin of No. 261 Norwich avenue, Taftville, charged with reckless driving.

FIRE DAMAGES OPTICAL PLANT TO EXTENT OF $5,000

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 23—Fire of undetermined origin broke out about 9.45 o'clock tonight in the boiler house of the George J. Kirby and Co. optical plant at Mansfield Hollow, destroying the boiler house and causing an estimated damage of $5,000. The blaze, which gained considerable intensity for a time was fought by platoons from the Willimantic fire department under direction of Chief Charles A. Reynolds and the North Windham department under direction of Orrin Moseley. The pumper engine of the local department was put into use and five lines of hose were played on the fire. The fire was gotten under control shortly before midnight. The boiler house, like the main plant, is two stories, stone structure, being connected with the main building by a bridge. Considerable damage by water was done to opeical goods in the main building when the roof of the structure caught fire. Many volunteers were on hand to assist the firemen.

NORWICH TOWN

WASHINGTON AND LINCOLN HONORED BY PUPILS

Stereopticon views of scenes connected with the life of Washington were shown and explained. The exercises were under the general supervision of the principal, Mr. Tarbox.

FUNERAL

William H. Whiteman

Funeral services for William H. Whiteman were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home, 232 West Town street, with a large attendance of relatives, friends and neighbors, a number being present from out of town. Rev. David A. Pitt, D.D., pastor of the Central Baptist church, conducted the services and at the close read a part of The Eternal Goodness, by Whittier. Frederick Maples, chorister at the Central Baptist church, sang Lead Kindly Light and Nearer, My God to Thee. Among the honorary bearers were three members of Sedgwick post, G. A. R., Commander George C. Crocker, John Curran, who was 90 last December, and Mr. Service of Greeneville. The active bearers were Deacon Frederick Vergason, Deacon Dwight W. Avery, Frank S. Avery and John M. Swahn. Rev. Dr. Pitt conducted a brief committal service at the vault in Maplewood cemetery. The casket was draped with the American flag. Among out-of-town relatives and friends attending were: Mr. Whiteman's sister, Mrs. Mary E. Potter, of Washington; his nephew's wife, Mrs. Frank R. Potter, also of Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tucker and daughter, Miss Margaret Tucker, also their son, Samuel Tucker, cousins, from Wakefield, R. I.; and Arthur Schoville, of Newport, R. I., who during his boyhood was brought up at Mrs. Whiteman's former home. Undertaker Charles A. Gager was in charge of the arrangements.

Among the choice floral emblems were: Pillow marked husband; wreath of roses, hyacinths and lilies, Mrs. Mary E. Potter; spray of hyacinths and tulips, Mrs. Frank R. Potter; spray of carnations, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hough and Mrs. Philena Hough Noland; spray of pink and white carnations, Mrs. Andrew Gardner and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phelps; spray of calla lilies and red tulips, from Sedgwick post, G. A. R.; spray of red tulips and white carnations and hyacinths, intermingled with violets, to represent the National colors, from Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War; spray of pink carnations, Woman's Relief corps; spray of yellow and purple tulips, Mrs. Emily Irish and Miss Lola Belle Roath; large spray of red and white carnations, from Mr. and Mrs. Dwight W. Avery and Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Avery. A very beautiful basket of tulips, hyacinths and primroses was sent to Mrs. Whiteman as a remembrance from Class 32 of the Central Baptist church of which she is the teacher.

"Now I Feel 100% Better"

"People told my mother how good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was for young girls, so I took it. I used to feel miserable at certain times but now I feel 100% better and have gained a little in weight too. I am only nineteen years old. I do not work but of course I help mother with the housework. We are both much pleased with the results from the Vegetable Compound and we recommend it to other girls who need it."—*Bernice M. WARNING OF NECESSITY TO KEEP GOVT. EXPENSES DOWN

President Hoover At White House Breakfast Confronted His Legislative Chieftains With the Dwindling Treasury Balance—Stated That Bills Now Before Congress, Calling For More Than $1,500,000,000, Would Mean a 40 Per Cent. Increase In Taxes.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Attention of the tariff-troubled republican congressional leadership was directed by President Hoover today to the necessity of keeping government expenses down.

At breakfast in the white house, the president confronted his legislative chieftains with Secretary Mellon and the dwindling treasury balance. He gave notice that there could be no more extra appropriations without a corresponding raise in taxes.

Summarizing bills now before congress calling for additional government outlays, the president warned that they would call for more than $1,500,000,000 and would mean a 40 per cent increase next year in taxes. He shut the door to all except those involved in the business improvement program.

So far as the republican spokesmen at the capitol are concerned, they are going ahead working on the tariff bill with the understanding that Mr. Hoover is going to take no hand in the dispute over rates. Speaker Longworth, who was not in the city in time for the breakfast disclosed this after a luncheon at the white house.

Mr. Longworth conceded after the conference that perhaps the house republican tariff bill had gone beyond Mr. Hoover's recommendations in some respects. But, he said, in nearly 25 years experience in the house he had found that tariff bills always expanded when they were being written.

As for the government's finances, which came in for severe scrutiny today, Walter Newton, executive secretary to the president, announced after the parley that the merits of the many proposals before congress were not gone into in detail but that a general warning had been sounded.

The president was represented as desiring that first consideration in the appropriations be given to the needs of war veterans. With the government cutting $160,000,000 off this year's tax collections, he said there was a margin of only $50,000,000 for extras above the regular budget for next year.

The white house breakfast party included Secretary Mellon, under Secretary Mills, Director Roop, of the budget bureau; the republican leaders in congress, Senator Watson, of Indiana, and Representative Tilson, of Connecticut; Senator McNary, of Oregon, assistant leader; Chairman Jones of the senate appropriations committee, Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee; Chairman Hawley, of the house ways and means committee, and Chairman Snell, of the house rules committee.

Speaking of the conference in the senate, Senator Glass of Virginia, a former democratic secretary of treasury, observed that "the whole thing is bunk and they know it is bunk."

Representative Garner of Texas, the democratic leader in the house, expressed the opinion that the conference was "a move to divert the attention of the public from the chaotic economic and unemployment conditions brought on by lack of leadership of the president."

"What the president is trying to do," he said, "is to restore himself in the confidence of some of his republican leaders. Congress never had the slightest thought of authorizing the appropriations outlined in the white house statement, or doing anything that would create a deficiency in the national treasury."

Another democrat on the senate appropriations committee, Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, referred to the conference as "all poppycock."

"It is simply the setting up of a straw man," said McKellar, "to be knocked down. Bills for large appropriations are always introduced but congress doesn't appropriate more than we can afford. It's an attempted scare. It's all poppycock."

SENATE VOTES FOR HIGH TARIFF RATES ON WOOL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Four roll call votes in the senate today showed overwhelming majorities in favor of te highest wool rates ever to be placed in a tariff bill to protect both the grower and manufacturers.

Three of them sent down to defeat democratic proposals to slash the Hawley-Smoot levies on coarse wools used in the manufacture of cheap clothing, the protective rates on wool yarn, and the ad valorem duties on men's, youths' and boys' clothing, leaving unchanged the bill tariffs on all of these articles.

A fourth record vote easily carried an amendment by Senator Thomas, republican, Idaho, recently assigned a berth on the tariff readjusting finance committee, to make dutiable at the much higher wool rates all mixed woven fabrics containing 15 per cent or more of wool by weight. These fabrics at present bear materially lower duties according to the chief value of the material.

All of the votes came in the face of bitter denunciation of the wool schedule by Senator George, democrat, Georgia, who asserted it was one of the "twin sins" of the bill. With the rayon schedule, he said, the two were the measure's glaring iniquities.

TILSON'S VIEWS OF TARIFF MUDDLE IN THE SENATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.— Republican Floor Leader Tilson today expressed a firm conviction President Hoover will take no steps to clear up the senate tariff muddle by pointing out items of which he approves or disapproves rates.

Said Col. Tilson: "I do not for a minute think the president will fall into any such trap. He would then be playing into the hands of those who do not believe in republican tariff or republican policies by giving them the opportunity to refuse to vote for the bill on account of specified items, giving them a point for specific attack. The president has asked for protection of all industries needing protection and has made his attitude clear in his speech of acceptance and in every address since election. I do not believe he will ever combine or approve any move or coalition that is against adequate protection as set forth in republican platform and party principles."

All the same there are those here who believe the president would accept a modification of the high tariff rather than have the bill fail to pass. Col. Tilson believes the talk of the president being affiliated with any insurgent democratic for tariff reduction is entirely incorrect and unthinkable. A rumor is afloat here today that the senate will take some step to act on pending appropriation bills before the tariff is cleaned up, in order that such bills may be in conference while tariff is still before the senate and so avoid a possible recess of the house while the senate catches up in the work.

MERGER OF OIL COMPANIES TO BE TESTED IN COURTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—The legality of the proposed billion and a half dollar merger of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company will be tested in the courts by the department of justice before it is completed.

The department announced today that judicial proceedings would be inaugurated within ten days in St. Louis courts, to test the validity of the merger. This action will be taken because attorneys of the government disagree with the contention of counsel for the corporations that there can be no question of the legality of the action. After studying the plans, department officials said they felt that they should be passed upon by the court.

MAYOR "BOSSY" GILLIS VISITING SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24—(AP)—Andrew J. (Bossy) Gillis, mayor of Newburyport, Mass., was among San Francisco's distinguished visitors today and the city didn't know exactly what to do about it.

"Bossy" had been quoted as saying he was coming to California to find a wife and that blondes are barred.

When he arrived here on the liner Virginia today from Los Angeles he characterized reports of his wife-hunt as "a lot of this, that and the other." But he admitted it was first class publicity and said he had no objections to it.

There were no appreciable crowd of women at the dock to meet Mr. Gillis.

BAKER ADJUDGED SANE; FACES MURDER INDICTMENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—Adjudged sane by two physicians who examined him after he was locked in the Tombs today, James Baker, 23, faces indictment for the murder of Henry Gaw, laboratory watchman, here in December a year ago.

Thomas C. T. Crain, district attorney, announced he would immediately proceed against Baker in the Gaw case after Dr. Perry M. Lichtenstein, Tombs prison physician and Dr. Otto H. Schultze, Crain's medical assistant, reported that in their opinion Baker was sound of mind.

CHICAGO IS RESORTING TO INSTALLMENT CERTIFICATES

CHICAGO, Feb. 24—(AP)—Tax certificates on the installment plan were offered for sale by the citizens rescue committee today as the "Save Chicago" campaign to raise $76,000,000 for the municipal, county and school governments went rapidly ahead.

Calling on his war time experience as a liberty loan drive expert, Philip R. Clarke, banker and chairman of the group assigned the money raising task, has organized the city into classifications, each class was given a quota of tax warrant subscriptions. The plumbing, heating and ventilating class was the first to "go over the top."

BODY OF MISSING MAN WAS FOUND IN FIELD

SOUTHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Herbert Aichler, 54, who had been missing since Saturday, was found dead tonight in a field near his home. Dr. William T. Nagle, medical examiner, gave a verdict of suicide.

A bottle which had contained poison was found near the body. An examination of Aichler's clothes revealed about $500 in money and checks belonging to the Clarence A. Cowles company, which had employed the victim as a truck driver.

Aichler, who is survived by his widow and two children, left his home Saturday morning while members of his family were asleep.

MOTION OF COUNSEL FOR CONN. CONVICTS DENIED

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 24—(AP)—Judge Daniel A. Simmons, in circuit court today, denied a motion by Ion L. Farris, attorney for Roland Lalone and Watson Moulthrope, seeking a bill of particulars.

Farris sought to compel the state to show its hand in the case against Lalone and Moulthrope, who with Leo Landry are charged with the murder of Detective Willie Jones in a gun battle here January 17. The trio came to Florida in a stolen automobile after sawing their way out of the state prison at Wethersfield, Conn.

SUGGEST PUBLIC FUNERAL FOR MABEL NORMAND

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24—(AP)—A public funeral for Mabel Normand, who died yesterday in Monrovia, Calif., sanitarium, was suggested today by friends as a last tribute of the popular comedienne.

Definite arrangements were held in abeyance, however, pending the arrival from New York of the actress' mother, Mrs. Mary Normand, a brother, Claude, Jr., and a sister, Gladys.

Killed While Flying To Bedside Of Wife

Family Physician Also Met Death With G. T. Patten of Chattanooga, Tenn.

SMYRNA, Ga., Feb. 24—(AP)—A young Chattanooga, Tenn., capitalist and his family physician, flying to the bedside of the former's wife, were killed near here today as their ship plunged to earth while attempting a landing. The pilot was injured seriously, but physicians said he probably would recover.

George Tarbell Patten, 25, and Dr. Lyle D. West, had taken off this morning from Chattanooga with Jersey Ringel as pilot for a flight to Clearwater, Fla., where Mrs. Patten is suffering injuries received in an automobile accident.

The plane apparently was in trouble as it flew low over Marietta, three miles north of the airport here. It circled the landing field once and banked as if to gain altitude. Witnesses said the ship suddenly plunged downward and crashed into a field.

Patten was dead when his body was removed from the wreckage, but Dr. West lived for several hours.

Advices from Clearwater said Mrs. Patten's injuries were severe.

Patten, who was president of Southern Flier, Inc., on being advised of the injury of his wife, last night ordered the ship ready to take off this morning and asked Dr. West to accompany him.

Patten was one of the wealthiest young men in Tennessee and a member of a socially prominent family.

Dr. West was chief of staff of the Chattanooga hospital.

COOLIDGE WARNED TO LOOK OUT FOR GUNMAN

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24—(AP)—Calvin Coolidge today received a letter warning him that a gunman had arrived here with the intention of taking his life, but apparently the missive proved of far more concern to a bodyguard than to the former President and Mrs. Coolidge who are visiting here.

Mr. Coolidge came across the missive while examining a huge pile of mail which had accumulated during his week end trip to the home of Mark Requa, California republican leader, at Santa Barbara, Calif.

With characteristic calmness, Mr. Coolidge read the letter, arched his eyebrows slightly, and turning to a guard remarked:

"Guess this belongs to you."

That apparently closed the matter as far as the distinguished visitor was concerned. But not for police, who immediately started an investigation.

MAN'S BODY FOUND IN CRYPT OF QUICK LIME

GARY, Ind., Feb. 24—(AP)—The body of Paul Perconti, missing leader of the Unione Siciliana, an Italian organisation, was found today hidden in a quick lime crypt, sealed with concrete, under a barn on a farm near Crissman, Ind., ten miles from here. He had been shot to death.

Perconti, believed by authorities to have incurred the enmity of local bootleggers, disappeared from home last Tuesday. He called his wife by telephone Tuesday afternoon, saying he would be home in half an hour. He never arrived. That night police received reports of a furious gun fight in the West 21st street district, following which empty cartridges were found scattered in the street.

15 MEMBERS OF CREWS OF RUM SHIPS UNDER ARREST

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—Fifteen members of the crews of the schooner Isabel H., of Brunswick, N. B., and the motorboat Mohawk, were brought here under arrest by coast guardsmen today. The vessels were captured early Saturday in Long Island sound. The crews were in the act of unloading 2,000 cases of liquor from the schooner, the coast guards said.

All of the members of the crew, including Captain Stanley Fisher, of the Isabel H., are Canadians. They were taken to Brooklyn for arraignment before a U. S. commissioner.

POLITICAL TROUBLE IN DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Feb. 24—(AP)—President Horacio Vasques was today obliged to assume command of soldiers in the fortress here after disturbances caused by political differences in connection with the forthcoming elections in the republic had broken out last night at three towns in the north central part of the country.

The city itself remained tranquil, as did most of the rest of the republic.

NAVAL CONFERENCE AWAITS FRENCH VOTE

LONDON, Feb. 24—(AP)—The London naval conference is awaiting anxiously tomorrow's vote in the French chamber of deputies as to whether the Chautemps government will survive.

If all goes well with Chautemps, Foreign Minister Briand will return to London and captain the French delegation. The conference then will swing into action before the week end and another plenary session may be expected next week.

CHICAGO MAN KILLED IN BRIDGEPORT AUTO CRASH

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 24—(AP)—Henry Stewart Hadsell, of Chicago, was killed here tonight in an automobile crash. He was a recent Princeton graduate and was working at the General Electric company's plant here. Two other Princeton men were injured also in the accident, but their names were not available. Hadsell was living at the Y. M. C. A. here.

STUDENT AND INSTRUCTOR KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

SANTA MARIA, Calif., Feb. 24—(AP)—Thomas J. Middletown, 24, of Los Angeles, student at an airplane school here, and Joseph W. Pearson, 31, an instructor were killed in the crash of their ship 13 miles east of here today. The ship was flying over a ranch when it was seen to fall.

New French Govt. To Face First Test Today

Voting Strength of the Chautemps Cabinet and Opposition About Evenly Matched.

PARIS, Feb. 24—(AP)—France's new radical-socialist government was ready tonight for the first test of strength in the chamber of deputies, counting on a majority of from 10 to 15 in the crucial vote of confidence tomorrow.

Premier Camille Chautemps, who will read the ministerial statement of policy at 3:00 p. m. today personally expressed confidence in his chances of weathering the storm from the right that will undoubtedly rock the cabinet ship. Receiving newspapermen, he said would outline his policy to the de be would outline his policy to the deputies and they could then take the responsibility of accepting or rejecting it.

The greatest uncertainty prevailed in other circles, however. A thorough canvass of deputies of all groups, made by supporters of the government, today showed the voting strength of the Chautemps cabinet and of the opposition to be about evenly matched. In sporting parlance, the betting was "even money, take your pick."

The opposition believed the government would be defeated by a few votes, and the nationalist elements frankly described it as "the still-born government."

The new premier's budgetary program may prove his salvation. A statement promising lower taxes is confidently expected, and the popularity of such a measure may cause many deputies who would otherwise vote against the government merely to abstain from voting.

In any case former Premier Tardieu and his group of 64 deputies will be in ranks of the opposition. The "republicans of the left" today decided unanimously not to give their confidence to M. Chautemps. M. Tardieu himself told his followers that he felt it was "impossible for them to support" the radical-socialist leader.

A full meeting of the cabinet examined the draft of the ministerial declaration this morning. Another cabinet meeting, under the direction of President Doumergue, will re-examine ti at the Elysee Palace tomorrow morning.

At the same meeting today the new French delegation to the London naval conference, containing only two of the previous members, was discussed and finally approved. It will consist of Premier Chautemps, Foreign Minister Briand, Minister of Marine Albert Sarraut, Minister of Colonies Lamoureux, and Ambassador De Fleuriau.

Foreign Minister Brianw, France's most skillful and able negotiator in foreign policy, will actively direct the negotiations of the delegation. The premier will remain in London only a few days.

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS LIABLE TO PROSECUTION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Members of congress were declared by the supreme court today to be liable to prosecution under the corrupt practices act when they accept money from office holders in their primary campaigns.

The question reached the highest tribunal in an appeal by the government after it had failed in the western district of Texas in proceedings against Representative Wurzbach, republican, of that state. He had been indicted for accepting contributions from stockholders in his primary campaign for renomination. Representative Wurzbach recently was awarded a seat in the house as a result of a contest with his democratic opponent, Augustus McCloskey.

The effect of the decision today will be to force the Texas congressman to go to trial on the indictment which had been dismissed by the federal district court.

HUGHES TAKES OATH AS CHIEF JUSTICE OF U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. — (AP) — Charles Evans Hughes ascended to the chief justiceship of the United States today in an atmosphere in which there was mingled gladness for his coming and sadness for the serious illness of his predecessor, William Howard Taft.

A simple oath of office administered in the dignified chamber of the court made him the eleventh in the historic succession of chief justices since John Jay, in 1789. As was the first chief justice, Mr. Hughes is from New York.

POLICEMEN'S PAY CHECKS FOUND IN SPEAKEASY SAFE

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)— Three policemen's pay checks among other things, were found today, when experts, at the direction of U. S. Attorney Howard W. Amell, opened the safe of the Bedford Nest, Brooklyn cafe and alleged speakeasy which prohibition agents raided a week ago.

The names of the policemen to whom the checks were issued were withheld from the press, but were turned over to police headquarters.

The safe contained $1900 in currency and $700 in checks, including the police checks.

PRINCE AND PRINCESS REVIEW DIFFICULTIES

CAPE MARTIN, France, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Prince Pierre and Princess Charlotte of Monaco met here today at the home of the Duchess of Vendome, where they had come to visit their daughter. They reviewed their difficulties nearly an hour, and separated, reports say, without reconciliation. Princess Charlotte is understood to have insisted on pursuing her separation suit filed in Nice yesterday, while Prince Pierre elects to abide by the decision of the Monacan council.

WIFE PRESENTS HUSBAND WITH FOUR CHILDREN

BRYSON CITY, N. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Hastings Messer have children. They have four of them.

That in itself may not seem remarkable, but when you consider that prior to yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. Hastings Messer had no children, it may be seen there is something unusual.

The stork visited them with a vengeance, leaving four boys. The boys are named Matthew, Mark, Luke and John.

SENATE COMMITTEE TO HEAR VIEWS ON LAW ENFORCEMENT

Judiciary Committee Votes to Call Attorney General Mitchell and the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission to Get Their Ideas On Prohibition Enforcement—There Have Been Persistent Rumors That the Commission Is Sharply Divided Over the Prohibition Issue.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—(AP)—Views which the Hoover law enforcement commission and Attorney General William D. Mitchell hold on prohibition enforcement are going to be heard by the senate judiciary committee—but probably behind closed doors.

The committee agreed today after sharp debate over the Norris resolution for inquiry into the enforcement situation to call in these officials two weeks from now to obtain their ideas. The delay in action on the Norris proposal for a senate investigation was regarded by some of those favoring the inquiry as auguring their defeat.

Members of both sides were looking forward to the opportunity to examine Mitchell and the law enforcement commission on their knowledge of conditions surrounding enforcement of the dry law. There have been persistent reports at the capitol that the Hoover commission is sharply divided over the prohibition issue and over the manner of enforcement. While the judiciary committee voted to hear the whole commission, it is likely that only Chairman Wickersham and perhaps one or two other members will be called in.

Arguing for his inquiry resolution before the committee, Chairman Norris reiterated his belief that there has been "too much politics in dry enforcement and it is up to the president to eliminate it."

Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, terminated the sharp committee discussion by moving to call in the administration officials. It carried almost unanimously, but without a record vote. Senator Ashurst declined to comment on his motion after the meeting but the suggestion was advanced that it would defer the prohibition row until the tariff bill is out of the way.

Coincidentally with this decision Chairman Norris of the committee referred the house bill to transfer prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the justice department to a subcommittee headed by Senator Overman, democrat, North Carolina. He takes the place of Senator King, democrat, Utah, who introduced the bill in the senate but who is confined to a hospital.

Senator Overman said he intended to have early consideration of the transfer bill and probably without open hearings. He indicated his favor to the measure in the form it was passed by the house, with perhaps some minor amendments.

Prohibition later came in for discussion in the senate, where Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, in a speech condemning the first year of the Hoover administration, asserted "the president has taken no steps to secure better enforcement of the liquor laws."

"They are not being enforced anywhere," he added, "and the lack of enforcement is entirely due in my judgment to his failure to take a stand in the matter. To date he has made a miserable failure in liquor law enforcement."

WOMAN DROPS FROM LIFE OF LUXURY TO JOB HUNTING

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(AP)— Olga Edwards, who in the short space of a few weeks had descended from a luxuriously furnished suite in a Fifth avenue hotel to a cot in an institution for homeless girls, placed her six-year-old son in the care of the Children's society today, pawned her $800 fur coat for $50, and went out to look for a job.

Until recently Miss Edwards and her little son, Lee, lived at the Savoy Plaza hotel on the income from a trust fund established for Lee by Nathan L. Amster, financier, who said he did it from philanthropic motives.

Declaring that she had failed to live up to the terms of the trust agreement, however, he had her arrested on an extortion charge, and she is now under indictment. Miss Edwards retaliated by charging that Amster is Lee's father and by suing him for $100,000. The suit is pending.

Holding Lee by the hand, Miss Edwards appeared at a police station Saturday night and said they had been ejected from their hotel and were penniless and hungry.

11 KILLED, 84 INJURED IN WRECK OF TRAINS

KENOSHA, Wis., Feb. 24.—(AP) — Responsibility for the wreck late last night of two North Shore electric trains with a toll of eleven dead and eighty-four sent to hospitals with injuries, appeared to center, officials today said, on Norman E. Shinners, 21, Milwaukee, who took a chance at a grade crossing and lost his life and that of a friend in the automobile with him.

The other nine dead, four women and five men, were among 130 passengers aboard a southbound 5-car train from Milwaukee to Chicago, which struck Shinners' automobile, which had just escaped being hit by a northbound 16-car freight train.

CHICAGO DETECTIVE KILLED ATTEMPTING TO MAKE ARREST

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The newest spurt of activity along the crime front brought two deaths today.

John J. Ryan, a detective, lost his life as he sought to arrest a man accused of robbery. Earlier in the day Joseph Srnowsky, 23, was killed in a clash between Mexicans and Poles.

Otherwise the drive on crime fared both good and bad. Col. Robert Isham Randolph, head of the association of commerce's "secret" committee, received assurance from one citizen that he would back the battle against rackets to the extent of $100,000. The name of the citizen was not revealed.

ESTHER EVANS DE FOREST COMPLETES PRISON TERM

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Wearing a thick black veil, Esther Evans De Forest Wilson, who used to move in Washington's higher social circles when she wasn't hunting lions in Africa and polar bears in the Arctic circle, was released today from prison where she served one year for the almost fatal shooting of her husband, Dallet H. Wilson, an attorney, in his 5th avenue office two years ago.

With a nondescript lot of other prisoners who also were released today, she rode over on the ferry through the early morning mist from Welfare Island to the East 86th street Manhattan pier.

"ANGEL OF BROADWAY" WEDS SAN FRANCISCO BROKER

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24.—(AP) — Rheba Crawford, who became famous as the "Angel of Broadway," while a Salvation Army worker in New York city, was married at the First Congregational church here today to Ray Splivalo, San Francisco broker and polo player. They left immediately on a motor honeymoon.

CORRIGAN ELECTED NEW HAVEN COUNTY CORONER

12 DEATHS AT OPENING OF CUBAN BIG NEW AIRPORT

HAVANA, Feb. 24.— (AP)—Tragedy marred the opening of the Machado airdrome, Cuba's big new airport, here today, when ten passengers on a motorbus were killed in a collision with an electric train and two Cuban aviators crashed while maneuvering over the field.

The bus was returning from the dedication ceremonies at the airport and was crowded. Rushing back to Havana, it was struck by an interurban electric train.

The accident to the aviators was the first fatality in the Cuban army air service in three years of existence.

HEARD APPLICATION OF MINT VENDING COMPANY

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 24—(AP)—Judge Edwin S. Thomas in federal court today heard an application filed by the Eastern Mint Vending company for a preliminary injunction restraining the state police and police of New Britain, New London, Manchester, Stamford, Norwalk and Bridgeport, from interfering with their slot machines.

At the conclusion of the hearing Judge Thomas instructed counsel for both sides to file briefs within ten days. In the meantime, the court directed that no attempt be made to stop operation of the machines on the part of police.

BAY STATE LEGISLATIVE BUDGET TOTALS $62,814,792.93

BOSTON, Feb. 24.—(AP) —The joint legislative committee on ways and means today reported to the legislature, a budget bill for the current fiscal year calling for appropriations totalling $62,814,732.93, an increase of $6,337,304.94 over the 1929 total.

The largest individual increase allocated was $2,872,000 to the department of public works for road construction.

The committee's total was about $200,000 less than the aggregate amount of the budget submitted by Gov. Frank G. Allen.

CONSIDERATION OF STARBUCK DEFERRED BY THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. — (AP) — Senate leaders today deferred until later this week consideration of the nomination of W. D. L. Starbuck, of Connecticut, to be the fifth member of the federal radio commission.

Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, who asked last Saturday that the nomination go over until today, asked for more time to investigate protests against Starbuck.

He said he had received additional information over the week end.

Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, also is making an investigation.

TWO BOYS DROWNED YESTERDAY IN WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Mass., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Two boys were drowned and a third was in a serious condition, from exposure and immersion, as a result of thin ice accidents on two Worcester lakes today. Arthur Young, 14, and his brother, Albert, 16, were drowned while fishing through the ice at Lake Quinsigamond, and Edward Donais, 14, fell into Indian lake while playing "icebergs."

DR. R. D. MORRIS WINS COLONIAL DAMES PRIZE

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(AP) — Dr. Richard D. Morris today was announced as the winner of the $1,000 prize offered by the Society of Colonial Dames of America, and the National Society of Colonial Dames in the state of New York, for the best work on some phase of colonial life.

Dr. Morris' winning study was "Studies in the History of American Law" published by the Columbia university press.

WHIRLWIND RIPPED HOUSE FROM FOUNDATION

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24—(AP)—With a roar like an explosion, a freak whirlwind twisted an unoccupied two story house from its foundation on 46th avenue in the Sunset district today and swirled its way over the nearby sand dunes. The house was the only structure in that block.

NEW YORK MAN HELD BLAMELESS FOR DEATH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 24—Arthur J. Kenney, 36, insurance adjustor of 148 Second street, Steward Manor, N. Y., was exonerated of criminal responsibility by Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson this forenoon, following an inquest into the death of Daniel P. Killourey, 36, instantly killed Sunday evening when struck by Kenney's car on the North Windham highway.

The witnesses at the inquest were Kenney, his wife, Mrs. Mildred Kenney, who was riding with him at the time of the accident, Police Officers Arthur Hurley and Roderick Lariviere, who conducted the investigation and Constable William D. Kelley, one of the first to reach the scene of the accident. Officers Hurley and Lariviere gave it as their opinion that the fatality was unavoidable.

Kenney testified that his vision was affected by encountering a passenger bus headed in the opposite direction. His right fender struck something and he turned his car around to focus his lights on the object, then discovering that it was the body of a man. There were no eye witnesses to the accident. Kenney placed his car in a position to protect the body from traffic and requested passing motorists to notify the police. At the close of the inquest Coroner Bill exonerated Kenney on the grounds of insufficient evidence to prove criminal responsibility. The deceased was a son of the late ex-Chief Daniel Killourey who died suddenly July 24, last, just seven months ago today.

MAJ. R. F. GATES IS NAMED AS A LIEUTENANT-COLONEL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 24—The promotion of Major Raymond F. Gates, son of Sheriff Charles A. Gates of this city, to lieutenant colonel is included in orders issued from the office of General William F. Ladd, adjutant general. Under the new rank Colonel Gates retains the position of finance officer of the state staff.

Colonel Gates has gained wide recognition as a state official and for his military work. Returning from camp where he served in the regular army during the war, he became deputy state agent of the department of state agencies and institutions under Colonel Robert O. Eaton. In July, 1921, Colonel Gates succeeded Mr. Eaton to the office of state agent when the latter became collector of internal revenue.

Mr. Gates was made secretary of the veterans' home commission which succeeded the old soldiers' hospital board in July, 1927. He is a member of the national and state conference on social work and has served as a member of the national committee on family affairs of the former organization.

Colonel Gates was born in this city and attended Windham high school, class of 1914. He graduated in 1915 from the Norwich Commercial school and the following year was associated with the Gulf Refining company in this city. He was with the Enfield division of the Winchester Repeating Arms company in New Haven from 1916 to 1917.

Mr. Gates joined the national guard first at Hartford, being made a member of the Quartermaster corps, July 10, 1917. He was mustered into the regular service while at Niantic on August 5, 1917. At Camp Jackson, S. C., he was assigned to Quartermaster corps of the Eighty-first Division. Later he was transferred to 108th Field Ordinance Depot company in which unit he rose to the rank of ordinance sergeant. He was commissioned a second lieutenant at Camp Jackson. He was mustered out of service, April 17, 1919, and returned to Hartford where he entered the state's employ. He rejoined the Connecticut National Guard in March, 1926, and was made a lieutenant and attached to the quartermaster corps of the Forty-third Division staff. August 4, 1927 he was promoted to major of finance, state staff.

Colonel Gates has many important fraternal connections. He is a thirty-second degree Mason (May 27, 1927) and a member of several other orders. He is a member of Sphinx Temple No. 2, A. A. O. N. M. S., and the Hartford chapter, National Sojourners. He holds membership in the following local lodges: Natchaug lodge, K. of P., of which he is a past chancellor commander; B. P. O. Elks, No. 1311; Eastern Star No. 44, A. F. & A. M.; Trinity chapter No. 9, R. A. M.; Olive Branch council No. 10, R and S. M.; St. John's Commandery, No. 11, Knights Templar and James J. Shea Post No. 19, American Legion.

Colonel Gates is a member of the rehabilitation committee of the Connecticut department, American Legion, Connecticut Society of Executives and the Connecticut Capitol club. He is married and has one son, the family residing at 41 Oak street, Hartford. Politically Colonel Gates is a republican.

In several places even the state highways have given way to the frost that has been drawing out of the ground during the past days of mild weather. The macadam crust has broken through in places on the highway from Spring Hill to Storrs and Mansfield Four Corners, the vicinity of Connecticut Agricultural college being in bad shape. Supervisor O. Hemmeler and his men of District No. 9, East Willington, are planning speedy repairs as soon as the weather settles.

Rural letter carriers George H. Arnold and William Cummings both became stranded in mud holes today in attempting to cover their routes over back roads. Warnings to the carriers were telephoned in from various places to Postmaster Frank M. Smith, stating that the roads in a number of localities were impassable by automobile owing to the deep mud. The Jordan road, leading to the Lebanon town line is said to be one of the worst.

Civil action has been instituted by Morris Kantrowitz of Hartford against M. Rosen of this city to recover an alleged bill of $150 contracted on or before February 13, 1930. An attachment of $300 at the Windham National bank deposited in the name of the defendant was made today by Deputy Sheriff Lester H. Bliss. Damages of $200 are claimed by the plaintiff, and the case is returnable in the common pleas court at Hartford the first Tuesday in April.

The twenty-fifth birthday of the founding of Rotary International and the ninth anniversary of the founding of the local club will be jointly observed at the weekly luncheon-meeting of the club to be held in the Nathan Hale hotel Tuesday noon. The programme will be in the nature of three-minute talks by the following: Charles W. Hill, first secretary; Judge Frank H. Foss, founder and first president of the club; Judge Valentine L. Murphy, second president; James P. Mustard, third; Harry W. Standish, fourth; John F. Ahern, fifth; Richard E. Dodge, seventh; Raymond A. Parker, eighth and Louis H. Arnold, ninth president. James P. Bath, sixth president, died November 28, 1927.

A motion for a more satisfactory bond furnished by Mrs. Davies, has been made in the replevin action brought last week by Mrs. Dora Davies, camp, for furniture and other furnish- proprietor of the Natchaug children's ings now in possession of Christopher Everett of Chaplin. The hearing on the motion was to have been held before Justice of the Peace Arthur T. Kelley this afternoon but was continued until Friday afternoon at the request of the plaintiff's attorney.

The first of the joint sessions of the board of relief and assessors of the town of Windham was held today with James J. Lee as secretary for the assessors. Several protests from property owners affected by the recent revaluations were taken up for action.

Earle M. Taber, of Hartford, president and general manager of Russell P. Taber, Inc., will speak on The Back Side of the American Automobile Industry at the regular meeting of the Exchange club to be held in the Nathan Hale hotel Tuesday evening.

Street Superintendent Edwin O. Sumner and Acting City Engineer John F. Collins have returned from Syracuse, N. Y., where they attended the national convention of highway construction engineers and builders, where much valuable information on construction was gained.

A benefit dance, in charge of the women of the "Y" will be staged at the Y. M. C. A. next Thursday with music by the Peerless orchestra. The proceeds are to be used for the purchase of furniture for the building.

YOUNG WOMAN CALLER TEMPTED BY SIGHT OF WATCH

Miss Amelia Carocari made a call at the home of Mrs. James Kelley on West Main street Monday forenoon. The two women have been on friendly terms for some time and Miss Carocari was given the freedom of the house. After spending an hour or more at Mrs. Kelley's the visitor disappeared and soon after she had gone, rs. Kelley missed a white-gold wrist watch. Complaint was made to the local state police barracks and Officers Heinold and Griffin were detailed on the case with the result that at one o'clock they had Miss Carocari in court. She had the watch in her possession and admitted stealing it. A plea of guilty was entered and Judge Heald, after giving the young lady some timely advice imposed a fine of $10 and costs and ordered the watch returned to its owner. The fine and costs were paid by Flaminio Carocari, father of the girl.

Edith Rose Dickey, who was injured by running into an automobile while coasting several weeks ago, is making a good recovery.

Miss Elizabeth Comins has returned to Boston after a week end visit with her mother, Mrs. A. O. Comins.

Troop 1, Boy Scouts of America, is to hold a meeting at Grace church this (Tuesday) evening.

COLCHESTER

Nearly a hundred and fifty attended the Sunday evening meeting of the Tri-county C. E. union in Colchester Congregational church. The program, in charge of members of the Westchester C. E. society, included a very interesting address by Bhaskarao Hivale, a native of India. Dr. Hivale is a product of the mission schools of India and has been in America taking higher degrees at Harvard where he soon placed himself in the first rank. While studying he has supported himself by his brilliant success as a lecturer throughout this country and Canada. He explained to his audience here that he felt that the ministry was the great way of serving his native India and gave a vivid and most interesting description of religious and economic conditions in India as well as the fine educational work being done there by American missionaries. Following his talk, Dr. Hivale answered questions from the audience regarding his home-land. Included in the large gathering were members and friends of C. E. societies from Colchester, Columbia, Hebron, Westchester, Marlborough and Gilead.

A large number from Colchester attended the funeral services Monday afternoon in New London of Sheriff Sidney A. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Riley, of Norwich, entertained Sunday their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. William Vallette of Uncasville, and in the afternoon all visited friends and relatives in Hartford.

A large crowd attended the Washington birthday supper Saturday in the remodeled old town hall, under the auspices of the young people's division of the C. E. society.

Miss Silvia A. Jaffe, of Hartford, visited over Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Jaffe.

Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Tompkins attended the Washington birthday reception Friday evening at Hartford Theological seminary.

About eighty were in attendance Saturday evening at a card party held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Edward J. Howland for the benefit of St. Andrew's Catholic church. Sixteen tables were in play, prizes at whist being won by Misses Mary Shugrue and Annie O'Connell and Patrick J. O'Connor. Prizes at "Forty-Five", Miss Madeline Clifford, Mrs. Sarah Clifford, William O'Brien and James Johnson. Following the game refreshments were served during a social hour.

EKONK

FUNERAL

Charles O. Gibson

The community was surprised and grieved to learn Saturday morning of the death of Charles O. Gibson at the Day Kimball hospital, Putnam, where he was taken last Tuesday afternoon. Charles Otis Gibson only son of the late Otis and Phebe Hassle Gibson, was born in Moosup, Dec. 26, 1877. At an early age he moved with his parents to Sterling Hill. He received his education in the public schools of the town. He followed the occupation of painter and paper-hanger. Last November his health began to fail. All through the closing days of his life he bore his suffering with patience. He was very fond of music and enjoyed listening to the daily programs over the radio. He was united in marriage with Adela Walker, who survives him. The funeral was held from his home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock with a large number of friends in attendance. The services were conducted by Rev. R. W. E. DeWolfe and Rev. Ernest Drake. At the opening of the service, Mrs. Charles Tanner played very softly the hymn "Alone." Mrs. James Walker sang "Abide With Me." The bearers were Mack Mott, William Heyward, John Dawley and Duff Barney. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery, Central Village.

WAUREGAN

Washington's birthday was celebrated at the grammar school on Friday, with readings by Loreen Bowden, Richard Gardner and Tony Roubo. The seventh and eighth grades held a debate "Which life means most to us, Lincoln or Washington?"

Miss Mae Leary, teacher in Plainville, is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Leary. The Plainville schools use the ten-week system, and this gives Miss Leary a full week's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bethel have been visiting at Worcester and Attleboro over the week end.

Miss Regis Fitzmaurice spent Thursday in Providence, the guest of Miss Dorothy Tracy.

Leon Rockwell was in New Britain and Plainville on Saturday.

Miss Sadie Hope is confined to her home by an attack of grippe, and was visited on Sunday by her daughter Miss Doris Hope of Providence.

Several cases of pneumonia are reported in the village.

Another dance under the auspices of the Twilight league was held on Friday evening with a large attendance.

COLUMBIA

Mr. and Mrs. C. Robinson of Post Hill, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Porter and their three grandchildren, John, Joan, and Jean Davenport, spent Friday in Weekapaug.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lyman of Newark, N. J., spent the week end at the home of Mr. Lyman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Lyman.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lafleur spent the week end in Meriden at the home of Mrs. Lafleur's parents.

Perfect attendance for the month of February for the Center school is as follows: Lois Clarke, Virginia Collins, Carol Lyman, Irene Seigel, David Hunt, Jack Seigel and Jasper Woodward.

The week end and holiday traffic has been very heavy through the Center, especially in the late afternoon and early evening of Friday and again on Sunday.

The temperature Sunday was in decided contrast to a week ago Sunday, also the travelling. Last Sunday drifts of snow made hard going, and this Sunday the mud has made travelling almost impossible on the back roads. The rural carrier was obliged to substitute a horse and wagon for his auto on Friday on the country roads. He was fortunate in having a holiday on Washington's birthday.

Miss Margaret Hutchins spent the week end in Norwich with her cousin, Miss May Hinckley.

Mrs. Cecil Gates, Miss Gertrude Gates and Miss Rachael Buell of Hartford spent Sunday in Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. George Pinckney, George Pinckney, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Duxbury of New Haven were guests Sunday at the home of Mr. Pinckney's sister, Mrs. Howard Rice.

Sunday morning at the local church the pastor preached the first in a series of sermons on "The Church." The other two of the series will be given March 9th and 16th. Mrs. Edith Isham sang a soprano solo during the offering.

There was no meeting of the local Christian Endeavor society Sunday evening, it being the evening for the Tri County union, held this month at the Colchester church. Dr. B. P. Hivale, a native of Bombay, India, was the speaker. Dr. Hivale returns to India in April to become professor of philosophy at Wilson college, Bombay.

On Wednesday of this week the Ladies Aid society will hold an all day meeting in Yeomans hall, beginning at 10:00. A light lunch will be served at noon to the workers. Mrs. Henry Hutchins and Mrs. Lester Hutchins are the hostesses.

Miss Lila Seeley, who teaches at Groton, spent the week end at her home on Chestnut Hill.

For any BABY

CASTORIA
THE CENTAUR CO. NEW YORK

We can never be sure just what makes an infant restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as Baby has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow very promptly; if it doesn't, you should call a physician.

All through babyhood, Castoria should be a mother's standby; and a wise mother does not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Castoria is readily obtained at any drugstore, and the genuine easily identified by the Chas. H. Fletcher signature that appears on every wrapper.

Gets Complete Relief From Terrible Gas Pains

That Cut Like a Knife

Weak sluggish organs of digestion reflect themselves in sallow haggard faces.

Are Your Symptoms Like Hers?

HERE is the story of a woman that every sufferer of stomach troubles ought to make it a point to read. A victim of terrible agony for 10 years she tells about the simple treatment that ended all her troubles in just a short time.

Strong healthy organs of digestion reflect themselves in radiant youthful faces.

Like many local women, Mrs. Mary Ogle is so grateful for her release from a life of pain she wants everyone to be helped and so tells her story: "I have always said and always will say that Tanlac saved my life. Few people have suffered as I have with stomach troubles in the last 10 years. The gas nearly kills me. I would be deathly sick and in bed sometimes for weeks at a time. My stomach was sore all the time, the gas would form and collect right in the side and cut like a knife, I had to call in doctors. They said gall-stones and gall bladder. Sour stomach and gases almost choked me to death and bothered my heart. Meat and potatoes were forbidden. I spent lots of money but my suffering increased instead of getting better. Certainly a harder task could not have been found for Tanlac, yet this medicine has succeeded and as I said, saved my life. My stomach troubles have yielded, I have a good digestion and best of all is relief from gases. I eat everything and gained so much in strength that I look like a different person. In best health in 10 years, that expresses it and tells the story of what Tanlac has done for me." Just the first dose or two of Tanlac will [illegible] you. Tanlac is a real medicine, based on modern medical science. Like everything worth while it has its weak and ineffective imitations. So do not accept a substitute. Tanlac must help you or money back. DANIELSON

LOCAL POLICE WORKING ON MURDER CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 24.—State Officer John Murphy of the Danielson barracks was in Webster this afternoon working with Massachusetts officers on the case involving the death of Mrs. Cecilia Manski Trudeau, whose body was found lying at the roadside just over the Connecticut line in Massachusetts near Thompson, Sunday morning.

Danielson state officers are actively interested in the case on the strength of statements obtained today from the woman's husband to the effect that he had driven into this state with his wife Saturday night and his alleged admission that he slapped her and otherwise abused her while in Connecticut, near Wilsonville. Trudeau is said to claim that his wife leaped out of the car while it was in motion, and lost her life in that way.

State officers here are interested in the possibility that Mrs. Trudeau was dead before the car in which she was riding left this state, and if that should prove to be the case and a trial eventually is held it will be in Windham county.

Amateur Boxing to be Revived

Amateur boxing is to be revived in Danielson. Louis Peloquin, who promoted the last two boxing exhibitions held in the town hall, said this afternoon that there is a widespread demand to see the amateurs in action, and he is going to gratify the wish. There are about ten amateur boxers here in Danielson and many more in nearby towns. Mr. Peloquin's plan is to put on about eight bouts for a card. In view of this new arrangement and because of so many conflicting attractions for the early days of March, he has postponed the professional card of bouts to have been held here March 4. The first of the amateur bouts are to be held about mid-March.

Following a high mass of requiem of which Rev. George Donohue was celebrant in Holy Trinity church at Pomfret this morning, many being in attendance, the body of John Rooney of that town was brought here for burial in Holy Cross cemetery, Rev. J. A. Demers, M. S., conducting the committal service. The bearers were: A. R. Acranton, Keyren Cotter, Michael Eddington, Richard Clemons, John Meehan and Patrick Quigley. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

This morning, at a session of the town court, Nisiford LaPrise, whose place at Elmville was raided by state officers at the week end and yielded a number of bottles of liquor, was sentenced to serve 90 days in jail—30 days on each of three counts filed against him for violation of the liquor laws. LaPrise appeared in court as a fourth offender, and the series of violations of the liquor laws in which he has been involved date back over a period of several years.

Joseph Brochu of Putnam, charged with having been intoxicated, was fined $2 and costs by Judge W. Fenner Woodward, while another Putnam man, Alexander Atchion, was fined $2 for having been intoxicated, $2 for breach of the peace and costs, a total of $14.50.

At the present time Danielson interests are seeking improved mail and freight service for this community, as a necessity, if some of Danielson's major business interests are to escape handicaps under which they are now laboring. Conferences have been held during the past few days relative to better freight facilities, and an effort also is being made to improve the mail service.

It was understood today that the requests that have been made by Danielson's interests have been favorably received and are now getting due consideration.

Saturday of this week Danielson's banks will adopt the new schedule of hours for doing business agreed upon by their representatives several weeks ago. On week days the banks will be open from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m., with the exception of Saturdays, when the hours will be as at present, open from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m., and from 6 to 8 p. m. The change is in closing other days than Saturday at 3 p. m., instead of 4 p. m. This change is made principally to comply with the expressed wishes of the state banking authorities, they desiring that all transactions of any business day be closed, insofar as the completion of records are concerned, on the day on which they take place. This has not always been possible, due to the increasing banking business here, on every working day, notwithstanding that the clerical forces have worked long after the banks' doors have been closed for the day. With the extra hour that will be available after next week to complete the day's work it will be possible to clear up everything originating during the day.

That Danielson experienced a visit of safe breakers last night was a story that gained quite general circulation here today, for no good reason whatsoever. Witter Bros., with a place of business in the Evans block, have an old safe down there, picked up in the course of their many business transactions. Yesterday, N. A. Witter decided to open it and learn what it might contain. Bars and other implements were brought into play by Mr. Witter to gain access to the interior, which, revealed, consisted of a dog license and an old revolver. Yet out of this there grew the imaginative tale that safe blowers had been about.

Twelve participated yesterday in the February shoot of the Danielson Rod and Gun club, and on the finest February day for such a purpose that any of the participants could recall. The day was warm and pleasant and the wind came up from behind the targets, causing them to duck and perform all sorts of capers, so that scores were correspondingly poor.

In the 50-target event, which was divided "Lewis Class," E. C. Griffith was high in class A. and J. A. Carter second, while G. L. Ingalls, L. B. Ingalls and G. O'Berne were tied for first place in class B. The scores follows: 50 targets—Griffith, 43; Carter, 42; Underwood, 41; Peabody, 40; G. Ingalls, 39; L. Ingalls, 39; O'Berne, 39; Prest, 36; Mrs. Hansen, 35. The scores at 100 targets were: Peabody, 86; O'Berne, 80; Prest, 80; Mrs. Hansen, 75; Gastaldi, 68. Targets at 75 and less: Griffith, 64 out of 75; L. Ingalls, 61 out of 75; Underwood, 60 out of 75; Carter, 42 out of 50; Todd, 15 out of 25; Sauer, 8 out of 25.

Despite the low scores, everyone taking part commented on the good time. It is expected that these shoots will be held twice a month during the summer season.

OVER 17 MILLION JARS USED YEARLY

This is the last full week prior to the beginning of the Lenten season for many people who restrict their social activities during that period to indulge themselves in their favorite diversions. That appears to be the reason why such an unusually large number of social events have been arranged for dates between now and Ash Wednesday, March 5.

Joseph Bullock of Newark, N. J., was a week-end guest of Miss Ann Conklin of Broad street.

State Officer H. Theodore Strand of the local barracks went to Jewett City this afternoon to check up on a stolen car abandoned near that place.

At the semi-annual meeting of the officers and trustees of the Brooklyn Savings bank this afternoon a dividend at the rate of 5 per cent per annum was declared out of the earnings of the past six months, which were successful ones, the dividend payable March 1.

An all-day meeting of the Ladies' Benevolent society is arranged to be held Wednesday in the parlor at the Westfield Congregational church. Each member is to bring some article of food.

This is vacation week for the pupils of the public schools of the town of Killingly, and comes after eight weeks of sessions held since the first of the year.

When a little boy whose name was not obtained dashed off the sidewalk and out into the street near the Shumway building this morning the driver of a Rhode Island car showed that he was a highly efficient operator by avoiding a serious accident that it seemed was just bound to occur. The machine missed the boy only by inches.

Early blooming lilies were reported today as pushing their way through the ground at several homes in Danielson. The temperature touched 71 degrees here this afternoon.

In connection with his duties as coroner, Attorney Arthur G. Bill was in Willimantic this morning.

Miss Benjamine Clare Bousquet is a patient in the Hartford hospital, not in St. Francis hospital, as mentioned in this column this morning.

MOOSUP

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pendleton of Preston and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Iles of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Julian Champaign.

The Baptist Ladies' Aid society meets Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alfred Hyde, and the Sterling Hill ladies meet with the vice-president, Mrs. Byron Gallop, on Tuesday afternoon.

Tuesday night, Rev. R. W. E. DeWolfe will show some pictures he brought from Paris, and in connection with the pictures he will relate some interesting anecdotes to the night school where about 60 men and women are seeking to better themselves through study.

The American Legion auxiliary had a paid supper Saturday evening in the Boy Scout rooms.

Next Saturday evening the American Legion is to give a free supper to all ex-service men. Any man who was in the service is privileged and invited to be present.

Monday evening the Union Plainfield Baptist church and the Union Plainfield Baptist Ecclesiastical society met, thenceforth to be known as one organization under the name, the Moosup Baptist church. The meeting was called for 7:30 for the Baptist church vestry. Rev. P. A. Kilmister of Norwich gave a short address at the meeting.

Misses Evelyn A. and Viola L. Troening, also Harold M. Allen and Gilbert Kmaus of Queens Village, N. Y., spent the week end at Mr. and Mrs. Herman Heinsohn's. The trip was made by auto.

George Despathy of the furniture and hardware store on Prospect street, is on the superior court jury, sessions to open at Putnam this week.

James Parkhurst of Church street keeps a diary of the weather and of significant events. The Bulletin reporter saw the weather and temperature report for a number of years. One item of interest is that this year snow storms and zero weather appear to accompany each other. In 1919 the first snow fell on Dec. 6 and the last on March 5, there being 25 storms, the two coldest days being Jan. 20 and Feb. 1, when the temperature was 18 below zero. Sixteen days had zero or sub-zero temperatures.

In 1920 there were 14 snow storms, with the coldest Moosup day being 4 below, five days registering zero or below. The first snow fell on Nov. 25 and the last April 11, while there was a triple tie of 4 below zero on Jan. 19, 25 and Feb. 25.

The winter of 1921 saw 19 snow storms with nine zero mornings, the coldest being Feb. 18, when it was 12 below.

In 1922, there were 23 distinct snow storms and 15 days when it was zero or colder. On the 18th and 19th of February the lowest depths on both days was at 12 degrees below zero. On Jan. 3 there was a snowfall of 14 inches.

There were 20 snow storms in 1925 and seven days of zero weather, only two of which were below zero, Feb. 8 being 3 and Feb. 9 being 8 below.

1928 saw 20 snow storms and only six days of so very cold weather, three days, Jan. 13, 23 and 24, being zero days, and Feb. 5 being 5 below, while Jan. 14 was 4 below, with Jan. 15 the coldest day of the winter, the mercury registering 15 below.

This year, 1929-30, there have been 15 snowfalls and 15 days of sufficient coldness for Mr. Parhurst to record. Feb. 17 was a mighty cold day, and he set it down at 22 below, although many mercury fans reported 28 below at dawn.

PUTNAM

TRUDEAU CONFESSES TO BEING WITH WIFE; DENIES MURDER

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 24.—Leon Joseph Trudeau, 25, of Pearl street, Webster, Mass., is being held in jail in Webster without bail, awaiting a hearing before Worcester county grand jury, for the murder of his wife, Mary (Manski) Trudeau, of Lake street, Webster, whose body was found early Sunday morning on the Thompson-Putnam road, near Union point on the shores of Webster lake, strangled and brutally beaten.

Within four hours after the discovery of the body of Mrs. Trudeau police of Worcester and Webster had arrested Trudeau in Worcester and after 17 hours of grilling Trudeau confessed his presence with his wife Saturday evening and the charge was changed to murder. Police believe revenge to have been the motive for the crime.

Between 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon and 9 o'clock this morning Trudeau was under questioning by a squad of investigating officers. For nearly five hours he denied being implicated in the slaying of his young wife, but at 12 o'clock when the hammering questions of the police showed no signs of abating, Trudeau slowly weakened and at 9 o'clock this morning he affixed his signature to a confession which described every instance during the fatal ride.

Police are uncertain as to whether Mrs. Trudeau's murder took place in the village of Wilsonville, two miles beyond the Massachusetts state line, or in the town of Webster at the isolated spot on the Thompson-Putnam road near Union point bordering on Webster lake, where Trudeau in his confession steadfastly maintained that his wife opened the door of his car, a Chevrolet coupe, leaped out, to meet her death from the impact sustained when she struck the ground.

He related a story of their lives in which he revealed his wife's suicide intention, which she planned to execute in Wilsonville. He said his wife had refused to consider his suggestion that they become reconciled. On Friday evening he said that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Manski, of Lake street, left for a week-end visit with relatives. When he became aware of his wife being alone in the house, he called and was received by her and they spent the night together. They agreed to see each other Saturday evening.

At 7 o'clock he met her on Main street and they started on a drive into Connecticut. Arriving in Wilsonville, seven miles north of Putnam, Trudeau said his wife made statements that she would commit suicide. She revealed her plan of punishing him for his acts of cruelty committed towards her during the past three years of their estrangement, by taking her life in his presence in order that suspicion might point toward him. Suddenly she drew a revolver from her purse, thrust it into her mouth and when about to pull the trigger, screamed. Trudeau said he brought the car to an abrupt halt, clutched his wife about the neck and took the weapon from her, tossing it onto the road. She resisted his act and in a struggle that followed he was forced to deal her several severe blows in order to restrain her. At this point Trudeau retracted the statement that this occurred while the car was in motion, and said that Mrs. Trudeau attempted suicide while they were parked on a cartpath on the premises of the Glass farm in Wilsonville. A thorough search of the property was made by police this morning in an effort to locate the gun but it failed to bring to light any evidence that would substantiate the prisoner's testimony. Officers did, however, find freshly made automobile tire tracks which served as some corroboration of his testimony. Since he admitted that he choked the woman in order to frustrate suicide, while parked on the Glass farm, police are inclined to believe that Mrs. Trudeau met her death in Windham county.

Trudeau told of his wife's assaults upon him during the return to Webster, bringing out the climax taking place at Union point, when she leaped from the car. Trudeau said he did not bother to stop and investigate the fate of his wife, but continued his drive to Webster, reaching there at 9 o'clock. He drove on to Worcester, where he went to 74 Lamartine street, the home of Miss Lena Wizeck, whom he described as "a friend." Spending the night there, Trudeau told of his leaving for Webster at about 1 o'clock and going directly to his rooms on Pearl street. He awoke early the following morning and left for Worcester, unconcerned and unaware of the tragedy of the previous evening. He was taken into custody in Worcester at noon Sunday by officers of Station 2, Worcester police department. The grilling was started immediately and continued until 9 o'clock this morning.

When first questioned, Trudeau offered the alibi of his being in Quincy, Mass., Saturday, in company with Miss Wizeck. The girl was called in and after being questioned corroborated his testimony. She was later released but is being held as a witness.

Emerging from the chambers of Chief James H. Hetherman in the Webster police station this morning where he had been subjected to incessant questioning since 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Trudeau faced a barrage of newspapermen and cameramen. He answered their questions cheerfully and posed for photographs. After eating a hearty breakfast the alleged murderer was lodged in a cell, sleeping soundly until 1 o'clock this afternoon when he was arraigned in district court before Judge Louis O. Ruoitard and bound over for a grand jury hearing to be held in Worcester at a date in the near future.

Parents of Mrs. Trudeau identified and claimed the body of their daughter, which was committed to their care after the completion of the autopsy performed by Southbridge medical examiners. Funeral arrangements for the murder victim were being completed tonight.

The most effective weapon employed by Deputy Chief John C. Templeman of the Webster police department in exploding the alibi of Leon J. Trudeau and bringing forth his confession of being involved in a ferocious struggle with his wife, Mary Trudeau, of Webster, which is part of the episode concerning her death, was a photograph of his wife taken after death. After viewing the unsightly print Trudeau exclaimed, "I'll tell all—I'll tell all."

The Truth About Fat

Science has found that excess fat is largely due to a weakened gland. Now physicians the world over, in treating obesity, combat that major cause. Starvation is not advised.

The chief factors they use are embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. In late years, excess fat has been fast disappearing, as everybody knows.

The method and formula are explained in every box of Marmola. As you gain new slenderness, beauty and vim, you know why. Go try the method which has done so much. Watch the amazing results. All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box.

Efforts to verify current rumors that Henry Ford, American automobile magnate, had purchased a one and one-half story frame structure of great antiquity standing on the Nichols farm on Thompson hill, with intentions of removing it to Dearborn, Mich., for a place in his early American village, failed today as telephone communication with Mrs. George Nichols, custodian of the property, was not possible. However, many residing in the town of Thompson are inclined to believe the rumors. The quaint old dwelling has been a landmark for more than a hundred years, according to a prominent citizen of the town. Its architecture is along lines befitting types of homes of the American period of colonization and its rafters and clapboards are held in position by seasoned oak pegs, a practice in American construction until the introduction of the nail in the 18th century. Charles V. Chase, town clerk in the town of Thompson, stated this afternoon that he had been informed of rumors concerning the sale of the Nichols house, but was not officially enlightened on the subject. He said that no application for a property transfer had been made to the town as yet, but because of the historical period in which the "old shack" was erected, an official confirmation of the sale would not come as a surprise to him.

The house is presently owned by John Nichols, formerly of Thompson and now a resident of Kansas City, Mo. The first inkling that the Nichols house was sold to Mr. Ford for removal to Dearborn was given last week when a part of the house was carefully cut off from the main building and carefully removed.

George Lachance, 42, of Andover, who died in St. Francis hospital, Hartford, at 7:10 p. m., Saturday, from injuries received when a sedan in which he was riding crashed into a trolley car on Pleasant street, Hartford, the same evening, is a former resident of this city. The tragic death of Mr. Lachance deeply affected his many friends and acquaintances who reside in this city. The body was received in this city today and arrangements for funeral services were carried out. Mr. Lachance made his home here until 15 years ago. Surviving him besides his wife and two children, are his father, Joseph Lachance, of Marshall street, two brothers, Armand Lachance and Alfred Lachance, and a sister, Mrs. Wilfred Gagne, of Providence street.

Frank B. Stanton of Fremont street took first honors in the "C" class, special rating contest for checker players at the tournament played Saturday at the American House in Boston. Mr. Stanton was awarded an inlaid checkerboard of beautiful design. William P. Warren and Judge M. H. Geissler took part in the contests but were defeated before the finals were played. Mr. Stanton, the winner, is rated among the best checker players in eastern Connecticut.

There is only a slight possibility that the cases of 12 liquor law violators arrested two weeks ago on bench warrants served by state officers will come to trial Tuesday morning when Judge John Rufus Booth of New Haven reopens superior court in this city. Civil cases, which will require several hours for the introduction of testimony are to take precedence over the criminal cases. It appeared tonight that criminal matters would not reach the bar until sometime Wednesday.

L. Hector Lucier of New York city spent Sunday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. X. Lucier, of Church street.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome W. Andrews of Acquebogue, N. Y., are spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Andrews of Farrows street.

The funeral of John Rooney, who died at his home in Pomfret Saturday, was held this morning at 9 o'clock in Holy Trinity church in Pomfret. A low mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. George J. Donahue, pastor. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery in this city.

FEDERAL APPROPRIATIONS

Lest the impression be gained that there was a limitless amount in the federal treasury from which to make appropriations, President Hoover decided that the time had come to set congressional leaders right in the matter and he did it by the breakfast method, which included a statement of the budget requirements and the sum available in the treasury for additional appropriations.

Confronted with these facts it must be apparent to members of congress as well as the leaders that there is no opportunity for a wild orgy of spending. It is a time when the government is expected to do as much as anyone in the stimulation of business activity, but there must be due reflection on the fact that this is not going to be accomplished by rushing into a deficit and facing the taxpayers with a 40 per cent increase in taxation.

It is one thing to propose the expenditure of government money and it is another thing to provide the funds. It is an easy matter to plunge into debt but it is a much different proposition getting out or escaping the effects of it. Thus the time for proper consideration of what the situation is, what is threatened and what should not be done is before it is impossible to back up.

The economy plea is made for the purpose of getting respect for the budget. There are the various department appropriations which are going to get their requirements in the course of time, but when it is indicated that there are projects calling for a billion and three-quarters with only $50,000,000 available for such purposes it becomes apparent that caution must be observed. Thus it represents only the right kind of leadership when the president brings the attention of those, to whom is entrusted the guiding of such matters in congress, to such important facts. The time for sounding the warning is before it is too late. The statement that was furnished was convincing and it should have its good influence upon all who give it serious consideration. There has been a fine example of wisely conserving government funds for a number of years and in view of the advantages gained thereby it is to be sincerely hoped that it will be continued.

NOT FOOLING THE PRESIDENT

There are reasons for believing that there is none much closer to the president than Congressman Tilson, republican floor leader in the house. His position calls for that confidence but the Connecticut representative has at all times justified it. Thus when he gives expression to his views and declares that he doesn't believe the president will respond to the effort that has been underway for a long time to get him to put his finger on the various changes which he wants and doesn't want in the tariff bill he unquestionably knows what he is talking about.

Whether the president has said anything about such a matter, the congressman can draw upon his knowledge of the president sufficiently to feel certain that he will not "fall into any such trap."

There has been a persistent effort to put the president in a hole. It would work out to the liking of his opponents if they could get him to declare what he wanted done with the various schedules. Then they could concentrate their efforts on doing just the opposite to that for which he had declared. In other words, if they can only get him committed to a certain definite declaration there will be a chance to throw more and bigger bricks at him and to aim at fixed points.

It is all poppycock when the statement is made that the delay and fight on the tariff have been due to a lack of understanding of the president's position. Nothing could be farther from the facts, as is evidenced by the manner in which those features of the tariff have been treated upon which certain action was asked early in the session by the chief executive. The fact that the president had committed himself upon the flexible feature of the tariff was sufficient to cause a concentration of effort by the coalition to block it. The same would be true in regard to any other points on which he might express himself.

Congressman Tilson knows what he is talking about when he declares the president will not walk into the ambush which has been arranged.

MERGING OIL COMPANIES

It is frequently said that if a certain article of dress is kept long enough it will come back into style. It works out in many instances and in other things than dress or household articles. Just now attention is being called to it in the matter of consolidations. There were the days when combinations were in vogue—combinations of companies and corporations. Then came the time of trust-busting and the breaking up of such combinations and now we have again reached the time when changing conditions are calling for consolidation once more. It is noticed particularly in connection with the railroads, but it is going on among utilities and other corporations.

Recently attention has been called to the fact that the Standard Oil company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company want to combine. The suitation here is a bit different than in the case of the railroads since these two companies represent parts of the old Standard Oil company of New Jersey which was broken up by order of the courts because it was regarded as a monopoly. That wasn't quite a score of years ago but none of the companies have undertaken merger arrangements since then. They have stuck to their particular fields of operation, developed with changing conditions and have encountered in turn a certain amount of competition.

Now the time has come when the two mentioned companies want to get together. Such a move would be in the interest of reduced operating expenses and it pointed out that it would be in the interest of eliminating such waste. Both are large exporting companies, the former concentrating on gasoline and kerosene while, until recently, the latter has featured lubricating oil.

The case of the oil companies differs from the railroads from the fact that the former have been pretty definitely told what they can and cannot do by the courts. That being so, it is necessary to get the sanction of the courts before there can be any merger. Whether the conditions which prevail today will be regarded as so changed as to make the change possible remains to be seen. The returning style as far as the merging of oil companies is concerned depends upon the courts.

DR. WITTER K. TINGLEY

Probably there are few that come in closer contact with the people of a community than the family doctor, especially those that spend a lifetime in the city of their birth. Many are the households which long since depended upon the professional services of Dr. Witter K. Tingley.

To Norwich and vicinity he has been one of the leading physicians and surgeons for many years, so much so that his passing means not only the loss of a leading citizen, a good friend, a kind neighbor, but the one upon whom dependence has been placed in case of need. Dr. Tingley had a large practice because of the success which he had attained in his profession, because of the skill he displayed in healing the sick, because of the careful and considerate treatment he gave the ailing, because of the ever ready willingness to extend the benefit of his service.

Dr. Tingley found it agreeable during his earlier years to give much of his time as a public-spirited citizen, serving in the city government and as its health officer, and he was a valued member of various medical and fraternal organizations. He was a man of positive views, affable and courteous, companionable and jovial and generous to a fault, whose friendship was cherished and whose loyalty and integrity were beyond reproach. It was inevitable that one with such a combination of sterling characteristics should have a host of friends who will sincerely mourn his removal by death. Norwich loses one of its ablest doctors and one of its highly esteemed citizens in his passing. He will be missed but he will not be forgotten.

CHIEF JUSTICE HUGHES

There is cause for keen satisfaction in the fact that Charles Evans Hughes has become the chief justice of the United States and that such an able successor to William Howard Taft was available.

Changing from one chief justice to another is an event of much significance to the entire country, involving as it does such an important office, and a man who must have the qualifications to head the highest court in the land. Mr. Hughes comes to the court for a second time and therefore at an age somewhat more advanced than is usually the case. But he takes the office with the full recognition by the country that he brings to it an intellectual and physical vigor that gives every reason for believing that he will have an opportunity to serve as its leader for many years to come. He has an understanding of the law which made him the outstanding choice for the place and nothing that developed during the opposition that was displayed against him served in any way to shake that view. It would have been a colossal mistake had that opposition succeeded.

Chief Justice Hughes has been before the people of this country in the position of lawyer, governor of New York, secretary of state, justice of the supreme court, candidate for president, again in private practice and as a member of the international court for so long and in such a favorable manner that he long since gained the confidence of the country. He has displayed his grasp of the law, his ability to direct every duty to which he has been called and his fairness as a judge in such a manner that his choice for the high office and his assumption of the duties are cause for nationwide applause and thanksgiving. With such appointments the country is in safe hands.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The excitement of the week in the senate has been the attacks on President Hoover and his failure to announce details of what he feels must be in a tariff bill to meet his approval, and the move made by Senator Grundy asserting that Mr. Hoover does not care under what faction or combination of factions, the tariff bill passes, if it only gets votes enough to pass congress, and receive his signature, so he may keep the campaign pledge to render aid to the farmer.

Both sides of that Grundy move are widely discussed and they are not within "two sights and a go by" of coming together—to quote a Montana colloquial phrase which Senator Walsh of that state delights to use.

The president has made no statement. Whether or not he has been correctly "summed up" by the western newspaper man whose comments have created additional discord in the senate, is left for each person to decide for himself.

Perhaps the fact that Mr. Hoover has never posed as a man who stands for "My party right or wrong, my party!" gives considerable credence to the story, although few of the republican leaders take it seriously.

When Harrison of Mississippi sarcastically commented on the story, and Grundy's presentation of it to a number of senators, no one raised a voice in protest or defense of the republican leaders in congress, even though Harrison hammered away accusing the president of being sympathetic to the coalition of democrats and insurgents, and that the bill, if passed, would not be a republican measure.

Senator Bingham was the only senator to rise to his feet and make a reply, and all he said was that Mr. Grundy had not furnished him with a copy of the statement. The silence maintained by republicans, when under fire, is not a silence of fear, but in their judgment, is the best policy to pursue. They take the stand that if they "talked back" or defended the president or themselves, against the democratic insurgent attacks, which are now of daily occurrence, they would merely provoke further discussion and prolong the time before a tariff bill can possibly be passed. That is they agreed upon policy. They believe it wise, but there are many who feel that under the old adage "silence gives consent" some of the leaders ought to speak right up in meeting. That was especially noticeable when Mr. Hughes was so bitterly assailed, and the president denounced for having made the appointment.

Only a senator from Illinois rose in defense of the president and the appointment, "Our votes will show our sentiment" was the attitude taken by regular republican leaders, and they thus far, are taking the same course in regard to the Grundy accusation that Mr. Hoover is playing in with the coalition combination, in order that the tariff bill may pass.

Senators Bingham and Walcott believe a bill will be put before congress, after it comes from the hands of the senate—house conferees, that the insurgents will not dare vote down, and that it will be a bill the president will sign. Beyond that no one ventures to speak. And but few republican senators go so far as to predict its passage.

There is a wide difference in observance of home life and customs in the diplomats from all parts of the world, when they represent their countries here at the capital of the United States. For the most part they continue to conform to the family life, dress and habits of their home countries, so far as life in embassy and legation is concerned, but conform to American customs when in the public eye.

People who live up in what is known as the diplomatic section of the city, say that as soon as darkness falls the different customs stand squarely out.

This is notable in the way those great mansions are brilliantly lighted or are darkened; whether the curtains are drawn or whether the passer by can look in and see how "the other half of the world lives."

Sixteenth street is the stronghold of foreign diplomats. Many of the countries have provided large and wonderfully equipped homes for their representatives here; in all cases the governments purchase or lease splendid homes for their ambassadors and ministers, none of them leaving their diplomatic representatives to shift for themselves, as is the unfortunate custom of the United States, in many instances.

We hear that—those of us who live far off in this "city of magnificent distances," that after dark the different custom is summed up like this: Take the French embassy, for instance, the moment darkness falls no one would dream that great house is a model of entertainment; only the faint gleam of a hall light shows from the street; that light is just above the entrance.

The Mexican embassy, not far away, is even darker, for the hall light is scarcely visible, so they say. At both these embassies heavy velvet or rich brocade hangings are closely drawn over the windows. Southern Europe follows the same fashion, for the most part, but Cuba and Persia sets a different standard, for brilliant lights blaze forth from windows and halls.

But in this, it is the white house that carries off the palm. Every window on every floor of the executive mansion is lighted at the hour of darkness, and from them blaze forth the glare of lights that can be seen from afar. But the white house keeps early hours, and seldom, are the lights on, after midnight.

The north, or main entrance, popularly known as "the north portico," is very much in the spot light. It faces Pennsylvania avenue and its lights can be seen from all sides.

It is that portico to which President Coolidge once resorted to to catch a fleeting breeze during one of Washington terrific "hot spells." The president strolled out from the stifling heat of the white house, sniffed a bit of a breeze, called for a rocking chair, seated himself in it, opened an afternoon newspaper and rocked and read with the same quiet poise as if sitting on his modest little porch up in Massachusetts.

But he was quickly forced to abandon the habit, for not only was the porch surrounded with crowds of sightseers, but the fact that he had broken a precedent was wired as "news" from one end of the country to the other. The secluded south porch of the white house, faces the beautiful gardens, with the Potomac not far away. But it also faces the afternoon sun, and when the mercury touches 100 degrees in the shade, that great pillared south portico furnishes an excellent example of tropical heat.

A broad, big smile went round the senate and gallery the day Senator Dill, democrat, of Washington, questioned the ability of a rich man, like Chief Justice Hughes, being able to keep the required oath of office, no matter how much he might endeavor to do so.

The oath referred to is where the chief justice swears he "will do equal right to the poor and to the rich," but Dill claimed no man of the wealth and high social position of Hughes could act in the interest of the "common people," even though he might attempt to do so.

It sounded well, but the laugh came when the senate recalled that not only is Dill reputed to be a rich man in his own right, but that Mrs. Dill's fortune is said to far overtop the million dollar mark.

SALLY RETURNS

Penelope and Caroline sat on the front porch, sewing with the quiet dignity, pride and satisfaction of ladies who have accomplished a purpose.

"I wonder what the trip has done to Sally," mused Penelope, patting with particular care the little folds of muslin in her lap. Caroline lowered her nose-glasses a trifle of an inch and glanced above them.

"She should have gleaned enough information to make interesting talks at the Conversation club next winter. Anyway, there is nothing like travel to get silly romantic notions out of a girl's head. I think that we should be congratulated on our wise management of that budding affair with Jimmy Norton.

"Neither of us said to Sally that we disapproved of him. We simply rushed her off to Europe, and Jimmy left town. Now Sally's coming back, refreshed and stimulated by new scenes and interests. She has not referred to Norton in any of her letters, so I suppose she has forgotten him. I always did pride myself on being diplomatic and in this case I think we managed for our niece beyond the keenest wisdom of a parent.

"Parents so often make fools of themselves in their manner of interference with affairs of the heart, while if they would only use a little foresight and tact they might be saved much embarrassment and frustration in the end."

"Yes," agreed Penelope, "there is by far too much tumble and fuss about willful young people these days, when it is the handling of them that counts. In our case we have avoided quarrels and a possible elopement. We have our niece, returning to us, refreshed in spirit and mind, and the man has disappeared."

The old ladies favored each other with glances of complete satisfaction and continued their needlework.

"And to think," murmured Caroline, presently, "that even now Sally's train is approaching the city, and that in less than an hour and a half she will be dining with us. Really, it will seem nice to have her back. She is a lovely little thing, even if she is a bit of trouble."

"Aunties, darlings," Sally fluttered toward the house, beaming with smiles, like a torrent of sunshine flooding the immaculate lawn and trimly bordered walk.

"My dear, my dear." Both Penelope and Caroline were on their feet, seeming to inhale new life and buoyancy from this young creature. Stiffly they allowed themselves to be hugged and kissed, returning a pert little peck for an ample caress.

"But, child, where are your bags? The taxi has gone." Aunt Caroline plopped toward the steps and viewed the retreating machine.

"Now darlings, darlings," soothed Sally. "It's quite all right about my bags. In due time I'll explain."

"But I paid $50 for the alligator one," cried Caroline in extreme agitation.

"There, there," put in Penelope. "The child's been all over Europe since we've seen her. She is probably used to handling her bags in her own way. Come"—this to Sally—"dinner is ready and waiting, and we want to know all about your trip. We have just been remarking what pleasant evenings we shall have next winter, sitting around the fireside, listening to your experiences."

"Tell us, now," interrupted Caroline, "what was your most thrilling experience?"

"Sweet aunties," beamed Sally, engulfing an old lady in each arm, "I'll explain later about the trip and the evenings next winter, but about my most thrilling experience I'll tell you now. It was—"

"Was it the Pathenon or the Louvre?" interposed Penelope, clasping her hands with childlike expectancy. Sally shook her head.

"It wasn't either one," she confessed. "My most thrilling experience was the day that Jimmy Norton caught up with our party and married me." In horror each maiden lady broke away. "And so you see I've brought you back a nephew," Sally hastened to explain, "and he's down at the hotel, waiting now with our luggage. Dear darling aunties, you'll never in the wide world know what a wonderful honeymoon you made possible for Jimmy and me."—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—More than two years ago Rep. Anthony J. Griffin, who hails from Bronx county, New York, popped into the house bill hopper a measure that would have conferred a special congressional medal of honor and fitting monetary rewards upon federal employes who won special distinction in the field of science.

What he had in mind, particularly, was medical research, with its long roll of those little known heroes who have given their lives in that cause.

The bill was just an also-ran of the 70th congress. It has been re-introduced in the 71st by its author. And in the death of Harry Anedrson, laboratory assistant of the public health service, incident to efforts to find a remedy for the mysterious "parrot fever," new impetus has been given the move to provide suitable government recognition for deeds of science.

Many Martyrs

Including Anderson's name, there are 18 on the public health service roll of martyrs to the cause of science.

Between 1879 and 1908, Roswell Waldo, W. C. W. Glazier, J. F. Groenwelt, J. W. Branham, W. R. McAdam and W. M. Wightman, all surgeons, succumbed in the fight against yellow fever, a battle that ended in such sweeping victory.

Surgeons T. F. Richardson and W. W. Miller fell in the fight against typhoid in 1906 and 1908, while Surgeon T. B. McClintic and W. E. Gettinger and G. H. Cowan, assistants, and L. A. Kerlee, bacteriologists, gave their lives in the struggle against Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Two other public health volunteers, G. C. Lake and Alice Evans, are listed as "still much disabled after several years" in the war on Malta fever.

Research Continues

That is a list of those who would clearly rate the posthumous honors Representative Griffin's bill would insure for them. But there are a number of others in Uncle Sam's devoted army of public health scientists which stands always on guard against disease invasions, who also deserve consideration, although their work did not demand the supreme sacrifice of them.

A partial list prepared by the surgeon general's office numbers 14 persons, including Alice Evans, in this class. Some have died since the service they performed was rendered, but most are still alive and pressing their research as devotedly as ever.

Achievements for which their scientific colleagues believe this group should be honored cover a wide range.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

"Let This Ancient Burying Place Be Redeemed"

Mr. Editor: In glancing through the account of the "Norwich Jubilee" of 1859 my eye happened to fall on a sermon pronounced by Rev. Hiram P. Arms, at that epoque, pastor of the First Congregational church. Some extracts from it may interest your readers in connection with the able article by Mrs. Rogers which appeared in your issue of the 14th:

"In 1646 Mr. Fitch, then 23 years of age, was ordained to the Christian ministry and installed as pastor of the church in Saybrook.

"As early as 1653 a company seems to have been formed at Saybrook for the settlement of the plantation now called Norwich. It was not, however, until June, 1659, that a deed of conveyance was given by Uncas and his two sons of the nine miles square constituting the ancient town of Norwich.

"The purchasers at once began to survey and apportion the land to the different proprietors.

"Roads were constructed and some rude buildings, with a house of worship, were erected preparatory to the removal of the colony.

"Mr. Fitch, with a large portion of his church, joined by some from other settlements, established himself in the place and here unfurled the banner of the Cross.

"Mr. Fitch, after a faithful and successful ministry of almost 50 years in Norwich and Saybrook, was disabled by a stroke of palsy and in 1702 he retired to Lebanon to spend the evening of his life with his children.

"His remains are deposited in the public burying ground in Lebanon and his grave is marked by a plain stone with a suitable inscription.

"Where (continues Rev. Mr. Arms) are the remains of his associates—the men who shared with him the toil and honor of laying the foundations of all our cherished institutions?

"The monument erected by the free will offerings of the daughters of Norwich to the memory of the Indian chief who was the friend of the fathers in their early struggles occupies a conspicuous place in our borders. His grave is carefully enclosed and sacredly preserved.

"His name is perpetuated by being inscribed upon various institutions and the name of the street which passes his grave indicates the resting place of the friendly sachem. Even the hostile chief who fell by the hands of Uncas is honored with a monument and yet, strange to tell, the whole generation of noble men who planted the town with the brave captain who led them, all who lived and died here during the first 40 years, are suffered to live in unhonored graves! Not a stone, not a stake, indicates the place of their burial!

"Even the rude stones which once marked their graves have been removed and built into a wall; the plow has turned up the soil and obliterated every vestige of a mound over the ashes of the men to whom we owe this fair inheritance and the cattle feed over their relics.

"I had hoped (Mr. Arms proceeds) that the commemoration of the 200th birthday of the town would result in doing some little justice, however late, to Mason and his worthy coadjutors.

"Let this ancient burying place be redeemed from desecration. Let it be enclosed suitably.

"Nothing short of this can meet their just demand upon us. Till we do this, we must bear the odium of filial impiety."

These words were spoken more than 60 years ago by one who had a right to protest for, to a certain extent, the First Congregational church has a moral claim on these graves. Is it too much to expect that a voice speaking from the tomb can have more effect than when it rang in living accents through the old meeting house?

A Huge Success

Mr. Editor:

Although a noisy minority of paid propagandists, wet newspapers and disgruntled office seekers who failed to be re-elected because of dry votes, the drinking public and so-called educators, who do not educate, are spreading abroad the false and misleading statement that prohibition is a failure, the facts are that it is a huge success when we compare the present conditions with those previous to ten years ago. Any thinking person can see it is far from being a failure. The country has increased in wealth, prosperity and happiness far beyond computation. In place of saloons and breweries there have been built stores, factories, packing houses and manufactories employing thousands of people in place of hundreds formerly employed in the liquor business; by diverting the money formerly spent over the bar into the legitimate channels of trade, savings banks, life insurance, new homes for the working people and many other wages making up an economic value around $75,000,000,000 to the country, as estimated by such noted experts on economy and finance as Roger Babson, Prof. Irving Fisher and others. The wet forces say that law cannot be enforced. We want to ask you to think for an instant that a government that can arm and equip 2,000,000 men, send them across the seas, fight a World war and win it and bring them back home is going to surrender to a few thousand organized liquor forces and thereby acknowledge it cannot enforce its own laws. No; a sober army won a World war and a sober people will win peace, prosperity and happiness for America. The liquor forces are clamoring for modification of the dry law, claiming that the great majority of the people are for it. The facts are they are against it in any form as proven by the fact that Herbert Hoover, standing on a dry platform, was elected by the largest majority of votes ever cast for any president in the United States. God bless him as he stands a bulwark of defense for the rights and welfare of all the people. The liquor forces want light wines and beer and government control of liquor, the same as Canada. It now has proved a dismal failure and is only an entering wedge to bring back the saloon with its long train of poverty, suffering and crime, which has followed it everywhere. No, the American people are not going to open the flood gates of liquor to sweep away peace, prosperity and happiness they are enjoying today. No, prohibition has come to stay intact. We are financing the world and financing ourselves with money that sober industry has earned the past ten years. Millions have gone into the banks from wage earners to be used to build homes for themselves and make prosperity for the nation. Yes, prohibition is a success and will go steadily on to greater prosperity and happiness and will have an influence for good that will spread over the world.

Therefore, in the name of the American nation whose honor it has sullied, in the name of poverty-stricken homes of suffering and want, in the name of little children who are to become citizens of this great nation, in the name of young manhood and womanhood who are soon to take their places in the affairs of the nation, and, lastly, in the name of humanity itself, in the name of every age, in the name of every rank, we denounce the liquor traffic as the common enemy and oppressor of all.

World Affairs

Mr. Editor: In remote ages, the Almighty Omnipotent Jehovah proclaimed through the mouths of His inspired prophets, that His ways were not our ways, and that His ways were past finding out. This has no greater exemplification than the existing state of world affairs now presents. He also warned the people against binding themselves together by oaths or other bonds, declaring He would rend them asunder. All declarations and warnings of the Almighty have been utterly ignored. The mind of man (in thought) has risen superior to all occasions, resulting in wars, bloodshed, persecution and oppression. Nearly all laws of God, man and nature have been defied. A World war, to end all wars—not so declared, but so pronounced after months of bloody conflict—coming to an end in an armed truce, a pronounced victory for neither side. Both combatants, world-worn and war-weary, eagerly submitted to the inevitable. After this came a league of nations, a body formed to discuss ways and means to abolish all wars, and bring peace to all nations. As yet no results have been obtained. While this august body sits in conference, the nations which they represent are preparing for war on a more gigantic scale than ever. Here is heard the voice of the Almighty proclaiming—Your ways are not My ways, bind yourselves together and I will rend you asunder. Another body to confer on disarmament, and abolishment of capital warships; while they confer, the hammers are heard in all naval shipyards, forging and riveting iron plates to be used in construction of warships more formidable and powerful than ever before known. Your ways are not My ways, again declares the Lord. Coming events cast their shadows before, the shadows have lifted and the events are now in sight. These constitute the signs from the heavens which the Lord Jesus told His disciples would be the evidence of His second coming. These the watchful and faithful perceive, but the many blind do not. Jehovah now sits in judgment, pouring out the vials of His wrath on a wicked and corrupt world. For those who cannot see, I refer them to the gospel of Matthew, chap. XXIV, ver. 6-7-8, Luke, chap. XXI, inclusive. The tide of restless humanity is rising and approaching flood stage—not one hor many plutocratic Canutes either by edict or command are powerful enough to stop its onrush, the day of the Lord is at hand. His ways are being made manifest. The much vaunted day of prosperity should be translated to read the day of woe. The time of the end, and the day of retribution and restitution draws near, the high and mighty are to take a fall and the meek and humble be uplifted, thus saith the Lord.

A Few Lincoln Stories

Mr. Editor: The anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birthday having moved along, it would seem fitting to tell just a few stories of him who was the martyr president. These are given as his own stories, and they were told oftimes to point a moral, or more often to illumine an argument or to controvert one. I make no pretense that they are new for they are not, and yet some may never have heard them before. They are handed to the reader without an apology and they may serve as a better understanding of him who was the center of the world's great tragedy.

Senator Charles Sumner of Massachusetts called at the white house early one morning to see Lincoln. He was told the president was down stairs and he found the president polishing his boots. Sumner was surprised and said: "Why, Mr. President, do you black your own boots?" Quick as a flash, the president said: "Whose boots did you think I blacked?" This one is for the Boys in Blue and was told by Carl Schurz: Richmond fell. Lincoln himself entered the city on foot, accompanied only by a few officers and a squad of sailors who had rowed him ashore from the flotilla in the James river, a Negro picked up on the way serving as guide. Never had the world seen a more modest conqueror nor a more triumphal procession. No army with bands and drums, only a throng of those who had been slaves, who escorted him into the capital of the fallen foe. They pressed around him, kissed his hands and his garments and shouted and danced with joy, while tears ran down the president's care-worn cheeks.

When he had anything that must be done he went to it with energy. A delegation came to him to protest against the northern soldiers crossing the state of Maryland to fight the south and he said, and they did not misunderstand his answer: "My men cannot crawl under Maryland nor fly over and so they must cross over it And that is final."

There is no question that he had a heart of tenderness and tempered justice with mercy, as the following will show:

A congressman who had failed to move Secretary Stanton to grant a pardon went to the white house late at night after the president had retired, forced his way into his bedroom, and asked him to interfere, and said: "This man must not be shot." "Well," said the president, "I do not think shooting will do him any good," and the pardon was granted.

Perhaps you old veterans will recall Alexander H. Stephens and the fact that he was a very little man, only weighing 90 pounds when in good health. At one time after dining with the president and General Grant, as Stephens was leaving he put on a long-tailed English ulster, the tails of which reached the ground, while the collar was above the wearer's head. Lincoln looked at him and said to Grant: "Did you ever see such a little nubbin with as much shuck?" Nothing seemed to escape his attention.

Even when the shadows were the thickest and the fortunes of the north were none too good, often at those critical times Lincoln would tell a funny yarn for, as he had said, "If I don't try and lighten it up a little my heart will break."

Mr. Lincoln was an unusually tall man and was six feet four. At one time, meeting a soldier rather taller than he was by several inches, he looked him over with wondering admiration, and said: "Say, friend, does your head know when your feet are cold?" Of course, you must realize this, that any story printed does not compare with the same story when told by anyone who can tell it with the punch in it. Throughout his whole career his attitude toward the south was always as a friend. On the night of Lee's surrender at Appomattox the band serenaded him and played Columbia the Gem of the Ocean and Star Spangled Banner, and Mr. Lincoln told the bandmaster, "Now, play Dixie, for now we are once again a great big family." Who could help but love and revere such a man? You no doubt remember that the New York Tribune that was edited at the time by Horace Greeley was opposed to Lincoln's renomination and this brought out from the president this story:

A traveler on the frontier found himself out of his reckoning one night in a most inhospitable region. A terrific thunderstorm came up to add to his troubles. He floundered along until his horse at length gave out. The flashes of lightning were the only things that gave him a clue to where he was going, but the peals of thunder were frightful. One bolt that seemed to crash the very earth beneath him, brought him to his knees. By no means a praying man, his petition was short and to the point: "O Lord, if it is all the same to You give us a little more light, and a little less noise."

Ever ready with his wonderful memory to tell a story to controvert and weaken any of the attacks of those who were his political opponents, for even he with his great mind and intellect was bound to find someone to harrass and worry him, even during this nation's darkest hours, all these stories are culled from reliable sources and some I have remembered as I have heard them told from time to time, but they are the stories of a real man.

Lincoln we all know was as modest as he was great, and at one time, speaking of his ancestors, had said, "I don't know who my grandfather was, and I am more concerned as to how his grandson will turn out." He dearly loved a story, no matter if it was far-fetched or not, and after all a good story is told to create a healthy laugh.

Lincoln's great name and memory live in the hearts of all the people—for all time.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 30

Many errors are made by taxpayers in claiming losses incurred in the sale of residential properties. A loss on the sale of property purchased or constructed by the taxpayer for use as his personal residence and so used up to the time of its sale is not deductible. Where, however, property so purchased or constructed is prior to its sale, rented, or otherwise appropriated to income-producing purposes, and is used for such purposes up to the time of its sale, a loss is deductible. The deduction allowable is an amount not to exceed the excess of the value of the property at the time it was so rented or otherwise appropriated (with proper adjustment for depreciation), over the amount realized from the sale. However, in the case of property so appropriated prior to March 1, 1913, the loss is an allowable deduction in an amount not to exceed the excess of the value of the property at the time it was so appropriated or at March 1, 1913, the loss is an allowable deduction in an amount not to exceed the excess of the value of the property at the time it was so appropriated or at March 1, 1913, whichever is greater (with proper adjustment for depreciation) over the amount realized from the sale.

Example: Residential property was purchased by a taxpayer in 1922 for use as his personal residence at a cost of $25,000, of which $15,000 was allocable to the building. The property was so used by the taxpayer until January 1, 1927. From that date until December 31, 1929, when the property was sold, it was rented by the taxpayer. The fair market value of the property at the time it was rented on January 1, 1927, was $22,000. The building had an estimated life of 20 years when the property was purchased by the taxpayer in 1922. The property was sold on December 31, 1929, for $16,000. The loss from the sale allowable as a deduction is $3,750, computed as follows:

Cost of property in 1922	$25,000

OBITUARY

Miss Katherine W. Tibbits

(An Appreciation)

The sudden and unexpected death of Miss Katherine W. Tibbits will bring sadness to many hearts. Those of her friends who are of the younger generation will feel the loss of one who lived a quiet unostentatious life, doing the duties and bearing the crosses which came her way, but with invariable cheerfulness and kindness toward all. Those who knew her longer and better will lament the passing of one of the all too few, who, while living most thoroughly in the present, yet drew their life's ideals from the past, and exemplified them in the true spirit of their Puritan ancestors.

This is in no way a philosophy of ideals or a criticism of things that are. But even those most immersed in the spirit of the twentieth century will concede some good things to the ages that went before, and the advantages of having at least a few of their representatives still with us. It should be a broadening as well as an edifying influence, deserving of something more than to be lost amid the currents of indifference.

Miss Tibbits came from a long line of Puritan stock. She took a perfectly justifiable pride in that fact, though she never narrowed herself to the belief that Puritanism meant everything. And this very breadth of vision led her to discard all traces of such harshness and formalism as are sometimes associated with her race, while it enabled her to retain to the fullest limit, the old fashioned virtues of simplicity and sincerity. Of her deeply spiritual nature, her whole life bears witness. She was, in the truest sense, a citizen of two worlds, and thoroughly loyal to each. She was incapable of making an enemy. And she was one of those favored few who, without prejudice to their humanity, could live according to their higher lights.

This little appreciation comes from one who knew her better and longer and more intimately than most. It is necessarily far from adequate; an effort at, rather than an achievement of, a tribute. But it should not close without expressing the thought that, however lamentable her abrupt passing away may be, it is lamentable only for us who remain. She died in the fullness of years and in the possession of all her faculties. She was spared the pains of illness and the less painful consciousness of decrepitude. And though the summons came to her without warning, one cannot but feel that any warning would have been superfluous. It was a sudden, but in no sense, an unprovided death.

J. D. T.

Mrs. Charles A. Burnham

Norwich relatives were notified Monday of the sudden death at Washington, D. C., Sunday of Catherine Cook Lanman, widow of Charles A. Burnham, a native of Norwich. Death resulted from a shock.

Mrs. Burnham spent the summer with her daughter at Gloucester, Mass., coming to Norwich for the Fall, at 98 Sachem street. Although over 80, she was active and in good health when she left to pass the winter at the home of her son, Charles Burnham, in Washington, as was her custom since the sale of her home on Lincoln avenue. Her son's residence is No. 1365 Geranium St., N. W., Washington.

Mrs. Burnham's husband, Charles A. Burnham, long a prominent stationer in Norwich on Main street, now a part of the store of Porteous & Mitchell, died here over 40 years ago. Besides her son in Washington, Mrs. Burnham leaves two daughters, Mrs. Sheldon Peck, of Newark, N. J., now on a West Indian trip with her husband, and Mrs. Fred D. Warner, of Seattle. There are three grandchildren, Burnham Warner and Betty Warner (Mrs. Daniel Moore, now in China with her husband, who is in the U. S. Navy) and Charles Burnham, of Washington, D. C.

For a number of years Mrs. Burnham resided with her daughter in Los Angeles. She had traveled much, was well informed and well read, always agreeable in conversation. Her affection for her native Norwich appeared to grow stronger with the years. She was graduated from Norwich Free Academy with the class of '64.

It is known that burial is to be in Norwich, but the absence of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Peck makes all arrangements indefinite for the present.

James F. Killen

James F. Killen, for some ten years an employe at the home of Dr. John J. Donohue at Uncasville, died early Sunday morning following a several days illness from pneumonia. He was 69 years old and had made his home in Hartford prior to taking employment with Dr. Donohue. He has a wife and daughter residing in that city now and the body was sent there for funeral services and burial. His wife and daughter were with him in his last illness.

He was a faithful and devoted employe of Dr. Donohue for 25 years and a man of upright character and was held in high esteem by his employer and all who knew him there. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus and other societies in Hartford.

Mrs. Walter S. Brewster

Mrs. Abbie T. Brewster, widow of Walter S. Brewster, who formerly conducted a grocery store on Franklin street, died February 22, in Braintree, Mass., of arterio sclerosis in her 88th year. Mrs. Brewster while in Norwich was a member of Trinity Episcopal church. Besides a son, George H. Brewster, she leaves a niece, Mrs. Leslie Brown, a nephew, Judge Frank H. Foss of Willimantic, and two nieces, Mrs. Carroll L. Walker and Mrs. Arthur Washburn of Newport, R. I. The funeral was held last Tuesday, was private and the body taken to Forest Hills for cremation.

Mrs. Lyman Nye

Mrs. Hattie J. Nye, 64, widow of Lyman Nye, died Monday morning in Preston after a long illness. Mrs. Nye's home was in Preston City. She is survived by one sister, and a niece, the latter residing in Groton.

CATCH THREE ALLEGED PASSERS OF $10 COUNTERFEITS, MAY HAVE WORKED HERE

PALMER, Mass., Feb. 24.—(AP) — Three men, alleged to have passed counterfeit $10 bills in Monson and this town, were captured by police today, after an automobile chase in which a number of shots were fired.

The men gave their names as Peter Baille, alias Vallie, of New London, Conn., Michael J. Settembro, and Tony Mato, alias Manzi, both of Springfield. They were captured by Police Chief Timothy J. Crimmins and several patrolmen who gave chase in a police car, after the proprietor of a neighborhood store told police of the suspicious trio who sought to have a $10 bill changed.

In the meantime, word had been received from Monson that three men had appeared in that town and passed three of the bills. The men made several visits to shops in this town before the police hit on their trail.

These reported arrests in Palmer attracted attention in this city where a number of counterfeit $10 bills have appeared in the past two weeks and led to the supposition that the men under arrest in Palmer might be linked up with the circulation of counterfeit money here.

When informed of the names of the men arrested in Palmer, Chief Thomas Murphy at Norwich police headquarters said Monday night that the Greeneville butcher who had been able to give a description of the supposed passer of counterfeit money in this city, had told the police that the man spoke good English, and it was hard to tell whether he was of foreign extraction or not.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, the federal secret service agent who came here to investigate after the counterfeit bills began to show, had about a dozen of them before he left town. It is considered probable that he will follow up these arrests in Palmer and may call on Norwich men to go there in the hope of connecting one or more of the men with the appearance of the counterfeit $10 bills in Norwich.

JUDGE DIRECTS VERDICT IN DOCTOR'S FAVOR

At the direction of Judge Alfred C. Baldwin, a jury in superior court in New Haven Friday afternoon brought in a verdict for Dr. Harold W. Wellington, prominent New London physician, in a $10,000 malpractice suit brought by Mrs. Anna Goglia of 14 Vernon street, New Haven. Mrs. Goglia claimed Dr. Wellington was negligent in not discovering she had suffered a compound fracture of the vertebrae in her lower back. She went under his care Sept. 3, 1928, after an automobile accident, she claimed.

Mrs. Goglia sued her husband, Massimino in whose car she was riding when injured, and received a settlement of $3,500. The release which she signed, Judge Baldwin ruled, released all her claims for compensation from anyone for the injuries.

The case will be taken to the supreme court, according to counsel for Mrs. Goglia.

NEW STREET LIGHT PUT UP ON UNION ST.

A new street light has just been erected at the lower end of Union street on a pole about opposite the telephone company's building.

This lights up what has been a dark spot on Union street but gives little help on Union square which has long been one of the dimmest spots in the center of the city after the full lights of the white way system are turned off at night.

Washington square is brilliantly illuminated all night long by the pair of lights on the pole in the center, but the double lights on the center pole in Union square are turned off after 10:30 and the remaining lights serve only to emphasize the dinginess of the square after that hour.

SUFFERED BROKEN THIGH IN FALL ON SEVENTH ST.

Helen Cloutier, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Cloutier, of No. 33 Seventh street, sustained a fractured right thigh early Monday evening, when she tripped and fell on the sidewalk near her home while playing with a number of other children. The child was attended by Dr. James J. Donohue at her home and was later taken to the W. W. Backus hospital, where she is now a patient.

WEDDING

Wells-Campbell

Seldon E. Wells of this city and Miss Marion G. Campbell of Lebanon were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's father, Clark Campbell. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Walter Vey, rector of the Congregational church.

Castagnara-Czubanski

Louis Castagnara of Westerly and Miss Ann Czubanski of 21 Dunham street were united in marriage Monday morning at 7 o'clock at St. Joseph's church by Rev. W. J. Topor. The bride was charmingly gowned in white satin with Spanish lace and a tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms. Attending the bridal couple were the bride's sister, Miss Mary Czubanski and Joseph Chabot. The newly married couple left on a wedding trip to Utica, N. Y., and are to reside in this city.

To Be South Manchester Speaker

The South Manchester chamber of commerce membership campaign and dinner is to have as a speaker on their program Louis M. Crandall of this city. The invitation came through the chamber's secretary, Eldred McCabe with whom Mr. Crandall has been very active in Salvation Army campaigns for several years past. The dinner is to take place on Friday, Feb. 28. Mr. Crandall's subject will be "Reflect You and Your City." One hundred leaders in South Manchester have volunteered to attend this dinner and to go out and secure 200 new members for the chamber of commerce.

Celebrated 35th Anniversary

Grace Circle of Kings Daughters celebrated its 35th anniversary, Friday, Feb. 21, by entertaining the inmates at the Johnson home, Norwich Town, at a party that day. A short service consisting of readings from the Bible and prayer was conducted by the leader, Mrs. Lena Pukallus, after which hymns were sung. There were also pleasing solo numbers by Mrs. Miriam Bliss Beckwith, Mrs. Lillian Kingsley, accompanying at the piano. These included two Indian numbers given in costume. Sandwiches, cake and ice cream were served with small American flags as favors.

Slow Pay on Personal Taxes

Miss Nellie V. Harrington, collector of personal taxes, finds that these are rather slow in coming in, as only about half of those who are called upon to pay this tax have done so up to date. The tax of $2 is due Feb. 1. If not paid within 30 days after that time an addition of $1 is made.

Repairing Norwich-Westerly Road

State highway department employes were at work on the Norwich and Westerly road Monday between this city and Oscar Main's farm making repairs where the frost had heaved up portions of the roadbed. There was considerable of this kind of work to be done.

Union street residents are complaining of the destruction caused on their lawns by a dog that has the habit of digging holes in them. Since the ground became soft in the mild weather the dog has wrought ruin on several lawns on the street.

Dismissals at Hospital

Patients discharged Monday at the W. W. Backus hospital, were Herbert Quinley, 35 Cliff street, and Frank Kreger, 108 Central avenue.

BEQUESTS MADE IN WILL OF MISS KATHERINE TIBBITS

Outside of leaving $250 to the organization having charge of the Windham Center cemetery, all the bequests in the will of Miss Katherine W. Tibbits, which has been filed for probate with Judge Nelson J. Ayling of the probate court, were personal bequests. The money left to the cemetery is for perpetual care of the burial lot there and for care of the stones. The will was drawn March 25, 1928 and was witnessed by Miss Anna A. Rogier, Lucius Briggs and Attorney Arthur M. Brown. William T. Crandall is named as executor.

Bequests made are the following: $5,000 to John D. Tibbits of New York, a nephew; a like sum to William Humphrey Almy of this city, a cousin; $500 each to two daughters of John Tibbits, Dorothy Lydia Tibbits and Katherine Wilson Tibbits, both of New York city; $1,000 to Mrs. Nettie F. Almy of this city; $500 to a cousin, Miss Mary T. Almy, of Sewickley, Pa., formerly of this city; $500 each to Mrs. Della F. Caulkins of New London, Mrs. Irene Gregson Pullen of this city, Mrs. Christine Gregson Craven of Uncasville, Mrs. Dorothy Gregson Slocum of Winchester, Mass., and Mrs. Mary Winship Bill of this city; $100 to Etta Walker of this city.

WOMEN FROM WETHERSFIELD WILL GO TO NIANTIC FARM

Available space for 50 additional convicts at Wethersfield state prison, which in the past few months has been nearly filled to its capacity, will be provided with the transfer of the women inmates to the state farm for women at Niantic.

The women, now occupying a block of 20 cells, will be out of the prison and into the building now under construction for them at Niantic, by July 1, Commissioner of Finance and Control Edward F. Hall said last week. It is planned to immediately construct a tier of ten cells above the two-tier block in which the women are now quartered at Wethersfield, he said.

Two more tiers, bringing the capacity of the block to 50, will probably be built at a later date. In addition to providing additional cells for men prisoners, removal of the women will make possible the use of extra yard space. Whereas it has previously been held objectionable to give the men use of the yard adjacent to the women's quarters, the obstacle will be removed.

At the conclusion of the recent court terms, the prison was so crowded that at one time there were only 13 empty cells, or within about 40 of the complete capacity of the prison.

While the total capacity of the prison is 700, until the recent release from the criminal sessions the prison held about 660 inmates, Mr. Geissler said. In the past few weeks, many discharges have relieved the burden on the prison, he said.

There are 15 women at present in the prison, which is approximately the average number.

Made Trip to Detroit

Scout Executive John Sellman spent Washington's birthday with his mother in Detroit, Michigan. Friday afternoon, Mr. Sellman attended a seminar at Yale. From New Haven he drove to Springfield where he caught the Wolverine for Detroit arriving there the following morning. He returned to Norwich Monday morning.

Grange Auxiliary Rug Demonstration.

The all-day meeting of Norwich grange auxiliary this week is to include a demonstration on rug weaving. The regular grange meeting in the evening will have a lecturer's program based on the times of George Washington, with musical and literary numbers.

JUDGE BARNES SPEAKS ON VOICES OF THE PAST

Voices of the Past was the subject of an interesting talk given by Judge John H. Barnes at the weekly meeting of the Contact club Monday noon at the Wauregan hotel. President Ernest O. Rodier presided and Alex Pasnik was the song leader. In his talk Judge Barnes said:

So this is the Contact club. A rose by any other name would smell as sweet. There has been as much touching done in this as in any town of its size in the country. The word "contact" comes from the Latin "contactus" meaning to touch on all sides. I wish you the best of luck. Let me know how you make out. We are supposed to be living in the greatest and richest country on earth. We, the English speaking people, are considered to be IT. The fact that thousands of men are out of employment in this country and in Britain is a matter that is not considered good form to be commented upon. The secretary of the treasury reports that last year there were 42,346 millionaires in this country. As I learn from Washington, though I do not claim it was done intentionally, that the name of Mr. Laurence Millea and that of my own was left off the list leads me to the opinion that other bloated bond holders may also have been overlooked. Considering the fact that we are such a prosperous country and that prosperity is actually seeping through the cracks—especially in the textile industry and other industries of New England—and considering the fact that we are supposed to be so much more advanced than the people of the past—leads me to talk to you for a few moments and quite burriedly, on Voices of the Past.

When Plato opened his school in Athens after the death of Socrates, a young man 18 years of age came over to the school from Macedonia. He expected to remain in that school for two years—but as a matter of fact he remained there 20 years until he was finally re-called by Philip of Macedon to come over and tutor his son. That young man was Aristotle. He tutored the boy, Alexander, whom you know as the Great for several years—teaching him the science of astronomy—and the other sciences of the day until he was the best posted and educated young man of his time. Alexander like Senator Borah of our day, was of the opinion that he knew it all. In fact Alexander was the Senator Borah of his day although he had a little more common sense than our self imposed leader seems to show. Our hero, Alexander, made up his mind he would show the barbarians a thing or two—maybe three. So in the year 334 B. C. he crossed the Hellespont with his troops on his way to Asia. Although he knew it not—the pyramids of Egypt had stood for 2,000 years, monuments to a great civilization. When he reached Babylon they stood in amazement at the ruins of the great walls 60 miles in compass 80 feet tall and so wide that six chariots could ride abreast upon them. There were the towers used by the Chaldeans in their study of the stars. Those barbarians had discovered the procession of the equinoxes. They had measured the tropical year and came within 25 seconds of the actual fact. They knew the causes of eclipses and predicted them and their work and labor extended back for a period of 1903 years prior to the coming of our hero.

Consider those barbarians—the Saracens—called the scourge of Europe. They knew nothing about the Volstead act, neither did they snoop about to find out what a friend had in his larder—yet they invented the science of algebra, had ascertained the dimensions of the earth and gave the stars of the larger magnitudes the very names by which we still list them. Consider, if you please, the laws of the Incas in Peru. Poverty as we know it was unknown. The crimes of theft, adultery and murder were capital. Where a Peruvian married a strip of tillable land was given him and in case of children more was allotted in proportion. On the highlands were immense herds of llamas and on the low land cotton was raised. No one was idle and labor was so carefully arranged that no hardship was felt by any. If a man committed a crime he paid the penalty but if not capital he worked so as to be of some help to his dependents. What caused the fall of these peoples? It was man's greed for gold.

Oh, we are not so much. Contrast this, the greatest country on the face of the earth.

Sanford Bates, superintendent of federal prisons, informs us that of the more than 3,400 inmates in Atlanta, work for only 800 convicts is provided. In Leavenworth 2,300 inmates live in complete idleness. Stanley Ascher is one of the best wardens in this country. His heart is sad because of the more than 1100 inmates of the Western penitentiary in Pittsburgh he can employ but 200. "To put all convicts at work at fair wages would accomplish at one stroke a number of highly desirable results. It would reduce restlessness, reduce financial burden, make possible industrial training and remove utter discouragement and despair from the hearts of the unfortunate souls. There is no more helpful influences and no more helpful psychology that would tend to inform an unfortunate than to give him a chance to help those of his own family and those he loves, and love him in return.

We can't all do great deeds of friendship and kindness but we may all do the little things. It is the aggregate of little acts of kindly thoughts and deeds that tell. The egg of an ostrich is 5½ inches long, contains one quart of food for the ostrich chick. The egg of the man eating shark is 8½ inches wide. The egg from which we are made in the image of God, is indefinitely small. Two billions of them would only fill a derby hat. Yet with them, properly applied, He who gave Jupiter its Moons and causes the rainbow to appear after the storm could re-populate this earth. So let us cease to be selfish, cut out our greed for gold, think kindly of the other fellow and remember the voices of the past.

SHARKEY LOOKS VERY IMPRESSIVE IN FINAL WORKOUT BEFORE BOUT

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 24.—(P)—Any lingering doubt about Jack Sharkey's condition for his 15-round match Thursday night with Phil Scott, or any question that he may be a trifle stale, seemed effectively dispelled today by the Boston sailor's final workout with the gloves.

Sharkey hardly could have looked more impressive than he did in battering three sparring partners around the ring in as many rounds. He was on his toes, aggressive and punching with the well known Sharkey savagery in successive set-tos with Pierre Charles, Johnny Grosso and Moise Boquillon, the international sparring staff.

Sharkey prefers to say it with his fists. There is not the slightest question in his own mind that he will knock out Scott quickly, but the big Lithuanian no longer is the loquacious one. Gone is the braggadocio that marked his early rise as a heavyweight against such men as Harry Wills and Jimmy Maloney. He looked the part of a grim, perfectly conditioned fighting machine this afternoon and his only remark to newspapermen for publication:

"I can promise you and the American people that the heavyweight championship is going to stay in the United States. Anything else from me would be superfluous."

Sharkey's trainer, Al Lacey, ridiculed the idea that his man has gone stale.

"Jack is in perfect shape," said Lacey. "He hasn't an ache, a pain or a sore spot on his body. He has broadened and filled out, giving him a lot more power in his punches. He is fully an inch bigger around the shoulders and chest than a few months ago. He is boxing better and using his left more effectively than I have ever seen him.

"The mental attitude is where you look for staleness first and Sharkey is keener today than ever in that respect."

If there are any fears about Sharkey or what he will do to Scott, they may be based on the fact that the Boston sailor looks almost too good. The boys are going around wondering whether the bout can possibly be as one-sided as they expect.

Scott's condition appears satisfactory but the Englishman has yet to give any of the experts the impression that he can hit hard enough to damage Sharkey or offer a defense to the American's hard hitting attack. Phil's snaky left jab may worry Sharkey but it takes more than that to win this affair.

Sharkey and Scott have both concluded their ring work. Jack will play a round of golf tomorrow and do some light exercising. Scott will punch the bag and limber up otherwise. Sharkey is expected to weigh about 197 and Scott 208 on the official scales Thursday afternoon.

Today's developments on the battle front otherwise included reports of some stimulation in box office sales and the statement of William F. Carey, Madison Square Garden president, before leaving tonight for New York, that Miami will continue to witness mid-winter heavyweight festivals for at least three more years. The Garden contract with the city of Miami has that much longer to run and Carey made it clear future plans would be unaffected by the possibility of no more than "breaking even" on this week's show.

"I believe we have arranged the best available heavyweight card this winter, in spite of a lack of appeal in the main event," said Mr. Carey. "I have confidence in the future of big fights here. We will be back with a bigger and better shot in 1931."

It is understood anything over $225,000 in total sales will mean a profit. Mr. Carey is optimistic this figure may be passed but will be satisfied if it is reached. Cash on hand at the close of the box office tonight was around $85,000.

The Miami boxing commission met with the managers of principals and promoters today to confirm the list of referees, headed by Lou Magnolia, for the main bout; discuss the rules, appoint timekeepers and fix the starting time of the show for 8 p. m., Thursday.

The main event will go on not later than 10 p. m. The Loughran-Charles bout may be put on after the main go if other preliminaries go the limit. The Campolo-Risko semi-final, which has attracted unusual interest, will go on around 9:15.

GEORGETTI TO BE PAIRED WITH WALTHOUR IN RACE

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(P)—Franco Georgetti, of Italy, the world's leading six day bicycle rider, and Jimmy Walthour, 19-year-old New York youth, head a list of 15 teams announced today as competitors in New York's 43th international grind at Madison Square Garden, starting Sunday night.

Georgetti, paired with Gerard Debaets of Belgium, won the last six day race at the Garden, but now Debaets is teaming with Gaetano Belloni, of Italy, while Georgetti rides with Walthour.

EXTRA GAME ADDED TO N. F. A. BASEBALL SLATE

Plans for the Academy's 1930 baseball season begin to shape up with two more announcements Monday by Coach Earle E. Brigham. First, another game has been added to the schedule, bringing Naugatuck high here Saturday, June 14, for the final game, and Henry Vignot, an upper middler, is the manager for the coming season.

The addition of Naugy to the Wildcat slate makes the 23rd game scheduled and will make the list one of the toughest that an Academy team ever faced. The season was originally set to end Saturday, June 7.

Naugatuck was one of the two scholastic teams to gain a decision over the locals last year. Harding was the other. This came in the closing game by a score of 4 to 2 and was one of the most exciting, if not well-played games of the year. The Academy lost the game in the seventh inning when the visitors laid down six bunts in succession and scored all of their runs in this frame. In the ninth inning the Academy lost a chance to tie when Buck LaCroix, leading hitter of the team, popped up with two men on bases.

The Academy will face New Haven Hillhouse, Harding of Bridgeport, Weaver of Hartford, and Gilbert of Winsted and with Naugy, this gives the locals five of the best teams in the state to attend to in addition to their league duties.

DO YOU REMEMBER THIS ONE?

(Another of a number of articles recalling local baseball of other years.)

That requested story about the St. Mary's sensational amateur team that came out of Jewett City in 1919 to clean up the state, seems to have started something. Now comes someone signing himself A Baseball Fan, who, while admitting that St. Mary's was all that this column cracked them up to be, still wants a game printed in which the Jewett City boys lost. This was to the Academy on Saturday, May 3, 1919. And what a game.

With Spike Liberty pitching for Ashland and John Keenan on the hill for the Red and White, the tilt went to the 11th inning before N. F. A. won, 13 to 12. Doubles by Hull and Ringland won the game. The Academy, apparently beaten before going into the ninth inning, scored six times to knot the count and then grab the bacon in the overtime.

The game was one of the most interesting that season. Fourteen errors and 32 hits, together with 18 bases on balls were combined to total the 25 runs. Each pitcher fanned ten men.

HARVARD CREWS HAVE FIRST OUTDOOR WORKOUT

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 24.—(P)—The Harvard varsity crew candidates took advantage of today's mild weather to stage their first workout of the season, on the Charles river. Four crews manned as many shells.

Coach Charles J. Whiteside said the spring-like weather was hastening the progress of his oarsmen considerably and he predicted that this year's crews would be the best Harvard has had in years.

"We'll have a much better crew this year," he said, "though we can't predict a victory over Yale as early as this, for, in fact, we have much less natural material than Harvard has ever had. But two months from now Harvard will see a better eight on the water than it has seen in years."

At the present time, John Lawrence, who rowed against Yale last year, Morris Brownell and Bob Pearson appeared to be the leading candidates for the varsity stroke's berth.

NORWICH TEAM WINS FROM JEWETT CITY POOL PLAYERS

The Hickey's Five of Norwich won easily from the Jewett City five at pocket billiards last night at Jewett City, 459 to 318. Liberty and Baker were the only Jewett City men to win their matches. The scores:

FIRST CASUALTY IN CUBS' CAMP REPORTED

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., Feb. 24.—(P)—The first casualty of the Cubs' 1930 spring training cropped up today.

Lou Warneke, young right hander who came up this year from the Alexandria, La., club, was struck a severe blow on his forehead by a flying bat during the short hitting practice. His eyes escaped damage, but he suffered a bad gash on his forehead that required several stitches.

SHYMAS VS. RADIO FIVE TONIGHT

After losing their last two games, the local Shymas will entertain the Radio Five of Danielson at Parish hall, Taftville, tonight. These two teams met earlier in the season and the Shymas were returned the victors after one of the hardest fought games of the season. But since then the Danielson boys have been going great guns, winning all of their games, which also includes a win over the Plainfield Buddies, this being the first inflicted on this team on their own floor. The Danielson manager is now grooming his team toward the Eastern Connecticut championship and a win over the Shymas will bring their stocks up considerably as the locals are considered one of the fastest amateur teams in the state. The Danielson team will take the floor in the following order: Adams and Gale will be at the forward positions with Mayhew at the toss-up position and Lague and Wilte at the guard positions.

The manager of the Shymas will present his fastest lineup in an effort to come out once again in the winning column. Gauthier will be at left forward with either Lefty Dugas or S. Finn as his running mate. Pete Finn will jump at center, while the backcourt will be taken care of by Jim Murphy, Ed Lemieux and Jerry Peltier. Manager Sullivan is now arranging games with the fastest clubs in these parts, having booker Southbridge, Webster and other fast teams to appear at Parish hall during the remaining weeks of the season.

In the preliminary the Shymas Junior team will clash with the Y Emps in what should also be a fast game. The Juniors will have the following men on the floor: Durr and Bonin, forwards; Raymond or Adams, center; Wilke, Burrelle or Bunk, guards.

Yesterday a very novel calendar came into my possession. It was printed in Scotland and therefore was not one of those kind that are given away.

But the novel part of the calendar was that for every day in the year there was a Scotch joke. Of course 365 jokes about the Scotch is only a very small percentage of those that have been told.

And now the strangest part of the whole thing is that the calendar is owned by a Scotchman who paid 50 cents to get a collection of jokes about the Scotch. That's like carrying coals to Newcastle.

Seeing that it's a slack day I'll repeat a few of the jokes from the book.

The Standing Joke. An Englishman, an Irishman, a Scotsman and a Jew gathered at the bar of the hotel. The Englishman stood a round of ale, the Irishman stood a round of whiskey but the Scotsman and the Jew stood around for a few minutes and then walked out.

Fire Insurance. An Aberdonian had just insured his house against fire and as he signed his name he turned to the insurance agent and asked: "What would I get if my house was to burn down tomorrow?" "Oh, I should say about ten years," replied the insurance man.

A Scotsman was run over by a brewery wagon and everybody is betting that it was the first time the drinks were ever on him.

Aberdeen vs. Dundee. The kick-off was due at 2:30 but at 3 o'clock the match had not started, all the men of both teams being engaged in a search in the center of the field. "What are they looking for?" asked an impatient visitor. "They've lost the penny they tossed up with," was the reply.

Tammas was playing a friendly game with the village doctor when he thought of his cold and thinking he might get some free advice, asked the doctor: "What would ye gie, Doctor, for a sair throat?" "I wadna gie any thing," replied the doctor. "Ive nae use for a sair throat."

Another Economy Hint: An Aberdonian on paying a visit to London pawned his traveling rug instead of placing it in the Left Luggage Office, and thereby saved twopence. He got two shillings on the rug—paid one halfpenny for the ticket and redeemed the rug at night for two shillings and a half penny.

Saving Time: Sandy Macpherson, after being shown to his room in the hotel, chanced to look out of the window and see an illuminated clock across the street. He reached out and stopped his watch.

Nurse: "Who are they operating on today?"

Doctor: "A fellow who had a golf ball knocked down his throat at the links."

Nurse: "And who is the man waiting so nervously in the hall? A relative?"

Doctor: "No that's the golfer, an Aberdeen gentleman, he's waiting for his ball."

Well, I'll guess that'll be about all for the—fellow that let me take the calendar will be wanting it back pretty soon.

GOLF COMMITTEES NAMED AT BOARD MEETING

The various committees of the Norwich Golf club were named at a meeting of the board of governors held last night at the home of the president, F. Russell Smith. The committees follow:

House—Joseph C. Worth, chairman, Lucius Briggs, John Dick and the manager of the Norwich Inn.

Greens—Edward G. McKay, chairman, D. W. Morton, Edmund W. Perkins, Fred Oat, C. A. Gager and L. M. Young.

Tournament — Earl Mathewson, chairman, Walter E. Turner, in charge of week end and holiday tournaments, Myles Standish, in charge of handicaps, and Charles A. Saxton.

The week end tournaments will start on April 26th with a kickers' handicap tourney and other tournaments will follow each week during the playing season.

The budgets of the various committees were approved and the activities outlined by the committees point to an exceptionally active year at the golf club.

There were 10 applications for membership accepted. Attention was called to the fact that after July 1st there is to be an initiation fee attached to membership, the fees being $50 for active members and $25 for associate members.

The matter of a professional for the club was tabled until word from Massie B. Miller, pro here last year, is heard from. Miller at present is in Indianapolis and is expected here within a few weeks before going to Florida for the LaGorce tournament.

LAMITIE WINS GAME WITH UNFINISHED RUN

In the fifth game of the first round of the elimination pocket billiard tournament at the Recreation Billiard parlors, the Elite club took the Gamma club to camp by the score of 100 to 62.

Meheil, substituting for J. Hotchkiss in C class, was undoubtedly the hero of the day for the Elite's, while Volowitz of the Gamma's proved to be the surprise of the first round, getting high run for C class, which was 7, considered very good for a novice.

Capt. Lamitie finished the game with an unfinished run of twelve. He played a very good game and advised his men like a professional player. The winners lined up with Capt. Lamitie, J. Vardamis and Meheil substituting for J. Hotchkiss. The losers: Capt. J. Vulgares, M. Economus and Vollowitz.

Tuesday evening at 7:30 a grudge game is slated which will be very good. There was a large crowd of spectators on hand.

Reds Beat Beavers, 13 to 7.

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 24—(P)—The Rhode Island Reds, leaders of the Canadian-American Hockey league, defeated the Quebec Beavers, of the Eastern Canada league, 13 to 7 here tonight in a wide open frolicsome exhibition contest.

College Basketball

At New London: Canisius, 23; Coast Guard destroyer force, 25.

BATTALINO-FERNANDEZ BOUT TONIGHT IS STATE'S FEATURE BOXING ATTRACTION

Star bout (10 rounds)—Bat Battalino, Hartford, vs. Ignacio Fernandes, Philippines.

Semi-final—Mickey Fiahive, Hartford, vs. Eddie Lord, Waterbury, 8 rounds.

Other bouts: Eddie Reed, Hartford, vs. Lou Piquette, Bridgeport, 6 rounds; Joe Hanlon, Hartford, vs. Marty Fox, New York, 6 rounds; Ralph Lenny, Union City, N. J., vs. Joe Fiella, New York, 4 rounds; Rocky Rayo, Hartford, vs. Johnny Kop, Norwich, 4 rounds.

HARTFORD, Feb. 25.—With both camps predicting a knockout victory, Bat Battalino, world's featherweight champion, and Ignacio Fernandes, hard-hitting Filipino, will meet tonight under the big top at the state armory here.

This is a battle between two of the stiffest hitters the featherweight class has ever known and the prediction of a knockout seems likely to be borne out.

Battalino's punching prowess is well known; he slashed his way through all opposition in the amateurs until he reached the National A. A. U. tournament at Boston, where he kayoed three opponents in five minutes to win the national amateur featherweight championship.

Fernandez is said to punch just as hard as the champion and he has kayo wins over Al Singer and Abe Attell Goldstein as testimony. Singer was knocked out for five minutes by Fernandez at the Bronx Hospital benefit show in New York last May while Goldstein's career was brought to an end by the beating the Filipino handed him.

Physically Bat and Fernandes are much alike; the Filipino is a little taller and has a slight edge on reach, but they are singularly alike in all their physical proportions and they will weigh within a pound or less of one another when they go into the ring tonight.

Tonight's bout signalises the return of boxing to the big state armory where it has been banned for some years. Promoter Ed Hurley has arranged a set-up, which will take care of 9,000 fans and the indication is that the gate will go over $20,000.

Among the guests will be Governor Trumbull. A box has been erected for the governor and his staff.

Mickey Fiahive and Eddie Lord meet in the semi-final.

The first bout is set for 8:15.

DELTAS AND TRINITY WIN IN CHURCH LEAGUE GAMES

SWEDISH SKI RUNNERS TAKE FOUR PLACES

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 24—(P)—Swedish ski runners took three of the first four places in the 50 kilometer cross-country race closing Lake Placid club's annual ski tournament here today. Nils Backstrom won in four hours, 43 minutes and 41 seconds.

Close behind him came Algot Larsen, both of the Swedish Ski club of New York city, and third was Otto Steinhauser of Germany. Another Swedish Ski club member, Olle Zetterstrom, was fourth.

Magnus Satre, national cross country champion, withdrew early in the race after a series of accidents.

Bretel Paaske of Quebec was fifth.

CARNERA KAYOES LODGE IN SECOND ROUND

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.— (P) — Primo Carnera, gigantic Italian, pushed Farmer Lodge, ponderous Minnesotan, like a child about the ring, then knocked him out in the second round of their fight here tonight.

Carnera knocked Lodge down for a short count in the first round, and in the second floored him for a count of seven. After his second collapse, Lodge was hardly on his feet before he hit the mat again for the third time and the limit. The Italian entered the ring at 275 pounds and his opponent at 235.

COLORED GIANTS CLASH WITH PLAINFIELD WEDNESDAY

The famed Philadelphia Colored Giants will return to the Plainfield Community house Wednesday evening for a return engagement with the Plainfield Pros. Featuring the brilliant-shooting Bethard, they are expected to give the Pros one of the stiffest tussels of the year.

The Giants have been touring the eastern states with much success and come to Plainfield with a fine seasonal record.

KOZIOL WINS IMPRESSIVE VICTORY AT FALL RIVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

FALL RIVER, Feb. 24—Al Koziol, Norwich, Conn., lightweight fighting in the six-round semi final on the boxing card here tonight, scored an impressive victory over Freddy Bender, of Newport. Koziol scored two knockdowns, one for a six count in the third and for five in the fourth. He won every round. Koziol took this bout on 24-hour notice when an injury incapacitated the original opponent of Bender, Sunday.

YALE BALL SQUAD HAS BRIEF OUTDOOR DRILL

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 24—(P)—Sixty candidates for varsity baseball at Yale reported outdoors today to Coach Joe Wood for the first general practice.

The workout was to have been held in the gymnasium where battery candidates have been holding daily sessions for the past two weeks. Coach Wood, however, decided to take advantage of the spring-like weather.

The ground was too soft for infield work, so that most of the time was devoted to batting and chasing flies.

Captain Beyer, regular second baseman last year, and Albie Booth, who is favored to land the shortstop berth, were absent. Both men are busy with basketball and are not expected to report for at least two weeks.

Coach Clyde Engle also worked outside with 20 battery candidates for the freshman team.

KERR WILL CONTINUE AS COACH AT CORNELL

HAMILTON, N. Y., Feb. 24.—(P)—Andy Kerr will continue as head football coach at Colgate next season, and the rest of the staff will remain intact, William A. Reid, graduate manager, announced tonight.

The rest of the staff includes Lloyd Jordan, end coach; Fred Swan, line coach; Razer Watkins, freshman coach, and varsity assistant.

Kerr plans to start six weeks of spring training within a fortnight. He has 12 veterans available.

A Basketball Challenge

The Baltic Independents challenge the Montville Aces or Colchester Shamrocks for a game next Saturday night. Answer through The Bulletin.

Portney Beats Kaplan.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 24.—(P)—Jack Portney, Baltimore lightweight, tonight was awarded the decision in his ten round bout with Kid Kaplan of Meriden, Conn.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

A new intercollegiate league was formed in Waterbury Saturday, when the Naugatuck Valley Interscholastic Conference league came into being at a meeting of Crosby and Wilby of Waterbury, Torrington, Naugatuck, Winsted, Ansonia and Central and Harding of Bridgeport. The first six will form the baseball circuit for the 1931 season and the two Park City schools will join them for the basketball circuit next season. Principal Frank Jeffrey of Torrington was voted president.

This arrangement now leaves three strong loops in Connecticut, the Eastern Connecticut and Central Connecticut leagues being the others.

New London Bulkeley's swimming team beat Warren Harding of Bridgeport Saturday night, 39 to 27. This was the second victory for the Tigers as they had vanquished Pawtucket (R. I.) high last week.

Torrington high won from Naugatuck's quintet Saturday night at Torrington, 28 to 24, with 2,200 looking on.

Bristol high, state champs, had a hard time beating Middletown Saturday, 17 to 12.

Make-up exams come the coming Saturday at the Academy, but the baseball vets are not worrying, for they passed with flying colors in the first exams and therefore became eligible for the coming season.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Red Arrow Handicraft Contest

The handicraft contest for which the Red Arrow club offered 15 cash prizes and one cash prize for the Boy Scouts, exceeded the expectation of the Red Arrow Handicraft committee. The collection of artistic handiwork displayed in the windows of the Reed & Hughes Co., and the Silverman Furniture store is such of great variety and of real artistic design and workmanship as has never been gathered before in Norwich.

In view of the magnitude of the collection and its great artistic value the Red Arrow Handicraft committee thought it fair to add 25 additional awards, payable in Red Arrow money in denominations of $100 to $300.

The Boy Scout handiwork display at the Hanover-Curland Co. store is also of very elaborate design, and the award will be made to the troop which entered the best work. There will also be a prize for a Boy Scout bird house.

The judges who will decide the awards for the handiwork will be: Mrs. A. C. Gilbert, Miss Ruth Russell and Miss Ada Watrous. The men who will judge the Boy Scout handiwork and other odd work not made by women will be Randolph W. Whaples and W. U. Forschler.

At 2 p. m. today (Tuesday) all the handicraft will be gathered at the art room of the Reid and Hughes Co., and spread on large tables so that the judges will be able to award the prizes. The announcement of the prizes will be made at the Palace theatre at 10 o'clock tonight. All the handicraft entries may be called for at the Reid and Hughes Co., after 10 a. m. tomorrow (Wednesday).

LIKE MAPLE SYRUP ON BUCKWHEAT CAKES— FYREWELL ON FURNACE

Ask your coal merchant for a copy of the Reading "Economy" leaflet, showing you how to have better heat at lower cost. Or write us at Philadelphia.

JUST as maple syrup adds the finishing touches to the enjoyment of buckwheat cakes on a frosty morning, so does Reading Fyrewell fired with Reading furnace coal add the touch that makes the world's finest furnace fires.

Fyrewell is specially prepared small size Reading anthracite that sells at a low price.

Furnace has been the standard size coal for furnaces since anthracite became known as nature's finest fuel.

Used together they make the longest-burning, cleanest, safest, most uniform furnace fire that you can have. And the low cost of Fyrewell makes the average cost per ton of your fuel so low that your heating bills for the best fire you can have will be lower than if you were using quick-burning, smoky or synthetic fuels.

Order a supply of Reading furnace and Fyrewell today. Your coal merchant has these Reading sizes or can get them quickly. Then you'll enjoy better heating with less effort and at lower cost.

VERY LITTLE ACCOMPLISHED IN BUILDING LINES DURING THE PAST SEVEN DAYS

There was very little activity in the building lines during the past week although mild weather prevailed during the latter part of the week. At the office of Fire Marshal Taft only one permit was granted, this being for a two-car garage to be erected on McKinley avenue extension by a local contractor who has just completed two dwelling houses there. The garage is to be 18x20 feet.

At the Central Vermont railroad station part of the train sheds on the east side of the station are being torn down in the line of improvement to the local station.

Work at the Norwich Inn progressed rapidly during the week with a number of rooms being completed in the building. In several of the guest rooms the plastering has been completed and the contractors, Peck-McWilliams Co. are engaged in putting up the wood trim in these rooms.

The remainder of the foundation for the Norton Memorial gymnasium was poured during the week and the work on the superstructure will start this week if the weather continues to hold good.

Other projects in the city have been brought along at a good rate. Although there has been but few permits filed during February local contractors are looking to a good year in the building lines. A number of the contractors are considering plans for new buildings to be erected as soon as the spring weather arrives, while others are contemplating building on an investment program.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were four sales of real estate four less than during the same week in 1929. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $83,128 and $21,242.

There were two sales of real estate in New London during the past week as compared to seven sales for the corresponding week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $80,541 and $87,050.

NATIONAL BUILDING SURVEY

Building permits issued in 566 representative cities and towns during the month of January showed a loss of 46 per cent. from January, 1929, according to official reports received by S. W. Straus & Co. January showed a decline of 17 per cent. from December, 1929, which in turn had declined 19 per cent. from November. The total for the first month of the current year was $127,635,094 compared with $236,200,319 in January last year, and $153,717,819 in December, 1929. These figures represent building only and do not include engineering projects. The sharp falling-off in building during January is in line with the opinion expressed by authorities during the latter part of 1929 that building activities would decline still further before the effects of favorable money conditions, recovery from the stock market crash, and gradually increasing demand for additional buildings resulted in a definite upturn. Although there may be still further declines, the industry, none the less, appears to be working toward a sound and normal basic condition.

NEW LONDON

With several more new building permits granted and the return of more favorable construction weather building activities in the city appeared to be taking a new lease of life the latter part of the week.

Held back by cold weather many contractors have been delayed in plastering but with the return of more moderate weather the latter part of the week considerable activity was noted in this work and also in the pouring of concrete on several jobs that had been held up because of the low temperature prevailing.

The Dutch Colonial cottage being built for E. E. and Gertrude L. Darrow on the east side of Montauk avenue and Plant street is now enclosed and shingled.

The house will contain eight rooms with a basement laundry and a two-car heated garage under the building and entered from the side and rear. There will be an open fire place in the living room and a summer open porch on the north side. The plans provide for steam heat, two baths, hardwood floors throughout and all improvements.

The house being built for Isador Sarinsky in Morton street has been practically enclosed. It is a Dutch Colonial style house of frame construction. The roof is finished with green stained shingles and the sides of wide clapboards. Work was finished this week on a large cobblestone chimney located at the west end of the house. The interior will contain the living room, kitchen, dining room, breakfast nook and sun parlor on the first floor and four bedroom and bath on the second floor. A two-car garage is also being built, the siding having been completed and the roof rafters being in place by the end of this week.

BUILDING PERMITS

Silas Maxson, garage, 739 Ocean avenue, $1,000.

N. Benvenuti & Sons, storage building and office, Elm street, $1,600.

Novitch Bros., cement block addition, 132 Main street, $1,500.

Number of permits issued for the week, 4; estimated cost of buildings, $4,100.

WESTERLY

For the third week in February Westerly Building Inspector Thomas Wills and Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi have issued the following building and zoning permits:

Feb. 22. Westerly Automatic Telephone Co., Main street, Westerly. Erect near chapel sub station, 19 feet, 7 inches by 21 feet, 7 inches of tile and stucco exterior, plastered interior, cement floor and asbestos shingles.

Feb. 22. Rev. Fr. John Neal, Weekapaug. Erect story and a half summer cottage, 26 feet by 43 feet, near Weekapaug Inn.

THE FIRE INSURANCE AGENT

—A Useful Factor In Every Community

In no other business does agent mean so much as in the fire insurance business as transacted by the Stock Companies. More than a century ago these companies established relations with property owners through responsible local representatives.

The system has grown with the insurance needs of the country. Today hundreds of the best citizens of every state are in contact with the public as representatives of the Stock Companies.

Great Authority

In no other field is the relation between agent and principal more intimate. In no other activity is the agent entrusted with greater authority.

The Stock Fire Insurance agent has at his command all the facilities of the companies in engineering and research to make life and property safer. He has access to systematic hazard measurements; authentic information about proper building construction; the work of Underwriters' Laboratories in testing materials and devices, and other forms of service for the benefit of the insuring public.

Leaders in Civic Affairs

In every community the insurance agents are leaders in civic affairs. They have been faithful factors in the steady reductions that have been made in the average rate charged for fire insurance during the last twenty years.

The local agent is in position to know his client and his client's property. He is prepared to study the needs of each one—brings to each the special service required—and may save you money if you will permit him to use the many available facilities and will cooperate with him in improving your risk.

A FREE BOOKLET FOR HOME LOVERS

A beautiful booklet has just been compiled by two Washington architects who are striving to give the public something fresh and new in home architecture. They hit on the new idea of presenting simultaneously pictures of ideal and actual dwelling houses. The reader who is casually interested in home architecture or is definitely thinking of acquiring a home of his own, will find this dual presentation more interesting than the ordinary plan book—although this brochure is not a competitor of such books. The cover design is in a woodcut effect, with striking poster treatment in three colors. All of these real houses are of wood construction, and many are in some variation of the Colonial style. While most of them are small houses that can be built for from five to ten thousand dollars, some are of mansion proportions.

Altogether these carefully selected homes from so many different regions of America represent adaptations of the characteristic American home structure to every climate and to all commercial species and all forms of wood from sills and posts to siding and shingles.

The booklet is not intended to be a substitute for architectural services, assistance or supervision. It is, rather, intended to give persons who are pondering the home proble msome ideas relating to exteriors and plans, so that when they face the practical problem of selection of design and material in dealing with architects, contractors, material and dealers they will have definite thoughts that will enable them intelligently to discuss their needs and aspirations.

Although a commercial publication the booklet is devoid of advertising and is purely a contribution by the lumber industry to the general movement for the improvement of domestic architecture, a contribution of special importance because about 75 per cent of the detached homes of America are of frame construction. Single copies may be had free upon application to R. G. Kimbell, 702 Transportation Building, Washington, D. C.

USE FOR MARBLE IN MODERN HOME

To the minds of the ninety-and nine marble stands as the aristocrat of building materials. It is always thought of in connection with palatial mansions. "I dreamt I dwelt in marble halls," is to the average person an expression of great splendor, of unreasonable heights of luxury.

Although marble is still classed as a semi-precious stone, improved quarrying methods and mass production have brought down its price so that it is within the reach of the purchasing power of the smaller residence owner. A little touch of marble gives the home an additional attractiveness, a distinctive charm. In addition to its highly pleasing appearance, marble is easy to clean.

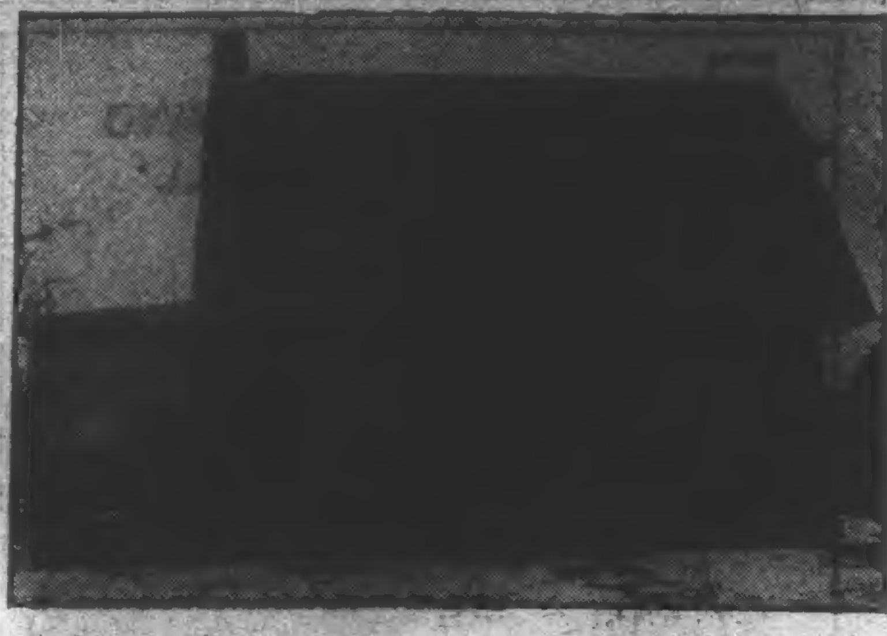
Large quantities of marble are not required to make an impression. The home-maker will delight in a narrow wall base of marble around the dining room or breakfast nook. This treatment is effective and yet inexpensive. Other casual possible uses are an attractively designed marble floor in the sunroom; the installation in the principal rooms of soft-toned marble radiators that harmonize pleasingly with other appointments, the placing of a graceful marble urn in a window niche; or perhaps the locating of a sundial or bird bath of this material in the modest garden.

Practical housewives see at once the convenience, cleanliness and sanitation of a marble-topped table in the kitchen, a marble slab for the preparation of doughs, pastries, vegetables, and meats which needs only wiping off to make it clean. One might even go a step further and put a marble wainscot in the kitchen. This room will then be as easy to clean as any other part of the home. The advantages, too, of having a material that is not marred by odors and stains from spattered grease are obvious.

SIGNS OF LEOPARD MOTH

Unsightly dead branches appearing above a tree or broken or hanging limbs among otherwise healthy trees are usually the signs that the leopard moth is at work, say scientists at the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories in Stamford, Conn. This borer attacks particularly elms and maples, also dogwood, oak, horsechestnut, beeches, birches, hickories and walnut.

ATTRACTIVE NEW McKINLEY AVE. EXT. HOME



The above picture is of one of the new houses that have been erected on the McKinley avenue extension. The house is owned by Charles J. Sentier and was erected by a local builder. The house is very attractive and is most modernly appointed throughout.

The cellar is of stone and concrete with stone underpinning and stone steps to the front entrance. The exterior finish of the house is in brown stained shingles and varegated shingles on the roof.

The interior is in hardwood and hard-finish plaster with a fireplace in the living room. There is a large sun-parlor at the south end of the house. The plumbing is all of brass and the heating system is one of the most modern in this section.

UNPAINTED BRICK MORE ATTRACTIVE

Unless you have it in mind to achieve a certain artistic effect, please, please don't ever give a brick surface a coat of paint! Recently a local man negotiated with a hardware dealer for a considerable amount of paint. Knowing that the man owned a brick house and noting also that it was exterior paint the man was buying, the dealer asked him just what he intended to do with it. He was horrified to learn that his customer proposed to give the entire surface of his brick walls a coat of paint.

"Don't do it!" he begged, "you'll be profaning the brick."

It seems funny to think of a hardware dealer with paint for sale giving any such advice as that, but the dealer loved the sight of unpainted rick more than he cherished the idea of making a sale. He knew, as everyone should know, that brick—common brick especially—is beautiful enough in its own right. A local man some years ago painted his house a dull slate color, because, so he told his friends, the brick looked old and musty. Since then he has come to realize that the "old and musty" look of his brick walls was far more to be cherished than the painted surface, which now needs a new coat just about every two years or else the house begins to look seedy. Even sand blasting would not bring back his musty old walls. The charm of the weathered brick is gone for good.

PLEASING THATCHED ROOF

Especially pleasing is the thatched cottage tucked snugly in between two hills, for there is a certain gracious quality that harmonizes completely with the landscape of the countryside. The undulating surface of the roof somehow blends with the contour of the hills; even the pitch of the roof may be in scale with nature herself.

CLEAN BOILER CUTS DOWN FUEL COSTS

If one's fuel bill does not drop after the installation of automatic heating equipment using fuel oil, it might be wise to have the heating plant checked. If the furnace is in good condition, the fuel bill, on an average, should be less with oil than it was with coal. Approximately 130 to 150 gallons of fuel oil will furnish the same amount of heat as a ton of coal, depending upon the type of heating plant and its condition. On an average, fuel oil at 10 cents a gallon will equal in fuel value coal at the rate of $14 a ton. If a furnace is in poor condition the cost of heating by oil may be greater. But if it is in good shape there should be a saving in fuel costs after the switch to oil is made. But whatever fuel is used it pays to keep the heating plant in first class repair.

POWER SANDER REMOVES OLD FLOORING STAINS

To prepare a partly stained floor for refinishing it is necessary first to remove every bit of the old finish, including stain. There are several ways this can be done, but good results can most easily be obtained by sanding the surface with a power sander. This method takes off all of the old finish and leaves the floor in excellent condition for refinishing.

RELATION OF BRICK LINING TO EFFICIENCY OF BOILER

The principal cost of heating is the cost of fuel. A boiler is purchased once; fuel is purchased each year. Heating comfort and economy depend on boiler efficiency. One of the vital factors in securing high combustion efficiency is the firebrick lining of the firepot.

Especially in small boilers an unbricked firepot allows heat to escape through the boiler walls with a tendency to produce a chilling effect on the edges of the fire; the comparatively low temperature of the boiler surface takes heat so fast that the adjacent fuel never reaches ignition temperature. This narrows the fire toward the center of the grate. Unburned fuel and ash begin to collect at the edges through which it is easy for cool air to flow without aiding combustion.

FIRE-EATER BUILDS A HOME OF BRICK

A fireman certainly ought to know his fire-safety. Chief Scott of the Los Angeles fire department knows his. Years of experience in fire-fighting has given him opportunity to observe the sad plights of homeless victims of fire-swept homes.

Chief Scott, who like his fire-safety, has selected brick construction for his home. Common brick, whitewashed, has given him a home which in his own words is "as nearly fireproof as possible, with good sound construction."

PROPER FEEDING OF SHADE TREES

There are many so-called "tree foods" on the market, according to scientists at the Bartlett Tree Research laboratories. In contemplating any feeding program, however, they advise tree owners to bear in mind that a real tree food should have the following characteristics:

It should contain phosphorus, potash, and nitrogen.

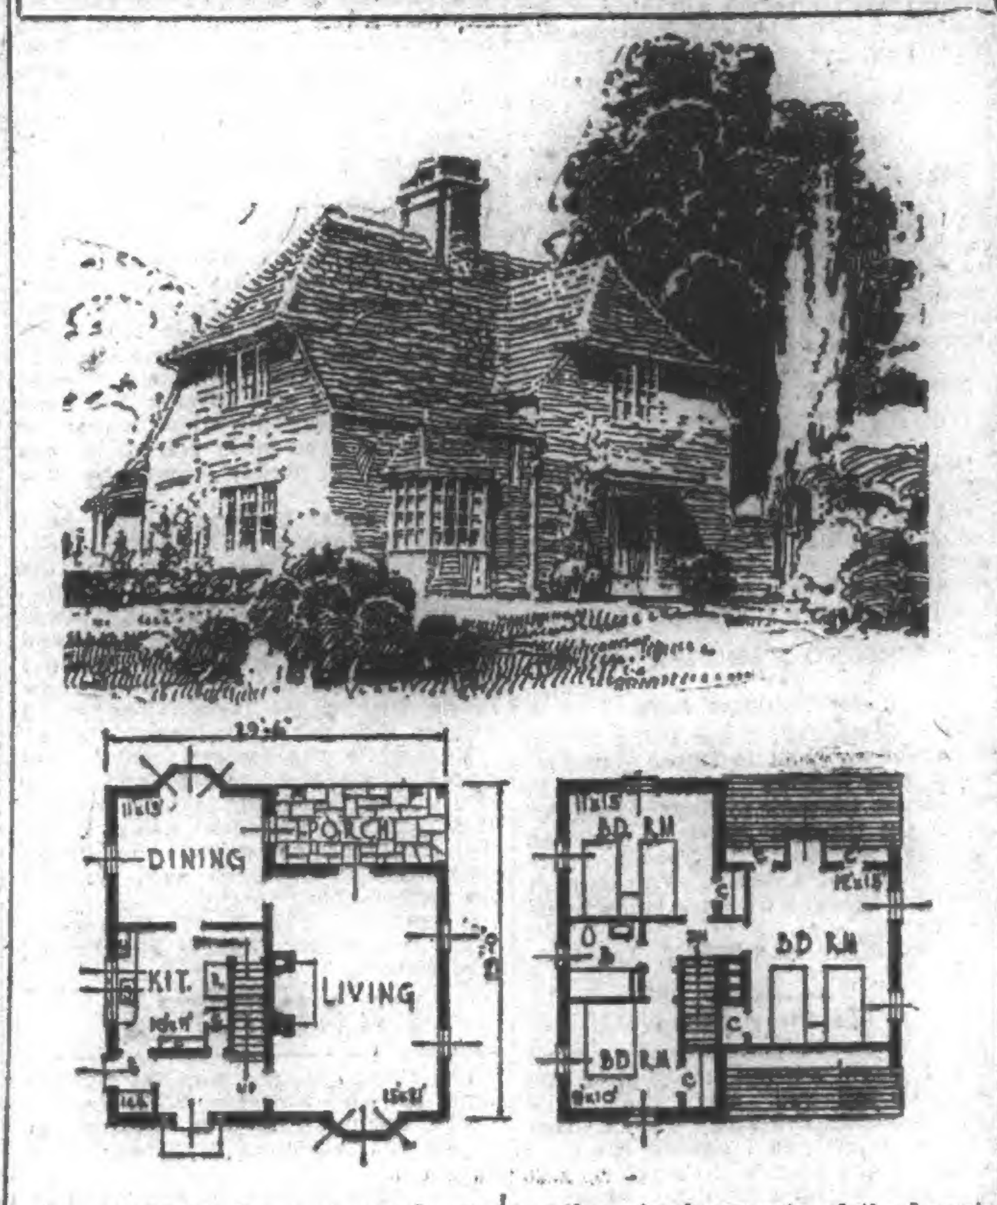
These elements must be well-balanced in such proportions as to become gradually available throughout the growing season.

Unless expert technical assistance and advice is available the feeding of evergreens is liable to result in "scorching."

SILVERY HOUSEHOLD METAL

Nickel, long an important element in armament alloys, is finding important service in the home, chiefly in monel metal, a nickel-copper alloy which resembles silver in color. In the modern household this alloy is being used for a widely diversified number of purposes from fire places and fire tools to kitchen sinks and table tops. It is strong as mild steel, rust-proof, and easily cleaned. In addition it has a hard surface which is difficult to damage and it has no coating to chip off or crack.

Six Rooms Compact In Snug Cottage



An economical home of sound construction is found in this low, two-story English cottage.

Its six rooms have been compactly planned for the home builder who desires a maximum of space on a comparatively small lot. With an exterior of brick and a slate roof, the house presents a snug appearance that still lacks monotony.

On a lot about 50 feet wide the landscaping may be so planned as to allow the living rooms, dining room and rear porch to open onto gardens. A straight run of stairs, in addition to other simple aspects of the home's construction, make it more economical to build than many houses of similar size.

Despite its low lines and size, the structure includes three bed-rooms and a bath on the second floor. Cross-ventilation is provided throughout.

Estimates on the home's cost vary in different localities, but in moderate sized communities it probably would run between $8,000 and $9,000. Different wage scales and cost of material, however, would alter the figure. The cottage includes 19,000 cubic feet.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES.

The Butterfly Lesson.

Who would have thought, upon this icy cliff,
Where never ibex bounded,
Nor foot of chamois sounded,
Where scarce the soaring hippogriff
Would venture. . . .
Who would have dream'd of seeing thee,
Softest of summer's progeny?
What art thou seeking? What hast thou lost?
That before the throne of eternal frost
Thou comest to spread the crimson wing,
Thou pretty fluttering thing?
Art thou too fine for the world below?
Or hast thou lived out thy joy and thy spring
And hast thou sworn
To live forlorn
An anchorite in a cave of snow,
Or palmer lonely wandering?

Or dost thou fancy, as many have done,
That, because the hill-top is nearest the sun,
The sun loves better the unthaw'd ice,
That does nothing but say that he is bright,
And dissect, like a prism, his braided light—
Than the garden of bloom and the fields of spice?
Didst thou think that the bright orb his mystery shrouds
In a comfortless mantle of sleet-driving clouds?
Alas! he never loved this place;
It bears no token of his grace ...
'Tis better to dwell among cornfields and flowers,
Or even the weeds of this world of ours,
Than to leave the green, vale and the sunny slope,
To seek the cold cliff with a desperate hope.
Flutter he, flutter he, high as he will,
A butterfly is but a butterfly still,
And 'tis better for us to remain where we are,
In the lowly valley of duty and care,
Than lonely to stray to the heights above,
Where there's nothing to do, and nothing to love.
—Hartley Coleridge. Poems.

Where Crows Walk.

Pastures trickle and shine in this new sun;
Hill roads gurgle; and hocks of shaggy horses
Drip with the melting mud. The winter is over,
And all of the world you know is water again.
But have no fear for the grass. It will not drown.
Yesterday noon I waded the upper meadow
And saw, in the farthest field, a lonely crow.
Where crows will walk it has to be dryer soon—
Crows have taken the very top of the world.
They caw, and the wind is warmer, and there is a rustle
Already of weeds to please their horny feet.—
Listen now! The grasses are listening too.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

On one of the Canary islands there is a tree which dispels from its branches actual rain to such an extent that a cistern placed at its base is never unfilled. This tree grows in one of the driest lands, through which no water ever flows. The branches of the trees are a cloud that changes into moisture frequently and sheds clear water.

In Arabia there is the insane or hysterical tree, so named from the fact that all who eat of its seeds are affected as if they had taken an overdose of laughing gas. It is not a large tree, seldom growing over six feet high. The seeds have a sweet, sickish taste and a decidedly unpleasant odor. As soon, however, as they have been pounded up and swallowed the user shows an extreme hilarity along with wild dancing, singing, and utter extravagance of language and motion. It is claimed no other drug in the world has a similar effect.

In contrast with this silly tree is the ferocious man eating tree of Madagascar. It is from seven to ten feet high and something like a grape fruit in shape, with tough, ugly tendrils stretching out in all directions. The trunk is black and as hard as stone.

At the top of the tree are six palpi, six feet high, that rear straight up and twine and whirl about incessantly. There is a cup also at the top which contains a clear, appetizing looking fluid. But alas for him who drinks it. He becomes peculiarly crazed and unable to get down. Then it is that the whirling palpi twine themselves slowly but surely about the helpless man until life is gone. This species of tree is naturally avoided as a deadly serpent would be, and the natives consider that it is actually alive and possessed of an evil and terrible spirit.

In South America there is a most convenient milk producing tree which the natives take advantage of for the feeding of their children. By boring a hole in its trunk a clear sweet stream of milk emerges, which is both healthful and delicious.

In the same class with this practical tree is one in Africa which produces an excellent butter, and another in Ceylon which gives forth bread. This bread is in the form of a fruit which, when it is baked, is cut and eaten like our own bread. It has a somewhat similar taste.

A little different in variety of product, but just as useful, is one in the West Indies, the bark of which resembles an exquisite filmy lace. It can be stretched out and is worn by the native women of fashion and position.

In Guinea there is another tree which yields a peculiar kind of fruit —a huge fruit resembling in size a cannon ball and which makes a tremendous noise when it pops.

Perhaps the most productive of all trees is the carnamba tree, similar to the palm which flourishes along the Rio Grande. When it is young it produces vinegar, while the roots have a taste similar to sarsaparilla. The trunk gives out a fiber and also a flower. The branches give forth nuts which when roasted can be used as coffee. The tree's wood is serviceable to make musical instruments.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

A Shady Nook.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you and I hope you will approve of this shady nook that's so peaceful and quiet.

It's about a mile from my home and it extends out in a quiet bubbling brook that goes peacefully along its way. It has nice wild flowers and pine trees tall enough to keep the nook nice and cool in summer. In the summer my friends and I go there to read or sit and gaze at the squirrels picking acorns or little fishes swimming about in the water. The only sounds which break the stillness are the bubbling brook, singing of the birds, cracking twigs or when we talk.

My friends and I happen to be the only ones that know of this place so we are trying to keep it a secret from everybody else.

School.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to you and the Wide-Awakes and I hope you will enjoy it. I am going to talk about school. The school which I attend consists of eight grades. It is not far from my home. The building is yellow with a green roof. I am in the first grade and I like to go to school. I hope all my other Wide-Awake people like school as much as I do.

A Terrible Dream.

Dear Uncle Jed: Being rather tired after the day's work, I decided to read before bedtime. Everyone was out, leaving me at home. The book was a mystery, which made me rather afraid of being alone.

Goodness! What was that noise? I turned and beheld two villainous looking men standing in the doorway. They approached me and after much whispering, started to tie my hands and ankles. I was too frightened to utter a word. They kept looking around until they found the kitchen. I was too nervous and frightened to call for help, so I kept wriggling nearer to the window. After reaching it, I started to twitch the curtain, to attract the attention of some neighbor or passer-by. The robbers didn't pay any attention to me, just kept drinking the milk and eating the cold victuals. The rope was cutting my wrists, and I was nearly exhausted from struggling.

Caught! The word flashed through my mind as they entered and saw how far I had reached across the room.

"Where is the cash box?" they asked. I told them that father didn't keep it at home. They boxed my ears and slapped my face in an attempt to make me talk. I started to cry. Again they held a whispered conference. They then proceeded to tie a rope to the heavy beam, and dragged me across the floor. The tears were streaming down my face and I was choking with sobs. Oh! How I wished I had gone with the family!

Bang! I awoke with a start from this horrible dream to find that the book I was reading had fallen to the floor, awakening me. My face was wet with tears and I was breathing heavily, my throat dry from sobbing, just as the family entered the room.

A Saturday's Experience.

Dear Uncle Jed: One day while my mother was away and my father and my big brother were out in the barn doing the chores we decided to play hide-and-seek in the house because it was snowing quite hard. We chose, and my brother Arthur was it. When he went to hide I thought I would hide Gilbert in a good place where he wouldn't be found, so that Arthur would have to give him up and be it over again.

I told Gilbert to go in the closet where we hung our coats and I would close the door. After doing so, I went to seek my own hiding place, but before I found one I heard my big brother shout from outside, "The bull is loose," and we all ran outside to see what was going to happen and I forgot all about Gilbert locked in the closet.

Finally my father managed to get the bull back in the barn. A little while afterwards my mother came home. When we were all gathered together and in the house again, my mother asked us where Gilbert was. None of us seemed to know, but suddenly I remembered that I had left him shut in the closet and when I opened the door I found him sound asleep.

Quilt Making.

Dear Uncle Jed: The leading industry of Fitchville is quilt making. Two types of quilts are made here—the cotton and white cotton filled. We get our cotton from the cotton mills in New England and the Middle Atlantic states. It is shipped to Fitchville by train. It is taken into the garnette room where it is shredded, cleaned and made into laps. Then cloth is slipped over and under the laps by machinery and put through a machine that sews the edges. This long quilt goes next to the cutting table where lengths are cut off the size of the quilt required. These quilts go to the fancy machine where designs are quilted in the centers. They are next taken to the edge machine where the edges are turned in and sewed by power sewing machines. Each quilt is thoroughly inspected. Then it is packed in bales or boxes, the address stamped on it and sent away by train or truck. Quilts are packed for shipping in dozen lots, half dozen lots and singly. Quilt making furnishes employment for almost three hundred people here.

Old Settlers' Reunion.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the old settlers' reunion that I went to Sept. 15, 1929. It was 20 miles from where I live. All of the old settlers and their friends from miles and miles around the country went to an old school house which was used for a club house. After we had dinner we were getting ready for a program. The school house got afire some way and burned to the ground. It was nearly full of people, mostly women and children, when it caught fire but no one was hurt. There was a country church just across the road from the school house, so they had the program in that. The fire was quite an excitement. We had a nice time just the same. The last I knew they were going to move another building there.

Had Eight Rabbits.

Dear Uncle Jed: I had eight rabbits but seven of them died. Now I have one left. It is my pet so I take it into the house so it won't die. Last night my father put it into a basket and it jumped out and went some place under our wood. Now we can't find it. This afternoon I'm going to look for it.

Has A Yellow Cat.

Dear Uncle Jed: My pet is a yellow cat. His name is Marge Door. When I eat he always jumps on my chair and I give him some bread. Every night I take him to bed with me. Sometimes I take a piece of string and pull it along the floor and he chases it.

EDMOND MARINIAK, Age 7.

Roger Williams' Park.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my visit to Roger Williams' park. One Sunday when I was in Providence we went to Roger Williams' park. On the way in we saw a flag made of many beautiful flowers. There were plenty of animals. We couldn't stay long because we were going home that day.

The Stray Kitten

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you. I am going to tell you and the Wide Awakes about the stray kitten. One day this winter as I opened the door to go out and play, a little yellow kitten came strolling into my house. I felt so sorry for the kitten I fed him and kept him warm. Soon he got very strong. One day we let him outside to play but he never returned. I hope it found a nice home where ever it went.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Reddy Returns

When mystified to fear give pause;
There nothing is without a cause.
—Reddy Fox.

Reddy Fox had something to think over. He couldn't understand why Hooty the Owl and Mrs. Hooty had attacked him. No, sir, he couldn't understand it at all. He was smart enough to guess that they had a nest up in one of those trees near where he had seen them, but that didn't explain why they had attacked him.

"It must be," thought Reddy as he sat on his doorstep in the Old Pasture, "that Hooty and Mrs. Hooty have taken Blacky the Crow's nest of last year. I was right near it. That is, I was right near the tree in which that nest is. But I can't climb a tree, so why should Hooty and Mrs. Hooty try to drive me away? They know I can't climb. Now if it had been Yowler the Bobcat, that would have been a different matter. Yowler could climb that tree and get their babies if they have any. There is something queer about it. Yes, sir, there is something queer about it."

The more Reddy thought it over the more queer the whole affair seemed. He had been struck without any warning. Only his own quickness in dodging had saved him from being struck a second time. Yet bothering Hooty and Mrs. Hooty was the last thing in the world he would think of doing.

"So," thought Reddy, "there are babies already!"

It was in the afternoon two days later that Reddy happened to be over in the Green Forest again. He was not far from that part where the old home of Blacky the Crow was located. He decided that he would go over to see if Hooty the Owl and Mrs. Hooty were still there. He would, however, take care that they didn't know he was about. So Reddy walked softly—and Reddy can walk softly when he wants to. Not a leaf rustled under his feet, even when he walked where the snow had melted and the leaves had dried. After a while he began to creep forward an inch at a time. At last he reached a place where he could lie flat under an overhanging hemlock bough and look up at Blacky's old nest. He had only a few moments to wait. Then Hooty arrived at the nest with food.

"So," thought Reddy, "there sure are babies already. My, but they do have their family early in the season. Hello! What under the sun is Mrs. Hooty doing down there on the ground?"

Mrs. Hooty had alighted beside a little hemlock tree just a short distance away. In her bill was a mouse. Perhaps you can guess Reddy's surprise when he saw a young Owl suddenly appear from under that little hemlock tree and greedily snatch at that mouse. Mrs. Hooty stood looking very fierce and turning her head rapidly in every direction, while her great round eyes fairly glared. It was very plain to Reddy that she was nervous.

"What under the sun is that little Owl doing down there?" thought Reddy. "It must be that it fell from the nest and cannot fly yet. Now I understand why I was attacked. I was headed toward that very place and Hooty and Mrs. Hooty were afraid I would find the baby. I wonder how young Owl would taste. Yes, sir, I wonder how young Owl would taste."

Meanwhile the hungry baby had gulped down the mouse and Mrs. Hooty was preparing to look for another. When she flew away Hooty still remained on watch. So Reddy stayed right where he was. It was the wisest thing to do.

JAMES DeRICCO'S TRIAL TO BEGIN AT W. KINGSTON

A Westerly murder trial begins this (Tuesday) morning in Washington county superior court at West Kingston, before Judge G. Frederick Frost of East Providence. A petit jury will be empaneled to hear the case of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, complainant, vs. James DeRicco of Oak street, Westerly, charged on the night of Jan. 14 with the fatal shooting of Atwood Gardiner, 21, who died the following night. When the case was assigned for trial a week ago, Third Assistant Attorney-General Sigmund Fisher, representing the state, said that it would probably take a week to try the case. At the arraignment and preliminary hearing in the Third district court, DeRicco was represented by Attorney M. Walter Flynn. At the trial today, Clarence E. Roche will assist Attorney Flynn for the defense. An indictment charging DeRicco with the murder of Gardiner was returned by the grand jury at Kingston last Monday. It is understood that the state will present more than a dozen witnesses.

MYSTIC

MRS. E. V. WHITING HAS KEPT A DIARY SINCE JANUARY, 1871

Mrs. Celia Sterry Whiting of 51 East Main street, Mystic, lived in Ledyard in 1870 and used to walk three miles to the Congregational church and Sunday school. Her teacher was Miss Esther Gallup, who later married Nathan Noyes and lived in Mystic. Christmas, 1870, Miss Gallup gave each of her pupils a diary; Mrs. Whiting began writing in her's January 1, 1871, and has kept a record of anyone calling, what she has done and other current events, every day since that time. In case of illness, after her marriage, her husband, Edgar V. Whiting, wrote in it for her. He also kept a diary of his own until his death, six years ago. Mrs. Whiting reads a verse in her Bible in the morning, and writes in the diary in the evening, considering these two things as much a part of her work as anything else. Her old diaries are very interesting and will give useful information to her relatives in years to come.

Florine Dow camp, Royal Neighbors of America, is to meet Friday evening when officers will be installed. They are: Oracle, Mrs. Anna Bailey; vice oracle, Mrs. Jennie Donath; recorder, Mrs. Catherine Gilbert; receiver, Mrs. Clara Leise; chancellor, Mrs. Freda Joseph; inside sentinel, Mrs. Auguste Kieburg; outside sentinel, Mrs. Elizabeth Lamb; marshal, Mrs. Elizabeth Wolfe; assistant marshal, Miss Flora Bergeron; Graces, Mrs. Esther Durant, Mrs. Lena Gly, Mrs. Rita Breed, Mrs. Minnie Lorello and Mrs. Bessie Taylor.

At the recent quarterly conference of the Methodist church, it was unanimously voted to ask Rev. and Mrs. William M. Newton to remain another year. But after careful consideration, Rev. Mr. Newton has asked that they be given a change. This request has been granted by the bishop and will become effective the first of April. The people of the church are greatly disappointed to lose Mr. and Mrs. Newton, as they are fine workers in the church and everyone likes them.

At the Congregational church Sunday morning, Mrs. Eugene Jones sang "The Lord Is My Shepherd." There was also an anthem by the chorus, "Extol Ye, the Lord Our God." The young people of the Dramatic club are rehearsing a pageant, "The City of Our God," which they will give in the church on the evening of Good Friday, April 18.

The meeting of the W. C. T. U. is to be held this (Tuesday) afternoon with Mrs. Charles W. Foote.

Harry Allyn was in Westerly Saturday.

Wednesday evening the adjourned fourth quarterly conference is to be held in the Methodist church.

Byron U. Hatfield of New York has been in town for a few days.

STOMACH UPSET, SOUR? THIS WILL COMFORT

Don't let sour stomach, gas, indigestion make you suffer. And don't use crude methods to get relief. There's no use when millions know the quick way; the pleasant, harmless way.

Just take a spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water. It is alkali in the best form. It neutralizes many times its volume of excess acid—and does it instantly. It will probably end your distress in five minutes. Then you'll know what to do the next time. Crude, harmful methods will never appeal to you again.

Phillips Milk of Magnesia is the perfect way to end digestive disorders due to excess acid for men, women, children—and even babies. It's the method doctors endorse; which hospitals use. For fifty years it has been supreme.

To know the many important uses of Phillips Milk of Magnesia is to keep a bottle in the house, always. Full information with each bottle. Your drug store has the 25c and 50c sizes. Insist on the genuine. A less perfect product may not act the same.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875

STOCK PRICES DROPPED IN DULLEST SESSION OF MARKET IN OVER A MONTH

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—Stock prices drifted lower in the dullest session of the stock exchange in more than a month today. Further drastic declines in the wheat and cotton markets and indecisive week-end business reports effectively turned the damper on speculative enthusiasm. Total sales were only 2,320,430 shares, about 240,000 less than Friday's.

Losses were largely moderate, the price index of 90 leading shares showing a decline of less than 2 points, and the market suffered primarily from lack of demand rather than extensive offerings. A "bear" group operating from southern resorts was said to have applied a little pressure here and there, but it was of a cautious sort.

The opinion prevails in Wall street that the depression in commodity prices is rapidly passing its most acute stages, but the situation, particularly at this season of the year, is beclouded with uncertainty, with the farm board presenting a new element of untested influence. The probable effects upon business are found extraordinarily difficult to estimate.

Business news coming to hand over the holiday week end gave little clue to what may be expected in the way of a spring revival. The recovery so encouraging earlier in the year has lost its snap, and before another pronounced upswing is experienced, most observers are looking for at least three or four more weeks of indecisive trends.

A disappointing item of the day's news was a report that steel mill operations in the Youngstown area had slipped off to about 74 per cent of capacity, compared to 77 per cent a few days ago.

More pleasing was the announcement that directors of Coca Cola had increased the common dividend rate from $4 to $6 annually.

Developments ushering in the long-heralded period of unusually cheap money have been disappointingly tardy of late. Call money, after renewing at 4 per cent today, rose to 4 1-2, as banks called more than $60,000,000 in loans, evidently having overloaned themselves to take advantage of the holiday week-end. Time money showed sympathetic firmness, and commercial paper, while still quoted at 4 1-2 for prime names, displayed a firmer undertone. Despite lower rates, there appears as yet no great plentitude of bank credit for business loans and mortgages over much of the country.

U. S. Steel closed at 179 1-2, off 3 1-2 net, and 10 points below its recently established 1930 high. Utilities generally sagged, with American and Foreign Power losing more than 2 points, in response to rumors of a forthcoming offering of senior securities. Other shares closing 2 or 3 points lower included American Can, American Telephone, Atchison, Canadian Pacific, Corn Products, International Telephone, Montgomery Ward, Johns Manville, Westinghouse Electric and Northern Pacific. Safeway Stores and Lackawanna lost 4 points, Gulf States Steel 6, and J. I. Case, 8. Standard of New York responded to the proposed Vacuum merge with a gain of a point, Public Service of New Jersey gained as much, Devoe and Raynolds A and Columbian Carbon closed 2 higher, American Banknote and Coca Cola 3.

Wheat futures lost about 6 cents a bushel net, reaching new lows for the season, in response to weak foreign markets, scarcity of storage room in the southwest, and lower cash markets. Corn lost about half as much. Cotton futures lost nearly $2 a bale, also reflecting weak foreign markets, as well as arguments for reduced acreage.

Foreign exchanges were steady to firm, with sterling cables ruling at $4.86 1-4, up 1-16.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—The bond market was dull but steady today. Prices edged upward and eased off in confusing fashion, leaving an even mixture of gains and losses which, in the case of the high grade listings, were scarcely half a point in extent. The volume of the day's languid business was about $1,500,000 below the Friday total.

Interest charges were slightly higher. Call money advanced from 4 to 4 1-2 per cent as the banks called loans, while 30 day time accommodations moved up a shade, with the other maturities remaining firm. This market was dull and money brokers reported that much of the long-term money was awaiting employment at 5 per cent.

United States governments labored through one of the dullest sessions in weeks. Turnover for all the listed issues did not reach $100,000, par value, and fluctuations were minute, with closing quotations off slightly from the previous close.

One of the busiest groups in the list was the foreign section. For the most part an early advance in prominent loans failed to hold, although net gains predominated. The easing tendency, however, carried through the close in Argentine 6s "A," Belgium 7s, Chile 6s, Rome 6 1-2s and a few others. Australia 5s of 1957 lost a point. Cuba 5 1-2s, Belgium 6s, Italy 7s and numerous French issues were firm.

In the prime domestic rails there were unimportant declines in Santa Fe General 4s, Canadian National 5s, Pennsylvania General 5s and Nickel Plate 6s. Chicago & North Western 6 1-2s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4 1-2s, Delaware & Hudson 4s, Nickel Plate 5 1-2s and Pennsylvania Gold 5s averaged about half a point higher. Green Bay & Western Income "B" debentures advanced 2 1-4 points on an active turnover.

Convertibles sold off in sympathy with stocks. American Telephone 4 1-2s lost 2 1-2 points net, International Telephone 4 1-2s dropped 2 3-8 and Atchison 4 1-2s fell 2.

Weakness of Cuba Dominican Sugar listings featured the industrials. The 7 1-2s tumbled 5 1-2 points to equal their low of 34, while the certificates of deposit sagged 4 points to 34, a record low. Domestic industrials were quiet.

Inquiry for the utilities was light and net variations were unimportant.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—Stock prices drifted lower in today's curb market with selling inspired by the break in commodity prices, higher money rates and President Hoover's declaration that higher taxes were likely unless there was a sharp curtailment in governmental expenditures proposed in congress. The reaction embraced practically all groups of stocks, with the bulk of the day's activity again in the public utility group. Trading was only moderate in volume, the day's sales totaling only 631,300 shares.

Electric Bond & Share was in rather free supply all day, closing 2 1-2 points lower at 94 1-2, which contrasts with the recent high of 102 3-4. American Gas & Electric dropped 6 1-2 points, American & Foreign Power Warrants 2 3-4 and Brazilian Light & Traction, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Electric Power Associates, Hydro Electric, United Light & Power convertible preferred and Utilities Power lost a point or more. American Light & Traction jumped 5 1-2 points, Duke Power 5 1-4, and Sierra Pacific Electric and Tampa Electric recorded moderate gains.

Aluminum Co. of America broke 20 points to 310, which contrasts with the year's high of 345 and a low of 275. Deere & Co. (new) broke 7 points to 116, and Metropolitan Chain Stores sank 3 points to 24, both new 1930 lows.

Stock of the new General Petroleum corporation, which was organized to merge the assets of the Standard Oil Co. of New York and the Vacuum Oil Co., subject to government approval, was admitted to unlisted trading privileges. A few hundred shares changed hands at 32 1-4 and 32 3-8. Vacuum closed 2 points higher at 98. Gulf Oil sagged 1 3-8 but the other active petroleum issues showed only fractional changes.

Investment Trust, Trading and Holding corporation shares were heavy, losses of a point or so being recorded by Goldman Sachs, Lehman, Graymur and Ungerleider. Radio and Aviation Shares were quiet, with most of the leaders showing slight recessions.

Break of nearly 10 points in General Theatres Equipment 6s featured the trading in curb bonds.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 24—(AP)—In a sensational collapse of all grain prices today, wheat suffered a vertical drop of 7 3-8c a bushel, outdoing records going back 15 years. Whirlwind selling rushes and extreme dearth of buyers tumbled wheat values down to 16 cents a bushel below the season's top figures, barely escaping the old time landmark of $1.00 a bushel here, but hitting it squarely at Kansas City. Reports of threatened exhaustion of storage facilities, with no adequate quick export outlet in sight, appeared to have nearly demoralized the wheat trade, forcing corn, oats and rye into upsets of all previous low price records this season.

Fluctuating wildly, Chicago wheat trading closed excited, 6 1-8 to 6 1-2 cents a bushel lower than Friday's finish. Corn closed 2 3-8 to 3 1-8 down; oats 7-8 to 1 1-4c off, and provisions showing 20 to 25 cents drop.

Rivaling the worst stock market smashes of the year, wheat broke headlong downward in price today from the outset, carrying every other cereal quick to fresh low record depths. Bottommost quotations for the day, however, were not reached until just before business ended in a nearly frenzied outburst of selling. It was estimated that the day's total sales of wheat in Chicago reached the stupendous amount of 150,000,000 bushels. A large part of the offerings thrown wholesale upon the market appeared to come from owners of future delivery contracts who were unable to stand further losses and who were stampeded by continued downward plunges of wheat values both at Liverpool and Winnipeg.

Prospects of a larger pre-harvest carryover of wheat in the United States this season than was the case in 1929 had much to do today with sellers' rushes to let go of ownership. Assertions were made that United States export clearances of wheat must total 9,000,000 bushel weekly from now on or else result in more domestic wheat being left undisposed of than before harvest last year. Violently contrasting with these assertions was the fact that export purchases today, not merely from the United States but from Canada as well, aggregated only 300,000 to 400,000 bushels. Meanwhile, reports of lack of adequate storage room were being received from Omaha in particular, but also from other big centers southwest and northwest. Suggestions of possible domestic crop damage ahead were virtually ignored, and at the day's bottom the March delivery of wheat in Chicago was quoted 15c a bushel under the basis at which the federal farm board has been loaning money freely on wheat as collateral.

Adding to demoralization of the wheat market was late announcement that the United States visible supply had decreased only 1,608,000 bushels in the last week, and is now 157,444,000 bushels against 123,316,000 bushels a year ago.

Corn, oats and rye were rounded down by the momentum of the crash in the wheat market.

Provisions were affected both by downturns of hog values and the acute weakness of grain.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—The price of a seat on the New York Stock exchange has advanced to $460,000, announcement being made today of the sale of a membership at that price, an increase of $10,000 over the previously recorded sale.

The Swedish Match Co., Wall street learns, has concluded an agreement with the Free City of Danzig whereby it receives monopoly rights for the manufacture and sale of matches for 33 years, in return for the payment of 1,000,000 Danzig gulden, approximately $194,500, and the loan of $1,000,000 at 5 per cent.

The net operating income of the St. Louis-Southwestern system for January amounted to $1,164,070, a decrease of $321,617 from that of January, 1929.

Burns Bros., New York coal dealers, have acquired the Sheevy Coal Co., of Shelton, Conn.

Medley C. B. Whelpley, a vice president of the Chase National bank, has been elected president of the recently formed American Express Bank and Trust Co. The bank, which will have its quarters in the American Express building at 65 Broadway, probably will open for business early in April. Mr. Whelpley, who is 37 years old, was born in New Brunswick, Canada, but spent his boyhood and was educated in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. During the World war he was captain of the 306th field artillery.

JEWETT CITY

WORCESTER AUTO THIEVES GET AWAY CLEVERLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 24—Two young men, as yet unidentified, stole a Ford coupe in Worcester at 1:30 this afternoon belonging to the Bay State Auto Supply Co. At the S-curve bridge at Tadpole two hours later, they failed to make the curve and rammed through the fence, so that the car hung in the balance over the railroad tracks, 30 feet below. The men, realizing their plight and before the police arrived, hailed a passing car, put up a hard luck story to the driver and begged for a lift to some garage in Jewett City. The stranger took them aboard in good faith and brought them to the borough, leaving them at a garage on North Main street, where they disappeared. The driver who brought them down also went on his way and the officers have been unable to locate him. The car was later towed to a garage in Jewett City. Traffic Officer William Briggs checked up on the wreck and notified the state police of the fact and straightened out the traffic jam, which occurred at the bridge.

Of the 24 accidents occurring at the bridge this is the third stolen car that has been recovered by the police, due to the fact that the driver was unfamiliar with the curve and crashed into or went over the bridge to the railroad tracks below.

MRS. DANIEL K. PRIOR DIES IN HER 90TH YEAR

Ann Elizabeth Phillips, widow of Daniel K. Prior, died at her home on Tracy avenue at an early hour Monday morning. Born in Westerly, R. I., May 7, 1840, within a few weeks Mrs. Prior would have been 90, and was probably the oldest person in the town of Griswold. She was the daughter of Hercules and Joann Olin Phillips. Besides living in Forestville, R. I., one year and in Baltic for three years, her home all through a more than ordinary span of life has been in Jewett City. Mrs. Prior was a charter member of the W. C. T. U. which was organized in 1874. She joined the Jewett City Baptist church in 1858, and was its oldest member, with a record of 72 years, which is outstanding in the annals of the church history, of faithful and consistent Christian membership. For nearly an equal period of time, she was a member of the Ladies' Aid society.

When nineteen, May 15, 1859, she became the wife of Daniel K. Prior. When her son George H. Prior and her daughter Mrs. George E. Sparks, twins, both of whom survive her, were young children, Mr. Prior, who was station agent here, was killed by the cars. In younger life Mrs. Prior was active in the church and social life of the village. After the tragic death of her husband, she being left with two small children, found most of her time occupied with the demands of home cares and domestic interests. Of late, for some years, Mrs. Prior has been in failing health. Making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Sparks, she has been watched over and nursed with tender care. Mrs. Sparks has met with an unusual bereavement, having lost both her husband and her mother within a week. Miss Ellen Prior, a student at Brown, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Prior completes the list of near surviving relatives.

Local people who attended the big dog show held at Boston Garden last week were pleased to meet among the exhibitors, W. B. Kendall, of the Long Branch sheep farm, Bowdoinham, Me. The overseer of this great farm is Samuel Dorrance, who married Miss Ethelle Parkhurst, a Jewett City girl. According to Boston papers, the stories told of the wonderful performances of the two big sheep dog, Chub and Duke, by Mr. Dorrance, who was there with the exhibit, were of extraordinary interest. Mrs. Dorrance is much interested in her husband's assignment at the big farm, and on one occasion a photograph, which showed her with a prize winning lamb, received a blue ribbon prize, for beauty and excellence.

Special K. of C. meeting tonight. Important business.—Adv.

OBITUARY

Elmer Bennett

Elmer Bennett, 64, who died at his home in New Haven Sunday afternoon, was a native of Griswold, born in Hopeville. He was brought up in the same locality as his cousin, Judge William R. Palmer, also a native of Griswold. The older residents of the town recall Elmer Bennett who left here when a lad.

At the Baptist Sunday school, the following members received meritorious mention and awards Sunday: R. W. Dearnley, for 4 years perfect attendance; Arthur Grey, 2 years; Arthur Tripp, 5 years; Wm. Dearnley, 10 years; Emma Dearnley, 13 years.

Officer Get Warm Reception

Officer Henry Vegiarde received a telephone call Sunday, from the Meriden reform school for boys, asking him to get in touch with the parents of Isador Donemy, 15, and to tell them that their son was at the point of death. Young Donemy was committed to this state institution as the result of being found guilty of local petty thieving. These thefts included the appropriating of lead and brass from different sources in the borough, which he sold to a Norwich junk dealer. The officer, went to the house on Slater avenue, to tell the story as requested. Arriving there, he first met a sister, who showered upon the officer a torrent of man's size abuses that nearly left him speechless. The Meriden school also came in for a raking over, punctuated with a liberal supply of unprintable language, that relegated this institution to the bottomless pit. The officer, realizing the family's circumstances, had intended to offer his car for the trip to Meriden. After his stormy reception he came away with his intentions of god will changed to feelings of disgust.

FUNERAL

Samuel Norman

The funeral service of Samuel G. Norman was held at his home, Monday afternoon, a large number attending. The service was conducted by Rev. Harold Arnold, pastor of Pachaug Congregational church. Burial was in the Geer cemetery, the bearers being Harold and Frank Geer, Walter Hyde, John Gallup, Frank Mell and George Frink. Among the floral remembrances were those from the Pachaug church and the Jewett City Water Co. Relatives and friends from out of town present were from Danielson, Liberty Hill, Plainfield, Baltic, Norwich, Preston and Voluntown. Undertaker Tillinghast was in charge of the arrangements.

At the Masquerade ball held at the Bijou, Saturday night, eight prizes were given for the best costumes. The first went to Miss Symingtine, Gertrude Casper and Helen Gavniski. The second was won by Miss J. Wychofski of Norwich and Mary Drabrek. The third prize was won by Jennie Nodl.

Joseph Roode, State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown, Mrs. A. A. Young, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox attended the funeral of Sheriff Sidney A. Brown in New London Monday.

A meeting of Whatsoever circle of the King's Daughters is to be held with Miss Alice A. Brown this (Tuesday) evening.

A whist and bridge is being planned to be held by the O. E. S.

A meeting of Washington council, Junior O. U. A. M., is to be held this (Tuesday) evening.

Miss Abbie Porter, R. N., of New London, spent the week end at home.

Noank Whirlwinds defeated the Noank Nuggets at basketball in the town hall Saturday evening, 32 to 29. It was the fastest and hardest played game this season. The Whirlwinds piled up an early lead and the score at the half time period was 21-10 in favor of the Whirlwinds. The Nuggets started off in the third quarter and almost evened the score. With one minute to play in the last quarter the score was 30-30, then the Whirlwinds scored one more field goal. Both teams displayed excellent pass and team work. D. Robertson was high scorer for the Whirlwinds with 9 points, and Deneau led the Nuggets with 7 points. The lineup for the Whirlwinds was: Rf, D. Robertson; lf, Chesebro; c, Clarke; lg, Buddington; rg, Butson and Sweet. For the Nuggets: Rf, Ebbets; lf, Deneau; c, H. Bracci,; rg, H. Robertson, and lg, B. Bracci. Referee, F. Fitzpatrick. Timer, Balestrini, and scorer, Patterson.

Miss Grace Fitzpatrick has returned to New York after spending several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzpatrick.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chester, of Norwich, were callers in the village Sunday.

Sydney Butson, of East Greenwich, R. I., spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Shandeor.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Cole, of Millis, Mass., were recent callers here.

Noank Fire Co. was out Saturday afternoon and tested out the old hose which had been carried on the truck for the past five years, by running a line of hose 750 feet from the town dock to the town hall and pumping five sections amounting to 250 ft. of hose were blown. The remaining 500 feet of old hose stood the pressure. The new double jack of hose which was recently purchased by Noank fire district, was used to replace the old hose and packed in the truck, leaving 1,000 feet of 2 1-2 inch hose and 300 feet of 1 1-2 inch hose.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Getchell, of Malden, Mass., spent the week end with Mrs. Getchell's parents, Capt. and Mrs. Fred Buddington.

Improvements are being made to the post office building. Part of a new floor has been laid in the main lobby, also new flooring on the outside porch.

Mrs. L. L. Smith spent Sunday with relatives in Old Mystic.

POETRY

An Old Man's Winter Night

All out of doors looked darkly at him
Through the thin frost, almost in separate stars,
That gathers on the pane in empty rooms.
What kept his eyes from giving back the gaze
Was the lamp tilted near them in his hand.
What kept him from remembering what it was
That brought him to that creaking room was age.
He stood with barrels round him * * * at a loss.
And having scared the cellar under him
In clomping there, he scared it once again.
In clomping off: * * * and scared the outer night,
Which has its sounds, familiar, like the roar
Of trees and crack of branches, common things,
But nothing so like beating on a box.
A light he was to no one but himself
Where now he sat, concerned with he knew what,
A quiet light, and then not even that.
He consigned to the moon, such as she was,
So late-arising, to the broken moon
As better than the sun in any case
For such a charge, his snow upon the roof,
His icicles along the wall to keep;
And slept. The log that shifted with a jolt
Once in the stove, disturbed him, and he shifted.
And eased his heavy breathing, but still slept.
One aged man * * * one man * * * can't fill a house,
A farm, a countryside, or if he can,
It's thus he does it of a winter night.

—Robert Frost.

Good Luck!

Things don't just happen! It is not mere chance
That makes your life a wreck or a romance.
It is not luck that will decide your fate,
Or bring you wealth, or fame, or honors great.

Things don't just happen! Just remember this.
Life will be what you make it, hit or miss.
We make our own delight, our own distress—
So we are told—our grief or happiness.

Things don't just happen! Make life what you will.
You have your choice—they say — for good or ill.
Struggle the harder when you think you're stuck—
In the meantime, here's wishing you good luck!

—Somerville Journal

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Bill—Will you love me when I'm gone.

Lil—Oh, Bill, you'll never know how much.—The Pathfinder.

Durham—"How did you break your leg?"

Durham—"Trying to kick myself for asking fool questions."—Detroit News.

"What is your job?" inquisitively asked the lowly gentleman. "Floor walker in an angelfoundry," he answered. Later we learned that he was watchman at a grade crossing.—Santa Fe Magazine.

"So you' new husban' is lazy, is he, Mandy?"

"Lazy? Ah'il say he's lazy. Dat man been out back of de barn sawin' wood all mawnin' jest to git outen goin' to de stoah to get me a loaf o' bread."—Boston Transcript.

George, whose only means of support was his rich father, was being married. Everything went well until the bridegroom had to repeat the words, "With all my wordly goods I thee endow." The congregation was then startled to hear a moan from the old man. "Heavens!" muttered Pa. "There goes his bicycle."—Toronto Goblin.

Above the altar of the United States Naval academy chapel is one of the most exquisite windows in America. It is of singular beauty in lines and coloring and portrays the Saviour walking on the water, His figure being one of remarkable tenderness and majesty. One of the traditions of service in the chapel is that each official service shall end with the hymn, "Eternal Father, Strong to Save."

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

Chromium Corporation of America, Waterbury.

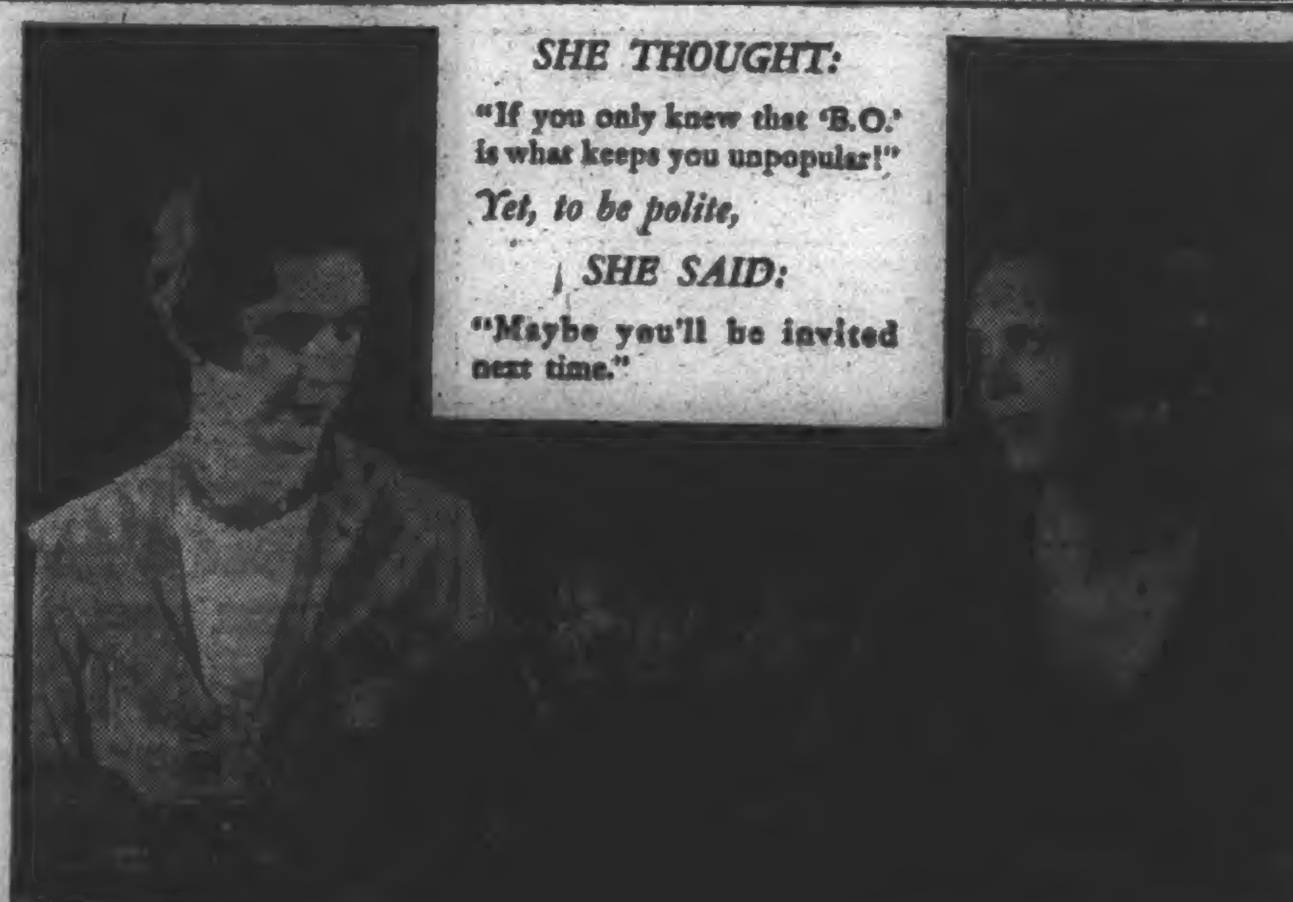
The use of chromium finish on automobiles and other bright surfaces has become universal but it is doubtless little apreciated how much Connecticut has had to do with its development.

The non-tarnishing features of chromium and its hardness have been known to scientists for over a century. However, all the early efforts to plate it seemed to prove the process costly and not commercial. Finally, through the work of Dr. Fink, and other technical men on the staff of the Chromium Corporation of America, commercial plating of chromium was made successful.

A large modern plant was purchased in Waterbury, and became the cradle of the industry. The plant started with small beginnings in almost all the numerous applications now common. In four years, the business has expanded into a large production factory. Here is done, not only well-known decorative finishing, but also the even more important industrial applications, where chromium plating is used as a protection against wear on hardened surfaces and against corrosion, stain or contamination of contents in industrial apparatus.

The corporation has licensed a majority of the country's reputable manufacturers to do their own plating, under its basic patents. It also operates its own job plating plants in several of the large cities.

Activities at the Waterbury plant are under the supervision of R. E. Cleveland, manager. The officers are: F. H. Hirschland, president; E. A. Beck, vice president; J. T. Pratt, secretary and treasurer; I. Strayer, assistant treasurer.



SHE THOUGHT:
"If you only knew that 'B.O.' is what keeps you unpopular!"
Yet, to be polite,
SHE SAID:
"Maybe you'll be invited next time."

Left out again! "B. O." (Body Odor) robbed her of good times until . . .

OTHER girls got flowers, candy, invitations, attentions—other girls not half so pretty as she! Why was she left out—forced to be a stay-at-home always?

"B.O."—body odor—that was the reason. It killed her charm—ruined her chances for popularity. Then one day she discovered the truth . . . Now she is popular—invited everywhere. Let her tell you the easy way to end "B.O."

◆ ◆ ◆

"Imagine the shock it was to discover that I was guilty of 'B.O.'! But it's so easy for anyone to offend and not know it. We all perspire. Even on cool days our pores give off a quart of odor-causing waste, physicians say. We're so used to this ever-present odor that we don't notice it in ourselves. But others do!

"I always wash and bathe with Lifebuoy now. It's a wonderful toilet soap—marvelously refreshing. Its creamy, abundant, gently antiseptic lather purifies pores—protects against embarrassing 'B.O.' Its pleasant hygienic scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you you're cleaner, safer with Lifebuoy."

Watch complexions freshen

You'll never know how radiantly fresh and clear your complexion can be until you try Lifebuoy. Its gentle, searching lather deep-cleanses pores—tones and stimulates dull sallow skins back to healthy glowing beauty. Try Lifebuoy today.

The Added "Something"

THE BEST part of anything is the added "something."

All evening, in a cafe, there had been music to which nobody listened. The chatter of voices and the clatter of dishes had drowned it quite effectively.

And then a slender young violinist stood up. He had played only a few strains when the hubbub ceased—dropped into a breathless stillness! When the last cadence of the strings died away with a sob of heart-break, there was another moment of hushed silence, for there were tears in every memory. Then —realization— and thunderous applause.

There are many violin players—but this one had the added "something" that reaches the heart.

Whether it be in music, in art, in literature, in business, that indefinable something will get across and into the hearts and minds of people, to be remembered and admired and loved.

We have tried to catch this quality in our print—to make it beautiful and appealing—to render the message permanent—to give it that added "something."

TWENTY-ONE PIANOS FREE!

Twenty one upright, grand and player pianos now on our floors will be placed in homes in Norwich and nearby towns free, and they may use them until we need them, which will be an indefinite period. Our radio business is expanding and we must make room, due to our showrooms being crowded to capacity with pianos. We do not wish to place them in storage, preferring to leave them with good families instead.

Please call personally to make your selection. If you write please mention whether you prefer an upright, player or grand piano.

We expect to have all these pianos delivered within a short time—so please call early. Our store will be open evenings until 9 P. M. Open Every Evening.

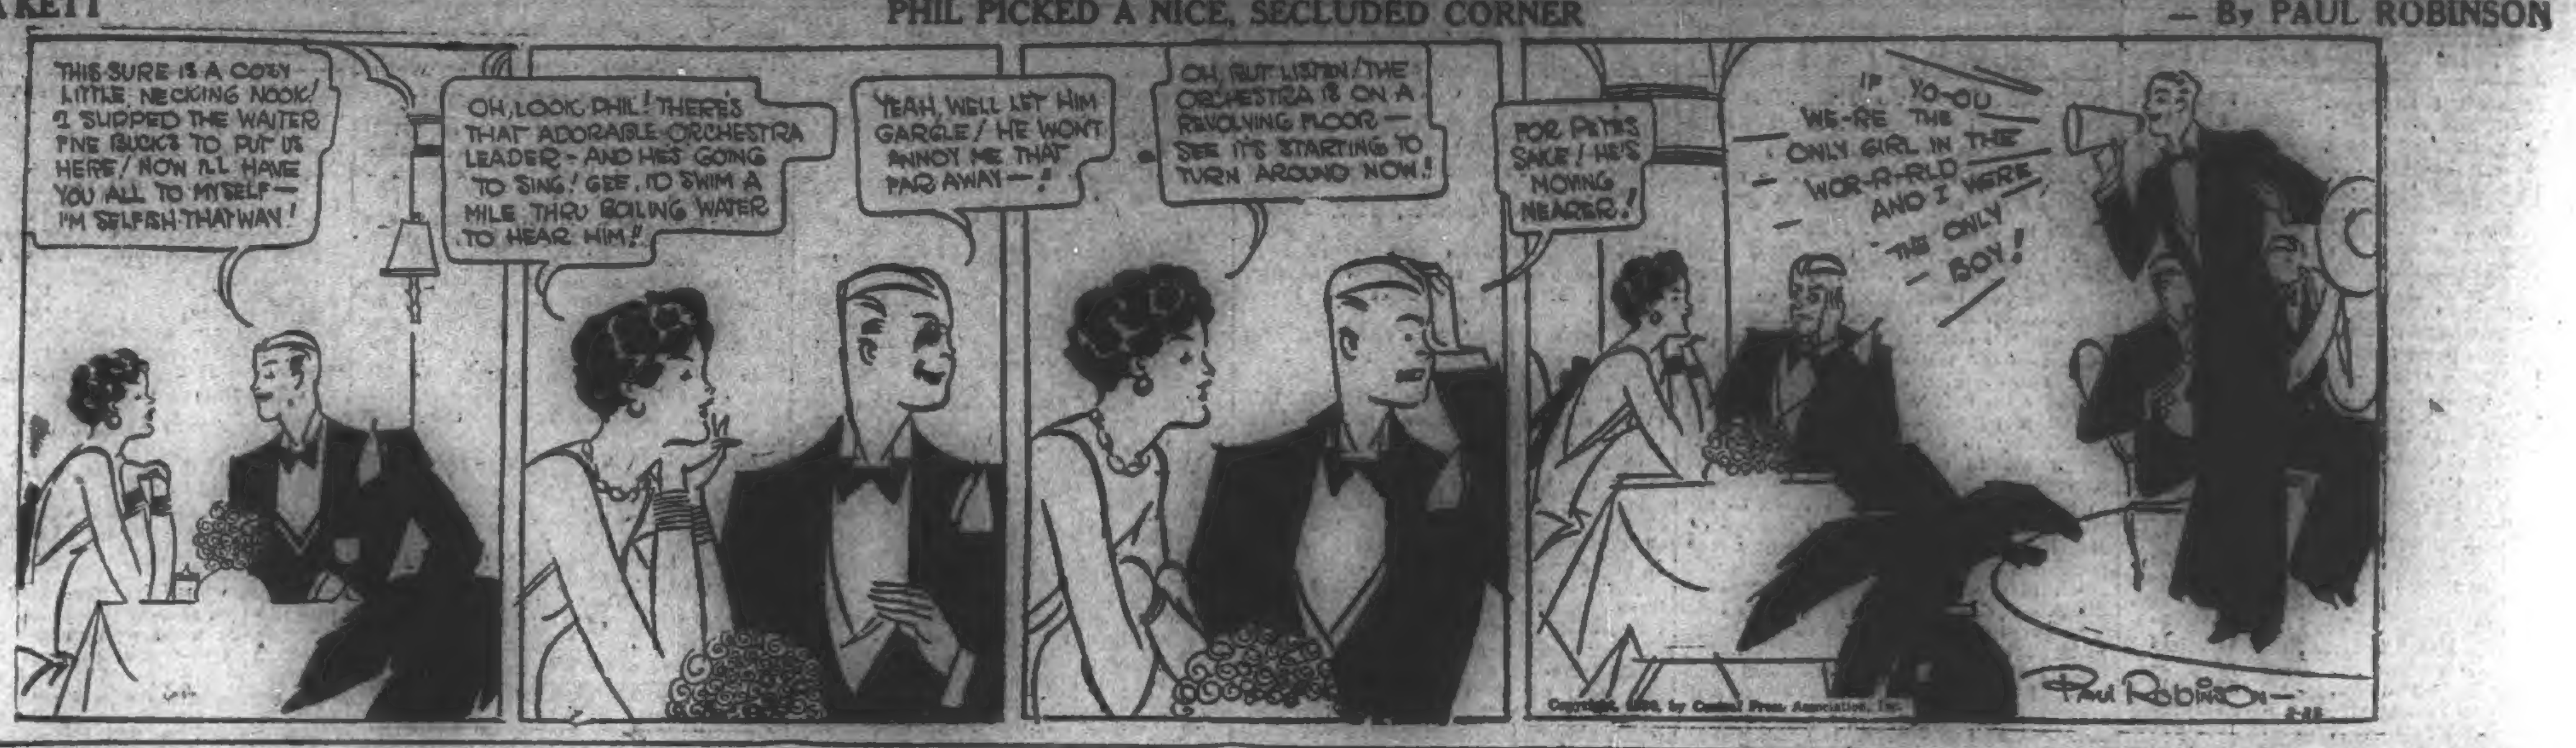
PHIL PICKED A NICE, SECLUDED CORNER — By PAUL ROBINSON



THIS SURE IS A COZY LITTLE NECKING NOOK! I SLIPPED THE WAITER FIVE BUCKS TO PUT US HERE! NOW I'LL HAVE YOU ALL TO MYSELF— I'M SELFISH THAT WAY!
OH, LOOK PHIL! THERE'S THAT ADORABLE ORCHESTRA LEADER - AND HE'S GOING TO SING! GEE, I'D SWIM A MILE THRU BOILING WATER TO HEAR HIM!!
YEAH, WELL LET HIM GARGLE! HE WON'T ANNOY ME THAT FAR AWAY—!
OH, BUT LISTEN! THE ORCHESTRA IS ON A REVOLVING FLOOR — SEE IT'S STARTING TO TURN AROUND NOW!
FOR PETE'S SAKE! HE'S MOVING NEARER!
IF YO-OU WE-RE THE ONLY GIRL IN THE WOR-R-RLD AND I WERE THE ONLY BOY!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

A grand double-feature bill is scheduled to start for a three-days run at the Palace tomorrow. It includes a marvelous saga of Norse days, entitled "The Viking," a striking drama of modern life, "Wedding Rings." Seldom has a program of the power, importance and entertainment of this one been presented at one time in any city. That it comes to Norwich is due solely to the desire of the management of the Palace to give its patrons not only the best but the most for their money.

Entirely in technicolor, "The Viking" lifts the screen to new heights of drama. Starred in this magnificent film are Donald Crisp, Pauline Stark, LeRoy Mason, Anders Randolph and others. Among the characters which the colorful screen brings back to life are the famous Leif, the Lucky, Eric, the Red, King Olaf and a host of blonde Nordic maidens. It is history told with a zest and tang that make it irresistible. Those who have studied the times of the old Norsemen who a thousand years ago ploughed the Atlantic in their tiny boats, will be delighted to meet them on the screen. For others the surprise will be even more pleasant.

PAULINE STARKE, in "THE VIKING"

"Wedding Rings" is the story wherein a sensuous and shallow debutante dominates the lives of men. Selfish and cruel she is and the despair of her mother and sister. How she moves through life, taking what she wants and casting aside almost brutally what she is finished with, makes this an absorbing tale. H. B. Warner, Lois Wilson and Olive Borden are starred.

Today, for the last times, the Palace presents Winnie Lightner in her latest role, "She Couldn't Say No," a picture that is at once screamingly funny and tensely dramatic. Don't miss seeing Winnie on any account.

Hard-Boiled Little Girl—Gimme one ticket and make it snappy.

Ticket Clerk—But, honey, there are two of you! how about the other little girl with you?

H. B. L. G.—Aw, ain't we half-sisters? Add dat up!—R. R. Magazine.

STATE, COUNTY AND TOWN OFFICIALS ATTEND BROWN FUNERAL, NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 24—The funeral of Sheriff Sidney A. Brown was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the family residence, 265 Williams street and was attended by a throng of mourners, including officials of the New London police court, Norwich city court, judges of the superior court throughout the state, prominent attorneys of eastern Connecticut, city officials, delegations of members of New London lodge of Elks and Thames club, besides many men and women who had known Mr. Brown intimately many years. The floral tributes were magnificent. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church and Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. The honorary bearers were Congressman Richard P. Freeman, Judge Christopher L. Avery, Judge Warren B. Burrows, Hartford; Judge Charles B. Waller, Judge Daniel M. Cronin, State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown, Norwich; Frederick W. Mercer, P. LeRoy Harwood, James P. Johnston, John H. Walker, George H. Bradford, Montville; Theodore Bodenwein, Charles A. Gallup, William T. May and Graham S. Hislop. The active bearers were Ambrose Caesara, E. Frank Morgan, G. Frederick Brown, Carlos E. Peck, Laurence A. Chappell, Walter Lewis, Charles B. Whittlesey, Deputy Judge of the New London Police Court John J. McGarry, Judge S. Victor Prince and John M. Mallon, Jr. Members of the state police and New London police acted as an escort. The committal service in Cedar Grove cemetery was conducted by Rev. Dr. Lee.

Mrs. Clarence Wells and infant son, of 36 Tilley street; John Hunt, Niantic; Eric Hanson, Trawler Plover; Mrs. John Cuddy, 33 Lincoln avenue; Joseph Pettinari, 77 Walbach street; Timothy Fenton, 263 Huntington street; Dorothy Bingham, 465 Bank street; Mrs. William Copeland, 36 Deshon street; Mrs. Brenaldo Modello and daughter, 53 Blinman street; Mrs. Fred Bailey and infant son, 8 Pearl street; Stephen Sheehan, 67 Fair Harbour place; Abraham Neimon, 36 Cleveland street; State Police Officer Peter Busch, 11 Cutler street, Groton and Edward Gilliam, colored, 37 Hill street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged over the week-end. Gilliam was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Katherine Salter, 74 Williams street, several weeks ago on Main street, being crushed between the auto and a fence. The injury resulted in Gilliam's right leg being amputated just below the knee.

FUNERALS

Mrs. George W. Congdon

The funeral of Mrs. Bertha M. Congdon, wife of George W. Congdon, was held Sunday afternoon at her residence on York avenue, Niantic and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, New London. The bearers were Frederick A. Beckwith, Charles Luce, James Clark and Mr. Hall. Burial was in Union cemetery, Niantic.

Mrs. William L. Curtis

The funeral of Mrs. Georgie Anna Curtis, widow of William L. Curtis, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 48 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. Richard L. Porter, pastor of Huntington street Baptist church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

NEPTUNE PARK RESIDENT DIES AT DAYTONA, FLA.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 24—Mrs. Catherine L. Cotter, 40, wife of Edward W. Cotter, of Hartford, who is grand trustee of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, died at her winter residence in Daytona, Fla., Sunday. Besides her husband, Mrs. Cotter is survived by her son, Albert Cotter, a daughter, Miss Edwina Cotter and her mother, Mrs. Edward Donaghue. Mrs. Cotter resided in this city during the summer, maintaining a residence at Neptune park.

John J. Kane

John J. Kane, 73, formerly of New York, but who for a few years has resided at 10 Franklin street, this city, died Sunday at the Lena hospital, where he had been a patient about six weeks. He is survived by several cousins. Mr. Kane for 31 years was employed as clerk by the federal government at Ellis Island, New York.

Mrs. John J. Gately

Mrs. Bridget Collins Gately, 64, widow of John J. Gately, formerly a resident of New London, died at her home, 58 Atwood street, Hartford, Sunday. She is survived by a daughter, Miss Fannie Gately, Hartford; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Farrell, Hartford; Mrs. A. E. Garceau, Providence and Mrs. Johanna Barry, of this city and by two brothers, Christopher J. Collins, of this city and James V. Collins, of Newark, N. J. Mrs. Gately was born in New London, a daughter of Cornelius and Bridget Collins.

Louis Ellonsky has sold a house and lot on Moore avenue to Frederick L. Watrous.

William J. Cross has sold a building lot on Adelaide street to Stanislaw and Annie Smolinsky.

An automobile driven by Donald Rowley, of Gales Ferry, struck and killed a dog owned by Ellen Storonsky, 621 Main street, in front of that residence this morning.

A brush fire off Bayonet street, near the former ice houses of the Perry Ice company, was discovered Sunday afternoon. A still alarm caused Thomas Hose company to go to the scene of the threatening fire and subdue it with chemicals.

Bror Hoagland parked his automobile on Montauk avenue last night and when he returned the car was missing. Hoagland reported the theft at police headquarters and the auto was later found in Cohanzie.

TAXI DRIVER TOO EAGER FOR FARES IS THE CLAIM

Arthur (Dewey) Connors, taxicab driver, was in the police court this morning charged with violation of the city ordinance prohibiting the soliciting of fares at the public stand, union station, at a distance further than ten feet from the taxicab, also with resisting an officer. At the request of Connors, who said that his employer, Meyer Rubin of the Yellow Cab company, was absent from the city, the case was continued to Wednesday and Connors furnished a surety on his bond of $100. Connors was at the stand at 2:30 o'clock this morning when he is claimed to have gone far from his auto in his endeavor to obtain passengers. Patrolman Edward Skoczylas observed the driver's acts and remonstrated with Connors. The latter, it is claimed, became abusive and was arrested. Connors resisted and was struck a blow that discolored one of his eyes. The Yellow Cab company is leased a section of railroad property on Railroad avenue, which the former uses as a parking space, and the railroad further allows the cab drivers to solicit patronage on the platform. Because of these conditions, Connors claimed he had the privilege of soliciting fares on the State street side of the depot and which is by ordinance the designated stand of the taxicabs.

BARBER HAS OLD CARS REMOVED FROM HIGHWAY

Fred Barber, 115 Howard street, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law, which prohibits the parking of automobiles in the public highway longer than 24 hours. The case was continued a month. Barber owns four automobiles that are more fit for the junk-pile than for service and he has used a portion of Sixteenth street to park them day and night. Since his arrest, Barber has caused the cars to be taken from the highway.

Joy Riders' Case Continued

William C. Mason, 55 Shaw street, and Frank Delaporta, 9 Archer court, were charged with taking an automobile without permission of the owner. The case was continued a month. Mason and Delaporta were arrested Saturday night following Edward Walsh, 134 Shaw street, making complaint to the police that he had been given much annoyance for a week or ten days because of his automobile being driven from its parking place, to be found abandoned in another part of the city. Walsh, who attended a theatre Saturday night, was instructed to park his car on State street near the corner of Main. Patrolman Lawrence Fardy was on duty there and when Mason and Delaporta were seen to enter the auto the pair were arrested.

Peter Gonska, 27 Harrison street, was charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. His case was continued until tomorrow. Gonska was arrested Saturday upon complaint of another occupant of the house, Mrs. Joseph Zielienski.

A farm hand, in court for his 40th time, being charged with his customary offense, intoxication, had not been before the court in several months, so was given suspension of judgment. Another man, also charged with intoxication, was given suspension of judgment. He was arrested on North Bank street Saturday. Still another, charged with intoxication, was given suspension of judgment, for he had not been arrested before. He was arrested on Shapley street Sunday. A fourth, also charged with intoxication, was fined $5 and costs. He was arrested on North Bank street Sunday. It was his 17th presentation in court.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

A wily Mexican bandid, "The Kinkajou," or "wildcat;" a troop of hard-riding fast shooting Texas rangers after that gentleman of the night, a beautiful senorita, a scheming Mexican general and his crafty staff officers, a couple of howlingly funny Yankee comedians, a cute little flapper-wife, beautiful scenery along both banks of the Rio Grande, stunning show girls in bewildering costumes, hundreds of clever chorus dancers in "scanties," music varying from symphonic to frank, pulse-quickening jazz, with perfect sound reproduction of haunting love songs, the artistry of the lovely Bebe Daniels with her equally lovely voice, the magic of John Boles' tenor, and thousands of feet of glorious color film, with a clarity and vividness never seen before, all backgrounding a real story of love and action on the Texas frontier—that in a brief paragraph is "Rio Rita," which is attracting record-breaking crowds daily to the Broadway theatre. Running well over two hours, the story seems to flash by in a moment, so fast is the action, so enthralling the musical tempo, so vivid the story. On the same program is included the latest Paramount sound newsreel and Douglas Stanbury, famous tenor, with the lyric double quartette of British soldiers in "Pack Up Your Troubles," a stirring song skit. The program will continue for the balance of the week, closing Friday evening and will be followed on Saturday with that tempestuous all talking drama of modern life and its problems, "Her Unborn Child," presented in film from the same wonderful cast of stage players who broken all records at the Eltinge and 48th street theatres in New York over a period of two years.

St. Mary's Players

St. Mary's players will present at the Palace theatre, March 18, another excellent comedy. This is good news, no doubt, to all as everyone knows what St. Mary's can do in the line of entertainment. This year they will equal anything they have done to date. This year's show is one of the best that this organization has had. As the annual show of St. Mary's is an important source of revenue for the parish we trust that everyone will be interested and help make this year's affair the best yet.

Franklin St. Property Sold

The three-story brick building, 202-204 Franklin street, belonging to Michael Levin, was sold Monday to Ralph Devito. It is occupied by the Economy store and two apartments above. The sale was made by Francis G. Donohue.

Nearly Frantic. Face and Neck Broken Out. Healed by Cuticura.

"My face and neck were broken out with pimples. They were hard, large and red, and were in blotches. The itching and burning were so severe that I had to scratch which caused terrible pain and eruptions. My face was so badly disfigured I was ashamed to go outside. I could not sleep on account of the irritation and was nearly frantic.

"A friend advised Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample. I purchased more, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Alice Boklaga, 280 South St., Bridgewater, Mass., July 23, 1929.

CHILDREN OF MARY MASS FOR REV. WM. A. KEEFE

A requiem mass for the repose of the soul of Rev. William A. Keefe, late pastor of St. Mary's Memorial church, was offered at 7 o'clock Monday morning. The mass, celebrated by Rev. Frederick M. Coholan, acting pastor, was requested by the Children of Mary society of the church. The musical portion of the mass was in charge of Mrs. Michael J. Farrell, organist, who was assisted in the duet number by Edward Connelly.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Marshall and sons, Robert and Francis Marshall, of Springfield, Mass., spent the week end with Mr. Marshall's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Evans, on Prospect street.

Miss Louise Ogden, of New Jersey, is spending a few days at the home of her brother, Charles T. Ogden, on Fourteenth street.

George Swanton has returned to Providence after spending the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Swanton, of North Main street.

Miss Delia Shea and John O'Shea, of Jewett City, spent the week end with their cousin, Mrs. Michael Shea, of 499 North Main street.

Miss Mary Mallon, a student nurse at St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, has resumed her duties after spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Mallon of Convent avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John Reardon and daughter, Rosalie Reardon, spent Sunday at Pleasent View.

When the Greeneville H club met Monday evening in their club room on Fourth street, it was decided that Tuesday evening a pinochle contest will be held between the members of the club which are divided into two teams, the American and the National.

William Carroll of Waterbury is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Carroll, of Smith avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Perry and family of Boswell avenue spent Sunday the guests of relatives at Waterbury.

Albert Spotten and Jacob Goldblatt have returned to their homes after spending the week end in New York city.

Anders Peterson of Providence spent the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Peterson, on Boswell avenue.

Edward Quinn and Richard McNeal spent the week end with relatives in New York city.

The Luther League of Salem Lutheran church has plans for a Swedish social in the church hall Wednesday evening at which the program will be followed by an old-fashioned Swedish supper.

NOTED SPECIAL DAYS AT UNCAS-ON-THAMES

Valentine's day, Lincoln's birthday and Washington's birthday were made more enjoyable for the patients and staff at Uncas-on-Thames, by the sodalities of the United Congregational church, which donated valentine favors, the Epworth league of Trinity Methodist church, which donated favors for Lincoln's birthday, and the Knights of Columbus, who furnished ice cream for Washington's birthday.

The people of Uncas-on-Thames, are most appreciative of the many acts of kindness, shown them by these good friends.

NORWICH BOY SCOUTS' CAMPAIGN ASSURES BUDGET FOR THIS YEAR

With the Boy Scout campaign over, members of the local executive board and Boy Scout council are expressing their appreciation for the splendid cooperation manifested by everyone participating in making the campaign a success.

The budget of the Boy Scouts for this calendar year is assured, and although there will have to be some cutting of expenditures, sufficient funds have been received to carry on. An audit made Monday reveals that $6,406.81 has been pledged in Norwich of which $4,525.38 was received in cash. Although practically few pledges were received over the week end, it is believed that in the course of a few months several hundred dollars additional will be given by Boy Scout friends who are now away for the winter. The remaining amount of money necessary to carry on the work it is anticipated will be contributed by the towns in this territory where there are troops which will profit by council service.

Though the campaign leaders had hoped to raise the entire $8,000 here that additional money could be used to start a fund for a camp, and though his hope cannot now be realized, the campaign is still declared to be the most successful Boy scout campaign ever held.

The local office has received several offers of camp sites. But unless funds can be secured as a memorial or a camp site donated, the council is not now in position to buy a camp. As a project for the future, however, a Boy Scout camp owned and operated for and by this council should certainly elicit public and private support.

For thec oming summer the scouts as during the past two years will join with the New London scouts at Camp Wakenah. This arrangement has proven very satisfactory for tenative purposes.

MUSICAL FLAG TALK FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

In a series of musical flag talks, broadcast every Tuesday afternoon from 5:15 to 5:30, the talk this week will be by Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, M. C., daughter of William Jennings Bryan. Her subject will be "Old Glory's Greatest Glory." Mrs. Owen will tell boys and girls why she thinks American youth is the greatest asset of the American flag—why she thinks they are "Old Glory's Greatest Glory."

Three of these weekly talks, in which the speakers have been Vice President Charles Curtis, General George W. Wickersham and Congressman James M. Beck have previously been given. This radio hook-up is the most extensive ever arranged for a children's programme.

Subsequent afternoon programmes are to be given as follows:

Tuesday, March 4—"The Anthem of the Flag." General John J. Pershing, one of America's greatest generals, who has commanded more soldiers in battle than any other American commander in history, will relate the stirring story of the birth of "The Star Spangled Banner", the anthem of the flag.

Tuesday, March 11—"The Flag and Opportunity". Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, himself a striking exemplication of America as a wonderful land of opportunity, having risen from a poor, struggling immigrant boy to a member of the cabinet of the United States, will tell boys and girls what America stands ready to do for them.

Tuesday, March 18—"Serving the Flag." Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, one of America's most public spirited women, bearing a name that commands respect and inspires confidence in all sections of the country. Mrs. Harriman will show the boys and girls of America how they can serve the flag by discharging properly the duties and obligations of American citizenship.

POLISH WOMEN'S ALLIANCE CONDUCTS SOCIAL EVENT

The Polish Women's Alliance successfully conducted its first banquet and dance last week, at Pulaski hall, which was effectively trimmed for the occasion, the tables having decorations of sweet peas and tulips. A roast chicken supper was served, covers being laid for over 225 persons.

The president, Mrs. Pelozia Strans, acted as toastmaster and called upon the gathering to sing the organization's hymn. She also spoke briefly of the 15th anniversary of the organization to be held in October and urged the young women of Polish descent to become affiliated with the alliance, the only organization of its kind in the city.

Other speeches were made by Mrs. M. Taskowska, organizer of the Norwich group, Dr. John Suplicki, Richard Dudkowski of Jewett City, who spoke of the work accomplished by the local organization, Councilman I. Adamski of Pawtucket, R. I., Councilman Joseph Panek, President Joseph Pysyk of the Kosciuszko-Pulaski corporation and Joseph Romanowska, who outlined the progress of the organization, encouraged the women to join the alliance and extended best wishes to the group for success during the jubilee year.

An interesting feature of the programme were vocal numbers given by Mrs. M. Kruczynska, a member, P. Grudzinski of Pawtucket, R. I., and K. Jaskiewicz, who were compelled to respond with encores.

Music for dancing was furnished by Przybusz orchestra.

The committee in charge comprised Mrs. Julia Bania, Mrs. Szalkowski, Mrs. Jorsz, Mrs. H. Milewsky, Mrs. Skowronski, Mrs. Bielicka, Mrs. M. Jaskiewicz and Mrs. R. Rozanska. The Misses Helen Staplionis and Genevieve Straub had charge of the table service and Mrs. Josephine Izbiska was chairman of the entertainment committee.

TWO BOY SCOUT TROOPS TIE FOR FIRST PLACE

Judges R. W. Whaples and Walter Forschler assisted by C. Edward Smith found it a difficult task to decide between the exhibits of Troops two and five placed in the window of the Hanover-Curland Co. The judges first separated the exhibits into five different groups representing those contributed by Troop 2, 5, 8, 9, and 12. Where one troop had a shade better in workmanship, the other troop had a larger number of articles representing a greater variety of subjects. The judges finally decided to combine first and second place and award one half the prize money to Troops 2 and 5. Both troops will therefore be enriched by $7.50 each.

Honorable mention is made of the exhibit of a four tube radio set from Troop 12 and a motor boat from Troop 8. According to the local scout office, at the scoutmasters round table, a discussion will be held of a rally and handicraft exhibit to be held at the armory in April and May which will give the scouts a chance to show their skill. Several scouts have expressed their appreciation of the Red Arrow club offer and wish that they could have had more time to show what a Boy Scout troop really can do.

MOTOR VEHICLE DRIVERS BEFORE CITY COURT

Three automobile drivers were presented in the city court Monday morning on motor vehicle charges, two cases being nolled and one driver being fined. Kenerson Elwood of New London, was found guilty of speeding and was fined $10 and costs. Otho G. Chase of this city was presented on a speeding charge but the case was nolled, as was the reckless driving charge against Ferrier Beaudoin of Taftville. Elwood was arrested Sunday night and the other two men were arrested Friday evening, all the arrests being made by the state police.

ORGANIZING BAND OF HARMONICAS, UKES, BANJOES

Manager Hamilton of Warner Bros. Palace theatre has decided to organize one of the most unique bands ever tried in this city, in the form of harmonicas, ukes and banjoes. Already many have signified their intention of joining this band. Any boy or girl between the ages of 6 and 18 years who can play any of these instruments or who would like to play these instruments may join the Palace band by sending name and address to the manager of the Palace theatre.

Classes will be formed and instruction will be given to those who join the band by competent instructors, and many pleasing variations are in store for the Palace band.

The Garde theatre in New London and the Capitol of Willimantic, both Warner houses, will organize bands and later in the season contests with these houses will be held for the championship of eastern Connecticut with suitable awards for the winners.

The band is open for all those boys and girls between the ages of 6 and 18 and there are no fees or costs of any kind connected with joining. It is up to those who want to learn one of these instruments and be ready to enjoy themselves later. This is the only time an offer of this kind has ever been made to the youth of this city.

CONTINUE INVESTIGATION OF BROAD ST. MILL FIRE

An investigation of the fire which badly damaged the plant of the Turner-Stanton Co., Broad street, late on the night of January 25th, was held Monday morning in this city by Robert T. Hurley, superintendent of the Connecticut state police department. There has been suspicion that the fire was of incendiary origin and it has been under investigation by the state police.

Monday's investigation, held at the rooms of the court of common pleas, was in the nature of conference to which a number of witnesses were subpenaed by the state police. Among those summoned to the hearing were Alexander Chimelewski, a call man, who discovered the fire while on the way to the quarters of Engine Co. No. 3, to which he is attached; Chief Henry R. Taft of the local fire department; Sergts. John T. Casey and Farrell of the local police department; Farrel of the local police department; C. E. Carpenter, who formerly held stock in the concern, and William Huber, who was bookkeeper at the plant, and was reported to have been in the place within an hour before the fire broke out.

NORWICH PEOPLE IN AUTO COLLISION AT BRANFORD

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Fitzpatrick of No. 26 Hobart avenue and their daughters, Mrs. Harry B. Ford and Miss Louise C. Fitzpatrick, narrowly escaped serious injury Sunday night about 9 o'clock when the machine they were riding in was run into by another automobile on the New London-New Haven highway at Branford. The Norwich people were on their way home in Miss Fitzpatrick's car, which she was driving, when a Ford, owned by a New Haven man, and being driven in the opposite direction, pulled out of line and crashed into their machine head-on.

Mr. Fitzpatrick received an abrasion on the forehead and Mrs. Fitzpatrick was quite painfully injured. The machine was practically wrecked.

SONS OF REVOLUTION RECEIVE CEREMONIAL BADGE

The Connecticut society, Sons of the American Revolution, held their annual national birthday banquet in Hartford Saturday afternoon. Major Charles H. Sprague of Bridgeport, vice president of the society, presided, and Lieut.-Gov. E. E. Rogers was toastmaster. Judge Josiah A. Van Ordel of Washington, D. C., was guest of honor and orator of the day. Mayor Tully of New Haven, President Hadden of Gen. Humphreys branch, S. A. R.; John M. Parker, Jr., of Hartford, president of Connecticut Sons of Revolution, made short addresses. At a business meeting held after the banquet, a presentation was made to the society, through Leverett Belknap of Hartford, from Hon. Hobart L. Hotchkiss, an old registrar of the society, of a beautiful jeweled ceremonial badge which was given to him during his official incumbency in appreciation of his valuable services which lasted for many years. In returning it to the original donor he specified that it should be perpetually in charge of the registrar in office, to be worn by him in all ceremonial occasions and transmitted through successive occupants of the office, thus showing his continued interest in the order of which he was so long and so efficient.

The board of managers, at a meeting preceding the banquet, authorized the formation of a local branch in Greenwich, to be known as Capt. Matthew Mead branch, No. 11, Connecticut society, S. A. R., and admitted 26 new members from various parts of the state. Sixty-three grave markers were ordered to be placed at the graves of Revolutionary patriots.

The society has had a prosperous year thus far, from April 1, 1929 making a net gain of 65, the present roll standing at 1,358 and unusual interest is manifested in the society and its objects from all parts of the state.

CONTINUANCE IN LAKE STREET LIQUOR CASE

In the city court Monday morning Santo Tedeschi, 25, of No. 30 Lake street, was presented on a charge of violation of the liquor law, the case having been continued Saturday morning. Trial of the case was again continued, this time until Wednesday. He is one of seven men arrested in liquor raids by the local and state police late Friday night and early Saturday morning.

Did Roller Skating Stunt

Curtis Dickerman, 11, and Russell Knouse, 10, who live in the East Side section of the city, finished a roller skating stunt Monday afternoon by rolling into The Bulletin office on their skates.

They started from the East Side section about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, skated down the Norwich-Westerly road, turned through to Hallville and Poquetanuck, up past the state hospital to reach the city by way of the Laurel Hill road. They were back at 4:15 and declared they were not at all tired.

Attending Style Show

George A. Keppler is in New York attending the annual style show at the Hotel Commodore Monday and Tuesday of this week. It was eleven years ago that the first style show of the New York Customs Cutters club was held and it has become of such importance that annual attendance has become part of the routine of those interested in the profession; and exhibits and demonstrations by the foremost tailors of the country make this occasion one of the outstanding events of the sartorial world.

Scores in Eagles' Pinochle

The second night of the Eagles club pinochle series was held Friday evening at the Eagles rooms. Tom Fields is leading the standing with Hiscox second. High score Friday evening, 6,815 was made by Samuel Swatzburg and Tom Fields made second highest score, 6,710. The standing to date:

Washington Service.

At Trinity Methodist church the Sunday evening worship was a George Washington Memorial service. The program included, piano, hymns, No. 701, 710, 702, scripture reading, Isaiah 32:1-8; prayer, offertory solo, "Love Not the World," Marsden; sermon by Rev. Joseph Cooper, "The White-Souled Washington; prayer, benediction, piano.

NORWICH TOWN

Wolf Cub Pack of Scouts connected with the Methodist Episcopal church held their meeting Monday afternoon at the parsonage, with an attendance of 17, including officers. The Cubmaster Rev. George Warren Potter had charge of the meeting. In the absence of the assistant cubmaster, Donald Olson the treasurer, John Gibbs inspected the Cubs. A marching period out of doors was a feature, a privilege the Cubs have not had since last fall. The game feature of the meeting was an observation hike out through a country road. Points were scored by Cubs who first spotted certain objects. The hike lasted twenty minutes and at the close the pack led by Woodruff Sullivan had 17 and the pack led by Den Chief Ellis Bentley scored 14 points.

The meeting closed on the Huntington Green with a Wolf Cub Howl and benediction. Following the closing a number of the Cubs returned to headquarters where the Cubmaster read another chapter in the story.

At the grange service Sunday evening in the Methodist Episcopal church the Norwich grange had a delegation of 50 patrons.

A large congregation assembled at Sacred Heart church Saturday morning at 7:30 o'clock, when the pastor, Rev. Edward J. Quinn, celebrated a month's mind requiem high mass for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Mary Casey, late of West Town street. The organist, Mrs. William A. Murphy, directed the music by the choir. At the offertory, Miss Mary Buckley sang De Profundis, and at the conclusion of the mass she sang Abide With Me. Included in the attendance were relatives from New York and Rockville.

TAFTVILLE

Wilfred Linderson who spent the week end with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Linderson of North Third avenue has returned to his home in Bridgeport.

George Adams of North B street has accepted a position in Middletown.

Frost played havoc with the state road over the Old Canterbury turnpike over the week end, the surface of the highway being badly broken up. Employees of the state highway department placed red lanterns along the sides of the thoroughfare to mark the rough spots Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. William Leo Bagley were week end guests of the latter's parents, Mr and Mrs. Joseph C. Marsan and family of Hunters avenue.

At the Sunday morning service of the Taftville Congregational church, the pastor, Rev. William Fenner, took for his sermon theme "The Challenge of Christianity." The solo parts in the anthem sung by the choir after the offertory under the direction of Miss Nellie S. Howie the church organist and choir leader were taken by Mrs. William J. McNally, Miss Dorothy Hunt and Miss Jean Copeland. At this service, 19 young men united in church membership, 18 by confession of faith and one by letter. There were also two baptisms at the service, prior to receiving the members into the church. Each new member was presented with two books, "The Meaning of Faith" and "The Meaning of Prayer" written by Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick. The books were the gifts of Rev. M. D. Jacobus, D. D., of the Hartford Theological Seminary.

Miss Blanche Molleur of Hartford spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie J. Molleur and family of Providence street.

On Sunday afternoon, special meetings of the English speaking branch and the French speaking branch of the Children of Mary sodality of Sacred Heart church, were held, the former meeting in St. Theresa's chapel and the latter in St. Theresa's hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Linderson and family of New Bedford, Mass., spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Linderson and family of North Third avenue.

Miss Roberta Vergason of North Third avenue is spending this week at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Vergason of North Stonington.

NORWICH WOMAN IS YOUNGEST TO MAKE SOLO FLIGHT IN CONNECTICUT

Miss Ella B. Odgers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Odgers of Dudley street, East Great Plain, gave Norwich an aviation record Monday when she made her first solo flight at the Curtiss-Wright flying service field at Hartford.

Miss Odgers, who is 18, is the youngest person on record in Connecticut to make a solo flight and she reached this stage in her aviation progress in the unusually short time of only twelve hours of instruction.

She has been eager to take up flying lessons for some time, but was not able to do so until after the first of this year. She has proved so apt a pupil that her instructors decided she was ready for a solo flight after only twelve hours of instruction. The solo flight was a complete success and Miss Odgers will go on with her instruction with the intention of securing a commercial license.

Miss Odgers is a sister of Mrs. Frank N. Gardner of East Great Plain.

FRANCE'S NEW GOVERNMENT FAILS BY VOTE, 292 TO 277

Went Down to Defeat In First Appearence For Vote of Confidence Before the Chamber of Deputies — The Chautemps Cabinet Handed In Their Resignations Last Night —General Opinion Prevails In Paris That Tardeau Or Briand Will Be Called By President Doumergue to Form a New Government.

PARIS, Feb. 25—(AP)—France's new left-wing government went down to defeat today at its first appearance before the chamber of deputies amid a bitter attack from the opposition.

Premier Camille Chautemps, despite his pleas that it was important for France to send a delegation back to the London naval conference quickly, was beaten on the crucial vote of confidence by a margin of 15 votes, 292 to 277.

For the third time in the history of the third republic, the chamber refused to give the incoming ministry a chance, and after cheering former Premier Tardieu on his entrance taunted M. Chautemps for having caused the downfall of his predecessor in order to "give the radical-socialist party a chance to get governmental portfolios."

The general opinion in Paris tonight was that Andre Tardieu or Ahistide Briand would be called by President Doumergue to form a new government.

M. Briand however has already made known his disinclination to accept the premiership in any government, though willing to take the post of minister of foreign affairs.

Former Premier Tardieu therefore appears to have an excellent chance of going back as premier before the chamber that defeated him by five votes a week ago.

The voting took place amid great excitement both inside and outside the Palais-Bourbon where the chamber sits.

The balloting was carefully checked for nearly an hour, while the chamber and the lobbies seethed with excitement. Until the last minute many deputies hoped the official recount would give Premier Chautemps enough votes to slip through with and thus permit France to send a delegation to the naval conference in London tomorrow.

Several thousands of people lined the embankments of the Seine in front of the Palais Bourbon to await the vote. When Premier Chautemps and his ministers emerged from the building on their way to give their resignations to President Doumergue, the crowd shouted "Vive Tardieu"—"Long Live Tardieu."

The entire cabinet called at the Elysee palace a little before 10:00 p. m. and handed in their resignation. On leaving President Doumergue, M. Chautemps told waiting newspapermen "I am leaving with rancor and bitterness toward none. I have seen grouped around me in a democratic fervor that promises victory in the near future all the best elements of the real republican France."

The official counting of the vote was extremely laborious. The deputies had stuffed the ballot boxes with more than a thousand ballots, though there were only a little over 600 deputies entitled to vote.

An intense electioneering campaign was made on behalf of the government by certain members of the ephemeral cabinet. This took place even on the floor of the chamber during the whole session, and the pressure brought to bear on waverers in the lobbies was even stronger.

The entire center and the right remained solidly behind former Premier Tardieu, who yesterday persuaded his group of 64 deputies not to give their confidence to the new government.

The tone of discussion was acrid in the chamber. When M. Chautemps asked for support in order to send a French delegation back to London, the opposition shouted him down with the retort "What about Tardieu? He was there before you stabbed him in the back." The Chautemps cabinet was one of the shortest-lived in French parliamentary history, lasting only five days.

NAVAL PARLEY WILL BE DEFERRED ANOTHER WEEK

LONDON, Feb. 25.— (AP)—Adjournment of the London naval conference for another week was expected tonight to be the immediate result of the fall of the Chautemps cabinet in France.

The defeat was a blow to the hopes for speedy renewal of negotiations, but conference leaders were fully prepared for it and will proceed along the lines Prime Minister MacDonald and Colonel Henry L. Stimson of the United States planned during their week end conference at Stanmore.

Under those plans the prime minister will summon the chief delegates in London—Colonel Stimson, Reijiro Wakatsuki of Japan and Dino Grandi of Italy—to Downing street Thursday for consideration of the situation. Grandi was nearing London on his return from Rome when the fate of the Chautemps cabinet was sealed. Colonel Stimson is under medical care with a severe cold. Wakatsuki accepted the news stoically.

The chief delegates of the various nations awaited the vote of the French chamber with as much interest tonight as if it were on a major political issue in their own countries.

The first reaction after the result was learned was to minimize the disappointment at further delay as much as possible. It is Mr. MacDonald's sincere belief that another week of delay can be weathered without disastrous effects—that in fact it may result in no loss, as was proved by the past week, when much valuable technical work was accomplished by the experts.

HOOVER COMMISSION HAS SAILED FOR HAITI

U. S. S. ROCHESTER, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The Rochester sailed from Key West, Florida, just before noon bearing the Hoover commission which will investigation conditions in Haiti. In fair weather it expects to reach Port-Au-Prince in two and a half to three days.

A salute of nineteen guns was accorded the commission as it entered the Key West navy yard by motor. The party had breakfast with Captain S. H. R. Boyle, commandant of the yard, and was taken to the Rochester—anchored seven miles out—by the U. S. S. Falcon, submarine tender.

Five members of the commission are aboard—the chairman, W. Cameron Forbes, of Boston; James Kerney, Trenton, N. J.; Henry P. Fletcher, Philadelphia; William Allen White, Emopria, Kansas, and Elle Vesina, Woonsocket, Rhode Island. The sixth member, Willis J. Abbot of Boston, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, is going direct to Haiti.

HAD "WORKED" RESTAURANTS BY FOAMING AT THE MOUTH

CHICAGO, Feb. 25—(AP)—The trouble with William Thomas' system, was that he worked it twice in the same place.

For 20 years, Thomas fainted, foamed at the mouth and walked out of restaurants without paying a cent for such morsels as T bone steak and mince meat pie.

Today Thomas revisited the scene of a former triumph. A policeman found a bar of soap in his pocket. The soap explained enough about foaming at the mouth to put Thomas in the Bridewell long enough to work out a fine of $25.

TO SEEK ANOTHER STAY OF EXECUTION OF DR. SNOOK

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Advised of refusal of the United States supreme court to review the case of Dr. James Howard Snook, convicted murdered of Theora Hix, counsel for the former Ohio State university professor said late today they would ask the state board of clemency to review the conviction. Dr. Snook is scheduled to be executed the night of February 27.

MIDDLETOWN HOSPITAL PAROLE PATIENT INJURED

MIDDLETOWN, Feb. 25—(AP)—William Cummings, 52, a parole patient at the Connecticut State hospital, walked away from the institution last night and fell off from a railroad trestle.

He dropped 15 feet to the ground below, and broke one leg and an arm. He was found this morning by a track walker and taken back to the hospital.

STARBUCK CONFIRMED FOR FED. RADIO COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The nomination of William D. L. Starbuck to be a member of the federal radio commission for a four-year term, was confirmed today by the senate.

CHICAGO GUNMEN CARRY WARFARE TO HOSPITAL

CHICAGO, Feb. 25—(AP)—Already wounded, his leg trussed up with ropes and pulleys, in a plaster cast, Frank McErlane, big shot of the beer business, could not properly be taken for a "ride."

So two gunmen—unaware or unimpressed by the citizen-police drive against hoodlums—tiptoed stealthily into the German Deaconess hospital last night and blazed away at McErlane as he lay on a bed.

They spattered the walls with bullets and shot the wounded McErlane—three times—then fled when McErlane drew an automatic from beneath his pillow to bark a defense that terrorized inmates of the hospital.

"I'll take care of this, myself—if I live, and if I don't there won't be any need for it," and police, being more or less experienced in the investigation of gang shootings, pressed McErlane no further for identity of his assailants.

BAKER INDICTED FOR MURDER OF HENRY GAW

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(AP)—The first indictment for any of the ten murders which James Baker, 38, told police he committed, was returned today by the February grand jury in the poisoning of Henry Gaw, laboratory night watchman, a year ago last December.

The indictment will be handed up to Judge Morris Koenig tomorrow in general sessions court.

The calmness with which Baker confessed to murder after murder, most of which police could not find in the records, led them to doubt his sanity. So District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain called in two alienists. They found him sane.

In police lineup yesterday, Baker described in detail the murder of Gaw on the night of December 27, 1928, in the Guggenheim laboratory.

MINEAPOLIS CITY EMPLOYES TRAPPED AND DROWNED

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 25—(AP)—Trapped and drowned by a sudden rush of rain water through a sewer in which they were working, the bodies of three city employes were recovered from the Mississippi river today. A fourth man escaped.

The dead are August Anglade, 38; Arnold Bell, 32, and Gothard Carlson, 60. The survivor is Earl Dillon, 46, suffering from shock and bruises.

The men had lowered themselves into the vault to clean away accumulations of sand and mud just before a heavy rain began late Monday.

TROLLEYMEN LOOK FORWARD TO A NEW WAGE SCHEDULE

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 25.—(AP)— Another struggle over wage and time schedules of trolleymen of the Connecticut company was forecast today with announcement that an employes' meeting last night discussed a wage scale which would call for an increase of six to seven cents an hour over the existing one. However, the forecast was a long range as the present agreement made last summer will not expire until June 1, 1931.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

WATH, Yorkshire, England, Feb. 25—(AP)—Three miners were killed and seven were injured in an explosion and subsequent fire at the Wath main colliery.

LONDON, Feb. 25—(AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, New York, will give the Richard Cobden lecture at the Royal Society of Arts, May 7.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 25—(AP)—As a result of a rising tide of Chinese animosity against Harold Lloyd's talking motion picture "Welcome Danger" the Paramount corporation, distributors of the film in the Orient, withdrew the production from showings at local theatres.

CALL FOR INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION OF MINERS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The international executive board of the United Mine Workers of America tonight issued a call for an international convention of the union to be held at Indianapolis beginning March 10.

The announcement, which followed a meeting of the executive board here today, said "it is expected that the convention will take action with reference to the rebellion in the union in Illinois, where a rump convention has been called by insurrectionists for the same day on which the Indianapolis convention will open."

The gathering here will be the convention of the United Mine Workers which was to have been held in January, 1929, but which was postponed by a referendum vote from 1,200 to 1,500 delegates are expected to attend.

TWO ADDITIONAL DAYS FOR HEARING OF "WETS"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Two additional days have been allowed the wets advocating modification and repeal of the 18th amendment in which to present their argument on the anti-prohibition measures before the house judiciary committee.

The witness slates are so large that Representative Linthicum, democrat, Maryland, leader of the house wet bloc and Dr. F. W. Buck, secretary of the Federal Dispensary-Tax Reduction league, said they doubted if all could be heard.

At the judiciary committee rooms it was made known that no list of witnesses had been received from the Rev. Edwin Dinwiddie, of Washington, who has been requested by Chairman Graham of the committee, to take charge of the dry witnesses.

LIABILITIES AND ASSETS OF U. S. WORSTED CORP.

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—B. Loring Young, receiver of the U. S. Worsted corporation, reported today that the company's liabilities were $3,601,328 and its assets were $1,157,279.

Young, in his report delivered to the superior court, said that it was not feasible to operate the company, or any part of it, and advised immediate sale of all its holdings.

Authority to appoint H. M. McCord, who made the appraisal, as liquidating agent to sell the property to the highest bidder, at private sale was asked.

The properties include the Silesia mill in North Chelmsford, the Unwoco mills, and the Lawrence dye works in South Lawrence, the Musketquid mills in Lowell and lots and cottages in Newton.

BODY OF BOOTLEGGER WAS FOUND AT SOUTH ATTLEBORO

SOUTH ATTLEBORO, Mass., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Charles R. Hacking of Cranston, R. I., said by the police to have had a record as a bootlegger, was killed by a bullet tonight and his body dumped on Newport avenue, here, a short distance from the Pawtucket, R. I., line. Hacking had been shot in the chest and was badly bruised about the head.

Hacking's body was found by motorists who thought he had been struck by a hit-and-run automobile driver. He was identified through a card in his pocket.

Medical Examiner Jesse W. Battershall said that in his opinion Hacking had been murdered. He had been dead less than an hour when found, the medical examiner said.

SHARP EARTHQUAKE FELT IN THE IMPERIAL VALLEY

CALEXICO, Calif., Feb. 25.—(AP)—A sharp earthquake of short duration was felt throughout the Imperial valley at 6:25 p. m. today.

The shock was of approximately 15 seconds duration. No damage was reported althought buildings were rocked to such an extent as to send persons into the street.

The tremor was felt across the Mexican border in Mexicali.

In the Brawley business district the shock was reported particularly severe. No buildings were found to have been cracked, however.

ELEVEN RABBIS RELEASED BY SOVIET GOVERNMENT

MOSCOW, Feb. 25.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—The Russian foreign office has officially announced that eleven of the 14 arrested leaders of the Minsk Jewish community have been released but the names of the three still under arrest have not been made public. The communist press in Minsk today prints the names of those arrested and the charges against each one. The name of Chief Rabbi Henachem Gluskin, however, is not mentioned.

OBITUARY

Col. Arthur Grabowskii

AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 25.—(AP)— Col. Arthur Grabowskii, 98, Russian-born son of a Polish count who was in charge of supplies for the Confederate army during the latter days of the war between the states, died here today of pneumonia.

Colonel Grabowskii was the son of Count and Countess Frederick. He was educated in the Russian Military academy at St. Petersburg, now Leningrad, and the Royal college of agriculture at Potsdam, in Prussia. He came to the United States at the age of 20 and was an instructor in Roanoke college, in Salem, Va., for a short time.

After the war Colonel Grabowskii had a distinguished career as an educator as commandant of military units in the Pennsylvania State college, the Maryland Agricultural college and the Haskell Military institute for Indians in Lawrence, Kans.

Springlike In East, Wintry In The West

Thermometer Registered 73 Degrees In New York—Zero In North Dakota.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(AP)— The warmest weather in the history of the local weather bureau for that period of the winter between November 12 and March 13 was established today when the thermometer registered 73 degrees at 3 o'clock.

Persistence of light southerly winds blowing from an area of high barometer overlying the southeastern states and nearby Atlantic towards a series of depressions moving eastward in Canada was the explanation for the abnormal temperature given by the weather bureau.

WINDRY WEATHER AGAIN PREVAILS IN NORTH DAKOTA

ST. PAUL, Feb. 25.— (AP)— Heavy snow, sleet, near zero temperatures and rain were distributed over North Dakota and Minnesota today, ending spring-like temperatures which had prevailed for nearly a week.

Northern Minnesota and most of North Dakota had snow, the latter state experiencing a 10 1-2 inch fall yesterday and last night in the western part. Roads were blocked and city traffic was impeded while the temperature fell to 4 above zero at Minot.

Wire service in eastern North Dakota was cripped as rain turned to sleet and put many circuits out of order

At Omaha a temperature drop of 40 degrees was experienced.

HOTTEST FEB. DAY ON RECORD IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The hottest February day in the history of the weather bureau brought one heat prostration today and sent the mercury soaring to 84.

The warmest previous February day on record was 78 degrees on February 28, 1874. The weather bureau was established three years before that record.

FLOODS THREATENING SOUTHERN ONTARIO

TORONTO, Feb. 25—(AP)—Apprehension among the residents of southern Ontario increased today, as rivers and streams, already swollen by thawing snow and ice, rose to new levels after rains last night and this morning.

The worst conditions prevailed in the Grand river valley. Dunnville, one of the most populous communities in the Niagara peninsula, was inundated today when an ice jam piled up at a dam.

The ice jam showed signs of giving way this afternoon, however, and the water was beginning to recede.

The Thames river at London, Ont. was climbing toward the danger mark today as a result of a three-quarter inch rainfall this morning.

Lower temperatures last night in eastern Ontario resulted in some improvement. Cold weather is forecast for the entire province, which municipal authorities expect to remove the danger soon of fresh loss of life and property. Three deaths have occurred thus far.

INTERVENING FOR PEACE IN DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—(AP)—A 28 year old diplomat, John M. Cabot, of Cambridge, Mas., stood between two hostile camps in the Dominican republic today and asked for peace in the name of the United States.

He was sent to the turbulent city of Santiago by Charles B. Curtis, American minister.

Mr. Curtis reported his selection of a peace maker to the state department, saying at the same time that the revolutionists had not yet advanced upon Santo Domingo, the capital city. There President Vasquez spent last night safe from attack in the government fortress.

The minister also reported that Vice President Jose Alfonseca had resigned and President Vasques had promised legislative annulment of all amendments to the electoral law made since 1924.

President Hoover's only comment on the situation during the day was that he had no information of any danger to the life or liberty of American citizens in Santo Domingo at the present time.

WOULD PERMIT NAT'L BANKS TO EXTEND THEIR BRANCHES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—(AP)—Decentralized branch banking, to be developed by permitting national banks to extend branches into their respective trade areas, was advanced as an answer today by John W. Pole, comptroller of the currency, to the demand for slowing down the centralization of banking resources.

Appearing as the first witness in the house banking committee's study of group, chain and branch banking, Pole recalled the depressing influence exerted by the large number of bank failures in various sections of the country in the past ten years and explained his conclusion that "our small independent unit banks are no longer fulfilling the purposes of their creation."

THREATENING LETTERS RECEIVED BY SENATORS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.— (AP) — Threatening letters, mysterious ransacking of some offices and rumors of "spies" are giving the senate some laughs and some slight nervousness, while the leaders are not permitting the matter to worry them.

Threatening letters are not new to veterans of public life but receipt recently of warning epistles by several senators has created a little alarm. The letters are not all alike. One in particular warned Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, to stay away from the senate for a couple of weeks.

MRS. TULLY WINS DIVORCE FROM THE "HOBO AUTHOR"

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Feb. 25—(AP)—Twenty-four hours after Mrs. Margaret Tully, wife of the famed "Hobo Author" Jim Tully, of Hollywood, Cal., had filed suit for divorce here, a decree was granted to her late today on grounds of extreme cruelty.

Mrs. Tully's request for restoration of her maiden name, Margaret R. Myers, was granted. She asked neither alimony nor court costs. She told the court her husband's "temperament was too much to bear."

Three Men Missing With Transport Plane

Disappeared Sunday While En Route From Kingman, Ariz., to Alh[illegible] Cal.

LOS ANGELE[illegible] 25—(AP)—Western Air Expr[illegible]als tonight revealed that [illegible]n—pilot, co-pilot and stewar[illegible] missing with the Western [illegible]ess transport plane that dis[illegible] Sunday while en route f[illegible]gman, Ariz., to the termina[illegible]mbra, Cal.

Th[illegible]ence of the third man aboard, [illegible]n W. Slaton, steward, had not hitherto been known. He was a new employe, Western Air Express officials said.

A check up of personnel showed today that he had gone to Kingman Saturday with Pilot James A. Doles and Co-Pilot A. W. Bieber in the chartered plane which carried special passengers to Arizona. The plane was returning without passengers, when it disappeared during a sudden storm.

All of the missing men are married, and Doles has a child.

Doles is 28 years old and had been in the employ of Western Air Express since June 14, 1928. Bieber, 30, was a more recent employe. Slaton's age was not known. Twelve searching planes, three of them army ships from March field, California, government air base, searched the territory between Kingman and Los Angeles, today, swooping also over the Mojave desert, without result. Three Western Air Express planes took off from Kingman and six from Alhambra terminal. They all returned to their bases tonight.

Doles received his flight training at March field and Western Air Express officials have received assurance from March field that more army planes will take up the search tomorrow.

Numerous emergency landing places dot the route to Kingman and company officials held hopes that Doles and Beiber had landed to avoid the storm, as Doles did some months ago in Arizona with a cargo of passengers.

LICENSE DENIED FILIPINO TO MARRY AMERICAN GIRL

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Superior Jude J. A. Smith today issued a writ of prohibition against County Clerk L. E. Lampton, forbidding the granting of a marriage license to Tony V. Moreno, 24, a Filipino; and Ruby Robinson, 22, an American. The girl's mother had protested the marriage on grounds that Moreno was of the Mongolian race.

Under the California laws union of white persons with Mongolians or Negroes is prohibited. Judge Smith in issuing the writ said:

"There are only three main races of people. These are the white, yellow and black. I hold that a Filipino is of the yellow or Mongolian race."

Since 1921 the county marriage license bureau here has issued licenses for marriage of Filipinos and white persons under an opinion by the county counsel but the Filipino applicants were required to submit affidavits that they were not of the Mongolian or Negro race.

The mother, Mrs. Stella F. Robinson, argued in her petition for the writ that the opinion of the county counsel holding a Filipino to be a Malay and hence of the Caucasian race was erroneous. Moreno and the girl did not indicate whether they would contest the writ.

PUSHED WIFE ASIDE AND JUMPED TO HIS DEATH

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(AP)—Striking down his wife who tried to restrain him, Richard Howland Jones, 35, Annapolis graduate and former naval lieutenant, leaped to his death today from a window of his eighth story apartment in Park avenue.

Mrs. Jones, the former Louise Hill Conkey, of Kansas City, Mo., and Washington, D. C., struggled with her husband and vainly tried to quiet him. Jones pushed her away from him, struck her over the head with the base of a statuette and plunged through the open window.

Jones, who resigned as assistant sales manager of the Tidewater Oil company, of New Jersey, last month, recently had suffered a nervous breakdown. He took a sea voyage to Panama, upon advice of his physician, and returned after three weeks and entered a sanitarium in New Jersey. He returned home yesterday.

He was graduated in 1916 from the U. S. Naval academy where he had played two years on the Navy football team. He served as a navy lieutenant in the World war.

Police listed the case as suicide.

PART OF THE CHILEAN CABINET HAS RESIGNED

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 25.—(AP) — The resignation of part of the Chilean cabinet last night is expected to end with the resignation of the entire ministry shortly. The trouble was caused by the withdrawal of Minister of the Interior Bermudez and of Minister of Justice Koch.

After accepting the two resignations, President Ibanez today called on David Hermosillo, mayor of Valparaiso, to direct a new cabinet. Hermosillo left Valparaiso by automobile for the capital.

The cabinet from which the two ministers resigned yesterday was formed in May, 1927, and reorganized in August, 1929. There is no titular premier, but the minister of the interior fills part of the premier's functions.

HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY RESIGNS AS PROTEST

WEST HELENA, Ark., Feb. 25—(AP)—The entire faculty of 19 members and Superintendent George Cromwell of West Helena high school resigned late today in protest to what they said was a lack of definite action by authorities in regard to threats alleged to have been made against Cromwell by Lawrence Brown, father of two girls who were disciplined by the superintendent for quarrelling with another girl.

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER OF WEST HAVEN POLICEMAN

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 25—(AP)—Four witnesses took the stand today in superior court during the first day of the trial of Dante Calini, 20, charged with manslaughter in the fatal shooting last December of Patrolman Raymond Zidler, of West Haven during a raid on the defendant's home. Five hours were devoted to the selection of a jury. Today's testimony was entirely technical.

HOOVER WARNING RESENTED BY COALITION SENATORS

Sensitive Solons Regard Warning Against Excessive Appropriations As An "Inexcusable Attempt to Excite the Resentment of the Country Against Congress"—Watson Explained That the President's Purpose Was to Warn the Country Against Importuning Congress to Indulge In Extravagant Expenditures.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. — (AP) — President Hoover directed the demand for government economy to the people today in an appeal that they "support" congress.

On Capitol hill, meanwhile, members of the senate coalition were resenting yesterday's white house warning against excessive appropriations as an "inexcusable attempt to excite the resentment of the country against congress."

Mr. Hoover's statement said he hoped "that the people at home will realize that the government cannot undertake every worthy social, economic, military and naval expansion, increases in pay to government employes, expanded pension systems, or public improvement projects and will support the members of congress in their cooperation with the administration to hold down these new proposals for additional expenditures."

The white house statement was coincidental with a heated round of discussion in the senate over the purposes of Monday's breakfast conference between President Hoover and republican congressional leaders, which resulted in the demand for government economy.

Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, told the senate that congress has pared down the recommendations of President Hoover for appropriations by $20,000,000 so far this session. He added:

"There is no amateur who has the remotest knowledge of the legislative processes of congress who could not have told the president that he was setting up a straw man merely for the purpose of knocking him down."

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, asserted in reply that the Monday white house parley was urged by house leaders with a view to bringing pressure to bear "to stem the tide" for additional appropriations. In his statement made at the regular Tuesday press conference, President Hoover said:

"We have enough resources to take care of the budget and such necessities as marginal cases of disability among veterans and the speeding up of public works that we have undertaken to assist employment and some proposals of lesser importance but this is no time for general expansion of public expenditures."

Reading the chief executive's statement later to the senate, Senator Glass remarked:

"I myself thought that the newspapers had accurately interpreted what the president first said but since the president demurs and insists that that is not what he meant, I am going to accord him full credit, and express my own approval on his second announcement.

"It seems the president had no intention whatsoever of intimating that there had been or might be any extraordinary extravagance upon the part of congress. What he appeared to have been doing was to warn the country against importuning congress to indulge in extravagant appropriations. Thus it would appear that both the press and the astute and distinguished senator from Indiana, Mr. Watson, got a total misapprehension of the president's meaning."

The earlier senate debate attracted many. Senator Borah, of Idaho, a leader of the republican independents, said he did not know whether he could be called an administration senator but gave assurance that he was going to stand by the economy program.

"As chairman of one committee," he declared, "I am going to start on two bills that have been recommended by the administration."

Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, another republican independent, insisted that if the treasury found itself in a delicate situation, it was because of the $160,000,000 tax reduction. For that, the executive must assume the responsibility, he said.

Senator Watson expressed a hope that the debate and the white house conference had focused attention on the many bills for increased appropriations now before congress.

"No intimation was given at the conference yesterday," he asserted, "of extravagance on the part of congress in what it has done so far on appropriations. In fact, it was specifically stated there that the budget of appropriations for the next year must be carried out and some leeway given to take care of unavoidable expenditures such as those for flood control."

When Senator Glass read the president's statement, Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, the chairman of the lobby investigating committee, remarked:

"I presume then that what the president wants us to do is to read that warning to the lobbyists, and the lobbyists are to 'lay off' until next year."

SENATE PROGRESSING ON TARIFF REVISION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—(AP)—The senate completed action today on virtually all individual amendments to the tariff bill's rate sections and paved the way for a renewal tomorrow of many major contests over articles on the free list, which certain senators would make dutiable.

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee announced after the day's session that he expected the free list to be reached tomorrow, and that previous votes denying duties on hides, leather, shoes, shingles and lumber would be opened to reconsideration then instead of waiting for the bill to be returned to the senate from committee on the whole.

An agreement was reached during the day to consider on Friday proposals for a tariff on crude oil and refined petroleum products, including gasoline, which are advocated by independent oil producers, these commodities also are now on the free list.

Nine amendments to the silk, papers and books and sundries schedules were adopted today, and two were rejected.

COURT DECISION FAVORS HARTFORD-EMPIRE CO.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 25—(AP)—The U. S. circuit court of appeals has affirmed Federal Judge Faris' decision upholding the most of the patent infringement claims of the Hartford-Empire company, of Hartford, Conn., manufacturers of glass making machinery, against the Obear-Nester Glass company, of St. Louis.

In its decision, the court of appeals adopted verbatim the opinion made by Judge Faris in the United States district court about a year ago. Judge Faris held that 13 claims of the so-called Peiler patent were valid and infringed by devices used by the St. Louis company. He held all claims under the Steiner patent were infringed.

INSURGENTS ACTIVE IN DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Feb. 25—(AP)—An insurgent movement against the government of President Horacio Vasquez today held almost all the northern part of the Dominican Republic, and Charles B. Curtis, the American minister, moved to bring about a peaceful settlement between the disputants.

A provisional government controlled the rich country of the ancient Spanish Vega Real north of the Sierra de Cibao. It had the support of the Dominican Guardia, which disarmed the police and the government sympathizers. Santo Domingo itself was threatened by the advance of the insurgents.

QUEEN OF SWEDEN MAKING A BRAVE FIGHT FOR LIFE

ROME, Feb. 25—(AP)—Queen Victoria of Sweden, seriously ill at the royal villa tonight was making a brave fight for life, but her doctors said her condition was "grave and disquieting."

Presence of King Gustave and other members of her family at her bedside seem to have given her majesty new courage. A medical bulletin issued late tonight however reported no real physical improvement.

Dr. Axel Munthe, the queen's physician, is watching her constantly and closely.

EFFORTS TO STABILIZE WHEAT AND COTTON PRICES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—(AP)—After a conference with President Hoover, Chairman Legge of the farm board called upon the "conservative business men of the country" tonight to support the board's efforts to stabilize wheat and cotton prices.

"Some objection," he said, "has developed in the grain trade against financing farm cooperatives in the present situation. These activities will continue in the interest of agriculture and business as an emergency measure. I have no fear the cooperatives will not be able to eventually market these purchases satisfactorily.

"The country as a whole was thrown into depression through the collapse of speculation on the New York Stock exchange. The farmer also was a victim of this collapse. The board is endeavoring, through finance of the farmers' own organizations, to help restore stability and expedite recovery from a crisis which the farmer did not create and for which he is not responsible."

TEXAS GUINAN'S BROTHER PLACED ON PROBATION

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Texas Guinan's brother, Tommy, who a year ago was fined $500 and sentenced to four months imprisonment when found guilty of aiding and abetting the maintainance of a nuisance in a West 46th street night club, today had the jail term suspended by Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas, of Connecticut, who acted upon his appeal from the conviction.

Judge Thomas, in suspending the sentence, placed Guinan on probation for six months and ordered that the fine be paid. Judge Thomas meted out the original sentence.

GAS TANK OF STOLEN AUTO PIERCED BY CO[illegible]S BULLETS

HARTFORD, Feb. 25.—(AP) — Five shots were fired by Officer William S. Sullivan before Edmund F. Ahern, 17, of 94 Edwards street, fleeing in a stolen automobile, was brought to a halt this morning. Two shots pierced the gas tank and the youth surrendered on the Berlin turnpike. He was bound over to the superior court after admitting in police court that he stole the car, a sedan owned by Henry K. Herbinson, of Hartford, Monday Monday night.

ROTARY CLUB OBSERVES 25TH ANNIVERSARY OF ORDER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 26.—The Willimantic Rotary club made fitting observance of the 25th anniversary of Rotary International and the ninth birthday of the club at its regular meeting held with a luncheon in the Nathan Hale hotel this noon.

Seated at and near the head table were past and present officers of the club, including Judge Frank H. Foss, the founder. The past presidents and President Louis H. Arnold responded interestingly to appropriate topics assigned to them by Edward G. Kenney, chairman of the meeting.

Carnations, the gift of William F. Dawson, club florist, were worn by each member. There were two guests, Rotarians Dr. Hugh C. Campbell and Frank S. Leonard, of the Norwich club. A telegram from District Governor Vernon H. Hodges of New Haven, congratulating the club on its birthday, was read. President Arnold announced the sale for the blind to be conducted at the H. C. Murray store next Thursday under the auspices of the state board of education for the blind. There are 28 blind persons in the city. Albert E. Smith, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., announced that a "jollification" meeting of the club would be held with a six-part program in the "Y" next Tuesday evening. This meeting will be replete with novelties, it was announced by Secretary Smith.

Two of the speakers of the day were unable to attend, owing to illness from colds. They were Charles W. Hill, charter member and first secretary, and Judge Valentine L. Murphy, second president.

Judge Foss, first president, spoke on the inspiration of the founding of the club and the early events of the club's history. The club was founded here through the efforts of the Norwich Rotary club. He was followed by James P. Mustard, third president, who delivered an inspiring memoriam to the departed members. Members lost by death are: Past President James P. Bath, who was a charter member and sixth president; Jay M. Shepard and Fred D. Jordan, charter members; Harvey H. Bronson and the late County Detective William E. Jackson.

Harry W. Standish, fourth president, and song leader for several years, spoke on The Singing Club, while John F. Ahern, fifth president, told of the boys' work in the community. In speaking on Rotary International, Richard E. Dodge, seventh president, told of the founding of the organization by four men, headed by Paul P. Harris in Chicago, Ill., 25 years ago. Rotary International is now represented in 3,251 clubs, spread throughout some 60 countries of the world and with an estimated membership of 150,000 business and professional men. Raymond A. Parker, eighth president, spoke on The Bally-Hoo in Rotary, in which he gave a sounding of Rotary's sincerity and helpful work despite quite definite cycles when so-called horse-play becomes temporarily popular. The effective work of the club and individual members in promoting the good fellowship and general welfare of the community was outlined by President Louis H. Arnold in his concluding talk on Our Good Little Club Today. The club has a present membership of 51.

Chairman Kenney took occasion to present Herbert W. Huber, who held the position of treasurer for some five years; Sergeant-at-Arms Aime J. Martineau, a charter member, Treasurer Walter Abbe and Secretary Gerard E. Loiselle.

The club made note of the election of President Arnold as president of the chamber of commerce and pledged its whole-hearted support to him and the chamber. The charter members of the club were: James P. Bath, deceased; T. Frank Cunningham, Frank H. Foss, James B. Fullerton, George W. Hickey, Charles W. Hill, Herbert W. Huber, Fred D. Jordan, deceased; Maurice S. Leonard, Aime J. Martineau, Valentine L. Murphy, James P. Mustard, Raymond A. Parker, Jay M. Shepard, deceased, and George H. Shafer.

Special and regular meetings of the town of Hampton were held Monday, the first being to take action on the town deposit fund amounting to $2,323.38, as required by the tax commissioner. It was voted to lay the matter on the table for one year and place the amount in a sinking fund for the town. Selectmen John I. Hammond, Chester B. Jewett and Greene Huling were given authority to pay to the Hampton fire department the sum of $1,500 voted for that purpose at the annual town meeting. The money is to be used to purchase a piece of apparatus for the department. Charles Chesters was moderator of this meeting.

The regular meeting was called to levy a tax rate on the grand list, which amounts to $573,000 after corrections and exemptions. A tax of 27 mills, an increase of six mills over last year, was voted. The increase is to defray the appropriation to the fire department and state-aid loans for the new road at the north end of the town. The sessions were the largest attended in some years and conducted harmoniously.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Josephine Sturch

Leaving from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clinton Rood, of 42 Front street, New London, the funeral of Mrs. Josephine Sturch was held this morning with a high mass of requiem in St. Joseph's church, this city, at 10 o'clock. Rev. Michael J. Thompson was celebrant and Miss L. Monica McKean soloist. Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance presided at the organ. Burial was in the family plot of St. Joseph's cemetery, where Rev. Father Thompson conducted a committal prayer. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

Charles Rosebrooks

Funeral services for Charles Rosebrooks were held at the funeral home, 63 North street, this afternoon at 1 o'clock with Rev. J. G. Waggoner officiating. Burial was in the Storrs cemetery. The bearers were: Ayel White, Fred, Walter L. and George Rosebrooks. Arrangements were by Avery & VanZandt.

With the exception of a few details, the plans of Architect Towner of Middletown for the new grammar school building at Storrs stand approved by the town school committee of Mansfield. Plans and specifications are to be submitted to contractors in the near future, according to First Selectman Daniel C. Flaherty, chairman of the building committee. The school is to be built adjoining the main Storrs-Willimantic highway at the corner of the country road leading to Eagleville. The location is about one-quarter of a mile south of the entrance to the Connecticut Agricultural college campus. Considerable lawn space will be allowed as a frontage and three acres of land for playgrounds will be reserved in the rear. Other members of the building committee are James F. Kerwin and Ivan Wilcox.

A capacity audience coming from many miles around attended the premiere of the Knights of Columbus Boys' band minstrel-concert staged at Hall Memorial school auditorium in South Willington tonight. The premiere was under the auspices of the South Willington band. The minstrel-concert, which is under direction of Bandmaster Charles N. C. Wheeler, will be repeated in this city St. Patrick's day under the auspices of the local band.

The end men were: Emanuel Rabinowitz, Edward Brown, Gerald Ballou, Leslie Peters, Raymond Sypher and Thomas Costello. Vocal soloists heard were: Dennis Tormey, Jack Costello, Emanuel Rabinowitz, Lawrence Haggerty and Edward Brown. Tom Costello featured with an xylophone solo, Raymond Sypher with a waltz clog and a quartet comprising B. Mangano, Francis Wright, Emanuel Rabinowitz and Kerman Lavigne with a saxophone selection. During the concert the band rendered several splendid selections.

The personnel of the band is as follows: Director, Charles N. C. Wheeler; trombone, L. Haggerty, E. Brown, E. Girard, R. Sypher; bass, J. Day, D. Tormey; cornets, Walter Costello, Everett E. Greene, J. Shea, N. Matta, R. Moore, A. Mangano; alto, J. Lester, G. Ballou, W. Mathews, T. Gobin; clarinets, W. Lennon, J. Costello, T. Costello, R. Clune, A. Melzig, W. Hearns, L. Peters, R. Greene; cymbals, D. Sullivan, A. Jacobs.

The George J. Kirby company optical plant at Mansfield Hollow will resume operations in a week or ten days, according to a statement today by George J. Kirby, the owner. Repairs have been started on the boiler house which was destroyed by fire Sunday night. The greatest damage, estimated at $10,000, was done to the roofs of the boiler house and the main structure.

Wednesday evening, members of various veteran organizations of the town will gather at the Nathan Hale hotel for a testimonial banquet to Dr. (Major) W. P. S. Keating, who is to leave at the end of the week to take up his new duties as surgeon at the Fitch's Soldiers' home in Noroton Heights. An attendance of about 100 is expected by the committee which is headed by T. Frank Cunningham, who will be toastmaster of the evening. Music will be by an orchestra under leadership of Ralph H. Gibson. Among distinguished guests will be the surviving members of the Civil war, including State Commander James Haggerty and Mayor Walter R. King, Sheriff Charles A. Gates, and others. The affair will be given jointly by Augustus C. Tyler camp No. 8, United Spanish War Veterans; Gold Star post No. 1724, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and James J. Shea post No. 19, American Legion.

The police are investigating a break at the City Lunch, 80 Union street, where $22 in bills were reported stolen by the owner, Octave Rondeau, this morning. Entrance was gained through a rear window that was forced open. Evidently the robber did not care to be burdened with silver as $10.13 in change was left in the cash register from which the bills were removed. The lunch place was closed this morning at 1:15 o'clock by Ephraim Sylvester, which established that the break was perpetrated between that hour and 4:15 o'clock, when the owner opened the place for business.

Earl M. Taber of Hartford, president and general manager of Russell P. To CAR OWNERS who have been driving all winter

1 Your oil thins out quicker in winter.

There is a simple reason why this is so. Each time you use the choke to give a rich starting mixture, a small amount of raw unburned gasoline finds its way into the crankcase—dilutes your oil. Diluted (thinned) oil cannot maintain the protecting film between metal parts—keep them from grinding together. Watch your oil closely in cold weather. Don't let it thin out to the danger point in winter so as to threaten proper lubrication.

2 Fresh oil quiets your motor, cuts down wear.

You can tell the difference at once when you change to fresh Socony lubricants. Your motor will run smoother, will be less noisy—and noise denotes wear. Perhaps you have not noticed that your motor is noisy until you make this change of oil because dilution and its results are so gradual. The danger is there just the same—and you will notice the difference at once when the fresh Socony lubricant is in your car.

3 Flushing is as important in winter as in summer.

Just as much dirt, metal particles and carbon find their way into your lubricating system in winter as in summer. They can be removed only by flushing. Give the inside of your motor a bath with Socony Flushing Oil. Socony dealers and Service Stations make a point of furnishing this very necessary service.

4 Change your oil NOW! Your motor will thank you.

There are several weeks more of winter weather. Be prepared for them by visiting your Socony dealer and Service Station now. Have your old oil drained off—your crankcase flushed—and refill with the Socony lubricant which has the proper body to give you the best lubrication at varying temperatures. Then you may know that there is no needless wear—for Socony lubrication is Certified Lubrication.

DANIELSON

P. AND A. MUSICAL REVUE IS MARKED SUCCESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 25—A sparkling, enlivening, spirited entertainment, highly enjoyed by a capacity audience, was the Footlight Revue, given its initial performance at the Orpheum theater this evening by the employes of Powdrell and Alexander. The show is to be repeated Wednesday evening. Tonight's was the third annual theatrical effort of the kind by the P. and A. employes' personnel, and quite the best of them all.

There is a very considerable amount of amateur and semi-professional talent among the hundreds of workers in the P. and A. organization, and numbers of those who appeared in tonight's production have been before the footlights many times. That fact added to their ease and grace tonight, and while all of the numbers were well received, several of them were particularly outstanding.

The revue had that saving quality of a little plot running through it, and this fact, taken with the introduction of many novelties and popular song numbers put the whole show over in fine form.

In the cast tonight were: Henry Bodo, long a local footlight favorite, playing the role of Mr. Driver, a stage manager; Eugene St. Lawrence as property man; Percy Penn, an amateur author, portrayed by Ralph Shoales, for years an entertaining personality in local theatrical productions. Others having outstanding parts and doing adequate justice to them were Louis Pechie, Harry Wheeler, Miss Wanda Niejadlik, Yolanda Camerio, Mrs. Myrtle Arnold, Charles King, Edna Simoneau, Emily Chrabus, Harold Warner, Bertram Hammond, Arline Warner, Florence Ellison, Rena Charbonneau, Mable Thornly, Beryl Warner, Gladys Davis, Agnes Sharon, Martha Shenal, Stephaine Vadas, Margaret Camerio, Anna Samborski, Annie Peters, Iola Collins, Marie Derosier.

Musical numbers of the show were: Bohemia, by the chorus; Singing in the Rain, Charles King; As Long As I Have You, Yolanda Camerio, Louis Pechie; Am I Blue? Yolanda Camerio and chorus; Oshkosh, B'Gosh, Harold Warner; I'm the Kid That Built the Pyramid, Henry Bodo; Wait'll You See, Yolanda Camerio; Your Mother and Mine, Charles King; Steppin' Around, Arline Warner and ensemble; Black and White Notes, Miss Florence Ellison and Ralph Shoales; I've Had Fifty-Seven Varieties of Sweethearts, Henry Bodo; Old Fashioned Rose, Arline Warner and Henry Bodo; Fatima, Yolande Camerio; Turkish Towel, Charles King; Finale, entire company.

PRISONER IN POLICE CELL UNDER DEATH SENTENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 25—A rather unusual prisoner was being held in a cell at the police station here today after being picked up this morning by Chief John McFarland. This prisoner will not appear before the court, but is facing a death sentence.

He is a mongrel police dog, charged with being the animal responsible for killing or dispersing upwards of 100 Belgian hares at the James Moran place on East Franklin street during the early winter season, and also held as accountable for having taken part in another rabbit-killing raid on yards near Broad street last fall, more rabbits of value being killed in this raid.

A third charge is that this dog killed several pheasants of a flock being raised by a man who lives at the easterly end of Hawkins street.

The town of Killingly paid Mr. Moran $300 for the killing and the loss otherwise of his pedigreed hares, later assessing and collecting the sum from the owner of another dog that was with the police dog on the morning the Moran yards were raided. The last mentioned dog was captured at the Moran place and its ownership established.

The prisoner-dog is said to have been abandoned several weeks ago by the man that owned him when he removed from Danielson. Since then this dog, friendly enough with young people, has been pal-ing around with one or another group of children and managing to get enough to eat, one way or another. He was in temporary possession of a boy when Chief McFarland got him today.

The dog is unregistered. This animal was kept in hiding for several weeks after the killing at the Moran place, that its owner might escape paying penalties growing out of the killings by the animal, which is said to be able to tear up chicken wire as though it were tissue paper, thus gaining entrance to coops, and to leap over the top of the wire in getting out of a rabbit yard, as it did when facing capture at the Moran place.

The dog is to be turned over to Dog Warden Charles E. Ayer and will be mercifully put to death.

This morning the funeral of Mrs. Marguerite Bernier, wife of Edgar Bernier, was held from the home of Mrs. Mathias Bernier, Front street, with services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. Many relatives and friends attended the service. Rev. Anthelme Mollard, M. S., was celebrant of the solemn high mass of requiem, with Rev. J. A. Demers, M. S., as deacon and Rev. Francis Baldwin, M. S., as sub-deacon. Bearers were relatives—Rosario Fournier, Leo Blanchette, Aime Gaudreau, Montcalm Gaudreau, John Nash and Abel Bernier. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery, the committal service conducted by Rev. Fr. Demers. There were many beautiful floral pieces. Martin T. Burns was the funeral director.

Danielson will have the only grade crossing on the trunk line highway between this place and Norwich when plans that the state highway department has worked out are completed, this being the Main St., one here, with gate protection through 24 hours of every day. The grade crossings that are to go are French's, between Central Village and Plainfield, and the one at Jewett City. At Central Village the re-routed highway will be carried across the tracks of the New Haven road on an overhead bridge. With the projected Green Hollow state highway route completed it will be possible to travel between Norwich and Worcester without crossing a railroad at grade.

Ordered to State School

Clovis Alix, a boy nearing 17 years of age, was ordered committed to the state reformatory at Cheshire by Judge W. Fenner Woodward at a session of the town court this morning. Alix, who, according to his mother, has been incorrigible, came to court to answer to a charge that he filched a letter from a rural free delivery mail box at East Killingly, where he has been living, and extracted therefrom $3 in money and a money order. What he had not spent of the money before being arrested was returned to Adelard Breton, whose mail box the boy rifled. He made no use of the money order. The boy previously has been picked up for stealing a watch, but one of practically no value. On that occasion, as in the present one, he was arrested by a state officer.

Two men went to jail from the town court this morning. Edward Willis to serve 60 days, imposed on intoxication and breach of the peace charges, and John Pelambas, who could pay neither the $2 fine nor the costs imposed upon him for having been intoxicated.

Mrs. C. E. Smith and daughter, Miss Ethel Smith, of Bridgeport, have been visitors here with Mrs. C. H. Bacon and Mrs. Everett Hyde, sisters of Mrs. Smith's.

Following a complaint that an elderly woman walking with a cane had been knocked over by a boy riding a bicycle on a sidewalk in Academy street, Chief John McFarland visited the vicinity of the central fire station and ordered youthful bicycle riders playing about there to stop the practice.

Dynamite Lou Brouillard, fast developing Danielson boxer, is to appear in the star bout at Lewiston, Me., Friday evening of this week. Brouillard, not yet 19 years of age, is making remarkable progress and seems destined to be in the big money class in a year or two.

N. A. Witter was in Norwich this evening to take charge of the Red Arrow auction held at a theater in that city.

Non-resident teachers in the schools of Killingly are in most instances spending this vacation week at their homes in various sections of New England.

It was recalled today that once before a member of Moriah lodge—Henry Greene, who lived on the West Side and is long since dead—was Grand Master of the Grand lodge of Masons of Connecticut, an office now filled by Attorney E. L. Darbie of this town.

Advance work on various building projects planned to be carried out in this territory during the coming spring and summer seasons will be undertaken during March, given favorable weather.

PUTNAM

HAT OF MRS. TRUDEAU IS FOUND NEAR DANCE HALL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Feb. 25—A clause in the confession of Leon J. Trudeau, Webster man under arrest for the murder of his wife Mrs. Cecile (Manski) Trudeau, in which he asserts he drove with his wife Saturday evening into Connecticut and parked his car on a cartpath on the Glass farm in Wilsonville where a furious struggle between husband and wife ensued, has drawn the attention of Connecticut to substantiate the theory that Mrs. state police into the case in an effort Trudeau was murdered in this state and her body carried over the border and disposed of by Trudeau on the Thompson road, in Massachusetts. State officers began their part in the investigation Monday and were continuing work on the case today.

It was understood today that police are convinced the brutal slaying of the woman took place in Connecticut in the deserted farm house on the outskirts of the village of Wilsonville. Police are under the impression it was Trudeau carried the body of his wife said, that after committing the crime to his car and drove through Webster in search of a spot to deposit the dead woman in order that he might avert suspicion. This supposition was partly substantiated by the finding of the woman's hat this morning on the Gore road in East Webster. The headpiece was identified by parents of the murdered woman who said it was the one worn by her Saturday evening when she left her home to fulfill an engagement with a hairdresser. The hat was found by Leo Jarosz of Myrtle avenue, Webster, this morning as he was walking along the Gore road, four hundred yards north of the Mohegan dance hall. Jarosz said he discovered the hat on the shoulder of the road. The body of Mrs. Trudeau was found on a continuation of the Gore road, three miles south of the spot where the hat said to have been worn by her was picked up.

The finding of the hat was received as a new angle in the murder case.

Trudeau will be re-arraigned in district court in Webster Thursday morning before Judge Louis O. Rieutard of Southbridge. He will be charged with murder in the first degree. A continuance of the case was granted yesterday by Judge Rieutard upon the request of Attorney Telesphore R. Leboeuf, counsel for the alleged murderer, who claimed that he had not sufficient time to prepare for a court appearance. The attorney waived reading of the complaint allowing his client to plead guilty.

BOND OF $2,000 CALLED IN PERREAULT CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 25—The state was enriched to the extent of $2,000 today when in superior court this morning it was announced that Victor Perreault, proprietor of the Green Lantern inn in Thompson, under arrest for violation of the liquor laws had "jumped" his bond and that the state, through State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford, had decided to call in the bail money which Perreault had posted two weeks ago to secure his release from the county jail in Brooklyn where he was committed following his arrest by state police.

Perreault failed to put in an appearance in court this morning when the civil and criminal session convened at ten o'clock with Judge J. Rufus Booth of New Haven on the bench. It was learned this morning that there is a possibility of liquor dealers now under arrest, who have entered pleas of not guilty, changing their pleas and thus eliminating the jury trials.

The civil business was taken up immediately after the opening of court. Several uncontested divorce cases on a short calendar session went off the list upon motions from attorneys representing principals.

The case of Peter Stahecki Admr., vs. Rene St. Saviour went to trial for the second time this morning. In September 1929 the case attracted much attention when the jury after hearing testimony failed to reach an agreement. The suit to recover damages grew out of the accidental death of Freddy Stahecki, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stahecki of Goodyear, who met his death on June 30, last year, when struck by an automobile driven by St. Saviour of this city. The vehicle was in a backward motion and the child was struck while playing in the rear of the auto. The testimony was lengthy and at the adjournment of court tonight only about half of the testimony had been put in. The case is being tried by a jury.

Joseph F. Smith of Webster, for many years a resident of East Thompson and widely known in Windham county died Monday evening at his home on Lake street in Webster. The cause of death was attributed to old age, Mr. Smith being in his 91st year. An interesting fact concerning Mr. Smith is that he leaves a long line of survivors. There are three children, Mrs. Edna Ware of Worcester, Frank E. Smith of Grafton and J. W. Smith of Providence; besides twenty-six grandchildren and twenty-eight great grandchildren, according to information furnished by a survivor today. Mr. Smith is a native of Eastford, having been born there on June 16, 1839, the son of Elias K. and Susan (Baker) Smith. Until recently, when he removed to Webster, Mr. Smith lived many years in East Thompson.

A death in this city today was that of William Bishop who died this morning at his home on Mechanics street. Mr. Bishop was in his 79th year. He is a native of Prince Edward Island in the province of New Brunswick, Canada. Previous to coming to Putnam to live, Mr. Bishop made his home in Lonsdale, Rhode Island. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William Richardson of Mechanics street.

In the weekly tournament played last evening at the Masonic club rooms on South Main street, between the Masons and the Elks, the former crept up on their opponents one point by taking the card by an 8-7 victory. Their win also lowered the lead of the Elks, bringing the seasonal score to 89-82. The Masons took 7 of the 14 bridge games and won the cribbage contest.

NORTH STERLING

The roads in this section are in bad shape, especially the Killingly end of the Margaret Henry road. Mildred Pierce, who is employed at the Brooklyn Savings bank, Danielson, had her car stuck so badly that a team of horses was required to get it towed home. John Winther, who is employed at the A. & P. store, was not able to get home till 3 a. m., Sunday.

Mrs. W. R. Spooner and Miss Ruth Spooner called at the home of Mrs. Wilfred Rioux Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks and daughter, Elsie, of Providence called on G. F. Pierce Thursday.

Mrs. John Hansen and Mrs. William Nicol were recent callers on Mrs. W. R. Spooner.

Mrs. W. R. Spooner and Miss Ruth Spooner were callers on Mrs. G. F. Pierce, Thursday.

The exercises at the Titus school were largely attended. A. Le-Gender gave an interesting talk on the lives of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington, which was appreciated by all. Cake and cocoa were served after the entertainment.

JEWETT CITY

LOCAL CAR IS BUMPED— THREE MEN GET OFF EASY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 25. — Three Jewett City men, employed on a painting job in Putnam for Mathew Exley, Edmond Bryant, Jerry Bonney and Dona Dugas, escaped with minor injuries, following an automobile accident in Plainfield Tuesday morning. The Chevrolet, owned and driven by Mr. Bonney, in which the three were riding, was struck on the state road near the wet wash building by a south-bound machine from Central Village, driven by Morris Faucher.

State Trooper Nolan, from the Danielson barrack, who checked up on the crash, was unable to place any blame for faulty driving, it being one of the accidents that just happen. Faucher, in keeping clear of another car and the state road fence, with his brakes set, skidded into the local machine which was badly smashed.

Of the three borough men Mr. Bryant was injured the most. Dr. G. H. Jennings found bruises on his back and both arms.

Over twenty-five dollars will be added to the treasury.

The one-time popular diversion of clothes line robbing has started up again in this section; the operators having developed a bit of preference in the sort of clothing they appropriate. On previous occasions the thieves carried along a bag, lines were cut at either pole and the entire hang-out was taken, pins and all. Around midnight, a local woman, looking out of a rear window, saw a man walking along beside her clothes line. Linen spreads and cotton clothing were given the once-over and left to flutter unmolested, but here and there, as he came upon them, silk undies and silk hosiery were quickly appropriated. The man of the house was for rushing out and giving battle to the midnight marauder, but the good wife would listen to nothing of the sort, fearing lest a bullet should be the result of interference.

SPARROWS CAUGHT NESTING IN BAPTIST CHURCH LIGHT

Verily the sparrow has found a nest for herself, but the selection of the place which is on the big chandelier in the audience room of the Baptist church, has not found favor with the janitor. Away up near the top of one of the memorial windows, a small pano insertion in one of the figures had worked loose from the lead and dropped to one side. Through this small aperture Mr. and Mrs. Sparrow gained entrance. At the top of the central shaft of the chandelier is an upright metal ornament which the pair appropriated. During the Sunday service the pair was quiet and decorous with the exception, that now and then as the sermon progressed, a curious head peeked out possibly to learn if the end was in sight. The janitor says, "the birds were in the right church, but in the wrong pew."

PROULX IS FINED $50 AND COSTS FOR FAST DRIVING

In a session of the Griswold court Tuesday morning it was found that Wilfred Proulx was driving too fast, in connection with the accident Sunday evening when his car struck Catherine Duggan, 7, on Ashland street. Judge John T. Barry imposed a fine of $50 and costs, which was paid.

The Ladies' society of Newent church realized ninety-one dollars from its recent chicken pie supper.

MISS FLYNN ADMITTED TO COLLEGE PRESS CLUB

Miss Isabel Flynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flynn of 1 Lawton avenue, Plainfield, was successful in a competitive try-out for admission to membership in the press club of the College of New Rochelle. Admission to this literary organization is competitive and only ten students out of a freshman class of 230 were accepted. Miss Flynn will now have an opportunity of writing for the "Tatler," the weekly publication of the College of New Rochelle. She is a graduate of Plainfield high school and took part in many of the school activities. Her high standing secured her many appointments in the school organizations, also she gained marked distinction as a pianist, having performed at many functions. She was a former student of Prof. Frank Farrel.

At St. John's church here last week, a requiem mass was offered for the repose of the soul of Rev. William A. Keefe, by the pastor, Rev. John Landry. A large congregation was present at this mass. Rev. Father Keefe was a former greatly beloved pastor of St. John's.

EIGHT FOOT MODEL OF GRAF FLIES 1,800 MILES IN CANADA

FERNIE, B. C.—(AP)—A miniature dirigible, patterned along the lines of the round-the-world Graf Zeppelin, launched from Toronto was found by a trapper 50 miles from here.

Inside the tiny cabin of the eight foot model was a note bearing a Toronto address, requesting the finder to return the dirigible. A reward was offered.

The direct air line between Toronto and the point where the craft was found is approximately 1,800 miles.

LISBON

Rev. W. J. Reynolds preached Sunday morning from the text Lord I Believe, Help Thou Mine Unbelief. A letter of dismission from Newent church and recommendation to the First Congregational church of Malden, Mass., was granted Mrs. Edna Wibberly Mason.

The Ladies Aid society is to meet at the Community hall this (Wednesday) afternoon.

At Lisbon grange Friday evening there was a lively debate on the subject, who was greater, Washington or Lincoln? Charles Helmboldt spoke for Washington and Archie Goldberg for Lincoln. The judges, Fred Robinson, chairman, decided it was a tie. Susie Sikorski sang Schoolday Sweethearts, Ella Church, Jean Gabiga, Peter Lewerk and Fred Allen joining in the chorus. The girls were in antique costume. Carolina Moon was sung by Peter Lewerk and a Harry Lauder song by Fred Allen. Mrs. Jesse Phillips accompanied on the piano for the songs. Alwin Kaempffe played a violin solo, with piano accompaniment by Adwin Kaempffe, Jr. Patriotic songs were sung by the grange. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the refreshment committee.

How a Family Doctor made Millions of Friends

FIFTEEN years after his graduation, Dr. Caldwell became one of the best-known members of his profession. A single prescription made him famous. And for forty years it has continued to make friends.

As fast as people could tell others about the marvelous way this prescription corrects constipation and relieves other troubles caused by sluggish bowels, demand for it spread until Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it filled in quantities; bottled and distributed through drug stores.

Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. Millions of people would never think of using anything else when they're headachy, bilious, feverish, or weak; when breath is bad, tongue is coated or they are suffering from nausea, from gas, or lack of appetite, etc.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as you buy it from your drug store is made in accordance with the original formula from only herbs and other pure ingredients. It is pleasant tasting; its action is thorough in the most obstinate cases; gently effective for women and children. Above all, it represents a doctor's choice of what is safe for the bowels.

"Smooth Skin is any girl's Greatest Loveliness," says JAMES CRUZE, famous Hollywood Director

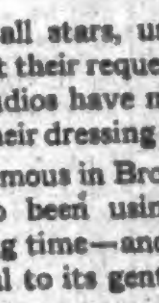
9 out of 10 Screen Stars use Lux Toilet Soap

"FEW PEOPLE can resist the spell of smooth lovely skin," says James Cruze, prominent Hollywood director—and sums up the experience of 45 leading directors.

"The close-up is the final test of a star's popularity," he goes on to say, "since practically no make-up is possible.

"Only a perfect skin, exquisitely smooth and fine, can stand the blazing lights."

Never was this more true than since the talkies, with their hundreds of close-ups, "arrived." Unless a girl has the smoothest, the most exquisite skin, she can scarcely hope to go far.



LILYAN TASHMAN uses this method

It is because lovely smooth skin is so vital to the screen stars that 511 of the 521 important Hollywood actresses, including all stars, use Lux Toilet Soap. It was at their request that all the great film studios have made it the official soap for their dressing rooms.

The stage stars, famous in Broadway successes, have also been using Lux Toilet Soap for a long time—and never were they so grateful to its gentle care of their skin as since so many of them have been playing in the talking and singing pictures. In the European capitals, too, the screen stars have adopted this soap—so velvet-smooth does it keep the skin!

And you can keep your skin lovely, too, by using this delicately fragrant white soap! Get several cakes today.

OPPOSITION SHOWS ITS HAND

That the hue and cry that has been heard from the opposition over the fact that the president has not declared his position on certain tariff provisions is an effort to maneuver the president into a position where he can be made the object of more attacks is interestingly illustrated in the appeal that he made this week for adherence to budget requirements.

The opposition has been hollering to know how the president stands on this point and that, and deploring the fact that he hasn't undertaken to tell the senate and house what it must do.

In the appeal to the leaders of congress to exercise economy in the appropriations that are made for the next fiscal year, he pointed out what the budget calls for and showed that there was available only about $50,000,000 in excess thereof. He didn't undertake to tell congress what it must do. He brought the facts to their attention and urged that they be seriously considered in connection with appropriations. The president knew as well as anyone else that there would never be appropriations for all the measures that had been presented and that there would be no authorization of the expenditure of the $1,125,000,000 called for by the measures in excess of the budget. But there were few of the members of the congress who had any idea of the amount that would be involved if all appropriations sought were voted.

But what was the result of the president's effort to enlighten congress and the country? Senator Glass, one of the ranting democrats, was quite ready to resort to the cry of "bunk," and Senator Harrison tried to place the president in a false light by claiming that he was recently urging expenditures for the relief of unemployment and is now asking for economy. Such criticism must of course be taken whence it came and its political tinge duly appraised, but it nevertheless discloses what the effect would be if the president were to make known what his views are concerning any one of the tariff schedules.

The opposition is disturbed because he hasn't tried to tell congress in detail what it must do on the tariff. It is disturbed because he has wisely refrained from giving them an additional opportunity for making it a personal matter instead of dealing with the tariff in accord with national needs. It has no sincere wish to know how he stands.

INADEQUATE SAFEGUARDS

Over in the city of Brockton this month there was a fire in the home maintained by the city for its poor. It was a destructive blaze that got a big start in a wooden structure and which was attributed to defective wiring. It was a case where the inmates were asleep on the top floor and because they could not be gotten out seven lost their lives.

As the result of the investigation which has been going on in connection with the fire it has been disclosed that the building was without adequate fire escapes. This situation was fully understood, for as long ago as 1923 efforts were made to have them erected, but there was such a howl of protest over the expense, resulting in an appeal to the court for an injunction to halt any such move, that it was not pressed.

For an additional seven years Brockton permitted its city home to go improperly protected and for each one of those seven years a life was taken when fire developed. It was a case of keeping down certain expenses, but it would be interesting to know if Brockton was as interested in keeping down other expenses which might have been cut without endangering the lives of anyone.

The authorities of Brockton knew as well in 1923 as they do in 1930 the importance of giving adequate protection to inmates of public institutions, including protection against fire. They saved the expense of fire escapes, by which those who lost their lives might have been saved, but they did not have to wait long before facing the proposition of erecting a new structure, and one that will be of brick instead of wood. In view of the experience of that city it would appear to be time for it to insist upon complete fireproof construction. Inasmuch as a new building must be erected, this is the time for eliminating all danger of fire and making it impossible for defective wiring, defective chimneys or overheated furnaces to get in their work at some future time. In view of what has happened in that city it should ask for no added demonstration of the need of throwing all possible safeguards about those feeble, infirm, aged or young, who may be its charges.

VIRGINIA SCHOOLS

Virginia, or at least a part of it, is enthusiastic over the opening of a new school. It isn't one of those large, imposing brick structures covering a city block, or a smaller brown stone building of several stories. It is just a country school house in Madison county erected at the instigation of President Hoover and his wife after a 13-year-old boy of that locality had brought a 'possum to the camp maintained in the mountains by the president for week-end fishing trips.

It was as the result of that meeting with the president that the lack of school facilities in that region was set forth. It aroused the interest of the president, with the result that a movement was at once started to provide a school. Certain public concern was indicated but the expense will be met by the president, and the eagerness displayed by the residents of that school district indicates the thankfulness for the advantages provided.

But the thought occurs that if that locality was so lacking in school accommodations what can be the situation in other parts of the state where conditions are similar and where children are in need of an education? What is going to be the reaction of Virginia to the school situation which has been revealed by this case in Madison county?

It is possible that there are many other states in which quite the same need for a school exists as it did in that part of Virginia. The Madison county boy has shown one way of getting action. It should be sufficient to spur on the people of that state where schools are needed to get together and see that their children are provided with as good an opportunity as those of other sections. That seems to have been disregarded in Madison county too long. It is an easy matter for it to be neglected elsewhere, but there are times when nothing seems to get action like the realization of the fact that something is being denied. When it is realized that that denial is due to local inaction, a failure to meet home requirements and needs, it may dawn upon other mountaineers that the responsibility rests with them and if it isn't prompted in any other way it would seem to be time for Virginia to make and encourage the suggestion.

CUTTING DOWN POLLUTION

From the standpoint of sewage disposal and the reduction in the pollution of streams, there is interest in the action which has been taken by the city of Woonsocket for the construction of a sewage disposal plant for that municipality.

This is not a move that has been made by that city at its own initiative. The city has been repeatedly pressed by the state board for the purification of waters to take this action, without getting results, and it was finally required to order it done. For months the city has known that it must act but it has continued to stall through financial difficulties and inability to agree upon the kind of plant to be constructed and the cost. At last it has been decided to go ahead with a committee picked from the city council and the citizens at large, and spend $400,000.

Woonsocket is thus getting to the point of doing what other Rhode Island cities are being forced to do in the way of reducing stream pollution. Those acquainted with Rhode Island rivers will recognize the need of early and thorough action if the rivers are to be reclaimed, but the situation in that state is no different than it is possible for it to become elsewhere if there continues to be no effort made to stop pollution.

There are the streams that show the pollution much more than others. The relief from making them little better than open sewers can be accomplished through preventive work, the gradual reduction of the pollution that is now poured into them and the prevention of any new sources of contamination.

It is not improbable that Woonsocket could have distributed its huge outlay over a period of many years had it made an earlier start and applied to it some of the badly spent municipal outlays.

FRENCH CABINETS

French governments come and French governments go but France goes along uninterrupted.

With the fall of the Chautemps government expectations were realized. An effort was made to establish a government that would take hold of the reins and carry on following the upset of the Tardieu cabinet, but it failed. It was one of those coalitions that was dependent upon such elements for support that little dependence could be placed upon them in case of a vote of confidence. It was, in fact, trying to make headway against the avowed opposition of Tardieu's backers. The deposed premier had refused to lend his support to the Chautemps government and had announced that he would do his best to make its existence a short one. It was thus that it ended almost as soon as it got underway.

This, of course, recreates the same uncertainty that prevailed at the time of the resignation of the Tardieu cabinet. Chautemps had announced that the policy of the new government would not alter the situation in any way at the London conference, that he would adhere to the position already taken, but now it remains to be seen who will be called upon to establish the next government.

The delay of a week at London was believed adequate to permit of the new French government getting onto its feet. Despite all that was attempted the situation is little different than at the time of taking the recess. It has been shown that Chautemps cannot command enough support to run the government. Whether this will mean a return to Tardieu or Briand or some other leader is awaited with interest in other countries than France. There has been a test of the Chautemps strength, however, which may be a guide in connection with future efforts.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Have you started to get your February sun tan?

It is a fortunate thing that the country has a president who doesn't believe in the snail pace used by the senate.

The Chicago policeman who has killed eight gunmen has been made a sergeant, but just what good that promotion will do, since the city has a shortage of funds, remains to be seen.

There's something cheerful about putting the snowshovel away in blue paper until it is remembered that is quickly followed by the return of the lawn mower and the pan under the ice box.

THE LOVE SET

"Come, let's play tennis."

Trilby Walker sensed something besides graciousness in Myrna McLaren's invitation. In the first place, Myrna was the daughter of Wainwright McLaren, a man whose name spelled power, whereas Trilby was the daughter of John Walker, a man whose name was of such small value that at the plant the workmen discarded it altogether and called him No. 14.

In the second place, Myrna's chief hobby consisted in perfecting her technique in lawn tennis, whereas Trilby's chief hobby consisted of perfecting her speed on the typewriter. It was due to the barest shadow of a coincidence that the two chanced to meet. Mrs. Reginald Petree, Trilby's one rich aunt, had succumbed to a rare impulse of altruism and had invited Trilby to spend her vacation at the Petree summer residence.

In the presence of these strange, rich people, Trilby felt very insignificant and ordinary, indeed. So far, only once had she rallied above this sense of personal deflation, and that had been on the night previous to Myrna McLaren's invitation to play tennis. The Lodge overflowed with laughter, dancing and music. Trilby sat in a quiet nook of the veranda, feeling lonely, out of place, unwanted.

Suddenly, out of the darkness, a tall figure loomed beside her and said in a resonant, masculine voice, "You don't imagine you can slip away from the swim of things in such a fashion, do you?"

Trilby, who was too surprised to be otherwise than candid, proceeded to tell the young man how much she would really adore being right in the swim of things. On hearing this he immediately invited her to dance. Much later that night, Mrs. Reginald Petree confronted her niece with an inquiry.

"Tell me, Trilby, how did you contrive to capture that young aristocrat, Palmer Moorfield, from Myrna McLaren's clutches?" Triby's face crimsoned in delicious confusion.

"Why, Auntie, I didn't snatch him from anybody. He just—". But Mrs. Petree waved further explanations aside and said on the crest of a pleased little laugh, "I'd no idea that you were so clever, my dear."

And so on the following morning when Myrna assailed Trilby with an invitation to play a set of singles, poor Trilby trembled with apprehension. To make matters more embarrassing, she noticed that Palmer Moorfield was in the group of spectators beside the courts, and suddenly she realized that Myrna, under the pretense of being friendly was in reality making sport of an opportunity to display Trilby's inefficiency at the game.

"Will you?" asked Myrna again with a note of impatience.

"Of course," replied Trilby sweetly and walked like a martyr to the court. "Anyway," she thought, "it will be something to tell the girls in the office that I played tennis with Myrna McLaren."

The score fulfilled Trilby's worst expectations, love-1, love-2, love-3, love-4, love-5, love-6. Myrna shot a triumphant glance toward Palmer Moorfield, who rose and crossed the distance to the net. The three rambled back to the lodge. Myrna skillfully commandeered the conversation so as to exclude Trilby from any portion of it. By the steps of the veranda, Trilby made an excuse to escape and quietly slipped away, but she had not gone far when she was overtaken by Palmer Moorfield.

"You'll have to turn me down in words if you don't wish me to pester you, Miss Walker," he warned. "I came to the lodge this morning for the express purpose of asking you to take a sail across the bay in my new boat. It's anchored yonder by the pier."

There was something so fine and protecting about Palmer Moorfield's smile. Already it seemed to shield her from Myrna's smoking glances. And as Trilby walked beside her towering escort toward the pier, she began to wonder in whose favor the love set really stood.—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—When the senate got around to the aluminum items in the free-for-all aspect of the tariff debate, naturally Andrew Mellon's name got into the picture.

Since the Aluminium Company of America, a so-called "Mellon company," was almost the only unit of the industry mentioned, you could easily have forecast frequent reference to the treasury secretary.

But not in just the way it did figure. Senator Dr. Copeland of New York started it. He argued that if the slash in aluminum duties proposed—and put through—by the democratic-off-the-reservation-republican coalition was made, the A. C. of A. might pack up and emigrate to France, Yugoslavia, Norway, England, Japan or Belgium, in all of which countries it has plants.

Satire By Norris

"That concern is going where it can make the most money,' Dr. Copeland said.

And how did that strike Norris of Nebraska?

"We are confronted by the proposition that the Aluminum Company of America is controlled by the secretary of the treasury and the immediate members of his family," he said. "We are now told that if we reduce the tariff, the present secretary of the treasury, 'the greatest to hold that office since Alexander Hamilton,' is going to pack up his carpet bag and move with the industry to a foreign country. Oh, Mr. President, that can not be. Certainly a man who has been honored as he has will not take such a revengeful attitude."

The Bystander does not recall who first called Mr. Mellon the greatest treasury head since Hamilton. It is a flattering comparison, but it can well be imagined that Mr. Mellon gets tired of it.

Senators like Norris so love to harp on it. It gives them a fine vent for irony, and they rarely miss it.

No Compromise

"Andy is going to stay with us right along," the Nebraskan assured Copeland. "He can still be the 'greatest secretary of the treasury since Hamilton.'"

So the slash was made, 41 to 33. It was made despite an eleventh hour attempt by Walsh of Massachusetts to get Walsh of Montana to agree to a compromise cut.

Not so the Montana Walsh on aluminum. He's made of sterner stuff. Look back to his oil investigating record. Compromise is not the sort of thing the Montanan thrives on.

"I find myself without information that will justify any other rate than is proposed here," he said. "I could think of an arbitrary figure, but how could I justify myself in doing anything of the kind?"

Stories That Recall Others

A Flapper Hen

Marion, age three, watched as his mother cleaned and picked a chicken to be cooked. Noticing the skin being stripped from the legs he asked:

"Why, mom, what are you doing?"

Jokingly, the mother replied: "Oh, just rolling its stockings."

Motor Trouble

A woman living on a busy highway has many calls for help from passing motorists. Recently an attractive young woman appeared at the farm house and said:

"I am in trouble. See my shiny nose? I have lost my compact and am due to meet the boy friend in ten minutes. Could you let me have a little powder, cornstarch or flour?"

YOUR HEALTH

Croup Needs Watching

By V. K. Hart, M. D., Charlotte, N. C.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

With the sharp changes of temperature in the fall and winter, appears the "croup" of little ones, and that is a warning to the parents on whom they must depend for aid.

The croupy cold often comes first. Here is a baby with the sniffles, a wheeze, a brassy, barking cough, and perhaps a little hoarseness. "Just a cold, why worry about it?" Because that croupy cough and wheeze will bear watching. "A little syrup of ipecac, a mustard plaster, and perhaps a croup tent will take care of that, and baby will be better in the morning." If it is a simple croup or catarrhal infection of the larynx, baby always is better, for day gives no trouble.

But suppose baby is not only no better as morning comes, but worse. With each intake of breath there is a labored, high-pitched noise made by air through a much obstructed wind pipe. The baby is blue or dusky. He tosses fretfully, sleeping only one or two minutes at a time. The pupils begin to dilate. The stomach dips way in as the baby tugs for air. There is practically complete loss of voice.

This is no ordinary croup. A competent throat specialist is needed at once. He has the instruments to look and see. Although possibly never seen in the throat, membrane is in the windpipe. Dreaded diphtheria is present, or membranous croup or another type of infection of the air passages giving identically the same picture. With expert care, with plenty of anti-toxin given in time, and in competent hands, 75 to 80 per cent of these babies can be saved. Otherwise, the reverse-75 to 80 per cent die the horrible death of asphyxia.

These safety measures are suggested. By observing them you may save a life, and avoid hours of anxiety and much expense. 1. Have toxin-antitoxin given your baby at (six to twelve months of age. 2. Call your family doctor when respiration becomes difficult. Do not wait until the baby's condition is desperate. He will call consultation if necessary. 3. Avoid chilling. 4. With the onset of a cold, use a few drops of 10 per cent argyrol in each side of the nose three times daily. Let it run into the throat.

Those Baffling Street Names

LONDON—(AP)—A revolt over street names is brewing in London.

It is caused by the many, many names which in picturesque London often clutter up a single mile of thoroughfare.

Every American visiting London notices of course, the peculiar habit streets have of changing their names every block or so. At first it puzzles him; then it infuriates him.

Puzzles Strangers

Shopkeepers in sections frequented by foreigners and other transients, however, find they often lose business because of the bewilderment of a stranger unaccustomed to looking for a shop on a street with many names.

They are agitating for street-name mergers in the interest of simplicity and convenience and better business.

At present one can find Baker street by walking south along Park road until it becomes Upper Baker street. After being Baker street again for a few blocks it becomes Orchard street, then Audley street, then Grosvenor square and finally South Audley street.

Baker street, however, is only a mild example.

There is Oxford street, so important among the shopping thoroughfares of London. Yet Oxford street is not the half of it, nor even the tenth of it.

Endless Chances

A stroll along this thoroughfare really should begin several miles to the west, where it bears the sporting name of Goldhawk road.

After awhile the street-signs indicate it would rather be known as Bush Green; but it tires of that quickly and becomes Holland Park avenue, then Notting Hill high street, then Bayswater road, then Hyde Park terrace, Hyde Park place, and finally Oxford street again.

After scintillating as Oxford street for awhile, however, it calls itself New Oxford street, but quickly becomes Holborn, then Holborn Viaduct, then successively Newgate street, Cheapside and Poultry.

Later it is Fenchurch street, then Aldgate, Whitechapel high street, Whitechapel road and Mile End road.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Opposes Pasteurized Milk

Dear Editor: Will you kindly publish the following remarks in your paper, as they are of great interest to many? I was greatly interested in the letter signed The Old Milkman, in this morning's Bulletin and I heartily agree with him. It is a well known fact that pasteurizing of milk destroys the vitamin contents to a large extent, and that babies fed with it must be given cod-liver oil, orange juice and other things to make up for it. I would like to know how the poor people in Norwich are going to buy such milk and the extras to go with it, when at the present they are not able to buy the milk they need. Pasteurizing of milk does not destroy all kinds of germs and the milk inspector knows it. We have a very good quality of milk sold in Norwich and it seems to me a great pity if the mayor and court of common council were to enact a law which would increase the burdens of the poor people in Norwich and I, for one, hope they will not do it. I do not believe that there is any positive record where any person contracted tuberculosis from the use of milk. I believe that, if the truth was known back of this move is a desire on the part of some one to make money at the expense of the poor consumer, and I hope the council will not give their support to it, for if they do, it will mean an increase in the cost of milk.

If any one wants pasteurized milk let them do it on their own kitchen stove with no extra cost.

The Game Situation

Mr. Editor: I saw an article in the Hartford Courant of Feb. 22, where Hon. John W. Titcomb, supervisor of fish and game of this state, spoke at a banquet of the New Britain Fish and Game club and said that it would take $1,000,000 to put back the game that 54 per cent of the hunters shot this last season. Get me right now. There are 46 per cent more haven't put in their report. They surely would have killed a half million more. New isn't that some bunk?

Now, I'm not so blind that I can't see a hole through a ladder. We old hunters know there are no game birds to shoot now. One more good snow storm like this last one and the quails will starve. You did not see any of our wardens around feeding them, did you? I did not. No, that's too much work for them.

Now Mr. Titcomb wants the hunters to shoot all the vermin, house cats, crows, owls, hawks, as they are killing all the birds. He says the farmers' best friends are the pheasants. They will keep his potato fields free from potato bugs. Mr. Titcomb comes out now and says that there should be a law passed to kill deer with a shot gun in certain zones in the state as they are doing too much damage to the farmers.

Does Mr. Titcomb feel himself slipping or does he want to make himself good with them before he loses the golden egg of $15,000 a year all coming out of the hunters and fishermen?

One thing more, he told them that the water in a river up in the western part of the state got so high the fish spawned on the brush and trees, and when the water got low the birds ate all the eggs. That was the reason that there was no fish in that river. More bunk.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 21

Income includes gains realized by the sale of a single piece of property as well as from sales by a person engaged in buying and selling as a business. Ordinarily, gain or loss resulting from the sale of property acquired by purchase after February 28, 1913—the first income tax law applying to individuals became effective March 1, 1913—is the difference between the cost and the selling price. The gain is income for the year in which received, and can not be prorated through a number of years. For example, a taxpayer bought in 1926 a piece of real estate for $5,000, which he sold in 1929 for $7,000. The $2,000 profit is taxable income for the year 1929.

Profit accrued on individual income before March 1, 1913, is not taxable, even though it was not realized until after that date. The reason is that the constitutional amendment authorizing Congress to tax the income of individuals did not become effective until March 1, 1913.

The revenue act provides that the basis for determining the gain or loss from the sale or other disposition of property acquired by purchase before March 1, 1913, shall be the cost of such property or the fair market value as of March 1, 1913, whichever is greater. For example, a taxpayer bought in 1910 property for which he paid $10,000. The value on March 1, 1913, was $12,000. He sold it in 1929 for $14,000. The March 1, 1913, value being greater than the cost of the property, the taxable gain is figured on that basis, and amounts to $2,000.

A taxpayer bought in 1910 property for which he paid $5,000. Its value on March 1, 1913, was $3,500, and in 1929 he sold it for $4,000. In this example the taxpayer bases his loss on the March 1, 1913, value, which was greater than the cost, and the deductible loss is $1,500.

IN DAY'S NEWS

Steyr

Steyr, Austria, faces fiscal difficulty because a bank failed which controlled Austria's largest automobile plant, situated there. The plant was the industrial heart of Steyr. When the "heart" recently stopped beating, hundreds of employes were thrown out of work and the city's finances suffered.

"Steyr is a city of about 22,000 people, located about 40 miles south of the Czechoslovak border and about 90 miles west of Vienna. For more than 800 years the city has made weapons; more recently it has manufactured automobiles and bicycles," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"In spite of modern smoke stacks rising from the factories in its suburbs, Steyr has managed to maintain its rank among the picture towns of Austria. The main portion of the city occupies a tongue of land with the Enns river washing its south 'sea' wall and the Steyr river, its north wall. At the end of the 'tongue,' bridges connect the city with Ennsdorf, a suburb on the opposite side of the Enns, and with Steyrdorf, across the Steyr.

"The railroad station is in Ennsdorf. A ten-minute taxi ride from the station to the public square, the center of life in Steyr, discloses a medley of medieval and modern sights. For about three of the ten minutes the auto passes a spacious parkway with shaded walks.

"Another minute or two is consumed crossing the Enns bridge, under which swarm small river boats. Then come streets that take one back to centuries before America was discovered. Steep-gabled houses of three and four stories line the clean, cobbled streets. Above them rises the graceful tower of a Gothic cathedral, and the bulk of its nave. Steyr Castle (Schloss Steyr) is situated near the end of the tongue.

"The square gradually opens for a block and then its sides run parallel for two or three blocks so that a bird's-eye view suggests the sharp end of a stubby pencil.

"The square, too, is hemmed in by fine old buildings. Here is a gem of the fifteenth century, its weatherbeaten facade adorned with a sign extolling the quality of lobsters served in a restaurant on its first floor. Next door is a laundry where proprietors admit, in large letters, that they use strong chemicals to clean your clothes. Frequent rows of kegs, piled in front of curtained windows, indicate that prohibition has not touched Steyr.

"Hotels in the square furnish comfortable rooms and interesting panoramas. From the windows of upper stories, one may look down upon urban, suburban and rural Steyrites. The peasant men wear clothes like those seen in the streets of Vienna but now and then a peasant will appear in garments of a bygone fashion. Modern styles adorn some of the womenfolk but there are milk 'maids' (some are 'maids' of 65 years) in voluminous, sole-length skirts. These women are often seen between the shafts of diminutive dog carts, but more often they are directing their canine charges.

"The Rathaus (city hall) has stood notwithstanding the haranguing of city fathers in its great council chambers for nearly two centuries. Facing it is the Lowen Wirtshaus (Lion restaurant). Near-by is the Dominikaner Kirche, built 300 years ago. Its present interior was adorned while George Washington and his army nearly froze at Valley Forge.

"An architectural gem of the city is the Parish church, begun nearly a half century before America's discovery, and completed one hundred years later.

"All these historic relics of Steyr occupy the Enns side of the 'tongue.' Nearly half of the old town bordering the Steyr is a parkway.

"Steyrdorf, across the Steyr, is the manufacturing suburb and pulse of the city. Steyr was first mentioned in historic documents in 985. By the twelfth century its fine swords and other weapons, made from iron mined near the city, were shipped to all parts of Europe."

A left-hand compliment sometimes turns out all right.

ROAD MAGNETS CUT CHANCES OF PUNCTURES

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — (AP) — Missouri motorists are being saved about $5.00 a day in expense and grief from punctures.

That is the state highway department's estimate of the value of three 960-pound magnets attached to a two-ton truck which patrols gravel roads of the state.

Potential causes of punctures thus are cleared off Missouri roads in wholesale amounts. Usually a day's run, with the truck covering about 56 miles of road surface, brings an average of 112 pounds of miscellaneous metal—nails, bolts, springs, staples, tin cans and scrap iron.

On the assumption that the magnet's work prevents 1,000 punctures a day, C. F. Owens, maintenance engineer of the highway department, says the outfit means a saving of at least $500 a day to motorists, figuring each puncture's cost at 50 cents.

With one magnet hanging from the rear of the truck, and two others at the sides, the truck can clean a strip of road surface from seven to eight feet wide.

The operating apparatus consists of a 110-volt compound wound generator equipped with panel, voltmeter, ammeter, automatic discharge switch and powered by a five horse-power gasoline engine, all mounted on the truck.

Experiments have shown the magnets operate efficiently when adjusted to a height of four inches above the road surface, with the truck moving at 10 or 12 miles an hour.

It is necessary to "demagnetize" every four or five miles to clear off the magnets' collection.

DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS, DRINK WATER

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of good water.

Avoid Ugly Pimples

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound; known by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

RHEUMATICS

Throw away your crutches, use Ru-Ma and walk without agonizing pains and stiffness, says Lee & Osgood, who sells this great rheumatism remedy on the no-relief-no-cost plan. Ru-Ma is not expensive and sold by druggists everywhere.

Wonderful News for Fits Sufferers

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Most stubborn cases of epilepsy have been stopped by new remedy. Thousands of sufferers have been helped. If you have fits write at once to Phenoleptol Company. Box 71, St. Johns Pl. Sta. Brooklyn, N. Y., Dept. 253, for free booklet.

TO "POINT-UP" APPETITE JUST STIMULATE BOWELS

Whenever the end of the day finds you out-of-sorts; food doesn't tempt you and won't digest; breath is bad; tongue coated, just chew a candy tablet before bedtime. Tomorrow you'll be a new person!

A candy Cascaret clears up a bilious, gassy, headachy condition every time. Puts appetite on edge. Helps digestion. Activates bowels.

Cascarets are made from cascara, which authorities say actually strengths bowel muscles. So, take these delightful tablets as often as you please; or give them freely to children. All drug stores sell Cascarets for a dime, and no no dollar preparation could do better work.

CAPTURE RUM RUNNERS AFTER THREE MILE CHASE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Feb. 25—Captain Robert Overbeck said to be skipper of the "Harold Walker," was before Justice Louis Woisard in town court in Pomfret this afternoon and was fined $200 and costs when found guilty of transporting intoxicating liquors. William Cheetham of Woburn, Mass., found guilty of transporting liquor, paid a fine of $50 and costs. Both men were arrested this afternoon by Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart and Officer John T. Murphy of the Danielson state police barracks, after a three mile chase, which took them through the town of Pomfret and into the village of Abington, where the rum machine was halted.

In the rear of the Buick roadster the officers unearthed a large assortment of liquors. The rum machine was en route from Boston to New York. The attention of the arresting officers was directed to the car when the driver passing a point in Pomfret center at a tremendous rate of speed forced the officers to the side of the road.

FUNERALS

Dr. Witter K. Tingley

Hundreds of persons paid final tribute to Dr. Witter K. Tingley, one of the most prominent practicing physicians and surgeons of the city, who was laid at rest Tuesday afternoon with impressive funeral services. Included in the large attendance of mourners were a delegation of the W. W. Backus hospital alumnae, members of the medical profession of the city and town, representatives of Masonic bodies and nurses from the Backus hospital.

At 12:45 o'clock there was a prayer service at the home, No. 7 Broad street, conducted by Rev. Thomas Richey, rector of Christ Episcopal church. The body lay in state at Christ church from 1 to 2 o'clock and was viewed by a large gathering of mourners. Members of Columbian Commandery, No. 4, Knights Templar, acted as a guard of honor. They were Eminent Commander W. Avery Gallup, Past Commanders Nelson J. Ayling and Harry B. Ford, Richard P. Gregson, Paul Bradlaw, Earle E. Brigham, Fred G. Thumm and Otto Ernst.

At 2:30 o'clock funeral service was held at the church and was conducted by Rev. Mr. Richey assisted by Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown, rector of Trinity Episcopal church. Burial was in Yantic cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Richey and Archdeacon Brown.

The honorary bearers, members of the medical profession, were Drs. R. R. Agnew, Edward J. Brophy, John W. Callahan, Hugh B. Campbell, Louis T. Cassidy, J. J. Donohue, William T. Driscoll, A. C. Freeman, Paul F. Gadle, C. C. Gildersleeve, G. H. Gildersleeve, W. Tyler Browne, Harrison Gray, Harry E. Higgins, L. J. LaPierre, A. J. LaPierre, David Sussler, Clarence G. Thompson, George Thompson, Lester E. Walker, William Wenner of Norwich and George H. Jennings of Jewett City, Morton F. Fox, Montville, Boris J. Sohn, N. B. Lewis, John Suplicki and Henry Dixon.

The active bearers, former employes of Dr. Tingley, were Patrick, John and Daniel O'Neil, Michael Dwyer, Dennis Moran and Alfred Christman. There was a profusion of beautiful floral pieces.

During the service at the church Henry J. LaFontaine, organist at St. Patrick's parish, sang Jesus Lover of My Soul. Mr. LaFontaine rendered the processional number. Undertakers Church and Allen had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Jerome C. Freeman.

At 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the funeral of Jerome C. Freeman was held at the parlors of Undertaker S. A. Gager, No. 70 Franklin street, and was attended by many relatives and friends. The services were conducted by Rev. S. F. Dickson, D. D., pastor of Grace Memorial Baptist church, who also read the committal service at the grave in West Plains cemetery. Friends acted as bearers. There were a number of floral tributes.

Clement Daugenet

At 9:15 o'clock Tuesday morning funeral services for Clement Daugenet of No. 172 Norwich avenue, Taftville, were held at the parlors of Undertakers Cummings & Ring, No. 322 Main street. Burial was in Sacred Heart cemetery, Taftville, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Omer T. Mander of Sacred Heart church, Taftville. Friends acted as bearers.

WHITE CROSS COUNCIL HAS PRE-LENTEN BANQUET

Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan, of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, New London, gave the principal address at the pre-Lenten banquet of White Cross council, No. 13, Knights of Columbus, held Tuesday evening at K. of C. home, Broadway, with a large number attending. Rev. Fr. O'Callaghan spoke interestingly upon the work of the Catholic laymen in spreading the truth concerning the Catholic religion.

At 8 o'clock supper was served, the appetizing menu being: Celery, cranberry sauce, roast, stuffed chicken, giblet sauce, mashed potatoes, mashed turnips, creamed onions, hot rolls, coffee and cigars. Edward G. McKay acted as toastmaster and introduced the speakers of the evening. Rev. John J. Reilly, of St. Patrick's parish, chaplain of the council, spoke briefly, after which Rev. Fr. O'Callaghan gave his most interesting address.

A fine musical program that was enthusiastically received followed, and included a duet by Michael Farrell and Nicholas J. Spellman; solos by Henry J. LaFontaine, Mr. Farrell and Mr. Spellman; recitations, John Kelly and John Murphy and quartette numbers by John Kelly, William Shannon, John Murphy and Walter LaFontaine, Henry J. LaFontaine accompanying at the piano.

The committee in charge comprised Thomas J. Driscoll, John W. Shea, Jr., John A. Burns, Martin Burns and James P. Sheridan.

SHETUCKET LODGE ENTERTAINS AT INTER-CITY MEETING

Shetucket lodge, No. 27, I. O. O. F., entertained Tuesday evening at Odd Fellows hall at an inter-city district meeting with more than 250 members of the various lodges of the ninth district present, as well as visitors from Narragansett lodge, No. 7, of Westerly, and Thames lodge, No. 22, of Montville. Representatives from Uncas lodge, No. 11, of Norwich; Obwebetuck lodge, No. 16, of Willimantic, and Reliance lodge, No. 9, of Jewett City, were in attendance.

The festivities opened with a delicious roast beef supper served at 7:30 o'clock by the entertainment committee, after which a short business session was called, at which business of a routine nature was transacted. Noble Grand Alvin D. Lewis presided. Short addresses were made by District Deputy Grand Master George H. Thorton of Jewett City, Noble Grand Brown of Narragansett lodge and Secretary Gardner of that lodge.

An attractive entertainment programme was a big feature of the meeting. A violin duet was given by Messrs. Swatzburg and Brennan and violin and guitar selections were furnished by the Dulgado Bros. The presentation of "The Three Links" was especially well received. The members are: First Link, Edward Smith, who gave piano and accordion selections; Second Link, A. H. Perry, a little bit of "Down in Maine"; Third Link, Carleton Bowers, comic sketches.

After the entertainment the gathering enjoyed a social time with cards and pool. The committee in charge comprised W. H. Hopkins, general chairman, and Brother Bromley of Uncas lodge, Archie H. Perry and Frank Q. Smith of Shetucket lodge, W. A. Hyde and T. B. Gray of Reliance lodge, and Alfred J. Mathewson of Obwebetuck lodge.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR FREDA BLINDERMAN

A delightful miscellaneous shower for Miss Freda Blinderman was given Tuesday evening at the Talmud Tora hall, West Main street, in honor of her approaching marriage. She received a wealth of beautiful and useful gifts, including silverware, glassware and money.

Features of the evening were a mock marriage and a clog dance by Master Leonard Safon of Boston. Music was furnished by a radio installed through the courtesy of the United Music company. Dancing was enjoyed and dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Benjamin Safon of Boston and Mrs. Frank Blinderman and Miss Molly Segal of this city.

GIRL WORKERS' COUNCIL HOLDS BIRTHDAY SUPPER

The fourth birthday supper of the Norwich Council of Girl Workers was held Tuesday evening at the Third Baptist church, with a large attendance. A supper was served at 6:30 o'clock, the table decorations being pink sweet peas. Mrs. Henry Sebastian was in charge of the supper committee.

Following the supper the regular business meeting of the council was held, Mrs. A. C. Freeman presiding. The devotional exercises were by the West Side Baptist church group, Miss Celeste Copeland leader.

Mrs. E. J. Floyd, Miss Elizabeth Pullen and Miss Hamilton gave a resume of the history and the possibilities of the council. The three principal events of the council are the church rally in the fall, stunt night in March and the mothers' and daughters' banquet in May. Miss Hamilton said these three events tend to encourage and promote fellowship among the girls of the churches of the city and town.

Announcement was made that stunt night will be March 4th at 7:30 o'clock at the Community house. The girls taking part have been requested to meet at the Community house at 7:15 o'clock. The judges will be Miss Gladys Taber of New London, general secretary of the New London Y. W. C. A., Miss Dorothy Henckel, dramatic instructor at Connecticut college, and Miss Elizabeth Day of Colchester, prominent worker with the girls of that place. The topic of the evening will be Heroines of The Bible.

LOCAL CHILD STUDY GROUP HELD ROUND TABLE SESSION

The Child Study group of the Woman's City club held a round table meeting at the club rooms in the Wauregan hotel Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Edwin V. Ross, chairman of the group, presided at the meeting. It was announced that the topic for the next meeting will be "Every Child Needs An Allowance" and the speaker will be Miss Helen Crutcher of New Haven. Mrs. Ross turned the meeting over to Mrs. John P. Huntington who spoke on the topic, "Obedience." Several excerpts from the book "Guidance in Childhood and Youth", a compilation of very valuable and helpful chapters by leaders in this particular field were read by Mrs. Huntington. Special emphasis was called to the chapter on "Effect of Minding on the Mind", taken from one of the books written by Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman. Following the reading of these excerpts an informal question and discussion period took place. The subject was continued by Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman who gave the members of the study group the benefit of some of her findings along this subject of "Obedience in Children," gleaned from her years of experience in the study of childhood. Her talk was also followed by questions and discussion by the study group.

FOUR SUE STEPMOTHER FOR $40,000 DAMAGES

Trial of the $40,000 suit brought by the four children of the late Levi Q. Raymond against their stepmother, Mrs. May Etta Raymond, reached a dramatic climax Tuesday when Mrs. Raymond declared on the witness stand that her husband from his deathbed admonished his son Charles, one of the plaintiffs, to make no effort to interfere with the provisions he had made for her and that Charles solemnly promised his father that he would let her have all of his property before he would take one thing from her.

Trial of the case, which is being heard before a jury and Judge Christopher L. Avery in the superior court at New London, was resumed at 2 o'clock after an hour's recess. Mrs. Raymond, who was on the stand when the court took the recess was called back again when court opened again to undergo a cross examination by Attorney G. Curtis Morgan, counsel for the plaintiffs, Edward, Charles and Thaddeus K. Raymond and Annie Raymond Beckman.

Six other witnesses for the defendant were put on the stand by Attorney Charles B. Whittlesey Tuesday morning, all testifying to the mental alertness of Mr. Raymond before he died. They were Susan B. Burridge, a registered nurse; Sarah J. Graham, a stenographer; Oliver Woodworth, a friend and neighbor; Arthur H. Shurts, real estate broker; Oliver A. Raymond, only brother of the deceased and Priscilla Fraser, a nurse.

In effect the plaintiffs seek to establish the loss of about $40,000 through the transfer of six shares of the stock of the Raymond & Alexander company to Mrs. Raymond within a week of his death, when, it is alleged in the complaint, Mr. Raymond was sick and incompetent and easily influenced.

During the trial it has developed that these six shares were transferred to the Alexander interests in the firm of Raymond & Alexander by Mrs. Raymond giving the Alexander interests a majority of the shares, each of the two owners having held 500 shares previous to the transfer of the six shares to Mrs. Raymond.

Through this transfer the plaintiffs seek to show that their share in Mr. Raymond's estate has incurred a substantial financial loss.

Mrs. Raymond's testimony was to the effect that Mr. Raymond's wish was to give Mr. Alexander "the preference" in the matter of handling the six odd shares of stock and that her actions were guided by his wishes.

The inventory of Mr. Raymond's estate shows 594 shares of the Raymond & Alexander stock valued at $62,062.00, cash amounting to $3,253, bank deposits of about $2,278, a small equity in some real estate, amounting to about $69,326.

THEORY CAPTURED RUM-BOAT DOCKED AT NEW LONDON IS THE MONOLOLA

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 25. — The crew of a United States Coast Guard patrol boat, stationed at this port, captured a rum-runner early today between Fall River, Mass., and Newport, R. I., but not until machine gun fire had been brought into play and a long chase participated in. The identity of the contraband boat, which was taken to Fall River, was not revealed in messages sent to Lieut. Com. L. H. Chalker, of this city, but the advices stated that the patrol boat and her captive launch were headed for New London. The captured vessel was docked at the Coast Guard reservation tonight and is believed to be the Monolola, a 65-footer from New York.

The officers of the Order of Ahepa, a Greek organization, will be installed next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. State officers will seat the members of the newly organized society who will guide its destinies for a year. The installation ceremonies will be public and will be in Union lodge rooms. The order, which has a charter membership of more than 25, will seek permission to name the organization, "Winthrop lodge," Order of Ahepa. Including among the guests will be Lieut.-Gov. Ernest E. Rogers, City Manager William A. Holt, Mayor Cornelius D. Twomey, Rev. J. R. Danforth, besides visitors from Boston, Providence, New Haven, Hartford and Norwich.

OPINION THAT BRADFORD WILL GET SHERIFF'S BERTH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 25.—With a vacancy existing in the office of high sheriff of New London county because of the death Friday of Sidney A. Brown, holder of the post for a quarter of a century, many applicants are seeking the appointment. The bestowal of this office is entirely within the province of Gov. John H. Trumbull, for the legislature not being in session, it becomes mandatory that the chief executive of the state appoint a sheriff to fill the unexpired term. At the expiration of the term of office, which will be next November, the electors of the county will decide who shall be the holder of the post for the succeeding four years. The salary of sheriff is $5800 annually, to say nothing of the added income to be derived from holding the office, such as fees from court attendance, etc. To date there are at least five in a receptive mood for appointment; these are Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin, long the faithful right arm of Sheriff Brown and who has been a deputy nearly a score of years; George H. Bradford, Montville, at present inspector of the state motor vehicle department and county commissioner; E. Frank Morgan, former mayor of New London; W. Ellery Allyn, of Waterford, at present a holder of a state salaried position, and Benjamin H. Hewitt, of Stonington, well known practicing attorney. Also there has been mentioned William P. Apley, of this city, one of the owners of the Tracey Chemical company. The appointment by Gov. Trumbull, it is expected, will be made during the present week and it would not be surprising if the appointment was tendered Mr. Bradford, for he is known to be close to Henry Roraback, one of the strongest republican leaders in the state.

COUNTERFEITER CLAIMS THAT HE IS PETER VALLEE

Of three men arrested at Palmer, Mass., yesterday, charged with passing counterfeit $10 bills, one claimed to be Peter Baillee, alias Peter Vallee, of New London. About three months ago, Peter Vallee, claiming to reside at 16 Brewer street, was arrested when an alleged gambling resort, rear 727 Bank street, was raided by Sergeant John Courtney and a squad of officers. Vallee was one of seven or eight frequenters arrested. When the case was presented in the police court the following day all of the cases were nolled, for the prosecutor did not consider the evidence in his possession sufficient to warrant proceeding with the case and attempting to obtain a conviction.

CITY TURNS OFF WATER WHERE BILLS ARE UNPAID

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 25.— Today was the final day in which to pay water rents to the city and because of a large number of property owners having failed to pay the semi-annual tax, a force of employes of the water and sewer department was assigned to the task of shutting off water remained unpaid. As a result many properties were deprived of a supply of water the greater part of the day and not until the back tax had been paid, together with a fee of $2 extra, was the service of water continued.

A large number of followers of fistiana in New London went to Hartford tonight where they witnessed the headline ring battle of the east this week in the Bat Battalino-Ignacio Fernandez 10-round bout at state armory.

TOOK GOOD OVERCOAT— GENTILELLA DODGED THE LAW

Raymond Gentilella, 46 Truman street, was arrested this afternoon by State Police Officer John Smith charged with theft. He was locked up and will be presented in the Waterford town court next Monday. Gentilella attended a public dance at Pleasure beach, Waterford, two weeks ago and during a period when the other dancers were on the floor, he entered the coat room and stole an overcoat, the property of another dance attendant, Edward McLaughlin, of Alger place, leaving behind a worn garment. When McLaughlin was about to return to New London and discovered that his coat had been stolen, a report of the theft was made at the state police barracks. A day or two later suspicion indicated Gentilella as being the thief and an investigation by Officer Smith resulted in the stolen coat being found in the possession of the Truman street youth. He was arrested at that time but was not compelled to secure a surety on his bond for he was allowed his freedom upon his own recognizance. When Gentilella did not present himself in court a week ago Monday, a search for him was made, but he was not found until this afternoon.

Mrs. Richard Lewis and infant daughter, of Groton, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

FUNERALS

John J. Kane

The funeral of John J. Kane, of 10 Franklin street, was held this morning at 9:30 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. George Clark. As a waiting hymn, Edward F. Murray sang, "Abide With Me." The bearers were Louis Schablein, John Henley and Nicholas and Joseph Gaetano. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. George Legg

The funeral of Mrs. Janet B. Legg, widow of George Legg, of Waterford, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Jordan Baptist church and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Harry Brothwell. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Genaro Gentilella

Mrs. Katrina Gentilella, 78, widow of Genaro Gentilella, of 848 Bank street, died last night at Home Memorial hospital where she had been a patient but a short time and because of infirmities attending her advanced years. Mrs. Gentilella is survived by three sons, Guiseppe, Giovanni and Rocco Gentilella and by a daughter, Miss Rose Gentilella. Mrs. Gentilella was born in Italy and had resided in New London about eight years.

Rev. Charles S. M. Stewart

Rev. Charles S. M. Stewart, 84, retired Episcopal clergyman, died last night at his residence, 31 Brooks street, after a lingering illness. He had long been afflicted with a weakened condition of the heart. His condition became serious about a week ago. Rev. Mr. Stewart is survived by his wife, by two sons and a daughter. He was born in Newport, R. I., March 20, 1845 and had been in the ministry 55 years. During that time he was rector of Seabury Memorial church, Groton, for about 20 years. After his retirement several years ago, Rev. Mr. Stewart continued to officiate at funerals and marriages.

Peter Gunska, 27 Winthrop street, was in the police court today, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. On the former count a fine of $10 and costs was imposed and on the latter charge Gunska was fined $25 and costs. Gunska was arrested last Saturday when he went to his residence and had been drinking freely. He did not go to his own apartment, but entered the residence of Mrs. Joseph Zielinski where he engaged in a row with the woman. During the brawl Gunska struck Mrs. Zielinski and smashed some of the furnishings in a living room.

Taftville Driver Freed

Leonard Goyette, 162 Norwich avenue, Taftville, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving an uninsured automobile. The charge was nolled. Goyette was arrested several nights ago by State Police Officer Michael Murphy.

The only other cases presented were for intoxication. One man was fined $10 and costs and the other received a similar penalty, but execution of the sentence was suspended.

Car Found Abandoned

Cyril A. Hawthorne, 5 Franklin street, reported to the police last night that his Chevrolet sedan, which he had parked on Green street, had been stolen. This forenoon, Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey found the car abandoned on Belden street.

Patrolman John Foley was unable to perform duty last night, being ill at his home on Huntington street.

The railing on the highway bridge that spans Briggs' brook, Bayonet and Cedar street, became dislodged from its support last night and collapsed, creating a danger spot for children. The demolished condition of the railing was reported by the police to the public safety department.

Attempt To Rob Store

Andrew J. Gannon, proprietor of a market and grocery store, 161 Huntington street, believes that an attempt was made to rob his store last night. Gannon was informed by a woman neighbor this morning when he opened the store that during last night she heard a mysterious noise and decided to investigate. When she did so and raised a window, she observed two men, who had been to a side window of the store, run away and disappear in the darkness. Gannon notified Automobile Patrol Officer George Cockell of his suspicions.

STATE POLICE ACTIVE— ROUND UP MOTORISTS

The state police, Groton barracks, are making a determined effort to compel automobile drivers to adhere to the state motor vehicle regulations, especially with mild weather prevailing and spring and summer approaching. Yesterday officers effected six arrests in nearby cities or towns. At Montville, Officer Charles Hill arrested Anthony Banas of Norwich and Lester Main of Lebanon, charged with failing to have a driver's license in their possession. Officer Hill also arrested Edward Rivers of Norwich, charged with speeding. The three drivers will be tried in the Montville justice court tomorrow. Officer Fred Wininger at Stonington arrested Milton Schwartz, New Haven, and Charles Case, Jr., Boston, charged with reckless driving. They will be in Stonington town court Tuesday next. Officer John Smith arrested Joseph Van Courtland, Newark, N. J., charged with reckless driving in Groton. The driver will explain in Groton town court Monday next.

EX-SERVICE MEN ATTEND BIG MEETING AT BALTIC

Several members of the Harrison Morton Ward post, No. 115, American Legion, went by auto to the Fifth district meeting held in the mill town of Baltic. On Boswell avenue, in the Rose of New England city, Driver William Crowell had a blow-out that almost had the neighbors coming out, thinking it was a hold-up. But when they saw it was the legionnaires bound for Baltic, having the trouble of changing a tire, they went back into their home. In two minutes and 45 seconds Flash McDonald had the tire all fixed and they were ready again.

Getting into the town, a Boy Scout, Clifford Sullivan, spotted the hall with his good left eye. So the visitors went up into the square hall, they found over 175 legionnaires and members of the auxiliary were there. Commander Joseph Bellefleur struck the wooden mallet on the table to call the meeting to order. Among the surprise guests was State Commander Alexander, from Meriden, Conn., to give the legionnaires and auxiliary a talk. He was told by the man in the chair who the six-footer was and he told about the Legion, how strong it was in the state, gaining 30 per cent in membership during the year, in one of the biggest membership drives in the history of the Connecticut organization. He claimed that many ex-soldiers do not know what the Legion is for. Every month one night is set aside for a district meeting to be held between the ten posts around the shores of Connecticut where buddies meet and war stories are exchanged. The women workers of the war in the auxiliary tell how many balls of cotton was put in the socks knitted for Uncle Sam's soliders in the United States and across the pond, where they were fighting in mud, also sleeping under the beautiful France rain drops.

State Commander Alexander wants every legionnaire and member of the auxiliary, also those who threw away the plows and heard the beat of the drums and the call of their country 13 years ago, to get out and make a success of the national convention in Boston next October and get ready now, he says, and let every Connecticut American Legion posts go over the top and turn out big if they have to walk to the Bean Town. Every one was urged to talk American Legion to all ex-service men who has not signed up to be a legionnaire, to tell what good it does to be in the organization. If an ex-service man is sick, the Legion takes care of him and sees that he gets hospital care.

The meeting talked about having a band for the state parade to be held in Bridgeport next July, but the matter was laid on the table until the next district meeting to be held in Jewett City.

So get your speech all ready, each post, and let the movement go on about the band, if it takes all night under the electric lights in Jewett City town hall.

Good news came from the hospital in Newport where ex-Commander Morris Peck is a patient, suffering from gassing during his fighting days in the World war. The good news came that he is getting along well and wished to be remembered to all his legionnaires at the district meeting in Baltic.

Come on, ex-service men, fall in line and join the Legion in your home town! Meet your ex-buddies and enjoy an evening. Find out what good the Legion is during throughout the world, always ready to give you a helping hand if you need it. State Commander Alexander said he was talking to a young fellow in the subway train in New York when he was riding in car 28 from the big fight between Jack Dempsey and the Wild Bull of South America. He said that you can tell a man being in the war, army or navy, and this young man was from the southwestern part of the United States. The young man claims he has eaten as many army beans than any gob in the navy. The state commander said to him, "Would you want to be in the place of a fellow built good and strong, but afraid to give his country a helping hand in time of war? Would you be in his place today?" Well, that blond-haired young fellow scratched his head (with only a few golden locks left) and came back with the answer, "No! I saw a lot and learned how to sew a button on my clothes and am glad I wore out so many pairs of shoes for Uncle Sam!"

That, sure pleased the state commander and he disappeared in the rush as the train hit the Grand Central station.

The members of the auxiliary went to another room while the legionnaires finished out their meeting. The clock read 10 as the chairman said: "We will quit now and put on the feed bag!" So all gathered on the right and left sides of the hall while the Baltic auxiliary passed around sandwiches and nine kinds of cake, with coffee. Paper hats of all colors were given to every one. The fun of the evening started when Miss Susan Holmes' orchestra of five music boys played for dancing to take the kinks out of all legs. They were hunting all over the hall for a man with a strong voice so as to call for the square sets but could not find any one. Stretch Morrison had a cold and had to disappoint them for he forgot the book that tells about the things you do in the square dance. So Silver Voiced Kelly from Taftville, whose voice is like a lion, put on an old fashioned Virginia reel, but the hoop skirts were not called for. Three sets were soon ready and the lady leader of the orchestra, luring her music boys in action, and they were off. Until a late hour all enjoyed themselves. The good night song was played as everybody went home after a real time. One Noank party had his sedan parked on the right side of the street and was ready to hit for the fishing village at 11:30 o'clock, got his gang ready, but had locked the car from the inside and could not get in after working for 40 minutes. It was no used and it looked as if the smoke-eaters of Baltic would get a call to see the red firemen axe in action. Finally, a young fellow came along with a boarding house reach, found a window in the auto open a little and he got hold of the lock. The happy legionnaires were soon all smiles, after an hour of hard work. A crowd watched the unknown unlock the auto for the party. The Ford sedan left late and got home at an early hour in the morning, after an evening well spent with the Baltic post.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Charles Farrell, co-featured with Janet Gaynor in the Fox Movietone musical comedy, "Sunny Side Up," written by DeSylva, Brown and Henderson, grew up in an atmosphere of the theatre. His father owns three theatres in Massachusetts. After finishing college, Charles joined a vaudeville troupe and went to the coast, where he quit and became a movie extra. After a considerable struggle, he finally got a steady job, and his climb to stardom has been made in a comparatively short time. "Sunny Side Up" will be shown at the Breed until Friday night.

Palace Theatre

The greatest of all the great double feature bill that has yet been presented to the patrons of this theatre, starts today. This great bill is headed by "Wedding Rings" a subtle and thrilling drama.

"Wedding Rings," a really sophisticated drama of the screen, will be seen and heard at the Palace theatre today.

This picture version has been taken from the novel, "The Dark Swan," by Ernest Pascal, which enjoyed wide popularity in the United States and Europe, and it follows the original story closely. It relates the efforts of a feminine charmer to win her sister's lover away and the plot is said by metropolitan critics to be both subtle and thrilling.

H. B. Warner and Lois Wilson, the same pair who played in "Conquest" and "The Gamblers," have the leading roles. They are the easy, modern type of lovers that talkie audiences delight in seeing. Both have become more popular even than they were in the silent days because of fine voices and an excellent "microphone presence."

Dialogue and sound effects in "Wedding Rings" are said to be the clearest the talking screen has yet produced.

There are three songs written especially for the picture, and the lovely Miss Wilson and Olive Borden prove to have delightful singing voices.

And on the same great bill is the masterpiece of color, the story of strange people in strange lands, "The Viking."

One of the motion picture treats of the season is in store for fans who visit the Palace theatre, where Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's exquisitely beautiful all-color photoplay, "The Viking," is now holding forth. It is a technicolor production.

Every scene in the production is colored in a natural and realistic manner and the result is a gorgeous and magnificent eye-filling spectacle.

The story itself is a vigorous, tense and gripping drama. Not once does the ture and romance and has a piquant interest let down. It teems with adventure in that it is based on an actual adventure out of the pages of history. In fact, one of the most glamorous and daring events that history records, the discovery of the American continent by the Norsemen under the leadership of Leif Ericsen, a thousand years before Columbus discovered it.

ONECO

Mr. and Mrs. Dan McGowan and son of Westerly spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Zeewin.

MILLIS, MASS., DRIVER, ABSENT, FORFEITS BOND

Before Judge William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck at the Tuesday session of Stonington town court, the case of Charles Case of Boston, charged with reckless driving, was continued to March 4.

Harry N. Walker of Village street, Millis, Mass., given a court summons by State Police Officer Charles F. Hill, and who had a $50 cash bond posted, failed to appear. At the direction of Prosecutor Henry P. Hammacher, Clerk A. G. Martin had the case of the operator of a Peerless sedan called and defaulted.

James Hewitt, 24, Mystic, was fined $5 and costs of $11.45 on a charge of defective equipment. Hewitt was arrested Feb. 18 by Trooper James Dygert. He was charged with not having a reflector on the rear of his truck and not having the capacity of his truck written on the body.

Kalle Eronen, 38, of 72 Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, was found guilty of breach of the peace and was fined $5 and costs of $12.22. Eronen was arrested Feb. 15 by Officer George L. Seldell of Pawcatuck. He was charged with using abusive language, obstructing an officer and failing to do as told. Testimony was given by Officer Seidell and Constable Christopher J. Ledwith of the borough.

The case of Milton E. Schwartz of New Haven was continued two weeks by request of his attorney. Schwartz was arrested by Trooper Frederick Wininger, charged with reckless driving.

Charles Case of Boston will be tried before the court Tuesday, March 4, on a charge of reckless driving.

A JURY IS SECURED IN TRIAL OF JAMES DeRICCO

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 26.—Considerable progress was made Tuesday in the February term of Washington county superior court at West Kingston in the trial of James DeRicco of Oak street, Westerly, charged with the fatal shooting of Atwood Gardiner. Before Associate Justice Frederick Frost, DeRicco persisted in his former plea of not guilty. The court then proceeded to empanel the jury, George A. Holley of South Kingstown was appointed foreman. The following jurors were accepted: John S. Cole, Jr., of Hopkinton; Melvin H. Brightman, of South Kingstown; Elmer H. Darling, Charlestown; Joseph A. Bristow, Narragansett; Thomas H. Bratchford, North Kingstown; Fred W. Horsaall, North Kingstown; Clarence H. Tourjee, South Kingstown; William H. Tefft, North Kingstown; Robert J. Sherman, Exeter; Hugh Colgan, Narragansett; George A. Holley, South Kingstown; Arthur B. Ladd, North Kingstown.

Four jurymen from Westerly: John Payne, Lewis Stanton, Ethan P. Gavitt and John L. Lonergan, who were called, later were excused from service.

At the opening of the trial all witnesses for the state and the defense were excluded from the court room. It took only a little over an hour to empanel the jury. After the jury had been sworn in, Attorney M. Walter Flynn, who represents the defendant with Attorney Clarence E. Roche, moved that the jury be taken to Westerly to visit the site where the state alleges the crime took place. Mr. Flynn said that he felt it was vital to the defendant that the jury be allowed to see the surroundings, and it seemed his duty to ask for a view. Attorney Sigmund Fisher, representing the attorney general's department, said that he had no objection.

The court ruled that inasmuch as it might aid in the trial it would grant a view. The court and jurors left Kingston at 2 o'clock and will return to the court house Wednesday morning at 10:45, to proceed with the trial. All the spare jurors were excused until Wednesday morning at 10:30.

George B. Utter, who has returned to Westerly, after a week's vacation for the winter sports and mountain climbing trip in New Hampshire, of the Appalachian Club of Boston, was a business caller in Providence Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Lilla Fitzgerald has returned to her home in Norwich, after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Blanchard.

William Peck and son, Reginald Peck of New York, summer cottagers at Watch Hill, were visitors in Westerly and at Watch Hill Tuesday.

Since the first of the year there have been more night-flying airplanes pass over Westerly. Sunday night, shortly after 6, a large west-bound plane with red and white running lights was plainly seen, flying at a comparatively low altitude.

Paul Lewis returned the first of the week to his railroad duties at West Kingston, R. I., after visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merton B. Lewis, in Pawcatuck.

George LeRoy Burdick of New York has been the guest of his mother, Mrs. Viola Burdick, in Pawcatuck.

A nine-year-old boy apprehended by Westerly police Tuesday has been giving residents on Spruce street trouble as a peeping-tom. The boy confessed, the police report, and he has been placed in the custody of his father.

THAT GOOD GULF GASOLINE MADE BETTER

A BRAND-NEW ANTI-KNOCK GAS-400° END POINT
NO EXTRA COST

GET GULF and GET AHEAD

For twenty-five years That Good Gulf Gasoline has been an honest, high powered, clean, straight-run petroleum product. Now it is made better. Each year the high compression motor becomes more popular with makers of automobiles, bringing into requirement gasolines of Anti-Knock value and lower end point.

The new Good Gulf Gasoline meets these requirements in every respect. Has a 400° end point . . . vaporizes to the last drop, a high Anti-Knock quality . . . not a knock in a tank full.

Every motorist should know that a 400° end point gasoline vaporizes more quickly and completely than ordinary gasoline of 437° end point. This quick vaporization affords easier starting . . . gives more mileage . . . because every drop is converted into power.

That Good Gulf Gasoline contains no Anti-Knock fluid or chemicals of any kind . . . no dope. There is no extra cost . . . same price it has always been.

Equal to many of the premium fuels. There is but one better

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut,

Clark Brothers Bolt Company, Milldale.

Few in Connecticut know that Connecticut and Connecticut ingenuity is the origin of the bolt and nut industry of the United States. In 1837 Martin Barnes and Micah Rugg, two Connecticut Yankees, built a small shop in Marion, in the town of Southington, and began making bolts and nuts commercially by machinery for the first time in America.

Their machine-made bolts (in those days called "ready made" bolts) were carted at first by ox teams from Marion to New Haven, a distance of 20 miles, and exchanged for anything in the way of merchandise that they could get, such as iron, flour, potatoes and any salable articles of those days.

The Barnes-Rugg bolt manufacturing venture went down in the financial crash of 1847 as did many other commercial activities of that time.

Following this a few bolt and nut enterprises sprung up in Connecticut and among them the present Clark Brothers Bolt company plant in Milldale, one mile east of Marion, Conn. The history of Clark Brothers Bolt company dates back nearly 80 years and includes the services of the pioneer bolt maker, Martin Barnes, for over 40 years. The company has for these many years not only weathered the several storms of financial depressions and changing conditions but has kept abreast of mechanical and economical methods in the manufacture of bolts and nuts in the country and that means the world. The company is credited with several innovations of bolt manufacturing methods. The company was the first in the United States, in fact the first in the world, to make carriage machine and plow bolts successfully by the "cold" process now so universally used.

The company's product is made up of carriage, machine, plow, elevator and other bolts, coach screws, cap screws and set screws and various other items made from wire by the cold upset process. Its product is sold and used from one end of the country to the other. Its plant is of modern one story sawtoothed roof construction covering several acres.

The present officers of the company are: Edwin S. Todd, president; Oscar G. Knapp, secretary and treasurer; Walter D. Wallace, assistant secretary and treasurer; Boughton T. Noble, factory manager.

LITTLE HOPE SHOWN FOR REVIVING OLD RAILROAD

Prospects of completing the Southern New England railroad, between Palmer and Providence, are far from bright, judging by testimony given this week at the state house in Boston at a hearing before the committee on railroads on a bill of the Southbridge Manufacturers and Merchants Assn. to confirm and extend the powers of the railroad corporation. The chairman of the committee, Senator James G. Moran of Mansfield, told B. Loring Young, representing the manufacturers, that he "wants to be shown" that the backers of the railroad, which, although still legally in existence, is actually in defunct condition, are willing to go through with their proposal to rebuild the roadbed, before the committee will act favorably on any petition of the kind.

The senator made this statement after Mr. Young had said that the Southbridge association's principal interest was in seeing that the railroad made funds available for the repairing of bridges. He told the committeemen that Southbridge would have to pay about $40,000 to put the bridges over the rights of way of the railroad and the town in good order, in common with other towns in which there are such bridges at present unfit for service, although Southbridge did not feel that it had any moral responsibility to bear the burden. Mr. Young said he had told Providence people interested in rebuilding the railroad that they could hope for little support unless they were prepared to show evidence of funds for the repairing of such structures.

"It was for that reason that the Southbridge association put in the bill. It was done so we could hear the road's proposition," declared Mr. Young. "I understand they have raised from $25,000 to $50,000 and if they have got the $50,000, we should like to get it or part of it for Southbridge. I appear here solely in the interest of the taxpayers of the town."

Senator Moran was far from optimistic about the proposal to rejuvenate the railroad. "Last year," he said, "the road made all kinds of promises when they were seeking to obtain an extension of their charter. This year, the committee would hesitate to do anything for them unless they showed evidence of good faith. Of course we want to do the best we can for the railroad, but we want the evidence of good faith."

Mr. Young smilingly advised the senator not to do anything unless he saw the cash, but said that he knew that some sort of an agreement had been made whereby the money would be raised. He called attention to the report of Attorney General Warner to the legislature, in which Mr. Warner pointed out that the railroad has no funds and is in receiver's hands. This view of the attorney general, he thought should be kept in mind by the committee in making its decision. Mr. Young said there are about thirty-three bridges over the right of way of the railroad, some of which are in very poor condition. The towns feel no moral obligation to repair them, but, under the attorney general's report would probably be required to do so or to co-operate with the state in the matter if the New England road is permanently abandoned. On the request of Mr. Young and Representative Wilfrid J. Lamoreaux of Southbridge and Francis Hagan of Millville, the committee extended the hearing until next Wednesday to allow some of the sponsors not able to attend this week to be present then.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Reddy Fox Proves His Wisdom

Be not too bold, it doesn't pay.
The wise will sometimes run away.
—Reddy Fox.

Reddy Fox was hungry. He was very hungry. It seemed to him that he could eat almost anything. So perhaps you can guess how he felt as he lay hidden under a hemlock tree and knew that only a little way from him, under another little hemlock tree, was a young Owl.

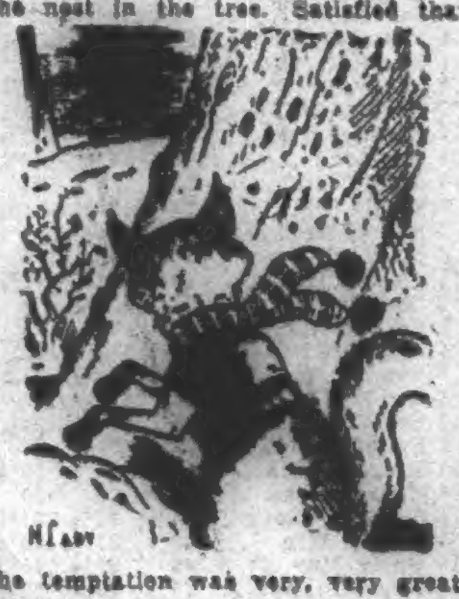
"An old Owl might be tough," thought Reddy. "I guess it would be tough. But a young Owl like that one there couldn't possibly be tough. I have never eaten Owl, but I am quite willing to try it. I guess I had better not make the attempt, however, while Hooty is around. Perhaps if I am a little patient Hooty will fly away and I can grab that little Owl and get away before Mrs. Hooty returns."

So Reddy lay right where he was and his mouth watered. It was all he could do to keep from springing to his feet and seizing that little Owl. He knew if he did it, however, that he would suffer for it. He had a great deal of respect for the great curved claws and the stout hooked bill of Hooty the Owl.

By and by Hooty spread his great wings and sailed away. Reddy waited a moment. Then he began to get to his feet. A moment later he settled back, however. You see, Mrs. Hooty had arrived. She had brought another mouse for that baby under the little hemlock tree. For a moment she stood there on the round very straight and turned her head first one way, then the other, so rapidly that Reddy couldn't get away from the feeling that if she didn't stop she would twist her head off. Her great round eyes stared with a fierceness that made Reddy feel uncomfortable. He began to wonder if she suspected that he was hiding there. It made him uneasy. He began to wish that he was somewhere else.

In a moment Mrs. Hooty stopped looking about so suspiciously. The young Owl stretched his neck up and began to tease the mouse she had just brought. Mrs. Hooty fed the youngster. It seemed strange that so fierce a bird could show affection. Yet had you been there you would have seen at once that Mrs. Hooty loved this baby of hers and was very, very proud of it. Even Reddy realized this.

Right close by was a low shrub. Mrs. Hooty perched on this. Then she flew up for a look at the baby up in the nest in the tree. Satisfied that this one was all right, she returned to the stump and there she mounted guard until Hooty returned. She waited while he fed the baby in the nest and then she in her turn went off hunting. Meanwhile Hooty remained on watch in a tree close by the nest.



The temptation was very, very great

This sort of thing happened several times. Reddy Fox began to feel as if he were a prisoner. It wasn't going to be easy to get away without being seen by either Hooty or Mrs. Hooty. Somehow he didn't want to be seen. He had a feeling that if either one of those big birds should see him, he would be lucky indeed to get away with a whole skin.

However, at last he had an opportunity. Hooty left before Mrs. Hooty returned. The way was clear. Reddy took a good long look at the place where that little Owl was hiding. The temptation was very, very great. It would take but a moment to dart over there, seize that young Owl and race away with it. As I said before, Reddy was very hungry. He was almost on the point of darting after that Owl when he decided instead that he would take this chance to get away. It was a wise decision. It shows the wisdom that Reddy has in that shrewd head of his. He was no more than out of sight when Mrs. Hooty arrived and she certainly would have caught him had he tried to get that baby.

R. I. REDS LEADERS IN 16TH WEEK AT STORRS

In the 16th week of the Storrs egg laying contest the upward trend faltered but did not cease. There was a margin of 77 eggs over the previous week and a gain of 376 eggs over the corresponding week last year. The total production for all pens was 4,833 eggs or a yield of over 69 per cent.

Weather conditions as reported in the press were exemplified at the contest. In the seven day period sub-zero temperatures were recorded twice and from that point the mercury rose to 60 above, thus giving a range of around 70 degrees in less than one week. To add to the discomfort of the hens and the men too for that matter, one of the coldest days was accompanied by winds of almost gale proportions. In spite of adversity the birds came through with flying colors.

The average margin from the lowest to the highest of the seven leading pens for the week is slightly less than half an egg per pen or one-twentieth of an egg per hen. Rhode Island Reds got the better of the bargain though two pens of Leghorns are included in the list.

Toivonen Leghorn farm of Girard, Pa. and two pens of Reds entered by Harold G. Colt of West Hartford, Conn. and George B. Treadwell of Spencer, Mass. all tied for first place with 63 eggs each. Edward N. Larrabee's pen of Reds from Peterboro, New Hampshire, was second with a score of 62 eggs. Donald I. Goodenough's pen of the same breed from Torrington, Conn., was third with a lay of 61 eggs. F. H. Sampson's pen of Reds from Springfield, Mass. and Hanson's Leghorn farm from Corvallis, Oregon, tied for fourth place with 60 eggs each.

The leading pens to date in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes — The Locusts, West Cornwall, 880; Fisher F. farm, Ayton, Ont., Canada, 787.

Barred Rocks—R. Walter Bishop, Guilford, 817; R. C. Cobb, Littleton, Mass., 797; Spring Brook F. farm, South Wethersfield, 780.

White Rocks—E. H. Rucker, Ottumwa, Iowa, 762; E. A. Hirt, South Weymouth, Mass., 673; Kalerok farm, Westford, Mass., 656.

Rhode Island Reds—Harold G. Colt, West Hartford, 934; Edw. N. Larrabee, Peterboro, N. H., 916; Homer R. Rowell, Groveland, Mass., 907; F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass., 906; Donald I. Goodenough, Torrington, 906.

White Leghorns — Toivonen Leghorn farm, Girard, Pa., 933; Steelman Poultry farms, Lansdale, Pa., 912; Hanson's Leghorn farm, Corvallis, Ore., 901; Meadowedge farm, Sterling Junction, Mass., 883; Leighton Orchards, Kingston, R. I., 878.

GRANGE CHAPLAIN PREACHES ON "KEEP TO THE RIGHT"

A congregation of over a hundred gathered in the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday evening when the chaplain of the State grange, Rev. Charles A. Downs, delivered a most interesting sermon on the theme "Keep to the Right." Rev. Mr. Downs, who is pastor of Goodyear Congregational church, took for his text Proverbs 4:23, "Keep to the right." The soloist of the evening, Miss Bernice Underwood, sang, "In the Garden" and "Sweeter as the Years Go By." Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich accompanied. The beautiful flowering plants used to decorate the Temple were loaned by Mrs. Frederick C. Ross. The opening service was in charge of the pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter. Rev. Mr. Downs admonished his hearers: "Keep thy heart with all diligence for out of the heart are the issues of life. Human nature rebels against limitations of poverty, work and law. Civilization brings limitations. Christianity is in its workings a life of self-denial. The heart to keep right must be adjuster to limitations."

Arthur Bennett lead the C. E. meeting with the topic, "The Value of the Bible to Non-Christian Nations."

To Instruct Tree Workers

Insect enemies, fungous diseases and other problems of shade tree culture will be discussed by scientists in the field at the institute for the instruction of tree workers Wednesday at the Hotel Garde, New Haven.

The meeting is arranged by the tree protection examining board of Connecticut in cooperation with the Connecticut Tree Protective association, which has charge of licensing all tree workers in the state.

GAINS AND LOSSES IN STOCK MARKET WERE ABOUT EVENLY DISTRIBUTED

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(AP)—Stock prices churned about without getting anywhere today as speculative attention converged upon the spectacular gyrations in the commodity markets. Trading on the share market was a little more active than yesterday, sales totalling 2,632,910 shares, but gains and losses were evenly distributed at the close, and the price index of 90 leading shares showed negligible change.

Rather active liquidation appeared at times, but a hasty covering movement in the last hour was prompted by the sharp rebound in wheat. Renewed pressure appeared in the last few minutes of trading, however, and the market was slipping when the closing gong sounded. Rails were conspicuously heavy, influenced by publication of several January operating income reports, which in the main were fully as unfavorable as had been indicated by the car loadings reports.

The further collapse of wheat prices, carrying the March option below $1 a bushel, to close to the low levels reached last May, was regarded in Wall street as marking the latter stages of the movement, an opinion which was in part borne out by the sharp rally of about 5 cents a bushel late in the day. About the only bright aspect of the situation, as regards business, was said in financial circles to be the fact that the farmers have disposed of about 80 per cent of their crop at higher levels, so that agricultural purchasing power may be not markedly crippled.

Industrial and corporate news of the day included an estimate of current steel mill operations at 80 per cent of capacity, compared with 81 to 82 per cent a few days ago, in keeping with predictions that late February might show a slight slackening, after the recent rapid upturn. Favorable earnings reports for 1929 continued to appear, and the expected dividend bases for Boston and Maine and Remington Rand, $4 and $1.60 a year, respectively, were announced—developments largely discounted by the market some weeks ago. Credit conditions held fairly firm, with call money at 4 1-2 per cent all day.

Eastman Kodak and American Can were strong spots reflecting renewed rumors of perfection of a transparent container to be made from Cellulose produced by Kodak. Kodak rose nearly 3 points to 213 3-4, a new top for 1930, and closed at 211. American Can closed more than 2 points higher. Other strong spots were American Bank Note, Lackawanna, Electric Power and Light, and United Aircraft, up 2 to 4. Packard sold up close to 20 into new high ground for the year, reflecting reports that the army had completed "satisfactory" block tests of its Deisel airplane motor.

In the rails, Atchison dropped 6 points, and Chesapeake and Ohio, New York Central and Northern Pacific 2. Boston and Maine, inactive for several days, sold at 100 1-2, off 9, evidently in profit-taking on the dividend announcement. In the utilities, Consolidated Gas lost a couple of points. International Silver was a weak spot in the industrials, declining more than 7 points to a new low for the year. Case Threshing dropped 8 points, then rallied 6. U. S. Steel closed off a fraction.

Commodity markets generally were acutely weak for a time, then rebounded swiftly. Wheat dropped about 5 cents, then regained its loss in heavy short coverings prompted by better foreign demand, and closed practically unchanged. Corn dropped 3 cents, then rallied 4. Cotton closed about $1 a bale higher, after establishing new low levels for the movement. Rubber, silk and cocoa futures also sold off sharply.

Foreign exchanges were steady to firm, with the exception of the Canadian dollar, which slipped below 99 1-2 cents. Sterling cables held at $4.86 1-4 and the Italian lira rose to 5.23 3-4 cents, a new high for the year.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 25—(AP)—Sensational setbacks in grain prices but with an astonishing subsequent recovery followed action of the federal farm board allies today in letting non-members shift for themselves. The sudden rally went hand in hand with widely circulated reports that the newly organized national wheat stabilization corporation had branched out into mammoth dealings in wheat future delivery trading pit just before the market closed. Heretofore, farm board allies have accepted immediate deliveries of country run offerings from all growers, whether members of cooperative organizations or not, and have refrained from any moves in regard to future delivery transactions.

Before today's radical new departures in trading methods were generally understood, wheat prices in Chicago went below $1.00 a bushel for the first time in years, and all grain values smashed down to new low records. At the finish, however, many buyers were taking the position that all bearish developments had been discounted in full, and wheat closed irregular ranging from 5-8c net decline to an equal advance. Corn closed 1-2c to 1 1-4c up, oats at 1-2c loss to 5-8c gain, and provisions 2c to 10c down.

Violent swings in wheat prices and a huge volume of wheat trading that developed during the last half of the day contrasted with earlier relative cessation of the severe strain of unusual selling pressure so much in evidence of late. The principal steadying factor apparent was temporary firmness of the Liverpool and Buenos Aires markets, but Liverpool later turned weak, and indications at the moment pointed to North American export business remaining inconsequential, with Argentina underselling competitors. Besides, estimates were current that wheat surpluses in the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia promised to exceed world weekly import needs right along until after Aug. 1 next.

It was at this juncture that news of the unannounced change in buying plans of the federal farm board's cooperative grain organizations relative to immediate delivery wheat began to take effect. At once a rapid downward slide of future delivery values took place, carrying the market nearly 6c a bushel under yesterday's finish. Then came a series of rallies with trading reaching immense proportions. It was not until well after the market had closed for the day though that reports gained credence as to extensive future delivery dealings having been inaugurated by the National Wheat Stabilization corporation. A contributing strengthening factor was an estimate that 1,000,000 bushels of North American wheat had been taken today for export.

Sharp falling off in arrivals of corn did much to give independent strength to the corn market most of the time today. Action of wheat dominated oats and rye.

Provisions reflected downturns in the value of hogs.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(AP)—Further unsettlement in the commodity markets was held responsible for the reactionary price tendencies in today's curb market. Trading was only moderately heavy in volume, due in part to the temporary desertion of a few large speculators from the curb to the grain markets. While losses predominated at the close, there were a few strong spots in practically all leading groups.

American Gas & Electric retained more than half of its gain extreme of 4 3-8 points. Electric Bond & Share closed fractionally higher at 95, after having dipped to 93 3-4. Electric Power & Light option warrants crossed 40 for a gain of nearly 4 points in sympathy with a brisk rise in the stock on the "big board." Duke Power dropped 4 points on a few odd lot sales and International Superpower, Northern States Power A, Sierra Pacific Electric and Tampa Electric lost a point or two.

Oils were sluggish on preliminary estimates of another large increase in crude oil production last week. Cosden broke 4 1-4 points to a new low at 56, and Imperial Oil and Red Bank Oil sagged fractionally to new minimum prices for the year. Vacuum dropped 1 1-2 points but Gulf of Pennsylvania and Standard of Indiana held steady.

Eisler Electric crossed 19 to a new high on the announcement that the president of the Tungsten Electric Co., one of its wholly owned subsidiaries, had sailed to Europe to establish a factory in Germany or Switzerland, and to close a contract with the soviet government. Coal shares were heavy on selling inspired by the belief that the unseasonably warn weather of the past week would hurt sales.

Most of the leading investment trust, trading and holding corporation shares showed nominal recessions. Aero Under Writers duplicated the year's high of 16, but the other aviation shares showed little change. The new Canadian Pacific railroad stock touched a new low at 51 after having sold as high as 58 following the announcement of the proposed split-up. Revival of activity in Automatic Musical Instrument shares was based on the announcement the company had closed a contract with the British Automatic Gramophone Co.

Loews, Inc. warrants and New Mexico & National Screen Service Arizona Land reached new high ground for the year, while Hiram Walker and Universal Pictures sank to new lows. Deere & Co. (new) closed 7 points higher.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—(AP)—Treasury receipts for Feb. 21 were $8,678,-093.33; expenditures $14,106,574.61; balance $93,425,016.74.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(AP)—The average rate of operations in the steel industry is now at about 80 per cent of rated capacity, a reduction of one per cent from last week, Dow, Jones & Co. reported today. A year ago the average for the industry was nearly 83 1-2 per cent. The plants of the United States Steel Corp. continue at between 85 and 86 per cent, while independent plants are operating at about 76 per cent, compared with 77 per cent a week ago.

News from the copper trade today was not at all favorable, with buying still reported on a hand to mouth basis, and with many dealers anticipating an increase in refining stocks when February production figures are published.

The Bush Service Corp., recently organized under the auspices of the Bush Terminal Co., has arranged to acquire the First Federal Foreign Investment Trust, now known as the First Federal Foreign Banking Corp. Under the terms of the exchange, each share of First Federal stock is to receive one-half share of Bush Service cumulative 7 per cent preferred stock and one-half share of common, and to receive additional preferred stock from time to time as the assets now owned by First Federal are liquidated.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(AP)—Bond prices steadied a little in a narrow market today. At times it seemed as though the list was improving, but buying inquiry proved to be shallow and the recent dullness maintained the upper hand.

An easier undertone in time money was accompanied by an almost imperceptible hardening of high grade bonds, especially the rails and utilities. Turnovers, however, were unimpressive in most instances. United States governments were very quiet and made only small changes.

Closing quotations on the prime carriers offered another liberal mixture of minor gains and losses. Firmness in Santa Fe General 4s, Central Pacific guaranteed 5s, Rock Island 4 1-2s, Pennsylvania 4 3-4s, St. Louis & San Francisco 4 1-2s, Southern Railway General 4s and Wabash 4 1-2s were offset by easiness in Southern Pacific Refunding 4s, Pennsylvania General 4 1-2s and New York Central debenture 4s. Union Pacific first 4s rose a point. In the speculative group Iowa Central first 5s rallied 4 3-8 net and the certificates 4 1-4 points.

A one point gain in International Telephone debenture 4 1-2s was a prominent development in the utilities. Utah Power & Light 5s rose half a point. American Telephone 5s of 1965 were active and touched their 1930 high of 101 3-8, but made no net change.

Hudson Coal 5s rose nearly a point, but held only a small fraction of that advance. Liggett & Myers 5s rose 7-8 while Porto Rican American Tobacco convertible 6s gained 1 1-2. Industrials generally were dull.

Foreign obligations shifted uncertainly. News that Belgium had decided to redeem its 7 1-2 per cent external loan, of which about $30,000,000 is outstanding, brought out some of the bonds. The high for the day was 116 but the loan soon sagged to 115, the call price. The bonds were offered at 97 1-4 nearly ten years ago to the amount of $50,000,000. They may be taken up on any interest date. The next coupon falls due on June 1.

Berlin City 6s rallied 1 7-8 on good buying, making a new 1930 high of 89 1-2. Deutsche Bank 6s, Italy 7s, several of the Argentine 6s and British 5 1-2s were other trading centers, but offerings easily satisfied inquiry and closing quotations were virtually unchanged.

COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(AP)—Cotton futures closed steady, 18 to 23 points higher. Spot steady, middling 15.10.

NORWICH TOWN

In regard to Sheriff Sidney A. Brown, of New London, whose funeral took place Monday, Dr. Charles H. Lamb of Norwich Town writes: As natives of Mystic, Sidney Brown and I were boys together, lived on the same street, attended the same church and school. Our first teacher was Anna-Gusta Murphy who taught the lower grade and was beloved by all her pupils. Later we attended Mystic high school, conducted by the late David Gallup. The late Frank W. Batty, William Collins, Sidney Brown and myself, were pals in our boy-hood days in Mystic. "Sid", as we called him, was well liked by all his school mates, as he was big-hearted and humorous. As to his ability in public career and as sheriff of New London county, he ranked high with all who knew him, either in a business or a personal way. His genial manner with his associates in his younger days has been retained throughout his manhood. He was well liked by all the officials with whom he was associated and will be missed by a host of friends.

In observance of her birthday, Saturday (Washington's birthday), Mrs. Wellington Miner of Vergason avenue, gave a dinner party at her home Sunday. Plates were laid for eleven. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Wheeler, and daughter, Miss Grace Wheeler, Robert Stott, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Sherman, all of Norwich and Norwich Town and Mrs. William White of Gardner Lake. The menu included delicious roast goose, mashed potato, creamed onions, parsnips, carrots and peas with white sauce, nut bread, biscuits, relishes, pickled pears, fruit salad, coffee, cake and ice cream. There were red, white and blue place cards, with cherry crepe paper napkins and dainty red baskets filled with bon bons. A Jerusalem cherry tree stood in the center of the table. Mrs. Miner was assisted by Mrs. White. Several gifts were received by the hostess. Preceding the repast, Mr. Wheeler said grace.

Out-of-town guests, who attended the 40th wedding anniversary celebration Saturday evening of Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver, of Huntington Green, included: Mrs. Weaver's sister, Mrs. Henry Nye, her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Perkins and children, Francis Jr. and Herbert Henry Perkins, of Mansfield Center, Mrs. Thomas Buchanan, a niece of Mr. Weaver and her daughters, Misses Margaret and Eva Buchanan, of Staten Island, New York, a niece, Mrs. William Smith of Willimantic, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anthony, Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Green and daughters, Misses Laura and Lucie Green, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maass, Miss Hattie Maass, and Mrs. William Green, all of Willimantic and Columbia; Mrs. Maud Kahn Franklin and Mrs. Donald Bullard, of Montville.

Mrs. Thomas Buchanan and daughters who were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Weaver returned to New York Sunday evening. Sunday morning Mrs. Buchanan and daughters motored to North Coventry, to call on the former's sister, Mrs. Daniel Newman.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank D. Coles of 169 Harland Road, entertained at dinner Wednesday, Dr. Coles' brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Ellsworth M. Bitgood, who motored from their home in Middletown. Dr. Bitgood shows marked improvement in his condition, though he has not entirely recovered from his serious illness of several weeks' duration. While here Dr. and Mrs. Bitgood called at Backus hospital to see the former's cousin, Miss Grace Bitgood, of Voluntown, a patient there.

Mrs. Frank D. Coles attended a bridge party Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Henry Olsen of Jewett City held for the benefit of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dwyer of Webster, Mass., motored to Norwich Town Sunday and were guests of Mrs. Dwyer's relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Kennedy and Miss Alice H. Kennedy.

Mrs. Hattie Brainard, her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Gremley of Mystic, were callers Sunday afternoon on Mrs. Brainard's, Norwich Town relatives.

The work department of the League of Service will meet with Mrs. Chapin on Friday afternoon. According to a vote passed by the department, many of the members promised to buy or to make at least one article of clothing for the children who come to Ellis Island. These articles, if ready, are to be brought to Mrs. Chapin's Friday afternoon. They will not be sent until late in March, so that there will be other opportunities for those who are not ready. Sewing will be provided for those who do not bring their own.

To Hold Father and Son Banquet

At the meeting Friday evening of Troop 2, Boy Scouts, connected with the Methodist Episcopal church it was voted to hold a Father and Son banquet in March. Following the opening ceremony which was in charge of the scoutmaster, Rev. George Warren Potter, a song period was led by Senior Patrol Leader Donald Olsen and Bugler Edward Jordan playing the trumpet. A committee of mothers of the scouts are to arrange the banquet and wait on the tables. There was an attendance of 17 including officers. One new member passed his tenderfoot test in full. Frederick Ross completed his second first aid and bandaging test. Earl Robinson and Fred Ross passed the scout's pace test.

"The Trifler"

At the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church the pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter preached Sunday morning from the text Matthew 22:5: "And they made light of it." His theme was "The Trifler." The Junior choir, under direction of Doris Rose, organist, sang an anthem, "Beautiful America."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Walden, Edward C. Walden and Ethel Walden, of Portland, were visitors Sunday at the Methodist parsonage.

At the First Congregational church Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey preached from the 9th chapter of Acts, the last half of the 19th verse, Then was Saul certain days with the disciples which were at Damascus. Experiences and readjustments formed the basis of Rev. Mr. Bailey's discourse.

The Value of the Bible for Non-Christian Nations, with Scripture references in Isaiah and Luke, was the topic ably treated by Miss Jessie E. Hyde at the meeting of the Young People's C. E. society, Sunday evening in the chapel.

When the two younger Endeavor societies hold their meeting this (Tuesday) afternoon, the theme for the juniors will be Crusading With Christ in China; and for the Intermediates, What the Bible Is Doing In the World.

Jesus' Method of Evangelism will be the theme of the Congregational mid-week service of conference and prayer Thursday evening.

William Burdick, who has been passing a few days at the home of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Burdick, of North Stonington, is to return to Norwich Town this (Tuesday) evening.

MOTOR DEPARTMENT RECEIPTS INCREASE BY $619,116.58

Receipts of the state motor vehicle department from registrations, licenses, fees, fines and other sources of revenue, exclusive of the gasoline tax, amounted to $7,992,758.29 in 1929. This was an increase of $619,116.58, or 8.3 per cent., over the previous year. The percentage of increase was exactly the same as the increase in 1928 over 1927.

The major part of the total is made up amounts paid for registrations and operators' licenses. During the year, registration fees, all classes, amounted to $6,192,746.22, an increase over 1928 of $459,811.87. Fees for drivers' licenses were $1,160,031, an increase of $118,382.

Fines imposed and collected by courts of the state accounted for $328,-356.54 of revenue, but receipts from this source were $6,403.58 less than in 1928. A total of 60,508 prospective motor vehicle operators were examined, 8,947 more than in the previous year. The fees for these tests amounted to $121,016, as compared with $103,-122 in 1928.

Other amounts received from various sources of income were: Transfers $91,948.50; gasoline station inspection and license fees $50,083.33; temporary registrations $5,507; junk yard inspections $6,165; markers, substitutions and duplications $9,471.75; duplicate registrations and licenses $6,335.50; certification fees $2,447.50; certified records and reports $12,578.

Lists $164.77; copies of hearings testimony $72.50; commercial information $1,509.32; process fees $534; device approvals $200; engine tests $818; miscellaneous $115.80.

BATTERY SETS

Many of us wanted to buy a new car this year, and many of us could not.

Likewise many of us wanted a new radio and many of us could not have one.

New paint will help the old car and an overhauling will fix the old set.

Let us tell you how we change over the old battery set to a nice all electric set.

LISBON AND VOLUNTOWN TEACHERS DISCUSS WORK

A meeting of the Lisbon and Voluntown teachers was held at the Voluntown Center school, Thursday afternoon, at 1 o'clock. The parents and friends were invited and several were present. The Voluntown teachers were glad to welcome Mrs. Henry Kaufmann, Mrs. Francis Dougherty, Mrs. Elmer Campbell, Mrs. Joseph Vincent, Mrs. Fred Leroux, Mrs. Frank Briere, Henry Young and David Goldberg.

Edwin B. Floyd opened the meeting with a discussion of The American School of the Air.

Miss O'Neill spoke about the work which is being done at Voluntown to promote a desire for world peace. The need for friendship between races and nations is being stressed in the work in the social studies.

The remaining talks were given by Lisbon teachers. Miss Sykes spoke on "Habit Formation and Nervous Disorders."

Miss Young discussed "How Habits Are Formed." She told of the desirability of forming good habits from the beginning because of the difficulty of changing habits. Her talk was enlivened by stating several experiences of her own school work in forming pupils habits.

"Habits in the Home, the School and the Playground" was the topic which Mrs. Terry discussed. She spoke of the need for the teacher to study each individual child, the bully, the shy child, and the child coming from a poor home environment in order that she may bring out the best that is in him.

Miss Orr gave a talk upon "Reading Habits in the Upper Grades." She explained the aims in teaching reading.

Miss Risley talked about "Reading in the Primary Grades." She read selections from old and new first grade books to show that the newer books provide stories for beginners in reading which are interesting.

Miss Bergin had for her topic "Social Studies in Relation to Habit Formation." She discussed the opportunities for teaching good citizenship through the social studies. Good character depends upon habit formation.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the results of the standardized achievements tests given in October were explained to the Voluntown parents.

BALTIC GOLD STAR MOTHER WITH OTHERS GOING ABROAD

News comes from Washington that a total of 740 mothers and widows of Catholic war heroes whose bodies are in graves in France have signified their intention of joining the gold star mothers' pilgrimages, the first of which will leave the United States early in May, according to a comparison of the official list of eligible names just published by the government with files of the bureau of historical records, N. C. W. C.

The official list, house document 140, 71st congress, was published last week. It shows that of 11,400 mothers and widows of all creeds who are eligible to make the trip, 6,730 have signified their intention of going. Of these, the total of 740 mothers and widows of Catholic boys given above, has been definitely verified by the bureau of historical records. The war department announced that the remaining 4,710 eligibles, of whom 805 survive Catholic men, have declined the invitation or have not yet made known their decision.

Following the first pilgrimage in May, others will follow until October, 1933, when the gold star pilgrimage of March 2, 1929, goes out of effect.

The names of those Connecticut mothers and widows of Catholics buried in graves abroad, who have signified their intention of making the pilgrimage include. New London county. Mrs. Marie St. Germain, Baltic, mother of Joseph St. Germain, Pvt. Co. M, 313th Inf. Meuse-Argonne cemetery. Tolland county. Mrs. Regina Rosenski, Rockville, mother of John Rosenski, Pvt. Co. I, 328th Inf. Meuse-Argonne cemetery. Mrs. Catherine B. Ryan, Rockville, mother of John Ryan, Pvt. Co. K, 114th Inf. Meuse-Argonne cemetery.

FATHER GALVIN PREACHES ON ST. PAUL'S EPISTLE

Yesterday was Sexagesima Sunday, that is, the Sunday which falls within the sixth decade of the space of 60 days before Easter. Preaching to the usual crowded church at St. Patrick's, at the 9 o'clock mass, Rev. Myles P. Galvin took as his theme the epistle of St. Paul read in all the masses for the Sunday, 2 Corinthians II, 19 to 12, 9. In this, St. Paul recounts his labors in seeking to bring about the conversion of the Gentiles, also the vision God granted him in evident appreciation of his work, to be followed by temptation, "a sting in my flesh, an angel of Satan, to buffet me." This temptation was sent lest the apostle become proud; yet, when thrice he besought the Lord that it might depart from him, he was given the assurance that God's grace would be sufficient for him against all temptation.

The preacher's lesson so well enforced was that temptation in itself is not sinful, becoming so only when we consent to it. Also that men never should become discouraged when tempted, even while realizing what puny creatures they are, for temptation when overcome is not only not a sin but is turned into a source of merit. St. Paul, who is so great, speaks of himself as nothing, except as he glories in God, Who will never suffer man to be tempted beyond his strength. There is nothing to be proud of in us, and if we are sinful it is our own fault.

Father Galvin assisted Rev. John J. Reilly in giving holy communion to an unusual number of penitents. During this service the junior choir's hymns included "Divine Praises," sung according to the Ward method, under direction of the organist, Henry J. LaFontaine.

HAMPTON

The chairman and assistant chairman, Mrs. Ray Fuller and Mrs. Asa Burdick, of the Parent-Teacher association met one day last week and planned the program for the February P. and T. meeting. The meeting will be held at the chapel today (Wednesday). It was planned to have special music and a varied program on the important dates of February. Special papers will also be read.

Albert Trainor of Anthony, R. I., was a supper guest at Corner Crest cottage one evening last week.

Edward FitzGerald, who is employed at East Thompson, spent the week end at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Euridge were Hartford visitors Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Phillips and daughter were dinner guests, Sunday, of Aaron Terwilliger, at Fiskeville, R. I.

The five schools in town closed Friday for a week's vacation. The high school pupils also have a vacation at this time.

THIS COMPANY ANNOUNCES A

SPECIAL SALE OF "1-OWNER" CARS

GUARANTEED CARS that have had but 1 owner before they reached this floor

Here is a group of pedigreed used cars! But the pedigrees are short! "From factory . . . to first-owner . . . to you!" Just one middleman . . . the owner . . . and he took a loss, not a profit!

Many of them are marked at less than half their price. Some of them are barely broken-in. All of them are sound, strong, handsome cars that we can back with our name and reputation.

They are trade-ins on new Hupmobiles. From people we know. One car had worn brakes . . . we re-lined them. One had a slight shimmy at high speed in the front wheels . . . we took it out forever. Each of them has been checked from end to end and put in perfect shape for any sort of driving that you care to do.

We have grouped them specially . . . and priced them specially. They are probably the biggest used-car values you have ever seen. Exactly the car that you want may be here among them.

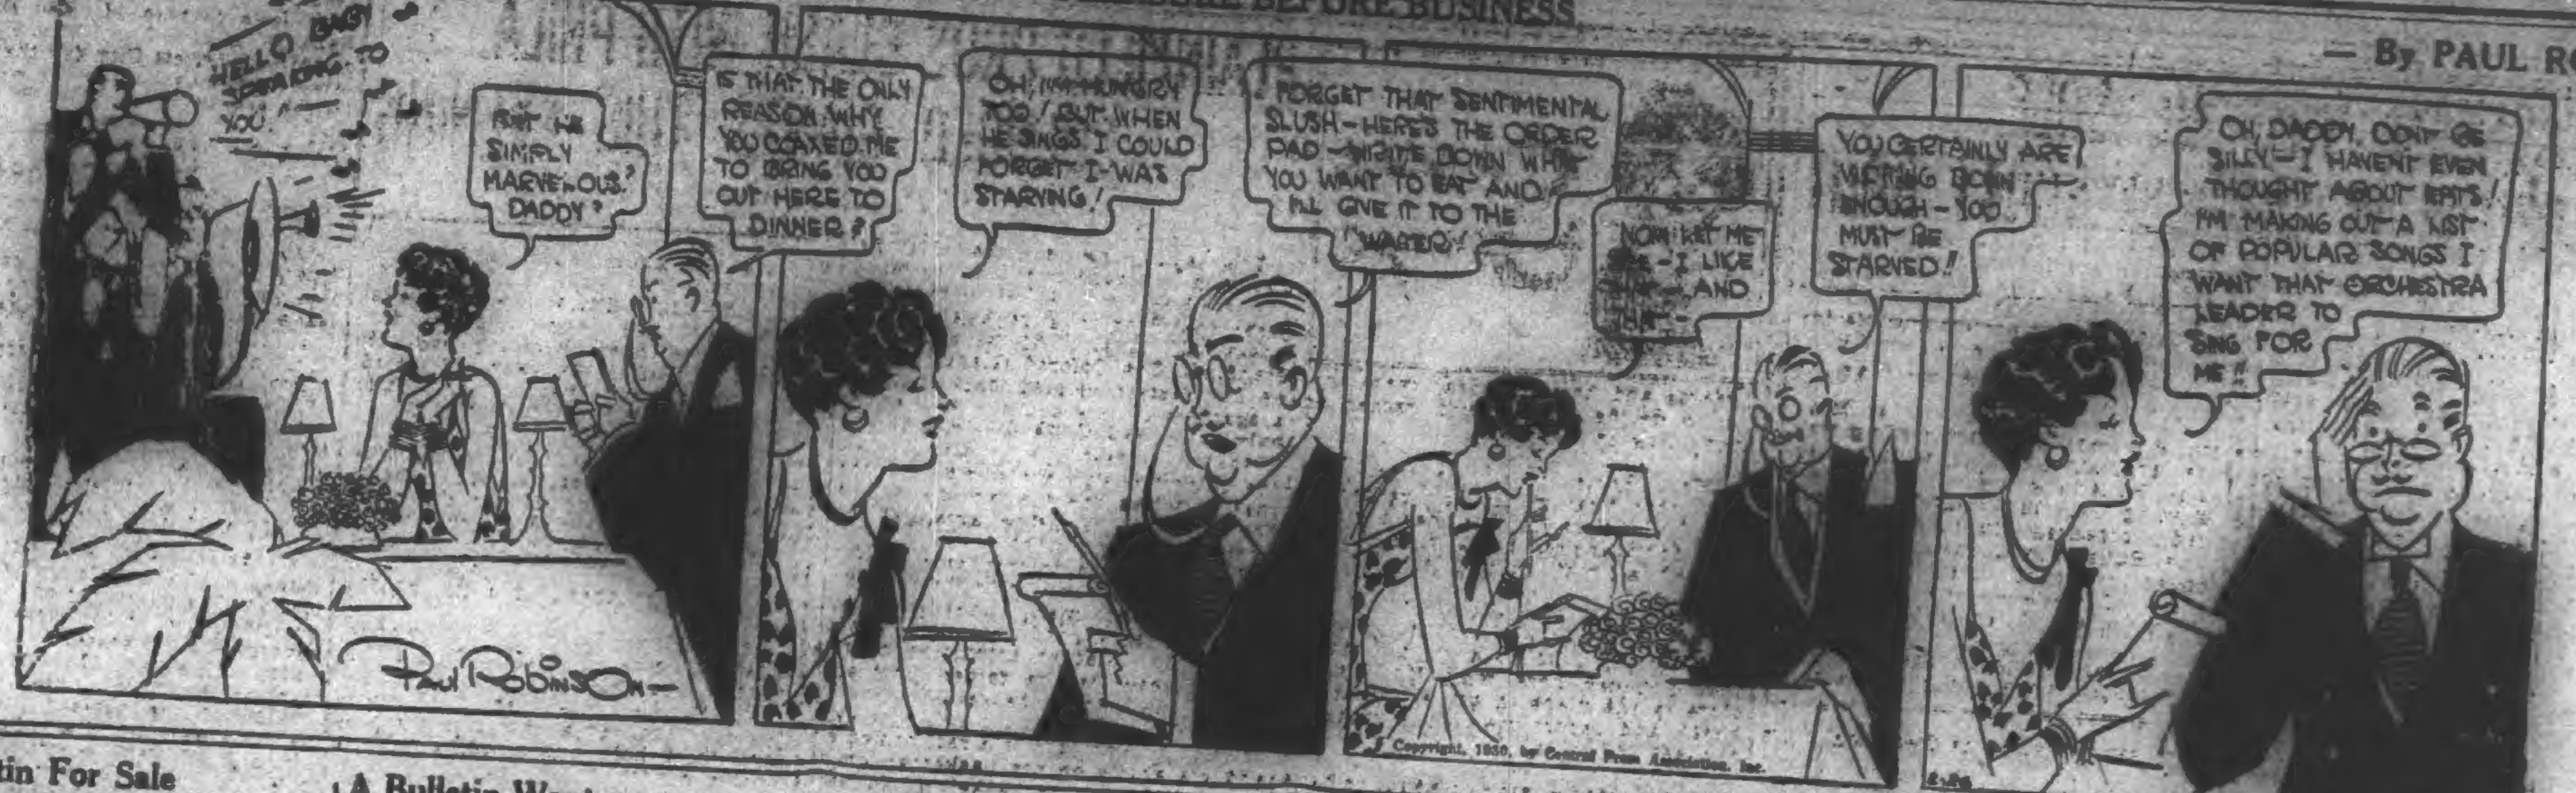
PLEASURE BEFORE BUSINESS

— By PAUL ROBINSON



HELLO BABY! SPEAKING TO YOU
ISN'T HE SIMPLY MARVELOUS, DADDY?
IS THAT THE ONLY REASON WHY YOU COAXED ME TO BRING YOU OUT HERE TO DINNER?
OH, I'M HUNGRY TOO! BUT WHEN HE SINGS I COULD FORGET I WAS STARVING!
FORGET THAT SENTIMENTAL SLUSH—HERE'S THE ORDER PAD—WRITE DOWN WHAT YOU WANT TO EAT AND I'LL GIVE IT TO THE WAITER!
NOW LET ME SEE—I LIKE —AND —
YOU CERTAINLY ARE WRITING DOWN ENOUGH—YOU MUST BE STARVED!
OH, DADDY, DON'T BE SILLY—I HAVEN'T EVEN THOUGHT ABOUT EATS! I'M MAKING OUT A LIST OF POPULAR SONGS I WANT THAT ORCHESTRA LEADER TO SING FOR ME!!

EVERY 14 MILES OF ROAD HAS DANGEROUS CROSSING

WASHINGTON —(AP)— One unprotected grade crossing to every 14 miles of highway threatens the safety of motorists, the American automobile association reports.

The statement was based on a total of 210,874 unprotected crossings for 3,000,000 miles of highways of all types. It was estimated that unprotected crossings increase at a rate of 1,000 a year.

In 1928 there was a net increase of 1,697 crossings, despite campaigns to eliminate the transportation hazard, according to figures of the Interstate Commerce commission.

LOCATION OF CONGRESS VEXES CAPITOL VISITORS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Nine out of ten persons who visit the United States capitol want to know why President Hoover does not have his offices there.

The 27 guides have to explain a dozen times a day that the president has his working offices adjoining the white house. Another thing many cannot understand is "where congress sits."

After being shown the senate chamber and the house of representatives, many inquire: "Yes, but where does congress sit?"

Boosts Mushroom Growing

PIERRE, S. D. (AP)—Frank D. Kriebs South Dakota secretary of agriculture is urging farmers to grow mushrooms in abandoned barns, ice houses, caves and mines, pointing out that the yearly production is less by 6,000,000 pounds than the demand.

Virginia has more than 100 "gardens of romance," in historical sports. Many of them still nurture plants that grew in the days of Washington.

LOU MAGNOLIA WILL BE SOLE ARBITER IN SHARKEY-SCOTT BOUT

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Canadian and British sailors were landed in substantial detachments today from the men o' war anchored in Biscayne bay but, as it turned out, it was not necessary to call upon them to settle a renewal of a controversy between Phil Scott's camp and the Miami boxing commission over the issue of procedure in the ring by Referee Lou Magnolia Thursday night, when the British heavyweight fights Jack Sharkey.

Scott's manager, Jimmy Johnston, had demanded that he first be consulted by the referee before any possible action is taken to stop the bout because of Scott's condition. Johnston insisted that if anything happened to "My Phil" he wanted it to be the count of ten, not any technicality of ruling or judgment on the part of the referee.

Not satisfied and going so far as to threaten to call off the fight, unless his demands were met, Johnston argued the issue out again this afternoon when the commission made this flat statement:

"Lou Magnolia is to have entire responsibility in refereeing the Jack Sharkey and Phil Scott boxing contest with no interference by any other person whatsoever."

At the same time a novel touch was added by the informal sanction of a gentlemen's agreement that Magnolia, on his own discretion and depending upon the circumstances, may cast an inquiring look toward Scott's corner if the British is in distress. Otherwise, Magnolia will use his own judgment and confine any consultations with the handlers in either corner to the interval between rounds.

Offhand, in no previous fight that can be recalled has any "gentlemen's agreement" existed between the referee and a fight manager of this sort. From the outset, the whole debate has smacked of the ballyhoo, traveled around a complete circle and wound up exactly where it started.

The only other important point in the final agreement is that "if Magnolia believes either one of the contestants so badly injured that said injury might be serious to either of the boxers, he has the privilege of calling into the ring (between rounds during the rest period) a physician to examine either boxer injured with the chief second or other boxer present during the examination. If the physician finds that either boxer is badly injured and it would be dangerous to continue the contest, he must report his findings to the referee and he (the referee) must act as judge in deciding if the boxer should resume or not."

All the argument about what is to be done in case anything happens to Scott in the ring has served to emphasize the apprehension regarding the Briton's chances against his American rival. There has been no demand whatever from Sharkey camp for protection against eventualities in the ring.

BULLETIN WILL ANNOUNCE SHARKEY-SCOTT BOUT

The Sharkey-Scott bout at Miami, Fla., on Thursday evening will be announced by megaphone at The Bulletin office on Thursday evening. As there will be no direct radio broadcast from the ringside The Bulletin will get the results round by round direct from the scene of battle by the Associated Press wires. The main attraction will go on between 9:30 and 10 o'clock, depending on the length of the preliminaries and the weather.

NEW LONDON WOMAN IN ORMOND CHAMPIONSHIP PLAY

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, stroked her way around the Ormond Beach golf course today in 76 to win the qualifying medal in the women's south Atlantic championship, leading her nearest competitor, Miss Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., by three strokes.

Miss Van Wie reached the turn in 36, two under men's par for the course, carding three birdies on the trip which included a deuce, three treys and five fives.

Coming home she barely missed an eagle two on the 341 yard tenth. From there on her game was a little ragged, giving her a 40.

Miss Orcutt played steady golf on the first nine, needing but 40 strokes. On the inside route she netted a 39.

Scores in the championship flight:

Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, Ill., 36-40—76.

Miss Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., 40-39—79.

Miss Marian Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., 40-39—79.

Miss Marian Bennett, New Britain, Conn., 42-43—85.

Mrs. L. G. Riley, Pittsburgh, Pa., 42-45—87.

Mrs. M. Hochheimer, New York, N. Y., 43-45—88.

Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Detroit, Mich. 44-44—88.

Miss Lillian Holland, New York city, 43-45—88.

Miss Ruth Replogle, Oklahoma City, 45-44—89.

Mrs. H. L. Morse, New London, Conn., 44-45—89.

Mrs. C. A. Dickson, Montclair, 44-46—90, (withdrawn).

Miss E. Mathews, Rye, N. Y., 47-43—90.

Miss Helen Smith, Meriden, Conn., 46-45—91.

Miss E. Click, Glenridge, N. J., 45-46—91.

Mrs. Earl Ross, Larchmont, N. Y., 45-46—91.

Mrs. C. Harbaugh, Cleveland, Ohio, 43-46—91.

GOLDBLATT LOOMS AS VARSITY CATCHER AT W-M.

Word comes from William and Mary college, Williamsburg, Va., where several local boys are enrolled, that baseball practice has been on for two weeks and that Mace Goldblatt, former Academy captain, is looked upon favorably as varsity receiver this year. Goldblatt is a sophomore and saw much service with the freshman team year.

Sam Dizanzo, the Mexican twirler from Warren Harding, entered the school this month and will no doubt be a strong candidate for a berth on the frosh nine. Johnny Greene, another ex-Academy luminary, is also to make a bid for a position on the yearling outfit, either pitching or in the outfield.

HARVARD HAS PROMISING MATERIAL FOR PITCHERS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 25—(AP)—Harvard's baseball prospects appeared bright today, when Coach Fred Mitchell put a group of Crimson battery candidates through the first workout of the season. The rest of this squad will not report for another week.

Charlie Devens, one of Harvard's great sophomore football players will be used as a pitcher this season. He twirled for the freshman nine last year. Mitchell will also have "Red" MacHale and "Lefty" Page for another season. Tom Gilligan and Sam Batchelder, who handled most of the catching assignments last season, also reported.

BATTALINO WINS POPULAR VERDICT OVER FERNANDEZ; KOP LOSES DECISION

HARTFORD, Feb. 25—(AP)—Bat Battalino, world featherweight champion, won a ten round decision over Ignacio Fernandez, Filipino fighter, tonight in one of the most vicious ten round fights ever staged in Connecticut. The title was not at stake.

For ten rounds the two stood toe to toe and slugged like longshoremen while a crowd estimated at 10,000 roared continually. Battalino, forcing the fight every minute, hammered Fernandez with punch after punch squarely on the chin, but could not knock him down. The only knockdown of the fight was scored by Fernandez. He caught Battalino with a sweeping right hook and the champion took an eight count, then climbed up and punched Fernandez across the ring just before the bell rang.

In the next eight rounds the two never for a moment slowed down in their furious slugfest. Fernandez frequently caught the champion with vicious right hand punches that had Battalino wobbling, but the champion threw caution to the winds and slugged the Filipino into submission.

The crowd was in a constant uproar as first one fighter and then the other appeared ready for a knockout but it was Battalino who kept the upper hand after that second round knockdown. He seemingly nailed Fernandez with enough punches to fell an ox, but the little brown-skinned fellow never faltered.

Other bouts:

Red Ryder, Hartford, 145, won on a technical knockout in the third round over K. O. Fleming, Hartford, 146 1-2; Rocky Rayo, Hartford, 137 1-4, won decision in four rounds from John Kop, Norwich, 137 1-2; Ralph Lenny, Union City, N. J., 136, won a six round decision over Jack Flail, New York, 142 1-2; Marty Fox, New York, 178, knocked out Joe Hanlon, Hartford, 172, in the first round; Eddie Lord, Waterbury, 134, won on a technical knockout over Mickey Flahive, 135, Hartford, in the fifth round; Eddie Reed, Hartford, 120 1-2, won on a technical knockout in the fourth round over Lou Piquette, Bridgeport, 124.

Mame and her girl friend were trying to decide what they'd rather do than clerk in the store.

"Well, Mame, of all the swell jobs you know what would you rather do than be a clerk in this man's store? Now don't answer quick, just mull it over while I wait on this lady."

"Oh, all right, madam, if you can get this same quality at Mr. Blank's store for five cents a yard cheaper than you can here, why, Mr. Blank's store is the place to go. All right, go ahead and report me to the manager and see if I care."

"There, Mame, ain't it awful to have a disposition like that? Well, have you decided what you'd like to be? What, a stenographer to one of those delegates to the naval conference? Say, Mame, ain't you got no romance in you at all?"

"Now take being a stenographer to one of those birds, do you think you'd have any fun? Oh, so that's it, Mame. Now listen girlie, you're all wrong, them delegates don't have anything to do with the young officers in the navy, it ain't that kind of a conference."

"Those guys are all old timers and they're all married. All they do is to get together and try to find out how many ships each country has got to have to make everybody even. It's like choosing up sides for a ball game."

"And let me tell you, what chance would you have at that conference with one fellow speaking French, another Japanese and somebody else another language, when it's all you can do to understand English. You'd see London? Yes, you would, from a hotel window or from a taxicab."

"Now as for me I think I'd like to be one of these prize-fighters like Jack Sharkey, or Tunney or Dempsey, or even Phil Scott. Now take them boys, they sure have a graft if anybody ever did. And besides you ain't got to have no education, which would be a great help to you."

"Well, if you don't believe me, look at the fuss the newspapers made when they found a box-fighter reading some of the classical literature. It was something they'd never heard of before and it was worth a couple columns in any man's newspaper."

"Now take this English feller Scott. Look what they did for him the other day down in Florida. He's just a fireman over across, yet he gets a bid to go to one of the most snooty clubs in all Florida and mingle with the big shots. Do you suppose if he'd been a member of the Miami fire department he'd have got in there?"

"No, the only way he'd have got in there would have been with an axe, and then only if the place was burning down. But this Scott boy has 'em all fighting each other to get near him. And just because he's going to get in a ring and have some other guy poke him in the nose a couple times."

"Yep, if I could have my choice, I would like to be a man and be a prize-fighter. Just imagine getting $50,000 or more for having some guy hit you with a padded glove for the benefit of the suckers who pay good money to see it. Why, I can remember when my old man used to fight, and if he won he might get a drink, but if he didn't the other guy got the drink and he got thrown out on his ear."

"But that's the way with this life, there's always something we want to be which we ain't and never can be, so why worry? Lookit, Mame, who's back again."

"Oh, yes, madam, you want five yards of that material. So Blank charged a cent a yard more than we did? Well, you'd have saved a lotta time by buying here in the first place."

"Oh, no, you don't have to apologize, we get 'em every day like that."

"Thanks, madam, here's your change."

DO YOU REMEMBER THIS ONE?

(Another of a number of articles recalling local baseball of other years).

Before a crowd of 5,000, the largest ever to see a game in the city up to that time and probably since, Norwich won a comedy of errors from New London in the Connecticut league, Memorial day, May 30, 1900. The score was 17 to 5. New London made 13 errors and Norwich six. The old time fans will remember many of the Norwich team on that date, especially Danny Murphy, Hobe Ferris, Jack Tighe, etc.

This was the second game of a holiday double-header. In New London in the morning, before 500 fans, Norwich had also won, this by a score of 4 to 0 with Mack pitching three-hit ball.

Ferris was the hitting star in the afternoon with three singles in five trips to the plate. The game did not start until 4 o'clock because of the Memorial day exercises.

PLAINFIELD PROS CLASH WITH PHILA. COLORED GIANTS THIS EVENING

The attraction at the Plainfield Community House this evening will be the Philadelphia Colored Giants, who meet the Pros in a renewal of their basketball rivalry of several years standing. The Colored Giants are one of the fastest colored basketball aggregations in the country and second only to the famed Renaissance Five of Brooklyn. In fact, the Renaissance and the Colored Giants are so well matched that a series for the world's colored championship is being arranged between these two clubs.

The Giants are no strangers to eastern Connecticut basketball fans, having played here many times before and always given a good account of themselves. The feature attraction of the colored team is the famed Berthard, one of the leading basket-shooters in the east. Besides being a great basketball player Berthard is a real comedian and his antics on the basketball court are well known to basketball followers. Berthard is supported by a strong cast of basketball players and should give the Plainfield club a real battle this evening.

The Pros will use the same team that has been doing so well against the strongest teams in the country and expect to be returned winners over the visitors tonight. Kasper and Brusso will be in the forward positions, with Conway at center and Williams and Bernet in the guarding berths.

A fast preliminary game between the Buddies and another fast club will be staged at 7:45 o'clock with the main attraction at 9 o'clock. Dancing as usual will follow the games.

SHYMAS LOSE CLOSE GAME TO RADIO FIVE

The Shyma club of Taftville lost a close game to the Radio Five of Danielson Tuesday evening at Parish hall, 32 to 30. This evened the series at one-all as the Taftville five had taken the measure of the Radios a few weeks ago.

Play was nip and tuck throughout, the lead changing hands many times. The Shymas had a 15-11 lead at half time. Rabbit Gauthier was the leading scorer for the evening with 15 points.

The Shyma Junior team scored an easy 44 to 26 victory over the Norwich Y Emps in the preliminary. Adams scored 19 of the winners' points.

SEVEN MORE PLAYERS ARRIVE AT TIGER CAMP

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Seven more players arrived today at the Detroit Tigers' training camp here, some of them in time to participate in the short workout of the particularly warm forenoon.

The squad tossed the ball around cautiously under the direction of the coaches and of Manager Bucky Harris who seemed more interested in preventing injury from early over exertion than in staging any test of skill.

The new arrivals were Victor Sorrell, Owen Carroll, Elon Hogsett, Ray Hayworth, Kyle Graham, Johnny Prudhomme and Joe Samuels.

ROBINSON ASSUMES CHARGE OF DODGERS CHARGES

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 25—(AP)—Wilbert Robinson assumed charge of the Brooklyn Robins' spring training activities today and immediately began some experiments designed to make a winning pitcher out of Luther Roy, right hander.

Roy's delivery has been two-thirds side-arm and Robbie wouldn't stand for it. He made Roy pitch overhand and immediately commented on the improvement in the hurler's style.

Glenn Wright was the outstanding performer in fielding practice. The former Pirate seems to have regained full use of his arm, so sore last year that he was out of the lineup, except as a pinch hitter, throughout the season.

McGRAW AND HUBBELL REPORT AT GIANTS' CAMP

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Two of the mainsprings in the New York Giants' bid for the 1930 National league pennant rolled into spring training camp today. They were John J. McGraw, the "little Napoleon" himself, and Carl Hubbell, whose left handed slants were a source of much embarrassment to the league's hitters last year.

McGraw landed from Havana too late to take charge of afternoon practice but will be on hand tomorrow. Hubbell, who was due at the camp some time ago, said he had been recovering from an operation on his nose.

TURNESA AND COOPER LEAD FIELD AT ORLANDO

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The smooth, par-shattering golf of Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., and the fast finish of Lighthorse Harry Cooper, Los Angeles, gave them 68's to lead the pack of sixty-three golfers half way in the $3,000 central Florida 36 hole open tournament here today.

Turnesa scored two 34's, each one stroke under the mark. Cooper developed par golf in the outbound nine with a 35, but spurred back to the clubhouse with a 33 to tie for first place.

Horton Smith, Secondary shot maker from Detroit, seemed headed for triple tie for first honors as he came to the 18th green, but a tiny tuft of grass forced an extra putt for a 69.

Al Watrous, Detroit, who played with Smith and Johnny Farrell, former national open champion, had a 36 and 34, but after play was completed, the judges gave Watrous a penalty stroke, running his score up to 70.

Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N. Y., took two 35's and Roland Hancock of Lynchburg, Virginia open champion, had a 36 and 34 for the same total. Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., with 38-33—71, and Ed Stokes, Denver, who had 36-35—71 edged their totals in just ahead of a list of 72's and 73's.

Carl Morris Dann, Jr., Orlando, amateur, with a 39-34—73, led his class in the field.

Bill Mitchell, Syracuse, N. Y., professional dropped an ace into the 125-yard third hole this morning with a mashie niblick.

Scores generally were high. The play was conducted under a blazing sun, with an occasional breeze to stir the pine trees that dot the well trapped Dubsdread course.

Tomorrow's concluding round will be over the 18-hole Orlando Country club course. Prize money will be divided on the basis of $800 for first, $400, $300, $200 and $100, with a number of smaller prizes.

BRECKENRIDGE RESIGNS AS MEMBER OF ATHLETICS

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Bill Breckenridge, a right handed recruit pitcher with the Philadelphia Athletics last year, turned in his resignation to Manager Mack today. The former Dartmouth ace, who is now studying law at Oklahoma university, wrote to Mack that he was quitting baseball at the request of his father, a judge in Tulsa, for the bar. Breckenridge probably would not have been with the A's this season as Mack had expected to send him to a minor league for experience. Although he was in the big show for one brief season, young Breckenridge found a year with the champions quite profitable. He was given $5,000 as a bonus for signing a contract, another $5,000 for salary and in addition slightly more than $5,000 as his share of the Athletics' world series money.

In return for his investment of $15,000 Breckenridge turned in something like six or eight innings of big league pitching and a few innings of exhibition work. Reducing his efforts to the last common denominator of a pitcher's ranking, Breckenridge received $15,000 for pitching what amounted to approximately one full game of major ball.

ANOTHER FENCE BUSTER APPEARS AT YANKS' CAMP

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The New York Yankees seem to have picked up another fence buster in the person of Dusty Cooke, who did his hitting for St. Paul of the American association last season.

Cooke's long drives were the features of a long and extended batting practice at the Yankees' spring training camp today. There was nothing on the ball as it came up, of course, but Dusty seemed able to drive it further than any of his mates today.

JOE FABER OFF FOR SOUTH TO TRAIN WITH OMAHA

Joe Faber, well known local ballplayer left Sunday for York, Pa., where he will spend a few days and then will go to Mission, Texas, for spring training with the Omaha club of the Western league. While in this section Mr. and Mrs. Faber visited with Joe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Faber of Jewett City. Mrs. Faber will remain in Jewett City for the present, joining her husband in the south later in the month.

YALE SWIMMING TEAM TO GO TO HONOLULU

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 25—(AP)—The Yale university swimming team, which today accepted an invitation to participate in the international intercollegiate swimming meet, in Honolulu, will leave here shortly after the close of the college year and will participate in a limited number of meets en route.

Prof. George H. Nettleton, chairman of the board of control of the Yale Athletic association, tonight announced that the itinerary of the squad will be determined by the executive committee of the athletic association.

The squad will consist of 14 men and will be accompanied by R. J. H. Kiphuth, coach, and M. J. Roberts, '30, manager of the Yale Swimming association. The personnel of the team will be announced at the close of the present swimming season.

John Howland, Jr., of Baltimore, captain of this year's team and present holder of the eastern intercollegiate swiming association's titles in the 50, 100, and 220 yard events, free style, is practically certain to make the trip.

A similar trip was made by the Yale swimming team in 1921.

THINKS BROUILLARD IS MEETING TOO MANY SET-UPS

A Westerly boxing fan, under the impression that Dynamite Lou Brouillard is meeting only hand-picked opponents writes as follows:

Sports Editor: I am writing you to see if you could not entice the matchmakers in this section to match Lou Brouillaird with somebody who can make him fight. I find that many fans have the impression that Brouillard will only fight set-ups. After last Friday's shameful exhibition, I think, as many others do, that Lou should be matched with some suitable opponent. May I suggest that Eddie Adonis of Boston, or Tony Travers of New Haven, be considered as opponents. Many fans suggest Mule Brown as suitable also. Brouillard matched with any of these three would pack them in.

CANADIAN TO BE PRO AT NEW HAVEN CLUB

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 25—(AP)—John R. Williams, was appointed today as club professional by the New Haven Country club governors, to fill the place made vacant by death last year of "Bobby" Andrews.

Williams, a Welshman, 36 years old and comes with an excellent record as a golfer. He has been of late with the Riverdale Golf club, Moncton, N. B., and is the present pro champion for the maritime provinces.

Shikat Throws Zbyszko

BALTIMORE, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Dick Shikat of Philadelphia tonight threw Stanislaus Zbyszko, New York, former heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, in 31 minutes, with a body slam. Shikat is recognized as the present world champion by both New York and Pennsylvania. The bout was conducted in the 104th Medical regiment armory. Both men were aggressive but the bout lacked any spectacular moments.

All Stars Trim Greeneville Champs

Captain Griffin of the All Stars was undoubtedly the star of a billiard match played at the Recreation Billiard parlors last night as part of the three-man elimination tournament before a large and enthusiastic audience. The All Stars won, 100 to 72.

The teams lined up as follows: All Stars—T. Griffin, capt.; S. Lorinsky, J. Doneransky. Champs—W. Anton, capt.; Henry Klukowski, H. Beschen.

Bruins Blank Pirates.

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins shut out the Pittsburgh Pirates 7 to 0, here tonight in a one-sided hockey game that put Cooney Weiland, little center, back on the top of the National league scoring list. Weiland made four of the Bruins tallies, thereby increasing his total to 51 points, two more than that of Frank Boucher, of the New York Rangers.

REFEREE MILLER SUSPENDED BY ILLINOIS COMMISSION

CHICAGO, Feb. 25—(AP)—Davie Miller, veteran Chicago boxing referee, has been indefinitely suspended by the Illinois state athletic commission for failure to explain his scoring of the Leo Lomski-Jimmy Braddock bout at the Coliseum Jan. 17.

The bout first was declared a draw, Miller's card deciding the issue. Eleven days later it was learned that Miller's card, properly totaled, favored Lomski, whom the commission then declared winner.

Miller ignored three invitations to appear before the commission to explain the error.

Browns Start Practice.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25. —(AP)—The St. Louis Browns pitched camp today and started spring training with a brief practice session. Bill Killifer, new manager, was in charge, but few of the prominent pitchers and catchers on the Brownie roster had put in an appearance.

Billings to Manage Alexandria

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Josh Billings, former catcher for the Dallas Steers who joined the St. Louis Cardinals last year, has signed to manage the Alexandria, La., club of the Cotton States league, he announced here today. He succeeds the late Pete Kilduff.

BRITISH BATTLESHIP ANSWERS CALL FOR HELP

GIBRALTAR, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The giant British battleship Nelson, one of the largest in the English navy, today dashed to the rescue of a small Greek steamer that sent out an SOS in latitude 36.35 north, longitude 0.31 east.

The steamer, whose name was given as Fofo, sent out the call for help after an explosion in her hold.

The Nelson picked up the master of the ship and the crew, and later transferred them to the Rodney, her sister battleship, which will land them at Algiers.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Music-lovers are flocking in droves to the Broadway this week to enjoy to the fullest the beautiful melodies in song and orchestral ensemble of "Rio Rita," Florenz Ziegfeld's own screening of his magnificent stage show. Among hundreds of superb singing voices, two new ones are brought vividly to the fore through the magic of the "talking screen" and the Broadway's superb sound equipment—Bebe Daniels, erstwhile a "silent" comedienne, now through her efforts in the title role, acclaimed as the supreme feminine singing-star today—and John Boles, romantic figure in the "Desert Song," now giving to the world his golden tenor in the haunting melodies of "Rio Rita." Coupled with the solo and duet numbers of the two principals is the superb symphonic score by the Radio Symphony orchestra, and the ridiculous buffoonery of Bob Woolsey and Bert Wheeler, the stellar comedians of the original stage cast, and the effervescent gaiety of little Dorothy Lee, who has clowned and danced her way straight into the hearts of the public. Eva Rosita, another dainty feminine morsel, leads the wonderful Cimini chorus of beautiful dancing girls. All in all, "Rio Rita" is the most stunning film production that has yet graced a Norwich screen. On the same bill is shown the latest Fox Movietone news and Douglas Stanbury with eight of his British Army Buddies in a rousing song revue, "Pack Up Your Troubles." This program closing with Friday night's showings, will be followed on Saturday by the Connecticut premiere of "Her Unborn Child," a dramatic screening of the thrilling stage play which held New Yorkers spellbound for over two years.

POETRY

It's We Two

It's we two, it's we two for aye,
All the world and we two, and Heaven be our stay.
Like a laverock in the lift, sing, O bonny bride!
All the world was Adam once with Eve by his side.

What's the world, my lass, my love; what can it do?
I am thine and thou are mine; life is sweet and new.
If the world have missed the mark, let it stand by!
For we two have gotten leave and once more will try.

Like a laverock in the lift, sing, O bonny bride!
It's we two, it's we two, happy side by side.
Take a kiss from me, thy man; now the song begins;
"All is made afresh for us, and the brave heart wins."

When the darker days come and no sun will shine,
Thou shalt dry my tears, lass, and I'll dry thine.
It's we two, it's we two, while the world's away,
Sitting by the golden sheaves on our wedding day.

—Jean Ingelow.

From The Country To The City

I miss the little buckboard,
And the swill pails brimming full,
The snow that blocks the way to town
And the clothing lined with wool.
I miss the local gossip,
And the cows that won't come home,
The bull that's always breaking out
With tendency to roam.
I miss the weekly paper
With its local ads and news,
Its shocking adulation
And its very mixed-up news;
The gathering in the barber's shop
To see their fellows shaved,
The socials at the schoolhouse,
And the sidewalks semi-paved;
I miss the old alarm clock
With its ever-constant call,
So faithful in the Summertime—
Much earlier in the Fall.

But, after, all its just as well,
For when I come to think,
The change is beneficial,
And I'm only wasting ink.
For I wake up in the morning
To view the silent fog,
I take another roll in bed
And whisper: "Lucky dog!"

DE SOTO SIX had to excel . .
to capture such popularity

There is no royal road to success. It must be earned by outstanding achievement . . . To capture public favor so decisively, the Chrysler-built De Soto Six had to prove itself superior to its field. To sweep past so many other sixes in such an incredibly short time, it had to excel in all elements of style, luxury and performance and prove that it offered more than had ever before been offered by any Six so low in price. The public has seen the De Soto Six come up like a meteor—breaking all sales records for a first-year car. There is only one answer to a success like this—and the answer is dominant quality, dominant performance and dominant value. Everybody is invited to make comparisons.

GREENEVILLE

SHELTON MINISTER SPEAKER AT C. E. MEETING SUNDAY

A very interesting Christian Endeavor meeting was held Sunday evening at the Greeneville Third Baptist church. Mrs. Elmer Mulkin conducted the service, the subject being "The Value of the Bible for Non-Christian Nations." During the meeting a radio programme was put on with Henry Sebastian the announcer. The speakers from the radio station were Woodrow Sebastian, Doris Lund, William Sebastian, Harold Kinne, Clayton Gallup, Irving Maynard and Jennie Sebastian. Each person connected his speech with some foreign nation. A special selection was played by the church orchestra and Rev. Mr. Prindle of Shelton, Conn., gave a brief talk.

Harold Dooley of Central avenue spent the week end with friends in New London.

Miss Mary Dooley spent a few days with friends in Boston recently.

Miss Harriet Anderson of Golden street is spending a week at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Flynn at Hartford.

Mrs. William Winterbottom and daughter, Miss Doris Winterbottom of Boswell avenue, are spending a week with Mrs. Charles Winterbottom at New Bedford.

Miss Ida Marshall of Prospect street spent the week end with relatives in New Bedford.

At D. A. R. Convention

Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury and Mrs. Richard Seed attended a convention of the D. A. R. at Westerly, Tuesday.

The many friends of Harold Kramer will be sorry to learn that he is confined to his home on Ninth street, by sickness.

Edward Enright, of Brooklyn, N. Y., is spending a few days with his mother, Mrs. Ann Enright of Gilmore avenue.

Miss Harriet Ryan has returned to her home on Twelfth street, after spending a few days with relatives in Springfield.

TAFTVILLE

When the members of the Young People's society of Christian Endeavor met Sunday evening in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church, the topic discussed was "Knowing God" and the leader was Miss Edith L. Heap. The sub-topics were treated in an interesting manner by Miss Mary Greenhalgh, Robert B. Schmidt, Terence M. Buckley, Richard Oat and Edmund Mathewson. There was a piano solo by Miss Alberta Mather. There was an attendance of 46, and the contest which is being conducted between the Red and Blue teams, resulted in a victory for the latter team, captained by Rev. William Penner, the pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Choquette have given up their house on South B. street.

Michael Tierney of Moosup, a former Taftville resident, was in town over the week end calling on friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Caron and daughter, Miss Jeanne Caron of New London, have been visiting Mr. Caron's mother, Mrs. Mathilda Caron, and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore J. Belval of Riverside grove.

Mrs. Edith McElrath and family have moved from South Fourth avenue to a house on South A. street.

Over 60 Countries
Now Treat Colds
Without "Dosing"

Modern Vaporizing Ointment Fast Replacing Old-Time Internal Remedies

A generation ago, it was the custom to give large doses of internal medicines for colds and almost every human ailment. Then, a North Carolina pharmacist originated Vicks VapoRub, the modern method of treating colds without "dosing." Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

As more and more people adopted this modern external treatment, the fame of Vicks spread until today it is the standby for colds—adults' as well as children's—in over 60 countries.

This ever-increasing demand is shown in the figures of the familiar Vick slogan. Made famous when Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Used Yearly," and later raised to "21 Million," these figures, too, have been outgrown, as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly," in the United States alone.

CHAMBER DIRECTORS CONSIDER BUS AND TRAIN SERVICE INADEQUATE

Adequate transportation by bus and train in and out of Norwich and a programme of industrial development were the principal subjects of discussion at a regular meeting of the board of directors of the local chamber of commerce held Tuesday night in the chamber committee room at the Thayer building. On the question of transportation it was the unanimous opinion of the meeting that both the bus and train service facilities of the N. Y., N. H. and Hartford road and the New England Transportation Co., are lacking in a degree that tends to isolate Norwich and retard its commercial connections with other points.

It was brought out that it is almost an impossibility to secure any information by 'phone or otherwise at the railroad and bus terminals as to the connections at other points and that the infrequency of the service is such, that no longer service to the general public, appears to be a factor in the change of schedules, etc. After a lengthy discussion the local secretary was instructed to ascertain the franchise rights under which the transportation companies in question operate and also to look into the matter of independent transportation rights and how they may be made effective in order that Norwich might again be restored to its place on the map from the standpoint of adequate transportation so necessary in this day of tense competition.

Realizing that the transportation companies now serving Norwich had changed and reduced service in and out of the city without notice or due regard for local interests, it was the opinion of the directors of the chamber of commerce that drastice action should be taken at once to stop further curtailment and bring about restoration of transportation schedules in keeping with the commercial importance of the city of Norwich.

On the question of industrial development, the board of directors took favorable action upon the proposition suggested by President Frank R. Murdy that the secretary devote a certain portion of his time each month to the matter of bringing about industrial development for Norwich. This means that al the necessary data as provided in the survey made by the Babson Statistical organization in 1928 will be used in conjunction with all other facts of importance that have a bearing on showing the manufacturing advantages of Norwich. In this undertaking Secretary Richardson will carry on a sales campaign personally with a view to locating new industry for this community. All other matters brought before the meeting were routine in nature.

PHYSICAL AND DENTAL EXAMS FOR CHILDREN

Start children to school healthy says the weekly health bulletin issued by the state department of health. Summer round-up days are now at our threshold. We no longer need to discuss the value of this work to a community. The results of the last three years in this co-operative work of the local physicians, state parent and teachers' association, and state department of health have placed it on a firm basis.

The summer round-up offers an opportunity for the group of preschool children from the ages of 4 to 6 years to receive a physical and dental examination. Each child is weighed and measured; his vision and hearing are tested; his teeth are examined by a dental hygienist, and he is given a thorough physical examination by a physician. If any defects needing medical or surgical attention are found, the mother is asked to take the little one to her family physician for consultation and advice.

The results of the 64 summer round-up examinations held in 1928 showed that 79 per cent. of these children had some kind of physical defect. No matter how sturdy a child may be at birth, during the progress of growth the body cells are constantly undergoing a change. Certain of these cells, in the building up and breaking down process of growth, may lose their normal balance. This explains the start of our so-called wrong tendencies or defects which, if allowed to remain unchecked may become handicaps in adult life.

It has been found in later years of life that many a child had been allowed to grow up with a defect which could doubtless have been corrected had it been discovered in the early years of life; but which was not detected because its presence could have been visible only to the trained eye of the physician and nurse. It is through the discovery of these things that every child is given a chance to enjoy the health and strength of body and mind to which he is entitled, and above all that he may be in good physical condition to meet the new surroundings and demands made upon him by school life.

DIVORCE AND DAMAGE ACTIONS IN SUPERIOR COURT

Over a dozen new divorce and damage actions were filed Tuesday in the superior court office. Samuel Antzis, owner of the Star Dairy, of this city, has filed suit for divorce from Helen Feinberg Antzis, of this city. He charges a statutory offense. The couple married June 12, 1928.

Peter Fournier, of New London, administrator of the estate of Henry D Barrows, of New London, has started a foreclosure suit against the Commodore Realty Co., of New London, Dora Cohn of Hartford and the Atlas Realty Corp. of Hartford. The complaint alleges that on Sept. 23, 1924, Joseph Sigal of Hartford owed Barrows $10,000 on a demand note with interest at the rate of ten per cent per annum. The note was secured by a mortgage of premises located at the southeast corner at the intersection of Bentley avenue and Ocean View place, Ocean Beach. Dora Cohn claims to have a mortgage lien for $2,500; The Atlas Realty Corp. of Hartford claims to have a mortgage of $3,120. The Savings Bank of New London claims to have three mortgages totalling $20,000, which mortgages are prior to the Barrows mortgage. The Commodore Realty Co. is now in possession.

A suit for $2,500 damages has been brought by Arthur J. Butlin of Waterford against Albert Bleasdale of Westerly, R. I., and Swift and Co. of New London. Butlin claims that on March 12, 1929, while operating his auto upon West Mystic avenue, his machine was struck by a truck owned by Swift and Co., operated by Bleasdale. The suit is the result of damage to his car and personal injuries received.

A foreclosure petition has been brought against Minnie Agnes Rodgers of this city by Katheryn C. Brand of Utica, N. Y., formerly of this city. Mrs. Brand claims she is the holder of two mortgage notes, totalling $3,000 given her by Mrs. Rodgers on May 2, 1925. The T. N. M. Lathrop, Inc., of this city claim to have an attachment for $900 on the premises.

Daniel W. Coulopoulos of Norwich has started foreclosure proceedings against Stanislaw and Marcela Kiecolt, and the Norwich Plumbing Supply House, all of Norwich. The plaintiff claims he holds a $1,000 mortgage note given by the Kiecolts, on Dec. 1, 1927. The property is located on North Main street, about opposite Pulaski hall. The Norwich Supply Co. claims to have a mechanic's lien on the premises for $700. The Chelsea Savings bank has a mortgage of $5,900 on the premises.

Another foreclosure action is that against Schiller's Country club, brought by Sarah Schleifer of this city against David Schiller of Lebanon and others. Mrs. Schleifer claims that she is the holder of a $5,000 note given her on Sept. 16, 1926, by Schiller and secured by a mortgage of the premises mentioned. The Red Wing Feed and Lumber Co. of Colchester claims to have a mortgage of $7,000 on the premises while Henry N. Glynne Co. of New Haven claims to have an attachment for $650.

Deputy Sheriff Oscar H. Main has attached the Smart Shop on Main street, this city, as the result of a $4,000 damage suit brought by Abner Schwartz of this city against Max Silberman, also of Norwich. The action is based on the common counts. Another attachment has also been placed on the store by Deputy Sheriff Main as the result of a suit for $2,500 brought against Max Silberman by the Thames Bank and Trust Co. of this city, which claim they are the holders of a $2,000 note given on Jan. 6, 1930, by Silberman to them, and payable in 30 days.

Theodore E. Pearson of Waterford seeks a foreclosure of a mechanic's lien and $1,500 damages in an action he has brought against Frances Jackson of New London. The property is located at Ocean Beach and the plaintiff claims he furnished materials and rendered services in the construction of the house. The total cost was $7,950 and extras amounted to $200. The sum of $1,170 is still due him, Pearson alleges.

Solomon Bernstein of Stelton, N. J., asks damages of $20,000 in an action against the Marvel Underwear Co., Inc., of New London. Bernstein claims that he was employed on Feb. 21, 1929, under a written contract for a period of two years by the Underwear concern as its manager at the weekly salary of $120 a week, besides sharing in the profits of the concern. On Dec. 31, 1930, he alleges that he was wrongfully discharged.

Charging that his wife refused to live with him, Milton Berry of Stonington has filed suit for divorce from or an annulment of his marriage to Mary Benzie Berry of New London. They were married Aug. 10, 1929. The plaintiff alleges that if he had known his wife would not live with him he would not have entered into the marriage contract.

Divorce is asked by Abbey (Ogden) Damon of New London from Frederick E. Damon, also of New London, on the grounds of intolerable cruelty alleged since Jan. 1, 1926. The date of marriage was Oct. 4, 1904.

Charging a statutory offense and desertion, Mary (Kachara) Bryda of this city has brought suit for divorce against Sczepan Bryda of 22 Slater street, Webster, Mass. The couple was married Nov. 12, 1912.

Viola (Bennett) Smart of New London seeks a divorce and custody of a 3-year-old child from Manfred H. Smart of Groton. The couple was married July 6, 1926. Cruelty is charged.

LOCAL MAN WILL SING AT CHORAL VESPER SERVICE

Alfred R. Gaul's best known work, the Holy City, an oratorio for four solo voices and mixed chorus, will be rendered at the First Congregational church, New London, on Sunday afternoon, March 2nd. A select choir of 24 voices, many of whom are prominent soloists in nearby cities, assisted by Gladys P. Highmore, soprano; Ora B. Rankin, contralto; Maurice E. Wallen, tenor, and Henry J. LaFontaine of Norwich, baritone, with Roger N. Daboll at the organ, will present this ever popular work as the fifth offering of the series of choral vesper services, given annually during the winter months.

The composer of this famous work was born in Norwich, England, April 30th, 1837, and died at Birmingham, September 13th, 1913. His fame as an organist, choral director and composer assumed large proportions even at an early age. He was a prolific writer and gave to the musical world a long list of oratorios, cantatas, psalms, hymn-tunes, chants, part-songs, etc., and about 50 pieces for the pianoforte. His works, the superficial fluency of which won them a wide popularity, include Hezekiah, oratorio; Ruth, cantata; The Passion, oratorio; Psalm CL, cantata; Psalm 1, cantata; John of Arc; The Ten Virgins, oratorio; Una, cantata; Israel in the Wilderness, oratorio and over thirty additional works of minor importance.

The Holy City, the greatest work of this famous English composer, was first rendered in 1882 at the Birmingham festival and at that time contained only parts one and two. In 1901, the composer completed the work by adding a prologue, which he considered as necessary for its type. The treatment of the subject is almost entirely reflective, as its name would imply, the more dramatic parts of the work being taken from the Vision of St. John. The first part deals with Scriptural passages, "Here have we no continuing city," "Thy kingdom come," and sets forth the desire for a higher life, as expressed in the words, "My soul is athirst for God," which desire is followed by other passages expressive of the perfection of the higher life, such as "Eye hath not seen."

Part two deals with a realization of the desires and promises contained in the first part, being suggested by the words, "I saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away." With the exception of two hymns, a verse from Milton and three verses from the Te Deum, the words are entirely Scriptural.

Conn. Co., employer, and Joseph Rubel, 31, 359 Central avenue, Norwich, employe; wrenched ankle and fractured knuckle on right hand on Feb. 15.

Economy Grocery Co., employer, and Leander Jordan, 17, New London, employe; bones broken on Feb. 6.

Armour & Co., employer, and Stanley S. Poreda, 26, 62 Eleventh street, Norwich, employe; infected finger on Jan. 27.

Spicer Ice & Coal Co., employer, and Joseph T. Gelinas, 27, Groton, employe; fractured rib on Jan. 27.

Conn. Terminal Co., employer, and Earl B. Audwood, 26, New London, employe; sprained leg on Jan. 23.

BAILEY SUIT AGAINST CITY IS SETTLED

The $30,000 damage suit brought against the city of Norwich by George E. Pitcher, as agent for Howell S. Bailey of New York has been settled out of court. The suit was scheduled for trial before a jury in the superior court in New London this week.

The suit concerned alleged losses by Mr. Bailey through failure of a sale of property at Burnham square, due to alleged failure of the city of Norwich to remove poles and electric wires from the property as ordered by the court of common pleas Feb. 12, 1927, when in a suit against the city Mr. Bailey was awarded damages of $630.52. By the terms of the settlement Mr. Bailey is to receive $550.

LIGHTNING BLAMED FOR SMALL FIRE IN NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL THEATRE

Lightning is blamed as the cause of a small blaze in the theatre at the Norwich state hospital about 5:30 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon. Shortly before the fire was discovered by a hospital employe, an electrical storm, the first of the year in this section, swept over Norwich, and it is thought that a bolt entered the theatre setting fire to the stage scenery which was destroyed with an estimated loss of about $150.

Dr. Elijah S. Burdsall, superintendent of the institution, was immediately notified when the fire was discovered. Rushing to the theatre, Supt. Burdsall unlocked the door and found the scenery on fire. Hand extinguishers quickly squelched the small blaze. As the theatre was locked at the time the fire broke out, the cause of the blaze is laid to lightning or to a possible short circuit in the electric wiring. The theory that lightning caused the fire is strengthened by the fact that there were several bright flashes just before the flames were discovered.

COMPLETING $40,000 LABORATORY BUILDING AT STORRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 25—Atwater laboratory, the new pathological building at Connecticut Agricultural college, is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy about the last week in March. This structure is named in honor of Dr. Wilbur O. Atwater, director of the first agricultural experiment station in Connecticut, and an outstanding physiologist. Original plans were started and worked out for the plant by Dr. Leslie A. Dunn, consulting geneticist for the department at present, and by Dr. James G. McAlpine, former assistant bacteriologist at the state college, in cooperation with William L. Slate, experiment station director.

This new laboratory building, which is being constructed at a cost of more than $40,000, is a valuable addition to the college facilities and is the first permanent building to belong strictly to the experiment station and to be used entirely for research work. Space will be divided between two experiment station departments, the first floor to be occupied by the animal disease division and the second floor by the department of genetics, while the basement will be shared by both.

The basement provides five animal rooms which will be used for experimental purposes, an operating room, and an incubating room. The two upper floors each have two large laboratories facing the road, and four smaller rooms in the back. A reading room on the second floor will provide storage for books and periodicals belonging to both departments. The building will provide facilities for valuable experiments which previous to this have been impossible to conduct because of inadequate equipment.

MAN WANTED HERE IS HELD IN NEW YORK

According to a New York dispatch, George Cousins is being held in that city in bonds of $10,000 as a white slaver and fugitive from Maine. Cousins is wanted here by the local authorities and in other cities for the alleged passing of worthless checks and on other charges.

The accused is charged here with passing spurious checks on C. A. Hagberg and James C. Macpherson, merchants, and it is also charged that he fraudulently secured an auto from the Buick agency.

Cousins, it is claimed, bought a machine in New York and made a down payment on the machine with a [illegible] check and coming to this [illegible] went to the Buick agency, J. L. Williams, proprietor, and traded the New York car, for another machine which he used to make his getaway. The car has never been recovered by Mr. Williams nor was Cousins heard of until his arrest in New York.

Cousins also passed two worthless checks in Westerly.

SACHEM PROVISION CO. SUES ANDREW J. GODEK

The Sachem Provision Co., of Norwich has brought suit in the court of common pleas against Andrew J. Godek of this city, claiming damages of $500. The suit is brought on the common counts.

Asking damages of $150 Leo Wine of Providence has brought suit against Joseph Gerardi of Norwich. The plaintiff claims that on June 2, 1928, he indorsed a note for $250 given by Gerardi to the United Hebrew Aid association, and that he (Wine) was forced to pay the balance of $129.75.

Damages of $1,200 are asked by Peter Yukabowsky of Griswold from Sam and Varonia Yukabowsky of Griswold. The plaintiff claims that he worked on a farm of the defendants at their request for a period of one year at an agreed price of $300 and also purchased for the defendants a horse and farming engine of the value of $825 and that he has not been paid.

Barnet Yavner of Montville, asks damages of $2,000 from Michael Cohen of this city. Yavner alleges that his horse and lumber wagon was struck on Nov. 27, 1929, by an auto owned by Cohen and operated by Charles Greenleaf. The accident happened on the Fitch Hill road in the town of Montville near the Norwich-New London turnpike intersection. Yavner alleges that he was thrown from the wagon and seriously injured.

Brings Suit for $75

The Irving Bogue Co., of this city has started suit against Arthur Dessureault also of Norwich. The action is brought on the common counts and is returnable before John H. Barnes, J. P.

AUTO DRIVERS FINED IN THE CITY COURT

Two violators of the motor vehicle laws were tried in the city court Tuesday morning and each fined $25 and costs. They were Ernest Panciera, 23, and John Kellar, 21, both of this city, the former charged with diving an oveloaded tuck and the latter with operating a motorcycle without a registration.

When arrested on Thames street Monday afternoon Panciera had on his truck an overload of nearly 3,000 pounds, so the arresting officer, Trooper Donald Brown of Groton barracks, claimed. Kellar was arrested Monday morning by Motor Patrolman Clifford Crary. He was driving an unregistered motorcycle, having failed to renew his registration for 1930.

Other cases disposed of by the court were the cases of Samuel Pearson of Yantic, who paid $3 for illegal parking, and Roland Bryant, 21, charged with non-support. The latter was ordered by the court to pay $7 a week towards the support of his family.

EXPECT APPOINTMENT OF HIGH SHERIFF THIS WEEK

Governor John H. Trumbull, it is expected, will this week appoint a successor to the late High Sheriff Sidney A. Brown of New London, whose funeral was held Monday afternoon.

Under the general statutes the governor is empowered to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation or death of any sheriff while the general assembly is not in session and Sheriff Brown's successor will, therefore, be selected by Governor Trumbull. The appointment will only be until the coming fall when the four year term of Sheriff Brown would have expired and the selection of a sheriff through the regular process of nomination and election will be necessary at that time.

Opinion in political circles seems to favor the selection of George H. Bradford of Montville, republican state central committeeman from the 20th district as Sheriff Brown's successor. Others who have been advanced by their friends as possible candidates for the appointment are Col. W. Ellery Allyn of Waterford, former chief field deputy of the internal revenue bureau, and Attorney Benjamin H. Hewitt, Mystic, and William L. Apley of New London.

Mr. Bradford is head of the gasoline tax division of the state motor vehicle department, a position of trust and responsibility. He is also one of the New London county commissioners.

LATHROP TAKES APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT

Harry L. Lathrop of Washington street has appealed to the supreme court of errors from a decision of the superior court sustaining the joint zoning board of the city and town. Mr. Lathrop appealed to the superior court after the joint zoning board for the city and town of Norwich here had refused to grant permission and amend the zoning ordinances so as to allow him to erect a gasoline station on his premises. The superior court sustained the zoning board and now the case goes to the supreme court of errors.

W. W. Atterbury, President of the Penn. Railroad and Republican National Committeeman For Pennsylvania, Testified That Temperance Has Lost Ground In the Last Ten Years, Owing to the Vicious Volstead Act—Would Have States Themselves Determine What Is Intoxicating Liquor—Other Testimony Condemned Prohibition As a Failure and a Cause of Serious Friction Between the Government and the People.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—(AP)—Prominent citizens testifying today before the house judiciary committee condemned prohibition as a miserable failure and as an affront to the American people which is engendering widespread resentment.

One of the most outspoken was W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, who also is republican national committeeman for Pennsylvania. He was preceded by the presentation of a statement from Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university in New York, who was unable to appear in person.

The Rev. John A. Ryan, a widely-known sociologist and member of the Catholic university faculty here, declared prohibition had seared "everything that it touches." The theologian said President Hoover, Attorney General Mitchell and members of the law enforcement commission had gone to an unwarranted extreme in seeking to present the prohibition question to the people as a moral issue.

W. W. Montgomery, Jr., a Philadelphia lawyer, said his city's courts were "clogged with liquor cases, to the serious and alarming interference with the administration of justice generally."

Raymond Pitcairn, also of Philadelphia and identified with the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, described the eighteenth amendment as a "rotten failure"—saying "the president and cabinet know it, Mr. Hughes knows it, congress knows it and unhappily the young people know it best of all; but the prohibitionists do not know it."

Today was the fifth day of hearings within the past three weeks, all of which time has been taken up so far by advocates of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. After the committee had heard opponents of prohibition, who are expected to complete their say tomorrow, the drys will be given equal chance to argue on behalf of prohibition.

Pierre S. Du Pont, of Wilmington, Delaware, is scheduled to appear tomorrow against the dry laws.

Jeremiah J. Wadsworth testified today on behalf of his father, former Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., of New York. The tall youth, whose father is out of the country, said "the attempt to enforce total abstinence in the United States has set up a serious friction between the government and the people."

"Until recently," he continued, "that portion of the public that is resisting has been good-natured about it, while the government has been fighting it hard and, at times, savagely. There are signs that the public is becoming less good-natured and more resentful of the extreme measures of the government."

In addition to Mr. Butler's, the committee also received a statement demanding repeal of the dry amendment from Wallace Irwin, an author. He assailed it as tyranny and declared that if the people could not revolt against it, their freedom would be lost.

Another emphatic witness was Dr. Francis J. Gerty, in charge of the Cook county, Illinois, Psychopathic hospital. He testified there had been large increases recently in the number of alcoholic patients of both sexes and that mortality in such cases had grown.

Morgan Colling, former superintendent of police in Chicago, declared that after prohibition the morale of the policemen lowered and that liquor law violators in his city escaped conviction because courts and juries were not inclined to enforce the act. He said he had found equally bad conditions in many cities.

Two Washington attorneys, representing the Federal Dispensary and Tax Reduction league, Wilton Lambert and Rice Hooe, said conditions of law enforcement could not be corrected as long as the dry laws existed. They urged approval of the Sabath resolution to modify the amendment to permit federal supervision of the sale of liquor in packages in states desiring liquor.

Mr. Atterbury testified that the problem as he saw it is to "minimize the abuse of alcoholic beverages and restore that respect for law which is now seriously jeopardized." He thus plunged quickly into his argument upon taking the stand, which was ten minutes after his arrival in the city.

Standing erectly, the former general of the A. E. F. said he appeared "solely because of my interest in the preservation of law and order." He described the saloon as a menace to the country and said he favored temperance, which he believed "has lost ground in the last ten years." He declared the placing of manufacture and sale of liquor under government control, state and national would advance "the real cause of temperance."

"When the prohibition amendment was adopted," Atterbury said, "it was expected by its proponents that it could be enforced. Had the law been supported by the great body of public opinion its enforcement might have been possible. Even prior to the passage of the amendment certain states were able to secure a high degree of prohibition, because in those states the law was supported by a great majority of the people.

"At the time of its adoption, even the friends of the amendment could not have foreseen four distinct results which have ensued and which have tended not only to break down the effectiveness of the amendment itself, but to hamper the general effort to enforce law and order.

"These unexpected developments have been:

"1—The extent to which the practice of making home brew has developed;

"2—The enormous development of the bootleg industry, the profits from which have been so large as to bring about an alliance in many cases between those charged with law enforcement and the most recklessly criminal section of the population;

"3—The enormous temptations to official corruption and the great development of this corruption;

"4—The revolt of the youth of the country against being deprived of personal liberties which their parents had enjoyed, resulting in a situation which has caused a large number of the most conservative college authorities to urge repeal of the amendment."

Atterbury suggested that congress had the right to delegate the authority for the enforcement of the 18th amendment and that the Volstead act should be repealed and the authority delegated to the states to determine for themselves what is intoxicating liquor and whether to enact legislation to enforce it.

"This would bring the question right back to each individual state where it properly belongs," he said. "It would restore the situation as it existed just prior to the war when the country was rapidly going dry and public opinion supported such action."

He expressed the belief that "with proper regulation of the manufacture and sale under government control and supervision state and national, somewhat on the lines of the Canadian and Swedish principles, modified to suit our conditions—we will have made a great advance in the real cause of temperance."

PETITION FOR CLOSING OF COMMUNIST LABOR HALL

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—A petition urging that an allegedly communist labor hall maintained in an industrial section of this city be "closed permanently" was presented today to the Charlotte city council.

Bearing 217 signatures, the petition protested that the place was a "disgrace to any respectable community." It charged that the hall was being used "to spread the doctrine of social inequality, free love, destruction of all our institutions and our government and of belief in God and the Christian religion."

COMMUNIST DEMONSTRATION CANCELLED FROM MOSCOW

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 26—(AP)—Police here said a parade in which unemployed persons were to have marched on the city hall today was postponed "on receipt of cabled instructions from Moscow." One hundred officers stood guard as 500 men gathered in downtown Park place in an orderly communist meeting.

Police officials said they had obtained reliable information that the parade was called off because of orders from communist leaders out of the country.

OBITUARY

Harwood Turner

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 26—(AP)—Harwood Turner, chief clerk in the traffic department of the Southern New England Telephone company, who was married a month ago a day before it had been deemed necessary and the time fixed to amputate a limb, died today. His illness extended back three months and was due at its inception to septic poisoning.

Cardinal Merry Del Val

ROME, Feb. 26—(AP)—Cardinal Merry Del Val, who was twice forecast as "the first foreign pope" at the conclaves of 1903 and 1914 but who both times failed to attain the necessary two-thirds vote of the College of Cardinals, died today. Death was caused by heart shock following an operation for appendicitis. He was 64 years of age.

His passing ended one of the most remarkable ecclesiastical careers of recent times. A Spaniard by blood, but born an Englishman and for many years a resident of Italy, he was considered as the most likely to break the four centuries old precedent that an Italian must be elected pope.

The Rt. Rev. Arthur C. Hall

BURLINGTON, Vt., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Rt. Rev. Arthur C. Hall, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Vermont, died suddenly tonight at his home in Rock Point. He had been confined to his bed about ten days but has been in poor health ever since he suffered a fall in December at the rectory in St. Albans. He had been head of the Vermont diocese since Feb. 2, 1894.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LUTON, Bedfordshire, England, Feb. 26 — (AP) — Rushing panic-stricken through a hat factory, a worker whose clothes had caught on fire while he was heating beeswax spread the flames about him as he ran and started a fire that burned down a three-story building and killed six people.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 26—(AP)—The recent assertions of Count Alexander Von Hochberg that his betrothal to Princess Ileana of Rumania had not been broken have had a cold reception in authoritative circles here who consider them preposterous. The count is at present in France.

HELD AS MEMBERS OF BAND OF SILVER FOX "RUSTLERS"

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Feb. 26—[illegible]—Two men accused by Massachu[illegible] state police and by Westchester cou[illegible]ty authorities of being members of [illegible] band of silver fox "rustlers" that has operated in New York state and New England for more than three years were held today in $25,000 bail each by County Judge Frederick P. Close on charges of grand larceny.

Police describe the two men, Alfred Findley, 30, of Armonk, N. Y., and John Merritt, 30, of Poundridge, N. Y., as leaders of silver fox ranch raiders who have obtained more than $100,000 worth of pelts in frequent sallies on farms in New York, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Maine.

The men were arrested last night in a New York city rooming house by state police, acting on a tip from Lieutenant Albert M. Dasey of Massachusetts state police, who has been investigating the robbery of 15 pelts from a silver fox farm at Williamsburg, Mass., on February 12.

FLOOD OF COUNTERFEIT $10 AND $20 NOTES IN N. Y.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—(AP)—W. H. Moran, chief of the secret service said tonight that an unprecedented number of counterfeits of $10 and $20 federal reserve notes were being reported from New York city.

Chief Moran said no estimate of the amount of the counterfeits had been made by the secret service but that operators of New York police were arresting two or three persons a day for passing the bogus notes. He said that the bills thus far reported were imperfect counterfeits of federal reserve notes, but there seemed to be no difficulty in putting them into circulation in New York city.

There have been numerous reports by members of congress since the new sized bills were issued that there had been an increase in counterfeiting activities. The new sized currency was put in circulation last July, and the first case of such counterfeiting resulted in the arrest of the manufacturer of the bogus money 24 hours afterward.

UNOCCUPIED AUTOMOBILE WAS STRUCK BY TRAIN

TORRINGTON, Feb. 26—(AP)—Landing on the railroad tracks following a collision with a post, an automobile was struck by a Winsted-New York train of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad tonight, shortly after three passengers had either been hurled or taken out of the machine.

The occupants in the machine, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rosansky and James Hamilton, all of Winsted, were coming here to attend a party when the car crashed into the post at Schibi's crossing and overturned on the tracks. The two men were thrown out of the car and escaped injury. When they saw the train bearing down on the machine they frantically began to extricate the woman out of the wreckage and succeeded in their task barely in time.

Mrs. Rosansky received minor injuries in the accident.

BRONX ICE DEALER WAS SHOT TO DEATH LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—Gaetano Reina, 40, Bronx wholesale ice dealer, was shot to death with a sawed-off shotgun tonight as he was about to enter his automobile with a young woman with whom, police said, he lived. The shooting occurred in front of the Bronx apartment house which the two were said to have shared.

Two men stepped up to Reina as he was opening the door of his car. One of them opened fire with the sawed-off shotgun, sending ten slugs into Reina's body and two into the door of the car.

The young woman, Mary [illegible]onia, screamed and a taxi-driver cruising nearby came to her aid. Reina died in Morrisania hospital.

The woman was detained by police for questioning.

RUNAWAY GIRLS WERE FOUND IN FITCHBURG

FITCHBURG, Mass., Feb. 26—(AP)—The four young girls who ran away from the exclusive Whittier school at Merrimac last night, were found at Fitchburg tonight where they are under police guard awaiting the arrival of authorities from the school.

The four, members of socially prominent families had registered at the Hotel Raymond late this afternoon under assumed names, but late tonight admitted their identity after police questioning. They said they had left the school because they were "dissatisfied" adding that they "stepped out for a hitch-hike to the west."

SHELTON RECLUSE GETS PRISON FOR 11 TO 15 YEARS

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Feb. 26—(AP)—Edward Durant, 72-year-old crippled recluse of Shelton, was sentenced to state's prison for 11 to 15 years today after he was found guilty of assaulting a Shelton patrolman with intent to kill.

Police surrounded Durant's shack last October after he had shot and seriously wounded William Gilmour. Durant fired at the police and wounded the patrolman. He surrendered after being wounded in the gun battle.

FORMER CUSTOMS OFFICIALS FOUND GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY

DULUTH, Minn., Feb. 26—(AP)—Oscar E. Dahly, former customs collector for Duluth; Thomas F. Hoban, former customs patrolman, and Ernest W. Beaton, customs agent, tonight were found guilty of conspiracy by a federal court jury after more than ten hours deliberation. The fourth defendant, E. A. Peters, Duluth druggist, was acquitted.

CHICAGO ATTORNEY WAS WOUNDED BY GUNMEN

DETROIT, Feb. 26—(AP)—Gangsters tonight emptied their shotguns into the automobile of Alfonso E. Sirica, attorney who represented James Fernando in the Jackie Thompson kidnaping case, seriously wounding him.

40 Earthshocks In The Imperial Valley

Visitors Were Panic-Stricken—Many Refused to Sleep In Hotel Rooms.

BRAWLE[illegible]lif., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Nearly 4[illegible]ake shocks, the greatest [illegible] recorded here at one time [illegible] than a decade, rocked Imp[illegible]ey between 3:30 p. m. T[illegible]d 9:15 a. m. today.

[illegible]s in Brawley, Westmoreland [illegible]alipatria were damaged. The [illegible] loss occurred at Westmore[illegible]. No casualties were reported.

Visitors to the valley became panic stricken, many refused to sleep in their hotel rooms and remained up all night, pacing the lobbies and patios. There were four major shocks, the first at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday, followed by three others at 7:23 p. m., 8:04 p. m., and 11:39 p. m.

H. H. Griffin of Brawley said while riding eleven miles northwest of the city today he saw spouts of hot and cold water shooting from the ground. The hot water was indicated by steam, other residents told of sections of highways being flooded by water pouring out of earth cracks.

It was assumed that the shocks had split the earth deeply, breaking under ground reservoirs of water. On some highways it was necessary to detour.

The principal intensity of the shocks centered at Westmoreland. Part of a pharmacy was wrecked with a loss estimated at $800. Other buildings there and in Brawley and Calipatria were cracked, plaster broken, dishes smashed and some windows shattered. Near Westmoreland several adobe huts of Mexicans were shaken down. The occupants escaped uninjured.

Seismologists said the earthquakes were felt only in the valley.

SENATE PLANNING NIGHT SESSIONS ON TARIFF DRIVE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Plans for night sessions beginning tomorrow were made by senate leaders today as a final drive for speedy conclusion of work on the tariff bill got under way with completion of action on amendments to all the rate sections.

Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, in charge of the bill for the republican regulars, said he would make a motion, if necessary, to hold the senate in continuous session from 11 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night beginning tomorrow, but excluding Saturdays.

Leaders of the coalition of democrats and republican independents, who have a majority in the tariff struggle, joined Smoot in support of night meetings, which have been resorted to near the end of all congressional tariff debates.

The free list was reached today after several amendments to the sundries schedule were acted upon. The most important amendment approved was one by Senator Robinson, republican, Indiana, which would allow free entry to all ingredients used chiefly for or in the manufacture of fertilizers.

This was urged as an important aid to the farmers, whose fertilizer bill was estimated at $250,000,000 annually.

GENERAL CONDITION OF TAFT REMAINS UNCHANGED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—(AP)—The general condition of William Howard Taft, which has caused worry to those close to him, was said by his physicians tonight to be unchanged.

After a consultation of more than half an hour in the sick room, Dr. Francis R. Hagner and D. Thomas A. Claytor said the former chief justice's pulse was strong. The afflicted man remains in serious condition, however. The doctors' bulletin at 6:55 p. m., said:

"The former chief justice has had a restful day. His general condition remains the same."

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 26—(AP)—In a last effort to save Dr. James H. Snook, former Ohio State university professor from the electric chair for the murder of Miss Theora Hix, a student, his attorneys were preparing tonight to go before Governor Cooper tomorrow.

At a conference with the governor and the state board of clemency the attorneys said they will ask a stay of execution and commutation of sentence to life imprisonment. The execution is set for Friday.

TO STUDY MOBILIZATION IN CASE OF EMERGENCY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—(AP)—Appointment of a commission to study methods of enabling the president immediately to mobilize all the resources of the United States in the event this country becomes engaged in war was proposed in a resolution introduced today in behalf of Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, who is attending the London naval conference.

Santo Domingo Falls To Insurgent Forces

Government Troops Still Hold Fortress Near the Presidential Palace.

SANTO DOMINGO, Feb. 26.—(AP)—This capital of the Dominican republic was in the hands of the insurgents tonight with the exception of the old fortress near the presidential palace, where a small garrison of troops loyal to President Horacio Vasquez was holding out pending negotiations between their chief and insurgent leaders.

President Vasquez left his haven in the French legation and went to the American legation to confer with Charles B. Curtis, the United States minister. It was said that Rafael Estrella Urena, leader of the insurgents, was en route from Santiago and might arrive at the legation during the night.

The insurgents, about 2,000 strong, entered the capital this morning, firing volleys in the air. Some 10,000 residents of the city cheered them as they paraded toward the palace.

The president and Vice-President Alfonseca took refuge in the French legation. Other administration leaders also went to foreign representatives for shelter. Gustavo Diaz, president of the senate, sought a haven in the Danish consulate but after hearing that the insurgent leaders did not recognize the right of a consul to offer asylum, he left there. Tonight his whereabouts were unknown.

Ernesto Bonetty Burgos, speaker of the lower house, was reported as sheltered in the dwelling of a relative and former provisional president, J. B. Vicini Burgos. Arturo Pellerano Sarda, director of the newspaper Listin Diario, became a refugee in the Mexican legation.

The occupation of the city was accomplished without bloodshed and while banks and commercial houses put up their shutters and business came to a standstill, there was no sign of disorder until the invaders late in the day opened fire on the fortress. The few army officers left in the place decided to hold out in order that President Vasquez might have some background for the expected negotiations with General Urena.

If those negotiations result in a definite settlement of the situation, much credit will be given to John M. Cabot of Springfield, Mass., a member of the American embassy staff. Mr. Cabot, who is only 28 years old, made a fast automobile trip yesterday to Santiago as emissary of Minister Curtis. He came back with word that encouraged belief in the possibility of a peaceable settlement of the whole controversy.

The movement against President Vasquez was based upon his announcement of candidacy for reelection in May. His opponents said that he had violated a pledge not to run for another term and they have demanded the setting up of a provisional government with the idea of guaranteeing the fairness of the coming elections.

SEC'Y MELLON AN ADVOCATE OF BRANCH BANKING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—(AP)—Support of Secretary Mellon for branch banking in preference to chain or group banking was added today to that of J. W. Pole, comptroller of the currency, as the house banking committee continued its investigation of these phases of the nation's financial system.

In a letter to the committee, the treasury head based his preference for branch banking on the greater concentration of responsibility under that system; but warned "even branch banking should be limited to definite economic areas."

"As to what these economic areas should be, I am not prepared to state at this time without further study or thought," Mellon wrote. He requested that he be allowed to defer his appearance before the committee, "until I have had an opportunity to study the facts which I hope your committee will develop."

NUN AND EIGHT CHILDREN LOST THEIR LIVES BY FIRE

THE PAS, Man., Feb. 26—(AP)—Reports of a school house fire yesterday in which eight children and a nun lost their lives, was brought to The Pas today by a man who had driven 55 miles through the bitter cold from the isolated outpost of Cross Lake.

Sister Superior Margaret of Mary last her life in a vain attempt to lead to safety the children—girl pupils of the Cross Lake Indian school, none of whom was more than nine years old. Sister Jeanne Deschantel, trying to escape the flames, leaped from the second floor and suffered a fractured spine.

Plans were made immediately to send an airplane from The Pas to take medical supplies to the settlement and to bring the injured nun back to civilization.

It was believed the fire started on the third floor of the wing in which the Indian girls who perished were housed. Its cause was not definitely learned.

BLACK JACKS AND TEAR BOMBS USED ON 3,000 COMMUNISTS IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26.—(AP)— A milling screaming throng of 3,000 alleged communist sympathizers bent on marching on the Los Angeles city hall was subdued tonight by 300 police, plain clothes men and reserves.

Twenty-seven alleged ring leaders of the marching throng, which sang and shouted as it progressed, were arrested, after black jacks, fists and handcuffs had been called into play by the police.

Banners bearing slogans of "down with the police," and "forever the worker," were displayed by the throng. Handbills were circulated this afternoon requesting all unemployed and employed workers to rally at the plaza for the purpose of "bettering things."

The first riot started when Police Lieutenant William Haynes led a detail of officers into a group surrounding Carl Sklar, known as the official district organizer of the communist party here. Haynes told Sklar to dismount a soap box and the crowd to move on.

Immediately the shout went up to "Charge the police, rush 'em." After the police had been forced back Haynes ordered the officers to release the tear bombs. The bombs temporarily dispersed the knot.

The only serious injury was to a policeman mingling with the mob in plain clothes, who was struck down by a club in the hands of a fellow officer. He was D. M. Jones, "millionaire patrolman" who recently rejoined the police force after inheriting a fortune, because he became bored with civilian life.

POLICE BATTLED WITH RADICALS IN SEATTLE

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Eight men and three women were arrested here today in a battle between police and radicals who attempted to march on the city hall in a communist demonstration.

One of the women, Helen Hufa, 21, fought desperately when police attempted to disperse the mob. The other two, Sigrid Salo, 40, and G. Conalle, 34, were arrested for starting a second demonstration a block from where the first was broken up.

TARDEAU TO PRESENT NEW FRENCH MINISTRY TODAY

M. Tardeau Had Nominated M. Poincare For the Task—Poincare Declined On Account of Precarious Health, But Promised to Collaborate With Tardeau—It Is Reported That the New Ministry Will Include Representatives of All Moderate Elements In the Chamber of Deputies.

PARIS, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Andre Tardieu was hoisted back into the political saddle today by President Gaston Doumergue who followed the advice of Raymond Poincare and summoned him to reform the cabinet overthrown on Feb. 17.

The first announcement of progress was that Aristide Briand, veteran foreign minister, had agreed to retain his portfolio and collaborate in the selection of a government to replace the cabinet headed by Camille Chautemps which was denied a vote of confidence yesterday.

It was generally assumed that the Tardieu-Poincare conferences which were going on this evening would result in the selection of a list of ministers representing all moderate elements in the chamber of deputies, but with some representatives of the parties of the right.

Such a list, it was pointed out, would amount to the throwing down of a gauntlet to the parties of the left represented by Chautemps, Edouard Herriot and Edouard Deladier. Should the cabinet which M. Tardieu is trying to form win its necessary vote of confidence in the chamber, France would have a moderate conservative government. If it is overthrown, it was predicted tonight that President Doumergue would again have to look to the left.

M. Tardieu was entrusted with the task after he had first refused and nominated M. Poincare. But the latter told the president that his health still was too precarious from the effects of recent operations to permit him to assume the burdens of the premiership. He therefore urged that M. Tardieu should be called upon once more, promised to collaborate with him and on this basis was made the special messenger of the chief executive to notify the premier-elect of his designation.

It was acknowledged that a cabinet under Poincare would have been received with less resentment on the part of the left groups because "the savior of the franc" had nothing to do with the defeat of the Chautemps list. On the contrary, Tardieu was held responsible for yesterday's outcome and he can expect little or no help from the left groups despite the presence of Briand in his cabinet.

But the "man in the street" was pleased with the selection of Tardieu. The latter has captured the imagination of the populace, which has credited him with having raised the prestige of France both at the reparations conference at The Hague and the five-power naval conference in London. The popular idea now is that Tardieu has shown other countries that France is a nation of the first rank, strongly united and international in its importance and dignity.

M. Tardieu expects to submit his new ministry to President Doumergue before noon tomorrow. Aside from M. Briand there was no indication of its personnel but there were plenty of predictions that it would not include Henri Cheron, who, as minister of finance, unsuccessfully tried to fight the previous Tardieu administration's budget through the chamber of deputies while his chief was ill in bed with a cold contracted in London.

There were many expressions of hope that Poincare might accept a portfolio. These persisted in the face of his own statement that he could not undertake such work any more than the premiership for at least several months. In fact, the former government leader returned to his modest home just outside the Bois de Boulogne immediately after his conference with President Doumergue and it was there that Tardieu sought his help and advice in selecting the new ministry.

SEARCHING MOHAVE DESERT FOR MISSING MEN AND PLANE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26.—(AP)—An aerial search of the Mohave desert and its western wall of 10,000-foot high mountains, late today had failed to bring any trace of James Doles, pilot of a Western Air Express passenger plane, an[illegible]ing since Sunday.

Twenty airplanes all day crisscrossed the heavily timbered San Bernardino and San Gabriel mountain ranges, searching that dangerous section of Doles' route. They worked on first hand reports that the red, tri-motored plane had been seen and heard fighting low clouds and snow storms there Sunday afternoon.

The three men, Doles, Co-Pilot A. W. Beiber and Steward John W. Slaton have not been heard from since they left Kingman, Ariz., Sunday noon for Los Angeles.

17 LIVES REPORTED LOST IN SWAMPING OF SLOOP

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Seventeen lives were reported lost when the sloop Pretoria was swamped in heavy seas off Abaco Island, Bahamas, on February 17, according to passengers arriving here today from Nassau.

Three persons of the crew of 20 succeeded in reaching the island after the vessel sank, passengers reported.

The craft was trying to make Staniard creek on Abaco island to take refuge from high winds at the time it was swamped, passengers said.

The boat was owned by H. P. Treco, but no other details were available, passengers reported.

Leslie Albury, chief engineer of the Isle of June, which returned from Nassau today, said he believed all of those who went down with the Pretoria were Negroes. He said the Pretoria was a sponge boat, 35 feet long.

MADE FLIGHT FROM SANTIAGO, CUBA, TO CHILE

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Cuba, huge airplane of the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires Air line, arrived here at 2:45 p. m. today, completing the inaugural flight between Santiago, Chile and Miami. Seven and one-half days were required which is less than the time called for in the schedule.

The plane brought more than 1,000 pounds of mail from South American countries for the United States and European nations. Included in the mail was an official letter from President Washington Luiz of Brazil, to President Hoover, congratulating Mr. Hoover upon the opening of the air line.

STILL HOPE FOR SOUTHERN NEW ENGLAND RAILROAD

BOSTON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Rhode Island business men still hope to raise $8,000,000 to complete the long neglected Southern New England railroad, the Massachusetts joint legislative committee on railroads was told today. The occasion was a public hearing on the request of officials of the Providence, R. I., chamber of commerce and others, for an extension of the charter of the railroad corporation for two years. The partly completed line runs from Palmer, Mass., to Providence.

Who was back of the present financial arrangements to prolong the existence of the road was not revealed.

BLONDE BANDIT CONVICTED ON CHARGE OF ROBBERY

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Sally Joyce Richardson, "so-called" blonde bandit, was convicted on a charge of robbery, first degree, this afternoon by a supreme court jury, which took less than an hour to deliberate on her case. The girl was brought here from Montgomery, Ala., accused of participation in a series of hold-ups here.

RACKETEERS THREATENED ACTORS AND ACTRESSES

CHICAGO, Feb. 26—(AP)—Racketeers have renewed a "shake down" campaign backed by threats against well known actors and actresses appearing in Chicago, police said today.

The Actor's Equity league began a formal investigation of complaints made by several members who said they were presented with demands for money during Chicago engagements and threatened with dire penalties unless they paid. Equity said hundreds of dollars already had been paid by members, that others had been frightened out of town, and that many had been forced to seek police protection.

Since January 31, police said, Francine Larrimore has been playing the lead role in "Let Us Be Gay" with two detectives standing in either wing back stage guarding her from a possible attack by racketeers who sought to collect $1,000 from her.

Similar demands were made of Eddie Cantor, starring in "Whoopee."

Others registering complaints against the racketeers were said to be Groucho Marx, Phil Baker, Jack Peral and Joe Frisco.

COLD RAIN HAS REPLACED FALSE SUMMER WEATHER

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—Drizzling rain, accompanied by drops in temperature of 30 degrees or more, today drummed a funeral roll for the false summer weather of the past week in the North Atlantic and New England states.

Twenty-four hours after the record-breaking warmth of yesterday thermometers had dropped to levels as low as 10 degrees above zero, and further descent was predicted.

In New York city, where yesterday's 73 degrees was the hottest winter day ever recorded here, the mercury attained a maximum today of only 38 degrees at 11 a. m., and by 3 p. m. it had fallen to 34.

Snow had been expected today but there was only rain, and tonight the U. S. government forecaster said there was little likelihood of snow tomorrow, save in northern New England.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE HAS BEEN NOLLE PROSSED

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 26—(AP)—The trial of Dante Calini, a cook, on a charge of manslaughter for the fatal shooting of Patrolman Raymond Zoller, of West Haven, during a raid on the former's home, came to a dramatic end today, the second day of the trial.

Following a conference of counsel for both sides, Judge Alfred C. Baldwin announced to a crowded courtroom that the charges had been nolle prossed because the evidence against the man was not of a nature to warrant a conviction.

A grand jury refused to indict the cook on a charge of murder in the first degree and he was arrested charged with manslaughter.

State's Attorney Samuel E. Hoyt said that no lesser charge would now be brought against him.

"BIG FOUR" RESUMES SESSIONS OF THE NAVAL CONFERENCE

LONDON, Feb. 26—(AP)—The naval conference will continue, with a five power agreement holding the center of the picture. After a week's enforced adjournment, the conference was revived today by the "big four" of the delegations remaining in London. France will not be represented officially until her internal crisis is bridged.

The news that former Premier Tardieu had been asked to form another French ministry to succeed the short-lived Chautemps government cheered the American, British, Italian and Japanese delegations, but the decision to avoid another adjournment was taken this afternoon before the latest turn in French politics was known.

TESTIMONIAL DINNER IS GIVEN DR. W. P. S. KEATING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 26. — One hundred veterans and a few invited guests gathered about the banquet table at the Nathan Hale hotel tonight in a testimonial to Dr. (Major) W. P. S. Keating, who is to leave Willimantic later this week to take over new duties as chief physician and surgeon at Fitch's Soldiers' home in Noroton Heights. During the course of the evening, Dr. Keating was presented with three purses of gold, tokens of the esteem and love of the three veteran organizations of the city that had joined in giving the testimonial. These organizations were James J. Shea post, No. 13, American Legion; Gold Star post, No. 1274, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and A. C. Tyler post, United Spanish War Veterans.

Major Keating, deeply touched by these expressions of friendship and gratitude, made fitting response to the presentations. Following the repast, which consisted of an excellent turkey dinner, T. Frank Cunningham assumed the role of toastmaster. Toastmaster Cunningham reviewed the major incidents, especially the military career of Major Keating, in a biographical sketch. Major Keating, who first came to this city some 30 years ago to practice medicine, began his military career in 1912 as a member of the National guard. In 1917, he went to the Mexican border and the following year went overseas in the World war with the 26th division. He was in the drive at Chateau-Thierry and was gassed at Ypres, but returned to the service and subsequently was discharged, coming back home in July, 1919.

He organized the Legion post here some ten years ago and has been its commander ever since. Dr. Keating played a major part in the re-energizing of the post about a year ago, making it one of the most important in the state.

Mayor Walter R. King, who served on the town school committee with Dr. Keating for some ten years, spoke of the physician's important and untiring work among the school children, by whom he was greatly loved and respected. He extended the well wishes on behalf of the city.

State Commander James Haggerty of this city, representing the Grand Army of the Republic, highly complimented Dr. Keating on the unselfish work among veterans and all classes of people, which brought him his meritorious appointment to Noroton. Commander Haggerty took occasion to congratulate the efficiency of Raymond A. Gates, who was present at the banquet, as secretary of the veterans' commission.

Another fitting tribute was paid Major Keating by County Sheriff Charles A. Gates. Speaking on behalf of A. C. Tyler camp, Robert O. Snow told of the work of Dr. Keating for the benefit of the Spanish War Veterans, especially in his successful efforts toward securing pensions. Dr. Keating has been for years an honorary member of the camp and some time ago was installed as its surgeon. Adjutant Snow presented the honored guest with a token.

Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, pastor of the Congregational church, veteran of the World war and chaplain of the Legion post, also glorified the altruism of Major Keating. The token on behalf of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was presented by Adjutant Stanley Johnson of Gold Star post, No. 1274, and the tribute on behalf of the post was delivered by Commander James J. Lee. Commander Lee related interesting incidents of army life, showing the tremendous energy and grit of the "little major."

Rev. Paul Keating of South Norfolk told of the kindliness and generosity of his brother, the major, when the latter was yet in boyhood.

The final tribute and presentation of a token was made by Commander Abraham Sussman of James J. Shea post and successor to Commander Keating.

The dining hall was made festive with large vases of carnations, donated for the occasion by William A. Dawson. Music was furnished by the Peerless orchestra and Ralph H. Gibson led in several peppy group songs.

The committee on arrangements follows: American Legion, T. Frank Cunningham, general chairman, Lester H. Blish and Roy W. Downer; Veterans of Foreign Wars, Dr. Charles A. Jenkins, chairman, Charles A. Reynolds and Edward Donovan; Spanish War Veterans, Commander Thomas Marra, Fred N. Flagg and Jeremiah McCarthy.

BOARD OF RELIEF CLIPS $422,090 FROM GRAND LIST

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 26.—The revised grand list of the town of Windham as turned over to the town clerk today by the board of relief totals $22,344,510. The amount indicates that the board caused reductions and exemptions of $422,090, this figure representing the difference between the revised list and the list as completed by the revaluation work. Exemptions amounted to $161,078 for service men, widows, etc. The board of relief brought about increases on 33 properties for a total of $22,339. The grand list represents $20,164,969 in property owned by residents and $2,138,541 owned by non-residents. There were 65 property owners who filed sworn statements that their valuations of property were excessive.

The board of relief held 11 sessions and during that time considered the complaints and information requests of 3,800 property owners. The call for a special town meeting to levy a tax rate will be called soon. The rate must meet the budget, which is $402,700.

MANY NOVEL ARTICLES MADE BY BLIND PEOPLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 26.—A sale of articles made by the blind of the state, who will benefit from the proceeds, will be conducted Thursday at the H. C. Murray company Boston store. The articles, made in their homes by the older blind people of Connecticut are sponsored by the State Board of Education for the Blind and offers a market for the workmanship of these people who would otherwise be forced to spend idle and dreary hours in that terrible darkness that only a blind person really knows. The full price received for an article will be paid to the blind person who made it. The prices are moderate and the goods of fine workmanship.

Under the tuition of a home teacher who is herself blind, these people make such articles as baskets, serving trays, tea stands, aprons for children and adults, towels, wash cloths, ironing board covers, holders, braided and woven rag rugs and various sewed articles, as well as candy boxes of various sizes. Miss Dellett, blind home teacher, will be present at the sale which will be in charge of Miss Susan Todd, sales manager for the state board.

In further explanation of the status of the plans and specifications of the new grammar school building at Storrs, it was stated today by Selectman Daniel C. Flaherty, chairman of the special building committee, that the plans had not as yet been approved by the town school committee. Secretary W. F. Kirkpatrick of the school board stated that the plans had but recently been received by the board and that they were still in the stage of consideration, not having, as yet, been sufficiently studied to be taken up for approval or disapproval. Through a misunderstanding, it was said in an article Wednesday morning that the school committee had approved of the plans with the exception of some details, and a correction, to avoid a wrong impression, was requested by Building Chairman Flaherty.

FUNERAL

Daniel P. Killourey

Funeral services for Daniel P. Killourey were held this morning with a high mass of requiem in St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Michael J. Thompson was the celebrant and Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance presided at the organ. Mrs. Mary Mathieu was soloist. Burial was in the family plot of St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Thompson conducted a committal service. The bearers were: Arthur E. Welch, Frank E. Lynch, William Grady, John J. Sugrue, Thomas Flaherty and Alfred J. Lariviere. Arrangements were by Killourey Brothers.

The Windham County Poultry, Pigeon and Small Stock association will hold its sixth annual meeting Thursday evening, March 6, at the chamber of commerce hall with a turkey supper. The date of the meeting had previously been announced as March 13. During the meeting officers for the year will be elected and Robert Quait of New Jersey will speak on mineral feeding of poultry. Professor David E. Warner of Connecticut Agricultural college will also be a speaker. The matter of changing the name of the organization will be taken up, as will also plans to issue a poultry year book in the spring.

Another reduction of one cent on gasoline was announced today at the local office of the Standard Oil company, bringing the retail price to consumers to 17.4 a gallon. All other companies, except one, continued today to retail at the price of 18.4 cents a gallon adopted a few weeks ago.

Dr. Charles A. Jenkins, well known local physician, received official notice today through Major T. P. Bannigan of Hartford, of his appointment by Regional Examiner Dr. Maher as veterans' examiner for this district, succeeding to Dr. (Major) W. P. S. Keating, resigned. Dr. Jenkins at once returned notice of his acceptance of the appointment and assumed the duties today.

Assisted by District Gov. G. Loring Burwell of Waterbury, members of the Lions club are preparing to stage a concert by the Mendelssohn Male Chorus of Waterbury at the Windham high school auditorium Tuesday, April 1. The club committee on the concert consists of Rev. H. C. Beled, Harry Kaufman and John R. McCarthy. The club has voted a sum of money to purchase some of the reed work made by blind people in the state and to go on sale at the H. C. Murray company store Thursday. The articles purchased are to be presented to St. Joseph's hospital. John R. McCarthy is to represent the club at the meeting of the district directors at the Hotel Taft, New Haven, Thursday, March 6. District Governor Burwell is the director of the Mendelssohn chorus. The proceeds are to be devoted to assisting the blind persons of the city.

OBITUARY

Anna Bashiloff

Colchester people were saddened to learn of the death at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday morning in the Hartford hospital of Miss Anna Bashiloff, 13, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bashiloff, of Hall Hill avenue, Colchester. She had been under treatment at the hospital for nearly a year, her death being attributed to a complication of diseases. Miss Bashiloff attended the public schools and took an active interest in the junior social and church activities of the community. Her gentle, winning manner had won her a large circle of friends here and in surrounding towns who have extended sincere sympathy to the family. Besides her parents, she is survived by a younger brother, John.

Success comes to the man who does not fear failure.

DANIELSON

TELEPHONE CALL MAY BE CLUE TO MISSING GIRL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 6—Jennie Misiaszek, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Misiaszek, respected residents of Water street, has been missing from her home here since soon after the first of the year. Meanwhile an unremitting search for her has been underway, with apparently favorable clues leading nowhere in particular upon being followed up. Jennie is on parole from the state farm for women at Niantic, to which institution she was committed from the town court of Killingly on April 3, of last year. She was paroled after having spent a comparatively few weeks there.

Jennie has been given to periodically running away from home for two or three years past. Her present absence has been unusually lengthy. A curious angle of the case developed this morning when the girl's father received an anonymous telephone call requesting him to come to Thornton, R. I., from which Providence suburban community gay young blades of foreign extraction have been drifting into Danielson for several years past to attend dances and otherwise disport themselves. Jennie is known to have acquaintances among this group.

The telephone call from an unknown this morning included a request that Mr. Misiaszek bring $500 with him, a sum needed to secure Jennie's release from custody, it being represented she was being held by police for being allegedly involved in some supposed night club affair.

The whole proposition was so unusual and so suspicious that Mr. Misiaszek notified the state police, who have been endeavoring to trace Jennie's whereabouts for weeks. This afternoon Mr. Misiaszek and State Officer Royal V. Scranton started for Thornton to check up on a situation that appears to have interesting possibilities, possibly a racket involving graft.

Since she left here the girl is known to have spent several days in a New York city hospital after having collapsed, for some unknown reason, on the street. Chief John McFarland, who also has worked on the effort to trace the girl, says that she also has been in Bridgeport back in January, and that she wrote her parents from that city, but gave them no address.

FUNERAL

Henry V. Haswell

This afternoon at one o'clock at A. F. Wood's Funeral home, services for Henry V. Haswell of Elmville were conducted by Rev. Albert Abbott of the Methodist Episcopal church, of which Mr. Haswell was the oldest member, being in his 91st year when he died. Burial was in the North Burial ground at Providence. The bearers were two grandsons, James Watson and Frank Watson; Arnold Battey and Winthrop E. Short, representing Quinebaug lodge of Odd Fellows, Mr. Haswell being the oldest Odd Fellow in the town and much interested in the fraternity, and Sidney H. Perry and Harold Holehouse, representing the Methodist Episcopal church. Delegations from Quinebaug lodge of Odd Fellows and Dorcas Rebekah lodge attended the service. At the grave the ritualistic committal service of the Odd Fellows was conducted by Elmer L. Bliven, noble grand, and Herbert Lyman, chaplain.

Gets Pocketbook But Not $40

Mary Alice Monohan of Providence, most of her life a resident here, has had a pocketbook she lost while on a visit here last week returned to her by a man who picked it up near North Scituate, on the Providence road about 15 miles east of here. The finder was able to fix the ownership of the pocketbook by an automobile operator's license it contained. Miss Monohan is convinced she lost the pocketbook while in Danielson, for she did not get out of her car after leaving here. Incidentally, $40 that the pocketbook contained when she lost it was missing when it was returned to her.

Further protests came from citizens today about the riding by boys and girls on sidewalks throughout the borough. This practice has long been forbidden by a borough ordinance. Indulgence in the practice has become so widespread of late as to attract the attention of the police. Chief John McFarland is requesting that parents of children owning bicycles warn them not to ride on the sidewalks. The chief said that failure to heed the warnings will make it necessary to order the children into court.

The nameless, ownerless police dog that is to be killed for having been a killer—of rabbits and pheasants—had additional charges filed against him today. James Moran, who suffered the heaviest loss from the depredations of this animal, said today that within the past three weeks this dog has raided his rabbit yard nine different times, each time getting away with a fine Belgian hare. Being abandoned and homeless, it is believed the dog has been doing this latest raiding chiefly for food. His eyesight having failed so seriously, Mr. Moran has not been able to shoot the dog, though he has shot at him several times. On a recent day he did catch the dog inside the high fenced yard. Mr. Moran raked the police dog with a heavy club, whereupon he dropped the rabbit he had picked up and gracefully leaped over the fencing.

Victor Perreault, who has defaulted his bond of $2,000, under which he was at liberty while trial on charges of violations of the liquor law were pending against him, was long a resident of this town. Previous to opening the Green Lantern inn in Thompson, he was proprietor of a hotel at Oxford Mass., and prior to that had a place in Foster, R. I., on the state highway about six miles east of here. He was before the court for violations of the liquor laws in Rhode Island and also had experienced a raid by Massachusetts officers at his place in Oxford. Perreault left this territory last Friday, being quoted as saying he was going to New Bedford. Since that time nothing has been heard from him hereabouts. It was said today in legal circles that forfeiture of his bond, said to have been produced by a relative, will in no way relieve him from future prosecution for the charges now on file against him in the superior court for this county.

The final presentation of the Footlight Revue, by employes of Powdrell and Alexander again was successfully presented at the Orpheum theater this evening. This year's production was a success financially and artistically.

J. M. Mellor is to leave within a few days on a business trip that will take him as far south as North Carolina and, eventually, to cities in Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania. Mr. Mellor, who is eastern district sales manager of a great Ohio electrical concern, said today that his January business was the best in his experience.

Only Thursday and Friday remain for driving with the motor vehicle operators' licenses in present use. Driving on Saturday, March 1, without having a new license will be a violation of the motor vehicle law.

Unless some last minute arrangement is made for broadcasting the Sharkey-Scott fight from Miami Thursday night, John M. Dowe will arrange, he said today, to get at least a round to round description of the battle for fans who are interested.

Just before six o'clock last evening the fire department was called out on an alarm from Box 36 to overcome a fire that was destroying an automobile at the Pellett property on North Main street. A stream of water was turned on the burning machine, owned by Ray Pellett.

Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer has served attachments of many properties, stocks of goods and other things, but a service, somewhere in Windham county, on a lot of grave stones was a new angle in attachment work even for a man with his wide experience in such matters. It even tops the attachment of a couple of circus elephants that Sheriff Ayer handled down in Plainfield a few years ago.

State Bank Commissioner Lester E. Shippee, whose parental home is at East Killingly, will be the principal speaker Friday evening, in Hartford, at an assemblage of members of the Hartford Stock exchange and representatives of other financial and investment institutions.

Winthrop E. Short, for years connected with garages here, is to erect a garage on Westcott road. Construction is to be undertaken at once.

Every day this week state highway crews have been engaged along trunk lines in this section making repairs to road surfaces that have crumpled and partly broken down as the result of the unusually warm weather for this time of year. However, a compensation is that much of the frost, practically all of it in many places, is out of the ground.

Next Wednesday—Ash Wednesday—will mark the opening of the Lenten season. Easter will be unusually late this year, falling on Sunday, April 20.

Henry C. LaRocue of Nashua, N. H., is visiting with friends in Danielson for a few days.

Today an all day meeting of the Ladies' Benevolent society was held in the parlor at the Westfield Congregational church.

PUTNAM

TRUDEAU TO HAVE HEARING THIS MORNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 26—The undivided interest of people of two states will be focused on the outcome of a hearing to be given Leon Trudeau, Webster man charged with murder in the first degree of his wife, Mrs. Cecile Manski Trudeau, also of Webster, in the first district court in Webster Thursday morning. It was understood in police circles in Webster tonight that Trudeau was intent upon pleading insanity.

Police worked relentlessly today in an effort to pick up new threads in the case in order that they may prove conclusively, Trudeau's responsibility for committing the crime. They made a third search of the property surrounding the glass house in Wilsonville in this state this morning hunting vainly for the gun Mrs. Trudeau is alleged to have attempted to kill her husband with. After lengthy grilling today police failed to force the alleged murderer to amend his "confession" with a statement admitting his guilt, he steadfastly maintaining that his wife leaped from his car while it was travelling at a high rate of speed.

BOARD OF RELIEF CUTS $59,170 FROM GRAND LIST

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 26—A summary of the board of relief was filed with Town Clerk Henry N. Benoit this morning. Adjustments amounted to $59,170. The report showed that 18 complaints were considered during the sessions held last week. Of the total number of cases brought to the attention of the board 15 resulted in reductions of the assessment made by the board of assessors in the grand list. In three instances additions were made to the assessed valuation of the property. Frederick W. Seward, chairman of the board of relief filed the summary report.

FINES AND JAIL TERMS GIVEN LIQUOR VIOLATORS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 26—Justice was meted out in stiff doses in superior court in this city this afternoon to liquor law violators arrested two weeks ago in county wide liquor raids, when seven alleged liquor sellers were arraigned before Judge John Rufus Booth of New Haven, and changed pleas of not guilty previously entered in court to admission of their guilt. The first violator to take the "rap" was Wilfred Lapalme of Danielson who received fines amounting to $800 and a jail sentence of 40 days. Lapalme was arraigned in two cases charged with two counts in each case. The analysis of the hearing showed that the prisoner was fined $200 on two counts and ten days on two additional counts. The same disposition was made in the second case.

Omer Hubert was fined $50 on one count and 15 days in jail on another charge, execution of the sentence being suspended.

Ernest Paquin received a fine of $300 and sixty days in jail.

Adolph Lantagne an old offender was arraigned on several counts, when summed up netted him a fine of $1,200 and a sentence of sixty days in the county jail.

Mrs. Irene Lapalme, wife of Wilfred Lapalme was before Judge Booth and received a fine of $50 and a sentence of 10 days in jail, the execution of which was suspended for a period of one year.

Peter Lefevre was fined $400 when found guilty of violation of the law in several of its phases.

Mrs. Minnie Stevens paid two fines amounting to $100 when found guilty of two liquor law violations. She also received a jail sentence of thirty days, the execution of which was suspended.

Miss Marie Charron of Thompson, secretary to Victor Perreault, arrested with her employer in a raid conducted at their establishment known as the Green Lantern Inn was discharged with a suspended jail sentence of thirty days.

In the majority of cases prisoners received jail sentences together with the heavy fines. At the adjournment of court this afternoon Jail Walter S. Tripp of Brooklyn and Sheriff Charles A. Gates of Willimantic departed with the corps of violators shackled together. It was understood that a number of those who received fines are unable to meet the demands of the court and will work out their fines at the rate of $1.00 per day.

Victor Perreault, Thompson man who would have been arraigned for the third time in Connecticut courts today is now in parts unknown. This fact was made known yesterday in superior court when Perreault failed to appear for trial, the subsequent action of the court being the calling of his bond of $2,000 which he posted following his arrest in order to secure his release from jail.

Charles Chapman of Boston was the speaker at the weekly meeting and luncheon of the Putnam Inn. Mr. Chapman in his talk commended the local fire officials for their outstanding service records. He also lauded Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston and Supt. Alarms Charles T. Thayer, for their work in connection with the efficient manner in which the fire alarm system is maintained in Putnam. Mr. Chapman encouraged the installation of fire alarm boxes on all public buildings, especially schools in order to insure the safety of children whose lives are endangered the moment fire is discovered. He spoke largely of recent conflagrations which have swept eastern cities and which could have been easily avoided had the proper precautions been taken. At the close of his talk Mr. Chapman was given a rising vote of thanks by the members of the club and their guests, who were Charles Campbell of Lynn, Henry Dubuc of Danielson, Ralph E. Thurston, fire chief and Charles T. Thayer, superintendent of fire alarms.

L. M. Keith Critically Ill

A report from the Day Kimball hospital late this afternoon showed the condition of Luther M. Keith, state tree warden of the landscape bureau of the state highway department to be critical. Mr. Keith was taken to the hospital late yesterday afternoon when taken suddenly ill early in the afternoon. Mr. Keith is the father of County Commissioner Arthur C. Keith.

Michael Connors of Main street is a patient at the R. I. hospital in Providence where he was committed after his hurried discharge from St. Joseph's hospital there Sunday morning when fire was raging through the structure, where he was confined. Mr. Connor entered the institution on the day before the fire. His sudden removal, together with scores of other patients was done so carefully and efficiently by the rescue squads that he suffered no ill effects.

In superior court in this city this city this morning a jury returned a verdict, after an hour's deliberation for Rene St. Saviour of this city, defendant in a $10,000 damage suit brought against him by Peter Stahecki of Goodyear. The case went to trial for the second time yesterday at the opening of the civil session of court. The plaintiff was seeking to recover damages incurred when Freddy Stahecki, infant son of the plaintiff, was accidentally killed by an automobile operated by the Putnam man. The charge to the jury by Judge Booth covered every detail of the case shown in the testimony and required more than an hour's time for delivery. In the previous trial last fall the jury failed to reach an agreement for either side.

If liquor traffic over the Putnam-Hartford highway between New York and Boston is decreasing, much of the credit is due State Officer John T. Murphy, debonair highway patrolman stationed at the Danielson barracks. In the past six months Officer Murphy has relieved several rum transports of valuable cargoes of choice liquors. In two instances Officer Murphy has brought rum runners to a stop after wild chases over the roads. The most recent catch of the trooper was that made yesterday afternoon in the town of Pomfret. Returning to Putnam in company with Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart, Officer Murphy encountered a high-powered automobile travelling at a high rate of speed at Whipple's corner in Pomfret Centre. The driver of the liquor van, seeing the officers, picked up speed and disappeared in the direction of Abington. The officers sensing that all was not well changed their course and overtook the transport near the village of Abington. A search of the car revealed the cache of contraband cleverly concealed beneath the seat. The driver of the car was identified as a captain of a vessel at dock in the port of Boston.

He and companion were placed under arrest and arraigned in town court in Pomfret. An account of the hearing appeared in Wednesday's Bulletin. While Officer Murphy is regarded by bootleggers and other law violators as a menace to their operations, he is a popular member of the personnel at the Danielson barracks, being of a courteous and affable disposition when in contact with motorists, and possessing an excellent service record as an officer.

John M. Dean of Mechanic street left this morning for New York city on a business trip.

The funeral of George LaChance, former Putnam man killed in a collision Saturday evening in Hartford was held this morning at St. Mary's church at nine o'clock with a solemn high mass of requiem celebrated by Rev. U. O. Bellerose assisted by Rev. J. D. Casey deacon and Rev. Ernest J. Boileau sub-deacon. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery with interment services in charge of Rev. Father Bellerose.

Many Putnam textile workers who have been thrown out of work from mills in this city because of industrial depression have found employment at the Bowditch mills in Skeeterville, R. I.

JEWETT CITY

S. R. TRUESDALE'S SON TO RECEIVE M. M. DEGREE

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 26.— Samuel R. Truesdale, overseer of carding at the Fisk Rubber company's plant, will be in Annandale-on-Hudson, N. Y., this (Thursday) evening, where his son, Carl, is to receive the degree of Master Mason in the local lodge. Mr. Truesdale, a Mason of high degree, with membership in Providence bodies has been accorded the opportunity of officially raising his son to this sublime degree. The younger man is a theological student at St. Stephen's college, eventually to receive holy orders. The father, recently in the Episcopal church in Providence, experienced the rare enjoyment of sitting among the morning worshippers and listening to the sermon delivered by his son.

State Attorney To Speak

At Pachaug Community club meeting this (Thursday) evening State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown will be the speaker. William Kendall will show lantern slides and give a descriptive talk in connection with his California trip. Musical numbers will add to this more than usually attractive program. These instructive meeting are open to the public.

A True Prognosticator

Judging from predictions he made Monday and Tuesday, Albert A. Rist of Lisbon is possessed of inside dope on the weather. Monday, with the mercury at 70, fine, clear and warm, he allowed that we were about due for a thunder shower. The next day at 6 p. m. there came a smart shower with a flash of lightning every few minutes. During that shower, Mr. Rist predicted it would snow tomorrow. Sure enough, beginning at 3 p. m. Wednesday, snow and hail fell all through this section for several hours. Mr. Rist is sure qualified.

Ed Tarbox, during one of the recent warm days, came upon a big black beetle making his way across the state road in Lisbon. Mr. Tarbox brought the bug over to the borough, where it was found that the insect possessed none of the characteristics of the early June bug. It was jet black, an inch and a quarter in length, with no evidence of wings.

At Pachaug grange benefit whist 9 tables were in play, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Holmes. The prizes were won by Mrs. W. B. Montgomery, Mrs. Thomas Brown and Mrs. Frank Morgan, Herbert Salisbury, Frank Morgan and John Medick. Mrs. Herbert Salisbury received the door award. The next games will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Chesbro.

A recent East Boston sailer, who lives near the great Boston airport, said that people there had got so accustomed to the sky full of planes that they seldom looked up when a motor roared overhead. The borough residents now-a-days, when an automobile wreck is reported at the Tadpole S curve bridge, hardly think of being excited. The few that haven't lost count, simply remark, "Check and double check."

NO. GROSVENORDALE

The "Boost Thompson" programs were started Tuesday in Tourtellotte Memorial high school. Ruth Loges, a senior, read a paper on the early days of Thompson when the town was inhabited by Red Men. Mr. Shurtleff, teacher of history and mathematics, drew a map of Windham county and explained the different tribes which inhabited the different sections of the county.

Wednesday morning Annie Leo read a paragraph on Indians and their difficulties in settling boundary lines. Eurania Perkins and Geraldine Covell also read papers on the customs and early settlers in Windham county. The town of Thompson and the Killingly district always had difficulties so they were divided and two towns were formed. These programs will be continued during the next two weeks, to give the pupils a thorough knowledge of their home town.

At the [illegible] Beulah Bnch read the scripture and Elsa Anderson was pianist.

INADEQUATE TRANSPORTATION SERVICE

There is much to commend in the action of the directors of the Norwich chamber of commerce. The decision that the train and bus service facilities are inadequate is in keeping with sentiment that has been previously expressed. It gives recognition to the fact that the time is at hand when Norwich needs to do something on its own account for the prevention of the city from being relegated to the backwoods so far as transportation service is concerned.

Here is a railroad that holds a franchise for the purpose of meeting public requirements. It is a system that has been calling attention to the manner in which it has been forging ahead, strengthening its financial position, increasing its dividends and bettering its service, and yet while all this is going on it has been telling Norwich that for the exception of a couple of expresses that pass in the night it can have no more passenger service and without anything more than a notice to that effect it has proceeded to foist upon the city a bus and truck service for the handling of passengers, mail and express, but the complete elimination of baggage facilities, barring grips.

New Haven service so far as the Norwich & Worcester branch is concerned has gone backward. Service has been simply thrown to one side and those who have depended upon the railroad are completely ignored.

Norwich is not the only city or community along the line which has suffered from this change. It is not the only one that resents it. It had been hoped that before this there would have been held a regional conference for the purpose of deciding upon joint action. But it is gratifying that the Norwich chamber of commerce is determined to go ahead with the matter on its own responsibility with the determination to get the needed relief, if such a thing is possible.

All power to it, and it should get all the support that those in Norwich and vicinity who are adversely affected by the degenerated service can give. If the New Haven is as prosperous as it claims and as desirous of giving the best service to those along its lines Norwich is in a mood to be shown.

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT

One more thing for which the Norwich chamber of commerce deserves a good word, in the belief that it will operate to the decided benefit of the city, is the decision of the directors to give more attention to industrial development.

Norwich has had urged upon it the importance of an industrial building. It is a good idea and it is believed that it would be of great advantage in securing industrial growth. But that isn't all that is needed.

There are at the present time two industrial plants that are or might as well be empty. Some others are operating under short time, but the two in mind will never be utilized again unless some new industry is secured to occupy them. One of them is a new plant. The other is not new but has a large floor space. The fact that this has been closed for many months has meant a decided reduction in the weekly payroll in this city.

This is not the only city where industries have gone out of business or moved elsewhere for good and sufficient reasons. Such losses are felt for the time being, but not much time is lost in getting other manufacturing concerns to occupy them. New Haven has recently lost a big rubber company. The plant hasn't been taken by another company as large but it has been acquired and is to be operated as an industrial building for the encouragement of new concerns and the development of others.

Such a move, it would seem, could be adopted in the case of the larger of the two idle plants here. It will probably never be used again for the purpose for which it was constructed, but that doesn't mean that it ought to be allowed to remain in idleness. We need an industrial building, but we already have inducements which can be offered in that direction. If two or three small industries could be located in that idle plant it would be a helpful contribution to the desired industrial development. In the meantime, the effort to get new industries for the other available plants should go on apace. It would be a fine thing if this could be made a year-around effort and not just a spurt when an empty plant is in need of a tenant.

HIGHWAY SLAUGHTER

Much stress was placed upon the frightful toll that was being exacted in human life by the motor vehicle during the past year. Special efforts were made to increase the safety by having the motorist assume his full responsibilities and having the pedestrian give greater thought to his own protection.

In addition to that, authorities carefully checked up on the condition of the motor vehicles for the purpose of overcoming the defective equipment and inspections were frequent for the purpose of disclosing how carefully the laws were being observed.

It would seem that the greatest efforts were made in New England if it is possible to judge by the results obtained on paper, for it is shown that there was an increase in fatalities to the extent of only 4.7 per cent over the previous year. It is to the credit of Connecticut that there was a gain of only two-tenths of 1 per cent, or one more than the total for the previous year. Rhode Island was able to show an 11 per cent decrease but New Hampshire went ahead for a gain of 49 per cent and New England showed a total fatality list of approximately 1,700.

But while this death record was being created, the largest in history, the auto fatalities in the country were mounting to that deplorable total of 31,000, or a gain of more than 11 per cent over the previous year.

The need of intensifying the effort for greater safety in the highway is disclosed by that great waste of human life. It is waste, for it is needless for the greater part. Rhode Island had shown that it is possible to reduce the number of fatalities even when traffic has increased and machines become more numerous. Connecticut came near getting under the previous year's record but the situation is one which will continue to grow worse, with more fatalities each year, until there is the proper effort made by all users of the highway to give protection to the other fellow, as well as self.

There is no need for this great highway slaughter. How long are the people of the United States individually going to be satisfied to see human life wiped out with no greater effort to turn the tide in the other direction?

DRIVERS AND CROSSINGS

If a person deliberately steps in front of an automobile and is killed because of his own deliberate carelessness, there is no demand that there should be a subway constructed at that point in the highway so that others who are prepared to cross the street sensibly will not be struck and killed.

If the driver of an automobile rushes his machine forward in an effort to beat a train to a crossing and in so doing causes the death of himself and those with him and by derailing the train piles up a death list of 11 and and accident list of 50, there is a call for the elimination of the crossing.

It must be recognized that the real menace at that time, at that particular crossing, the one in Wisconsin where the needless accident occurred a few days ago, was removed when the reckless driver was killed. That doesn't mean that others ought to be subjected to death because of such drivers but it is one of those instances which so aptly illustrate the fact that it is the careless driver rather than the railroad crossing which is to blame for so many of the fatalities at such points, and the elimination of crossings where there is a chance to observe the railroad isn't going to reduce the number of dangerous drivers. They will continue to be a menace in some other way, or at some other point, to themselves and others with whom they come in contact.

There are the crossings which need to be removed, for they are dangerous for even the careful driver, but grade crossing accidents do not call for the wholesale removal of open crossings so much as they do for the elimination of the reckless driver, who is constantly adding to the peril of all highways.

JAPAN'S EAGERNESS

On various occasions since the Washington conference, Japan has indicated its recognition of the value of naval limitation. It has felt the need of cutting down the huge expenditures that would otherwise be required and it has experienced the benefits as the result of that pact.

Under the circumstances it is not surprising that it is anxious to participate in a successful outcome of the London conference and to be ready to participate in a three-power agreement if by any chance it was impossible for the five countries to come to an understanding.

The situation in behalf of a further naval agreement has been strengthened in Japan by the recent election there. The delegation was committed to a definite demand upon the conference by the former government. The election changed that control, with the result that Japan will, in all probability, be a stronger advocate of some agreement than it might otherwise have been.

While the desire is for an understanding that will include all the countries, and there is no reason as yet to think that one will not be reached, the attitude of Japan is one that should have much influence. It should be only a matter of a few days before duly accredited French representatives will be able to resume their work in the conference, for the demonstration in the French chamber of deputies indicates that a different attitude will be manifested toward the government which is in the making. Then the French position will come in for further consideration, but the attitude of Japan can hardly be regarded henceforth as bolstering the French demands. But despite the change displayed by Japan there should be no relaxation of the effort to include all those in the conference in any agreement that results at London.

"I have," stated the distractingly pretty girl, who was visiting here from the east, "the most frightfully poor opinion of your town!"

"Who's been doing what?" demanded the extremely interested young man who was accustomed to hearing his birthplace slandered, yet who instantly sprang to its defense. "Why, we have—"

"I know all about that," she interrupted him, shaking her head. "Whatever you have is always bigger and better—but just now I am referring to chivalry. This afternoon all the chivalry extant on your Michigan boulevard could have been gathered up in a coffee spoon and then it would have rattled around. I was hurrying back to Aunt Henrietta's in her car which I was driving after leaving her at a club meeting. She sent Tootsie with me and if she hadn't it never would have happened."

"Things shouldn't happen to you," the interested young man told her tenderly. "You shouldn't try going around a strange city all alone. Any time you are deserted that way just call me up and I'll come right—"

"I traveled alone once in Algeria," the pretty girl pointed out. "So Chicago does not daunt me. Just as I stopped with the lights at Jackson boulevard the car back of me banged into me. It sounded as if all the back of the car had been made into mincemeat. So I hopped out to see what damage had been done.

"The woman who did it told me haughtily that it was all my fault—she was the sort who would blame Columbus for discovering America if her currant jelly refused to jell. Strangely enough my car was unharmed in major spots, so after freezing her I should have climbed right back in, only you see, when I hopped out, so did Tootsie. He stood right there in the traffic and just then the lights changed and about ten thousand horns hooted at me to go on. So I dived at Tootsie."

"My word!" breathed the horror-stricken young man. "You might have been killed. If I had been there—"

"There were plenty of others," she told him reminiscently and bitterly. "Tootsie thought it was a game and barked and waggled away. By this time the horns were in hysterics. Setting my teeth I dived again, touched the mere fluff on the end of his tail—and fell flat on my face on the pavement. When I struggled up, both knees were gone in my new silk hosiery, there was oil on my left cheek, my elbows were skinned and Tootsie was one limousine and a roadster off, grinning at me. He was having a fine time.

"Clustered about on the sidewalks were hundreds of laughing men. Filling all the office windows was the rest of the male population, except those in the cars that were honking, yelling and beseeching me to move on. Bearing down on me from the left was most of the police force of Chicago and platooning on the right came the entire force of mounted police, the street commissioners, the mayor and his cabinet and the entire city council. At least that is how it looked to me. And from them all, do you think a single stepped out to help me catch that idiot dog?"

"If I had been there," the young man assured her with great earnestness, "it never would have hap—"

"I know exactly how Joan of Arc felt just before they lit the kindling," the pretty girl informed him. "And when you feel that way you get sort of icy calm and nothing matters. So I chased that dog till I got him by the whiskers and yanked him back to the car and everybody shouted and approved, and Tootsie waggled and barked through the rear windows just as though he were a movie star taking his applause.

"By this time traffic was jammed for blocks and traffic officers were getting writer's cramp filling out tickets for me, accusing me of highway robbery, premediated murder, bank rifling and kidnaping. You can't imagine how you lose your self-possession trying to walk in a dignified manner before utter strangers with both knees gone out of your stockins. And they cost $3.95."

"Nobody to help you!" cried the young man in real anguish. "Now, if I only had been been there—"

"It doesn't matter," the pretty girl assured him absently. "There was one young man right at the edge of the walk with the most marvellous expression in his eyes, and I am quite sure he was coming to my aid just as I caught Tootsie."

"There would be," said the interested and baffled young man with intense bitterness. "But I'm telling you right now that without doubt he had a mean disposition and—and wore a celluloid collar!"—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 — That poetically celebrated Roman hero, Horatius, single-handed holder of bridge, had very little on John Cochran of St. Louis except this: Horatius fought one battle, and won. Cochran has fought bridge battle by the dozen —and lost.

It took almost the entire membership of the house, however, to roll him under each time. And after each defeat he has bobbed up serenely on the same old anti-toll bridge line. No ambitious promoter of toll bridge projects anywhere in the United States dare count his financial chickens as hatched until Mr. Cochran has been disposed of.

This experienced legislator from the show-me state discloses so much gladiatorial ability in the house arena that extremes of parliamentary procedure are necessary to keep him from holding single-handed not one, but dozens of bridges simultaneously.

Victory in Defeat

His "I object" flashes out like the two-edged sword of the celebrated Horatius.

To get him, the house has to forego its virtuous abandonment of the one-time practice of lumping private bridge bills into an "omnibus" measure. That compels a suspension of the rules which requires a two-thirds vote.

On the day the 70th congress resorted to this strong-arm legislative method against Cochran, he managed to get some 27 other dissenters to line up with him. He was beaten 260 to 28.

Cochran himself viewed it as a victory. His showing had improved since the last test. Maybe some day he'll muster the necessary one-third vote to puncture the steamroller.

Knows Congress

"I realize this bill will pass," Cochran told the house just before the vote. "Why, it contains a project sponsored by the chairman of the great ways and means committee, the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. Hawley), and reading down you find a bill introduced by the minority leader, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Garner). With a republican and democratic leader both having projects in this omnibus bill, the result is easily foretold."

Cochran's is a novel legislative record. He has sat in the house only during three terms of congress, taking the seat vacated when Harry Hawes was transferred to the senate. Before that, however, he had been successively secretary to Representatives Igoe and Hawes, who held down the eleventh Missouri between between them for 14 years, and also served of that state in the same capacity. the late Senator "Gumshoe Bill" Stone Whatever there is to know about either end of congress, Jack Cochran knows it.

YOUR HEALTH

Worth While Though "Gratis"

By Miss Grace Abbott, Children's Bureau, Washington, D. C.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Baby care is the most important task any woman ever undertakes, and she should apply to it the same diligence, intelligence, and sustained effort that she would give the most exacting profession. Unfortunately, not all mothers are equipped to do this.

There are certain simple rules for feeding, sleep, out-of-door life, and general care, formulated on the basis of the experience of many years, which can be followed successfully by parents to supplement the regular visits to the family physician, which are of first importance in the proper care of infants. These rules are embodied in the bulletin "Infant Care," the original edition of which was prepared by the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor in 1914, and which has increased in popularity from year to year until now it has become the most widely distributed bulletin published by the United States government. During the past year the bulletin was entirely rewritten and brought up to date. This revision is the work of Dr. Martha M. Eliot, director of the child-hygiene division of the Children's Bureau, and of the Bureau's advisory committee of pediatricians.

"Infant Care" is not intended to take the place of regular visits to the family doctor, who should be the mother's guide, but the booklet is intended to help her to carry out his orders intelligently. Sometimes a young mother has so much advice from well-meaning friends that she is bewildered, and the baby should not be experimented upon. Especially is this true in the matter of feeding. No single method of feeding can possibly meet the needs of all infants. Artificial feeding should be planned only with the advice of a doctor. His advice is especially important during and after the weaning period. "Infant Care" lays stress not only on the physical care of the baby, his food, sleep, exercise, sunbaths, clothes, and common disorders, but also on habit training. The baby has no habits at birth, but the first year of his life is probably the most important because it is during this period that he learns whether crying will get his mother to pick him up whenever he wishes, or whether crying is useless as a means of getting her attention. He should learn that hunger will be satisfied only so often, that when he is put in bed he must go to sleep.

How fast does a baby grow, in weight, in height, in "wisdom and understanding?" How can we keep him well? What should we feed him? How should we clothe him? How can we prevent or cure illness or bad habits? What danger signals should we watch for? These are some of the questions that parents ask and that "Infant Care" attempts to answer. Single copies of the bulletin will be sent free on request by the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

An English Scheme

Mr. Editor: After reading a short story in The Bulletin, either Saturday or Monday, I thought the accompanying note would be of interest to most of the workers and may possibly find the heart of some good employer.

R. A. H.

Norwich, R. D. 3, Feb. 26, 1930.

The clipping from an English paper follows:

The Society of Friends arranged a series of meetings at Crawshawbooth (Lancashire, England) during last week end at which the speaker was Mrs. Helen Byles Ford of Bentham, Yorkshire. On the Saturday evening she took as her subject "Profit Sharing and Co-Partnership—a Practical Experiment."

In her lecture she described a most adventurous experiment which had been made at her husband's works at Bentham. The lecture was followed with the keenest interest, as most of the audience were familiar with the scheme which has been outlined by John Hart of Cloughfold. The scheme which Mrs. Ford described, and which up to the present has proved highly successful, is very similar. The works in question are engaged in the industry of silk-spinning and whilst the promoters of the scheme do not claim it to be of necessity economically sound, yet its prosperity would suggest that it might with advantage be applied to many other industries.

The scheme arose out of the conviction in the minds of the owners of the mill that although they did not avail themselves of the opportunity to make huge profits out of the war, yet they in common with other mill owners were much better off financially as the result of the boom in trade. After much serious consideration they formulated a scheme under which they offered to the 180 workers in the industry a bonus on wages. The scheme has grown step by step; for instance the working hours were voluntarily reduced in 1919, two years after the inception of the scheme, from 55 per week to 44; although the hours were reduced by 20 per cent the loss in production was only 7 per cent. This was attributed to the spirit of good will and trust which was engendered. There was a corresponding lessening of the waste in material.

Besides the bonus in wages, the workers have open access to balance sheets and with the appointment of the manager as one of the directors are able to appoint three directors out of a total of five.

The interest on capital is limited to 8 per cent and instead of bonus being payable on share capital it is paid on interest value. The largest amount paid in bonus on wages is 10 per cent so far.

Under the scheme of co-partnership 60 workers out of 180 have availed themselves of the opportunity to hold shares. One of the present directors happens to be the president of the workers' trade union. A benefit fund forms part of the scheme and this permits the payment of sickness benefit of a substantial nature over and above health insurance. Where necessary the workers have the right to go for recuperation to a convalescent home at Southport. A thrift fund, partly contributory, enables a pension to be paid after 40 years service at the age of 65 years. There are also widows' pensions. There is full pay for holidays. The wages average about 10 per cent above trade union rates.

The scheme has not reached finality, as it is the wish of the Ford family that in time the workers should have full control of the industry. Work is limited to five days, Saturday being a full holiday.

There was a most interesting discussion after the lecture and the hope was expressed that the Bentham experiment would be given a trial nearer home.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 22

Provision is made in the revenue act which allows a taxpayer who sustains a net loss in a trade or business regularly carried on by him to deduct the amount of such net loss when computing his net income for the succeeding taxable year, and if such loss is in excess of the net income for that year, the excess may be carried over and deducted in computing the net income for the next succeeding taxable year.

When computing a net loss under this provision of the act there may be included losses from the sale of real estate, machinery, and other capital assets used in the trade or business, but does not include losses arising from transactions not connected with the business except to the extent of the amount of gross income derived from such outside transactions. That is, if an individual had a taxable income from outside sources of $2,000, and sustained a net loss from his trade or business of $8,000, and also allowable deductions outside of his business of $4,000, for 1928, he would be allowed to carry over $2,000 as a deduction in computing his net income for 1929.

Stories That Recall Others

Not Long Now

Betty had long curls which were a source of great displeasure, but appeals to her mother were of no avail. Finally her mother consented to have them cut off, and she took the joyful Betty to the barber shop.

Sitting in the chair, Betty suddenly turned and said: "Well, mother, it won't be long now."

How He Did It

Bobbie, age six, had expressed his desire to ride a horse. Recently one of Bobbie's friends placed Bobbie on his horse in front of him. The child, returning home after his ride, told his mother all about it.

"But," she inquired, "how did you stick on?"

"Oh, that was easy," he boasted. "I held on to the horse's feathers."

"Say, Mom, was Baby sent down from heaven?"

"Yes, Son."

"I guess they like to have things quiet up there, huh, Mom!"—Service Magazine.

Try this on your Telephone

First→

Make a few calls to people in out-of-town places—calls for social purposes, or for business reasons. Notice how quickly each connection is made and how clearly you can hear—and be heard. Make a note of how much information you can pack into these conversations.

Then—

Check the cost of the calls in money—in time saved—in satisfaction in being able to transact business or social matters instantly—in convenience—in the saving of energy that would be necessary to make the same visits in person.

Make this test—

And you will realize how great a boon out-of-town telephone service can be to you in your every-day affairs.

Out-of-Town Telephone Rates are Low

Here are a few day station-to-station rates to frequently called points.

From Norwich to

Bridgeport	$.45	Albany, N. Y.	$.70
Derby	.45	Boston, Mass.	.50
Hartford	.30	Garden City, L. I.	.90
New Britain	.35	Newark, N. J.	.75

What should be added to this recipe for Pumpkin Pie?

Mash fine 2 cups cooked pumpkin. Add 1½ cups milk. Beat 3 eggs and to them add a pinch of salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon nutmeg. Stir this into pumpkin mixture and then fill baked pie-crust with it. Bake until custard has set and crust is done.

Now that you've read it—what's missing? Sugar! And if you include one-half cup with the beaten eggs you can proceed to make a fine pumpkin pie.

Through forgetfulness or by heeding some ill-advised person, sugar is often left out of the diet. Desserts are banished. Harsh diets are adhered to unhappily. The dining-table no longer invites you to enjoy food.

Such an attitude toward sugar is neither necessary nor in keeping with modern dietetic and medical practice. Use sugar to flavor familiar foods and to make nourishing desserts. Sugar makes eating a joy and when this occurs the system is likely to get all the food values it needs. The Sugar Institute.

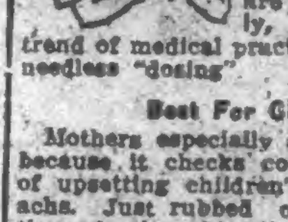
More and More Colds Treated Externally

Demand for Vicks, Pioneer of "No Dosing" Method, Grows at Amazing Rate



A generation ago, when Vicks VapoRub was originated, the idea of treating colds without "dosing" was almost unheard of. Today, more and more colds are treated externally, and the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing".

Best For Children

Mothers especially appreciate Vicks, because it checks colds without risk of upsetting children's delicate stomachs. Just rubbed on, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, "drawing out" tightness and soreness; and, at the same time, it gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficult breathing.

Equally Good for Adults

Year after year the demand for Vicks has grown until it is now the family standby for colds in more than 60 countries. Used largely at first for children's colds, actual use in millions of homes has proved it equally effective for adults.

New "26" Million!

To keep pace with this ever-growing demand, the famous Vicks slogan —"17 Million Jars Used Yearly", was raised to "21 Million" a short time ago. This figure, too, has been outgrown, as there are now "over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly"—a jar for every family in the United States.

Thousands With Poor, Weak Stomachs Now Taking Pepsin In New Liquid Form

PHARMACISTS PRAISE IT

Stops Acute Kind in Few Minutes—What a Blessing.

Here's a delightful elixir with plenty of real pepsin, some Menthol and just enough of several other stomach correctives to make it capable of putting almost any weak, rundown, abused stomach in first class shape—and it tastes like the most palatable nectar.

The men who created this supremely good formula know their business—they don't believe in nasty tasting medicine and the people are with them for Dare's Mentha Pepsin —that's the name—is having a tremendous sale all over the country. They have passed along the word to every druggist in the country that if Dare's Mentha Pepsin doesn't bring serene comfort to any wornout, rundown, sickly, gassy stomach that the owner of that most important internal organ can have his or her money back.

Stubborn indigestion of years standing is hard to get rid of, but Dare's Mentha Pepsin will do it; one enthusiastic druggist asserts.—It's real pepsin in liquid form—the right way to take pepsin. Any druggist always has a big supply on hand.

REPRESENTATIVE KUNZ SAYS $400 WAS A LOAN, NOT A BRIBE

CHICAGO, Feb. 26—(AP)—Representative Stanley Kunz on trial with his son Stanley, Jr., on charges of operating a confidence game, today said that the $400 he received from Walter Trochowski was a loan and not a bribe to enlist his aid in securing a police job.

He told of Trochowski being at the Kunz home repairing the furnace and of offering to loan him $400 to meet a board bill. He said the money later was returned. Sam Palmer, an employe of Kunz, told a similar story.

The state charges Kunz and his son accepted the money in exchange for the congressman's purported influence with the civil service commission.

BEULAH WHITELEY ENTERS ALBANY COURTESY CONTEST

Miss Beulah Whiteley, daughter of Nathan Whiteley, of Yantic, and head bookkeeper at the DeWitt Clinton hotel, Albany, N. Y., is among those who have entered the "courtesy contest" being held by The Times-Union of Albany. With regard to Miss Whiteley the Albany newspaper says:

"Another nominee in The Times-Union Most Courteous Albanian contest is Miss Beulah Whiteley, head bookkeeper at the DeWitt-Clinton hotel. Here's what she has to say:

"Civility is an ancient virtue—old as the world itself—which in this generation has become sadly obscured by disuse. It is such a rara avis, that when encountered on the highway, introductions are in order.

"It is about as unknown as the dodo bird—not because people are actually lacking in politeness, as its is the fault of life's rush and hurly-burly. Everybody wants to reach tomorrow before today is over; so we prod this man, push that, step on the toes of the next—all in our frantic efforts to arrive first.

"It takes no more time to 'remember your manners' as our grandparents say, than it does to give a harmless fellow traveler a Jack Dempsey in the ribs. Furthermore, it consumes no more strength to coo like a whole aviary of doves, than it does to roar like an enraged lion.

"If we could see ourselves as others see us, we might make some difference; the end seat hog would probably feel ashamed of his propensitities, and the bargain hunters among women, who excel in rudeness, would not look attractive in the mirrors of reality, when wrestling for a ninety-nine cent hat.

"The world does move; some folks are desirous of hitting up an eight cylinder gait, stepping on the gas for more speed. Nobody wants to take other people's dust, to be sure, but why not give others a chance to park their cars and enjoy luncheon and the scenery en route, nevertheless. Pedestrians are likewise entitled to sidewalks. There's no better place to practice civility then when traveling, be it by train, trolley or automobile."

FUNERALS

Mrs. Lyman Nye

With relatives and friends attending the funeral of Mrs. Lyman Nye was held at the Preston City Congregational church at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. John Smith, pastor, who also read the committal service at the grave in Preston City cemetery, friends acting as bearers. Undertakers Church and Allen were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Nye is survived by two sisters, Mary Graves of the Sheltering Arms and a sister living in Providence; also a niece.

Samuel Cardinal

At 8:30 o'clock Wednesday morning the funeral of Samuel Cardinal of Sterling, who died here Monday, was held at the parlors of Undertakers Cummings and Ring, Main street, followed by requiem mass in St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. John J. Reilly was celebrant of the mass and the music was in charge of Henry J. LaFontaine, the organist, who played Chopin's Funeral March at the processional. At the offertory, Mr. LaFontaine and Roderick F. Sullivan sang De Profundis as a duet and as a waiting hymn Mr. Sullivan rendered Lead Kindly Light. At the recessional Abide With Me was played.

Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. Fr. Reilly. The bearers were William Cardinal of Sterling, William Stone of Providence, Charles Stone of Valley Falls, R. I., Augustus Cardinal of Woonsocket, R. I., and Samuel and Fred Guilbeault of Norwich. There was a large gathering of mourners at the funeral and many beautiful floral tributes.

WEDDING

Davies—Patten

Without the slightest forewarning, except among his official household, Bishop Thomas F. Davies, head of the Western Massachusetts Episcopal diocese, left Springfield Sunday and was married to Mrs. Annie M. (Thayer) Patten of Boston Monday noon in the Lindsay chapel of Emmanuel church, Newbury street, Boston. Bishop Charles Lewis Slattery performed the ceremony.

The event was kept a close secret, only members of the couple's immediate families being present at the wedding ceremony. Among Bishop Davies' relatives present were his sister, Miss Marion S. Davies, with whom he has made his home in Springfield for many years, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Haines and R. F. D. Haines of New York city. The former Mrs. Patten was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer of Boston, her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Winthrop of Boston, and Nancy T., William S., and Arthur N. Patten.

Bishop Davies and his wife left for a honeymoon, from which they are not expected to return before Easter. He will not take up his official duties until after the Lenten season, it was learned on good authority. Plans are now in progress to tender a reception to Bishop and Mrs. Davies in Christ Church cathedral, Springfield, the week following Easter, the date of which has as yet not been set.

Whether the couple will make their home at Bishop Davies' longtime residence at 1154 Worthington street, Springfield, could not be definitely learned. There is a current rumor, however, that they have made other plans.

Bishop Davies, who is 58 years old, was a bachelor and Mrs. Davies was a widow. Mrs. Davies has another daughter, Jean H. Patten. Her son, William S. Patten, is a student at Harvard university, and Arthur N. Patten attends St. George's school, Newport, R. I.

Bishop Davies has been head of the Western Massachusetts diocese since his election on May 10, 1911. He was chosen as president of the Province of New England in 1927. During the World war he served with the Y. M. C. A. with the American Expeditionary Force in France.

Bishop Davies is a former rector of Christ Episcopal church, this city.

JURY IN $40,000 DAMAGE SUIT FAILED TO AGREE ON VERDICT

Unable to arrive at a verdict in the $40,000 appeal from probate brought in the superior court by the three sons and daughter of the late Levi Q. Raymond against their stepmother, Mrs. May Etta Walsh Raymond, of New London, the jury which had the case under deliberation for more than three hours, was discharged about 5:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by Judge Christopher L. Avery in the superior court at New London. Judge Avery concluded his charge to the jury at 12:55 o'clock Wednesday afternoon after which a recess was taken.

The court reconvened at 2 o'clock and the case was then given to the jury. An hour and 40 minutes later the jury informed the court that it was unable to arrive at a verdict. The jurymen were instructed to retire for further deliberation and at 5:10 o'clock again filed into the court room and informed the court that it was impossible for them to reach a verdict. Judge Avery then ordered the jury discharged.

The plaintiffs, Charles, Edward and Thaddeus Raymond and Annie Backman Raymond, are seeking to obtain a larger share in their father's $90,000 estate than they got by his action in transferring part of his estate to his wife, before he died. They claimed that their father was not competent at the time and that he was easily influenced.

The trial of the case was started last week. Tuesday afternoon Attorney G. Curtis Morgan, counsel for the plaintiffs, made his argument, and Attorney Charles B. Whittlesey, counsel for the defendant, made his argument Wednesday morning. Judge Avery's charge to the jury followed.

ADDRESSED ROTARY CLUB ON PROHIBITION QUESTION

At the weekly luncheon of the Norwich Rotary club held Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel the members of the club heard a very interesting talk on Prohibition by Laurence E. Millea of this city. Mr. Millea, who did not argue for either one side of the question or the other, brought out many interesting facts regarding the question. He quoted largely from prominent men who have spoken on this question. The talk was enlivened by many humorous phases of the question. The speaker was given a rising vote of appreciation.

The business session was in charge of President Frank R. Murdy with John Richardson as song-leader. Charles W. Taggart, in charge of the March program, announced his program as follows:

March 5—Speaker to be selected.

March 12—Rev. Thomas Richey rector of Christ church.

March 19—Tenth anniversary meeting with Joseph C. Worth and charter members in charge.

March 26—C. W. Anderson, state commander of the American Legion, F. Russell Smith and Frank G. Aubrey are the song-leaders for the month.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

BOYNTON LEADING IN WEST SIDE PINOCHLE

Boynton went into the lead in the West Side pinochle tournament as the result of play Wednesday evening, exchanging positions with A. Jordan. Boynton was also tied with Schuler for high scoring honors for the evening with 7,810. McNaught moved up from eighth position to fifth. The results follow:

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

The Wednesday club met with Miss Hannah M. Crowell, at Oldelms. The hostess read a play by John Drinkwater.

The meeting of the Home Service unit with Mrs. Raymond B. Sherman, of Slater avenue, Wednesday afternoon, was attended by twelve members. Mrs. Sherman served tea informally.

The Misses Shannon, of Washington street, who are at their winter home at Orlando, Florida, are to spend the coming two weeks in Havana.

A number from Norwich will attend the third Sunday evening At Home of Dr. Katherine Blunt, president of Connecticut college.

Miss Virginia Smith, a student at Smith college, will spend Friday and Saturday at her home on Washington street.

By contrast with the severe weather in New England, messages received this week by friends of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Reynolds of Boston, and Mrs. Gardiner Greene, of Norwich, record a truly de luxe cruise on S. S. President Harrison, on their round-the-world-voyage, with every day almost perfect. From Honolulu to Japan conditions were delightful, the congenial company of tourists anticipating equal pleasure from the coming four weeks on shipboard and ashore. Mail now is being forwarded to reach them at Marseilles. They were nearing Kobe when their messages of Jan. 29th were mailed, with visions of the delights of sightseeing in Japan, China and Egypt.

DANCE FOR EMPLOYES OF NORWICH STORES

The Merchants Bureau of the Norwich chamber of commerce held their regular monthly meeting at the Wauregan hotel Wednesday night. In addition to routine business, Abner Schwartz made a favorable report in connection with the recent Dollar Day sale, which proved a success, both from the standpoint of the merchants and the buying public.

The bureau took up the question of the legality of misrepresentation on the part of stores which indiscriminately use the "must sell" and "going out of business" advertisements. It was found that many cities have overcome this type of advertising, which is in violation of the Clayton act, according to an article which recently appeared in the "Women's Wear" magazine, and President Fleming was requested to appoint a committee to look into the status of this matter.

President Fleming then called the attention of the merchants to the booth display and fashion bazaar which is to be held late in March at the Wauregan hotel under the chairmanship of John P. Morley. This event, it was pointed out, will bring together about 300 women from Norwich and surrounding towns and villages. It is being staged in co-operation with the home bureau unit of the New London County Farm Bureau.

Chairman Charles Barker of the bureau publicity committee for the "Try Norwich First" campaign, reported progress and stated that about March 5th in the ball room of the Wauregan hotel, it is planned to hold a meeting and dance for all the sales people of the Norwich stores. The purpose of this gathering is to inform the sales people of the Norwich stores just what the "Try Norwich First" campaign means and the part to be played by them in bringing about the successful conclusion of this undertaking.

President Fleming announced that Secretary Richardson will be the speaker on this occasion and informed the merchants that the business part of the meeting will take up about a half to three quarters of an hour and will be followed by a dance for the sales people and their friends.

OBITUARY.

Albert George Tracy.

Albert George Tracy, formerly of this city, died Saturday at his home in Santa Cruz, Calif., following a short illness. Mr. Tracy was 88 years old, having been born in Preston in November, 1841, the son of John and Sally Fowler Tracy. He was one of six children of whom but one survives, Frank Tracy, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. The other children were John, Daniel W., Charles L. and Mrs. Frances Tracy Spalding. He also leaves a son, Albert G. Tracy, of Merced, Calif.

Mr. Tracy went west many years ago and had been actively engaged in the fruit raising business in California, owning a large fruit ranch there. Charles L. Tracy of this city is a nephew.

William W. Candall

The death of William W. Crandall, 69, occurred at 6.30 o'clock Wednesday morning at his residence in Montville, following a serious illness of three weeks. He was born in Middletown, March 12, 1860, but had been for many years a resident of Montville, where he was well and favorably known. Mr. Crandall is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Mary Carlton and Mrs. Edward Kelly and two brothers, Frank and John Crandall of Montville.

David B. Maynard

After an illness of six months with heart trouble David B. Maynard, 77 died at 5.15 o'clock Wednesday morning at his residence in Montville, where he had lived practically all of his life. Mr. Maynard was born in East Haddam, Jan. 23, 1853, the son of William Palmer and Mary Sterling Brown Maynard, and at the age of nine went to Montville with his parents. In Stonington, May 6, 1877, he was united in marriage with Mary Pilling. Mr. and Mrs. Maynard celebrated their golden wedding anniversary three years ago.

In early life Mr. Maynard was employed on steamships operating between New London and New York and between other places. For 34 years he was in the employ of the Massasoit Manufacturing company up until three years ago when his health became impaired.

During his long residence in Montville, Mr. Maynard made many warm friends, who will learn of his death with sincere sorrow.

John H. Rooney

John H. Rooney, who died at his home in Pomfret, Feb. 21, was devotedly cared for by his wife. Mr. Rooney had lived in Pomfret for 40 years.

He was a carpenter and builder by trade and there are many houses in Pomfret today built by his.

His funeral took place at the Pomfret Roman Catholic church, Rev. Father Donohue officiating and there was a large attendance. Burial took place in Danielson. As was his request he was laid beside his mother and father in Holy Cross cemetery. Rev. Father Demers conducted the committal service at the grave.

He is survived by three sisters, Miss Margaret Rooney of Providence, Mrs. J. E. Kennedy of Providence and rMs. Martin Fitzsimmons of Killingly.

George Fuller Hyde

(Contributed)

Early Wednesday morning the earthly career of George Fuller Hyde came to a peaceful close at his home, No. 263 Washington street, this city. He was tenderly cared for by his sister and his death occurred in the house in which he was born and where he spent all but 12 years of his life.

Mr. Hyde was the son of the late Lewis A., and Harriet Fuller Hyde. He was educated in the local public schools and graduated with the class of 1892 of the Norwich Free Academy. His college course was taken at Amherst where he graduated with the class of 1896.

In 1898, he went to Bridgeport and served as the boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A. for a period of ten years. There he came into personal touch with many boys upon whom his influence for good is attested by the appreciative letters which the boys in after life sent to Mr. Hyde.

While in Bridgeport Mr. Hyde took an active part to raising funds for the enlargement of the boys' department of the Y. He also assisted in organizing the boys' conferences which are held annually throughout the state. Following the years in Bridgeport Mr. Hyde was connected with the Norwich Y. M. C. A. for about two years.

Failing health during the past eighteen years made it impossible for Mr. Hyde to engage in active service in the outside world, but with pluck and courage he entered into the life of this community in such helpful ways as his strength permitted. He gave himself without reserve to the work and worship of the old First church at Norwich Town of which he has been a member since boyhood. He has served on the board of trustees, taught a men's class in the Bible school, held the office of president of the Y. P. S. C. E. and served on practically all the committees of that organization.

He was much interested in the Men's league of Norwich Town and served that organization well. At the time of his death he was chairman of the Good Citizenship committee, both of the local Y. P. S. C. E. and of the Norwich C. E. union, and chairman of the board ushers in the church. In the latter office he will be especially missed. He was courteous, kind and faithful. Those who came to the church service received a cordial welcome and were made to feel at home. He was loyal to his pastor and cooperated with the fullest measure of devotion in every effort for the good of the kingdom of God.

A few years ago Mr. Hyde instituted a good literature table in the vestibule of the church for the exchange of reading matter, an institution which has proved helpful to the parish. He will be missed in this community as a genial friend, a helpful neighbor, and as a man of unimpeachable character and champion of righteousness.

NEW FIRE ESCAPES AT WAUREGAN HOTEL

Men in the employ of Contractor William S. Spencer have been engaged the past three weeks in making several changes in the fire escape system at the Wauregan hotel building. A number of the latest type of all steel fire escapes are being installed and the old types are either being replaced or repaired to conform to the present fire rules and regulations. The work, which is being done under direction of Harry M. Land, owner of the building, is expected to be completed within a few days. With the necessary changes made every room will have an individual exit to the fire escapes.

DIED FROM WOUNDS INFLICTED BY ASSASSINS

EAST CHICAGO, Ind., Feb. 26—(AP)—Michael Manning, 35, former business agent of the Teamsters' union, died today from wounds inflicted last Friday by assassins who fired on him in the early dawn from a speeding automobile. The attempt was the second made against Manning, who was shot shortly before Christmas and was recovering from those wounds when he was mortally wounded.

Police said they were inclined to accept the labor strife theory as being responsible for both attacks. Manning refused to name his assailants.

Lucky Mother

"My success with Jean isn't just luck," says Mrs. V. Lund, 286 Loretto St., Tottenville, L. I. "It is due to a plan.

"She has escaped the ill-effects of colds and upsets because, at the first sign of a cold, of bad breath, coated tongue or feverishness, I open her bowels with California Fig Syrup. She loves its taste and I like its gentle, thorough action."

Mothers by thousands praise California Fig Syrup. For fifty years physicians have endorsed this pure vegetable product. It tones and strengthens stomach and bowels; stimulates appetite; encourages digestion and assimilation. Its use helps make sallow, listless children rosy and energetic.

Look for the name California when buying. That marks the genuine; safe for infants, effective for children in their teens.

No More Piles

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe, and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists anywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

It Is Folly To Stay Fat

The proof is everywhere. In every circle you can see that excess fat is disappearing fast. Modern science has found a major cause of excess fat in a weakened gland. In late years, physicians the world over have been fighting that cause. They do not rely on starvation.

This modern method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. Each box contains the formula, as prepared by famous experts. People have used these tablets for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Now nearly all have friends who show the results in new beauty, health and vigor.

Go try Marmola. Test the right way to reduce. The results will amaze and delight you. All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box.

MOTOR LAUNCH TOWED TO NEW LONDON PROVES MONOLOLA, AS SUSPECTED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 26—The motor launch, Monolola, believed to be owned either in Providence or Fall River, is tied up at the pier of the United States Coast Guard, Base 4, here. The crew is charged with three violations of the navigation laws, running without lights, failing to stop when ordered to do so and resisting arrest. When the craft was found at Fall River yesterday the crew was missing as were the boat's papers. The launch, a 50-footer, was taken in tow but the arrival of the Monolola, an alleged rum-runner did not occur until early today. The launch, it is claimed by coast guard officials, had long been suspected of being a rum-runner and although fired upon by a machine gun early yesterday, the boat escaped, only to be found later at a wharf in the Massachusetts city. The boat shows evidence of having been the target of the machine gun fire, for her hull and deck are bullet-scarred.

The patrol boat, which had been scouring the waters between this port and Providence, was off Gould Island, Mass., during the early hours of Tuesday morning watching for contact boats, boats that take supplies from other boats and carry their liquor to shore. About 2:15 the crew of the patrol boat heard the sound of a muffled exhaust, but could not make out the boat. A few minutes later a search light revealed a launch with her deck loaded with sacks, suspected of containing liquor, while the boat was running low in the water, indicating a cargo in the hold. Two one-pounders were fired as warning shots, but the launch continued without showing any indication of stopping. When the suspected rum-carrier was out-distancing the patrol boat, machine-gun fire was resorted to in an effort to cripple the launch, but she succeeded in escaping. Shortly after 7 o'clock the crew of the patrol boat found the Monolola moored at Fall River and as the boat bore evidence of having been the target of gun-fire, she was seized and brought to this port.

Max Poit, a Mystic laborer, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace, was fined $5 on the first count and on the second charge a fine of $10 was imposed. Poit was arrested yesterday at the National Bank of Commerce where he was annoying patrons of the institution.

MARRIED IN SECRET, QUARREL IN PUBLIC

Tony Caldrello and his wife were arrested in Groton last night, each charged with breach of the peace for they fought in the highway. Caldrello was held in bail of $500 and his wife furnished a bond of $100 for her appearance in the Groton town court Monday next. Caldrello and his wife were secretly married about two months ago and since that time Mrs. Caldrello has resided in her home town, Westerly. Yesterday when she was found in Groton with a woman whose company Caldrello did not desire his wife to keep, a row started and resulted in a free-for-all. While the fight was in progress, the state police were notified and the pair were taken into custody.

Elmore Shoe Shop, has filed incorporation papers at the office of secretary of state, Hartford, by Secretary John Ellon. The authorized capital stock is $20,000, divided into 200 shares of common stock, each share of the par value of $100, of which amount $5,000 has been paid in. The incorporators are Morris Charlop, Betty Charlop and John Ellon.

Henry's Cut Rate Drug store, Bank street, has ben put out of business because of financial difficulties. Last night Deputy Sheriff J. H. Tubbs closed the store because of the insistence of numerous creditors that the proprietor pay outstanding bills. A settlement of the indebtedness of the store could not be made and Sheriff Tubbs took charge of the premises. It is understood that a few days ago Henry endeavored to make a settlement with his creditors on a 15-per cent. basis, but the offer was rejected. The store opened about 18 months ago.

As noted in the Norwich news Wednesday, two New London young women have been selected as judges at the stunt night of Norwich Council of Girl Workers, at the Community house, Norwich, March 4th. They are Miss Dorothy Henkle and Miss Gladys Taber.

Mrs. Carl W. Pratt has returned to her home, 75 West street, having attended the funeral at Holyoke Mass., this week of her brother, Albert Farr.

Conductor Darling Recovers

Miss Katherine Rathbun of Westerly; Miss Phoebe Sheffield, Saybrook Point; Tryon Benham, Waterford; Harry M. Darling, 128 Thames street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today. Mr. Darling is a conductor in the passenger service of the New Haven railroad and had been critically ill with pneumonia for several weeks. It will be a month or more before Mr. Darling resumes his railroad duties.

OBITUARY

Mrs. James E. Riordan

Mrs. Margaret Riordan, 64, widow of James E. Riordan, of 49 Franklin street, died early today at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where she had been a patient but a short time. Mrs. Riordan is survived by seven children, Miss Mary T. Riordan, Patrolman William J., John J. and Miss Winifred Elizabeth Riordan, Patrolman Edward H., Miss Margaret, and Paul J. Riordan, all of New London. Mrs. Riordan was born in Ireland, but came to this country when a child, taking up her residence at Walpole, Mass., in which city she resided for a time. Later she moved to New London, where she was widely known and was highly respected.

FUNERAL

Mrs. John J. Gately

The funeral of Mrs. Bridget C. Gately, widow of John J. Gately, formerly of New London, who died at Hartford, was held at 9 o'clock this morning from St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan. As a waiting hymn, Mrs. C. W. Brooks sang, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." The bearers were Cornelius, Christopher F., and Robert T. Barry, James and Edward Collins of Newark, N. J., and William McGuinness of Brooklyn, N. Y., all nephews of Mrs. Gately. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. O'Callaghan.

Attorney Alfred Coit is able to be out after having been confined to his home on Huntington street, a fortnight, by an attack of grip.

Champion—Zaccardi

Robert S. Champion, waiter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Champion, Jefferson avenue, and Miss Mary J. Zaccardi, waitress and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Zaccardi, were married last Monday by Justice of the Peace Perry J. Hollandersky.

Patrolmen Walter O'Neill and William Manice were unable to perform duty last night, both officers suffering from severe colds.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the return of the drivers' licenses of James McTough, 55 Prest street, and Arthur Sawtelle, 15 Mountain avenue.

SEEK SAILOR AND SOULMATE CALLED "MISS CONNECTICUT"

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 26.—Officers of the U. S. S. Quail, stationed at Boston, have requested the New London police to assist in a search for Chief Boatswain John J. Smith, who is missing from the boat and has been absent since Jan. 2. Smith is believed by navy officials to be residing in either New London or Newark, N. J., with a young woman who was known at that time as "Miss Connecticut." Smith is married and his wife resides at 89 Antrim street, Cambridge, Mass.

John D. Folsom, fireman second class, has been declared a deserter at the United States coast guard section base. He has been missing from the base since Feb. 3. Folsom was a deserter on Dec. 19, 1929, but a short time after he left the base, Folsom was arrested by a shore patrol. He was given a general court martial, at which time Folsom was returned to service.

TAXI DRIVER PAYS $5 FINE—SECOND CHARGE NOLLED

Arthur (Dewey) Connors, driver employed by the Yellow Cab Co., was in the police court today charged with violation of the city's parking ordinance regulating public service vehicles, and resisting an officer. Connors was found guilty on the former charge and was fined $5, but the latter complaint was nolled. Connors was at the union station early last Sunday morning where there is a taxicab stand for all public service cars. The ordinance provides that the drivers of such automobiles refrain from soliciting passengers at a distance greater than ten feet from the cab. Connors went a much greater distance and attempted to obtain passengers. While doing so he was reprimanded by Patrolman Edward Skoczylas and when Connors took the officer to task for what Connors claimed was an interference with the driver, Connors was arrested. Connors resisted arrest and was struck a blow on the face. It was the contention of Connors that inasmuch as the cab company is given a lease of a section of property on Railroad avenue and owned by the railroad and that the corporation gives the company the privilege of soliciting patronage on any and all railroad property, that he was within his rights in soliciting when he was more than ten feet away from his car. The auto was on city property, which is the public service stand, and neither the railroad nor any other corporation can issue privileges that override the city's legislation.

Too Fond of Sailors

Rose Sandanto, 19, a waitress residing at 16 Union street, Quincy, Mass., and Lena Karpenko, alias Dorothy Young, 19, a waitress living at 180 Oakwood avenue, Revere, Mass., were charged with street walking. Their cases were continued until tomorrow. The girls are of the type that seek the companionship of sailors and were arrested last night by Patrolman Clyde Murphy. The girls had been with a pair of bluejackets for a joy ride and upon completion of the trip, alighted from a public service car on State street. Being alone and desiring further male company, the girls were arrested, as they loitered about the streets. The Karpenko girl is a violator of her parole at Boston and an officer will come to this city and take charge of her.

James B. Roberts, Submarine base was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and fined $100 and costs, but $25 of the fine was ordered remitted. Roberts was arrested last night when observed by Patrolman George Bruhns to be intoxicated, as the car passed through State street. The officer commandeered a public service automobile and gave chase to the fleeing auto. When it was overtaken, Roberts was lying half across the steering wheel. At police headquarters when Roberts was searched a partially filled bottle of diluted alcohol was found in his possession.

THIEVING MADE EASY BY CARELESS MERCHANTS

Proprietors or employes were careless again last night as was evidenced by discoveries by patrolmen in making their rounds. Sergeant John Courtney and Automobile Patrol Officer George Cockell discovered the entrance of the Eastern Dairies, Inc., 92 Pequot avenue, unlocked. The officers inspected the premises and finding everything intact were able to make the place secure. Patrolman John Foley found the entrance of the New London Fruit & Produce company, 376 Bank street, unlocked and being unable to secure it, the business house was left unprotected the greater part of the night, although the officer maintained a watch of the place as best he could. Patrolman Foley also discovered the rear entrance to the New England Poultry market, rear of 426 Bank street, unlocked. The officer summoned the proprietor to the market and after an investigation had been made and it had been determined that thieves had not entered the place, the market was made safe for the balance of the night.

POLICE WATCHING OUT FOR DRIVER OF GREEN PONTIAC

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 26—The state police, Groton barracks, are on the lookout and have requested the New London police to maintain a watch for a Pontiac automobile, painted green, that side-swiped a machine in Groton this afternoon and then speeded away. The driver is sought on a charge of evasion of responsibility. The registration of the colliding automobile was not obtained.

The rain this afternoon with freezing temperature prevailing caused a slight delay in traffic to trolley cars between New London and Norwich. The delay was not of consequence, none of the cars being delayed more than seven or eight minutes. The delay, however, did not continue throughout the night.

The body of Katherine L. Donaghue, wife of Edward Cotter of this city and Hartford, who died Sunday at Daytona Beach, Fla., arrived in Hartford last night and the funeral will be held Friday. Mrs. Cotter died from pneumonia while at the Florida resort with her husband and two children.

INJURED BUS DRIVER EXPECTED TO RECOVER

Melvin F. Gilleney, 69 High street, Mystic, driver of the Groton & Stonington Traction company's bus, which collided head-on with a five-ton truck owned by Marcus Trail, Groton, on Poquonoc road, Groton, two weeks ago and who sustained among other injuries internal disorders, continues to improve at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. It is now believed that he will recover.

Thomas S. McGinley, 1 Highland place and his brother, John McGinley, a resident of the west, formerly of New London, sailed from New York today on a trip to Bermuda. They will not return for several weeks.

NORWICH OFFICIALS ATTEND W. R. C. 43rd ANNIVERSARY

The forty-third anniversary of Hancock Relief corps, No. 20, was observed Tuesday in Pawcatuck with a special session at Vets' hall. Two department officers were present as were delegations from corps at Stonington, Mystic, Norwich and Westerly. The day's activities opened with a roast ham dinner at noon. Mrs. Evelyn MacDonald was chairman of the committee. At 2 in the afternoon an entertainment was given under direction of Mrs. Carrie Dawley. At 3 the regular meeting of the corps was held, with the president, Cora Fuller in the chair. Mrs. Ruth Nash, the only living charter member, was cordially greeted. Mrs. Nash on Monday of this week observed her 86th birthday and the corps presented her a plant. Mrs. Lillian Slocum, who has been a member of the corps for 42 years, was presented a clock, and Miss Hattie Coon, who has served as treasurer for 25 years, also received a gift. The two department officers present at the meeting were Mrs. Jayne Seed and Mrs. B. Louise Atterbury, of Norwich, both members of the executive board. They gave short talks as did Mrs. Iola Bjurstrom, president of the Norwich corps, Mrs. Laura Ostman, president of Stonington corps, and Mrs. Sadie Ahern, president of Budlong corps. Over 100 were present at the anniversary meeting. The group included 40 members of Hancock corps of Pawcatuck; 21 members of Budlong corps, No. 2, of Westerly; 20 members of Williams corps, No. 43, of Mystic; 7 members of J. E. Trumbull corps, No. 34, of Stonington; 20 members of Sedgewick corps, No. 16, of Norwich.

BANK BURGLAR ALARM SAT OFF BY TELLER

Wednesday morning the large gong of the burglar alarm on the vault of the Washinton Trust Co., located on the outside of the Washington Trust building on Broad street began ringing. A bank teller, William D. Critcherson, had tripped a catch in the bank and caused the gong to sound. The alarm will ring for some twenty minutes if left undisturbed but this morning employes were able to enter the vault and the ringing of the alarm was stopped. Shortly after the noon hour the alarm was again sounded but for a much shorter period.

Much difficulty is being experienced in the location of the underground man-holes for the conduit wires of the Westerly Automatic Telephone company, on West Broad street, Pawcatuck, where preliminary work is being carried on for placing all wires underground, before the street is widened and re-surfaced. Wednesday the hole where the bricked-up underground chamber is to be built, at the junction of Mechanic and West Broad streets, was filled with water and will have to be pumped out before the work proceeds.

MEDICAL EXAMINER SCANLON TESTIFIES IN DeRICCO CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Feb. 26.—In the murder trial of James DeRicco, of Oak street, Westerly, at the West Kingston courthouse, begun in Washington county superior court Tuesday before Justice Frederick Frost and a petit jury, Medical Examiner Dr. Michael H. Scanlon, of Westerly, was the first state witness Wednesday. DeRicco has persisted in his plea of not guilty since being indicted by the grand jury a week ago Monday. Dr. Scanlon testified that he found Gardner, upon answering a call, in a collapsed condition, outside of the Talbot house, near Sweeney's switch. He said that Gardner was groaning and quoted him as saying: "Jimmy DeRicco shot me." When Gardner was taken to the hospital he was asked if he wanted to make a dying statement. Gardner realized he was going to die and when DeRicco, the defendant, was brought before him at the hospital, he declared, "There's the fellow who shot me, Jimmy DeRicco."

Dr. Scanlon described the wound received by Gardner, on the right side of the body at about the 10th rib where the shot entered. It punctured the lung, diaphragm and liver and had then left the body. He asserted that it was positively a gun shot wound. Questioned by Assistant Attorney General Sigmund W. Fischer, Jr., Dr. Scanlon stated that Gardner died on Jan. 15 at 9:50 o'clock and that death was caused by a hemmorhage resulting from injuries to the lung, liver and diaphragm.

After the trial started Tuesday, the jury at 3 o'clock came to Westerly for a view of the location where the state alleges DeRicco shot Gardner. The jury came to Westerly in a specially chartered bus. The jurors were allowed to return to their home Tuesday evening after the view was completed and returned to Kingston Wednesday morning. The state has about 15 witnesses to testify and it is understood that the defense will introduce testimony from a number of witnesses. Trial of the case is expected to continue into next week.

Dr. G. Grant Savage followed Dr. Scanlon on the witness stand, having been called by the latter in consultation to Westerly hospital on the night of Gardner's shooting. Town Solicitor and Prosecutor John Ferguson, who asked Gardner the pre-mortem questions, followed and was on the witness stand when court adjourned at 4:45 p. m. to open the third day session Thursday morning.

Byron C. Taylor of Potter Hill was in New London Wednesday.

John Main was among Westerly fans who attended the Battalino-Fernandez fight at Hartford armory Tuesday night.

John Healey of Pawtucket was the guest of Westerly friends Wednesday afternoon.

Francis M. Johnson, scribe; Dudley Stewart, master of the 2nd veil and past excellent High Priest Arthur E. Thompson were among Westerly members of Palmer chapter, No. 28, R. A. M., of Pawcatuck, who attended the Past High Priests' Night of Union chapter, R. A. M., in New London this week.

Tax Assessor George W. Woodward of Westerly will be among Dartmouth alumni who will attend the Dartmouth banquet at the Hotel Statler in Boston Saturday, March 1st, when the college president will be a guest.

Dr. and Mrs. Ronald C. Dove motored to New London Wednesday afternoon.

Lewis B. Ray and family have moved from Pawcatuck to West Hartford where they will make their home, Mr. Ray being in the employ of the Whitney-Pratt corporation.

Mrs. George W. Vaughn has returned to Mount Vernon, N. Y., after being the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Burdick.

CHAPMAN AND NYE LOSE TO TILLINGHAST-MITCHELL

FUNERAL

Mrs. Ida W. Page

Private funeral services for Mrs. Ida Whitmarsh Page were held at her home, 88 High street, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. E. P. S. Spencer, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church read the service. The bearers were four sons-in-law, Harold McGuire, Albert Wheeler, Giles Chapman and John Finnegan, Jr. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery, Mystic.

Radio listeners heard Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, representative from Florida, give a short address on "Old Glory's Glory," over station WEAF at 5:15, Tuesday afternoon, under the auspices of the U. S. Flag association.

Mrs. N. Stanton Gates returned Tuesday, after a visit in New York.

Clyde Burrows and Miss Blanche Burrows returned to New York Tuesday evening, after being in town to attend the funeral of their sister, Mrs. Mary B. Mullen of New Britain, who was buried in Elm Grove cemetery, Mystic, Tuesday.

Capt. and Mrs. John Wilcox, of Norwich, and Mr. and Mrs. Halsey Packer of New London were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Desley of Old Mystic.

The United Workers of Old Mystic Methodist church met in the parish house Wednesday afternoon and tied a quilt. In the evening the mid-week prayer meeting was held.

George Welles of Old Mystic is ill.

The A. C. Latham camp, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil war met in G. A. R. hall Tuesday evening. Commander C. E. Holmes was in charge of the short business session.

Mrs. Joseph Klemish with her two daughters, who has been staying with her father, Thomas Hartley of Westerly, will leave there Sunday for Utica, N. Y., where they will join Mr. Klemish who is employed there. Mrs. Klemish and her father were in town Tuesday, getting the household goods ready to ship.

Mrs. L. Ellis and infant son have been dismissed from the private sanitorium in the village and have returned to their home in Noank.

Mr. and Mrs. George Blanchette are entertaining Mrs. Samuel Morris and son Jesse, of Pawtucket.

Peter Donohue was in Willimantic, Tuesday.

Fanny Ledyard chapter, D. A. R. celebrated Washington's birthday with a good number present. Each member was privileged to bring one guest. Miss Florence Buck pleased all with several piano solos and Miss Elizabeth Carrington of Stonington, sang a group of songs, accompanied at the piano by her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Carrington. Miss Mary Bacon, of the Windsor school, Boston, gave a very interesting address on George Washington. Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed. The affair, which was held in Masonic temple, was in charge of the board of management and the program committee.

NOANK

Raymond Fagget, of Mystic, is employed at Noank shipyard.

The new garage being built on the property of Herbert Chapman on Spring street, is nearly completed. A cement brow is being laid at the entrance.

Gabe MacGaw has completed his duties with the Noank Coal company.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brendamean have returned to West Warwick, R. I., after spending several days visiting local relatives.

The Reading club was to have met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Francis Scaplens of Front street but the meeting has been postponed to this (Thursday) afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. King have returned to Springfield, Mass., after spending the week end in the village.

The True Blue Sewing Society will meet this (Thursday) afternoon.

Miss Mildred Eccleston has been visiting relatives in Westerly.

Prof. and Mrs. Everett Fitch have returned to New Haven after several days' visit in the village.

Mrs. Stephen Cornell, of Terrace avenue, entertained a few little friends for her twin daughters, Margaret and Marjorie, on their second birthday. The table was prettily decorated with pink and white crepe paper and each little guest received a favor. A birthday cake with candles was the center of attraction. Games were played during the afternoon and the babies received many pretty gifts. Sandwiches, ice cream, cake and punch were served. Those present were: Esther McGaw, Gabriel McGaw, John and James Scroggins, Virginia Penazena and Edward Penazena.

Miss Ida Hadley has returned after spending several days with Arlington, N. J. friends.

Louis Podrim, of Providence, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Joseph Chenevert.

The Senior Wide World guild of the Baptist church will meet this (Thursday) evening with Miss Bertha Oles of Elm street.

The sloop "Black Eagle" is hauled out on the ways at Noank shipyard for renovations which will include a new engine, also a new mast.

Raymond Rathbun has returned to North Attleboro, Mass., after spending several days at home.

Much interest is being taken in the coming game of basketball between the local Whirlwind team and the Shyma club team of Taftville. The Whirlwinds defeated the fast Nugget team in the town hall last week 32-25 and as the Shyma team is one of the fatest teams in eastern Connecticut a good game is looked for. The line-up for the Whirlwinds will be: Rf, D. Robertson; lf, Chesebro; c, Clark and Sweet; rg, Buddington; lg, Butson and H. Robertson.

Miss Grace Rathbun of Essex has been at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred I. Rathbun.

Miss Elizabeth Daboll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Daboll of Pearl street, was one or five young women who attend Connecticut college in New London to receive the honor of Winthrop scholar. Miss Daboll is a senior at the college.

A musical assembly was held in the lower grades of Noank grammar school Tuesday afternoon. Grades 1, 2, 3 and 4 took part in the exercises which were held in the third grade room. The program was in charge of Mrs. Hope Peterson, music teacher at the school. Part of the program was singing by each grade and at the conclusion the singing of the Battle Hymn of the Republic by the four grades. This was the first musical assembly held this year by the lower grades.

A. N. Farnham of New London was a business caller here, Tuesday.

Sixty-five years ago Increase Kendall thrust a willow stick he had cut for a cane into the ground at Fairfield, Me., and forgot it. That was back in the days when Fairfield was known as Kendall's Mills and sawmills were its chief industry. The willow stick took root and today has grown to a tree which is twenty-four feet in circumference near its base.

"And O'er His Heart
A SHADOW FELL,"
[Edgar Allan Poe, 1809-1849]
"Coming events cast their shadows before"
LUCKY STRIKE
"IT'S TOASTED"
CIGARETTES

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence

Men who would keep that trim, proper form, women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Kruschen Is A Thief! He Asserts But A Jolly Good One

HE STOLE MY FAT AWAY

Here's a simple way to get rid of fat and quickly know the joy of living.

It's the safe way, too—for every day you continue this easy method of losing unwanted and unneeded fat you'll gain in energy, vigor and endurance.

Nine times in ten obesity means inactivity—it means that your blood is starving for the six vital salts your internal organs must have to keep you youthful, active, ambitious and keen in mind.

When you take a generous half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning you get these six vital salts which modern foods and cooking do not supply.

Taken every morning, Kruschen Salts supply the liver, kidneys and bowels with an invigorating conditioner and after you have tried this simple plan for two weeks the rejuvenating effect will delight you.

The urge for activity will be so marked that even at the end of a hard day's work you'll feel ready for any social activity or recreation,—you can play as hard as you work.

And after two weeks your excess fat starts to go—you'll know it—feel it—see it—the scales will tell the story.

Kruschen Salts is not a purgative or a cathartic, but a real system conditioner and for those who are the victims of constipation or taxemia its daily use soon means blissful regularity.

A jar of Kruschen Salts that will last 4 weeks costs but 85c at Lee and Osgood's or any druggist in the world.

GET THAT KRUSCHEN FEELING It's the little daily dose that does it.

Colds

BEARS WERE DRIVEN TO COVER AS STOCK PRICES ADVANCED IN ACTIVE SHARES

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—A swift upsurge in stock prices greeted the improvement in the grain and cotton markets today. Trading was in moderate volume, the turnover barely exceeding 3,000,000 shares but prices generally made the most striking progress since late December, as bears were driven to cover and forced to bid actively for stocks.

Gains of 3 to 9 points were common among the more active shares, while a few of the lightly traded issues jumped 10 to 15 points. The price index of 90 leading stocks rose about 2 1-3 points to within 2 points of its best level of the year. Leading industrials made the most extensive gains, with the tobaccos displaying marked buoyancy.

The market remained almost wholly professional, however, for despite the better tone in the commodity markets, business news was not altogether encouraging. The weekly steel trade reviews stressed the slight lag in aggregate steel mill activity thus reflecting cautious buying by the automotive industry. Iron Age stated however, that "while the long view has become more obscure, prospects for the next month or two are regarded as good."

Freight car loadings as announced for the second week of the month showed a moderate gain over the previous week, but held far below the like period of last year. Crude oil production took another sharp upturn last week, a retail gasoline price cutting war broke out in the eastern states today, and export gasoline prices were cut 1-2 cent.

The credit outlook was dominated by the possibility of a further reduction in the Bank of England's discount rate tomorrow. Late advices to Wall street indicated that opinion in London financial circles was about evenly divided on the subject. The open market bill rates in London have already fallen to levels which would be in line with a lower bank rate, and a reduction would probably help cash subscriptions to Chancellor Snowden's conversion loan. Wall street is primarily concerned with the influence of a lower London rate on the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate.

Opinion in federal reserve circles is said to be divided as to the advisability of a reduction below the present 4 per cent rate, but also, the federal reserve is undoubtedly not anxious to disturb London's gold holdings, and a reduction in London would be very likely to result in a flow of the yellow metal to New York without a corresponding reduction in the New York rate. Credit conditions in Wall street remained practically stationary, with call money holding at 4 1-2 per cent.

Westinghouse Electric rose about 9 points, while Eastman Kodak, the American Tobacco issues, and Warren Bros. sold up about 6 to 8. Shares closing approximately 4 to 5 points higher included American Can, U. S. Steel, Air Reduction, J. I. Case, Lambert, Johns-Manville, Auburn, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Underwood Elliott. Radio mounted 3 points to 47 3-8 a new high for 1930. Despite the unfavorable petroleum news, oil shares were generally carried upward, Standard of California closing 2 points higher. Among the less active shares, American Machine mounted 13 points and Vulcan Detinning 15.

Wheat futures closed about 2 cents higher, influenced by heavy farm board buying of cash wheat, firmer foreign markets, and better sales of flour. There was an outburst of selling around midday, but reports of freezing weather over the winter wheat area quickly turned the market upward again. Corn, on the other hand, lost about a cent in realizing prompted by yesterday's advance. Cotton closed steady, despite further weakness in silver, with its adverse influence on the Bombay market. Early in the session, there were advances of 50 to 60 cents a bale, but these were largely lost in realizing.

Sterling was depressed by the prospect of a lower Bank of England rate, and other foreign exchange rates sagged in sympathy. Sterling cables declined about 1-4 of a cent to $4.86 1-32, which is more than 2 cents below the high levels reached in December.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 26—(AP)—Grain trading recovered comparative poise today. Recent wild downward plunges in values with rushes of heavy stop-loss selling gave place to a general upward movement of the wheat market in particular. This movement was decidedly helped by the fact that among brokers the National Wheat Stabilization corporation's big purchases of future delivery contracts in Chicago yesterday was construed as virtual admission that grain exchanges are the market place of the world, and that major operations in grain must be conducted upon the exchanges.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were firm, ranging from 1-8c lower to 2c higher compared with yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-2-1 3-4c down, oats 1-4-5-8c off and provisions 12-22c up.

Supplementing the effect of an evident return of greater general confidence today in grain values was a widespread assumption that the federal farm board allies will give the wheat market concrete aid in emergencies. There were also reports current that the future delivery operations of the Wheat Stabilization corporation have been more extensive than was at first supposed, and have resulted in the corporation acquiring ownership of 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 bu. of terminal elevator grain in different positions, including considerable at the seaboard. Sharp upturns in Liverpool wheat quotations today contributed further stimulus to friends of higher prices here.

On the other hand, setbacks at times carried Chicago prices of new crop deliveries of wheat, July and September, down to well below yesterday's finish, whereas old crop months, March and May, showed relative strength. This circumstance was associated with selling due to uncertainty as to what loan basis the federal farm board will fix upon for the 1930 domestic wheat crop. Another complication today was much so-called "spread" trading that consisted of buying of wheat against simultaneous selling of corn, a development that late in the day tended to lift the wheat market but depress corn. Export demand today for wheat from North America was described as slow.

Aside from the bearish effect of spread trading, corn market developments were favorable to holders. An outstanding feature was that advices at hand told about bad conditions of roads limiting the movement of the corn crop. Oats followed wheat rather than corn.

Provisions went higher, responsive to upturns in the value of hogs.

Closing bids and offers: Wheat—Mar. 101 1-4, 103 1-2; May 106 1-2-5-8, 113 1-4-3-8; July 107 3-8-1-2, 114; Sept. 109 3-4-7-8, 116 1-4. Corn—Mar. (offers) 82 1-4; May 84 1-4-3-8; 87 1-4-3-8; July 86 5-8, 89 3-8; Sept. 86 5-8, 89 3-8.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—Sufficient stock of the constituent companies has been deposited to make the Republic Steel Corp. merger effective, it was learned today, and the plan probably will be declared operative early next week. The companies are Republic Iron and Steel, Central Alloy Steel, Donner Steel, and the Bourne Fuller Co. The time for the depositing of stock under the plan expires Saturday.

Today's gold movements at the port of New York included imports of $45,000 from Argentina. There were no exports, nor any change in the amount of gold earmarked for foreign account.

Wall street heard today that Hearn's, one of the oldest department stores in New York city, is to head a nation-wide chain of 15 stores, and that negotiations are now being carried on by bankers. Among the other stores mentioned as members of the proposed chain are those of L. Feidleman & Co., of New Orleans and Shreveport, La., and the Golden Eagle Dry Goods store of Denver. The Hearn store was established about 103 years ago.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—Prices crept steadily upward in today's curb market as the demand broadened, but final quotations disclosed the usual sprinkling of soft spots. Trading was only normal in volume, with professionals apparently furnishing the bulk of the activity. The improved tone was attributed to the better speculative feeling created by the recovery in wheat prices and to a number of favorable earnings estimates and merger rumors.

Electric Bond & Share closed at the day's high price of 88 3-8, up 2 3-8. American & Foreign warrants advanced 2 1-2 points and Brazilian Traction, Central Public Service, Middle Western Utilities, Southwestern Gas Utilities, United Corporation warrants, United Gas and Utilities Power & Light (new) advanced a point or more. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore was the only conspicuous soft spot in the power and light group.

Despite the sharp increase in crude output last week, there was a much better demand for the oil shares. Vacuum closed nearly 4 points higher and the new General Petroleum corporation stock was marked up more than 2 points to a new top at 34 1-4. Gulf, Humble, Indian Territory and Salt Creek Producers closed with gains of a point or more.

Eisler Electric was one of the most active issues in the industrial list, touching a new top at 20 1-2 on buying presumably influenced by the announcement that a new factory would be established in Germany or Switzerland to take care of the company's growing export business. American Cigar, Arcturus Radio Tube, Driver Harris, Ford of Canada B, Newmont Mining, Technicolor and Welch Grape Juice recorded substantial gains, but the turnover in most cases was small.

Revival of speculative activity in Marine & Midland, which was marked up nearly 2 points on reports that the company was negotiating for the acquisition of a controlling interest in the Fidelity Trust Co. of New York, featured the investment trust, trading and holding corporation group. Goldman Sachs, Lehman corporation and National Investors recorded gains of a point or more.

Metropolitan Chain Stores and Metropolitan 5-50 cent stores preferred sank to new low levels for the year. Union Twist Drill broke 3 1-4 points.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 6—(AP)—Investment rails and a handful of high grade utilities claimed most of the attention in today's bond market. The list moved a shade higher coincident with an easing in time money rates, but the day's turnover was relatively small.

United States governments overcame some of the recent apathy and closed irregularly higher in response to the slightly lower interest charges. However, this group is expected to do little more than mark time pending announcement of the terms on the treasury's March 15 financing.

Indications that the market is steadily, if slowly, improving and has attained a considerable degree of stabilization are seen in current plans for railroad financing. The Pere Marquette has asked for authority to replace a 5 per cent first mortgage loan, totaling $14,000,000, with a 4 1-2 per cent issue, the higher coupon bonds were approved some time ago, but remain in the treasury.

The curb market admitted to trading on a when issued basis the Rock Island's prospective convertible 4 1-2 and contracts were executed between 98 1-2 and 99 against the offering price, to stockholders, of 95.

Among the quiet but firm industrials, a one point gain came out in Atlantic Gulf & West Indies Steamship 5s on the restoration of the $5 dividend to the preferred stock. The bonds closed at 79. Armour Real Estate 4 1-2s, American Smelting 5s and North American Cement 6 1-2s averaged half a point higher. International Paper 6s rose 2 1-4.

American Telephone 4 1-2s led the convertibles with a net rise of 3 3-4. Texas Corporation 5s improved 3-8 and American International 5 1-2s rallied 1-2.

New offerings appearing tomorrow include a $10,000,000 issue of Crown Zellerbach corporation 10-year debenture 6s with common stock purchase warrants, priced at 98. The company is a producer of paper products.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

A Mysterious Blow

A mystery—a thing that's queer—
Will often fill the bold with fear.
—Hooty the Owl.

Yowler the Bobcat yawned and then stretched and yawned again. Then Yowler got to his feet and stood testing the air with his nose, listening for the sounds of the Green Forest and trying to make up his mind just where to go hunting. It was not yet dark, but the Black Shadows were creeping through the Green Forest. Snow still remained in patches here and there. It was very still. Yowler could hear no sound, for not even the wind was moving.

Finally, Yowler yawned once more and then started off. He headed toward that part of the Green Forest where Hooty the Owl and Mrs. Hooty were nesting. He didn't know that they were nesting; it was merely chance that took him in that direction. He walked very softly. Yowler's feet are padded and he can walk very softly. Once or twice he sprang suddenly, as if he had springs in those hind legs of his, and he caught a too venturesome wood mouse.

"That was good, but it was only a bite," said Yowler to himself. "I wish I could find a dozen just like it. Somehow, mice are very scarce. Probably that is because they have been hunted so persistently by Hooty the Owl and Mrs. Hooty. There are two people that I should like to drive out of the Green Forest. I would so! But I can't do it. If they didn't have wings I might be able to. I wonder where they are living. I haven't seen them around for some time."

Now, even while he was saying these things to himself Yowler was drawing near to the place where one of Hooty's babies had fallen from the nest and was hidden under a little hemlock tree. That baby had grown considerably. Now Yowler would have been delighted with that young Owl for his dinner. But he knew nothing about it. It was, as I have said before, just chance that was bringing him that way.

Without any warning at all, something happened. Yes, sir, something happened! Yowler was struck a heavy blow on the back of his head. He heard nothing. He saw nothing. But he felt something. Yes, indeed, he felt someting! It made him whirl around with an ugly snarl to face whoever had struck him. But when he had faced about there was no one there. He saw no one. He heard nothing. And then he received another hard blow. It hurt! It hurt very much. With a half-squall, half-snarl, Yowler whirled about again. As before, he saw no one. He heard no one. It was all very mysterious.

A third time Yowler was struck. This was enough. That was no place for Yowler and he knew it. The sooner he got away from there the better. He wasn't the least bit ashamed of running away. He didn't feel that it was the least bit cowardly. There simply was no sense in remaining to try to fight some one you couldn't see or couldn't hear. So Yowler departed and he departed in a hurry. What is more he made up his mind that that was no place for him to go hunting. He made up his mind that nothing would ever induce him to visit that part of the Green Forest again.

Now, of course, this was just what Hooty and Mrs. Hooty wanted. Of course, you have guessed that it was those two big Owls who had struck Yowler from behind. You know their wings make no sound. That is why he had not heard them. As they had come from behind he had not seen them. When they had struck Yowler had whirled around and they had passed on right over him. So he had not seen them.

"I guess he'll keep away from here now," said Mrs. Hooty, as she watched Yowler bound away through the Green Forest. "I don't think there'll be anything more to worry about from Yowler the Bobcat."

In this she was quite right.

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Connecticut Foundry Company, Rocky Hill.

The Connecticut Foundry company was organized in 1919, by Alfred O. Knudsen, president, Ernest R. Spencer, treasurer, and Arthur R. Enquist, secretary. These three also comprised the entire board of directors. The organization has continued to the present date with the same officers and directors without change at any time, and has always been what is generally known as a close corporation.

The officers of the organization came together and organized, believing that the success of any manufacturing company depends mostly on three factors, i. e., equipment, production and sales, and the blending and coordinating of these three factors into one efficient unit. It was felt that the training and experience of Mr. Enquist on equipment, Mr. Spencer on production, and Mr. Knudsen on sales, brought together these three factors, insuring the success of the Connecticut Foundry company.

Believing that a good product is worthy of a good home and equipment, a contract was placed at once for a modern, fireproof building of concrete, brick, steel and glass, and the best equipment obtainable was purchased.

In March, when building was half completed, business was solicited and obtained to start about thirty men working.

On April 20, the first iron was poured, and the first castings made. Within the next 30 days, working force was doubled, and since that time steady progress has been made that has necessitated numerous additions to buildings, equipment and working force.

In 1928 the Valley Foundry company, East Hampton, Conn., was purchased and has since been operated as a department of the Connecticut Foundry company.

Believing that the best results could be obtained by confining the efforts of the organization to the production of light grey iron castings on a quantity basis, this policy has been strictly adhered to from the beginning to the present time.

Castings for typewriters, telephone boxes, lawn mowers, gears, book ends and many other light castings are daily produced in large quantities for many of the leading manufacturers in this part of the country.

The main plant is located on the Connecticut River with dock facilities.

Group life insurance is furnished free to all employes.

The present officers are: A. O. Knudsen, president; E. R. Spencer, treasurer and manager; A. R. Enquist, secretary and superintendent.

A Swedish engineer, Martin A. Persons, has invented a device to lower gates of railway grade crossings. The mechanism is motivated by the weight of approaching trains.

THREE IMPORTANT FACTORS ENTER INTO THE COST OF YOUR AUTOMOBILE

1. How much it costs to make the car
2. How much extra you pay the dealer
3. How much it costs for operation and up-keep

THE PURCHASE of an automobile involves a considerable amount of money and it should be carefully considered from all angles before a final decision is made.

The value of the car to you depends on the value built into it at the factory, how much extra you pay the dealer for distribution, selling, financing and accessories and what it will cost to operate and maintain the car after purchase. Each of these factors, as it relates to the Ford car, is frankly explained below.

Economy in production

THE FORD CAR is made economically because of the efficiency of Ford production methods. The money saved through this efficiency is put back into the car in improved quality of material and in greater care and accuracy in manufacturing. The constant effort is to eliminate waste and find ways to make each part better and better without increasing cost—frequently at lowered cost.

Because of Ford economies in large production and because the Ford organization operates on a low-profit margin, the price you pay for the car is much less than it would be under any other conditions. Yet it brings you many unusual features of construction and performance.

At least $75 extra value is represented alone by the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, the Rustless Steel, the four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, and the five steel-spoke wheels. The unusually large number of ball and roller bearings and the extensive use of fine steel forgings instead of castings or stampings are additional features that reflect the high quality built into every part of the car. Throughout, it is a value far above the price you pay.

Low dealer charges

THE SAME PRINCIPLES of efficiency and economy that characterize the manufacture of the Ford car are applied also to distribution. Obviously it would do the public little good to save in production if these savings were sacrificed later in excessive costs of selling, financing and accessories.

The Ford dealer, therefore, operates on the same low-profit margin as the Ford Motor Company, his discount or commission being the lowest of any automobile dealer. He does a good business because he makes a small profit on many sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales.

NOTE THESE LOW PRICES

Roadster . . $435
Phaeton . $440 Tudor Sedan $500
Coupe . . $500 Sport Coupe $530
Two-window Fordor Sedan . . $600
Three-window Fordor Sedan . . $625
Cabriolet . $645 Town Sedan $670

(All prices f. o. b. Detroit)

Low charges for time payments through the Universal Credit Company

The lower cost of selling, combined with the low charges for financing and accessories, means a direct saving of at least $50 to $75 to every purchaser of a Ford, in addition to the savings made possible by economies in manufacturing. The money you pay for a Ford goes into value in the car. It is not wasted in high dealer charges.

Low up-keep costs

IT IS IMPORTANT to remember that the cost of your automobile is not the first cost only, but the total cost after months and years of service. Here again there is a decided saving when you buy a Ford.

The cost of operation and up-keep is lower because of simplicity of design, the high quality of material, and the reduction of friction and wear through unusual accuracy in manufacturing and assembling. The reliability and longer life of the car contribute to its low depreciation per year of use.

The intelligent painstaking service rendered by Ford dealers is under close factory supervision and is a factor in the low up-keep cost of the Ford. All labor is billed at a flat rate and replacement parts are always available at low prices through Ford dealers in every section of the United States

In two, three or five years, depending on how much you drive, the saving in operating and maintaining a new Ford will amount to even more than the saving on the first cost of the car.

(Signed)
MR. AND MRS. CLARENCE A. LAMPHERE.
MRS. BERTHA DOYLE AND FAMILY.
MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM VANPELT AND FAMILY.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Ellen Unsworth, who passed away Feb. 27th, 1929.

Peaceful be your sleep, Dear Mother,
Grief and pain gone, for ever more;
Weary days and nights of suffering,
Never will affect you more.
Never did a heart more faithful
Throb within a human breast
Than the one now still forever,
Passed into eternal rest.
With broken hearts we watched you,
And saw you pass away,
Although we loved you dearly,
We could not make you stay;
Nobody knows our longing,
Few have seen us weep,
For we shed our tears with aching hearts
While others are asleep.
JOHN UNSWORTH AND FAMILY.

Atwater Kent Radios

Those who know and appreciate good instruments widely acclaim Atwater Kent Screen-Grid radios as dominating leaders in the field today. Perhaps it was because he visualized the future of Atwater Kent radios that Harold I. Phillips chose to take on the agency for that make when radio-selling was still in its infancy some six years ago. Mr. Phillips entered the field with a thorough knowledge of electricity and his intensive study of Atwater Kent proved to him that here was a radio well worth offering to a critical public.

Since taking on the agency Mr. Phillips has built up an important establishment giving the latest word in service to a wide territory. The attractive new quarters of Phillips' Atwater Kent radio store are located at 398 Main street, in the Capitol Theater building. Mr. Phillips is the only local authorized dealer in this make of radio. The territory which the store serves includes Willimantic, Lebanon, Chaplin, Hampton, Coventry, Columbia, Andover, Ashford, Mansfield, Storrs, Willington, Hebron, Phoenixville, Eastford, Franklin.

The fact that electric current is not available in rural districts has been overcome by Atwater Kent in the manufacture of the fine 67 battery screen-grid set which provides the same fine tone qualities and selectivity, as well as the charm of cabinets available in the electric sets.

An excellent repair and service department consisting of Service Manager David Yorke and four experts is maintained by the Phillips' store. Manager Yorke has had much experience in all the intricacies of radio. He constructed and repaired sets for a number of years and is a graduate Radiotrician of the National Radio Institute of Washington, D. C. Free tube replacements and general service is given for six months with each sale and prompt, reasonable, service is always to be had.

Any person interested in Atwater Kent radios may secure a free home demonstration upon making a request.

Breed Theatre

No less than six sensational song hits make up the melodic texture of "Sunny Side Up," Fox Movietone musical comedy, which closes tomorrow night at the Breed theatre.

"Sunny Side Up" is an original musical comedy written by Buddy De Sylva, Lew Brown and Ray Henderson, Broadway's popular song writers.

They provided six of the best numbers they ever have written for this entertaining production which serves to introduce Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell as musicla comedy stars.

Sales of the songs totaling well into the millions is indicated by their popularity with audiences all over the country. The song hits are: "Sunny Side Up," "If I Had a Talking Picture of You," "You've Got Me Pickin' Petals Off of Daisies," "Turn On the Heat," "You Find the Time, I'll Find the Place," "It's Great to be Necked," and "I'm a Dreamer, Aren't We All?"

David Butler directed "Sunny Side Up," and Seymour Felix, celebrated dance director, staged the ensembles and song numbers. There is a chorus of 100 dancing and singing beauties. The supporting cast is headed by El Brendel, Sharon Lynn, Frank Richardson and Marjorie White.

New London Concert

Next Sunday afternoon in Bulkeley auditorium, New London, the second annual concert will be given by the New London Symphony orchestra, which has been preparing for this event all winter. Conductor Russo has prepared a pleasing program. Two special features will be Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C Minor, and Selection from Cavalleria Rusticana by Mascagni. See adv.

Palace Theatre

A picture which no school child can afford to miss, and which no other person will want to miss, is "The Viking," which opened at the Palace theatre last night along with the new ultra-modern drama, "Wedding Rings." Those who saw "The Viking," will probably understand why this fine old Norse saga drew such splendid tributes from the New York press.

This is what the New York Daily News said: "The most exquisite production of this type thus far accorded the silver screen. For its beauty and its historical interest we grant it three stars. A fine cast . . . good troupers. Pauline Starke photographs lovely. Her performance is good. Donald Crisp accounts for himself remarkably. He cuts a powerful figure. Technicolor in 'The Viking' is perfect. The reds are not harsh, and the blue of the sky is pure azure, and the green of the grass is as it should be. It is all beautifully clear. There isn't a character in this picture who suffers by the technicolor. It enhances scenery and performer, without question. 'The Viking' is an ambitious effort. Those who see it will certainly be impressed."

New York Times: "There is something compelling about 'The Viking.' There are scenes that are like beautiful paintings."

New York Evening World: "The picture is one of the most beautiful ever seen on a Broadway screen. It is done entirely in technicolor and its scenes, its costumes, its backgrounds and its photography are a marvel to behold. The picture is a beauty and it is sold with all sorts of imagination. Superb characterizations. Viewed in the light of history, 'The Viking' is a creditable document."

New York Evening Post; "A swashbuckling, sword-clashing, all color production. Enacted with gusto."

New York Sun: "Captured to a degree the spirit of adventure and the sea and the lusty fervor of brawny Norsemen who first sailed across the rim of the globe. 'The Viking' is not the first all-pigmented kaleidoscope. 'The Black Pirate' of Mr. Fairbanks, to say nothing of 'The Wanderer of the Wastelands,' were colored from first to last. On the whole, 'The Viking' is handsomer, more varied in its prismatic lights and far more interesting. Soft and fetching are its scenes. A romantic and flavorous film. Color takes a forward step. The eye is attracted and satisfied by the warmth that is brought to the customarily coldly photographed screen."

With H. B. Warner, Lois Wilson and Olive Borden in the cast, "Wedding Rings" just has to be a cracking good picture. It tells the story of the wiles and lures of a shallow, selfish woman who cared nothing for men but loved to lead them on until they fell in love with her. Then she cast them off and enjoyed their misery. It is a great picture, and would be a sensation all by itself.

Broadway Theatre

That Norwich folk are music-lovers is ably attested by the capacity audiences who sit spellbound through the wonderful score of "Rio Rita," Florenz Ziegfield's own screen version of that master showman's greatest stage show. Passionate love songs, with that haunting theme of "Rio Rita" dominating all, the stirring "Rangers' Song," surpassing even the famous "Riff Song" in its jaunty swing and fervor, good frank American jazz, and a mavelous symphonic score played by Radio's own giant orchestra, and the sweet tones of Bebe Daniels' newly discovered "screen-voice," coupled with John Boles' appealing tenor, combine to provide the outstanding screen musical comedy of the decade. Fast action, involving Mex bandits with the famed Texas Rangers, dainty romance in a hacienda garden, uproarious comedy with Bob Woolsey and Bert Wheeler of the original stage cast leading the fun, ably assisted by petite Dorothy Lee, a brand new "find" fresh from high school, marvelous ensemble dancing led by the famous Rosita, rousing male voices in stirring choruses, and the scintillating Cimini ballet of over 100 youthful danseuses, are masterfully blended in an entrancing and sometimes very exciting Texas frontier romance.

Added attractions with "Rio Rita" include the Fox Movietone news, and Douglas Stanbury, beloved singer, with his eight British buddies in a stirring song revue, "Pack Up Your Troubles." Today and tomorrow furnish the last opportunities to enjoy the beauties of "Rio Rita," for on Saturday the new screen sensation, "Her Unborn Child," filmed directly from the New York stage hit, and with a cast identical with the stage production, will have its Connecticut premiere at the Broadway.

Burton's Agency Sells Another.

Mr. Owen T. Smith of this city has sold to Henry and Agnes Montie three desirable building lots located on Boswell avenue, north of Fourteenth street.

The sale was negotiated by Mrs. Rosa E. Burton.

St. Mary's Players.

This year's play by this organization is one which had great success on the professional stage and from this we learn that the play itself is good. How many times do we not read of plays which lasted only for a short time. Why? Because they were not good. St. Mary's play is one that did not fail. It had a long run on Broadway. A cast—the equal of any St. Mary's has had—has been selected, and it will be worth anyone's time to see them. Do not forget the date—March 18.

The sister of a Pennsylvania Dutch boy came to the kitchen door to call him from his work in the garden:

"Yohn! Yohn! Come in and eat yourself. Mudder's on the table and fodder's half et!"—Boston Transcript.

SHARKEY PICKED TO BEAT SCOTT IN SHORT ORDER IN TONIGHT'S BOUT

(By Alan Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

[illegible] Fla., Feb. 26—(AP)—With the [illegible] going full blast, efforts that [illegible] little short of desperate [illegible] forth today to turn what [illegible] like a certain financial [illegible] profitable success before [illegible] and Phil Scott step into the ring for their 15-round heavyweight elimination match tomorrow night.

The climax in the belated "build-up" was reached by issuance of a somewhat sensational yarn that Max Schmeling, the German clouter, had injured his thumb or his ankle, thereby jeopardizing his ring future, also the contemplated championship "final" this June at New York and increasing the "significance" of the Sharkey-Scott outcome to a point where the winner might claim the world's title.

This elaborate reasoning sounded all very well until an Associated Press dispatch from Berlin disclosed that Schmeling was in perfect health, good fighting condition and enjoying himself at the winter sports. This news reached the center of fight preparations with a dull, reverberating thud, just as the respective managers of Scott and Sharkey were preparing elaborate statements to claim the championship for tomorrow's winner.

The handling of the spurious bad news about Der Maxie was marked by mystery and some bungling. The first statement, saying Schmeling had broken his thumb three weeks ago, was issued on the authority of Frank J. Bruen, general manager of Madison Square Garden, but later in the day he denied knowledge of the reputed cablegram from Germany. At about the same time, however, the Miami Daily News from a "trustworthy source," reported it had been advised Schmeling had suffered an ankle injury and would never fight again.

The news informant was unidentified but said he personally had seen Schmeling on crutches in Berlin several weeks ago.

The Schmeling story, therefore, shared the same explosive fate as the bubble of Jimmy Johnston's row with Referee Lou Magnolia and the Miami boxing commission over ring regulations, a controversy marked by Johnston's empty threat to withdraw Scott from the match.

It stripped the second battle of the palms of the last vestiges of the glamour which marked the fistic festival last winter and put the show purely on a commercial basis, assuming the proportions of a "racket" in the character of subterfuges used to help put it over.

Miami was crowded with visitors today, for the season here is at its height, but there was still no definite answer as to whether they would flock out to the arena tomorrow night for the international heavyweight carnival in sufficient numbers to make the venture pay. General Manager Bruen repeated his prediction that the "gate" would exceed $300,000, thereby representing a profit of $75,000 to $100,000.

The best available information, based on knowledge of advance sales up to today, was that not many more than 25,000 fans would contribute a "gate" of around $200,000. This would mean a chance for the New York promoters to break even.

Notable array of talent and fame, wealth and fashion, will fill the choice ringside seats, no matter how much vacant space there is otherwise in the arena, which was built to accommodate 52,000 customers. Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney and Mr. and Mrs. Babe Ruth will be among the many conspicuous figures of sport, along with Harry Payne Whitney, Caleb Bragg, Carl Fisher and Larry Waterbury, Walter Camp and his wife, the former Ruth Elder; William K. Vanderbilt, Joseph E. Widener, Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, John Golden, George F. Getz, Mrs. Tex Rickard, John Ringling, Governor Emmerson of Illinois, and George Ade also are among ticketholders.

There were no developments today calculated to change the prospect of a decisive victory for Sharkey. The American remained a five to one favorite, with little or no wagering reported at this prohibitive figure. Most of the experts predicted a knockout inside four rounds.

Lively speculation continued over the ten-round semi-final between Victorio Campolo and Johnny Risko, with the Argentine rated a favorite at 2 to 1, but many supporting the Clevelander.

The American entries were popular choices in the two other ten-rounders, sending Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia against Pierre Charles of Belgium, and Jimmy Maloney of Boston against Moise Bouquillon of France. The Loughran-Charles bout is scheduled after the main event, which is expected to begin about 10 p. m.

All combatants on the card spent today quietly. Sharkey and Scott, both pronounced in excellent condition, exercised for about 15 minutes to keep limbered up. Each voiced confidence in brief statements, Sharkey saying he expected to "end the fight as quickly as possible," while Scott declared he felt "able to cope with Sharkey's best." Sharkey is expected to weigh around 198 and Scott about 203 on the official scales early tomorrow afternoon.

There will be no ringside broadcast. The weather prospects are for partly cloudy skies, but no rain.

BULLETIN WILL ANNOUNCE SHARKEY-SCOTT BOUT

The Sharkey-Scott bout at Miami, Fla., on Thursday evening will be announced by megaphone at The Bulletin office on Thursday evening. As there will be no direct radio broadcast from the ringside The Bulletin will get the results round by round direct from the scene of battle by the Associated Press wires. The main attraction will go on between 9:30 and 10 o'clock, depending on the length of the preliminaries and the weather.

Canzoneri To Meet Ritz

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, former world's featherweight champion, will meet Solly Ritz, Brooklyn lightweight, in a ten round bout at the Broadway arena, Tuesday, it was announced today. It will be Canzoneri's first bout since he was beaten by Jack Kid Berg, of England, at Madison Square Garden, five weeks ago.

MONTVILLE ACES BEAT EMPS BY SINGLE POINT

Wednesday night at the Montville Community house the Montville Aces scored a one point victory over the Norwich Y Emps, 24 to 23 in one of the best played games of the season.

The visitors led at half time but could not hold their margin. McDermott, of the winners and Dickerman, of the Norwich team, were high scorers, each with 12 points.

Friday night the Aces will meet the Norwich Gamma club at the Community house.

DOCTORS PREDICT SHORT CAREER FOR CARNERA

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 26—(AP)—The St. Louis Post Dispatch in a special dispatch from New Orleans tonight declared that the fighting career of Primo Carnera, gigantic Italian heavyweight, will be short lived.

Quoting three "reputable but unnamed physicians" of New Orleans, the Post Dispatch said the doctors either observed or examined Carnera during his week's stay in that city and pronounced him a victim of varicose veins.

In an editor's note it was explained that the examination was made at the paper's suggestion to determine the nature of Primo's leg trouble.

While not naming the physicians the paper says one of them was connected with the camp of Stanley Ketchell. The paper quotes him as saying:

"Carnera is a magnificent physical specimen from the knees up. From the knees down he is weak, exceptionally so. I have never seen a fighter in my 30 years' experience who had legs as bad looking as are Carnera's. I seriously doubt if he does any amount of road work now and believe that if he does any in the future it merely will hasten the end of his career.

"Carnera, if he does any road work," the physican continues, "will risk the rupturing of the varicose veins in his legs. This condition is most unusual in an athlete and particularly in one reputed to be as young as Carnera."

The other two doctors were quoted along the same lines.

TWO MORE CUBS OUT OF PRACTICE WITH INJURIES

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Serious injury stalked into the spring training camp of the Chicago Cubs today when Catcher Johnny Schulte suffered a deep gash over and around his right eye.

Schulte and Ed Lautenbacher, who is trying for a pitching post, ran after a fly ball and collided. Schulte received a deep gash and three stitches were required to close it. He will be in the hospital for several days.

Lautenbacher's mouth was cut slightly.

Lonnie Warenecke, rookie pitcher who was injured between the eyes two days ago by a flying bat, still was on the bench, running the injured list to three.

YALE NOT TO PLAY McGILL FOR ICE TITLE

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 26.—(AP)—An official statement issued from the Yale Athletic association offices today, said the Yale hockey team had no intention of playing McGill university at Montreal early next month for a world's intercollegiate hockey championship.

PLAINFIELD BEATS COLORED GIANTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Feb. 26.—The Plainfield Pros had little trouble in beading the fast Philadelphia Colored Giants in the basketball game here tonight, the locals winning 34 to 30. The game was brilliantly played and although the Pros got away to a good lead the Giants rallied in the last quarter to come within four points of tying the count.

Led by Brusso, who caged 19 points, seven of them from the foul line, the Pros took advantage of a moment of weakness in the first half and scored 17 points, finishing the half with a seven-point advantage. This they held until the end of the third quarter when the Giants, through some good shooting by Oatman, came within a point or so of tying the count but Plainfield managed to hold on to the scant lead.

In the preliminary game the Buddies won a hard-fought contest from Willimantic, 20 to 15. This game was fast and interesting with Marriott and Bromley sharing the scoring honors. The summaries:

One of the ordeals of this modern day of automobiles and synthetic gin is the examination for an operator's license.

Getting an operator's license is like having a tooth pulled, you hate to get started on it but after it's all over you feel a whale of a lot better.

And right now before we go any further, let me say that my sympathy goes to those state cops who are assigned to give examinations for operator's licenses. If there are any unsung heroes they are it.

You go up to the place where the state officer is holding forth and you present your credentials. That is, a card made out and sworn to along with a few shekels that you've had left over after you got through paying for the buggy.

Of course you have a friend along with you who has been through the works, just like you do when you join the lodge. He's there, but that's all the good it does you. The officer asks you how many miles you've driven and you lie like a gentleman and say three or four thousand but you and the officer know that a coupla hundred would be excessive.

Well, after the officer has inquired about your mentality and your past criminal record, if any, he takes your money and motions you over with a lot of other folks, who are just as nervous as yourself. You stand there and listen to a lotta good advise from your companions in misery and maybe you give a little, too. It's like whistling to keep your courage up.

Then it's your turn. The officer motions you to get in your car while the others left in line wish you all kinds of luck like you was going to jump off Brooklyn bridge or go over Niagara falls in a barrel. Some even offer to shake hands with you.

In the car you feel like you was in a strange land and the old bus is as unfamiliar to you as a submarine. You never had any trouble starting the car before, but today it seems like you monkey with every gadget on the darned thing and you don't even get a puff out of it.

You try everything and finally look kind of guilty at the officer and say, "This car never acted this way before." The officer just smiles back and says, "It might start better if you would turn on the ignition." Can you imagine that. Well, of course that helps you regain confidence. Yes, it does—Not.

Well, after the motor is started you feel better, a very little better. The officer tells you to drive up the street and you shift into low to get away from the curb. Everybody within half a mile knows when you shift and you offer a mental prayer that the darned car holds together for at least another ten minutes.

After you get under way you naturally regain a little of the confidence that was once yours. You shift into second with only a little grinding of gears and then into high as silently as a boiler-shop. You cast a furtive glance at the officer but he is as expressionless as the Sphinx.

You drive along as blithely as a deer in a peach orchard and you mentally pat yourself on the back and think that there's worse drivers than you. This feeling of exuberance is short-lived. The officer has spotted a place between two cars on a busy thoroughfare and says "Park There."

Boy, those is harsh words. Parking in a place like that is something you can do anything else but. That's a part of your driving education that has been sadly neglected. But the officer's word is law, as well as something else. There's no help for you, you just gotta make a stab at it.

You jam on the brakes and try to nose in, but it's no go. Then you back out and try to back in, which is worse. By the time you've backed and filled half a dozen times you're farther away from the curb than when you started. Beads of perspiration sparkle on your troubled and furrowed brow. You look at the officer but the expression on his face is anything but sympathetic.

You try again with the same result. You might just as well try to turn the Leviathan around in a brook as to park in that space. Then, the fellow who owns the car in front comes out and drives away and you slide into place as grand as you please. Ain't it a grand and glorious feeling, just like when that aching tooth comes out.

After asking you a few questions the officer says to drive on, and he gives you the O. K. What a relief.

And you'll bust somebody good and hard if he says there ain't no such thing as miracles.

TAXI BOYS LOSE TO H. D. H. BILLIARD EXPERTS

In one of the best played games at the Recreation last night the "H. D. H's", captained by Ray Harris defeated the "Starr Taxis" captained by C. Starr by the score of 100 to 76. Much safe playing was in order and high runs of 9, 7, and 8 were made by Tom Shea of the losers. The crowd was thrilled by the difficult long distance shots of Frank Higgins of the winners. Frank Donovan of the winners was in rare form and his combination shots kept the winners out in front and the large crowd present appreciated his efforts by a large volume of applause.

S. Rutchik of the losers had several runs of 6 and 7 but marred his chances by scratches. C. Starr and R. Harris had runs of 11 and 12 respectively.

The lineup of the H. D. H.'s is as follows: Ray Harris, capt.; F. Higgins and F. D. Donovan. Starr Taxis lined up as follows: C. Starr, capt.; Tom Shea and S. Rutchik.

CAREY CONFIDENT THAT BOUT WILL BE FINANCIAL SUCCESS

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(AP)—William F. Carey, returned from Miami today, regretting the prospect of missing the fight tomorrow night, but confident of its financial success. The president of Madison Square Garden sails Friday for Rio De Janeiro, on a six weeks' business trip.

Carey predicted that the gate would be between $200,000 and $250,000. On the basis of the $200,000 gate, which is only one-half of the amount drawn by the Sharkey-Stribling fight last year, the Garden can still have a net profit of about $23,000, Carey figures.

Still figuring on the basis of a $200,000 gate, Carey said the main bout would cost $80,000, of which Sharkey will receive [illegible]

HORTON SMITH, YOUTHFUL GOLFER, WINS CENTRAL FLORIDA OPEN WITH A 139

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 26—(AP)—Despite a faltering putter, Horton Smith of Detroit won his thirteenth golf crown in fifteen months as he annexed the title of the $2,000 Central Florida open tournament with 139 for the 36 holes.

Smith's work with the putter was good during his first nine holes today when he scored a 33, two strokes below par on Orlando Country club course, but the club failed him in the last nine holes and he missed a number of short strokes to take a 37 on the 36 par division.

One stroke behind him were Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., and Harry Cooper, Los Angeles, who polled twin 68's to lead Smith by one count yesterday.

Smith's card today, following his sixty-nine yesterday, was:

Out—434 453 442—33.

In—444 354 544—37—70—139.

Neil McIntyre, Indianapolis, offered a 73-35-34—141 to follow Turnesa and Cooper, while Bobby Cruickshank, Purchase, N. Y., and Al Watrous, Detroit, each had 143's.

Carl Morris Dann, Jr., Orlando, Fla., was low amateur with a 146.

Smith took $600 first money in the tournament, Turnesa and Light Horse Harry Gaining $350 each, McIntyre, had 141, winning $200; Cruickshank and Watrous, with 143 won $112.50 each; Tom Creavy, New York; Herman Barron, Portchester, N. Y., Bill Mitchell, Syracuse, N. Y., and R. McAuliffe, Buffalo, had $144 for which each received $68.75.

Par or sub-par scores failed to appear at the Orlando Country club course today with the frequency in which they were marked at Tuesday's first day play at Dubsdread Country club.

Despite clear, hot weather, with virtually no wind, Smith's outbound 33 was the only mark below par for that section, and only four of his fellow players were able to equal 35 on the return trip. None of the sixty players got below the 36 parity line and five equalled it.

Smith's dazzling morning round held three birdies and only one hole above par. On the ninth, he dropped a 15 foot putt for a birdie deuce as the final mark in his 33.

His driving and iron shots were generally well placed. On the 13th hole he essayed a 40-foot putt, but missed it by three inches to take a three. This marked the failure of Horton's putting eye.

The golfing caravan departed almost in its entirety by special train tonight to seek further gold and glory at the annual $3,500 Florida West Coast open at Belleair Saturday and Sunday. From there, they will go to St. Petersburg for that city's $3,500 open tourney March 4 and 5 before many of them descend upon Miami for the international four ball matches March 9-13.

Other low scorers included:

Ed Stokes, Denver, 145.

Whiffy Cox, Brooklyn, 146.

Johnny Farrell, St. Augustine, Fla., 145.

Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., 146.

Tony Manero, New York, 145.

Peter Manning, Bristol, Conn., 78-41—withdrew.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, 145.

WINDHAM HAS EASY TIME BEATING KILLINGLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 26—In tuning up for its encounter with the state champion Bristol high team here Saturday night, the Windham high school quintet easily trounced Killingly high, 31 to 12, in a game played at the state armory tonight. The score at the half was 9 to 7 in Windham's favor, the locals opening up to romp off with the easy victory during the last two of the eight minute periods.

Captain Meikle and Sroka of Windham featured with good playing and fine scoring.

SALIENT FACTS ABOUT SHARKEY-SCOUT BOUT

By the Associated Press

Principals—Jack Sharkey, of Boston, generally recognized American heavyweight champion, and Phil Scott, British champion, in a 15-round match to a referee's decision, the winner to meet Max Schmeling at New York in June for "world's championship."

Semi-final—Victorio Campolo, Argentine, and Johnny Risko, Cleveland, ten rounds.

Preliminaries—Jimmy Maloney, Boston, and Moise Bouquillon, France, ten rounds; Bill Daring, Palm Beach, Fla., and Raoul Bianchi, Argentine, six rounds; Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia and Pierre Charles, Belgium, ten rounds, probably fought after the main event.

Probable weather—Partly cloudy. If rain, show to be held Friday night.

OLYMPIC SWIMMING CHAMP TO ATTEND YALE UN'V.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—Albert Zorilla, the dark handsome young Argentine who won the Olympic 400 meter swimming championship in the 1928 games at Amsterdam, arrived here today from South America and announced that he intends to enter Yale university in the fall. He expects to become a lawyer.

In the meantime, Zorilla will train at the New York Athletic club pool in preparation for the national outdoor swimming championships in Los Angeles, July 3-6.

"If I can get into shape soon [illegible] he said, "I may also enter the indoor championships at Chicago, April 2-5."

Zorilla does not plan to return to South America until after the Olympic games of 1932 at Los Angeles, where he proposed to defend his title.

There is a tradition of swimming success at Yale, whose teams have been among the best in the country year after year, and it was partly this, Zorilla said, that led him to decide to go to New Haven for his education. He is somewhat older than most men entering college, being 23.

DO YOU REMEMBER THIS ONE?

(Another of a number of articles recalling local baseball of other years.)

One of the traditional Norwich-New London games was played Saturday, July 8, 1916, at the State hospital diamond when Enot, pitching for the Riverview club blanked the New London Independents and narrowly missed a no-hit, no-run game. The score was 2 to 0 and the only hit came from the bat of Foster, New London first baseman. Hal Chase of Riverview was the star batsman, getting two singles and a double.

This game was held on the occasion of the annual field day at the hospital.

DOUBLEHEADER AT Y COURT SLATED FOR THIS EVENING

Tonight, at the Y. M. C. A., there will be a double header.

In the main attraction of the evening the Phi Delta Nu of the United Congregational church will have as their opponents the Morgan A. C. of New London. Very little is known about the visitors except that early in the season they had won 8 out of 11 games. The Deltas have experienced considerable difficulty in producing the scoring punch this season but nevertheless have not lost but three game by more than 10 points this season. The Deltas present record is 11 lost and 6 won, but with about 10 more games to play there is still chance for some better playing.

In the second game of the evening the Gamma club will have as their opponents the Baltic Methodist club. This will be a church league encounter and will be a playoff of one of the games in the church league schedule of next Monday. There will be no league Monday, due to the fact that the Norwich girls will play the New London girls, and the Y seniors will play Saybrook.

The first game between the Deltas and New London will be played at 8 while the second will be played about 9.

DEFEAT OF DOEG ONE OF SURPRISES AT BERMUDA

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The defeat of John Doeg, of Santa Monica, Cal., one of the best of America's youngest tennis stars, by Dean Mathey, Crawford, N. J., veteran, who only once attained the honor of a first ten ranking, provided the third round of the Bermuda tennis championships today with one of the biggest upsets in the history of the tournament. Mathey won in straight sets, 6-2, 7-5.

Two young Texans, Bruce Barnes and Berkeley Bell, reached the semi-finals by easy victories. Barnes defeated H. Caner, of Bermuda, 6-3, 6-2. Bell eliminated Henry R. Guild, of Boston, 6-1, 6-4. Herbert L. Bowman, of New York, became the fourth semi-finalist by eliminating Karl Pfaffman, former Harvard star, 6-2, 6-1.

Miss Penelope Anderson, of Richmond, Va., the defending titleholder in the women's singles championship, advanced to the final round after a three set battle with Virginia Rice, of Boston. The scores were 6-4, 3-6, 7-5. Edith Sigourney, of Boston, won the other semi-final match from Mrs. H. R. Guild, of Boston, 6-3, 6-1, 6-4. The leading teams in the women's doubles, Miss Anderson and Mrs. Guild and Miss Sigourney and Miss Rice, went through their first round matches in easy fashion.

TOWN TEAM TOURNAMENT IS BEING PLANNED

Arrangements for a town team tournament among teams representing Danielson, Plainfield, Willimantic and Taftville are being made by Roy Dissinger of the Plainfield Community association. These four teams will compete in an elimination tourney during the latter part of March, the games being played at the Plainfield Community house. The teams will be composed of only local boys and no hired players will participate in the games. Willimantic is in charge of Nichols and Tiner, Danielson has Pop Williams at the helm, Dissinger will pilot the Plainfield boys while Leo Normandin will lead the Taftville towners.

UHLE IS ONLY TIGER PITCHER HOLDING OUT

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 26—(AP)—George Uhle, veteran right hander is the only one of the Detroit Tigers' pitchers who has not reported to Manager Bucky Harris at training camp here. All the others are said to be in such good condition that a few practice sessions should put them in shape. Uhle is having his arm treated at Los Angeles.

Manager Harris has a promising recruit in Henry Greenberg, 19-year-old New York boy. Greenberg has played first base but Harris is trying to make him over to play at third as an understudy of Marty McManus.

EBBETS AND MANAGER ARE SUSPENDED IN JERSEY

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 26—(AP)—Leo Forcella, state boxing inspector, announced today the suspension of Harry Ebbets, middleweight boxer, and his manager, Ike Dorgan, until a contract for Ebbets to box here is fulfilled. The suspension, Forcella said, also is effective in other states affiliated with the National Boxing association.

Ebbets was to have boxed Abie Bain here Monday night. He pleaded illness but failed to appear at the commission offices for a physical examination, the inspector said.

CUBS WIN FIRST GAME OF THE 1930 SEASON

AVALON, SANTA CATALINA ISLAND, Cal., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs supplied a team from the United States Coast Guard cutter Alonquin with pitchers, catchers and a few sun dodging outfielders today, and won their first practice game of the season, 11 to 5.

It was a clowning contest of two and a half innings and the pitchers, Charley Root for the Cubs and Pat Malone and Malcolm Moss for the sailors, were asked to be easy so the players could get a workout on base running and fielding.

After the game Manager Joe McCarthy sent his players through pitching and fielding practice.

FOUR OF BROWNS PITCHING STAFF YET TO REPORT

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 26—(AP)—Four of the St. Louis Browns' pitching aces, Sam Gray, George Blaeholder, Walter Stewart and Warren Collins still were missing today as the Browns went through their second workout since opening spring training this week. It was understood here that negotiations between club officials and the players were under way and that the belated ones soon will be in camp.

To offset the late arrivals, Lu Blue, first baseman, and Eddie Roetz, infielder, reported today although they were not due until next Monday.

JACKIE BURNS WILL BE AMONG THOSE TO SEE SHARKEY-SCOTT

Jackie Burns, prominent figure in local boxing, will be numbered among those who will be at the ringside tonight when Sharkey and Phil Scott meet in the Battle of the Palms. Jackie is sojourning in the Sunny South and writes that he has tickets for the big show tonight. He further states that he has seen both boxers in training and is picking Sharkey to make short work of Scott.

Hickey's Five Vs. Jewett City

The Hickey's Billiard Five and the Jewett City team hook up in a return pocket billiard match at the Hickey Billiard parlors this evening. In the last match the Hickey team won by a substantial margin and the Jewett City cue wielders are out to even it up. The feature match will be between Al Benson, local champ, and Baker, the pride of the Jewett City tables.

Collegians Vs. Peacedale

The Westerly Collegians basketball team, George Winterbottom, manager, goes to Peacedale, R. I., this (Thursday) evening where at Guild hall they will have for their opponents the Eagle A. C. basketball team, champion colored team of Rhode Island. The Collegians' line-up will be as follows: Federic, rf; Stefanski, lf; Cropper, c; Holt, rg; Sawyer, lg.

Gagnon Beats Baker

"Lewiston Joe" Gagnon, trick shot artist, gave a very brilliant exhibition of pocket billiards at the Strakwa parlors in Jewett City last night. Gagnon defeated the Jewett City star, 100 to 40. Lewiston Joe set a local record with a high run of 61.

YANTIC

An evening of cards was given at the home of Mrs. S. H. Bishop, Wednesday evening, by Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Ellis Bentley, to swell the fund already started for building an annex to the parish house of Grace church. Nineteen tables of bridge were played and prizes were won by Mrs. John McWilliams, Mrs. Edward Rich, Dr. Marie Boynton and Mrs. Charles Weeks, Dr. C. G. Thompson, Frank Davis and Howard Hitchon. Cake and coffee were served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Edward Smith. During the refreshment period radio music was furnished by John A. Ferguson, who loaned one of his latest electric sets. Forty dollars was added to the building fund. "Dry Weather," the play produced by the Girls' Friendly society last week, netted $219.24. Work is expected to begin on the Parish house annex this week. A play or minstrel by the Sunshine society is the next benefit event planned.

Schools closed Friday for a mid-year recess of one week. Many of the teachers have planned recreation trips and a few will be in attendance at the National Education association meetings held at Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Harkness were recent visitors in Meriden.

Mrs. Charles Molter is entertaining her mother, Mrs. Wagner, of Pittsburgh, this week.

Miss Katherine McHale of Norwich spent the past week with her sisters, the Misses McHale, of Oakland avenue.

David Irvin has succeeded Joseph Gayaski as crossing tender for the Central Vermont railway and the Connecticut company at the granary crossing.

EAST WOODSTOCK

A. J. Thomas is the new janitor at Woodstock academy.

Miss Eleanor Lindeman of New York and Alfred Landres of Brooklyn, N. Y., spent the week end at the Lindeman home. They returned to New York Sunday evening accompanied by Mrs. Landres, who had spent a week with her parents.

Mrs. Bertha H. Bannister and son Dexter, of Webster, Mass., called on G. L. Upham and family Sunday.

Dr. Florence Dean of Putnam called on local relatives Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox Horton and two daughters and Mrs. C. S. Bunce all of South Manchester spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. E. May.

Miss Constance Witherell of the Bouvet School of Physical Education and Einar Hanson of Northeastern college, Boston, spent the week end at their respective homes.

William Knights, of Hopedale, Mass., and his brother, Henry Knights of Illinois called on their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Pike.

Miss Louise Pike sang "Life's Weaving," by Wosley, as a solo at the Congregational church Sunday.

POETRY

The Passing Hours

The hours, like fleet-winged birds, fly on their way,
Pausing a moment, in their endless flight
To far and infinite realms of starless night,
In song or silence on some flowering spray.

They come like orioles with garments gay,
Or swallows blithe and brave; they seek the height
Of singing larks, they swoop like hawks to smite,
Or pass like crows with menacing display.

But none return. The gay and careless wren,
The thrush that sang of heaven, the nightingale
That told of love, they all will come again,
But though the birds their vernal vestments don
And fly a thousand times the self-same trail,
The hours, like homeless birds, go on and on.

—Mabel Gillespie in the Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Brook

The brook with sparkling waters grand,
A streak of beauty in the land;
From my secluded little nook
I see the effervescent brook.

Through the meadows, through the rushes,
Over rocky bed it gushes;
Flowing with its clear, bright waters,
One of nature's many daughters.

Into rivers, into lakes,
Over sandy bank it breaks;
Works of men cannot compare
With this bit of flashing glare.

—Edward Goulston Dreyfus, in Boston Transcript.

Koon's machine, which is 200 feet long and fifty feet high, to accommodate large quantities of hay, is expected to complete in two minutes the hay-drying process that takes nature several weeks. Aside from additional speed in drying the hay, the new device is said to retain the original green color in the forage.

TALL CEDARS TO HOLD NEW LONDON CEREMONIAL

Supreme Tall Cedar H. Franklin Brossman, of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon, a national "playground" organization for Master Masons, has announced that Governor John H. Trumbull, of Connecticut, has accepted an invitation to join New London Forest, No. 72, at a ceremonial session to be held at the state armory in New London, on April 5. Mr. Brossman will attend the ceremonial, accompanied by other national officers of the order, and will make the governor a Tall Cedar "at sight," an honor rarely conferred by the order. Committees are now at work at New London, planning the details of the session, and already have acceptances to attend from Tall Cedars from all sections of the country. There are no wthree regularly constituted forests of the order in Connecticut, at New London, South Manchester and Moosup, but plans to institute other forests at Hartford, New Haven, Meriden, Bridgeport, and elsewhere in the state are rapidly nearing completion.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Local people, many of whom you know, are highly endorsing Tanlac. For example, Mrs. Ellen White says: "For years I suffered from indigestion. I got no relief from anything until I took Tanlac. After my fourth bottle, I feel like a new person and have a fine appetite."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you. Accept no substitute.

WOMAN BRINGS SUIT AGAINST HUSBAND FOR $35,000 DAMAGES

According to papers filed Wednesday with the clerk of the superior court in this city Mrs. Angelina Messer of New London seeks $35,000 damages from her husband and asks the court for an order to compel him to support her.

Mrs. Messer claims that she has been married to her husband for 15 years and that he left her Nov. 1, 1928, and has not since contributed to her support. She further claims that her husband is worth $30,000 and that he is engaged in a profitable business. The nature of the business is not stated. In a counter suit Messer seeks $10,000 damages from his wife on the common counts.

Milton Putham Burhoe, of New London, seeks a divorce from Helen Starkey Burhoe of New London on grounds of a statutory offense. Gordon Simms is named as the corespondent. The couple were married June 18, 1922.

Florence Elwood Mitchell of New London asks for her freedom from Harry Mitchell of Philadelphia, on grounds of desertion and a statutory offense. Margaret McCurry is named as the corespondent. The couple were married Aug. 1, 1920. Custody of a nine-year old child is also asked.

Asks Damages Of $25,000

Damages of $25,000 are asked by Thomas Sinclair of New London in a suit he has brought against William G. Barclay, William Barclay and Frank Halliwell of New London and Mabel Downes of Groton.

Sinclair claims that he was struck by an automobile in Ocean avenue Feb. 24, 1929, and suffered personal injuries. All of the defendants are claimed to have been in some measure involved in responsibility.

Rosario Barca of New London asks damages of $5,000 from Henry E. Smith of New London. Plaintiff claims he received personal injuries as a result of being struck by the defendant's automobile in Ocean avenue, Oct. 8, 1929.

The executrix of the estate of Thomas Gunning, Mary Gunning of Newburgh, N. Y., has brought suit against Lenora M. Leary of New London in which it is alleged that the defendant gave the late Thomas Gunning a note for $1,000, Dec. 3, 1924, which claimed to be secured by two parcels of land with buildings thereon in New London.

Raymond Lamb, of Boston, has appealed the action of the probate court, district of Stonington, in admitting the will of Lamb's grandfather, Thomas A. Perry.

BROADCAST FARM BOARD TALK OVER STORRS STATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 26.—A study of local cooperative associations in New England by the federal farm board will be begun not later than July 1, this year, and the results will be available before July 1, 1931, according to Dr. E. A. Perregaux, marketing specialist at the state college, in a radio talk over station WCAC. The agricultural committee of the New England council at the request of the federal farm board conducted a conference in Boston, Monday, February 24, to discuss the board's program as it applies to New England, and particularly to determine plans and procedure for the development of the local study.

The farm board realizes that the cooperative marketing problems of the northeastern states are somewhat different from those in other parts of the country, Dr. Perregaux said, and this special study has been authorized by the board to determine types of business done by local cooperatives and will be used as a basis for the development of any future organizations that may be needed. An appropriation of $30,000 has been made for the study which will be a joint project of the farm board, the state colleges and the department of agriculture. The board will provide for the survey of the field, the colleges will provide office space and statistical assistance, while the state departments of agriculture will examine the charters of the associations to determine whether they comply with the provisions of the Capper Volstead act, the economist explained.

Dr. Perregaux then gave a brief outline of the most important points in the agricultural marketing act which created the federal farm board. The declaration of policy as presented in this act stated that agriculture should be placed on the basis of economic equality with other industries by minimizing speculation, preventing inefficient and wasteful methods of distribution, encouraging producers, controlling marketing organizations, and aiding in the prevention and control of surpluses.

An appropriation of 500 million dollars has been authorized to enable the board to function, Dr. Perregaux stated. This sum can be loaned to cooperative associations to promote effective merchandising, construct physical facilities, form clearing houses, stabilize corporation, provide for larger advances to members of cooperatives than are possible under present facilities. Loans must be in furtherance of the objects of the act and reasonably safe in the opinion of the board. Loans for physical facilities must not exceed 80 per cent of the value of the property, and the purchase price or rent paid must be reasonable.

The board has also ruled, Dr. Perregaux stated, that a cooperative must have conformed to the provisions of the Capper Volstead act to be eligible for loans. This means that the association must be composed of farmers acting together in marketing their product for their mutual benefit. The association cannot handle more value of product for non-members than for members, and must conform to one of the following: That no member is allowed more than one vote regardless of the stock or membership capital owned or that the association does not pay dividends to exceed eight per cent per annum.

AUTO DRIVERS SUMMONED FOR HEARINGS TUESDAY

HEAVY FINES ON LIQUOR LAW CHARGES

Santo Tedeschi, 25, of 30 Lake street, and Dominick Pasqualine, 36, of 128 High street, charged with violation of the liquor laws, were presented in the city court Wednesday morning and each fined $400 and costs and given suspended jail sentences of 30 days. They paid their fines, which totaled nearly $900.

Henry J. Pepin, 31, of Taftville, and Nicholas Panatagros of Thames street were each fined $200 and costs and also received sentences of 10 days in jail, from which they took an appeal to the common pleas court. Bonds were fixed at $200. They are charged with violation of the liquor laws.

Attorney Thomas M. Shields was counsel for Pepin and Panatogros, and Attorney Thomas J. Kelly for Tedeschi and Pasqualine. Demurrers were entered by counsel for the accused in each case, but they were overruled.

The four men were arrested by local and state police in a series of raids Saturday morning.

GEORGE H. BRADFORD IS ENDORSED FOR SHERIFF

New London county republican leaders at an informal conference at New London decided to endorse County Commissioner George H. Bradford of Montville, as successor to the late High Sheriff Sidney A. Brown. The three state central committeemen, Judge Daniel M. Cronin of the Eighteenth district, Compensation Commissioner Albert L. Bailey, of Norwich, of the Nineteenth district, and Mr. Bradford, who represents the Twentieth district, and State Attorney Arthur M. Brown participated in the discussion and it is understood that Mr. Bradford said he would accept the appointment and that the others present were unanimously agreed that his name should go before Governor Trumbull.

No formal endorsement was sent to the governor but it is said that such endorsement will be presented to him in person by a delegation which will visit the state capitol this week.

Any appointment that Governor Trumbull might make at this time will be good only until the fall when Sheriff Brown's term of office would have expired and it will be up to the republican and democratic parties at that time to nominate candidates for the office in the regular manner. The term of the sheriff is four years and the annual salary is $6,000.

Although there will be no election in the fall, the governor's appointee will hold office until June 1, 1931.

K. OF C. CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN NORWICH

Official notice has been received by James P. Sheridan, grand knight of White Cross council, No. 13, Knights of Columbus will be held in this city in 1930. The convention dates are May 5 and 6. About 200 delegates from the 67 councils in the state are expected to attend.

NORWICH TOWN

In the vestry of the First Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday evening Dorcas Home Missionary society held a largely attended birthday social. The president, Mrs. William Weaver, presided, and announced the programme which opened with congregational singing. Mrs. Lewis Aldrich was pianist. The bags were called in that were put in circulation several weeks ago. Each person was expected to put in a penny equivalent to every year of her life, as an admission fee. Nearly $50 was received from these containers and more are yet to be turned in. The proceeds plus the amount on hand is to be used toward painting the parsonage. An interesting article on Birthday Containers, in poetry, was written by Mrs. William E. Manning and read by her during the program, to which she also contributed several humorous readings. Rev. Howard Bushnell played two violin solos, Gavette by Gossec, and Fifth Air Vaire, Dancla, Mrs. Lewis Aldrich playing the piano accompaniment. Mrs. Aldrich also gave several piano solos throughout the evening. Harold Rose, in a clever imitation, sang one of Harry Lauders compositions, his daughter, Miss Doris Rose, being at the piano. Mr. Rose also responded to an encore. Miss Izetta Dellette contributed a reading also played several harmonica selections. Miss Beaulah Rogers recited The Country Boy, and after responding to an encore recited America For Me. A piano solo by Miss Mary Waters concluded the entertaining program. As a proof of the esteem in which the president of the society is held, it being the date of her 40th wedding anniversary, Mrs. William Weaver was presented a large decorated wedding cake by Mrs. George Manning. The cake which was inscribed 40 years, was made by Mrs Richard Carter. After Mrs. Weaver had inserted the knife, this was cut and passed around. While the cake was being cut and served, the assemblage sang Blest Be The Tie That Binds.

Mrs. Edwin Lathrop of Norwich Town was hostess to the Missionary society of Bozrah Congregational church Wednesday afternoon when there was an attendance of twenty. The president, Mrs. Edwin A. Bishop, presided and during the devotional period "Stand Up For Jesus" was sung, Miss Alice Bishop playing the piano accompaniment. The Lord's prayer and the 23rd Psalm were repeated in unison. Miss Bishop, the secretary, submitted her report as did also the treasurer, Mrs. Lucretia Lathrop. Mrs. Jabez Lathrop reported for the flower committee. This was the annual meeting and the officers were re-elected as follows: President, Mrs. Edwin A. Bishop; vice president, Mrs. Jabez Bailey; secretary, Miss Alice Bishop; treasurer, Mrs. Lucretia aLthrop. As chairman of the flower committee, Mrs. Frances Herrick was appointed to succeed Mrs. Jabez Lathrop, resigned, while Mrs. Albert J. Bailey was appointed chairman of the program committee, to be assisted by Mrs. Orrin F. Maples and Mrs. Herrick. Work was done on luncheon sets for Miss Ruth Beebe, at Trinity school, Athens, Alabama. The project of this society for 1930 is working for Miss Beebe's to which its apportionment has already been forwarded. It was voted Wednesday to send a gift of $15 from the society's treasury for foreign missionary work. At the close of the meeting the offering amounted to $4.25. The hostess served sandwiches, cake, doughnuts and coffee. Mrs. Lathrop was assisted by Mrs. Byron Fargo, Mrs. LeRoy Lathrop, Miss Helen Lathrop and the Misses Backus and Fargo. The meeting for March is to be held with Mrs. Jabez Bailey of Yantic.

The meeting of the work department of the League of Service of the Congregational church, scheduled to take place Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sarah Chapin, has been postponed indefinitely.

The meeting for March of Ever Ready circle of the King's Daughters has been planned for Wednesday evening, the fifth, at the home of Miss Rose K. Durr, R. N., 85 Town street.

Arrangements are being formulated for a clam chowder supper, by the supper committee of the League of Service of the Congregational church. Mrs. John E. Browning is general chairman.

"The worst cough ever had —stopped OVERNIGHT"

"I don't remember ever having coughed so often as that morning I was caught in a snow storm—six miles from nowhere. By the time I got home I was sure I was in for a long indoor spell. Miss Elsie Kane, window shade expert of the du Pont Company an expert demonstrates that du Pont Tontine window shades are washable . . .

THURSDAY

E. I. DU PONT DE NEMOURS & COMPANY, INC., is sending Miss Kane, a window shade expert, here for a three days' demonstration beginning Thursday.

She will deliberately soil a du Pont TONTINE shade, scrub it with a brush, soap, hot water, and bring it back fully to its original beauty.

She will show you how you can extend the reign of cleanliness in your home to include the window shades. And yet washability is only one of the new and improved TONTINE'S virtues. These shades do not pinhole or crack, nor will they fade or fray.

You see they are made from the same basic substance as the famous du Pont Duco. Remarkable, isn't it? To think that now you can have shades that can be taken down as often as they are soiled, scrubbed vigorously with a brush, and rehung as beautiful as new shades.

Be sure and see Miss Kane (the du Pont expert) demonstrate the washability of TONTINE shades with a brush, hot water and soap, (it is, as you know, the only successful way you can really clean a dirty window shade). As an up-to-date housekeeper, we know that you will be interested in how new standards of beauty and cleanliness are being carried out even in window shades.

Miss Kane will also have a display of TONTINE shades in the popular new Corded effects and Figured shades with all-over patterns in color. They are most attractive and well worth seeing.

REGULATION OF LIQUOR BY STATES STRONGLY URGED

Federal Prohibition Assailed As Bringing About a Lawless Condition In the Country—Rev. John Malick of Cincinnati Asserted That the Only Way to Enforce the Dry Law Would Be to Turn It Over "To a Fanatical Group Who Believe In It"—"Then You Would Have a State of Terror Worse Than Pre-Prohibition Conditions"—Committee to Give Wets Another Day.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A return to the states of authority to regulate manufacture and sale of liquor was advocated repeatedly today by witnesses before the house judiciary committee.

A clergyman from the mid-west and an industrialist from the east were among those who argued that prohibition was wreaking evil and should be repealed. Plans had called for those opposed to the 18th amendment to complete their case today, but so many remained who wanted to be heard that Chairman Graham granted them another day before the dry side will be presented. Tuesday was set as that day.

The Rev. John Malick, pastor of the First Unitarian - Congregationalist church at Cincinnati, declared the only way to enforce prohibition was to turn responsibility over "to a fanatical group who believe in it," adding: . . . "Then you would have a state of terror worse than pre-prohibition conditions."

Pierre S. Du Pont, chairman of the board of the E. I. Du Pont De Nemours company, of Wilmington, Delaware, said he had concluded after a five-year study that prohibition was a failure. He advocated establishment of state control through commissions of Anti-Saloon league members, ministers and "our best citizens."

Other witnesses included Raymond Pitcairn, a Philadelphia manufacturer; H. H. Curran and John Gebhart, president and director of research, respectively, for the Association Against the 18th Amendment; Alexander Lincoln of Boston; Robert M. Harris, New York broker; Fabian Franklin, New York author; Henry Alan Johnston, representing the voluntary committee of lawyers, of New York, and Cole E. Morgan, a reporter for the Hearst newspapers.

All assailed the dry laws as bringing about a lawless condition in the country and destroying a principle of American government. Du Pont said he was doubtful that prohibition had brought any prosperity to the nation in the past ten years. He said many big industrialists believed in prohibition for the working classes, but not for themselves.

The industrialist said it had been necessary to enact "monstrous laws" to enforce the 18th amendment because it had not met with the approval of the people. When national prohibition was enacted, he continued, there was little evidence among the states that it was desired by the people.

In an exchange with Representative Moore, republican, Ohio, the Rev. Mr. Malick said that the public schools in Ohio had not been teaching "scientific temperance" but "scientific prohibition."

Representative LaGuardia, republican, wet, New York, remarked that "whatever they taught in the schools the people are drinking."

Pitcairn said the people more and more were ignoring the 18th amendment and suggested that "we forget it" in order to devote the nation's time and money to curbing "real crime."

Another phase of the prohibition controversy developed today when Attorney General Mitchell disapproved in a letter to Senator Capper, republican, Kansas, an effort to make more drastic the District of Columbia law permitting the search of private homes in liquor cases.

At the same time, Representative Christopherson, republican, South Dakota, introduced in the house two bills to carry out in a modified form the recommendations of the national law enforcement commission to strengthen dry law enforcement. One would amend the United States criminal code to define petty offenses of all categories instead of singling out prohibition. The other would provide for summary trials of petty offenders without subjecting them to double jeopardy.

In his testimony before the judiciary committee, Franklin said the people were in "flaming revolt" and that the prisons were overcrowded by reason of prohibition.

The committee heard from Gebhart that prohibition cases constituted 70 per cent of the cases in federal courts and that the $7,000,000 expansion of the federal penal system would be inadequate to accommodate the dry law violators. The judges would have to dismiss the violators with fines, he said.

Morgan testified the Washington Herald and other Hearst newspapers had made a survey of the country which showed that 1,360 deaths had resulted directly from prohibition enforcement, which he declared to be seven times the number reported by the prohibition bureau.

WOULD REDUCE HOURS OF LABOR IN COTTON INDUSTRY

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—(AP)—The Cotton-Textile Institute today announced that "an important number of cotton manufacturers in southern and New England states" have recommended to the entire industry a reduction of hours of labor to a maximum of 55 hours per week for daytime work and 50 hours per week for night work.

This recommendation is designed, the announcement said, to "promote greater regularity of work and greatest contentment among mill employes."

Among the mill executives recommending the plan were Lincoln Baylies, Amory Browne and Company, Boston; C. F. Broughton, Wamsutta Mills, New Bedford, Mass.; E. G. Chace, Berkshire Fine Spinning Associates, Adams, Mass.; and G. Edward Buxton, B. B. & R. Knight corporation, Providence, R. I.

DR. JAMES HOWARD SNOOK WILL BE EXECUTED TODAY

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The last hope of Dr. James Howard Snook, former Ohio State unversity professor, to escape death tomorrow in the electric chair for the murder last June 13 of Miss Theora Hix, a student, was lost today when Governor Cooper denied both an application for stay of execution and for commutation of the death sentence, to life imprisonment.

Dr. Melvin Hix, of Bradenton, Fla., father of the slain girl, went up to the governor as soon as his decision was announced, shook hands with him and said: "I thank you from the bottom of my heart."

Dr. Snook must pay with his life at some hour tomorrow between 12.01 a. m. and 11.59 p. m. Warden P. E. Thomas has declined to specify the time, and law grants him the right to hold the execution at any hour he sees fit.

CONGRESSMAN KUNZ AND HIS SON WERE ACQUITTED

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Congressman Stanley H. Kunz and his son, Stanley Kunz, Jr., were acquitted late today of charges of operating a confidence game and of obtaining money under false pretenses.

The jury deliberated two hours and ten minutes.

Congressman Kunz was accused of accepting $400 from Roman Trochowski on the promise he would obtain a civil service appointment to the police department for Trochowski's brother. The job never materialized, Trochowski charged.

The accused father and son denied accepting the money as a bribe, but said it was a loan, which was repaid. They contended Trochowski charged the bribe because they were slow in paying the debt.

1,500 COCK PHEASANTS TO BE RELEASED IN CONN.

HARTFORD, Feb. 27—(AP)—The state board of fisheries and game today announced that 1,500 cock pheasants will be released in Connecticut coverts, between March 1 and 10. They will be systematically added to existing flocks of wild hen pheasants.

With increases by natural reproduction plus 15,000 birds which will be distributed by the state in August, an abundance of game is expected for the next hunting season.

WHEAT PRICES BENEFITED BY PURCHASES OF MAY FUTURES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—With increasing complaints from private traders before them, Chairman Legge of the farm board and Secretary Hyde conferred at length today and then joined in a statement to the effect that wheat prices had been materially benefited by the purchase of May futures and that the stabilization corporation would continue its present line of operations.

The agriculture secretary's attitude was considered significant in view of the Heflin resolution, adopted by the senate, which called upon him to recommend to the senate whatever action he thought necessary to protect agricultural markets, even to the extent of temporarily closing the wheat and cotton exchanges to prevent harmful speculation."

FUSION OF ANTI-AMERICAN ORGANIZATIONS IN HAITI

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Feb. 27. —(AP)—The latest development in the Haitian political situation is the announced fusion of all the organizations that are opposed to continuance of American occupation. The fusion was formed to labor for the restoration of sovereign rights, and to plan measures for the "disoccupation of Haitian territory."

Subscribing to this merger are the National League for Constitutional Action, the Patriotic Union, the League of Man's Rights, the League for Social Action, the League of Youth, the League for National Defense, and the National Labor party. This union contemplates the selection of a small council to present their demands to the Hoover commission.

17 WIVES OF U. S. DELEGATES AT BUCKINGHAM PALACE

LONDON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Seventeen wives of American naval delegates and advisers were thrilled this afternoon, when they were received at Buckingham palace by Queen Mary.

But the magnificence of the throne room and the presence of the queen were almost overshadowed for the Americans by the fact that the palace was "delightfully and comfortably warm." After five weeks in London without steam heat and suffering from the chill weather, the American women went to the palace prepared to wear fur coats if necessary. They found huge, cheery fires blazing in all the rooms and sunshine streaming through the windows against the rich furnishings.

AMERICAN JEWS AROUSE INDIGNATION IN MOSCOW

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Feb. 27.—(AP) —The correspondent of the Jewish telegraphic agency reported today that great indignation was being expressed in official circles against American Jews who have "joined the pope's crusade against soviet Russia."

Russian officials feel that American Jews more than those of other countries know what the soviet government has done for Russian Jewry and that more than other religious groups, they are responsible for the stirring up of public opinion against Russia.

A leading official said today "It is remarkable that although the anti-soviet campaign is being conducted under the slogan of a crusade the rabbinate has nevertheless joined it."

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

BERLIN, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Violent attacks on England were made by a number of deputies while a reichstag committee was discussing a liquidation agreement with Great Britain.

HONOLULU, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Colonel Granville Sevier, through his attorneys, withdrew permission he previously had granted Sheriff Patrick Gleason, ex-officio coroner, to remove the body of his wife, Mrs. Marion Sevier, from the cemetery so an autopsy could be performed.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Opposition to the government coal bill in the house of commons, which at first was feared might adversely affect the naval conference, if Prime Minister MacDonald were defeated, failed to materialize suffient votes tonight and MacDonald emerged the victor by the small majority of nine votes.

PARIS, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The deposed Shah Ahmed of Persia, descendent of the prophet and reputed to be one of the richest men in the world, died in Paris today at the early age of 32. His death came in the American hospital in Paris, and tonight his body was taken to the mosque for the last rites, only a few friends accompanied it.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Sir Hubert George Wilkins, noted aviator and explorer, started homeward late night by steamer. He sold to the Argentine government his planes, "The San Francisco and "The Los Angeles," the latter being the machine in which he and Carl Ben Eielson made their famous flight from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitsbergen without stop. Sir Hubert had both machines with him on his recent eplosions in the Antarctic.

WOMAN SAVED THREE BATHERS FROM DROWNING

STUART, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—A 22-year old woman who saved three bathers from drowning yesterday, while two others lost their lives in the undertow, was being acclaimed as a heroine today by her fellow townsmen of Stuart.

She is Mrs. Elaine Van Smith, whose exploits as a life-saver were prompted by a tragedy at Jensen beach, several miles north of Stuart, in which Fred Reynolds, 22, of Walton, near Stuart, and Fred Schwab, 70, of Cleveland, Ohio, were drowned.

Mrs. Van Smith was at a club on the beach when the alarm was sounded that several bathers were in danger. She plunged into the waves and shortly afterward emerged with Girlie Reynolds, 20, sister of Fred Reynolds

SENATE VOTED AGAINST A TARIFF ON LUMBER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The bid of the far northwest states for a tariff on lumber lost tonight in the senate after one of the most spirited clashes over the long-contested tariff measure. The vote was 39 to 34.

Charges by democratic-republican independent coalition leaders of "logrolling" and "trading" of votes on lumber, oil and sugar preceded the roll call and stirred a vehement denial from Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, who condemned such talk as "unworthy" and "the commonest method of dodging an issue."

JURY DISAGREED IN $574,165 BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The jury in the $574,165 breach of promise suit brought by Mrs. Frances F. Brandon against George J. Gillespie, president of the board of water supply, reported a disagreement late today after deliberations for three and a half hours and was discharged. Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valente warned the jurors not to discuss the case with anyone.

HAITIANS TO WELCOME HOOVER COMMISSION

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Feb. 27. —(AP)—This capital was bedecked in the red and blue Haitian colors in preparation for the reception of the Hoover commission expected tomorrow on the U. S. S. Rochester.

Brig. General John H. Russell, American high commissioner, has issued 600 invitations for the reception in honor of the commission Saturday afternoon.

NO CRASH OF PERUVIAN AND BOLIVIAN TROOPS

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The foreign office tonight emphatically denied a rumor which said that a few days ago Peruvian and Bolivian troops had clashed on the frontier. An official communique added that relations between the two countries were as cordial as ever.

The Bolivian minister to Peru, Dr. Ostria Gutierrez, also denied the reports of a skirmish.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER OF POLICE INSPECTOR

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A verdict of acquittal in the case of Major W. Griffin Gribbel, charged with the murder of John Blackburn, a police inspector, was returned tonight by a jury in quarter sessions court.

The jury of 12 men reached its decision after deliberating six hours and 35 minutes.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ended February 26, were announced by the federal reserve board today as $3,439,000,000, representing a decrease of $5,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

OBITUARY

Major George Haven Putnam

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Dean of American publishers, warrior and man of letters, Major George Haven Putnam, is dead. The vigorous old man, determined to uphold the tradition of his family by "dying in the harness," succumbed to pernicious anemia, an illness which he has fought off for months. He was in his 86th year.

Major Putnam, president of G. P. Putnam's Son, book publishers, had been confined to his bed two weeks. Up until the end he had been active in the business that he had followed since the Civil war, carrying on the work of his father before him.

Rev. Armand F. H. Serent, rector of Calvary church, Bayonne, N. J., has accepted a call to be assistant rector at St. John's Episcopal church, Bridgeport.

Welfare Report On Conn. School For Boys

Charges That Inmates Have Been Brutally Treated — Trustees to Investigate.

MERIDEN, Feb. 27—(AP)—The bo[illegible] of trustees of the Connecticut S[illegible] for Boys, after reading a 38-p[illegible] port submitted by the state we[illegible] partment, in which it was ch[illegible] dat inmates of the school ha[illegible] brutally treated and that o[illegible] of the supreme court were in[illegible] ent, today reiterated its ple[illegible] a "thorough investigation."

The report was [illegible] after several weeks of sec[illegible] uiry on the part of the welfare [illegible] partment, but was not made public.

The trustees called James S. Peck, who is in charge of the school farm and who has stated that boy inmates have been beaten and flogged for infractions of rules, and he gave some testimony before adjournment was taken until March 6.

It was stated that several hearings will be held before either the welfare report or the board's findings will be published.

Julius Hadley, secretary of the welfare department, wrote the voluminous report of its investigation which was based on Peck's statements and allegations of from 15 to 20 of the inmates, who range in age from 8 to 16 years.

Corporal punishment, under certain regulations, is permitted in the school, and it is this practice, it is understood, that is at the bottom of the recent flare-up. The school has been under investigation several other times.

It was learned today from a responsible source that no charges of death by torture are contained in the welfare department's report, but that it deals mainly with abuse of the legal right to inflict whippings as a form of punishment.

Former inmates and their parents were interviewed by the welfare department representatives, and they are said to have charged that beatings were freely administered.

It was made clear today that the recent death of Rudolph Brown, an inmate, who died of wounds inflicted with a pitchfork by another inmate, Austin Mills, did not precipitate the welfare inquiry. It had been under way several weeks before Brown was wounded.

Officials of the school have called Brown's injuries "accidental," but the youth before he died said he was the victim of a "grudge".

The report calls attention, it is understood, to the death of a Saybrook inmate who died from tuberculosis, but no officer is held responsible.

Disclosure of alleged conditions at the school, it is believed, came about through Peck, who is understood to have gone to the welfare board, claiming that efforts to obtain action from Supt. Ernest S. Boyd and from the trustees on several occasions had been fruitless.

Gov. Trumbull has said that he will leave the investigation in the hands of the trustees for the present.

The welfare department has no power to proceed against the trustees or upon its own authority. It must take its case to the governor for action if it feels that the school board is not acting in accordance with the gravity of the situation.

OPERATION PROVED FATAL TO "POKER ALICE" TUBBS

RAPID CITY, S. D., Feb. 27.—(AP)—"Poker Alice" Tubbs, 77, picturesque character of the old west where she was a fixture in the mining camps of the gold rush era coppered her last bet today and lost. Ironic was the fate which permitted her to come unhurt through numerous gambling gun fights to die after an operation.

From the Pecos to the Colorado, through goldfields, Tonopah, and Butte, "Poker Alice" in the 80's dealt her cards. Faro here, chuck-a-luck there, now and then a bit of craps they were all the same to the girl

Associate of the "big shots" of border days, Alice numbered among her acquaintances "Wild Bill" Hickok, "Calamity Jane," "Deadwood Dick", "Tex" Rickard, and others who took their whisky neat, their cards high.

As she was deft at dealing cards, so was she equally agile at handling the six-gun, only law recognized in the hectic days of Tombstone, Carson City, Dodge City and on the Brazos.

Born in Devonshire, England, Alice came with her folks to America and went into the gold and copper mining country. There she married a mining engineer while she was in her early twenties. It was from him she learned the relative values of a straight flush in competition with aces on tens full. Soon her ability with the cards or over a roulette wheel attracted the proprietors of the gambling houses who bid for her favors and when Alice dealt, sweaty pokes of gold dust clunked on the table.

WOMAN FOUND WANDERING MAY BE HELENE GILBER

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Police today obtained a clue which led them to believe a woman who was found wandering in Pennsylvania station February 1 suffering from amnesia may be Helene Gilber, formerly of Boston.

At Bellevue hospital today, after 26 days of questioning, she finally recalled the name of Helen Gilber and gave a New York address. There the superintendent said a Mrs. Gilber, answering the description of the woman in Bellevue, had lived at the address from 1926 to 1927. She was employed as a nurse.

The superintendent, Mrs. Mary Ruth, said Mrs. Gilber was a widow and had come from Boston. Her mother, it is believed, lives in Lynn, Mass.

ARMISTICE REACHED IN THE DOMINICAN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Minister Curtis at Santo Domingo notified the state department tonight that an armistice had been reached in the difficulties at the Dominican capital with a basis of permanent settlement seemingly attained.

The American legation acted as intermediary between the clashing factions. Curtis said it was hoped that a final agreement would be forthcoming soon. Although saying alarming tendencies had manifested themselves from time to time, the minister declared Santo Domingo was quiet and only a few skirmishes had occurred in outer sections.

Deadlock In French Deputies Widening

Chief Political Divisions In France Are Involved In the Crisis.

PARIS, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The gap between the policies of the deadlocked right and left parties in the French chamber of deputies widened today as former Premier Andre Tardieu attempted to reassemble a government to succeed the short-lived Chautemps cabinet.

The defeat of Chautemps still rankles in the minds of the powerful left groups, particularly the radical-socialists, who are the largest single party in the chamber, and their opposition became open and decisive today.

Working with the aim of forming a "wide concentration cabinet," M. Tardieu attempted to bring the radical socialists into the fold by offering the ministry of foreign affairs to former Premier Edouard Herriot. Herriot, however, holding M. Tardieu responsible for the defeat of Camille Chautemps and backed by his party's refusal to cede the ministry of the interior to another party, refused the post and pledged his entire party against Tardieu.

Even the acceptance of the ministry of foreign affairs by Aristide Briand, announced at M. Tardieu's headquarters tonight, does not greatly mitigate M. Tardieu's difficulty. A solid left, the radical-socialists, socialists and communists, will probably be arrayed against the center and right coalition.

The political crisis is almost certain to last for several days. It is not only a ministerial crisis, but a fight that has brought the chief political divisions in France head-on against one another.

In the turmoil of domestic politics, the London naval conference seems to have been lost sight of for the moment. It is taking a back seat while the average Frenchman is animatedly discussing whether he will have to pay more taxes or less.

M. Tardieu reported formally on his progress toward completing a cabinet list to President Doumergue in the morning. Receiving newspapermen tonight, he was less formal but still serious. "Call it a day's work, boys. I used to be a newspaperman myself."

He and his advisers recognize that more than one day's work faces them.

"I am carrying on but it is laborious work. I am hoping to be able to tell President Doumergue at 3 tomorrow afternoon how far I've advanced."

Even his domestic affairs are in disarray. While he was premier he occupied the regular ministerial apartment at the fine old ministry of the interior, across the street from the French white house, where President Doumergue lives. Meanwhile the apartment he had been occupying on the Avenue de Messine has been turned over to workmen for renovation, and as they couldn't be hurried any faster than the French politicians, M. Tardieu had to go to a hotel.

M. Tardieu disposed of reports that M. Briand had been nettled by the previous offer of the ministry of foreign affairs to M. Herriot.

"They will tell you many other things, but if they should tell you that I have committed suicide would you believe it?"

Before going to bed M. Tardieu announced that he did not expect to get his cabinet formed before Sunday evening at the earliest, and that he might not be ready until Monday.

He said he would not make the ministerial statement of policy in the chamber of deputies until March 6.

The only ministry for which he has chosen a minister is that of foreign affairs, offered to M. Briand and accepted by him.

LOVE AFFAIRS FIGURE AT CORONER'S INQUEST

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Feb. 27. —(AP)—Testimony regarding two love affairs of Mrs. Dorothy Moormeister, 32, one with a Persian prince and the other with a Salt Lake City mining promoter was presented today at a coroner's inquest into her death.

The love affair between Prince Farid in Paris and Mrs. Moormeister was revealed by her husband, Dr. Frank Moormeister, and her sister, Miss Amelia Hugentobler, told of automobile rides on which Mrs. Moormeister accompanied Charles Peter.

Mrs. Moormeister's body, broken beneath the wheels of her own automobile, which had been driven over it repeatedly, was found last Saturday morning on a lonely road near here. So far the authorities have not been able to account for her movements between the time she left her home the previous evening and the hour her body was discovered.

Miss Hugentobler, who for the last three years has lived in the Moormeister home, told the coroner's jury of alleged efforts made by Peter, regarded by Dr. Moormeister as a family friend, to persuade her sister to get a divorce. For the last few weeks, before the slaying, Miss Hugentobler testified, Peter had called on Mrs Moormeister four or five times a week.

SHERIFF AND SEVEN OTHER PERSONS INDICTED

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 27.—(AP) — Sheriff A. Y. Baker, democratic leader of Hidalgo county, and seven other persons were indicted by a federal grand jury tonight for "conspiracy to injure persons in the exercise of civil rights." The indictments were returned after four days investigation into the primary election of 1928 which previously had been investigated by a congressional committee and by another grand jury.

were: County Judge A. W. Cameron; William D. Chaddick, former county

The others indicted besides Baker commissioner; Marcin Evans, county commissioner; Sam Hargrave, county commissioner; Cane E. Hill, county clerk; Tom J. Buckow, election judge and Edwin B. Williams, election clerk. Bonds were set at $1,000 each.

DEATH BUT MATTER OF HOURS FOR WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT

Breathing Is Constantly Becoming More Difficult For the Former President and His Blood Circulation Is At Low Ebb—Physician Declares That Any Improvement Will Only Be Temporary—President and Mrs. Hoover Have Cancelled Reception—Other Social Functions In Washington Have Been Abandoned.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—Death drew closer to William Howard Taft tonight while this capital wherein his accomplishments as president and chief justice had won him the world's respect sadly awaited the inevitable.

Time and again the physicians who have attended him since his collapse had been by his bedside. Relapses had been followed by partial rallies. But Dr. Francis R. Hagner said "there is no hope for his recovery; any improvement will only be temporary."

At the best, the former president has been given but a short time to live. His breathing is constantly more difficult, his blood circulation is at low ebb, his heart may give way at any time and he can take very little nourishment.

Mrs. Taft and their daughter, Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, are near the afflicted man. Robert A. and Charles P. Taft, in Cincinnati, have been told of the critical condition of their father.

Grief spread through Washington with word that the country, 27th president and tenth chief justice, was about to die. The President and Mrs. Hoover called off their reception to members of the house of representatives, scheduled for tonight. Other social functions likewise were abandoned. The doctors' bulletin despairing that Mr. Taft would survive was read to the house.

Aged 72, Mr. Taft suffered his serious breakdown late in January and resigned from the chief justiceship as a result on February 3. That same day he was brought back to Washington from Asheville, N. C., where he had been seeking to recuperate. He was pronounced "a very ill man" then. For a week or so an improvement in his condition was reported every day. Then the physicians for some time said he was "unchanged." Finally, relapses began to recur and those close to him have feared again and again that the end was imminent. He has been holding on to life by a slender thread, however, and there was no saying tonight just how long he would be able to endure the strain.

As twilight was settling over Washington, Mrs. Hoover called at the Wyoming avenue residence for a brief visit. She was followed by Chief Justice and Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, who remained about 20 minutes. All were thought to have expressed their solicitude to Mrs. Taft.

A prayer service for the afflicted man's recovery was broadcast over the country from the national cathedral during the afternoon. Starting the Episcopal service, Bishop James E. Freeman, said:

"We bid our people to prayer for one who is universally held as the most beloved of the nation's outstanding public servants."

During the early evening hours, there were numerous callers at the big colonial home of the former chief justice. Many of these left cards, expressing their sympathy, others brought flowers to brighten the sick room. As the hours passed, however, and night settled down upon the place, the only signs of activity on the street was the purr of high powered motors which passed now and then.

A light glowed on the broad porch, throwing bulky shadows of the wide white columns across the lawn. The spring-like atmosphere which earlier in the day had brought a squirrel and birds to play about the lawn, vanished with a chill wind that set the branches of trees to rattling.

Now and then the shadow of a nurse appeared in the dimly lighted window of the sick room, but except for this and the lights which glowed from two other windows, the house was dark.

CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT SLEEPING AT 10:45 P. M.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Former Chief Justice Taft was sleeping when his physicians visited him at 10:45 tonight and they said there was no change in the condition of their patient.

Doctors Francis R. Hagner and Thomas A. Claytor said they did not expect to return to the former chief justice's bedside until some time tomorrow. Dr. Hagner expressed the belief that Mr. Taft would live through the night despite earlier bulletins indicating that death might be only a few hours away.

COMMUNIST PICKETS PLACED UNDER ARREST IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The arrest of five women and four men, one of the latter on a charge of spitting on the sidewalk, brought to 13 the total arrests made today of communist pickets in the downtown garment district. The left wing workers declared a strike more than a week ago and have had frequent clashes since with workers of the International Ladies Garment Workers union who are not on strike.

One of the women arrested tonight, described by police as a woman of refinement and education, gave her name as Elizabeth Donnelly and said she came from Baltimore, Md.

Aside from the man charged with expectoration, the pickets taken tonight were booked for obstructing traffic.

WEAVERS PROTEST THE "STRETCH OUT SYSTEM"

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Weave room employes of the Beacon Manufacturing company, a blanket mill at Swann Anoa, eight miles east of Asheville, walked out this afternoon as a protest against a so-called "stretch out system," which is being introduced at the mill.

The walkout affected operation of 160 looms, according to best available information. There was no disturbance, nor was there indication that there would be disorders. Employes of the mill, including those who abandoned their looms, are not affiliated with any labor organization.

PARKER MOTOR BUS BILL REPORTED IN THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The Parker motor bus bill to place buses engaged in interstate commerce under the supervision of the interstate commerce under the supervision of the interstate commerce commission was reported today to the house by its interstate commerce committee, which has had the measure under consideration for several weeks.

Under the measure joint boards would be named to handle rate complaints in the case of vehicles operating in only two states. They would be named by the commission after recommendations by the state utility boards or the state governors.

RUM RUNNERS CAPTURED AFTER AUTOMOBILE CHASE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 27.—(AP) —Three men, believed by police to be members of a rum running and hi-jacking gang that shot and killed a policeman near Detroit, Mich., recently, were arrested here late today after an automobile chase.

They gave their names as Ray Hall, George Evans and Lawrence Hiatt, all of Indianapolis.

UNIVERSITY OF GHENT TO BE FLEMISH INSTITUTION

NARROWING SEARCH FOR MISSING TRANSPORT PLANE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27.— (AP) — Search for the missing Western Air express transport plane of Pilot James E. Doles and two flying mates today, simmered down to a fifty mile area north of San Bernardino, Cal.

The most accurate clues to the whereabouts of Doles and his two companions, A. W. Bieber, co-pilot and John W. Siaton, steward, came from this mountainous district.

Doles' ship disappeared in the storm swept mountains Sunday while flying without passengers from Kingman, Arizona, to Los Angeles. Once before, in the New Mexico wilderness, Doles was missing for twenty-four hours but came out safely. This time, without a report from him in nearly four days, apprehension grew hourly that disaster had overtaken the crew.

OPPOSED TO ABSORPTION OF NEW ENGLAND RAILROADS

HARTFORD, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Consolidation of the New England railroads with any of the trunk lines of consolidation of systems here with each other, was attacked today by Gov. Trumbull and representatives of Connecticut industry, speaking before the New England railroad committee in the old senate chamber, at the state capitol.

The opinion of Connecticut as represented at the hearing was overwhelmingly that consolidation should be discouraged and was in sharp contrast with the view of W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, expresed in a statement read by Roland H. Spaulding, former governor of New Hampshire and general chairman of the committee.

POLITICAL GROUP IN MADRID BROKEN UP BY THE POLICE

MADRID, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Police tonight broke up a political group crying "Long live the republic" and waving red flags. One policeman was seriously wounded, and 10 arrests were made.

The manifestation came as an aftermath to a speech by former Liberal Premier Sanchez Guerra during the day.

HAMPTON MAN FOUND DEAD AT HIS HOME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 27.—The body of George L. Eaton, 81, was found in bed at the home of Mrs. Irving E. Hopkins in Hampton about 10 o'clock this morning. Death was attributed to natural causes and related to a shock sustained by the deceased some four years ago. The body was viewed by Dr. Louis I. Mason, medical examiner. Mr. Eaton, who appeared to be in good health upon retiring at night, was born in Stafford, April 19, 1848. He is survived by one son, George H. Eaton, of this city; three daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Crane of this city, Mrs. Carl Granger of Cambridge, Mass., and Miss Lilly R. Eaton, of Newark, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Lynch of Summit street extension entertained at a delightful surprise party at their home Wednesday evening in honor of the 18th birthday of their daughter, Leona. A decorative scheme of pink and white was carried out. Entertainment consisted of dancing, singing, games, fortune-telling and five tables of whist. Prizes at cards went to Miss Leona Lynch, first; Clarence Sylvester, second and Lucyanna Handfield, third. Refreshments consisted of ice cream, coffee, cake and a beautiful pink and white birthday cake adorned with 18 candles. Present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Chappell, the Misses Dora, Beatrice, Lucyanna, Corrine and Esther Handfield, Irene Howarth, Eva Marceau, Mrs. Mary Switchenko and daughters, Mary and Helen Switchenko, Walter Bates, Ovila and Raymond Delude, William Roy, Tony and James Ferringo, Remi Handfield, Albert Jarvis and Clarence Sylvester.

OBITUARY.

James Savage.

James Savage, 40, former resident of this city, died at the U. S. Veterans' hospital, in Rutland, Mass., this morning. He was taken to that institution some three weeks ago from another hospital in Illinois. The deceased was born in this city, May 6, 1889, a son of the late James and Catherine Shea Savage. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Robert Carlson, of this city; a brother, Francis Savage of Bristol, and an aunt, Mrs. Nellie Lynch, also of this city.

Charles Hill.

Early this morning Charles Hill died at the home of Mrs. Mary Upton in Ashford. He was born in Charlestown, Mass., in 1850, the son of Noah Hill. The deceased had resided in Ashford for a number of years and was a laborer by occupation.

Chief of Police Thomas F. Grady today posted the following assignments of patrolmen for the month of March: Roderick Lariviere, center Main street; Albert Montie, lower Main street; Arthur Hurley, Jackson street; F. Rudolph Laramie, upper Main street; William Hurley, day duty; Leo Piche, day duty; Peter Marrotte, relief duty; John Killourey, Pleasant street and luncheon relief; Ralph Bursnall, station duty; supernumary officers to report to Fire Chief Charles A. Reynolds in case of bell alarm fire, William Anderson, John Lutton and Joseph Lachappelle.

Several of the city streets are falling in line with sections of main highways in giving way to the ravages of the untimely thaws experienced of late. The sudden drawing of frost from the ground by the early rise in temperature has broken holes through the macadam or telford surfacing of several thoroughfares. Jackson street, near the Valley street junction, which is heavily traveled, is badly broken up. The city street department has in its program for the coming season the construction of Jackson street from Union to Valley streets, with tarvia-lithic, so that only temporary repairs will be made for the present. Street Superintendent Edwin O. Sumner is planning more permanent repairs in other sections.

A warning of the circularizing of counterfeit $10 and $20 notes has been received by the chamber of commerce and broadcast to local business men. The warning is based on the uncovery by the secret service of the treasury department of a flow of spurious notes on the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The numbering on the notes is irregular, indistinct and out of alignment and the numerals are poorly formed. Careful inspection of $10 and $20 notes is advocated.

Another communication in the nature of a warning received by the chamber of commerce is in regard to the solicitation for the Friends of Boys, Inc., with headquarters supposedly in New Haven. The Connecticut Welfare department has not granted licenses to solicit funds in this state for this organization nor have the solicitors applied for such a license. Persons approached by solicitors for Friends of Boys, Inc., are requested to immediately communicate with the chamber of commerce.

Interesting data that should make some people glad of the conservative trend of things in this part of the country, was given by George Washington Collinson of Winfield, Kansas, president of the P. H. Albright company, handling farm mortgages, in an overnight stay at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Hills of The Ridges. Mr. Collinson, who came east to attend the funeral of James B. Moore, of Hartford, one of the eastern partners of the concern, gave a picture of considerable hardship in Kansas and Oklahoma during the year. The wheat crop planted in the fall has been affected by the severe weather and the unusual cold rains with the result that the seed will be late in sprouting and the crop stunted at harvesting time. There is an over-production of oil in the Kansas and Oklahoma fields with hundreds of tanks overloaded and wells gushing forth with but little room left for storage. This latter condition, Mr. Collinson believes, will probably bring about a reduction of the price of gasoline in the east.

Two short plays and a musicale presented under the auspices of the flower and decorating committee of the First Baptist church Wednesday evening in the vestry proved delightfully entertaining to some 200 persons. The evening's program follows: Piano solo, Miss Thelma Andrews; vocal solo, Percy Wilmot; playlet, Wanted, Publicity, with the following cast: Marion Bowen, Alice Greenwood, Inez Paton, Gladys Bowen, Edith Larkin, Lillian Swanson and Ruth Moxon; male quartet, Percy Wilmot, Russell A. Andrews, Joseph Atkinson and Albert V. Caulfield; piano solo, Miss Thelma Andrews; vocal solo, Albert V. Caulfield; playlet, Arbutus Narcissus, Inez Paton and Lillian Swanson; male quartet, Dr. E. J. Morgan was accompanist for the vocal numbers. The proceeds from the entertainment tickets and the sale of refreshments which followed the program will be devoted to the purchase of flowers for decorating the church. The committee comprised the Misses Elizabeth Peacock, Clarrie Stiles, Marion Bowen and Inez Paton and Mrs. Russell A. Andrews.

Some 2,000 persons, out of a possible 6,000 had not as yet paid their two dollar personal tax, payable this month, when Special Personal Tax Collector Louis C. Vegiard closed his office for the night. Two more days remain for payment. Delinquents will be charged one extra dollar according to law.

Parties for the children of the kindergarten and primary departments of the First Congregational church were held in the church house Wednesday and this afternoon. Miss Ruth McMeen, superintendent, was in charge of the kindergarten party today while Miss Ruth Pollard has charge of the primary department gathering Wednesday.

The sight of cannibal pagans converted to Christianity and other experiences in Sumatra where he has worked as a missionary will be related by Rev. R. L. Archer at the Sunday evening service of the Methodist church.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Johnson of 118 Bridge street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mildred S. Johnson to Harold S. Simonds, son of Dr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Simonds.

Among the numerous roles played by policemen which seldom reach the ears of the public is that of patcher of family difficulties. Such a role was assumed here Wednesday night by Captain Frank McLean in a case that was not without pathos. The youthful head of a family consisting of his wife and three small children recently left his home in a nearby city in quest of work. His wife, bereft of the protection of her husband for herself and her little family, learned that he was in this city. A young woman friend of the family financed a trip to this city, the husband was located by the police and Captain McLean persuaded the man to return home and seek work there, accepting the promise of a relative to help toward the support of the family until employment was found.

In a fall at his home in South Windham this forenoon, William C. Backus, 75, prominent resident of the village, sustained a fractured leg. On advise of Dr. F. E. Guild, the injured man was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, where he is now a patient.

The organization of a Hebrew junior dramatic club and choir is announced by Mrs. Joseph Peck. With a registration of 20 children, the object of the organization will be for charitable purposes only. The first meeting was held with Mrs. Max Axelrod.

There was another large attendance at the weekly social and dance held at the Y. M. C. A. this evening for the benefit of the new furniture fund. Music was by the Peerless orchestra.

The engagement of their daughter, Eugenia to Edward J. Hamil, son of Mrs. Patrick Hamil of South Manchester, is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Sagal of 360 Jackson street.

John Lorenson of New York city has purchased from Messrs. Mathieu and Piche of this city, a large tract of land on the northeast shore of Lake Wamgumbaug, South Coventry, where he plans to build a summer home this spring.

Christopher C. Case and family of this city, Mrs. Frederick C. Smith, her son Dudley W. Smith and George P. Denison of Honolulu, T. H., were guests at a dinner party given Wednesday evening by Mrs. Joseph N. Vibt of Highland Park, Manchester.

Lillian and Herman Meyer of Windham have purchased from Frederick P. Davoll of this city, a tract of land, 71 by 150 feet, with buildings, on the west side of South street.

Dr. William E. Hegdry returned today from Oneonta, N. Y., where he has been visiting his father who is now somewhat improved from an illness.

Columbus's records of his visit to Haiti include mention of a "nightingale" which sang by day and by night, and which was probably a mocking bird.

JEWETT CITY

FUNERAL SERVICES THURSDAY FOR MRS. ANN E. PRIOR

Funeral services for Mrs. Ann E. Prior were held at her home on Tracy avenue, just one week following those of her son-in-law, George Sparks. Rev. E. E. Scates conducted the service, the text II Cor. 4:7 and 8 having been selected by Mrs. Prior, as was the poem, The Old Rugged Cross, which he read. There were beautiful flowers. Burial was in the family lot in Jewett City cemetery, the bearers being W. T. Crumb, J. H. Tracy, Martin Davis and Elmer Tarbox. The arrangements were in charge of E. E. Gilbert.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. William Dealtrey will be interested to learn that they are conducting the Fairlawn Inn, known as The Inn by the Side of the Road, in Hawthorne, N. J. After leaving Jewett City they spent several years in Florida.

The Ladies' society of the Congregational church served a supper of beef loaf, escalloped potatoes, creamed peas, cabbage salad, cake and Beechnut coffee in the vestry, Thursday. The supper was in charge of Mrs. W. A. Richardson, Mrs. Walter Marshall, Mrs. L. G. Buckingham, Mrs. Joseph Gill and Mrs. F. D. Ballou. The waitresses were in charge of Mrs. E. H. Hiscox and were Mrs. William Hill, Mrs. John Mills, Mrs. Andrew McNicol, Mrs. Fred Whalley, Mrs. F. E. Robinson, Mrs. Abraham Zegeer, Mrs. Carl Benjamin, Mrs. Walter Benjamin, Mrs. C. D. Wolf, Ruth Ballou, Christine Marshall and Loretta Alley. The cashier was Walter Richardson.

E. J. Davan of Brooklyn, N. Y., is the guest of Warden and Mrs. E. J. Jodoin at their home on the East Main street highlands. Mr. Davan was critically ill in a Brooklyn hospital for several weeks, following an operation for a serious case of appendicitis. Many local friends hope his visit here will result in a speedy return to health.

The 11th snow storm of the winter, which amounted to two inches, had largely disappeared by Thursday evening, with the mercury in the upper 30's all day.

Grackles Appear

A flock of 50 or more grackles appeared in the big spruces in Daniel L. Phillips' yard Thursday morning, right in on a non-stop flight from the Gulf.

Tribute to Mrs. Prior

A meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church was held at the home of Mrs. Earl E. Gilbert, Thursday afternoon. Miss Alice A. Brown, speaking briefly in reminiscence of Mrs. Ann E. Prior, told of her having been a charter member of this church auxiliary when it was organized in 1868, its name then being the Ladies' Benevolent society. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. E. E. Scates, Mrs. A. D. Tripp, Miss Nellie Franklin and Mrs. F. H. Gilbert.

ORANGE AND LEMON FARMS IN CALIFORNIA DESCRIBED

The Ross motor tourists had reached Hotel Constance, Pasadena, California, by Feb. 19th, and send this account of their experiences:

After leaving Long Beach we came over Atlantic boulevard, over Signal Hill, to Pasadena.

At Signal Hill we saw oil wells so close together that a truck had to keep absolutely straight to get between the wells.

These wells were all pumping and the combined flow from these wells must have been very large.

These wells are owned by different companies. That is, a row of wells reaching from your house to Paul Geasts in Lisbon, is owned by one company, and another row along beside these wells is owned by another company.

These wells run some of their oil (pipe) to the Los Angeles harbor at Wilmington. Speaking of this harbor reminds me that the shipping in this harbor is the second largest in the world. This may be true, for the lumber that comes in here covers hundreds of acres, it is said.

This harbor is mostly artificial, being enclosed by a stone breakwater built jointly by the federal government and by bond issues of Los Angeles.

The breakwater is built of solid granite; some of the blocks weigh more than 40 tons. At the entrance, at the end of the breakwater, the water is 40 feet deep. This breakwater is a little more than two miles long.

We learned from a lecture on the steamboat that took us to Catalina Island that 227 steamship lines have docked here and more oil and lumber leave this harbor than any other harbor in the world.

Yesterday we drove to San Bernardino, to the orange show. Leaving the hotel on Colorado street, this street leads into Foothill boulevard, and for about 60 miles we were passing almost continuously through orange and lemon groves.

Just before reaching Monrovia we came to the Baldwin Oaks, so-called. These trees are on both sides of the road. They are Spanish oak and live oak. They are more than a century old, and look it. Their branches are gnarled and twisted into a thousand different shapes. Yet some are straight and tall. They are in full leaf.

We passed through what looked like a desert where there were many hundreds of acres of grape vines.

To the north of us was a range of mountains (Sierra Madre) some of them snow-capped; still the temperature on the road was about 90 degrees.

In some of the orange groves (orchards) we noticed small metal tanks with stove pipes sticking out of them. We learned that in each tank was a small oil (kerosene) burner used at times when frosts threaten.

The highest peak (Old Baldy), Mount San Antonio, is sometimes covered with snow all the year around. This mountain is a little over 10,000 feet above sea level.

Before reaching San Bernardino we passed through the Fontana Orchard where we were told there were 17,000 acres of lemon, orange and grapefruit. Usually between the road and the orchards were hedges of roses. Palm trees take the place of roses at times. The eucalyptus trees, very tall, about 80 to 90 feet, shaded the road and this was very grateful, with the thermometer at 90 degrees in the shade.

I will not try to describe the orange show, but will send you a pictorial folder that will tell the story much better than I can write it. I learned to tell the quality of oranges and perhaps when we get home I will buy no second class fruit at a first class price.

On the way home we stopped at a house and bought a few oranges at the road side.

The owner told me he had lived there 11 years and was doing well. He seemed very happy and I remarked to him that he was very good natured and was giving us better oranges than the average run of the fruit in the boxes. "Well, I'll tell you, mister," he said, "I'm going to deposit $3,200 in the bank this afternoon."

I said "you don't sell that amount at your door, here?"

"Oh, no," he said, "most of this money I get from the big packing houses. Still, last Saturday I sold $300 right here."

We wished him good bye and good luck, and came home as fast as we could to get out of the heat.

I saw by the local papers that the temperature in Boston day before yesterday was 20 degrees.

You can say anything you please about this orange show, you will not make it too big. You see oranges and lemons are their living. It is the only crop on many farms.

SAGACIOUS DOG CHUB EARNS MASTER'S PRAISE

Concerning the dogs of Samuel Dorrance, referred to in The Bulletin of Monday, the following stories are told:

Chub Was Hero.

Two years ago Chub was the hero of an exploit that it will take Duke a long time to equal. It was in midwinter and just as dusk deepened into night, a flock of sheep was being driven into the barn. The wind was howling and the air was fast becoming thick with flying snow.

Two sheep broke away from the flock and ran into the darkness. Duke, just entering into his apprenticeship, stood fast, but Chub was off in an instant after the two runaways. The men at the barn thought that the old dog would soon return either with or without the sheep. But when supper was finished and the storm had become a howling blizzard, Chub had not appeared.

Lanterns were lighted and all the men turned out to find the old dog. They bucked the storm and circled over roads and pasture, but when human endurance had reached its limit and they returned, Chub had not been found.

As soon as it became light in the morning they were out again. By then the storm had abated. One of the men passed around a straw stack nearly a mile from the barn and halted and called for the dog. He saw the surface of drift in the lee of the stack break; Chub's head was thrust out and a faint bark was heard.

There they lay, snug and warm beneath the snow, Chub and the two sheep. The sheep were as lively and frisky as ever, but not the dog; the long night's exposure had been too much for his old bones and muscles and he couldn't stand on his feet. Tenderly the men lifted him, and, forgetful of the sheep, started home with him.

Weak as he was, Chub struggled and whined his protest until the man turned back and drove the sheep before him to the barn. Then the old campaigner was content to be carried to a soft bed behind the kitchen stove. For a time it looked as if it was to be Chub's end. But the combined efforts of the entire organization and a veterinary surgeon, brought up from Portland, finally pulled him through and he's still around and feeling pretty chipper for an old fellow.

"I've always figured," says Dorrance, "that one good sheep dog is worth ten men in handling sheep."

Italy's twenty-six plants for the production of artificial silk had an output of 62,855,448 pounds for the first nine months of 1929, a gain over the previous year's output of 44,481,855 pounds.

DANIELSON

TWO MEN HELD IN IN JENNIE MISIASZEK CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 27. — Another chapter in the Jennie Misiaszek case was written during the early hours of this morning after State Officer Henry Mayo, rigged out as a taxi driver and operating a local taxi, had taken Peter Giammetto and Pietro Imondi, both of Thornton, R. I., for a ride.

Giammetto is the father of Mario Giammetto, the young man who is presumed to have gone away with the Misiaszek girl when she took unannounced and unconventional leave of her home and Danielson on January 3. Today, the elder Giammetto and Pietro Imondi were being held at the state barracks awaiting presentation in court on charges of breach of the peace.

Yesterday, in response to an anonymous telephone message, John Misiaszek, father of the missing girl and who has spent several hundred dollars trying to locate her since her last disappearance, went to a designated address in Thronton, R. I., to negotiate for her return under a stipulation that he must supply $500 to bring that much desired end about.

Misiaszek was accompanied by State Officer Royal V. Scranton of the Danielson barracks and two Rhode Island troopers from the North Scituate barracks. Naturally, Misiaszek did not bring the $500 with him. The whole proposition had such a suspicious air about it that the best that was hoped for was to entice Giammetto and Imondi into Connecticut by a ruse. They are said to have entered into an agreement to come here late last night, which they did, Misiaszek to have the money required for his daughter's release and they to go with him to New York to get the girl.

So during the early hours of this morning Misiaszek, the two Thornton men and State Officer Mayo, in his chauffeur's disguise, set out ostensibly for New York. There was no real intent at any time to take Giammetto and Imondi to the big town, but they were driven out as far as Willimantic on the chance that the girl might be waiting along the road with the young man who is believed to have been her companion for the past two months and with the idea of capturing them together. This theory proving fruitless, State Officer Mayo made his identity known. Giammetto and Imondi were being held today on breach of the peace charges.

They continued to maintain today that it is within their power to bring about the return of Jennie, and appeared quite willing to do so without the $500 in any way figuring in the matter.

Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart was in communication with the police departments in several New York cities today in an effort to trace the girl. He learned that Jennie and a young man companion had been in Hudson, N. Y., three weeks ago, but left that city for Albany. It is regarded as probable that she is still somewhere in eastern New York state.

The girl faces almost certain return to the State Farm for Women at Niantic once she comes into the hands of Connecticut officials. She is now on parole from the institution. She is a very nice looking person and disarmingly modest in appearance and demeanor. There is nothing in the whole history of her present absence from home to indicate that she did not go willingly.

A death at the home on Water street, near the old Borough hall building about noon today was that of Mrs. Aldea Savoie, 27, wife of Omer Savoie. She had been ill the past five months. Mrs. Savoie was a native of Canada, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Landry. She leaves in addition to her husband, four children, her parents, residents here, and three sisters and two brothers.

This afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Franklin, Broad street, funeral services for Mrs. Franklin's mother, Mrs. Mary Chase, were conducted by Rev. Harding W. Gaylord of the Westfield Congregational church. There were many relatives and friends in attendance and there were many beautiful floral remembrances. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were William M. Franklin, Charles Franklin, Howard Franklin and Allen White, a nephew, of Norwich. A. F. Wood was in charge of the arrangements.

A fine boost was given the plan to provide a liberal building fund for Danielson when, it was announced this morning the Connecticut Light and Power company subscribed for 30, paid up shares of the Danielson Building and Loan association's current issue. This single block subscription makes an additional $6,000 available for use as soon as the building program gets underway and assures at least one more new dwelling. The subscription is especially appreciated as showing the comany's interest in Danielson.

Grand officers of the Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux are scheduled to come to Danielson Sunday, March 9. They are to be present at a meeting that is to be open to all members of the American Legion. Arthur DeForest, chef de gare of Voiture No. 724, has called the meeting to be held in American Legion hall. Delegations are expected from posts in Putnam, North Grosvenordale, Woodstock, Moosup, Hampton and Willimantic. There is to be entertainment and refreshments are to be served. The local Voiture recently has been organized after a period of inactivity. A hope is to secure a large class of candidates to be initiated at a great ceremony to be held in connection with the national convention of the American Legion in Boston next summer.

The difficulty experienced with the high pressure gas main bringing Danielson's supply from Putnam has been entirely overcome and there is little likelihood of a recurrence this year. The difficulty on a day the past week was due to the extremely cold weather.

It has been suggested that a needed highway improvement is the graveling and oiling of North street and Maple street from North to South Main street, that funerals going to Westfield or Holy Cross cemeteries would not become mired during such traveling conditions as have prevailed for the past week or ten days. For years past, each spring season, as a rule, has brought difficult conditions for funeral parties traveling to these cemeteries, which are close together.

Peter LeFevre, recently arrested here on a liquor violation charge, was not fined $450 in the superior court at Putnam as published, but his case was nolled.

Sunday will be Communion Sunday at the Westfield Congregational church. Rev. Harding W. Gaylord's subject will be Life's Quiet Places. Sunday evening at this church a motion picture, Deliverance, will be presented under the auspices of the Danielson Federation of Churches. The picture has prohibition as its theme.

Approximately an inch of snow fell over this territory during last night, to largely disappear again today.

Folowing a vacation that began last Saturday schools of the town of Killingly will reopen for a term of eight weeks next Monday morning. The next term will be the third of the school year and will close on April 25.

Some highways are reported as practically dried out following the week of unseasonably high temperatures, though in some places these roads are deep with ruts.

The 192nd Field artillery band of New London will come to Danielson Friday evening to be at the state armory. This will be the first appearance of the band here since Armistice day.

Dr. C. R. Garcin, who has purchased the J. C. Witter place on Broad street, is to remove here from Dayville during the early part of March.

Mrs. Henry Gilbert, of Broad street, has been a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam during the past week.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Philip Wizard

The body of Mrs. Philip Wizard was taken this morning to its final resting place in St. Joseph's cemetery. Requiem high mass was sung and there were five priests in the sanctuary, one of them being a relative of Mrs. Wizard. Many relatives and friends attended the funeral, including the members of the Dames of St. Anne, to which society Mrs. Wizard belonged.

The Over-the-Top bowling team took three points from K. of C. Wednesday night. The teams bowled with four men on each team, on account of the K. of C. having their February meeting Wednesday night.

The sophomores of T. M. H. S. will give their play, "Take My Advice," in the high school auditorium. Eureka is one of those little towns where the principal diversion is watching the daily flier pass. Bob Mannion, running the Daily News and completely subjugated to John Wargrim, has about decided that one couldn't wake up Eureka with the discovery of gold in the middle of Main street. Just when things are deadest, Jimmy Samson of the Bickley Slogan company breezes into town. Jimmy, a human alarm clock, boasts of the distinction of having awakened Rip Van Winkle. He promptly proceeds to wake up everybody and everything. Wargrim, the biggest man in town, tries to stop the Bickley Slogan company from waking the town up. The battle rages and with the help of Peggy Acton, Judd Fenton and Jimmy Samson, he succeeds in throwing Wargrim over. Then newsboys screech extras, telegraph wires sizzle, motor cars, trucks and airplanes speed through the darkness of the night to the aid of Eureka.

At matinee was given Thursday afternoon by the sophomores for the pupils of the high and grade schools.

PUTNAM

WORCESTER GIRL ARRESTED IN CONNECTION WITH MURDER

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 27—Miss Lena Wieczek, 17, of 76 Lamartine street, Worcester, Mass., formerly of Webster, is under arrest in that town on a charge of being an accessory after the fact in the murder of Mrs. Cecile Trudeau of Lake street, Webster, whose bruised and beaten body was found on the Thompson road Sunday morning. Her arrest took place late yesterday by police of Worcester who took her into custody at her home in that city. She was arraigned in the first district court in Webster this morning before Judge Louis O. Rieutard, with her alleged sweetheart, Leon Trudeau, Webster man who is charged with murder in the first degree.

The complaint was read by Francis E. Cassidy, clerk of courts and when finished brought the question from Judge Rieutard, "Guilty or not guilty." Miss Wieczek was calm and answered without emotion: "Not guilty of course, what could I be guilty of?" After making her denial of guilt the case was granted a second continuance until March 8. The continuance was requested by Atty. Telesphore Leboeuf, counsel for the alleged murderer, who was also in court this morning.

The arrest of the young Worcester girl is one of the most recent development in the case. After being taken into custody yesterday Miss Wieczek was subjected to intensive grilling by state detectives and Deputy Chief John C. Templeman of Webster police, head of the investigation. Chief Templeman stated this morning that valuable information was obtained from the girl, but the text of her testimony before the investigators was not available for publication.

Following her plea of not guilty in district court this morning the young woman was informed that surety to the sum of $10,000 would have to be posted with court officials in order to secure her release. Being unable to raise the bonds, Miss Wieczek was taken to the county jail in Worcester for her next appearance in the Webster court roof, when it is expected that both she and her suitor will be bound over for a grand jury investigation. Trudeau, however remains in the confines of the lock-up in the Webster police station.

Woman's Purse Found

The finding of a purse, identified as that carried by Mrs. Trudeau on the night she was murdered, picked up this morning by investigators at the Wieczek farm in Wilsonville, further strengthened the contention of Webster police that the young matron was beaten to death on the Connecticut farm four miles south of the spot where her body was found. In the opinion of police, the finding of the pocketbook several yards from the spot where tire marks of Trudeau's car were seen, indicated that the woman had released herself from the murderous hold of her enraged husband and in making an attempt to escape stumbled over some object in the yard. This unfortunate occurrence, police believed, enabled her husband to overtake and beat her ruthlessly. The purse was found by Deputy Chief Templeman who said its contents consisted of $7 in bills and 70 cents in change, lip stick and a powder compact.

Before coming upon the new link in the case, Chief Templeman was searching for the elusive revolver mentioned by Trudeau in his confession. A new search of property in Wilsonville and a thorough combing of other spots where Trudeau said he stopped on the night of the murder has failed to bring forth any trace of the weapon.

Joseph L. Ferrarra and John Stokes of Boston, state detectives figuring in the investigation, stated at noon today that their inquiry is completed with the result that they have all evidence necessary to press charges against Trudeau and Miss Wieczek. When asked what the result might be, in the event conclusive proof of the murder having been committeed in Connecticut was found, the state detectives said that the case will go to trial in Massachusetts since there is a law covering this point. While the investigators declined to comment it is understood that they are satisfied that the crime was committed at the deserted farmhouse owned by the father of Miss Wieczek, located in Wilsonville on the edge of Windham county.

Frank M. Bedard of Brooklyn, has been nominated as a candidate for exalted ruler of the Putnam lodge, 574, B. P. O. Elks. The name of the second ranking officer of the lodge was placed in nomination Tuesday evening at a meeting of the organization. Mr. Bedard has served for the past year as esteemed leading knight. Other officers who received nominations of promotion are Sidney P. Marland, Danielson, esteemed leading knight; Henry N. Benoit, esteemed loyal knight; James J. Charron, esteemed lecturing knight; George Lewis Jr., secretary; Lucius P. Merriam, treasurer; William Wheatley, tiler; Alexander Lepire, inner guard; William H. Mansfield, chaplain; Ralph E. Thurston, organist; Lionel H. Charron, retiring exalted ruler, delegate to grand lodge convention.

The condition of Luther M. Keith, superintendent of the landscape division of the state highway department remained unchanged today, according to a report received from the Day Kimball hospital where he is a patient, late this afternoon. Mr. Keith remains under observation at the hospital.

A shipment of furniture formerly used by the Providence offices of the National Rhea company, bankrupt rayon manufacturing concern, was received this morning at the offices adjoining the Putnam plant of the concern. In accordance with a court order received by Lewis A. Waterman of Providence, receiver for the corporation, the property, most of which is located in this city, will be offered for sale at auction to take place sometime between March 12 and 17.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Martha Ellen Phillips

Mrs. Martha Ellen Phillips, wife of Edwin Phillips of Barber street, died this morning at the Day Kimball hospital following a brief illness. Mrs. Phillips was born in Bradford, England, the daughter of Charles H. and Hannah (Lamb) Hemingway. Mrs. Phillips was widely known in the city and had a large following among the members of the student body at Putnam high school where they had supervision over the serving of luncheons at the school cafeteria. The excellent manner in which she prepared her tasty dishes combined with her cheerful disposition won for her the admiration of the students many of whom came to know her affectionately as "Ma" Phillips. Mrs. Phillips was taken ill Friday following the completion of her duties at the school and was admitted to the hospital Monday for an operation. She is survived by her husband.

The senior class of Putnam high school held a mid-year hop at the school Wednesday evening in the school auditorium. The affair was largely attended and was adjudged a financial success.

A dance at Odd Fellows hall Thursday night was sponsored by the Telephone Employes' association.

Miss Elsie Gallant has returned to her home on Church street following a visit to New York.

The voters of the city through warning signed by Mayor Charles A. Richard have been given notice of the annual city meeting to be held Monday, March 3, in the municipal building on Church street at nine o'clock in the forenoon. Two matters of importance will be disposed of at this gathering, the first, the ratification of sums appropriated for operation of city departments for the fiscal year, the second, to approve the common council's recommendation that a tax rate of six and one-half mills be laid to defray the current expenses of the ensuing year and to name a due for the collection of city taxes.

In the recommendation, the council explains that the extra rate of a half mill be added to the six mill rate to be used in the reduction of the sewer debt and for the payment of interest. The voters will also be asked to empower the council to borrow sufficient sums of money to meet the current expenses and all appropriations made at Monday's meeting until taxes are collected.

Boxing fans gathered about radios which were placed in convenient spots in the business section this evening to listen to round by round results of the Sharkey-Scott bout fought in Miami, Fla., tonight. Since no arrangements were made for a blow by blow ringside description of the fight, the only alternative offered the enthusiasts was the broadcast of the press dispatches.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

Tuesday evening the Plainfield Dramatic club gave a play "Forest Acres" at the town hall for the benefit of the local church. The following were members of the cast: Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Green, Mrs. Fred Lyons, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Butler, William Hall, Ralph Hopkins, Mrs. Ernest Buell, Mrs. George Dawley, Mrs. Herbert, Mrs. R. W. Generous, Mrs. John Dodge. It was well given and greatly enjoyed. Leach's orchestra of Wauregan furnished music. The candy table was in charge of Mrs. Earl Collins, assisted by Arlene White and Margaret McFarland. It was unfortunate that one of the cast, Miss Bessie Congdon was taken ill and was unable to take her part. Mrs. Lotta Dodge filled her place very acceptably although she knew only the afternoon before the play that she was to take the part. Shortly before 7 o'clock there was an electric storm which probably prevented a larger attendance.

The D. A. R. press committee of the local chapter has received notice that Tuesday afternoon Mar. 4th at 2:45 Mrs. Frederick P. Latimer, state chairman of the Ellis Island committee will speak on "The D. A. R. Window of Hope."

Mrs. Myra Barr, who has been employed in Providence, is at her home.

Mrs. Arnold Mathewson has been a guest in Wauregan of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Atwood.

Master George L. Gardner Jr., of Danielson spent Wednesday at the home of Mrs. James L. Gardner.

Miss Dorothy Tracy of Wauregan, has been the guest of friends here.

Albert Walker remains ill at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gendron are entertaining their nephew from Danielson.

DAYVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. N. Lorne Greig attended the funeral of Dr. W. K. Tingley of Norwich Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Greig esteemed Dr. Tingley not only as a physician, but as a close personal friend.

Miss Janice Cogswell of Danielson is spending the week with her aunts, Misses Cora and Bernice Cogswell.

Robins, bluebirds, crocuses and tulips, are unquestionably in evidence.

The Tuesday Night Bridge club met with Mrs. Orrin Alvord. Honors were won by Mrs. William Douglas and Mrs. William Swainson.

When funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon for Henry Haswell at a funeral home in Danielson, local Odd Fellows in attendance were Joseph Lodge, George Michie and Clifford S. Janes.

Ralph Brearley has returned to Dexter, Me., after a few days' visit with his parents.

Mrs. John Kilgariff has been removed to St. Francis' hospital, Hartford. Mrs. Kilgariff for a long time has been afflicted with sciatica. Many friends hope that hospital treatment will bring her relief.

Ruth Weeks, Bertha Bruton, Robert Weaver and others are confined to their homes with minor illnesses.

Miss Kate Neville has returned to her home here after spending several weeks as a patient at the Hartford hospital, where she received treatment for a broken arm.

Jeanette Bebeault spent several days this week with Bernice and Jeanette Marchessault.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edmonston and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brearley motored to East Glastonbury, Sunday.

Anna Roy is visiting Webster relatives and friends.

Joseph Miller and family were recent visitors in Holyoke.

Miss Nellie Hannon has returned to Monson.

Mary Kerrigan, of Monson is visiting her brother, Philip Mooney.

Mr. Albert Rollison and Walter Weeks motored to Providence Wednesday morning to visit Mrs. Fred Marsden, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stembough and family were visitors this week with relatives at East Douglas.

MAKING IT EASY

DURING the winter months nearly everyone would be benefited by the consistent use of cod-liver oil. One of the drawbacks to its more general use is its natural taste.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

is not only cod liver oil prepared for easy digestion, it is also made pleasant-tasting and this makes it available to millions who need its health-giving benefits.

Be sure you use Scott's Emulsion—it's cod-liver oil made easy to take.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cook and daughter, Lois, spent Sunday with West Greenwich, R. I., relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tetreault visited friends in Providence Saturday.

The H. C. club was entertained by Mrs. Patrick Coffey Tuesday afternoon. Thirteen members and six guests were present. Work on rags for colonial rugs was continued. The hostess served cookies and coffee.

Charles Spaulding, Myra Spaulding and William Potter of Auburn, R. I., visited friends here Sunday.

Everett Winsor of Plainfield is sawing for A. E. Hall.

The February community social was held in the Community house, Friday evening. The committee in charge was Mrs. Raymond Gates, Mrs. Raymond Barlow and Mrs. Arthur Terwilliger. The affair was an informal reception to Rev. and Mrs. Henry Coolidge to whom a gift of flowers was presented by Betty Slater. The entertainment was furnished by the Treble Clef Choir and String ensemble of Danielson under direction of Henry N. Flagg: a violin solo by Everett Wood and solos by Rev. H. A. Coolidge and George Coolidge. The program was delightful and appreciation was expressed to the entertainers who gave so generously of their time and talent.

Mrs. Luther Cole and daughter, Alice, visited Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cole.

Mrs. Arthur Terwilliger has measles.

Mrs. George Slater recently entertained her sister Mrs. Willis Hill of Central Village.

Rev. H. W. Gaylord of Westfield Congregational church, Danielson, occupied the pulpit of the local church Sunday morning. Mr. Gaylord took as his text Genesis 2:7, "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life" and from it preached a most interesting and helpful sermon. The evening service was in charge of Edwin Hill of the Y. M. C. A.

Rev. Henry Coolidge occupied the pulpit of the Congregational church in Danielson Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hall and Mrs. Patrick Coffey called on Miss Phebe Barber of Norwich Town Sunday afternoon.

Country roads are so muddy as to make the use of automobiles almost impossible. Drivers who venture on them consider themselves lucky if they make it. Some cars have gotten in so deep as to require two hours to extricate them. A few loads of gravel in the muddiest places would help out and would be much appreciated by those who find it necessary to pass over the roads to their daily work.

WAY TO GET AT A COLD IS THROUGH THE BOWELS

As soon as you catch cold, the pores close; perspiration is checked. Gases and waste can't escape through the skin. That's why your doctor's first advice in case of colds is a mild laxative like cascara. Medical authorities agree it actually strengthens bowel muscles. You get cascara in its most pleasant form in candy Cascarets.

Remember this when you catch cold; whenever breath is bad; tongue coated; or you're headachy, bilious, constipated.

Why resort to harsher things when Cascarets activate the bowels so quickly, so harmlessly and pleasantly—and cost only a dime?

EAST WOODSTOCK

Miss Ethel R. Upham attended the wedding of Hobart Sanger and Miss Evelyn Calhoun, at the Baptist church, South Woodstock, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Miss Lydia Tabor, was maid of honor and Quintin Sanger best man. The ceremony was performed by the father of the bride.

The February missionary meeting was held last week Wednesday with Mrs. Olin Shead, the attendance being 15. Mrs. John S. May gave the [illegible] chapter in the text book for the study period, entitled The Glorious Company. A very pleasant social hour followed, with cake and ice cream served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. George Howard of Quinebaug.

Brain food was invented for men who like to feed their vanity.

THE COUNTRY ROADS

From Bakerville, R. I., comes the story of a rural delivery auto being mired in the highway with the possibility that conditions will result in a curtailment of the mail service.

There is no reason to suppose that that particular piece of road is any worse than that encountered on rural routes and other country roads in this state. This is the season of the year when it is mighty hard going for the fellow who lives off the main highway or the one who is obliged by the demands of his employment to drive an auto, or even a horse-drawn vehicle, on the unimproved roads.

Evidently the Rhode Island road isn't of the improved type, and yet it is part of a rural route, people live upon it and those residents make their contributions for better roads quite the same as do those who live elsewhere.

When the frost leaves the ground it raises havoc with the country roads. It even gets in some bad work with some of the improved roads, but that is slight in comparison with the conditions with which those using the cross roads are forced to contend. It is a serious proposition for the residents of those sections, but it is equally bad for the rural carriers, the doctors, the tradesmen who may not want to but have to follow up business demands on such roads.

In view of these conditions and the contrast that exists in the case of those living on improved roads, is there any wonder that the residents of the country believe that they are entitled to more attention than they are getting in the way of road improvement? It is to be remembered that they are not seeking cement roads. They are not asking for the most expensive highway construction. They are not asking that the state go into debt for the purpose of taking care of them.

They are, nevertheless, asking for a square deal and they can put up a pretty good argument to the effect that they are not getting it. Note the difference between the country road and the improved road and there will be seen the change that the country road residents are seeking. They want some of the state highway money spent where they can get a little benefit from it. That seems to be a perfectly natural and consistent desire.

HEAVY FIRE LOSSES

During the month of January the fire losses reached a total of over $43,000,000, according to the records which have been kept, or almost a million and a half a day. It represents a large sum to go up in smoke, but there is some degree of satisfaction from the fact that the loss is 5 per cent lower than it was in January of last year. Further than that, the figures show that there has been a gradual cutting of fire losses for the past few years so that from 1926 to 1929 there was a reduction of $139,000,000 for the 12-month period. But the 1929 total of over $422,000,000 represents an average loss for the year of more than $1,000,000 a day.

For various reasons January is usually the month of serious fires and big losses. Thus there is always satisfaction when it is possible to point to some definite reduction in the losses.

It seems impossible for people to analyze the fire records of the country for any given period without coming to the realization of the tremendous needless waste that is involved. There are the fires for which carelessness cannot be blamed, and there will always be a certain number of them, but the number which could and should have been prevented is appalling. It is sufficient to cause the observant person to sit up and take notice of how simple it is to avoid the great national ash heap.

It is possible through preventive measures not only to prevent the destruction of homes, business blocks and factories, but by the same exercise of care it is possible to prevent the loss of many lives.

Whether it is possible to point to the reduction in fire losses during any one month or year as the direct result of the efforts in behalf of prevention is a question. At times it seems as if the larger losses happen to occur following the greatest effort to safeguard property. But while it is difficult to check up on such matters, there can be no question but what the educational effect of prevention is constantly working and but for it there would be a much greater destruction of property and lives.

DISTURBED SANTO DOMINGO

Trouble in Santo Domingo is nothing new. It is characteristic of the republic to be engaged in difficulties of some kind for if there is not a squabble amongst themselves they are facing threatening conditions from other countries because of debt conditions.

For six years, however, the Dominican republic, the eastern two-thirds of the island of which Haiti is a part, has been enjoying good behavior. This followed a situation in which this country had found it necessary to intervene for the protection of that republic. As the result of that guidance the republic gave indications that it was able to look after itself and it has proceeded to do so up to this time.

Following the withdrawal of American forces the Vasquez government was established with the law so fixed that he should hold office for a period of four years and should not succeed himself. As the time drew near for the relinquishment of office he became desirous of continuing to hold the reins of government and through a constitutional change it was made possible for him to continue two years more.

The six-year period is drawing to a close. The suspicions are that Vasquez would like to continue in office and what seems to have prompted the revolt is the fear that he would arrange it by some such method as he employed two years ago. It has thus been made apparent that there is serious opposition to any further Vasquez government at this time and reports would indicate that the upset had been accomplished so completely that there would be little difficulty in carrying it through.

Whether this bodes good or ill for the republic remains to be seen. The government has only recently gotten the benefit of a survey by a commission from the United States which worked out a budget system for the republic. That could be followed or thrown overboard by a new regime, all depending upon what actuated it in gaining control. The overthrow has been accompanied by evidences that bloodshed is not the objective and it is to be hoped that there will be an adjustment of the difficulties there without requiring action on the part of this government.

THE SHOUSE CLAIMS

Evidences that much that was being done in the senate was for political purposes have been apparent for a considerable time. The object has been to have them favor the opposition to the administration. It will be noted that there are those who are even charging the administration with the unemployment situation when no administration ever did as much to meet a business slump.

It was thus to be expected that the chairman of the democratic national committee would rush into print with a comparison of the things accomplished in the first year of the Hoover administration and the Wilson regime. Chairman Shouse was apparently expecting the country to believe anything he might claim, but when he got all tangled up in his dates and facts it remained for Congressman Tilson of Connecticut to straighten him out and show him where he was wrong.

Tilson had the opportunity to disclose the glaring errors in the democratic claim and he did it magnificently, showing that the farm loan banking system wasn't created until three years after the date claimed by Shouse, that the federal reserve act was worked out in the previous republican administration, that the repeal of tolls for American ships in the Panama canal was not enacted until 1914 and that the great trouble with the Shouse statement was that it claimed too many things that were not so.

Floor Leader Tilson was perfectly willing that the democrats should have the credit for the Underwood-Simmons tariff which placed agricultural products on the free list and would have brought ruin to industry and agriculture but for the war, and also for the $60,000,000 outlay for the Alaska railroad, which he dubbed a failure and which is costing the government $1,500,000 a year.

The Shouse claims deserved the scoring that they got quite the same as any others which are filled with inaccuracies.

WIDENING AND PARKING

One of the problems that has faced cities is that of providing streets wide enough to meet the requirements of traffic—traffic that is moving and autos that are parked. While certain cities have found it necessary to widen streets at large expense, many such changes being justified because of bottle-neck conditions, it has also been the experience of cities which have resorted to costly widening that little if any relief was obtained. The wider streets have not permitted any more traffic than would have been the case had parking been prohibited, and in recognition thereof some of the larger cities have come to the conclusion that "no parking" is the proper solution of the street congestion problem.

The cities with the wide streets invariably disclose congested conditions with much of the area utilized for parking, or getting out of the parking place. They are not open to unobstructed traffic at all times because of the width of the street, and yet it would be possible in many instances for that parking, which congests even the wide streets, to be done at slightly more distant and scattered points without seriously inconveniencing the drivers of the cars.

Street widening involves a large outlay as a usual thing. When it accomplishes what is sought, it is one thing. Something has been gained from the outlay, but when it followed by double, triple and angle parking and the benefits which were sought are eliminated and amount only to increasing the parking space, it is not surprising that there is objection to such a move or that such experiences result in the determination to solve the congestion problem in another way.

EDITORIAL NOTES

How many more snowstorms before spring actually arrives?

The man on the corner says: The popular diversion at present is to find signs of spring.

When it is so that no one is willing to run for mayor of St. Albans, it must be that the voters of that city keep a close rein on its officials.

It doesn't add to the joy of anticipation to be told that because Easter is late this year, a late spring can be expected.

Someone might remind the senate that now is a good time for it to come to order, get busy and do its part in helping the country.

Senator Glass is fighting an imaginary shadow but when he objects to the president stirring up public opinion against congress it is laughable. That has already been done by the senate itself under the guidance of the coalition with which the senator trains.

AN EXPERT COOK

"Hello mother!" greeted John. "I dropped in this evening for one of your real dinners. Grace has a bridge party on and wanted to send me to a restaurant, but I made a beeline for the only place where food is food." John commenced to sniff the air with an appreciative wrinkled nose.

"Roast pork and apple sauce!" he cried, eying his mother with a hungry and happy countenance.

"Your favorite dish, John. Scalloped potatoes and tiny peas and peach melba," continued his mother, enjoying her son's hungry stare and suddenly giving vent to an exclamation of pain.

"Why, mother, you're not well! You should be in bed!" John warned, noting for the first time the effort with which his mother tried to turn around on the couch. She was having one of her rheumatic attacks again and John knew the pain she was enduring.

"And you cooked dinner just the same! How like my mother. Imagine Grace making roast pork and all those other inimitable dishes with even a tiny pain in the neck," sighed John, eying his mother with the old look of admiration.

"Please don't be hard on Grace, John. She is splendid. We mothers had our recreational afternoons just like the modern ones do. There were the knitting club and the sewing bee and the charitable organization, where gossiping and sipping chocolate excelled even today's modern, fast pace. Our maids prepared our men's dinners, while you young ones today solve the problem by renting tiny apartments and eliminating servants."

"Yes, eating at delicatessens," grumbled John.

"Occasionally, John. Grace always prepares nice dinners. I've eaten them myself, and I know good cooking."

As John helped himself to one steaming dish after another his jubilant spirits rose. "This is food," he said, gulping mouthfuls of crisply roasted pork, scalloped potatoes and apple sauce. "Your cooking, mother, is incomparable. I may travel the four corners of the globe, but never will I discover such roasts or pies the world over. Your ingenuity in the culinary art is amazing!"

"The food is good," offered John's mother. "But I still maintain that you deceive yourself when you insist no one can vie with my cooking. I firmly believe it is just a state of mind and force of habit with you."

"Mother, your unselfish and timid nature prevents you from enjoying your laurels in the proper degree. There are cooks and cooks and even a famished and half-starved individual knows the difference in food quality."

His mother's face was a study in mingled emotion, pride and silent amusement. She watched helping after helping of food disappear from the plates set before her son and silently wondered at the healthy appetite he displayed. But what a poor point of view!

"And now for a good cigar," breezed John, getting up from the table with a satiated look and making directly for the living room, where he proceeded to hunt up the most comfortable chair.

"Why, what's this?" he queried, in a surprised tone, holding forth a beaded bag that shimmered like a thousand diamonds in the evening glow.

"That is Grace's bag," said his mother. "She must have forgotten it this afternoon."

"Grace was here this afternoon?" asked John, completely stunned.

"Yes, John," offered his mother complacently. "You see, she called me up, and, after learning I was ill, she offered to come over and cook your dinner before attending her bridge club." John's mother was smiling delightly now and enjoying the varied expressions that appeared on her son's countenance.

"But why did you allow me to believe that you cooked the—"

"Simply because I wanted to cure you forever of the fanciful and infantile ideas you've been a slave to so long. It's just a state of mind and I wanted to change your point of view. But I must confess I enjoyed the way you raved about your mother's cooking—"

"Can you beat women?" was all John could say.—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—If the Hon. Jim Watson of Indiana, majority leader in the senate, is prone to look backward into his experience, he must have had uneasy moments during the battle over confirmation of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes.

A decade or so ago Senator Jim was not majority leader, but he was an important figure in one of the most bitter fights the senate has ever known—that over United States entry into the League of Nations.

The problem facing republicans was to prevent that action despite a seemingly overwhelming sentiment in the country in favor of it. Men like the late Senator Lodge, and Senator Watson himself, believed popular opinion was about 80 per cent for it.

Months of debate and delay followed. During that time it was Senator Jim's function to round up opposing votes, or at least, votes for the treaty only on a basis of the Lodge reservations. And the event proved how well that was done and how vital delay was to strategy of the campaign.

The Tables Turned

Came the Hughes nomination this year, with Watson as majority leader. Opposition at first seemed negligible. There were even predictions that Mr. Hughes might be confirmed almost unanimously. Yet in a moment there was a definite campaign to prevent his confirmation. Every hour of delay seemed to add to the strength of his senate opponents.

Watson leadership was at stake to a degree. And the Indiana senator had reason to know delay was dangerous. Having been on the other side of the fence in the League of Nations fight, he could imagine just how Mr. Hughes' opponents would maneuver during out-of-session hours to gain votes they needed.

The test showed only a ten-vote margin against recess when it came. It was a difficult decision to make, that of Leader Watson to force the issue, but he won and that is what counts.

Democrats Did It

Incidentally, it is a curious fact that President Hoover owes victory in this most important nomination of his administration to democratic votes. Had partisanship ruled on the democratic side, Mr. Hughes might have gone down in history as the most disappointed American.

For a night and a day in 1916 he believed he had been elected president of the United States, only to find it was not so. For a week or more before senate opposition to his confirmation as chief justice, he had every reason to expect prompt, overwhelming confirmation.

Stories That Recall Others

Freckled Kind

A small boy was sent to the grocery to get some bananas. His mother told him to get some that were speckled as she wanted them to be real ripe.

When the clerk at the store asked the boy what was wanted, he replied: "My mother wants some freckled bananas."

Just Like a Man

Little Johnny is just picking up slang expressions. The other day the three-year-old was playing with his sister. He came to her side and put his arms around her and in a cooing way said to her: "I 'ove 'ou 'itter dear, I 'ove 'ou," and then quite suddenly he burst out, "boloney."

The astonished little sister came to life just in time to say: "Just like a man."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Objects To Pasteurized Milk

Mr. Editor: I am another objector to having nothing but pasteurized milk to use. We tried it, when the plant was first established, and no one in our family could drink it. I am a great milk drinker myself, and cannot drink it after it has been changed, it spoils the taste for me. My little girl would not touch pasteurized milk, but when I changed to common milk she drank it all right.

Protecting The Skin In Industry

By J. W. Hilbert, M. D., South Bend, Indiana.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

It is a well known fact that workers in plants and factories, especially those who are more or less constantly working in compounds and lubricating oils, are habitual sufferers from skin infections, either in the form of a single boil or multiple boils. Contrary to general opinion this is ordinarily due to the general condition of the individual and in particular to the condition of his skin.

The skin is composed of two parts: epidermis, the outer hard and horny layer, and cutis vera, the deeper layer which contains the blood vessels, grease and sweat glands and hair follicles. The function of the skin is chiefly that of a sensory covering of the body in which are nerve fibers of pressure, temperature, and pain. It also helps to regulate body temperature by variations in its blood supply or the sweat secretions. A highly important function, however, which is not generally understood, is that it is an excretary organ, the excretions being formed in the sweat and grease glands, the latter usually being associated with the hairs.

That these skin infections usually occur on the hairy portions of the body can therefore be readily understood and this is especially true on the forearms and thighs, although, of course, they can occur elsewhere. When sleeves are rolled up, or because sleeves and clothing become saturated, oils, grease, etc. are constantly against the skin. No matter how clean the individual, dirt and infections material is almost continuously on the body surface. Or a non-infectious substance may irritate the skin which results in scratching or rubbing and actually breaking of the skin. This opens an avenue for infections substances to get into and thru it. And it is when this matrial enters the skin thru small abrasions or is absorbed by the skin that infections result.

It is apparent, therefore, that it is essential to protect the skin, keep it clean and intact, to avoid small abrasions and chapping, and to prevent contact with irritants. This can be very readily done by observing ordinary body cleanliness, changing oil soaked clothing frequently, and observing other rules of personal hygiene which tend to increase general resistance. Keeping the sleeves down and wearing leather sleevelts while in the plant is, of course, important but cannot be universally carried out. It has been found that a thin application of vaseline extending from the fingers to the elbows put on before starting work, left on during the working hours and washed off with soap and hot water after work, not only keeps the skin soft but prevents irritants from coming directly in contact with it.

This procedure is inexpensive, becomes automatic and routine after a few days, and takes practically no time to perform.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 23

Taxpayers who make casual sales of personal property for a price exceeding $1,000, or sell real property, on the deferred-payment plan, may use the installment method when computing the tax on the profits derived from such sales if the initial payments made during the year do not exceed 40 per cent of the selling price.

Persons who elect to use this method pay each year only the tax on the proportion of the installment payments received during the year which represents a profit, instead of paying the tax on the total profit to be realized. To illustrate, a taxpayer sells a piece of real estate in 1929 for $9,000 which cost him $6,000, and the purcaser agrees to pay $3,000 each year. In this case the tax on the profit of $3,000 could spread over the three years; that is, one-third of each installment payment of $3,000, or $1,000 would be taxable the year received.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

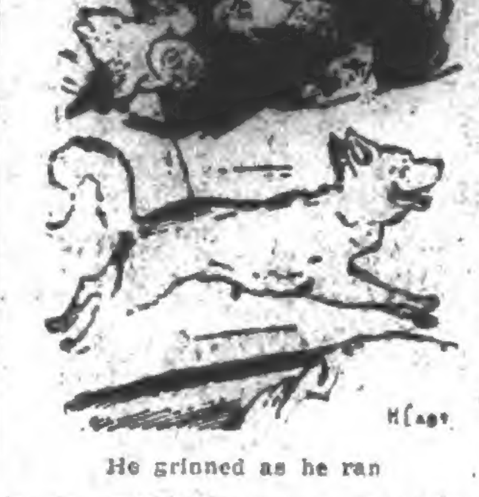
Old Man Coyote Is Satisfied

The curious have little pride,
And seldom are they satisfied.
—Hooty the Owl.

Old Man Coyote a long time ago made a discovery. He discovered that one of the surest ways of finding out things was to follow the scent of other people. Then he would find out whatever they found out in addition to what he might find out for himself. So, when Old Man Coyote, with his wonderful nose, picked up the scent of Farmer Brown's Boy over in the Green Forest, he began to follow him.

"I wonder what he's doing over here," thought Old Man Coyote. "It is always well to know what one's neighbors are doing. I believe I'll follow this trail to find out what Farmer Brown's Boy is about. It probably does not concern me at all, but the knowledge will not hurt me."

So Old Man Coyote put his nose to the ground, sniffed, and then started along. So it was that in time he came straight to the place where Hooty the Owl and Mrs. Hooty were raising their family—one baby up in the nest in a tree and one on the ground where he had fallen. Now it happened that just as Old Man Coyote was approaching, Hooty, flying rather low, passed him on his way to the nest. Of course, Old Man Coyote saw him. With his eyes, Old Man Coyote followed Hooty right up to that nest. He sat down a little way from the tree and grinned as he watched Hooty feeding the young Owl up in the nest. Then Mrs. Hooty arrived. She saw Old Man Coyote at once, so she flew right up to the nest beside Hooty. Then they turned and both looked down at Old Man Coyote. There was anger in their big, round, yellow eyes. They snapped their bills, which is a way they have of doing when they are angry. Then together they left the nest and swooped down at Old Man Coyote, snapping their bills and hissing.



He grinned as he ran

Now, Old Man Coyote wasn't looking for trouble. He had a whole lot of respect for those great hooked claws. He knew that hard blows could be struck with those wings. He hadn't the least desire to feel those hooked bills. So Old Man Coyote held his ground for a couple of minutes, then turned and bounded away. He grinned as he ran.

"I've found out all I wanted to know," said he. "Farmer Brown's Boy had come over to visit that nest. Hooty and Mrs. Hooty are always short tempered when they are nesting. I don't know that I blame them for not wanting people around. I probably would feel the same way were I in their place. Well, I won't bother them any more. This is the last place to come hunting with those two hunters on hand all the time. I'll just stay away from this part of the Green Forest."

So it was that Old Man Coyote almost discovered that young Owl on the ground, but didn't quite. Had he known the little Owl was there, he might have taken a chance. But not knowing it, he went away and did not return. He was quite satisfied with what he had found out and, of course, it didn't once enter his head that he hadn't found out all there was to find out.

Meanwhile Hooty and Mrs. Hooty were growing more and more worried. They were so afraid that as the young Owl on the ground got bigger he might give the secret of his presence there away. It would be a very great relief when they could get him off the ground. But that wouldn't be until he could fly.

CHILD TRAINING

Teaching Children Generosity

Marion Brownfield
(Author of The Courtesy Book)

Some children do not have to be taught to be generous. They are as impartial in giving as sunshine itself! But many children are, if not actually stingy, inclined to be selfish. In a family where there are several children, it will often be noticed that either generosity or stinginess is a marked trait in each child.

The "only" child is often little to blame if he grows up selfish, for he hasn't the opportunity for sharing that one of several children in a family has, and his parents often unconsciously encourage him to be selfish. But unfortunately, adults may also teach children, blessed with brothers and sisters, to be selfish, both by example and by speech. The "holding-on" habit is easy to learn. It grows, and it is hard to break! The mother who hoards, unnecessarily, in her household, the father whose garage is a junk pile from which he won't spare a scrap or the aunt who can't bear to pick a flower in her garden because "they look so much prettier growing," all teach children to be the opposite of generous.

Contrast with these, the mother who encourages Johnnie to collect newspapers in his own home and neighborhood to salvage for charity or, better still, the parents who from the child's babyhood by suggestion and example make him eager to share his seat, his playthings, his candy, with brother or sister or even the forlorn little child of the laundress playing at the back door. "Not what ye give, but what ye share." Children are like putty at the beginning, and those first impulses, educated in the right way, may become the cornerstone of generosity.

When a little girl sees Mother share her "company" dessert with a neighbor, remember those at Christmas who can't "exchange gifts," and her magazines and books and give willingly to various benevolences instead of spending all her spare change on trifles for herself, the child learns the real joy of generosity. The spiritual doesn't need to be voiced. It will be felt.

But how carefully must the opposite teaching be avoided. The mother who says, "Go and borrow that magazine back from Mrs. Brown. She's had it all day; that's long enough! I want it myself this evening," is unaware doubtless, that she is grafting an unlovely bit from her own character onto her child's! By this act she is likely to impede even the child's material success in life.

As unselfishness is a fundamental of generosity it can be impressed on children that sharing does not always refer to material things. They can easily understand that to share a friend, to show others a pleasant walk or a beautiful sunset is often a most delightful kind of generosity. It is worth while to help them to cultivate it.

LIFE OF THIS PARASITE LASTS ONLY 20 MINUTES

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Lives that last only 20 minutes from birth to old age are described in a report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. Earl C. O'Roke of the University of Michigan.

These living things are tiny rod-shaped objects called male gametes of malaria parasites of California quail. Though this parasite does not carry malaria to man, Dr. O'Roke studied it for new light on growth of malarial parasites in general.

The extreme short lives of the gametes are part of a cycle that enables the parasites to multiply rapidly. Some stages of development require as little as 10 seconds from start to finish. Sometimes, however, one of the 10 second processes lasts two to four minutes.

Say Pheasants Aid Farmer

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP)—Experts at the Oregon state college declare China pheasants aid agriculture by eating weed seed and insects.

It is announced that the O-10 arrived at the sub-marine base at the week end.

Soft, wavy hair!

The modern sculptured bobs do wonders to bring out your personality. But like other present-day modes of arranging the hair, they call attention to it. That's why it's so important nowadays to keep your hair soft, lustrous, abundant. The easiest and quickest way to give new lustre and color to hair, which has begun to look dull and lifeless, is with Danderine. And it makes the hair softer, easier to arrange; holds it in place.

Here's all you do. Each time you use your brush just put a little Danderine on it. It removes the oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color; gives it more gloss than brilliantine. Waves "set" with it stay in longer.

Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; puts the scalp in the pink of condition. It stops falling hair. A small bottle is enough to show its merit. Start on it tonight.

For any BABY

We can never be sure just what makes an infant restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as Baby has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow very promptly; if it doesn't, you should call a physician.

All through babyhood, Castoria should be a mother's standby; and a wise mother does not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Castoria is readily obtained at any drugstore, and the genuine easily identified by the Chas. H. Fletcher signature that appears on every wrapper.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

Colt's Patent Fire Arms Mfg. Co. Hartford

Almost a century ago the world became aware of the genius of a young man by the name of Samuel Colt through his having originated and made practical the idea of six pistols in one—the Colt revolver.

In a small but well equipped factory the indomitable Colonel Colt located his first factory on the banks of a river in Paterson, N. J., in 1836. Two years later the famous "Texas pistol" was put on the market, and from that day, the name "Colt" has been a by-word in millions of homes the world over.

The year 1848 saw the return of Colonel Colt to his boyhood home, Hartford, Conn., where he established the Colt's Patent Fire Arms Mfg. company. Here under his able and far-sighted guidance Colt products were produced in ever-increasing numbers. Early in the year of 1864 a fire of unknown origin razed the greater part of the Colt buildings causing a loss estimated at over a million dollars and throwing out of work nearly 2,000 mechanics and workmen.

The Colt business grew steadily and such products as automatic pistols, gatling guns, machine guns, etc. were gradually added to the list of products manufactured by this enterprising concern.

Shortly after the World war ended, Colt's purchased the Couch-Dean company, and at once began the manufacturing of the famous Colt autosan dish, silver and metal parts cleaning machines. In 1922 the Johns-Pratt company was purchased and merged with Colt's in 1926. With this purchase came to Colt's the manufacturing of the Noark line of electrical equipment and fuses, together with the entire line of Vulcabeston asbestos sheet packing formerly manufactured under the Johns-Pratt name. The moulding division, manufacturing products under the trade name of Coltrock has grown tremendously, especially since the acquisition of the Newark firm of Connor & Lattin which was moved sometime ago to the Hartford plant. The officers are: S. M. Stone, president; F. T. Moore, vice president; W. H. Panfield, vice president; F. C. Nichols, vice president; A. L. Ulrich, secretary; H. D. Fairweather, treasurer; L. T. Goodrich, assistant treasurer.

The Making of Friends

If nobody smiled and nobody cheered and nobody helped us along,
If each every man looked after himself and good things all went to the strong,
If nobody cared just a little for you and nobody thought about me,
And we stood all alone to the battle of life, what a dreary old world it would be!

If there were no such thing as a flag in the sky as a symbol of comradship here,
If we lived as the animals live in the woods, with nothing held sacred or dear,
And selfishness ruled us from birth to the end, and never a neighbor had we,
And never we gave to another in need, what a dreary old world it would be!

Oh, if we were as rich as riches on earth and strong as the strongest that lives,
Yet we knew the delight and the charms of the smile which the other man gives,
If kindness were never a part of ourselves, though we owned all the land we could see,
And friendship meant nothing at all to us here, what a dreary old world it would be!

OFFENSIVE BREATH?

WORMS

WHEN a child suffers from bad breath—beware of worms. They are much more common than most mothers think.

Look also for the following symptoms: grinding the teeth, picking the nose, crossness, crying in sleep, loss of appetite or weight, nausea or general restlessness. Any one of these signs may be your warning that worms are present.

Wise mothers take no chances with these dangerous and disgusting childhood pests. Even if worms are only suspected they give the child

Stomach Upset

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists. 15c, 30c and 60c. Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

Local Druggists Guarantee Ru-Ma To Rheumatics

What chance does any sufferer take when Ru-Ma is guaranteed to banish all rheumatic suffering, muscular aches and pains, neuritis and gout or money back?

Why not investigate this offer? Talk to Lee & Osgood about it. Ru-Ma must drive rheumatic poison from the system, bring swollen joints back to normal, and relieve agony, or it costs nothing.

People so crippled with rheumatism that they could not walk have been absolutely freed from the iron grasp of the demon, rheumatism, with the Ru-Ma treatment. A few hours after the first dose Ru-Ma begins to drive the dangerous poison from the body through the natural channels.

Everybody can afford Ru-Ma—it's not expensive, and money back if it doesn't satisfy.

Ru-Ma, the marvelous rheumatism remedy, sold on the no-relief-no-cost plan by Lee & Osgood and druggists everywhere, acts quickly—safely—surely. The very first day Ru-Ma begins to drive from the system all the poisons that cause stiffness and pain in the joints and muscles.

TRIBUTE TO DR. TINGLEY—"GREAT IN HIS PROFESSION"

Expressing his profound sorrow at the death of Dr. Witter K. Tingley, a distinguished alumnus of Norwich Free Academy, Dr. James H. Penniman of Philadelphia, writes:

"The passing of Witter Tingley is a cruel blow to me. We were in the Academy together; we all loved him. He was great in his profession, he loved it and he spent his life and all he had, for the relief of suffering. No night was too dark and stormy, no patient too poor or too remote. His cheerful manner was better than medicine. He met Mr. Slater's funeral train and later took me with him on his rounds. We went to a desolate farm house by the fair grounds where everyone was down with influenza. Here he remained a long time. His home was overflowing with hospitality and the best he had was always at the disposal of his friends.

Duty was his first thought. With his immense practice which covered a radius of many miles, he kept up with the most advanced progress in medicine and surgery. He was never too tired to greet old-timers like me, who returned to our dear old town.

GAVE MUSICAL COMEDY AT ELIZABETH STREET SCHOOL

A musical comedy, "In Hot Tamale Land," in two acts, was presented with decided success Thursday evening at 8.30 o'clock at the Elizabeth street school under the auspices of the West End Community association. The production enacted by amateur talent under the direction of George R. Gifford, president of the association, assisted by Horace F. Corning and Alice Parsons, had a large and appreciative audience. The scenery, painted by Charles Sargent, George R. Gifford, Miss Alice N. Parsons and Miss Eleanor Sargent, was very striking. The cast of characters follows:

Juanita, Marian R. Buonanno; Punko Doro, Charles W. Parsons; Dolores, Alice N. Parsons; Don Soda Di Poppo, Herbert Lawrence; Ezrah McWackle, Horace F. Corning; Agatha Fidget, Mildred Case; Eleanor, Carolyn L. Beebe; Ned Barlow, Charles E. Sargent; Dick Baxter, Russel J. Murray; Bobby Henter, Al Murray; Herald, Paul Latimer.

The chorus: American girls, Dorothy Parsons, Anna Taft, Eleanor Sargent; senoritas, Margaret Whalen, Ella Buonanno, Katherine Economous; American boys, Patsy Buonanno, Thomas Sargent, Louis Zeiler; toreadors, Kenneth Cuyler, Elt Jacobson, Arthur Armstrong.

The program follows:

Act one: Opening chorus, entire company; Chili-Con-Carne Eyes, Punko and chorus; My Jungle Bungalow, Don and Dolores; Let's Get Together, entire company; My Mammy's Twilight Lullaby, Eleanor; College Days, Dolores, Dick, Ned; 57 Varieties of Sweethearts, Bobby; Then We Start All Over Again, Bobby and Eleanor; Carmen, Juanita; Painting the Clouds With Sunshine, McWackle and senoritas; Let's Get Together, entire company; Chili-Con-Carne Eyes, entire company.

Act two: To Be Forgotten, Eleanor; My Fate Is In Your Hands, Ned; In Wrong, So Long, Bobby, Ned, Dick; The Sunbeam and the Moonbeam, Dolores; As Long As I Have You, Ned and Dolores; Orange Blossom Moon, Eleanor, Bobby, Dick, Juanita; closing chorus, entire company. Miss Eva Duff, accompanist.

The committee in charge of the successful event included Charles Parsons, chairman, Frank Fields, Howard O. Smith, Mrs. William Corey, Alice N. Parsons, Horace F. Corning and George R. Gifford. Courtesies were extended by Mandel's Shop, Maplewood Nursery, Nelson's and Reid & Hughes. The comedy is to be repeated this (Friday) evening.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Katherine C. Burnham

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Feb. 27.—Mrs. Katherine C. Burnham, 82, a descendant of Jonathan Trumbull, early governor of Connecticut, and John Trumbull, who painted the revolutionary group in the rotunda of the capitol, died here yesterday in the Washington sanitarium after a brief illness with apoplexy.

Mrs. Burnham's ancestors settled in Norwich, Conn., in 1640 and she was born there and was a resident of that city for many years. She lived in Washington with her son, Charles Burnham, an inventor.

Catherine Cook Burnham

(Contributed)

Many Norwich residents will be sorry to learn of the death of Mrs. Catherine Cook Burnham, who was born in Norwich Town in 1847 and lived in Norwich for over 53 years. She survived her husband Charles Abbott Burnham (who died in Norwich in 1883) by some 47 years.

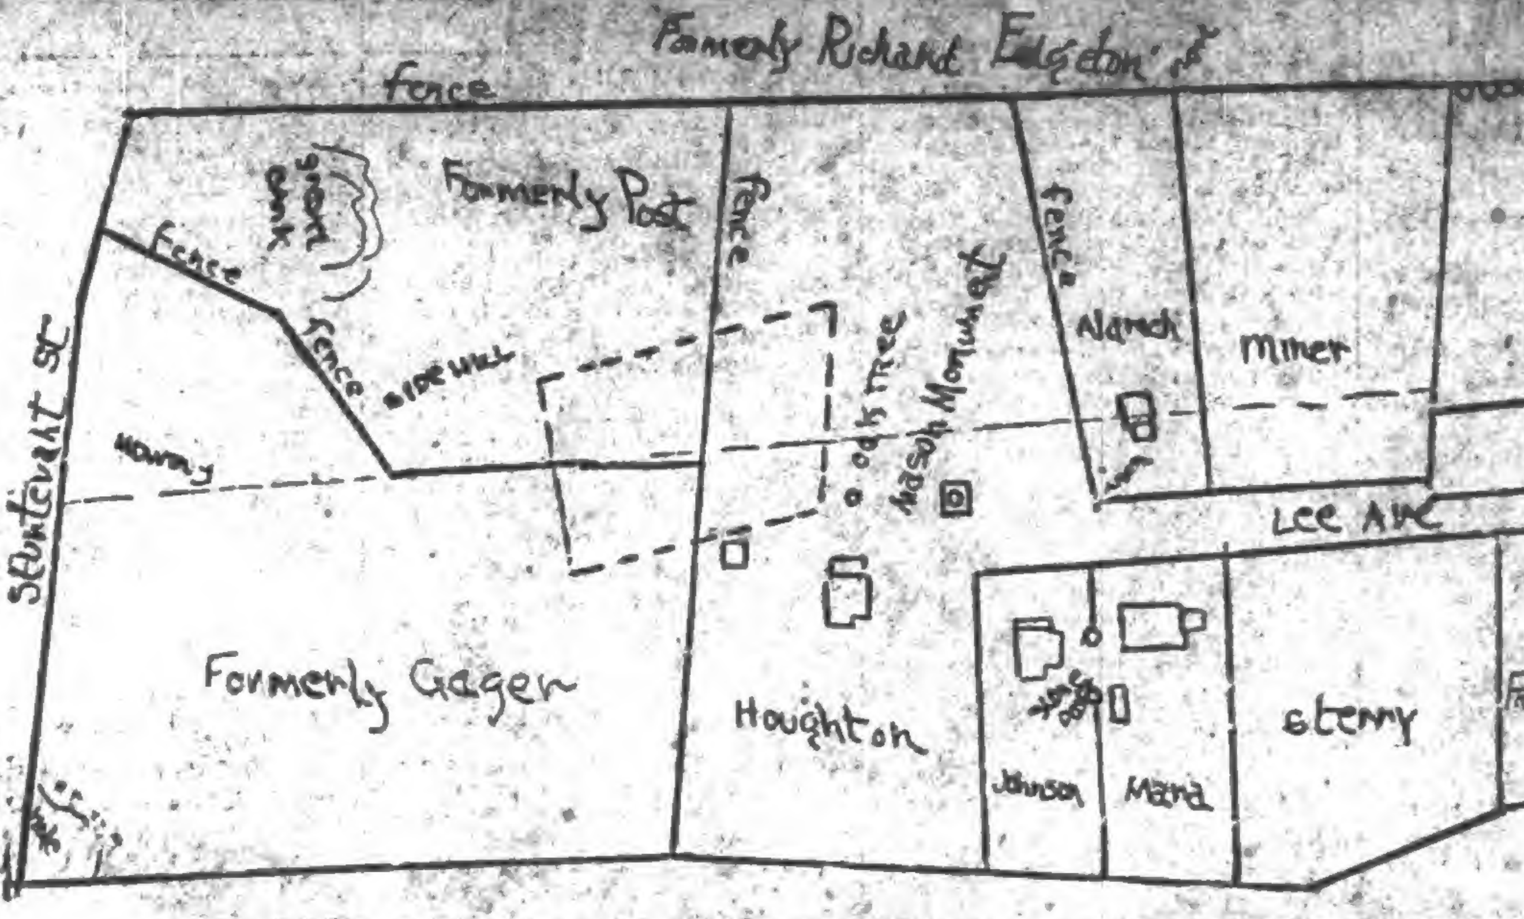
Mrs. Burnham died of an apoplectic stroke on the 23d of February and was ill only about a week, having enjoyed a long life of 82 years of good health. She was always cheerful and very optimistic, and always thought of others before herself, even to the last.

She had lived the last three years of her life with her son, Charles Burnham who is an engineer and inventor, in Washington, D. C.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. F. D. Warner of Portland, Oregon, with whom she lived in San Diego, Cal., in 1925 and 1926 and Mrs. Sheldon C. Peck, of Newark, N. J., both well known to many in Norwich.

Mrs. Burnham was a direct descendant of New England pioneers who came here in 1640, being a descendant in the 4th generation from Gov. Jonathan Trumbull, known as "Brother Jonathan," right hand man of General George Washington and who recruited troops in New England, during the Revolution.

Mrs. Burnham is survived by a brother now in his 80th year, Prof. Charles Rockwell Lanman well known in Norwich and in the world as one of the foremost Sanscrit scholars and lecturers, who was a professor of Sanscrit at Harvard university for over 40 years.



DOTTED LINES SHOW LOCATION OF FIRST BURYING GROUND AT NORWICH TOWN

NORWICH FOUNDERS AWAITING DECISION ON FIRST BURIAL PLACE

The Society of Founders of Norwich and others interested in determining the location of the old first burial ground of the town of Norwich are still awaiting a decision from First Selectman William S. Murray before whom the matter was brought last fall.

The accompanying sketch shows the location as determined by Civil Engineer S. B. Palmer, the small plot enclosed in dotted lines, with one corner point near an oak tree a short distance from the Mason monument at Norwich Town indicating the location of the old burial plot, also sometimes referred to as the Post-Gager cemetery. The small building shown close to the easterly boundary line of the burial plot is the garage erected on land of Alfredina Houghton.

The location established by Mr. Palmer is supported by researches made in the records of the town by Mrs. Elisha E. Rogers.

On the other hand, Selectman Murray has a blue print sketch made by Civil Engineer George E. Pitcher, whom he employed to locate the cemetery and which locates it in the southeasterly corner of the plot marked "formerly Gager." This brings it in a low, swamp spot, which would be an impossible location for a cemetery, according to those who contest the accuracy of Mr. Pitcher's finding.

In the sketch shown above, West Town street runs in a generally east and west direction at this point.

Report by Engineer Palmer

Civil Engineer Palmer made the following report to B. P. Bishop, president of the Society of the Founders of Norwich:

The following report on the location of the first burying ground in the Town of Norwich is based on a survey showing the actual objects on the ground at the present time and also from a very complete search of the records made by Mrs. Elisha Rogers.

From these records we learn that the burying ground was partly on the Post lot and partly on the Gager lot and, therefore, it is necessary to establish as nearly as we can the original dividing line between these two lots.

There has been some discussion as to the location of the Post and the Gager home lots but in the celebration of 1909 the home lots were marked by those in charge and the Gager lot was located on the Adams Tavern property and the Post lot next westerly on land now owned by Joseph Hunter. The records as searched by Mrs. Rogers bear out these locations without any doubt. A brief synopsis of the title of the Hunter lot is as follows:

Original grant in 1659 to Thomas Post.

Thomas Post died in 1701.

His daughter—Mary and Hanna—conveyed their interests to their brother, Joseph Post, in 1714.

Title descended to his son, Joseph, in 1749.

Joseph Post to Aaron Cleveland in 1777.

Aaron Cleveland to Joshua Lathrop in 1783.

Heirs of Joshua Lathrop to Vaniah Woodworth in 1809.

Vaniah Woodworth to William Carew in 1810.

Title descended to William Carew's son, Henry.

Henry Carew to Mary Carew in 1890.

Mary (Carew) Starr to Etta Palmer Miner in 1911.

Etta Palmer Miner to Joseph Hunter and wife in 1922.

The above clearly locates without question the original Thomas Post lot. The Gager lot was east of and adjoined the Post lot and the title to this can be easily traced. The Edgerton lot adjoined the Post lot on the west.

From Book of Grants.

"Thomas Post's home lot contained six acres, abutting on the Town street 10 rods, 4 ft.; easterly on land of John Gager, it being a crooked (Bowing) line 6 ft., 76 rods; southerly on the river 15 1-2 rods; westerly on land of Richard Edgerton 74 rods. Laid out November, 1659."

We do not find that the Post lot and Edgerton lot have been owned by any one person at the same time and the wall and fence which now exist between the two properties can be assumed to be on the original dividing line. This wall and fence is well marked between West Town street and Sturtevant street. From the above description of the original grant of the Post lot the line between Post and Gager is given as 76 rods in the Post grant and 77 rods in the Gager grant. Both descriptions say "this line being a bowing line 6 ft." There is nothing in either description to tell which way the line bows and for this reason it is difficult to exactly reproduce the original line, but the line shown on the accompanying plan was determined as follows:

The Post lot in its entirety remained in the Post family until July 5, 1769 when Joseph Post conveyed something over an acre bordering on the river. This was sold to Simon Gager, who at that time was the owner of the Gager lot. The distance given to the river in this deed was 16 1-2 rods. In the original grant this distance is 15 1-2 rods. The distance on the westerly side of this lot was 16 1-2 rods and on the easterly side 19 rods with a course of North 37 East. The distance on the north side side was 14 1-2 rods.

The next conveyance was the middle portion of the Post lot deeded by Joseph Post to Ezekiel Barrett, April 14, 1775. This gave the same course on the easterly boundary of North 37 East, a distance of 51 1-4 rods to a point 10 rods from what is now West Town street, a distance on the southerly part of the lot of 14 1-4 rods and on the northerly portion 12 rods. The northwest corner of the lot being 10 rods from West Town street at this time. After about 115 years the line between the Post and Gager lot was given as a straight line from the river to a point 10 rods from the street and having a course of North 37 East. The line shown on the map was obtained by plotting up these deeds and using 12 rods on the northerly side of the Barrett lot; 14 1-4 rods on the southerly side of the Barrett lot and 15 1-4 rods along the river. These three distances plotted up make a straight line from the river to a point 10 rods from West Town street. There is a portion of a fence running in a northerly and southerly direction and southerly on the Don Houghton lot which may possibly have been on the original line between the Post and Gager land, but this would have to be corroborated by testimony as this portion of the Gager and Post lots were merged in one ownership in 1844. The line which I have shown on the map as being the original line is 7 or 8 feet westerly from this old fence.

Town Bought Post Land.

From Mrs. Rogers' search the following is taken:

"The town, now considering the necessity of a burying place, purchased from Thomas Post a small portion of his land where his wife was interred, and it is noted on the town records.

'December 16, 1661. The Towne hath purchased a burying place of Thomas Post at the Reare of his Lott; he is to allow a highway of six foot broad through his lott unto the said burying place. The said Thomas Post hath been satisfied by the Town as on record appears. Land Records of Norwich, Conn.; Book 2A (copy) page 3."

"Before January or in January, 1693, the town had acquired a small piece of land on the Gager home lot, adjoining the portion on the Post home lot, and for this small piece, nine rods by three rods at the widest part, twelve acres of land in another part of the town was given in exchange.

In the Book of Grants, Pages 22 and 28 it is recorded:

"Lands Belonging unto the Towne for a burying place or places.

"Abutting easterly on land of John Gager nine rods, abutting southerly ceptive mood for appointment; then on land of John Gager three rods, abutting northerly one rod and three foot on land of John Gager, abutting on land of Thomas Post northerly five rodds and an halfe, abutting on land of Thomas Post, westerly eleven rodds, abutting southerly on land of Thomas Post four rodds. Entered January, 1693."

The accompanying plan shows the shape of the burying place and its relation to the Post and Gager dividing line as taken from the above description in the Book of Grants. I find no way of locating the exact distance of the northerly boundary of this cemetery back from West Town street.

References to historical abstracts and testimony of life long residents locate the burying ground near the old oak and southerly thereof and it is so shown on the plan.

Mrs. Rogers very clearly traces the title of both the Post and Gager lots whereon the cemetery was located. After Thomas Post died in 1701 his widow had the land recorded in her daughters' names—Mary and Hanna. The burial place and the way to it is excepted.

In 1714 Mary and Hanna Post conveyed the land to their brother, Joseph Post, excepting the burial place and the way to it.

Joseph Post's son, Joseph inherited the land by his father's will. In the conveyance of Joseph Post to Ezekiel and Sarah Barrett in 1775 of about 4 acres of land the following exception is made "excluding about 32 rods of land within the bounds belonging to said Town of Norwich; being the old burying place."

This property remained in the Barrett family until June 7, 1838 when it was conveyed by the Barrett heirs to Daniel L. Huntington. This deed gives a general description without any distances and contains about 5 acres and says "subject to a passway and right of passing and repassing from said road by said house to a burying ground in such a way and manner as heretofore has been used and all such right of passing as existed at the time of the death of said Ezekiel Barrett. References being had to said passway and the usage thereof." This deed does not actually reserve the burying ground but reserves a right thereto.

The Gager Lot.

On the Gager side of the line from the Book of Grants, Book 451 is taken the following: Item included in the lands belonging to Samuel Gager of Norwich: "Twelve acres of land at Connecticut plain, abutting on land of Joseph Post northeasterly 24 rods, westerly, easterly and southerly on his own land— "in consideration of ye burying place."

This Gager home lot remained in the Gager family until 1805 when Mary Gager, widow of Simon Gager, conveyed to Erastus Perkins the land on which the cemetery is located. The description is included in this report as it shows how it adjoins the Ezekiel Barrett lot.

"Beginning at a northwest corner some rods west of the end of a lane; thence south 38 deg. West 38 rods 17 links; then West 21 deg. North 14 rods 4 links; thence South 38 1-2 deg. West 16 rods 14 links; then by the river 53 rods 5 links, then North 30 deg. East 33 rods to a heap of stones; then West 41 deg. North 6 rods to a heap of stones; then North 34 deg. East 30 rods 5 links, to the Town street, then along the said street Westerly by and with the same and by land of Timothy Brigden and Thomas Barrett to the place of beginning; "excepting and reserving hereout one quarter of an acre of land covering the burying ground of the Gager family."

This lot includes the lot Simon Gager purchased from Joseph Post and gives a distance of 38 rods and 17 links along the Barrett lot and Northerly of the land Gager purchased from Post. This also reserves the burying ground of the Gager family. The title was further completed in Erastus Perkins by the deed of Daniel and Mary Troop, March 21, 1805. Erastus Perkins conveyed the same to Thomas Thomas in 1806 reserving the burying ground. Thomas Thomas conveyed the same to Elisha Tracy and Eber Backus May, 1824 reserving the burying ground. A division of the land between Eber Backus and Elisha Tracy was made in January, 1839. Elisha Tracy conveyed to Samuel Case the Gager hill pasture and says "excepting and reserving out to whom it may belong a small burying place not mine in said lot."

Under One Ownership.

In April, 1844 Samuel Case conveyed to Daniel Huntington this same land and says "excepting and reserving out to whom it may belong a small burying place not mine in said lot." This deed merged the line between the Post and Gager lots and Daniel Huntington acquired the Post lot from the heirs of Ezekiel Barrett in 1838.

Daniel Huntington on January, 1853 conveyed to his niece Mary L. Lee the land which he had acquired from the Barret heirs and Samuel Case and says "the same being subject to a passway and passing and repassing from said road to a burying ground as mentioned in said Barrett's deed to me said, Daniel Huntington."

On July 18, 1863 the day before her death this property was conveyed by Mary Lee through a third person to her husband, Lyman W. Lee.

On February 12, 1872 Lyman W. Lee conveyed to the Mason Monument association a tract of land 15x15 with a right of way to the same in which the words occur "on the above described square piece of land adjacent to the old burying ground on the Grantor's said premises." The title passes from Lee to Frank E. Sterry and in the deeds since that time no reference is made of the cemetery land.

1854 Map Shows Cemetery

The report made by Mrs. Rogers is accompanied by a photostatic copy of a map of New London county, dated 1854, which was obtained from George S. Godard of the state library. This shows "Old Burial Ground" in the location claimed by Mr. Palmer and Mrs. Rogers.

In concluding her searching account of what the records reveal, Mrs. Rogers says: "There are a number of persons who lived in this neighborhood and their parents before them, who know the location of the old burying ground and the right of way, and the Mason monument stands there to speak for itself.

"William S. Case has always lived in that vicinity; his grandfather owned the tannery almost across from Adam's tavern (see map of 1854). In 1839 Deacon Case bought the Fox borough lot (Gager lot) and twice a year used to cart the refuse from the tannery up to this lot, so that in 1844, the Lees, who were then living in the former Barrett house, persuaded their uncle, Daniel L. Huntington, to buy the lot. The only access to this lot was over the old right of way to the burying ground.

"Mrs. Charles Ellis (Annie Carew) whose family had owned the house on the street (the front part of the Post lot) since 1810, states that when she played with the children, near the oak tree, they always played on this side (the Town street side) of the tree, because the burying ground was on the other side and they must not play there. She is also cognizant of the Fox borough lot (Gager lot) and can point out the corner boundary. (In 1859, Mr. Rockwell speaks of Major Mason lying in the shadow of the oak tree.)

Dug Up Gravestone

"The writer, when visiting at Mr. Henry Carew's one day, went up to the burying ground and monument, and coming back, talked with Mr. Lee's daughter, who said that once when her father was plowing, the plow turned up an old gravestone shaped like a moccasin. This item was used in the paper read in 1909 before Faith Trumbull chapter, D. A. R. and the paper is still on file.

"From the foregoing records and from the personal knowledge of people who have lived in the neighborhood, the old burying ground is located near the oak tree and extends from it to the fence, and included a small piece on the other side of the fence."

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS FIRST ANNUAL DANCE

An attendance of over 250 marked the first annual dance held Thursday evening at the new Masonic temple under the auspices of the Norwich Masonic bodies. Thumm's orchestra furnished the music for the dance programme. The decorations were by Geduldig, and furniture was lent by the Gilbert Furniture Co. Raymond B. Sherman was the floor director.

The committee in charge of the dance follows:

W. S. Williams, representing the Masonic Temple corporation; Raymond B. Sherman, Somerset lodge, No. 34, F. and A. M.; Joseph Hynd, St. James lodge, No. 23, F. and A. M.; Harold Dahl, Franklin chapter, No. 4, R. A. M.; William Buckley, Franklin council, No. 3, R. and S. M.; Clifford C. Oat, Columbian commandery, No. 4, K. T.; Alexander Finlayson, Sachem chapter, No. 57, Order of the Eastern Star; W. Manley Eastwood, Jr., King Solomon Lodge of Perfection; Otto C. Mush, Van Rensselaer council Princes of Jerusalem; Lyle Fillmore, Norwich Chapter of Rose Croix; E. Allen Bidwell, Connecticut consistory, S. P. R. S.

The patronesses were: Mrs. E. Allen Bidwell, Mrs. Herbert M. Lerou, Mrs. Howard L. Stanton, Mrs. Roy D. Judd, Mrs. W. S. Williams, Mrs. W. Manley Eastwood, Jr., Mrs. Louis Geer and Mrs. Arthur M. Thompson. Refreshments of ice cream and punch were served during the evening.

ABNER SCHWARTZ HEADS $30,000 SYNAGOGUE DRIVE

Announcement was made Thursday evening by Secretary Louis Goldblatt of the Norwich Community synagogue campaign organization of the selection of heads of the organization to have charge of the drive to raise $30,000 for the purchase of the Community house from the United Congregational church.

The drive, which is to have its inception at the victory dinner to be held at the Community house on March 9th, will be in general charge of Abner Schwartz, president of the synagogue, who has been given the title of general. He will have a corps of able assistants to be divided into six squads whose captains will be the following: William Israelite, Charles M. Gordon, Louis M. Pollock, H. J. Schatz, Alex Pasnik and I. M. Bronerwine. The members of the squads have not as yet been named.

As one means of raising the $30,000 it has been decided to sell seats at the Community house and thus far a number has been sold.

Invitations to the victory dinner are being sent out by Secretary Goldblatt, who feels confident that a capacity audience will be present to take part in the event. Distinguished speakers have been secured, among them being Rabbi Levy, president of the United Synagogue of America.

At the service to be held this (Friday) evening and Saturday morning at the B'nai B'rith rooms, Rabbi Gordon, of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, will be the preacher.

COUNCIL LAFAYETTE HOLDS WHIST AND PINOCHLE

An enjoyable evening of whist and pinochle was conducted Thursday at Lafayette hall, Main street, by Council Lafayette, No. 207, St. Jean Baptiste, with 11 tables in play.

The prizes in whist were won by Mrs. J. B. Caron, 40; Mrs. George Morris, 29; Miss Rose Gagne, 25; Harry Collins, 37; Thomas O'Connell, 35; J. B. Duhaime, 35. The committee in charge comprised Miss Mabel Gladue and Mrs. Charles St. Lawrence.

NORWICH BOY SCOUTS IN TREASURE HUNT TODAY

A feature of the all-Scout troop hike this (Friday) afternoon to the Lucas Memorial park on the shores of Trading Cove will be the treasure hunt, the finder of the buried prize box to receive half of the contents. According to Scout headquarters the box contains marbles, pennies, diamonds and other stones and was buried last fall by a Norwich troop, which inadvertently failed to remember the location.

Scouts planning to take part in the treasure hunt, weiner roast and peanut toast, besides other games, are to leave Franklin square at 1:45 o'clock. A chalk trail will be laid for the late comers to follow. Scouts are expected to bring a supply of peanuts and hot dogs.

Settled Out Of Court

Ernest Brochu, 20, of Occum, an alleged liquor aide of the state police who was arrested Wednesday afternoon after a statutory charge was brought against him by a Taftville girl, had his case settled out of court late Wednesday afternoon. Brochu was arrested by Sheriff George H. Hoxie of Lebanon and was held under bonds of $1,000.

Brochu, it is said, played the role of a "stool pigeon" in the recent series of liquor raids conducted by the local and state police.

Hospital Patients Discharged

The following patients were discharged Thursday at the W. W. Backus hospital: Socrates Kandrow, Rock Nook home; Redmond Walsh, No. 25 Mechanic street, Jewett City; Mrs. Joseph Lafrancoisne and infant daughter, of No. 7 South Second avenue, Taftville; Betty Pager, No. 44 Tremont street, Boston, Mass.

ADVISES HEAT OF RED PEPPERS FOR RHEUMATISM

Brings Almost Instant Relief

When the intolerable pains of rheumatism or aches or neuritis or lumbago drive you nearly mad...don't forget the marvelous heat nature put into red peppers. For it is this penetrating heat that relieves all pain as it soothes and gets down under the skin, seeming to clear up inflammation instantly. It is this genuine red pepper's heat that is now contained in an ointment called Rowles Red Pepper Rub. You rub it on without fear of blistering or burning. As you rub you can feel relief come. There's nothing better for breaking up a dangerous chest cold, either. All druggists sell Rowles Red Pepper Rub in convenient jars.

NEW LONDON ON EDGE TILL ABSTRACT IS RETURNED BY BOARD OF RELIEF

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 27—Keen interest is manifested in the abstract which the board of relief will return on the 1st of March, showing what the tax rate will be for the coming year. There has been a large number of protests against the reassessment of property, but whether the board has cut the assessments is not known, nor will it be till the final report is made. This must be filed the 1st of March. It was stated by a member of the council at a meeting of that body that the rate of taxation would probably be twenty mills. Now that figure is represented to have been pure guesswork, and the statement is made that the rate is apt to be nearer twenty-three mills than twenty. Assessments of real estate have been generally increased. The finance committee of the city council has announced that the plan was to keep the expenditures of the city, as provided for in the budget, down to as near the figure of a year ago as it is possible to keep them. Until the reductions made by the board of relief are known, the council cannot fix the rate of taxation, because it will not be known what amount of money must be raised or the assessment it is to be raised on.

With the last day of February here, this city is without snow on the ground. The month has given New London the hottest weather of the winter as well as the coldest, and it has been a month of many storms though they have not been of the severe sort. This week a thunder storm was followed by unusually warm weather for mid-winter. Usually a storm of thunder and lightning has been regarded as the breaking up of winter, so that may be the result of this week's freak weather.

LARSEN'S BURNS RESULT FROM AN EXPLOSION

Hjalmor Larsen, 30, and employed by the Merritt-Chapman-Scott company, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, suffering from severe burns on the head, face and legs which he sustained last night aboard the wrecked steamer Edward L. Luckenbach, which is ashore off Block Island. How Larsen received his burns is not known here, for at the office of the wrecking company it was stated that details of the manner in which Larsen was injured, although the result of an explosion, had not been filed. Larsen's burns appear to have been due to burning oil or other inflammable liquid being sprayed over his body. As soon as Larsen was rescued by other members of the wrecking crew, the injured man was transferred to the tug Resolute, brought to New London and taken to the hospital.

Mrs. Lillian Price of Mystic, a patient at Home Memorial hospital, was discharged today.

WEDDING

Berniker—Rosowsky

Announcement is made of the wedding in New York last Sunday night of Max Berniker, New York, and Miss Frances Rosowsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Rosowsky of 83 Bank street, this city. The ceremony was performed at the Boulevard Plaza by Cantor Levin. Guests were present from Hartford, Jersey City, New York and Philadelphia. The groom is a member of Berniker Brothers' Cloak Manufacturing company, New York, and the bride until recently was employed as bookkeeper by the Riverside Underwear company, in this city. Mr. and Mrs. Berniker will make their home in New York.

Stanley Goldsmith of the Hotel Mohican, who is touring Europe, is in Nice, France, having already visited Italy and Spain.

Miss Dorothy Dedrick, 74 Blackhall street, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where this morning she was operated upon for mastoid abscess. Miss Dedrick is a graduate of the Joseph-Lawrence School for Nursing.

EX-FOREMAN MARTIN GIVEN WATCH BY HOSE CO.

The annual banquet of Thomas Hose Co., No. 3, held in Odd Fellows hall, Bank street, last night, was attended by 25 members and guests, the latter including city officials. An elaborate feast was served by Rebekah lodge, following which former Fire Chief Charles Ross was toastmaster. The assemblage was addressed by Mayor Cornelius D. Twomey, Fire Chief Thomas Shipman, Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds, Manuel J. Martin, who recently resigned as foreman of the company after having served 20 years, and by Ernest Burdick, a member of the West Hartford fire department and a former resident of New London. During the evening, Mr. Martin was presented a gold watch, the gift of the members of the company in appreciation of the valuable work rendered by the ex-foreman during his long service as head of the company. The watch was inscribed, "From William B. Thomas Hose Co., to M. J. Martin, Feb. 26, 1930."

BOATSWAIN'S INFLUENZA DELAYS MONOLOLA HEARING

The boatswain in charge of the patrol boat that captured the alleged rum runner, launch Monolola, at Fall River, Mass., several days ago is ill with influenza and for that reason the coast guard officials have not started a hearing on the violation of the navigation laws by the boat's crew. As soon as the boatswain has recovered from his illness the specific charges will be filed with the local customs inspectors. The crew of the Monolola was not captured, for none of them was found aboard the launch. The Monolola, long suspected of being one of many contact boats that transfer liquor cargoes from supply ships to the shore, was sighted, it is claimed, off the Rhode Island shore last Sunday morning. When one pounders failed to bring the launch to a stop, machine gun fire was directed at the speeding boat, which escaped. Later in the day the Monolola was found moored at a Fall River pier and her hull and deck house indicated that she had been struck by bullets. No liquor was found on the seized boat, which is now moored at the state pier at this port.

Miss Katherine Fleming, of Groton, a freshman at the University of Vermont, Burlington, was recently pledged to Alpha Xi Delta sorority.

James McKenna, Riverview avenue, Miss Bertha Gager, Waterford, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

FUNERALS

Rev. C. S. M. Stewart

The funeral of Rev. Charles S. M. Stewart, for many years rector of Seabury Memorial church, Groton, and who died at his residence, 31 Brooks street, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at St. James' Episcopal church and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by the rector, Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, assisted by Rev. J. Eldred Brown, archdeacon of Norwich. Relatives and acquaintances acted as bearers. Burial was in Col. Ledyard cemetery, Groton.

Laverne E. Lizer

Funeral services for Laverne E. Sizer, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Sizer, 203 Ocean avenue, were held this afternoon at the residence of the child's parents by Rev. Royal W. Ferguson, pastor of the Montauk avenue Baptist church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

OBITUARY

Francis C. W. Rogers

Francis C. W. Rogers, of advanced years, died yesterday at his residence, 31 Garfield avenue, after a lengthy illness with heart disease. Mr. Rogers was a carriage upholsterer and for many years was employed by the late Samuel Dudley. His last employment was with the A. C. Swan Co., in this city. Mr. Rogers, who is survived by a brother, Benjamin Rogers, this city, was a former member of Connecticut National Guard.

An automobile driven by James W. Bliven, 16 Lincoln avenue, struck a dog, the owner of which was not determined, this morning on Washington street. The animal, it is believed, was not injured more seriously than bruises for it ran away.

A police signal box was erected this afternoon on Main street, corner of Federal street. The box is the only one on that street between State street and Crystal avenue.

Mrs. Robert B. Lane, 92 Allyn street, reported to the police this afternoon that earlier in the day and while walking either on Bank or State street she lost her pocketbook containing $38.

Taken Back to Boston

Rosa Sandanto, 19, a waitress residing at 16 Union street, Quincy, Mass., and Lena Karpenko, alias Dorothy Young, 19, also a waitress and residing at 190 Oakwood avenue, Revere, Mass., were in the police court this morning charged technically with street walking. The charges were nolled for a woman official of the Girls' Parole board of the State house, Boston, came to New London and escorted the girls back to that city where the Karpenko girl is wanted for violation of parole. The two girls came to New London several days ago and consorted with sailors. Tuesday night the pair was observed to leave two sailors with whom they had been on a joy ride and when they started to make the acquaintance of males their actions were observed by Patrolman Clyde Murphy who arrested them. Since their arrest the girls have been locked up at police headquarters. The official from Boston came to New London on the 11.01 o'clock train and Patrolman Dennis Murphy escorted the girls to the union station where the woman official received her prisoners, departing with them at 11:25 o'clock.

The only other case presented was that of a man, an old offender, who was charged with intoxication. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail, but the execution of the sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for three months.

Caroline Bauer, White Plains, N. Y., has caused to be filed in the office of the city clerk for record the trade name of the Rochester Fashion Clothiers. The World Built Clothes, Inc., New York and White Plains, has sold its stock and fixtures at the local address to the Rochester Fashion Clothiers.

MAN THREATENS FAMILY— MAY BE SENT TO NORWICH

Michael Santora, 33 Winthrop street, was arrested this afternoon charged technically with breach of the peace, but it is probable that the charge will be nolled and the man committed to Norwich State hospital, for he probably is unsound mentally. Santora was at his home shortly after 1 o'clock and suddenly made threats against his wife and children, declaring that he would brain them with a hammer, which he seized. Although Santora did not attempt to hit the woman or children, Mrs. Santora became fearful, especially as her husband had been acting queerly several days, and had her son go to police headquarters and ask for the arrest of the man. Patrolman Dennis Murphy went to the Winthrop street house and took the man into custody. He was locked up pending his examination by a physician.

Files Bankruptcy Petition

Samuel Belgrade, proprietor of Henry's Cut Rate Drug store, Bank street, which was closed several days ago by Deputy Sheriff J. H. Tubbs by attachment for Belgrade's creditors, has since filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. He has not yet made oath as to his assets and liabilities, but will probably do so within a few days.

NEW SOURCE OF ALUMINUM FOUND BY YOUNG CHEMIST

LEWISBURG, Pa.—(AP)—A 30-year-old chemistry professor at Bucknell university has produced a new source of aluminum in an ore native to the United States.

This discovery by Prof. S. C. Ogburn, Jr., gives American youth leadship in aluminum research for the second time.

Aluminum owes its commercial existence to Charles Martin Hall, who at 24 learned how to produce it cheaply from bauxite. That was in 1884, a few years after aluminum had been a labortory curiosity costing $150 a pound.

Prfofessor Ogburn has developed a method of extracting aluminum from alunite, a natural alumstone found in a pure state in Utah, Nevada and Colorado.

His process crushes the stone, puts it through a furnace, pulverizes the mixture and finally obtains not only aluminum, but also by-products of sulphuric acid and potassium salts.

Now Professor Ogburn is trying to determine costs of commercial production by his method.

A North Carolina native, Dr. Ogburn was 24 years old when appointed head of Bucknell's chemistry department. He began the aluminum research two years ago.

The new source of aluminum is the first found since Hall made his discovery nearly half a century ago. Bauxite has continued as the world's sole source of commercial supply. Known deposits of it are limited, with the United States holding a minor share.

Mr. and Mrs. John Whittaker and son, Robert, have returned, after visiting relatives in Willimantic.

Stanley Specht is ill.

Mrs. Rose Falconi spent Wednesday with New London friends.

HANDSOME ENGLISH TYPE COTTAGE AT GROTON LONG PT.

Groton Long Point, one of the most beautiful places in the country for a summer colony, has close to 385 cottages, some of the finest along the coast. The beach cannot be beat, right on Long Island sound. More than 700 have been in for a swim on some Sundays when it was so hot the sand would burn your feet. By night it is so cool that one often has to put on an extra army blanket. People come from as far as California to spend a few weeks at the point. At the corner of Shore avenue, Philip Steiger of Hartford has bought a lot that overlooks Fishers Island and Watch Hill. Contractor Carl Weasley from Springfield, Mass., came with three carpenters to the Point last September and got things ready for a $40,000 cottage for Mr. Steiger. It is in English style, a model never seen before on the Point. It is 56 feet long and 48 feet wide and has nine rooms with three baths. There is a two-car garage. The stone fireplace is built with a 10x12 timber along the length of the room with pieces cut out every four inches, an old English type, and with English hinges. The stairway was designed by Contractor Weasley and Finisher William Barber and himself put it together. It is a fine piece of work. No one could tell a joint was in the stairway and the lumber on the sides of each room is knotty pine. The shingles on the outside of the cottage are handmade, shipped up from the south. The beams are 10x13, cut out rough from the woods of Florida. No wind will ever blow down this cottage. It has oak floors downstairs, while upstairs is pine. The plumbing work was done by Jerry Sullivan—all brass pipes and wipe joints. There is a fine heater. One bath room is all in green. The main bath is all white, with a curtain shower. Plumber Sullivan is rated as the best lead worker around this part of the Thames river. Many people who came to look over the finest cottage on the point took pictures of the lead work to show their friends back home.

From the east room you can see Block Island on a clear day without field glasses, a wonderful view.

The other cottages on the Point are not being knocked, for they are well built, but this cottage has heavy timbers and is put together substantially. Contractor Weasley said he built it so it can stand real winter weather. When the wind sweeps across Fishers Island sound it sometimes blows out windows; but the storms can come, for that cottage will never move an inch. One party from Georgia, touring the country, came over to Groton Long Point and took pictures of the cottage, inside and out, to show friends. They have been all over the shores but never saw a more rugged built cottage or a finer looking one. A stone wall is around the $40,000 cottage and there will be green lawns with flowers along the sides of this brown cottage.

Across from Rock Ledge cottage, C. Steiger of Holyoke, Mass., is having a small cottage built with seven rooms, two stories and with two baths. Three men in ten days put up the house, all boarded in and with half the roof shingled.

When the cellar was being dug at P. Steiger's cottage on Shore avenue, Carpenter Earl Murray found a $1 gold piece but the date could not be read on account of its being in the ground so long. The happy carpenter is keeping it for good luck and put it away in his hope chest at his home in Massachusetts. Paul Ledone, who has an eye like an eagle, found an old-time button and cleaned it up and said it was a button off George Washington's war coat, but his mate, Alex Dunn, gave him the Springfield laugh and said, "How could George Washington fight here and cross the Delaware river at the same time, in his open-air boat, and fight the Indians?" They found out it was a fireman's button, back in 1880, worn in the old red shirt days.

MYSTIC

A meeting of the World War Memorial committee was held in the assembly hall of Mystic academy, Tuesday evening. Members from various other organizations in the village were present. The meeting was called for the purpose of taking action on disbanding the committee. John Brisbance was elected chairman of the meeting. He was presented with a petition by Theodore Anderson, secretary, asking that Mystic Fire district assume perpetual care of the Memorial. A report was given by the treasurer, John W. Phillips, showing that there is a balance of $10.63. It was voted that this sum be turned over to the Mystic Fire district if they accept the commission. It is necessary for the executive committee of the district to have a meeting before it will be known whether they will accept the care of the monument. The secretary was instructed to send letters to John Gould and Charles Davies, showing the committee's appreciation of all work they did and for the great interest they took in the Memorial to the men who went to war.

The Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisteres held a whist in K. of P. hall Tuesday evening, with nine tables in play. Prizes were won by Mrs. William McNamara and Rudolph Donath, Mrs. B. Bogue and Charles Craig. Refreshments were served by the committee, Mrs. Esther Ritzie, Mrs. Ida Gilleny, Mrs. Mary Duerr and Mrs. Iantha Clendennen.

Mystic League of Women Voters held a whist at the home of Mrs. William P. White Tuesday afternoon. There were eight tables in play and prizes were awarded for the highest score at each table. Following the playing, tea was served.

Florine Dow camp, No. 6925, Royal Neighbors of America, is to meet this (Friday) evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Coit of Pearl street, visited their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Gates, of New London, Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dodge, of Brooklyn, N. Y., have been spending a few days on Mason's Island.

Today is the last day for automobile drivers to use their 1929 licenses. During the next few days, all drivers will no doubt be stopped and asked to show their new licenses.

Miss Eva Edwards is spending this week with relatives in Hartford. She is one of the teachers at Broadway school, Stonington schools having a week's vacation.

Mrs. Andrew J. Rusch and son visited Mrs. James Patterson of Poquonoc Bridge, Wednesday.

Driving Wednesday afternoon, as the snow and hail was falling, was dangerous. The snow froze on the windshields as soon as it landed and made it quite impossible to see much, unless the driver doubled up like a jackknife and looked through the lower part of the windshield, where for some reason the snow does not seem to stick.

John E. Mason of Boston was a business caller in the village Wednesday.

Mrs. Frances E. Carter, of Wethersfield, is spending this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry H. Eldredge, of Old Mystic.

Mrs. Minetta R. Cooper is ill at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Wheeler, of East Main street.

Mrs. John F. Meyer and daughter, Violet Meyer, are visiting the former's son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Kinmouth, of Wrentham, Mass.

The February supper at the Union Baptist church, Thursday evening, in the vestry, was well attended. Serving on the committee were Miss Bessie W. Heath, chairman, Miss Harriet Fish, Mrs. Ada Sweet, Mrs. Guy Francis, Mrs. Helen Wilson, Mrs. Henry Inderfurth and Mrs. Artis Stoddard.

The March meeting and social of the Woman's Bible class of the Union Baptist church is to be held Monday evening. The committee will be Mrs. Herbert Irons, Mrs. E. C. Hall, Miss Emeline Fish and Mrs. Harry F. Hill.

Miss Margaret Smith of Norwich is visiting Mrs. Daniel Whipple.

P. H. Eldredge is converting his tea room into a small dwelling. For several years Mr. and Mrs. Eldredge have sold sandwiches, cake, pie, candy, smoking materials, etc., but have decided not to continue another year.

Mrs. Daisy S. Jones of Old Mystic, is improving slowly after being ill at her home with scarlet fever and quinsy.

When Hancock Relief corps, No. 20, of Pawcatuck, observed its 43rd anniversary Tuesday in Vets hall, members of Mystic corps were invited. Dinner was served at 12 o'clock. At 2 p. m. Mrs. Carrie Dewley, head of the entertainment committee, took charge of the program. Sixteen members from Mystic were present. Mrs. Lucy Burdick gave readings. Others present from Mystic corps were: President, Mrs. Hattie Grimes, Miss R. Carrie Chapman, Mrs. Elsie Thorpe, Mrs. Annie Inderfurth, Mrs. Sarah Adamson, Mrs. Grace Berry, Mrs. Alice Berry, Mrs. Lizzie Kenney, Mrs. Cassie Neff, Mrs. Katherine Allen, Mrs. Laura Tift, Bertha Pollard, Mrs. Jessie Goodman, Mrs. Louise Jones, Mrs. Mary Packer.

Will Celebrate Veteran's Birthday.

Williams Woman's Relief corps will go to the home of Amos Hancox this (Friday) evening to celebrate his 90th birthday, which really comes on Feb. 29. Mr. Hancox and Everett Scofield are the two remaining G. A. R. veterans living in the village.

Mrs. Whiting's Activities

A correction is necessary concerning a statement printed in the Bulletin Feb. 26th, in regard to Mrs. E. V. Whiting living in Ledyard. She lived in Groton and as stated walked three miles to Ledyard Center Congregational church to Sunday morning services and Sabbath school. Returning home for lunch she then walked three-quarters of a mile farther to Center Groton to Sunday school and afternoon service held in the school house before the chapel was built. She not only reads a verse every morning but a chapter in the Bible.

ROAD SOCIETY

The mud in places makes the roads almost impassable and cars get stuck every day.

Miss Mary Starr Wheeler of New York spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. Arthur G. Wheeler.

Mrs. Edward Fowler and Mrs. Barnes of Westfield, Mass., who spent the past week with Mrs. Emmeline Allyn at her home in Quiambaug, returned home Sunday with Mr. Fowler, who spent the week end here. Mrs. Allyn celebrated a birthday while her guests were with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nichols of Wakefield, R. I., and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Green of Point Judith spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Wheeler.

Mrs. Frank Babonas has been taken to the hospital in New Haven for treatment.

Winfred Grandy of New Haven who recently returned from Bermuda spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Burdick.

Miss Hattie A. Wheeler recovering from illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Noyes spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ecclestone of Mystic.

Seth N. Williams and Arthur G. Wheeler attended the meeting held in North Stonington on Wednesday evening by the Milk Producers' association.

Miss Sylvia Palmer of Bristol, Conn., is spending the vacation at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Wheeler Jr. spent Sunday with Noank friends.

Miss Mary S. Wheeler was a guest at Maple Lawn, Saturday night. On Friday night, Mrs. Edmund Burdick and Winfred Grandy were callers there.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. Robinson and family of Portland, Conn., were callers on Mrs Emmeline Allyn, Saturday night.

LEONARD BRIDGE

Pupils of the South Exeter grammar school gave an entertainment at that school Monday evening, under the direction of their efficient teacher, Miss Zelda Himelstein. The program, which was a patriotic one, consisted of original plays and dialogues written by the children and acted out by them; a puppet show, based on the Revolution, the lower grades gave a health moving picture, and there were songs and recitations. In spite of the muddy road conditions there were 26 guests present and all spent a very enjoyable evening, complimenting teacher and pupils on the well-rendered exercises.

LEGS GRAFTED ON FROG RESPOND TO IMPULSES, TOO

BERLIN —(AP)— A frog with a couple extra legs threteans to make necessary the revision of school textbooks on physiology.

Experiments on this frog by Dr. Paul Weiss have demonstrated, he says, that accepted descriptions of the workings of the nervous system are wrong.

Instead of "telegraphing" specific orders to particular muscles by means of a network of nerves, Dr. Weiss says, the central nervous system really broadcasts to all muscles simultaneously.

It was the extra legs of his frog that led him to this theory, Dr. Weiss explains: Originally the frog had two legs. Two more were grafted on, but the nerves of the extra legs were hooked onto his nervous system without any attempt to connect with "the right wire."

They merely made contact with nerve substance. Nevertheless the extra legs responded to the same impulses as the original legs.

OUTPUT OF OYSTERS TO SEE BIG BOOST

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Somebody must be going to eat more oysters.

Now the oyster fisherman gets about 100 pounds of oysters a year from an acre of bottom. That makes 18 to 20 million bushels a year for the country.

Lewis Radcliffe, deputy commissioner of fisheries, reporting to the American association for the advancement of science, says: "In time we expect to raise the present level of production to 100 million a year."

First Weather Men

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The army signal corps handled the weather bureau service before 1890, but it was not the pioneer. Army surgeons were first government weather men.

WESTERLY

DERICCO SENTENCED TO 25 YEARS IN PRISON

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 27—A sentence of twenty-five years in state prison was given James DeRicco of Oak street, Westerly, by Justice G. Frederick Frost on Thursday morning in Washington county superior court for the fatal shooting of Atwood Gardner, a resident of the Bradford road, which occurred on the tracks of the New Haven railroad on the night of Jan. 14th. There were no witnesses placed on the stand on Thursday morning in the continuation of the state's case for murder by Third Assistant Attorney General Sigmund Fischer, who following the conclusion of the case immediately left Kingston for Newport. Attorneys M. Walter Flynn and C. E. Roche came into court on Thursday to declare that DeRicco continued in his plea of not guilty to the murder complaint, but would plead nolo to a second degree murder charge. Assistant Attorney General Fischer before departing the court praised the efficient work in preparing the case by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and Prosecutor John Ferguson, of Westerly, who at the Westerly hospital obtained the dying declaration of Gardner when he was taken there, where he was confronted with and identified his slayer as James DeRicco. Although Westerly police officers attended the Kingston court sessions they were not placed upon the witness stand.

Three other Westerly criminal cases are to come before this session of the court before the attorney general's docket is disposed of.

VANDALS DAMAGE CAMP OF SCOUTS ON BIRCH RIDGE

Destructive and malicious work was discovered Thursday in acts of vandalism perpetrated on Birch Ridge Camp, now occupied as a Boy Scout camp, off the Old South road and on a high hill overlooking Burden's pond and the Pawcatuck river, near the Meeting House bridge. Every pane of glass was not only smashed but even the window sashes were hacked and broken, and tar paper was torn off the outside walls. The camp was inspected by Scout Executives J. Harvey Farnsworth and Henry M. Clark Thursday morning. Inside the unlocked door the camp stove was found smashed, cupboards wrenched from the walls and the contents strewn about, a keg of nail sbeing poured upon the floor. Police investigation is to be made.

Two young men are to be questioned by the Westerly police relative to their complicity in the damage done at the camp.

GIRL SCOUT FAIR OPENS WITH VARIED ACTIVITIES

The Westerly Girl Scout fair was formally opened Thursday afternoon in the Town hall by the State Girl Scout commissioner, Mrs. Henry Babcock, who presided at the presentation of the annual winter awards. The Town hall had been transformed into a miniature scout village for the occasion. A rustic scene has been set up about the stage and there groups of scouts will present a program of old English dances and minstrel singing. The scouts were assisted by Isabella Leon, violinist.

A tea terrace, pantry shelf, old curiosity shops, and other booths offered a variety of eatables and artcraft articles for sale. Girl Scouts and members of the local advisory board were in charge. Thursday's program was as follows: 2:30 p. m., brief addresses by Mrs. Babcock, Mrs. Thomas Nichols, local scout executive, and Mrs. William H. Hoffman, national president.

At 2:45 the Court of Awards began its session with Mrs. Babcock in charge, assisted by Mrs. Nichols; 3:45 tea was served; 4:30, old English dances by a group of scouts; 7:30, ballads by old-time minstrel singers; 8, English country dances; 8:30, ballads by the minstrels. The scout waitresses at the tea were costumed, as were the minstrels and dancers. The waitresses were Gertrude and Betty Read, Laura Thompson, Isabella Leon, Atheles Nichols and Katherine Perry. In the minstrel group were Bessie Taylor, Sally Larkin, Mabel Ingham, Sally and Marcelle Hammond, Ruth Leon, Janet Burnett, Rose Stillman, Adelaide Spicer, Eleanor Campbell, Mildred Sawyer, Beatrice Lowry, Dorothy Berry and Janet Potter. The dancers included Bessie Taylor, Janet Potter, Kathleen Potter, Sally and Marcelle Hammond, Ruth Leon, Reva Novogroski, Rose Stillman, Atheles Nichols and Mildred, Marion and Rose Hoadley.

Boy Scouts of the Fox patrol assisted with an exhibition of Scoutcraft. A detail of Boy Scouts was at the hall all Wednesday, assisting in setting up the booths and stage scenery. Posters for the fair were prepared by art class pupils of the high school and Elm street school under direction of Mrs. John Madsen and Miss Hallie Hood.

Elks Nominate Officers

When Westerly lodge, No. 678, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, met Wednesday night in the lodge rooms, Attorney M. Walter Flynn was nominated for the office of exalted ruler. The nomination was unopposed. The election will be in March. Other nominations made were: Esteemed loyal knight, Dr. A. H. Gold; esteemed leading knight, Richard J. Butler; esteemed lecturing knight, Thomas Shea; tyler, Thomas Donovan; delegate to grand lodge convention, George P. Chapman; alternate delegate, Harold Doyle; treasurer, William S. Martin; secretary, John L. Twomey.

OBITUARY

Otis L. Burdick

Otis Leander Burdick, 71, well-known Westerly machinist, died at his home, 10 Beach street, at 7 o'clock Thursday morning. His illness had continued but a week, he having suffered a third attack of pneumonia. For 52 years he had been employed as a machinist at the printing press manufacturing plant of the C. B. Cottrell & Sons company, Pawcatuck, and for over 30 years was a foreman.

He was born in Westerly, Aug. 28, 1858, the son of Dennis and Elizabeth Rogers Burdick. He married Mary A. Melville Sept. 21, 1880. He is survived besides his wife by two daughters, Mrs. Thaddeus M. Weems of Rockville Centre, Long Island, N. Y., and Mrs. T. C. Brownell of Norwich N. Y., and by a granddaughter, Barbara Brownell. Mr. Burdick was a member of Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church. He was also a member of Franklin lodge, No. 20, F. and A. M., of Westerly; Palmer chapter, No. 28, R. A. M., of Pawcatuck; Narragansett commandery, No. 27, Knights Templar, of Westerly; also a member of Deborah chapter, No. 0, Order of Eastern Star, and held membership in Granite council, No. 177, Royal Arcanum. Also surviving him and living in Westerly are a brother, Albert D. Burdick, of 61 Elm street, and a sister, Mrs. Winslow N. York, of The Elms, Westerly-Watch Hill road.

WEDDING

Malley—McGrath

At the Church of the Immaculate Conception Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock Miss Helen Kathryn McGrath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. McGrath of 34 Grove avenue, was united in marriage with John Walter Malley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Malley of Providence. The nuptial high mass was celebrated by Rev. J. F. Vincent, M. S., pastor of the church.

The wedding marches were played by Mrs. James McMahon, organist of the church. Martin Spellman sang "O Lord Most Holy" and "O Lord I Am Not Worthy." A sister of the bride, Miss Alice Loretta McGrath, was maid of honor and the best man was Hector Richards of Westerly. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was dressed in blue chiffon and wore a picture hat to match. Her bouquet was talisman roses and bachelor buttons. The maid of honor wore beige chiffon. She wore a picture hat to match and carried spring flowers. The ushers were William MacDonald and William A. Howard, of Providence. The church was decorated with flowers and ferns. Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where a luncheon was served. The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harwood, Miss Mary Harwood, Mrs. Frank Duffey, Mrs. Henry Barnes, Miss Marion Barnes and Mrs. Martha Malley of Providence. Mr. and Mrs. Malley left later on a wedding trip to New York. They will be at home at 1 Stanton street after March 16. Mrs. Malley is a graduate nurse of St. Joseph's hospital, Providence, class of 1925, and was with the Westerly hospital at its beginning for a number of years. Her sister, Miss Alice McGrath, is now a student nurse at St. Joseph's. Mr. Malley is an agent in the Westerly office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

This (Friday) morning, Dr. H. L. Barnes, superintendent of the State sanitarium at Wallum Lake, will be at the headquarters of the Westerly Visiting Nurse association on High street from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., for the purpose of conducting a chest clinic.

Thursday afternoon, the eighth annual Westerly automobile show conducted by Harold W. Merrill post, American Legion, opened in the State armory.

The South County Rod and Gun club Thursday evening held its annual rabbit supper at Harry Peckham's. Informal discussion of plans for the spring and summer activities followed. A. H. Chapman was chairman of the committee in charge.

DEMOCRATS PLANNING FOR A PERMANENT CLUB

Democratic party activity in Westerly is indicated by the announcement that former Senator Peter G. Gerry will be the feature speaker at a mass meeting to be held next Monday evening at Morrone-Castagna hall on Canal street, under the auspices of the Westerly democratic town committee. It will be Mr. Gerry's first appearance as a political speaker since his defeat by Senator Hebert in 1928, and will probably mark his entrance into the coming campaign as an opponent to Senator Metcalf. The democratic town committee is planning the formation of a permanent Democratic club in Westerly and it is probable that further action in this matter will be taken at Monday night's meeting. George A. Dolan, chairman of the town committee, will preside at the meeting.

OBITUARY

George L. Palmer

George Louis Palmer, 65, died at his home in Hope Valley Tuesday. He had been in poor health for some time. Mr. Palmer was a well known citizen of the town, having conducted a lumber business for a number of years. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Peckham Palmer and was born in Rockville. He is survived by four sons, ouLis, Earl, Howard and Kenneth, and a daughter, Flora Palmer Wheeler, and by several grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Kenyon have returned from Boston, where Mr. Kenyon attended a clothing association meeting.

Miss Agnes Conway was a visitor Wednesday with New London friends.

Miss Mary Spellman of Boston is at her home in Pawcatuck for a few days.

Mrs. William Donovan of Ashaway was in New London Wednesday.

Miss Louise F. Rose has returned to Pawcatuck, after a visit with Quincy, Mass., relatives.

Pawcatuck river smelt fishermen were not quite so successful Thursday in their seining as on the previous day, a condition attributed to so much snow water in the river.

Public school students have had a vacation the past week.

WESTERLY AND NEW LONDON BRIDGE SHARPS IN FINALS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 27—In the fourth night of play in the elimination bridge whist tournament in the rooms of the Square and Compass club the four tables were reduced to two tables for Friday night's play, as follows:

1. James H. Hodgson and Ralph Spargo, Westerly, 3,541, won from L. Chesebro and Theodore Dewhurst, Stonington, 1,573. Margin 1,968.

2. J. B. Bailey and E. G. Jayne, New London, 2,634, won from William Craig and Andrew Greene, Westerly, 812. Margin 1,822.

3. William A. Phillips and B. J. Christie, Westerly, 2,757, won from P. C. Wilhelm and W. T. Chapman, Mystic, 2,144. Margin 613.

4. E. M. Tillinghast and R. P. Mitchell, Westerly, 1,605, won from J. O. Mills and Olcott G. Mills, Westerly, 1,265. Margin 340.

Friday evening the tables will play as follows:

1. James H. Hodgson and Ralph Spargo, Westerly, vs. J. B. Bailey and E. G. Jayne, New London.

2. William A. Phillips and B. J. Christie, Westerly, vs. E. M. Tillinghast and R. P. Mitchell, Westerly.

The table which attracted the largest gallery was that of Phillips and Christie, Westerly, vs. Wilhelm and Chapman, Mystic, in which the leaders, Phillips and Christie, went into the last rubber 118 points ahead, this being the closest score at any table. The winners of the final rubber would be the winners at that table.

"Lasting suds loosen dirt" says Mrs. H. A. Heebner, 146 Elizabeth Street

"I could hardly believe my eyes the first time I used Rinso in my washer. What thick, lasting, suds! And how they loosened the dirt. I was through with the week's wash in double-quicktime, and the clothes were the whitest white I ever saw. Since then I use nothing but Rinso—for the wash, for the dishes, and for all my housework."

MRS. H. A. HEEBNER,

THE FARMER'S TALK TO FARMERS

RELIEVING AGRICULTURAL DEPRESSION

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

Wise men and fools both make mistakes. In that they are much alike. One difference between them is that wise men don't make the same mistake twice; fools do.

Another difference is that wise men can and sometimes do learn from the mistakes or sins of others; fools have to roast their own fingers to discover that fire burns.

Judged by these standards it would be very hard to convict the leaders of agricultural sentiment in the United States, whether elected or self-appointed, or either wisdom or even common intelligence.

For one example. It is admitted by all students of economics that the underlying cause of agricultural depression is over-production. That is, the farms and farmers of the country are raising more stuff than the markets of the country or the world can absorb at profitable prices. Everybody knows that, if the market wants a 100 bushels of wheat and there are only 90 to be had, the price of the 90 will go up like an airplane hunting an altitude record. Per contra, if the market wants 100 bushels and 110 are poured into it, the price will go down like that same airplane in a tail spin.

This is so universally understood that even the new farm commission is begging wheat farmers to cut down their acreages so as to reduce next year's crop to a size the market can handle with some profit to the growers.

And yet, right in the face of this universally admitted situation, the government is annually sinking millions on millions in irrigation projects to develop more farms to produce bigger unsalable surpluses. All of it in the name of and professedly in behalf of "suffering agriculture."

This is just about as sensible as it would be to pour oil of vitriol over a burn to reduce inflammation.

Or to push a drowning man's head under the water as a method of rescue.

Or to try to lift one's self over a six-rail fence by pulling up on one's boot straps.

To hear the professional "friends of the farmer" bray and bellow—especially those posing as such in the United States senate—you'd think they were all willing to sacrifice their mothers-in-law for the sake of lightening the farmers' burdens. While, in sober fact, they're actually batting him over the head and stamping him deeper into the hole, mainly to meet the demands of a horde of grafting dam contractors and a herd of foggy-brained nit-wits who have pushed themselves to the front in various farm organizations and presume to speak for them.

That, however, isn't all the story, nor even the half of it. The story of official and governmental dunderheadedness, I mean. If it is a mark of foolishness to repeat over and over again the same stupid mistake, it is equally a mark of folly to refuse to heed the lessons taught by others' blunders.

In order to meet the situation caused by over-production, the advocates of such ill-considered nostrums as the "equalization fee," the "debenture" plan, etc., want the government to take charge of the surpluses and find a market for them abroad or else pay the farmers for them and hold them till some unpredictable turn of the market may, perhaps, make their sale profitable.

The essential idea at the bottom of all these half-baked plans is that the government shall collect taxes from all people to spend in saving a part of the people from the results of their own errors.

I have yet to find two farmers of my limited acquaintance who want any such mollycoddling or even approve of it for others. Yet, if their representatives and their newspapers may be trusted to speak for them, thousands and thousands of farmers throughout the west are not only demanding his sort of pap diet but are getting madder and madder because it isn't served up to them, instanter.

Even the last appointed body to get into the muddle, President Hoover's farm commission with its $500,000,000 "revolving fund" for farm relief, is reported to be planning to take over and hold certain unsalable surpluses, paying the farmers for them and trusting to an all-merciful Providence that something may turn up, sometime, somehow, somewhere, to enable them to get the money back.

All this is proposed for the purpose of "stabilizing" prices. It is proposed right squarely in face of the disastrous results which have come to Brazil's coffee-growing farmers from an almost identical "stabilizing" plan adopted by the Brazilian government.

Six years ago, in order to meet the demands of the Brazilian coffee-growers who were producing more coffee than the world needed to drink and who were, consequently, getting lower and lower prices, the Brazilian government took a hand and proceeded to "corner" the surplus, i. e., to hold it back when prices were low and release it only as prices rose. For two or three years the plan actually worked. The coffee producers got almost double the price for their beans in 1925 that they had got in 1923.

Whereupon the thus far irresistible economic laws of the universe also took a hand. Confident of bigger prices and of having the national treasury behind them to prop them up, Brazilian coffee-planters plunged hilariously into larger and larger production. At the same time, the artificially enhanced prices of the Brazilian coffee led coffee-growers in other countries like Venezuela, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Colombia, etc., to enlarge their plantations. The inevitable result followed.

Free from the fear that, if they raised more than they could sell, they'd have to lose the over-plus, secure in the belief that the Brazilian government would protect them from the effects of their own greed, the coffee-barons engaged in a mad race to see how much they could produce. As one result coffee production last year reached a total of 28,000,000 bags, against world consumption of only 22,000,00,00. That is, the coffee growers produced 6,000,000 more bags than they could possibly hope to sell. The years immediately preceding had also shown surpluses, which had been held back from the market by a paternal government, surpluses to which the 6,000,000 bag surplus of 1928-29 must be added. Taking all these back surpluses into account, in connection with 1928-29's big crop, the coffee-growers now have on hand somewhere about 45,000,000 bags. And the world wants only about 22,000,000 a year.

That's why the price of coffee has gone down so sharply in the last few months. The attempt of the Brazilian government to save the coffee-barons from the inevitable has resulted in a practical bankrupting of the business. Money that otherwise might have been used to finance productive enterprises is tied up in stored coffee, and the cautious financiers of London hesitate to advance further loans to keep the bladder blown up.

Thus, right before our eyes, written broad and black in the current news of the day, the mistake of Brazil is blazoned for all the world to see.

Yet the Borahs and Brookharts and Norrises and La Follettes and other "sons of the wild jackass" who struttingly assume to represent and champion the cause of western farmers, with this Brazilian debacle fairly roaring its message of warning in their ears, demand that Uncle Sam plunge into the same Maelstrom.

They seem to think that they are wiser than Providence and stronger than economic law. They persist in repeating their own and their predecessors' mistakes; they refuse to learn caution from the blunders of others. Their blah-blahing cracks the ears of reason, and their halitosis offends the nostrils of intelligence.

Yet they are followed,—nay, they are prodded and spurred by thousands upon thousands of half-blind, half-deaf, wildly prejudiced fanatics who seem to be actuated by the idea that government can make good farmers out of poor ones or shrewd traders out of Simple Simons.

Suppose the farm commission buys up 1,000,000 or 100,000,000 bushels of western wheat, which the world doesn't need and won't purchase now, in the hope that the world will want it next year, or year after that, or some other time? The wheat grower, assured by this of a prompt sale for his crop, no matter how big, will simply grow more wheat. Human nature is human nature. The average man isn't going to let a chance to make much money go by just because government,—i. e. the other taxpayers,—have to supply the funds for his profits. He isn't going to ask where the pay for his wheat comes from, so long as it gets into his own pocket.

Brazil's experience with coffee tells us, plainer than any copy on a blackboard could, just what will happen if we start out on this No-Thoroughfare, ending in an impassable dead wall of failure.

But it seems to be as true, now, as it was in King Solomon's time that "though thou bray a fool in a mortar among wheat with a pestle, yet will not his foolishness depart from him."

It's too durn bad, but I suppose there's no help for it!

THE FARMER.

GOSHEN

The Pearl Of Great Price, was the subject of the inspiring and helpful sermon by the pastor, Rev. Howard Bushnell Sunday. On account of bad-traveling there was no evening meeting.

Auto drivers who make the attempt are having a hard time traveling on the country dirt roads during this warm period. Cases of being stuck in the mud are numerous, when a good strong team is required to pull the horseless wagons" to where the rubber wheels can get a footing.

It was a cheery sound to hear the music of the first spring birds Monday, among them the robin, bluebird, wood pewe, and woodpecker. The big tracks of an old grandpa of a ground hog were seen in the soft mud Sunday.

Miss Hannah Jaffee is visiting her sister in Ohio.

The Ladies' Aid society met with Mrs. E. W. Jones, Thursday.

The next harbinger of spring will be the peep frogs, expected quite soon now.

The Rev. Owen A. Hill, a Gesu priest, died at the rectory of the Church of the Gesu in Philadelphia. He was 68.

UPTURN OF PRICES OF STOCKS LATE IN SESSION WAS CHECKED BY PROFIT-TAKING

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)— The swift upturn in share prices prompted by the turning of the tide in the Chicago wheat pit was checked by heavy profit taking late in today's session, after nearly a score of issues had been sent up into new high territory for the year. The selling movement in the last hour not only modified the earlier advances but depressed several shares a point or so under yesterday's final levels. The index of 90 leading stocks showed a net loss for the day of 1-5 of a point.

Trading continued to gain in volume, the day's transfers totalling 3,310,110 shares, about 300,000 more than yesterday. Professional traders continue to dominate the market, however, with the public warily holding to the sidelines pending more conclusive signs of business recovery. The market's recent action, indicating that both longs and shorts are for the most part quick to take profits on a move of a few points either way, has been rather confusing to the public. Considerable uncertainty still persists in professional quarters. While the market's resistance to selling pressure of late has caused several commission houses to renew buying recommendations, others still recommend profit taking on advances.

The day's news was not of a character to clarify the situation. The Bank of England failed to reduce its discount rate, although advices from London indicate that such action is still regarded as probable within the near future. Credit conditions eased a little, with call money sagging to 4 per cent, after renewals at 4 1-2. The weekly brokerage loan statement showed a negligible reduction of $5,000,000. The New York federal reserve bank statement showed further strengthening of position, with the New York city banks practically wiping out their indebtedness. The condition statement for the entire system showed little change, save for further declines in rediscounting and in reserve notes in circulation.

Corporate news was mainly in the form of annual reports covering 1929, mostly favorable, but largely regarded as matters of history at this time. A tabulation of the net operating income of the first 44 railroads to report for January showed a decline of 23 per cent from January of 1929. Reports from the copper trade were a little more favorable, showing a moderate increase in consumer demand.

The utilities gave the best account of themselves as a group. North American, Public Service of N. J., and Electric Power and Light sold up moderately to new highs for the year, and American Telephone gained about 3 points. Pools apparently were active in several of the lower priced specialties. Associated Dry Goods, Brunswick Balke Collender and Maytag were bid up about 2 to 6 points to new highs. Hoe & Co. jumped 7 points to a new top at 25.

Amusement shares were also in continued demand, Warner Bros. and Paramount rising a point or so to new peaks for the movement. Bendix Aviation and Westinghouse Airbrake rose 2 and 3 points to new tops in response to announcement of the formation of a subsidiary to make airplane brakes.

American International rose about 3 points to the best level for 1930 in response to its 1929 report, showing operating income of $8.56 a share. Eastman Kodak, Beatrice Creamery and Underwood Elliott sold up about 4 points each to new peaks. U. S. Steel, selling ex-dividend, closed up 1 1-4 points net.

Such shares as American Can, General Electric, Gillette, Goodrich, Goodyear, Johns Manville, Simmons and Montgomery Ward lost a point or so each. Norfolk and Western lost 3 and St. Louis Southwestern 4 points.

The aggressive attitude taken by the farm board, together with a better export demand, caused a further rise of about 3 cents a bushel in wheat futures. Corn moved up more than a cent. Cotton closed about 70 cents to $1 a bale higher, influenced by short covering and the advance in wheat. Sugar futures, however, were depressed, the March position reaching 1.54 cents, the lowest ever recorded here. This commodity was influenced by uncertainty over the retention of the single selling agency in Cuba.

Foreign exchanges steadied with retention of the 4 1-2 per cent London bank rate, Sterling cables ruling a shade higher at $4.86 1-16. The Spanish peseta, however, was an isolated weak spot, sagging about 1-8 cent to 12.25 cents, a new low for the year.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Rapid upturns in wheat prices today resulted from immense new buying of Chicago future delivery contacts. Much of this buying was ascribed to government-sponsored sources, and was concentrated on the May delivery, which at times went to a premium over July. Heretofore of late, May delivery representing wheat harvested in 1929 has been at a discount compared with July contracts which stand for wheat yet to be grown.

Closing quotations on wheat futures were strong, 2 1-4-3 7-8c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-1 1-2c up, oats 5-8-1c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10c.

Entrance of the farm board's allied organizations into the wheat futures market was generally regarded as tending at least temporarily to restore confidence in higher prices and also as tending to restrict selling on the part of traders who believe prices are too high based on world conditions. Upturns in the Liverpool market today before trading began here gave additional stimulus to friends of higher prices, and so too did current talk that the forthcoming official report on farm reserve stocks of domestic wheat will show a decided decrease compared with a year ago. Under such circumstances, the upward jump of values here forced into operation numerous stop-loss orders from traders who recently have been sellers expecting further breaks in the market.

Some improvements of export demand today for North American wheat shipments counted as a help toward lifting prices. The total new export business was estimated at 1,250,000 bu., mainly Canadian, but including a considerable amount of United States hard winter wheat. An additional aid to the general upward swing of the market was announcement that the farm board proposes to have wheat stored in country elevators rather than sent to terminals where storage space is less available.

One result of the new moves of the federal farm board and its allied organizations was to arouse more interest in the corn market than has been generally shown of late.

The corn market moved up readily with commission houses generally on the buying side and many of them taking the ground that the corn market was on a less artificial basis than wheat.

Country offerings of corn to arrive were small, and eastern shipping demand good. Oats followed corn. Provisions went higher responsive to upturns both in home values and in grain.

Closing bids and offers: Wheat March 1.05 1-2; May 1.09 3-4-7-8, 1.16 3-8-1-2; July 1.10 3-8-1-2, 1.16 5-8-3-4; September 1.13 3-4.

Corn—March (bids) 81 1-2; May 85 7-8-86, 88 1-2; July 88 1-4-3-8, 90 7-8, 91. September 88 3-8-90 3-4.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A brisk recovery on the New York curb exchange was checked just before the close of today's session by heavy profit taking, but final quotations showed a preponderance of net gains. At least a score issues moved to new high levels for the year while a sprinkling of others, most conspicuous of which was Swift & Co. old stock, sank to new 1930 lows.

Trading was only moderate in volume, due to the continued disinclination of small traders to make extensive committments in curb stocks at the present time. While there has been little evidence of aggressive short selling for the past week, or more, the borrowing demand for stocks indicates the existence of a good sized short interest, particularly in the public utility issues, the recent rapid advance of which appears to have taken some "bear" traders by surprise.

Electric Bond & Share sold above 100 again today but closed at 99 5-8 for a net gain of 1 1-4 points. Public Service of Northern Illinois pyramided 36 points to a new 1930 high at 246 on total sales of less than 100 shares. American Light & Traction jumped 7 points, and Duke Power 5 on small transactions. American Gas & Electric common and preferred, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Memphis Natural Gas, Sierra Pacific Electric, Standard Power & Light new, and Utilities Power closed with net advances of 1 to nearly 3 points.

Efforts to extend the recent recovery in investment trust, holding and trading corporation shares met strong selling resistance. Third National Investors jumped 1 3-4 points and Mayflower Associates 1, buying of latter being influenced by reports of a sharp increase in the market value of its security holdings, particularly in the stocks of Rhodesian copper companies.

Eisler Electric touched another new high at 21 but lost part of its gain. Aviation Credit sold at 16 for the first time this year. Loews Inc. warrants and debenture rights, Mercantile Stores, Patterson Sarg, Kobacker Stores, and J. W. Watson were among the other issues to reach new high ground.

Most of the active oils improved fractionally, although the new General Petroleum Corporation common stock lost 1 1-4 points. Doehler Die Casting improved slightly on the publication of the annual report showing earnings of $4.19 a share. Ford Limited advanced about a point to 14 1-2, duplicating the year's high, in response to the announcement of a 10 per cent dividend.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)— Bond trading broadened somewhat today in the week's most active session. The demand was generally of a conservative investment nature, centering in the governments, rails and a few utilities.

French obligations, particularly the municipals, featured the firm foreign list which witnessed rather extensive buying of Marseilles 6s, Lyons 6s, Bordeaux 6s and Paris Lyons Mediterranean 6s.

Treasury 4 1-4s advanced about 2-8 and held most of the rise. The 4 per cent certificates, as well as the Fourth Liberties, also improved on active inquiry.

Baltimore & Ohio Gold 4s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4 1-2s, Great Northern 7s, New York Central debenture 4s, New Haven 4 1-2s, Nickel Plate 6s, Northern Pacific General 3s, Pennsylvania 4 1-2s, Southern Railway General 6s, Union Pacific First 4s and Wabash 4 1-2s participated actively in the inquiry for rails, but offerings proved sufficient to keep prices close to the closing level of Wednesday. However, the trend of the group was higher despite a decline in the averages.

American Telephone 5s, 1965, Consolidated Gas of New York 5 1-2s, Chicago Gas Light & Coke 5s, International Telephone 5s and Public Service Electric & Gas 4 1-2s absorbed much of the demand for utilities. High grade industrials were quiet. Atlantic Gulf & West Indies 5s, continuing yesterday's advance on the company's favorable preferred dividend action, made a new 1930 high at 77 1-2, selling off slightly to close with a net gain of 3-4. Inland Steel 4 1-2s made a similar gain, while Hoe & Co. 6s climbed 6 1-2 points. International Paper 6s were heavy.

American Telephone 4 1-2s ran away from the other share feature issues, making a net gain of 2 3-4 points on a turnover of more than $1,800,000, principal amount. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s rose 1. American International 5 1-2s were well traded on the strength of the earnings statement, but their gain was confined to a small fraction.

Aside from the French bonds, an upturn of 3-4 in British 5 1-2s to within 1-4 point of the year's higher and smaller improvement in Chile 6s of 1960, Brazil 6 1-2s of 1926-57 and Italy 7s were features in the foreign division.

Subscription books on the $10,000,000 issue of Crown Zellerbach debenture 6s and the $4,500,000 loan by Western Public Service 5 1-2s closed soon after the opening. New offerings this week have again been light, and this has been an important factor in the firming of the price structure in the listed market.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP) — The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroad will spend more than $28,000,000 during the current year on new equipment, improvements and additions to its properties, an increase of $3,500,000 over the 1929 budget. Of this amount, nearly $11,000,000 will be spent for new equipment.

W. R. Angell, vice president of the Continental Motors Corp., of Detroit, has been elected president, succeeding R. W. Judson, who becomes chairman of the board.

Reports from the copper market today stated that buying of the red metal has been somewhat better of late due to increased orders for copper wire. A material advance in orders is expected soon in view of the contemplated new construction work scheduled for this spring and summer by public utility and other copper consuming companies.

The first 44 railroads to report January earnings had a net operating income of $36,584,000, compared with $47,763,000 in January, 1929, a decrease of 23.4 per cent. Their December net amounted to $45,588,000.

The Galesburg-Coulter Disc Co., a subsidiary of the Borg-Warner Corp., of Chicago, has changed its name to the Ingersoll Steel Disc Co.

Directors of the National Department Stores today declared an initial quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock, placing it on a $2 annual basis. The dividend is payable April 1, to stock of record March 15.

In an interview published this week in sales management, R. E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., states that this year the company will concentrate on developing stores now in operation, instead of adding any large number of new stores to the chain. A similar policy already has been adopted by Montgomery, Ward & Co.

The New York federal reserve bank's statement of the gold movement at New York for the period, Feb. 20 to 26, inclusive, comprised imports of $6,394,000, of which $6,308,000 came from Brazil and $86,000 from other Latin-American countries. There were no exports, nor any change in the amount of gold earmarked for foreign account.

TWO NOTEWORTHY BOOKS NEW AT THE OTIS LIBRARY

Two beautiful books just acquired by the Otis library, Norwich, are of special interest. The first is Mediterranean Picture Lands, by the late Emelene Abbey Dunn, illustrated in colors from her own water color pictures. It is a superb example of the book-maker's art. Miss Dunn, who died in Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 17th, 1929, lived in New Haven and New York, but was long identified with Willimantic State Normal school in its art department. She has spoken and taught at summer school sessions in Norwich.

The second book is smaller, "Music and the Cultivated Man," by Lawrence Gilman, New York musical critic, who spends his summers with his aunt, Miss Caroline T. Gilman, at "The Colt Elms," Washington street. This is an essay, and is autographed.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

VETERAN GARDENERS TURN TO VEGETABLES

A revival of interest in the home vegetable garden is reported by statisticians who have access to records which serve as a measure of this activity. It is predicted that in the next few years the number of home gardens producing vegetables will come to exceed even the enormous total reached in the war garden campaigns.

But the vegetable gardens of today differ in important ways from war gardens. They were made everywhere by every one; and a large proportion of them were on poor soil, tended by unskilled hands. In contrast the home vegetable garden today is being made by gardeners of experience, perhaps the very ones who began with war gardens, but who have acquired skill and knowledge in the art, and have developed their home grounds according to the modern idea of making every square foot of their property serve a purpose.

For a while after the war a trend was reported away from vegetable growing, toward decorative gardening, with emphasis on flowers, shrubs and trees and keen interest in gardening design. This trend is still strong among beginners, and the rapid spread of gardening interest supplies thousands of beginners each year.

But after the design is worked out, and the framework of the garden is completed, the veteran gardener finds his greatest interest in producing perfect plants. To sow seeds, and by correct cultivation, fertilization and irrigation to grow plants which conform to the accepted standards of merit, is a feat which sends a thrill down the spine of the true gardener. The nature of the plant is perhaps of secondary importance; but there is coming to be a general agreement in this country, as in England, that vegetables on the whole are more satisfying to a fancier than flowers.

Flowers are more temperamental; they are subject to more hazards they have not been so well bred to type, and do not respond so exactly to scientific culture. Flowers in the border are all very well; they are essential in the garden picture. But for the fun of growing perfect plants, one wants subjects that can be grown in straight rows, with clean cultivation, thinned out to allow each individual to do its best and here the American commoner is coming to agree with the British aristocracy, that growing prize vegetables is the best sport.

FEDERAL AGENTS AID INDIANS TO STAMP OUT SHEEP DISEASE

Representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture often find themselves far from the beaten track of civilization in the performance of their duties. Inspectors of the Bureau of Animal Industry who have been engaged in the eradication of livestock diseases on the Navajo Indian reservation have many interesting stories to tell. The reservation includes parts of Arizona, New Mexico, and Utah. It has a total area of approximately 25,000 square miles and is about the size of the state of West Virginia.

The Navajos possess nearly a million head of sheep, besides horses, cattle, and goats in considerable numbers. Their annual sales of wool and livestock are said to be commercially important in the southwest. Large quantities of wool from their sheep are made into rugs and blankets by the women.

A number of years ago veterinarians of the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry discovered that the flocks on the Navajo reservation were infested with a highly contagious disease known as scabies. The disease is caused by a small animal parasite which lives on the skin of the sheep and is controlled by dipping the animals.

The dipping is carried on in late summer and early fall. The Indians are notified when to report with their sheep, and they usually come in groups, 15 or 20 families together. Conspicuous at this time are the women owners of the flocks. They watch closely every action of the federal inspectors who have charge of the work. Sometimes they do not approve of the dipping and tell the inspectors so in plain Navajo, but on the whole they have become convinced that the work is for their benefit.

The federal men stay for weeks at a time at the dipping stations with no assistance other than an interpreter, usually a Navajo school boy, and possibly one or two Indian helpers.

SOYBEANS NOW ON OUR TABLE AS WELL AS IN THE STABLE

Soybeans, long considered in this country as feed fit for livestock only, are gradually finding a place on the American table. Soybeans have been utilized for many centuries by the people of the oriental countries in the preparation of numerous fresh, fermented, and dried food products.

Extensive experiments in North America and Europe indicate the value of soybeans as the basis of food for persons requiring a low starch diet, says the United States Department of Agriculture, and for many years food companies have had on the market forms of soybean flour prepared for persons requiring a diet of this kind. Investigations have shown that soybean flour as a gruel is a most valuable food for infants.

In North America the soybean has attracted attention at various times as an article of food, but until recently it had not been used to any great extent. Several food manufacturers have now begun the manufacture of various food-stuffs, such as soy sauce, soybean flour, breakfast foods, and edible oil, from soybeans. Two obstacles which will have to be overcome before the soybean is accepted generally are prejudice and custom, factors which often operate against new foods.

SCIENTISTS IMPROVE FLAX BY KILLING THE "LEAST FIT"

Sowing seeds where they have least chance to grow and mature is one of the methods science uses for improving plants. Flaxseed presents a good example.

About 30 years ago scientists learned that flax ceased to do well on old land because of the development of flax wilt, a fungous disease that was transmitted to the plants from the infected soil. A. C. Dillman of the United States Department of Agriculture tells how Prof. H. L. Bolley, of North Dakota, and his coworkers developed improved flax by sowing seed in the very fields worst infested by the wilt organism. This resulted in the destruction of the seedlings that were susceptible to wilt. Relatively few of the plants were able to survive and mature seed for the next year's sowing, but the few that did survive were the more valuable because they had demonstrated the ability to grow in spite of the wilt.

Further seedings on less infested soil showed that these selected strains would make a crop where ordinary flax would fail. Once the wilt resistance was established it was possible to select seedlings having other desirable characteristics. This was the Field Station of the United States Department of Agriculture. It was responsible for the selection of improved varieties of wilt-resistant flax such as Bison, Linota, Buda and

FRUIT GRAFTING IN WINTER MONTHS

Favorite winter sports of fruit growers generally include pruning, grafting, and indoor propagation, declares H. B. Tukey, horticulturist at the New York state experiment station in charge of investigations with nursery stocks, who has a few timely suggestions to make in this connection.

"Much is heard," he said, "about changing old and unprofitable varieties to standard sorts better suited to market demands. Or perhaps one wishes to obtain fruit of some of the new varieties developed by the station and offered by the New York Fruit Testing Co-operative association, without waiting for young trees to come into bearing. In either case, top-working by the placing of grafts in bearing trees is the accepted procedure.

"For work of this kind there are different grafts possible, such as the whip graft and the cleft graft, each suitable for some particular need. For small branches the whip graft is best and for medium-sized branches the cleft graft. If bridge grafting becomes necessary because of mouse injury, it will be necessary to have dormant cions for late spring work, and cion wood must be selected and stored so as to keep it fresh yet dormant.

"Those interested in indoor grafting, using dormant roots and cions, must have secured dormant seedling roots and dormant cion wood so that the work can be carried on at convenient times during the winter season, while those who raise grapes and other similar plants from hardwood cuttings will have secured their stock and packed it way for callusing before severe weather sets in."

Mr. Tukey has prepare a brief popular circular on the propagation of plants which may be had free upon request to the station.

HONEY BEES FOUND TO BE USEFUL AGENTS

Bouquets of fresh apple blossoms in tubs and pails placed at intervals in an orchard in full bloom may excite the curious. They are not so placed to better the color scheme, but to give the bees a variety, and the bees will do the rest if the bouquets are chosen from the proper trees, Prof. H. D. Hootman of the Michigan Horticultural society told New York fruit growers at their Rochester meeting.

Many fruit growers have a hazy impression that pollen is carried from one blossom to another or to different parts of the orchard by the wind. This is not so, because fruit pollen is moist and is seldom if ever carried by wind. Pollen is transferred by insects, especially honey-bees, says Prof. Hootman.

It is necessary for pollen to come in contact with the sticky stigma before a blossom develops fruit. Here it germinates and grows down the pollen tube until it reaches and fuses with the ovary of the blossom, which becomes fertilized. The young fruits when first formed have a slight hold on life and unfavorable influences, no matter how slight, may cause them to perish. Fertilization gives the tiny fruit life and enables it to hold on the parent plant and draw nourishment to supply the developing embryo in the seeds. Complete fertilization usually betters the chances of the fruit stickin gon the spur and developing instead of falling to the ground during the June drop.

Some varieties of fruit do not set well when pollinated with their own pollen. These varieties are termed self-sterile. With such varieties the pollen of other varieties must be available if profitable crops to be harvested. There are other varieties that set fairly well when pollinated with their own pollen. Such varieties are self-fertile. However even self-fertile varieties grow better crops when interplanting of varieties is practiced, says Prof. Hootman.

Pollination troubles were unknown in the older orchards when several varieties were planted in a small orchard. The more recent plantings may be of one variety in orchards up to 20 acres. Where a whole planting is of a self sterilize variety, yields are difficult to get

UNION

Fruit buds are swelling and the state road, as well as the dirt roads, is unsettled by the release of frost. About midnight Monday a truck, en route from Boston to Hartford, broke through on the Buckley highway between Mashapaug and Union Center. A wrecker helped it to resume the journey, about five o'clock Tuesday morning. It was loaded with ice-packed fish for the Hartford market.

Rev. and Mrs. Bragg have returned from a visit at the home of their son, Irving B. Bragg, in Cromwell. They also called on friends in Hartford and Bloomfield. Mr. Bragg, who is a member of Hiram Lodge of Bloomfield, attended the annual meeting and banquet of that organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lindsay motored from New York Friday night and spent the week end at Lake Mashapaug.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Eaton and sons Melville and Richard of Watertown, Mass., spent Sunday at their Mashapaug farm.

Miss Irene Moore, of Southbridge and Miss Esther Moore, of Springfield, were at their home at Mashapaug for Washington's birthday.

Miss Florence L. Barrows, of the Department of Botany at Connecticut College, who was at home for the week end, returned to New London Sunday evening.

Rev. and Mrs. Edward Field of East Hampton were guests of Rev. and Mrs. Bragg at the parsonage Monday.

David Gaudette and family were guests of Mr. Gaudette's son, Clare Gaudette, in South Willington Sunday evening.

BOLTON

The Ladies' Aid society is to meet today, (Thursday), at the basement. Hostesses are Mrs. Arthur Merrill and Mrs. Charles N. Loomis.

Mr. and Mrs. John Toomey spent the week end with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David C. Toomey.

Miss Annie M. Alvord is spending a few days with Mrs. J. Wesson Phelps in Branford.

The schools in town are having a week's vacation. The Birch Mountain school is in session because it had a week to make up.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Keith of Manchester spent Sunday with Mrs. Keith's sister, Mrs. Elsie M. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Alvord of Hartford were in town Sunday.

The children from town who go to Manchester high school are having a week's vacation.

Farmer Bureau E. E. Tucker and Prof. Darrow of the County Farm Bureau agent will meet Thursday at the basement at two o'clock. The talk is to be about the Gypsy Moth.

Mr. John B. Hutchinson of Andover was in town Sunday.

Mrs. Charles L. Sumner and Mrs. Thomas Bentley attended the D. A. R. meeting in Manchester. It was a George Washington meeting.

Mr. Elmer J. Finley of New York is spending a few days in town.

MANSFIELD CENTER

Interest continues in the special Sunday evening C. E. services. Forty-two attended the meeting held this week when Mrs. Harold James conducted a radio service. "Radio talks" on mission fields were given by seven young men. A quartet from Norwich was heard in an anthem and there were vocal solos by the members of the quartet, all very pleasing.

Mrs. Ralph Sprague was chairman of the Valentine social given last Friday evening by the C. E. society social committee. There were competitive games in which the Reds, led by Miss Dorothy Hawkins won and received as a prize a box of candy. The Blues, under Jesse Inman, were awarded a bag of candy. A paper on St. Valentine's day was given by Elinor Barrows.

The Church Guild is to meet this (Thursday) afternoon with Mrs. Harold James.

The Junior C. E. society is to have a social at the parsonage Friday afternoon.

Harold James will be responsible for the program for the March Church Night.

The schools of Mansfield are having a week's recess, the first vacation in the new eight weeks' period arrangement.

Earl W. Green Post and auxiliary met at the library Monday evening.

Mansfield people are grateful to the Willimantic and North Windham fire departments for their assistance Sunday night when fire broke out in the G. J. Kirby optical plant at the Hollow. Only this assistance and the ample water supply saved the entire plant from destruction. Water damage to tools, machinery and boxes in the main building is heavy. Men began Monday morning to clean the machinery, and salvage valuable supplies lost or injured during the fire. The heating plant was crippled, but it is expected that when repairs are made the work of the plant will continue. Twenty are regularly employed here.

WARRENVILLE

Following is a list of books recently added to the library: The Guarded Halo, Margaret Pedler; Tomorrow's Tangle, Margaret Pedler; Jeanne's Happy Year, Alice Ross Colver; The Father, Katherine Brown; My Six Years with the Black Watch, John Gordon; Twenty Years on Broadway, George Cohan; Those Difficult Years, Faith Baldwin; The Hallowell Partnership, Katherine Brown; Heros of All Time, Robert Stevenson; Charlotte Corday, Marie Cher; Jane Allen, Right Guard, Edith Bancroft; The Talmadge Sisters, Margaret Talmadge; Rusty of the Tall Pines, Frances Sterrett; Twelve Tests of Character, Harry Fosdick; The White House Gang, Earle Looker; If Dreams Come True, Alice Colver; Oh, Shoot! G. Wodehouse; Fighting Caravans, Zane Grey; Duskin, Grace Hill; Red Silence, Kath. Norris; The Devil and Deep Sea, E. Jordan.

The following books were donated to the library by O. P. Durkee: Miranda, The Simpkins Plot, Pegeen, The Fair Lavenda, The Jackdaws of Rheims, The Custard Cup, Phebe Deane, Cap'n Abe, Storekeeper, Polly Anna, Polly Anna Grows Up, Jersey Street and Jersey Lane, Dante's Poems, The Old Nest, American Prose, The Deliverance, Martha By-the-Day, The Bird-Store Man, David Alden's Daughter, A Vers de Societie Anthology, The Altar Fire, The Big Little Person, Much Ado about Peter, Mary Cary, Kennedy Square, Octagon House, The Ollivant Orphans, The Rosary, The Sapphire Bracelet, Lewis Rand, George Washington Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bickwell of West Hartford spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Z. B. Bicknell.

Schools closed Friday for a vacation until March 3rd.

Merritt Gallup and Arthur Gallup of Abington visited at the Gardner Homestead one day last week.

Mrs. Emil Tautenhaun has returned from New York where she underwent an operation on her throat. Mr. and Mrs. George Becker are helping Mr. Tautenhaun care for her.

Three woodchucks ventured out during the near summer weather.

Clarence Green of Providence visited Mr. and Mrs. Leon Gardner last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bebbington, Charles Bebbington and little Marguerite visited Mr. and Mrs. Smith at Eastford Sunday.

Mrs. John Nichols and son of Spring Hill and Miss Joyce Thompson of Southbridge, Mass., called on Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Buck Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown, Miss Harriett Durkee and Mr. and Mrs. Harry MacWay attended a whist party given by the Southern N. E. Telephone company at Willimantic, Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rak of New York, Mr. and Mrs. William Rak and Mrs. Nettie Baker of Hartford visited William Rak Sunday.

Deacon Bicknell read an interesting sermon at the Baptist church, Sunday morning. Next Sunday Curtis M. Saulsbury of New Haven plans to sing. Mr. Saulsbury has been director in several choirs and has a gospel message.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Calhoun of Hartford spent the week end with Mrs. Marshall Lawton.

ELECTRIC THERMOMETER TESTS PLANTS' HARDINESS

MADISON, Wis.—(AP)—An electric thermometer which shows how much cold weather a plant can stand has been devised at the University of Wisconsin.

Without stepping outdoors, a person may put a plant in this device and learn quickly what will happen to that plant in a hard freeze. It is announced as "an outstanding discovery" because of its promise of value to practical agriculture.

The parts of this thermometer are a refrigerator, some pure water and instruments for determining electrical conductivity. The roots of a plant are frozen, then thawed and placed in water, and finally the electrical conductivity of the water is measured.

This conductivity shows whether the plant is tender or hardy. Good conductance means the roots are tender, easily injured by cold. Different electrical effects come from the electrolytic contents, a sort of electrical grease, given up by tender roots, but retained by hardy ones.

CREATIVE TALENT CALLED "ASTONISHINGLY COMMON"

IOWA CITY, Ia.—(AP)—Many seemingly commonplace individuals are carrying about qualities of greatness without opportunity to use them.

This is the gist of a report to the American association for the advancement of science, by Professor W. G. Stewart, physicist of the University of Iowa.

"There are two common beliefs that should be destroyed," he says. "One is that a young person possessing a first-class mind will inevitably find an appropriate outlet for his ability. The second is that in our educational system today teachers are sufficiently competent to recognize mental ability of a high order.

"Creative talent is astonishingly common. But it fails often to come to fruition because it is not recognized and encouraged as such."

SHARKEY WINS ON TECHNICAL K. O. IN THIRD ROUND OF ONE-SIDED BOUT

RINGSIDE, MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The crowning touch to one of the biggest fight fiascos in many years was applied tonight when Jack Sharkey, the generally recognized American heavyweight champion, was declared the winner over Phil Scott, pale British titleholder, on a technical knockout in the third round of a 15-round match.

After scenes of extraordinary confusion and following the granting of a minute's rest to Scott on a claim of foul, Sharkey's hand was lifted in victory by Referee Lou Magnolia as the Briton, weak and manifesting extreme agony, refused to continue the bout. The finish came with Scott still erect but reeling helplessly into the ropes after absorbing a terrific left hand punch to the stomach.

Scott Floored Repeatedly

Scott had been floored once in the second round and twice in the third round before the enactment of scenes that put an almost unprecedented touch to the conclusion of a thoroughly unsatisfactory contest. Sharkey was warned once for hitting low before landing a second hook to the body which sent Scott to the floor, holding his side and writhing as if in agony. As the Briton's manager and handlers leaped into the ring, to add to the confusion of all concerned, Referee Magnolia halted the fight without indicating any decision before an examination. When neither the referee nor an examining physician agreed with Scott's claim of foul, the Briton was immediately given the choice of continuing the fight under his own power or of having Sharkey promptly declared the victor. With the end of a minute's respite, Scott agreed to fight, the ring was cleared and Sharkey, who had been dashing about like a wild man, rushed at his foe mercilessly. The Briton clinched and tried to save himself but was limping, constantly gripping his side and grimacing in a manifestation of extreme pain. Backed finally against the ropes, Phil took a smashing blow to the stomach, a left hook, and sagged. Although the blow clearly was fair, several inches above the belt line, Scott indicated another claim of foul as he turned in a helpless manner toward his corner. Magnolia unhesitatingly stepped in, asked Scott whether he wanted to continue and when advised in the negative, turned to lift the raging Sharkey's hand in victory.

The fight was stopped after two minutes and 34 seconds of actual fighting in the third round but, due to the interval of rest for Scott, lasted a minute longer.

Johnston Protests Strongly

Scott's manager, Jimmy Johnston, protested volubly and declared later that Referee Magnolia originally had disqualified Sharkey, but the sole arbiter of the bout denied this and flatly declared he had not seen Sharkey hit a foul blow at any time. The final punch, Magnolia said, was squarely in the pit of the stomach and left no possible room for argument.

The finish of the main bout, although advancing Sharkey to the final round of this year's heavyweight championship elimination tournament, with Max Schmeling as his prospective final foe in June, was as unsatisfactory to the crowd and to the critics as most everything else connected with the show.

Risko-Campolo Bout a Draw

Sharkey's victory followed an unpopular verdict of a draw by Referee Kid McPartland of New York in the ten-round semi-final between Victorio Campolo of the Argentine and Johnny Risko of Cleveland. McPartland lifted the gloves of both men after a slashing slugging bee in which Risko although conceding an advantage of 31 points in weight to his giant opponent, appeared to have a clean cut margin on points.

Campolo finished the stronger, staggering Risko with solid blows to the head in the tenth round, but Johnny forced the fighting in at least eight of the ten rounds, cuffing and battering his big rival all over the ring with characteristic rushes.

On the "Associated Press" score sheet, Risko was accorded the edge in six rounds. Campolo in only three—the first, seventh and tenth—with the fifth regarded as even. Referee McPartland, said he gave four rounds to each and rated two even. Many, if not a majority of ringside experts gave Risko no less than seven rounds.

There were no knockdowns but Risko staggered Campolo with vicious overhand rights and raised a big lump under the Argentine's left eye. Campolo, baffled and stung, as he was in most of the rounds, nevertheless exhibited a terrific right hand punch when he was able to land it. Regardless of the decision the fight manifested no basis for the New York boxing commission's decision that Risko was "too small" to fight Campolo.

Show a Financial Flop

The unsatisfactory outcome of the two featured bouts was a climax to the financial flop of the second battle of the coconaut palms, a losing venture from the outset despite the most extraordinary attempts at ballyhoo. Although the Madison Square Garden corporation issued no official figures, an authoritative estimate appeared to be that not more than 26,000 persons half-filled the big Miami arena and contributed a "gate" of about $200,000. It was indicated the loss might reach $50,000 on this basis.

The chief reason for the first season's failure was the lack of competitive prospects for the main bout and its outcome appeared to justify original speculation. Scott gave an excellent exhibition of boxing and defensive work in the first two rounds, especially in the first, as Sharkey appeared over-anxious and missed awkwardly in his attempts to put over a finishing blow. In the second round, Scott's first visit to the floor, in his own corner, was due as much to a wild rush and shove by Sharkey as by the clip he took on the side of the head.

Sharkey's punching mastery, however, was manifest from the outset and the finish came early, as had been expected, although not in the anticipated manner.

Magnolia is Cool

Referee Lou Magnolia, as events piled up on him thick and fast, in the confusing third round, exhibited little hesitation in his handling of the situation. Following his decision, he issued an official statement saying that at no time during the contest had he seen a foul blow struck, although he warned Sharkey once early in the third round for a questionable blow. This, Magnolia said, was a punch to the stomach, causing Scott's trunks to drop a trifle. On the second low punch, resulting in Scott's claim of foul, Magnolia said neither he nor the examining doctor discovered any ill effects. Magnolia declared he then gave Scott the alternative of continuing the fight, after a minute's rest, or of losing the decision. Finally, said Magnolia, the blow which ended the fight, with Scott refusing to continue, was squarely in the stomach.

Magnolia amplified this later by saying that he gave Scott the minute's rest to remove any chance for a "squawk" or question as to the Briton's condition.

Scott Shows Bruise

Conflicting stores came from the dressing room to add to the general chaos. Scott examined in his dressing room, was found to have a large bump and bruise at the top of his right thigh. The Briton, supported by his manager, asserted his leg was semi-paralyzed by the effect of the blow on a sciatic nerve. He limped in apparent pain. This injury was close to the spot where Scott was hit by Otto Von Porat in the bout at Madison Square Garden which the Briton won on a foul. Jimmy Johnston visited the press row after the fight to protest bitterly Magnolia's decision, shouting his claim of a foul while spectators crowded around to join in the general melee and argument.

Other Results

The five international bouts of the program ended in victory for the American entries in three events. Raul Bianchi, strapping young Argentine, scored the only foreign triumph in the opening bout when he knocked out Bill Daring in two minutes and 25 seconds of the first round. Jimmy Maloney, veteran Bostonian, gained the decision over Moise Bouquillon of France and Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia easily outpointed Pierre Charles of Belgium, in addition to the victory for Sharkey and a draw for Risko, in the semi-final with Campolo.

MIAMI SIDELIGHTS

By BRIAN BELL

(Associated Press Sports Writer).

RINGSIDE, Miami, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—With a majority of the early arrivals in shirt sleeves while their women companions wore summer dresses, the second annual fistic battle of the palms was ushered in on a hot, star-lit night.

Ten thousand spectators made arrangements to see the whole show, slipping into their seats in the huge, octagon shaped stadium before 8 o'clock.

Over the Madison Square Garden ring, a series of horns, reminiscent of six-day bicycle races, boomed out tunes. The amplifiers system had brief but spirited opposition at intervals from an American Legion band.

Joe Humphreys, the one man amplifying system of the Garden, reported himself in the pink of condition for his official debut in Florida.

The veteran announcer has never seen a fight in the Alligator state but he said before the first bout that he was confident his "pipes" would be equal to the emergency.

"I am in my regular Garden uniform," said Joe, "gray federal and blue serge." As he glanced at a dozen dinner coated figures in the front rows, "it is appropriate here as in New York, Confederate gray and Federal blue."

Baseball was one of the first sports to gain representation at the ringside, Dan Howley, manager of the Cincinnati Reds and Lena Blackburn, former White Sox manager, now a St. Louis Brown coach, were early arrivals.

Babe Ruth scorned the flannels favored by many fellows and appeared in a dinner coat. He was accompanied by Mrs. Ruth and his arrival was the signal for a concentrated dash by photographers. Bronzed to a shade beyond brick red, the Bambino seemed in great physical shape. "It should be a wonderful show," was his fight forecast.

Gene Tunney arrived just as the first of the preliminary boxers climbed into the ring. The former champion was accompanied by Mrs. Tunney and a group of friends including his host, Bernard Gimbel. Tunney wore dinner clothers and a wide brimmed panama hat. He went somewhat cautiously to his front row seat, remembering his recent operation.

Gar Wood, the motorboat racing driver, was roaming about as if he had some difficulty in finding his seat.

John Ringling, an authority in his own right on great outdoor spectacles, arrived at the ringside when there were less than 20,000 people in the stadium. The crowd was not big enough to cause the circus king to become excited.

Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, had the best seat of the baseball men. He was doubling in brass by appearing as a newspaper reporter and was in the second row of the brass section.

Palm Beach, just two hours away, was well represented. Among the many from Palm Beach were E. F. Hutton, James H. R. Cromwell, Ira Richards, Grover Whalen and Florenz Ziegfeld.

Walter Camp, son of the father of football, and himself a former Yale player, and Mrs. Camp, the former Ruth Elder, were interested onlookers.

The Fight in Detail

Round one—Scott, with the British flag sewed on the side of his trunks, took sometime to adjust his gloves and go out for instructions. Sharkey wore the navy emblem. Sharkey opened with a rush but failed to connect. Scott clinched as the American rushed again. They sparred and exchanged rights to the body. Scott adopted a half crouch and ducked away from Sharkey's wild rush. The Briton chopped a right to the side of the head and clinched. Sharkey smashed a left hook to the ribs but was tied up as he came to close quarters. Phil picked a right hand out of the air and boxed cooly. Sharkey was short with both hands and they clinched again. Phil showed no disposition to mix at close quarters but fired long range to the ear at the bell. The Englishman was boxing cooly.

Round two—Sharkey bobbed and shifted, chopping a right to the head as they clinched. Scott went down in a corner as they fought at close range but got up at the count of six. It was a left to the head, and the force of Sharkey's rush that put Phil down. Sharkey missed with his left but punished the Briton as they came to a clinch. Blood trickled from Phil's right nostril. They exchanged lefts to the body but Scott showed agility in tying up the American at close range. Sharkey dug a stiff left to the stomach but missed an overhand right by a half foot. They broke from a clinch just before the bell.

Round three—They walked slowly from their corners and sparred. Sharkey missed a right and was almost wrestled off his feet. Phil adopted purely defensive tactics but cuffed Sharkey lightly around the head as he rushed in. The American landed a long left to the jaw but was stopped by a left hook. Scott stung Sharkey with a hard right to the jaw and the American rushed his opponent across the ring. Scott went down for a count of three from a hook to the head, as he stumbled off the ropes. Sharkey was warned for hitting low, and Scott went down after a left to the body, taking a count of six. Another left to the side sent Scott down and the Briton claimed a foul.

As it is one of those days when nothing seems to go right, I guess I'll just catch up on the correspondence.

I've received quite a number of letters from various sources, some complimentary and others not so good. But you gotta take the bitter with the sweet.

To O. D. A.: You sure have cold weather up there at the cold storage plant. I sympathize with you, I used to own one of those th's myself. Too bad about the G. W., but did you ever know a Scotsman to give away anything he could use himself. I am still looking for that picture.

To M. E.: I wondered how long it would be before I was discovered. You noticed that the picture was changed shortly after you wrote to me. And thanks for those other kind words.

To K. D.: You are right, those four-posters with slats are unreliable. I'm glad someone besides myself has had experience with these modernized antiques.

Main Street Clerk: When writing anonymous letters it is best to disguise the handwriting if possible, it is so easy to compare it with that on the bills. And another thing, don't use business stationery, even though you try to scratch out the address. Thanks for the flattening remarks.

Perplexed: I am sorry, but I do not give advice to the lovelorn; I've enough other troubles. How do I know if you should marry him; bring him around some time and let's look him over.

R. K.: I am married and I love my husband and I hope he loves me. Yes, I like to go automobile riding but not with strange men. How about sending your picture?

J. D. H.: I am sorry but I am afraid there is malice aforethought in your request that I write on that subject. If you have positive proof, it is something that ought to be corrected.

I guess that's all the correspondence to date. Here's one that was told me the other day by a local man. It seems a person from another town came here and in conversation says to the local man: "Every time I've been here before the only thing I saw going was Plaut-Cadden's clock and now that is stopped. You folks are in tough luck." And that from an outsider.

Here's a Scotch joke from Jewett City: "Did you hear that one about the Scotsman who sent the surgeon's bill to his father-in-law because his wife's tonsils should have been removed when she was a child."

Well, I'll close on that one.

DO YOU REMEMBER THIS ONE?

(Another of a number of articles recalling local baseball of other years).

A few days ago the greatness of a sensational amateur team of years now passed was set down in this column, St. Mary's of Jewett City. This happened around the years 1918-1919, but since then another team, composed of youngsters in their teens, gave the fans of Eastern Connecticut plenty to talk about, the Warriors, of '25-'26.

Perhaps this greatest glory came in the Twi league of 1926 and especially when they held the powerful league-leading Eastern Conn. Power team to 2 ties in the closing weeks of the season and helped prolong the clinching of the championship much longer than it should have taken. The second of these games, shown today, was played Wednesday, August 25, and resulted 1-1, Lefty Dugas pitched against Henry Couture.

The Powermen scored in the first on Whitney's single, his steal of second and Dugas' long double and looked on the way to the title until Tombari doubled and Kampf singled for the Warriors' run in the fourth. The E. C. P. guided by Manager Jimmy Holland, finally won the pennant, however, on the third try against the Warriors.

CARNERA TO DABBLE IN OIL FIELDS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The combination of Primo Carnera, Italian boxer, and Leon See, his French manager, has branched into Oklahoma oil.

See saw opportunities to augment the income from Carnera's crushing of challengers while here last week.

Articles of incorporation for Leon See, Inc., with See listed as president, and Carnera as vice-president, were on file today with the secretary of state. The new company will deal in oil properties.

After helping Scott to his corner for an examination, Scott's manager climbed into the ring and the crowd was in an uproar as the fight was halted. The Briton manifested agony but finally decided to resume fighting. The crowd roared as Phil came out to meet Sharkey's wild rush. They mixed furiously and Scott appeared in agony as he backed against the ropes. Scott appeared unable to continue fighting and Magnolia stepped in to stop further boxing. He then [illegible]

SHYMA CARD FOR NEXT WEEK HAS BEEN COMPLETED BY PROMOTERS

Matchmaker Leo P. Flynn of the Shyma Boxing club has completed his card for the boxing show at Parish hall next week, and has lined up a card that looks mighty good. As has been announced, the main bout will bring Al Beauregard, state bantamweight champion, against Johnny Vacca of Boston, one of the best boys in the 118-pound class in New England, in a ten rounder.

The Beauregard-Vacca bout should be one of the best drawing cards of any show in the eastern part of the state for a long time. Vacca and Beauregard have met twice before, Vacca getting the verdict both times but winning only one. The first time Vacca won by a hairline margin but in the second bout Beauregard outpointed Vacca but the referee raised Vacca's hand in mistake. This will be the third meeting and should be a bout well worth seeing.

The supporting cast to this banner attraction has been well arranged and is comprised of two six-round bouts and two four rounders. Topping the six rounders is the bout in which Johnny Kop, local boxer, meets Billy Prince of Waterbury.

The other bout brings together Rene Peloquin of Danielson and Pat James of Providence, former New England amateur bantamweight champion. From Peloquin's showing in the last bout this coming one should be a hummer.

Opening the card will be Young Guoin of Taftville, youthful slugger, against The Walloping Wop of New York. If Guoin fights the way he did at the last show against Young Westphal the fans can bank on getting plenty of action for their money.

The other four-rounder is between Bobby Wells of Montville, a newcomer to the local rings, and Harry Ryder of Waterbury.

Taken as a whole this card that has been arranged looks like a real fast one and should provide plenty of action for the fans.

BACON ACADEMY LOSES TO RIVAL MOODUS TEAM

The Bacon Academy basketball quintet was defeated by their old rivals the Nathan Hale high school team of Moodus in an exciting game in Continental hall, Moodus, Wednesday evening by a score of 33-22. The Moodus boys only had a one point lead at the end of the first half, but in the latter half they rallied considerably. D. Horwitz, Bacon's star left forward made twelve points but his sensational plays were not enough to offset the unexpected rally of the Moodus outfit in the latter half. Levine also featured for Colchester with 6 points. M. Greenberg and Golet were the star men for Moodus with 16 and 7 points respectively. This was a return game, the Bacon Academy team having defeated the Nathan Hale quintet 23-14 in a game in Colchester on Feb. 15.

In the preliminary the Nathan Hale second team defeated the Bacon Academy second team 21-7.

DR. HERTZ DESCRIBES SCOTT'S INJURY AS TRAUMATIC SCIATICA

RINGSIDE, MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Dr. Morton K. Hertz of New York, a ringside observer, examined Phil Scott later in the dressing room and described his injury as traumatic sciatica, induced by a blow on the right leg that disrupted action of the sciatic nerve.

Dr. Hertz was called to Scott's dressing room an hour after the fight by Jimmy Johnston, Scott's manager. He flexed the Englishman's right leg during [illegible] what the physician said was nervous shock.

Afterward, Dr. Hertz pricked Scott's right leg with pins, but the fighter, lying still unclothed on a bench in the dressing room, said he was unable to feel the sensation.

MISS ORCUTT IS PUT OUT BY MRS. HANLEY

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Detroit, eliminated Maureen Orcutt, Eastern and Metropolitan champion, on the 16th green, 3 and 2, in a major upset of today's play of the South Atlantic golf championship.

Out to the turn in 40 strokes, two over men's par for the course, the Detroit star was two up on Miss Orcutt who carded a poor six on the eighth and followed it with a seven for a medal of 48.

Coming home they halved the tenth with fours but the fighting Detroiter took advantage of her opponent's slip around the green on the 11th to go three up. Miss Orcutt retaliated by garnering a beautiful birdie four on the next for a win.

The long 14th went to Mrs. Hanley when she chipped out of the trap at the left of the green to within three feet of the cup and ran her putt down for a birdie four.

Three putts prevented Mrs. Hanley from ending the match on the 15th hole, but it was all over when both carded fours on the 218-yard 16th.

Miss Virginia Van Wie was carried to the 16th green by Mrs. M. Hochheimer, New York, before the Chicago girl, who is defending champion, broke through to win, 4 and 3.

Marion Bennett, New Britain, Conn., carded a sturdy 82, three under women's par, to win a one up verdict from Lillian Holland, New York.

Ruth Replogle, Oklahoma City, continued to shoot brilliant golf, winning a two up decision from Mrs. L. G. Riley, Pittsburgh.

Miss Van Wie meets Miss Bennett in the semi-final tomorrow, while Miss Replogle faces Mrs. Hanley.

SCOTT SAYS DECISION WAS "ROTTEN AND WICKED"

RINGSIDE, MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—"It was a rotten, wicked decision," was Phil Scott's dressing room description of the technical knockout awarded Jack Sharkey by Referee Lou Magnolia tonight after Scott had claimed a foul in the heavyweight elimination battle here.

"I know that I was fouled at least half a dozen times, I counted them. I have never seen anything like it in my life."

The Englishman said Referee Magnolia came to him after he had first claimed Sharkey fouled him.

"He asked me if I could carry on. I told him I would try—that's all anybody could do," Scott said. "But if a man can't carry on, he can't."

Scott exhibited a prospective bruise on the outside of his right leg six inches below the point of the hip bone. He said that that place was the point where he had been fouled by Sharkey.

"The referee poked his finger in my stomach at the time of the last foul. He and the man they said was a doctor both said the first time that I was not fouled, but any doctor in the world should have known it," Scott lamented.

Sharkey, so excited that tears streamed down his face as he danced and struggled with his handlers while awaiting the referee's decision, dashed for his dressing room after being declared the victor.

"Not one blow was foul," he shouted, storming about in an almost uncontrollable rage at the claim that came close to keeping him from victory. The big ex-sailor refused to be interviewed and left in a few minutes to join his wife, who had refused to attend the fight.

ANNUAL BASKETBALL CLASSIC AT STORRS SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Feb. 27.—Three Rhode Island State basketball teams, varsity, freshman, and co-ed, will invade Storrs Saturday, March 1, and will attempt to duplicate their performance of two weeks ago when they defeated all three Aggie quintets at Kingston. Rhode Island has won 11 out of 14 games played to date, and has had what is considered a very successful season. Last year the Engineers had an undefeated season until the final game at Storrs, which the Connecticut five won.

Chubbuck, center and leading scorer of the Aggie team, was unable to take part in the practice session today due to an infected foot. It is expected that he will be in shape for the game Saturday unless complications set in. Bev Wilson, a sophomore, was used at center in practice today, and may see some service in the Saturday night contest.

The Aggies will probably stand pat on the rest of the quintet, which consists of Captain Ray Ryan, right forward; Darrow, left forward; Leo Duffy, left guard, and Flydal, right guard.

PENA TAKES VERDICT FROM BUSTER NADEAU

WATERBURY, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Johnny Pena, 119, Spanish bantamweight, outpointed Buster Nadeau, 118 1-2, of Holyoke, in the main eight-round bout conducted at Buckingham hall under auspices of the Waterbury A. C., here tonight. Others:

Tony DePalma, New Haven, 123, eight-round decision over Frankie Albano, New York, 127.

Ruby Greenberg, New York, 135, knocked out Johnny Mason, Bridgeport, 136, in the first round of a scheduled eight-rounder.

Lou Murelli, Torrington, 138 1-2, won an unpopular eight-round decision over Joe Carpino, New York, 135.

MASSIE B. MILLER TO RETURN TO NORWICH AS PROFESSIONAL

In a telegram from Massie B. Miller to F. Russell Smith of the Norwich Golf club, received yesterday, Miller wired his acceptance of the professional's berth at the local club for another year. The wire did not state when Miller would report in Norwich but it will probably be around the first week in April as Miller is entered in the LaGorse tournament in Florida in March and the North and South open later in the month.

PILKINGTON WINS EIGHT ROUND VERDICT OVER MACK

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Jackie Pilkington of New York defeated Petie Mack, Jersey City, in an eight-round feature bout at the Arena here tonight. Pilkington weighed 134 1-2, Mack 131 3-4.

In the semi-final, Georgie Day, 135, New Haven, beat Jack Red Knight, 134 1-2, New Haven, in eight rounds.

Pete DeGrasse, New York, 119 1-4, beat Kygore Kimuri, Japan, 122 1-2, [illegible] technical knockout over Bruno Salla, New York, 171, in the third round of a scheduled six rounder.

Ralph Barbara, New Haven, 166 1-4, won on foul over Lucien Larrivee, Waterbury, 165 1-4, in third round of a scheduled six-round bout.

Carmen Knapp, New Haven, 136 1-4, scored a technical knockout over Frankie Walter, Holyoke, Mass., 137, in the second round of a scheduled four-round bout.

BROWN PITCHING STAFF STILL MINUS SEVERAL STARS

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 27—(AP)—Batterymen who were supposed to report to Manager Bill Killefer of the St. Louis Browns here Tuesday continued to straggle in today. The latest arrival was Herman Holshauser, big right-hander obtained from Baltimore. Killefer still is waiting to hear from some of his stars, Gray, Stewart, Colling and Blaeholder. The latter is reported to be a holdout. Manush, slugging Brownie outfielder, also is understood to have some financial differences with the club.

After a brief practice session today, many of the players took the trail to Miami for the Sharkey-Scott fight tonight.

VANCE HAS FIRST 1930 WORKOUT WITH DODGERS

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The first appearance in uniform of Arthus (Dazzy) Vance was the high spot of the Brooklyn Dodgers' training session today.

The Dazzler, apparently in first rate condition, played the outfield and was an active performer all afternoon. Vance carries little extra weight this spring. "I worked hard all winter fixing my camp at Homosassa," he explains, "and kept my weight down. I didn't have a single ailment all winter so I expect to be all right this year."

Giants Have Off Day

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 27.—(AP)—It was an off day for the New York Giants in their spring training activities today. For the first time since the McGrawmen arrived here rain forced cancellation of the day's scheduled workouts, morning and afternoon.

Harvard Track to Compete

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 27—(AP)—A squad of 25 Harvard track men has been selected by Coach Eddie Farrell to compete in the S. C. I. A. A. championship meet in New York, on Saturday night. The Crimson team will leave here tomorrow afternoon.

Carnera to Announce

BOSTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—Primo Carnera, monstrous Italian heavyweight, will increase his American ring earnings here tomorrow night by acting as announcer at the Boston Garden's boxing show.

Light Drill For Yanks

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Calisthenics and throwing and hitting drill comprised the New York Yankees' somewhat dull training program today. Bob Walsh, brother of Ed Walsh, Jr., White Sox pitcher, was out of uniform today with a Charley horse but all the others went through the motions.

Most of the long distance hitting was done by the recruits, Cooke and Chapman.

Kibitzers Outsmart Slickers

Before a large and enthusiastic audience the Kibitzers trimmed the Slickers by the score of 100 to 72 in a three-man match at the Recreation Billiards Thursday evening.

E. Gromko of the Slickers made one of the nicest three-cushion shots seen in these parts in years.

Kibitzers lined up: L. Swatzburg, capt.; W. Duff, and W. Hotchkiss. Slickers, E. Gromko, capt.; J. Ryan, and J. Byrne.

GEN. WM. A. AIKEN'S PORTRAIT PRESENTED OTIS LIBRARY

The family of the late Gen. William Appleton Aiken has presented the Otis Library a fine portrait of General Aiken, which has been hung in the library. It was enlarged from a photo by Don Houghton.

General Aiken, who retained his interest in the library to the last, was a trustee since May 14, 1867, and had served as president of the board of trustees since March 30, 1885.

Almost his last public service was to consult with the librarian, Mrs. Irving L. Hamilton, regarding new books, during what proved his final visit downtown from his home on Washington street.

The new portrait is a fine likeness and attracts the notice of nearly every visitor to the library.

PRICELESS PROTECTION
AT NO EXTRA COST!

COMPARE the new Nash Twin-Ignition Eight to other cars sold at its price and you'll instantly see its extra value and desirability. ¶ One very important feature of this new 1930 Nash "400" is Duplate non-shatterable plate glass in every window, door and windshield—priceless protection at no extra cost. ¶ And this is only one of many superior features which account for the superior performance of the Twin-Ignition Eight. ¶ The performance of the straight-eight, Twin-Ignition motor with its 9-bearing, integrally counterweighted, hollow crankpin crankshaft and aluminum connecting rods is so superior to that of the other straight eights and the V-eights you will know it instantly. ¶ The oil-cushioned chassis (Bijur centralized chassis lubrication and permanently lubricated springs) improves riding ease immeasurably. ¶ See this car, ride in it, familiarize yourself with its superior performance, before you purchase your new car!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

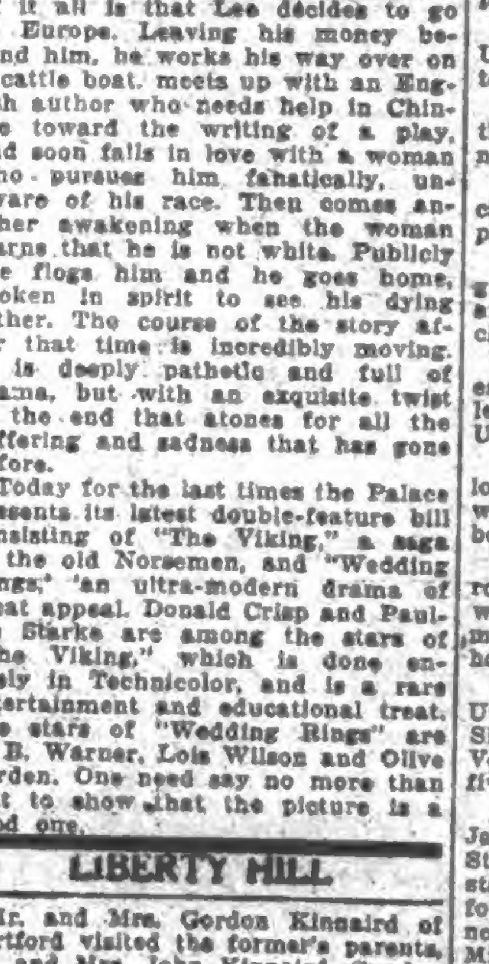
With today's showings the record-breaking engagement of Florenz Ziegfeld's masterpiece "Rio Rita" comes to a close, and the haunting melodies, uproarious comedy and exciting drama of that frontier musical romance will give way to the more modern and sophisticated theme of that outstanding film-drama "Her Unborn Child." This amazingly frank and brilliant story, depicting in vivid style an unforgettable episode in the lives of an average American family, comes to the talking screen intact from a capacity stage run of nearly two years in New York's two leading legitimate theatres, and with the same cast as the original stage play. Daring in theme, frank in dialogue and situations, "Her Unborn Child" deals with one of the most vital problems of our modern life, but so keen has been the direction that absolutely no offensive sequences develop in the unfolding of the story, and clergy and physicians countrywide have been outspoken in their praise of the picture as an intensely human and revealing document, conveying an unforgettable lesson. A boy and girl in love, forgetting everything else, plunge headlong down the path of unguarded love, and the aftermath of youth's mistake touches with tragic consequences the families of both. The desperate, frenzied efforts to avert impending disaster provide a gripping and startling drama, which, however, is highlighted with deft touches of brimming humor, with two clever youngsters, typically American and familiar kids, furnishing much of the hearty comedy. Literally a page torn from life, running over with pathos, drama and stark realism, with plenty of comedy relief, the unfolding of its poignantly human story is well balanced with smiles and tears. The surrounding program, especially booked, includes the latest Paramount Sound news and a selected variety of talking comedies and acts, headed by one of Octavus Ray Cohen's screamingly funny comedies of Darktown life, "Brown Gravy," fully as tempting and enjoyable as its name.

Palace Theatre.

A picture which is breaking box office records the country over opens at the Palace theatre tomorrow for a four-day run. This film is "Son of the Gods," the latest by Richard Barthelmess and his best. Constance Bennett is starred opposite Barthelmess and between them they make this film a grand bit of entertainment.

The story itself is an unusual and a daring one. Barthelmess is cast as Sam Lee, son of the richest Chinese merchant in New York. He is at college, where everybody knows he is Chinese, and while he is not taken into any fraternity, he does have a number of friends, friends gathered mostly because he had lots of money to spend and was generous when asked for a loan.

Lee leaves college after an unpleasant episode during which a girl left him flat after discovering that he is Chinese instead of white. He goes back east where his father greets him with surprise. The upshot of it all is that Lee decides to go to Europe. Leaving his money behind him, he works his way over on a cattle boat, meets up with an English author who needs help in Chinese toward the writing of a play, and soon falls in love with a woman who pursues him fanatically, unaware of his race. Then comes another awakening when the woman learns that he is not white. Publicly she flogs him and he goes home, broken in spirit to see his dying father. The course of the story after that time is incredibly moving. It is deeply pathetic and full of drama, but with an exquisite twist at the end that atones for all the suffering and sadness that has gone before.



Today for the last times the Palace presents its latest double-feature bill consisting of "The Viking," a saga of the old Norsemen, and "Wedding Rings," an ultra-modern drama of great appeal. Donald Crisp and Pauline Starke are among the stars of "The Viking," which is done entirely in Technicolor, and is a rare entertainment and educational treat. The stars of "Wedding Rings" are H. B. Warner, Lois Wilson and Olive Borden. One need say no more than that to show that the picture is a good one.

POETRY

Let There Be Peace

O God, who reigns on sea and land,
Almighty God of peace,
Our Father, merciful and grand,
May wars forever cease.

O God, who dwelleth everywhere,
Whom we on earth adore,
Grant us our humble, earnest prayer
That wars shall rage no more.

Let us respect each race, each creed,
Wherever it may be,
Let us restrain our hate and greed
And live in amity.

Let us make human love and life
Much better for our birth;
How worthless seems war's noblest strife
Compared with peace on earth!

Remember Christ the crucified,
His death sublime and brave,
Christ who for us divinely died
And cruel foes forgave.

O God, who rules the land and sea,
O God of love and peace,
Of mercy, justice, majesty,
May wars forever cease.

—By CHARLES NEVERS HOLMES

My Garden

I looked my garden over
One early springtime day;
The earth was still hard frozen,
And o'er it scattered lay
The withered briars and leafstalks;
It was a sorry sight,
My heart sank at beholding
My garden's piteous plight.

"How shall I make my garden
Once more bloom fair to see?"
I cried aloud in sorrow;
"My child, if thou wilt be
By my instruction guided,
Though hard the task thou hast,
Thy garden shall repay thee
With flowers and fruit at last."

So spake the Master Gardener;
I laid aside my fears,
I plowed the soil hard frozen,—
It melted 'neath my tears;
I cleared away the brambles,
And sowed the seed with prayer!
And lo, today my garden
Once more blooms fresh and fair.

A certain club had replaced its familiar black-coated servitors with young, and sometimes pretty, waitresses. One of the old die-hard members who had strongly opposed the idea dropped in to lunch one day.

"How's the duck today?" he growled, glowering at the girl who came to serve him.

"Oh, I'm all right," said the waitress, perkily. "How are you, sir?"—Brooklyn Eagle.

GREENEVILLE

The weekly meeting of St. Mary's Girls club was held Monday evening in St. Mary's Memorial hall. Various matters were discussed and Miss Teresa Portelance was elected chairman of the initiation committee. Miss Marie Gadle, a member of the school nursing department gave the fourth lesson in her course in home nursing. A social hour followed.

Expect New Scoutmaster

Troop No. 21 Boy Scouts held their weekly meeting Monday evening in the hall room of the Third Baptist church. The greatest part of the meeting was devoted to marching and exercises. The meeting came to a close by the pledging of allegiance to the flag and the scoutmaster's benediction was given. The troop expects to have a new scoutmaster at the next meeting filling the place of the former pastor, Rev. Harry P. Brothwell who organized the troop. An all-city hike is planning for this Saturday if weather conditions are favorable.

Edward J. Featherton. Burial was in the family plot in St. Bernard's cemetery where Rev. Fr. Featherton conducted the committal service.

SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL BY SWEDISH LUTHERAN CH.

A Swedish social was held Wednesday evening in the guild room of the Swedish Salem Lutheran church on Hickory street, under the auspices of the Luther League. The hall was very artistically decorated with Swedish flags and the color scheme of yellow and blue crepe paper streamers was carried out.

The menu consisted of smorgasbod food. What drew much attention was a large table in the center of the room which displayed articles that were sent to members of the Swedish church from their native country. Among the numerous articles were salt and pepper shakers, egg warmers, serving tray, pillows, coffee set, egg cup holder, silver candle holders, holders for kettles and pans, copper flower pot, serving and sewing baskets.

A Bible which held cards relating to religious work for every Sunday in the year and a spinning wheel which is the old-fashioned type, over 200 years old, were also seen.

The program follows: Song, "Our Land," girls; scripture and prayer, song, Home Sweet Home, quartet of boys; reading, Miss Anna Johnson; song, Dul Gamla Girls; song, Bless Be the Tie, boys quartet. Mr. Richard Pearson delivered a very interesting talk.

All the girls present were dressed in pretty Swedish costumes. The successful affair was in charge of Miss Dorothy Pearson, Edna Hanson, Astriel Benson, Irene Ellison, Anna Johnson, Mrs. Anna Johnson, Mrs. Viola Johnson, Mrs. Elsie Bjork, Mrs. Lillian Satterstrom.

Mr. Pearson spoke interestingly as follows: Sweden, as we all know, occupies the eastern and largest part of the Scandinavian peninsula, covering an area of approximately 175,000 sq. miles or 35 times as large as Connecticut. It differs considerably from its next door neighbor, Norway, in that it has considerably more level and fertile land and consequently is better adapted to support a large population. Again, its climate is more like that of Continental Europe and its harbors free from ice during at least one-half the year while Norway's harbors are frozen. Only a small portion of Sweden is mountainous, the section lying along the Norwegian border and forming a natural boundary between the two countries. The highest peaks are in the north where two approach a mile and a half in height. In the south is a hilly district while the remainder of the country is a plateau, sloping rapidly from the mountain fringe to the plain along the east coast.

Sweden is rich in streams and lakes, many of the rivers flowing from the mountains to the Baltic sea or the Gulf of Bothnia. Owing to their rapid fall they afford little navigation but develop a tremendous amount of water power, a great part of which is used for the generation of electricity. Many of the Swedish lakes are large and beautiful, being noted for their clear water and picturesque surroundings. In spite of the comparatively small size of the country the third largest lake in Europe, Lake Vene, is located there.

The country is in approximately the same latitude as Labrador, has a rather short summer and a long cold winter. However, in Stockholm, the mean temperature in January is about 25 degrees fahrenheit and in July 61 degrees, which is not very different from our own. During the winter months the country is almost completely covered with snow, with skiing as the favorite amusement. The extensive forests and grain fields indicate that the soil is of a fertile nature.

Approximately one-half of the country is forest land, pine and fir trees predominating and extending beyond the Arctic circle. Wheat is grown as far north as Stockholm but barley is raised as far as the Arctic circle.

Science indicates that some time after the glacial period the whole Scandinavian peninsula subsided to a point considerably below the sea level. Then the land began to rise again and a gradual upheaval is still in progress. Along the northeast coast on the Gulf of Bothnia it rises approximately one foot in 20 years. So we see that Sweden is going up in the world all the time. Sweden's coal mines are very deficient, only a small quantity being taken out each year and a great deal of coal has to be imported each year. Charcoal has been used as a substitute to a great extent. More recently, however, power is being obtained from the hydro-electric plant. The small amount of coal is compensated for by the great amount of iron. Swedish iron is regarded as the best in the world. The small amount of phosphorous it contains make it of superior value for the manufacture of steel and large quantities are exported each year.

The population of Sweden approximates that of New York city. About one-half of the people support themselves through agriculture. Comparatively few people live in cities, there being less than a dozen cities having a population as great as Norwich.

WOMAN, INJURED IN EXPLOSION, ASKS DAMAGES OF $50,000

Damages of $50,000 are asked by Rose Spinnato of New London, in a suit she has brought in the superior court against the Schwartz Leather Co., Inc., Abraham, Aaron and Hyman Schwartz of Colchester and Arthur J. Messer of New London. The plaintiff claims that on January 28, 1929, she was living in an apartment with her family at No. 123 Jefferson avenue, in New London. The defendants were engaged in the manufacture of pocketbooks and other articles and were using a highly explosive substance. Mrs. Spinnato claims that the material was taken to her to work upon. There was an explosion and her mother and two of her children were burned to death. She, herself, was permanently injured.

Another damage suit asking $10,000 has been brought against the above defendants. This suit is brought by Agostino Alfieri, New London, administrator of the estate of Lena Spinnato, 16, who was fatally burned in the explosion.

Sprague Man Sued For $1,500.

Mary Louise Deschamps Blais, of Sprague, executrix of the estate of Virginia Belair of Sprague, has filed suit in the superior court against Hormidas Tarvergnier of Sprague. The complaint alleges that on or about September 25, 1929, Virginia Belair made what purported to be a deed of conveyance of certain property to Tarvernier, who was a tenant. This was just prior to her death and the suit is to recover the property for the estate. The property in question is a dwelling house on High street in Baltic. It is alleged that at the time Mrs. Belair transferred the property she was in feeble health and physically and mentally weak. It is charged that Tarvernier knew that Mrs. Belair was easily influenced and fraudulently induced her to turn the property over to him. The value of the property is given as $7,500 or over.

To Settle Title To Premises.

According to papers filed Thursday with the court clerk, William A. Holt, Jeremiah Twomey, William C. Fox, James A. May, Malcolm M. Scott, Lucius E. Whilton and Robert E. Chappell, all of the city of New London, are made party defendants in an action brought by Annabel Douglass of New London. She alleges that she is the owner of property on Blackhall street, New London, in which the defendants, as representatives of the general public, claim or may claim interest. The court is asked to determine the rights of the parties and to settle the title to the premises.

Other Actions Filed.

Conrad and Lena Roethel of Lisbon have brought a foreclosure suit against The Jewett City Savings bank, Mike Anna, Kos and John Lagoda of New York. The plaintiffs ask foreclosure of a $3,100 mortgage is asked. The complaint charges that Nov. 21, 1922, Mike and Anna Lagoda owed the plaintiffs $3,100 and gave a note secured by premises in Lisbon. There is still $2,500 due on the note. The Jewett City Savings bank claims to have a mortgage on the property for $1,200. Kos Lagoda claims an undivided half interest in the property and John Lagoda has an attachment for $500 on the property.

Byron W. Tuthill of Southampton, N. Y., has brought an action against the heirs of James W., and Phoebe Matteson, late of East Lyme. The action is brought to settle title to premises in East Lyme which Mr. Tuthill alleges he owns.

The Eastern Connecticut Bond and Mortgage Co., of Norwich, has started a foreclosure suit against George, Paul, Harold and Elmer Vincent of Groton, and Daniel Vincent of New London, as heirs of Julia Vincent, late of Groton. The plaintiff concern seeks foreclosure on property on Brandegee avenue, Groton. A note for $2,040 on which there still remains unpaid, $1,972, is the basis for the suit.

The Eastern Connecticut Bond and Mortgage Co. has also brought a foreclosure suit against Frank W. Henry, of Bath, Me. The defendant, it is alleged, mortgaged to the plaintiff concern two parcels of property on Benham road, Groton, August 1, 1928, to secure a note for $1,360. There is still $1,065.29 due on the note.

TAX COLLECTORS TO MEET IN NORWICH

Announcement has been made by State Commissioner William H. Blodgett that a round table meeting of tax collectors of the towns of New London county will be held at the town hall, this city, March 18th, at 1:30 o'clock, for discussion of problems confronting them. The tax commissioner, with the tax collectors, selectmen, city and town treasurers of the various towns are expected to be present.

"The meeting will be conducted in the nature of round table discussions of perplexing collectors' problems," says the letter. "It is particularly desired that collectors be prepared to ask questions, exchange views, etc. Set programs, with definite addresses, have been intentionally avoided.

"It is requested that these meetings be called to the attention of the treasurer, municipal counsels, selectmen of towns, mayors of cities, wardens of boroughs, chairmen of the governing boards of lesser districts and other officials interested. Please notify the officials of your municipality and urge them to attend.

"The importance of such conferences is shown by the fact that a very high per cent of all the money used for local governments must pass through the hands of the tax collectors. The amount now being collected by such officials is approximately $70,000,000 annually, and the sum is rapidly increasing. Painstaking attention must be given to this subject."

Other conferences will be held as follows:

Fairfield county, March 5, at the South Norwalk city hall; New Haven county, March 11, at the county court house in New Haven Middlesex county, March 13, at the Middletown city hall; Windham and Tolland counties, March 21, at Willimantic.

NORWICH SINGERS TO COMPETE IN CONTEST

Two Norwich boys, Frank F. Dodge and William E. Hanson, are among the members of Worcester Tech Glee club who have been selected to represent the college at the New England Inter-Collegiate Glee club contest at Springfield, Mass., today (Friday). Since the Worcester Tech Glee club has about 50 members, and the rules of the contest permit not more than 30 men, including the student leader, it was necessary to conduct quartette trials in selecting the college representation.

Twelve other New England colleges will compete in the contest for the prize cup.

Norwich Round Table

The last meeting of the Norwich Round Table was held with Mrs. John E. Fanning. A humorous paper on Kings Without Crowns was read by Miss Amanda Fisher. Refreshments were served at intermission.

The roll call, Uncrowned Queens, was followed by a discussion.

START JOINT TRIAL OF FOUR AUTO DAMAGE SUITS

An automobile crash about a year ago at Montville in which a car operated by C. F. Klinger and occupied by Albert Parliament collided with a truck owned and operated by Giuseppe Perrone, all of New London, is the basis of four civil suits on which a joint trial was started before Judge Christopher L. Avery and a jury in the superior court at New London Thursday.

In one of the suits Perrone is suing the C. F. Klinger company, owner of one of the machines in the crash, for damages to his truck and for personal injuries received. In the other three suits Perrone is made the defendant, Klinger bringing suit for damages for personal injuries, the Klinger company bringing suit for damages to the Klinger car, and Parliament bringing suit for damages for personal injuries.

Due to the number of attorneys involved, ten of the 20 available jurors were challenged, resulting in the necessity of calling on two talesmen, Lloyd Gallup of Waterford and Charles L. Boothe of New London.

The jury sitting on the case follows:

New London—William Geer, Charles L. Boothe.

Groton—John P. Ebbets and Arthur S. Boylen.

Stonington—George P. Cella, Frank F. Furness, Fred G. King, Albert P. Kenyon, Edward H. Newbury.

Waterford—Herbin O. Eccleston, Frank Geer, Lloyd Gallup.

QUESTIONS FOR FARMERS DURING COMING CENSUS

Farmers throughout eastern Connecticut as well as all farmers in the country, will be asked a series of questions in connection with the 15th census of the United States, which begins April 1st. Sample schedules of the questions have already been mailed to the farmers. The schedule contains a total of 232 questions, few of which are not applicable to farms in this state.

The questions are more thorough and far reaching than those asked in previous census takings. Among the questions upon which light will be shed is the much discussed movement of the farm population to the city, and the city population to the farm, for questions concerning both of these moves are included.

Farmers are requested to study the questions and enter in the proper places the answers to all inquiries which apply to the farm they operate in order to be ready for the visit of the census enumerator. The sample schedules are to be kept by the farmer until the enumerator calls and the information will then be transferred to the regular forms.

The questions on the form are divided into 17 divisions, several questions being under each division. The titles of the divisions follow: Information concerning the farm operator, farm acreage; rotation pasture, terracing, and drainage; farm tenure of April 1, 1930; farm values, April 1, 1930; farm debt, April 1, 1930; farm taxes in 1929; farm expenditure in 1929; other occupation of farm operator in 1929; farm machinery and facilities, April 1, 1930; cooperation in marketing and purchasing in 1929.

Domestic animals, poultry and bees on the farm, April 1, 1930, and animal products in 1929; irrigated crops on the farm in 1929; crops harvested on the farm in 1929; movement of farm population; and total farm land owned April 1, 1930.

All information given to the enumerators is confidential and will not be used as a basis for taxation, nor communicated to any tax official, the sample schedule states. No farm of less than three acres is to be reported as a farm unless its products in 1929 were valued at $250 or more.

NORWICH AND LEBANON AUTO DRIVERS IN MONTVILLE COURT

Seven automobile drivers were presented before Justice Oscar Church in Montville town court Wednesday.

Charles H. Reinacher of 43 Addison street, New London, was presented on charge of having inadequate brakes and fined $5 and costs.

Charles Erdman of the Sub Base was lacking in registration papers and had to pay $3 and costs.

Frank Dence had no registration card with him and he was fined $3 and costs.

Arthur Danas of Norwich lacked an operator's license and he, too, was fined $3 and costs.

There was a similar charge against Lester Main of Lebanon, who paid in another $3 plus.

Edward Rivers of Norwich was convicted of speeding and his fine was $10 and costs but $5 of this was later remitted.

The charge against James Macessa of Montville for having improper equipment was nolled.

STOECKEL DESCRIBES SCHOOL FOR AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS

In the February bulletin of the state motor vehicle department, Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel describes a school for prospective motor vehicle drivers, where instruction is so complete that the graduate should be able to "fix a tire or deliver a traffic lecture," as part of a discussion on traffic management in Germany and Holland.

Schools of this type, says the commissioner, are operated in many places in Germany under a centrally controlled supervision, and the training lasts several weeks. Because the poor condition of cars provides one of the greatest traffic problems, instruction is pointedly about mechanism.

"Teaching, in part, is by the use of motion pictures, showing car parts and functions," the commissioner's article explains. "It begins with a picture of the radiator cap and an explanation, progresses to the performances of the radiator, the water pump, and all other parts of the machine. The course is elaborated to bring before the candidates for licenses all the probable and most of the possible difficulties which can arise in connection with car mechanisms and traffic situations. The course is given to a small class, ten to 15 persons. The room is similar to a schoolroom with blackboards and desks. Questions are put in rotation, or in any order which suits the examiner."

ROSE BECKLEY FRINK BRINGS DIVORCE ACTION

Mrs. Rose Beckley Frink of this city has brought suit in the superior court for a divorce from Charles W. Frink of Franklin, formerly of this city. The couple married June 30, 1923. A statutory offense is charged as the basis for the suit. There is one child, Charles W. Frink, aged 2 years.

Three other divorce petitions have been filed with the clerk of the court in this city. On grounds of desertion, Nora Richards Robinson of Groton sues for a divorce from Clarence Robinson. They were married June 23, 1917.

Charging a statutory offense, Lars A. Sande of New London seeks a divorce from Mabel D. McDonald Sande of New London. They were married Jan. 8, 1923.

Leslie May Garrison of Bridgeport has filed suit for a divorce from Edward J. Garrison, formerly of New London, now of unknown address. The date of the marriage was Sept. 16, 1920.

Check For Pension Fund

A check for $25 has been received by Chief Henry R. Taft of the fire department from the Reid & Hughes company in appreciation of work of the firemen. At the store, Dec. 12, a pipe of the sprinkler system burst and firemen under the direction of Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan shut off the water main before any great amount of damage was done. The check is to be added to the firemen's pension fund.

TAFTVILLE

Tuesday evening the members of the class of young ladies of the village who have been taking a course in home nursing and hygiene, under the direction of Miss Louise Sigrist, R. N., held an enjoyable party at the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah community building, at which each member received her certificate for completing the course and successfully passing her examination. Tables were brightly decorated in red, white and blue, with crepe paper hats of patriotic design for those attending, and favors were small hats filled with candy. A buffet luncheon of sandwiches, cake, cookies, candy, peanuts, olives, pickles, ice cream and coffee was served. During the evening, the members presented the instructor with ten dollars in gold. Those who have finished the course include Miss Katherine Lena Seidle, Miss Annie Seidel, Miss Agnes Morton, Miss Lillian Stitcht, Miss Freida Bauer, Miss Annie Bauer, Miss Dorothy M. Aberg, Miss Dorothy Stevens, Miss Ruby Houston, Miss Edith L. Heap, Miss Lena Thurlow and Miss Florence LaGarde.

Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brown of Norwich avenue, entertained at pinochle. The prize went to Christopher Troeger and the consolation to Walter Hindle. After cards, delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Brown.

When the members of the home department of the Taftville Congregational church hold their meeting this (Friday) evening, the committee in charge will be Mrs. George Moore, Mrs. John Houston and Mrs. Fred Ince.

The members of the Basketry club held their weekly meeting Thursday evening at the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah community building.

PHEASANTS TO BE RELEASED IN STATE

One thousand five hundred cock pheasants are to be released in Connecticut coverts between March 1 and 15, the state board of fisheries and game announced Thursday. They will be systematically added to existing flocks of wild hen pheasants and, with increases by natural reproduction plus 15,000 birds which will be distributed by the state in August, an abundance of this kind of game is anticipated for the next hunting season.

To make certain that the birds will be released at the most advantageous places, studies have been made of actual conditions and maps used to chart the places disclosing the most likely coverts. Reports of flocks of hen pheasants in all parts of the state have also been investigated. Land areas devoted to private clubs and "exclusive" shooting will be avoided so that the birds will be on land open to the public. One male pheasant will be released for about every five hens, to insure good reproduction, and consideration will be given to the size of coverts and available food before the birds are "planted."

Reproduction of pheasants in the wild has been successful here for a number of years. In 1927, after the birds had been considerably depleted in the preceding season, state game wardens released 3,000 birds of both sexes. Although the law allows hunters to kill only cock pheasants, reports to the board show that more than 20,000 pheasants were killed that year. From the results of that experience, and other successful years, the board is optimistic that the plantings this year will mean abundance in the hunting preserves next fall.

The birds to be released next month include a consignment of English pheasants purchased last December. There are 488 of these foreign birds, 12 of the original lot having died during a rough passage from England. Other pheasants for the planting were bought mainly from Connecticut breeders, a few coming from points in nearby states. There are now 175 commercial pheasant breeders in Connecticut. The number has increased rapidly since the state abandoned its game farm several years ago and contracted annually for most of the output of professional breeders.

A considerable saving has resulted in buying from commercial houses, John W. Titcomb, superintendent of fisheries and game, reports. When the farm was in operation, he says there was a cost to the state of about $10 for each bird raised. The average purchase price from breeders is about $3. Including transportation and the cost of distribution, he estimates that more than $50,000 will be spent this year in restocking pheasant coverts. Most of the birds are last year's stock, but some are two years old.

The board is also able to announce that quail, which were almost entirely decimated here several years ago by close shooting and disease epidemics, are noticeably increasing. Eighty-seven were trapped recently near Clinton from goodly sized flocks and will be released to proper quail coverts in other parts of the state where these birds are less numerous.

LIEUT. COL. WILL COMMAND STATE DIVISION AVIATION

Authority for the appointment of a lieutenant colonel in charge of division aviation, which will eventually result in the promotion of some officer in the 118th Observation squadron Connecticut national guard, has been received from the militia bureau in Washington, it has been announced by Adjt. Gen. William F. Ladd. Although the militia bureau granted authority for such appointment to all division headquarters, it was made upon the recommendation of the executive committee of the National Guard Air Service association, of which Brig. General Ladd is chairman.

The division aviation has previously been under the command of a major, who has added to his duties as commander of the squadron, which constitutes the peacetime strength of division aviation, the staff duties of the commander of the division air serice. It has long been felt that the major is so strenuously engaged in the duties of his office as active commander of the unit that he is unable to give proper attention to his duties as a member of the division staff.

The lieutenant colonel will take over the staff duties previously assigned to the major, leaving the latter free to devote his attention to his duties as executive of the observation squadron.

To Pass Week End In Providence

Mr. and Mrs. W. Arthur Collins of Williams street leave today (Friday) for Providence, where they will spend the week end at the Narragansett hotel. On Friday evening they will attend a Masonic banquet and ball held in the hotel ballroom.

Surprise Birthday Party

A birthday party was held for Mrs. Robert Tefft of Oakdale Tuesday evening by a group of her friends from Baltic and Hanover. Games were played and refreshments of salad, sandwiches, pickles, coffee, fruit and cake were served by the guests, as the affair was a complete surprise to Mrs. Tefft. A large birthday cake adorned the center of the table, the colors being pink and white, this being the third cake presented during the day.

The guests included Mrs. Fremont Firth, Clinton Firth, Florence Firth, George Orme, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Bush and daughter, Beverly, of Baltic, Mr. and Mrs. John Firth, Mr. and Mrs. William Tonnerson and daughter, Evelyn, of Hanover, and Mrs. Walter Mellor of Norwich. Mrs. Tefft received many beautiful gifts and cards.

BIG CITIES PRODUCE HEAT BUT CLIMATE NOT AFFECTED

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—The question of whether increased heating of great cities is making winters warmer, is answered in a report to the American association for the advancement of science by R. A. Dyke of the New Orleans weather bureau.

"The net result of all the factors," he says, "seems to be a slight increase in temperature due to city influences, but we are told that the growth of a city and multiplication of its heat-producing power does not change its climate, a conclusion well supported by evidence of comparative records."

NORWICH TOWN

The March meeting of Ever Ready circle of the King's Daughters to be held with Miss Rose K. Durr, R. N., of 85 Town street, is to be held Tuesday evening, March 4th, instead of Wednesday evening, as previously stated.

DR. LLOYD CASE BUILDS FINE HOUSE AT HAWAII

Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb of Norwich Town, are in receipt of a most interesting letter from a former Norwich Town young man, Dr. Lloyd Case, who more than twenty years ago, with other members of his family, resided on Bliss Place. Dr. Case, who is territorial veterinarian for the government of Hawaii, is a resident of Honolulu. He was married during the past year. At present Dr. Case is having a magnificent home constructed for himself and family, at a cost estimated at $26,000. Accompanying the letter is an artist's sketch, the house being designed by a woman, Mrs. Willard-Eller, of the Lake Building Corporation, Ltd. It is expected that this attractive piece of architecture will be ready for occupancy on or before the first of April. Thinking his friends back east might be interested, Dr. Case describes his new home as follows: It is located in Woodlawn, in the Manoa Valley, beautifully situated on the slopes of the mountains, with a wonderful view of the valley and ocean. It really is larger than I expected to build at first, but have kept adding to it. On the first floor is the living room, den, one sleeping room and bath, hall, dining room, breakfast room, kitchen, back porch, etc. Upstairs is a study, large hallway, two sleeping rooms and bath. One of the bedrooms is 14x22, while the other is 13x27. The baths are of tile and have colored fixtures. There is a nice fire place in the living room, this room being finished in half timbered work and plaster. The small house at the rear as shown in the picture, is the servants' quarters and is connected with the back porch. Dr. Case adds: "We feel that we are going to have a very comfortable and pleasant home and are sure anxious to get into it. We are so delighted about it ourselves, we feel sure our friends also will be interested. In connection with the home is the garage, built underneath the house, and connects with the front hall by a stairway, so you don't need to go out in the rain, when you wish to use your car. There also is a large amount of land at the rear, for gardens, chicken runs, etc. Dr. Case mentions that he and Mrs. Case plan to make a trip to Los Angeles, the coming summer, but cannot say as yet, whether or not they will go all the way back east, as was at first their intentions. Dr. Case and Dr. Lamb are distant cousins."

Vested Choir At Methodist Church

Sunday evening in the Methodist Episcopal church the March musical service will be given by the junior choir, under direction of Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich, their director and organist. New vestments are being made for the members of the choir and will be worn for the first time Sunday evening. The service will begin at 7:30 and will be public. The pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter, will give a brief evening message. Much interest has been shown in the evening services, especially during the first two months of the year. The attendance at all services of the church for January and February totals over fifteen hundred. The largest single attendance at a morning service was 73 and the largest attendance at an evening service was 225. Mrs. John Olsen is to have charge of the Father and Son supper March 14th, for the Boy Scouts of Troop 2, connected with the church. Mrs. Olsen will be assisted by Mrs. Frederick G. Ross, Mrs. Harold Ross and Mrs. Ruby Jordan.

More Milk
for Your Feed Dollar

FOR 10 years Bull Brand dairy feeds have been piling up records for economical milk production. Dairy authorities tell us the perfectly balanced formula provides extra milk-making and body-building properties. There is a B-B feed to fit any roughage. Each one is sold with the understanding that it must prove more productive per dollar of feed cost, or the empty bags can be taken to the dealer, who'll refund your money. That's fair! Talk to your B-B dealer about this offer—now.

Husband Had to Do Her Work

"When my baby was a month old, I took a heavy cold and after that I felt miserable. Could not lift anything. My husband had to help me with the housework. I was so weak I could not do a washing. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the Kittaning paper and I gave it a good trial. Before I had taken half a bottle, I found the difference. I do all my own work now and I have told others how much this medicine helped me."—Mrs. Alice Bassett, Cadogan, Pennsylvania.
